here are many among the rebels, ma-are half civilized and know a great at Sunday. They were the first to and we were so engaged with them e was nothing about us that shows unity of the Sabbath day. In conclu-me add that this puts us in mind of battles that the Lord in days of old r his people and the two engagements have had with the war boys are evi
the fact that the Lord is with us.
commenced a week of prayer and ot through the week before we were ted. You will hear from me again, y Mission, Yours as usual

e 19, '87. A. WATCHMAN.

Editor,—In perusing the Articles on the 15th and 30th of st, I observed that there is a con-between a Mr. D.A.NIEL,—and AR. In comparison, it seems that each individual maintain ounds on good reason, never
Mr. D A.Niel thought that bee was silent some time, Cæsar ink that he is a coward. It is de every admonition contained Sacred writings "a still tongue will make a wise head" the common proverb is "cowards keeps sound joints"
Mr. D.A.Niel should always have in memo. the words of the Apostle Peter
"if you suffer for evil or for well doing he should bare it patiently" patient should be his grand theme. In reading a part of that wonderful Lecture delivered by J. A. Cole therein it is said that the negro race is destined to govern themselves until the end of time, why not we as African children be unanimous?
There is abundance of intelligence around the community of Sherbro District to insert in the "Early Dawn" the conducts of the native chiefs how they sometimes appear before the Civil Commandant in sheep's clothing, all these are sufficient—Now Mr. Cæsar, it is wisdom in you if you remain quiet and be looking after your personal interest; there is more of the world before you to be planning and experiencing, since you have started life's journey as a man, there were many trying events which you have come to,
it would be wise for Cæsar and D. A.
Niel to face each other like brave generals putting down the old man with his deeds—and take up the new man which is renewed in righteousness for his paths are paths of peace.

AN OBSERVER.

July 9, '87.

To all to whom it may concern.

We the undersigned, being lawful owners of the LANDS situated and lying on the South-Eastern part of Bonthe, on a portion which the well known Farkie called Beah N'Qush is built; hereby beg to inform the Public in general that we have jointly and severally agreed, bargained, sold, legally conveyed to Mr. J. B. Parkinson Merchant of Bonthe all that portion of Land lying and situated as above described containing about 39½ Acres of Land.—Bounded on the East by Ghundamah Creek on the West by lands covered with brush woods, on the North by Yarneh Creek, and on the south by land covered with brush wood or howsoever otherwise the same may be described or distinguished.

The Public is hereby required to take notice that an action of trespass will be taken against any offender who shall enter into the said lands with the intent of occupying it without the permission of the said J.B.Parkinson, and any person or persons at present having any buildings, farms, &c. on the said lands, should make arrangement with the said J.B. Parkinson or remove their buildings &c.

BANA LEWIS,
W. T. DOUGLAS,
CAIFAY LANGO.

Bonthe, 20th June '87.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—We have to report a rise of 10s. to 15s. a ton, caused by the news of the S.S. "Senegal" having been lost. To day's prices are as follows:—

Lagos	£20 0. 0.
Old Calabar	18 19. 0.
Bonny and Cameroons	18 0. 0.
Benin	17 15. 0.
Congo	£17 to 17 5. 0.
Loanda	£17 5s. to 17 10. 0.

Brass, Niger, New Calabar,	£17 10s. to £17 15. 0.
Accra, Adda, Quitta	17 10s. to 17 15. 0.
Saltpond, Appam, Winnebah	16 5s. to 16 10. 0.
Grand Bassa	16 5s. to 16 10. 0.
Sierra Leone and Sherbro	17 5s. to 17 15. 0.
Monrovia	16 5s. to 16 10. 0.

PALM KERNELS—Continue in demand at an advance of 5s. per ton.

Lagos, Bonny, Cameroons and Old Calabar £10 2. 6. to £10 5. 0
Brass, Congo, and Benin £10 0 0 to £10 2. 6.
Sherbro, Liberian, and Quitta kinds £9 7 6 to £9 10 0.
Saltpond, Winnebah, Appam, Accra, and Elmina £8. 0. 0. to £8 15. 0.

GROUND NUTS—Unchanged.
BENISEED—Small sales at 37s. per 384 lbs.
COPRA—£12 to £13 per ton.
COFFEE—Market rather easier. Bold Berry 85s. 6d. to 86s.; Small Berry 85s; Liberia 95s. to 100s. per cwt.
COCOA—Rather more enquiry, 58s. to 65s. per cwt.
INDIA RUBBER—Dull, and little doing, to effect sales easier prices will have to be taken.

Fine Gambia Niggers	2s. 3½d. to 2s. 4d.
Fair to Prime Sierra Leone	1s. 11d. to 2s. 1d.
Do. do. do. Flat	1s. 6d. to 1s. 7d.
Thimbles	2s. 3d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 7d. to 1s. 10d.
Hard Cape Coast and Assinie	1s. 5d to 1s. 7½d.
Liberian and Manoh	1s. 2½d. to 1s. 7½d.
Flake and Lumps	1s. 0d. to 1s. 0½d.
Cut and Dried Accra	1s. 3d. to 1s. 8d.
Soft Accra and Salt Pond	0s. 9d. to 1s. 0d.

GUM COPAL—Market firm, with a good demand—Red Angola 80s. to 82s. 6d. White Benguela 11s. to 48s. Accra 25s. to 45s., Sierra Leone 3½d to 9d. per lb., according to quality.
GUINEA GRAINS—100 Bags sold at 16s. per cwt.
CALABAR BEANS—5½d. per lb.
GINGER—In improved demand, 17s. 6d. to 18s. 6d., according to quality.
EBONY—Nothing doing.
CAMWOOD—In fair request—Sherbro, £17. to £18. Grand Bassa ordinary £19 to 20l. per ton.
CHILLIES—No sales.
MONKEY SKINS.—Sales took place on the 8th instant. Selected Black brought 2s. 1d. to 2s. 5d., Mixed Good Lots 1s. 6d. to 1s. 11d., Grey, 2s. 1d. each.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool,
June 10, 1887.

If sorrow could enter heaven, if a sigh could be heard there, or a tear roll down the cheek of a saint in light, it would be for lost opportunities, for the time spent in neglect of God which might have been spent for his glory.—Sel.

ALPHA FACTORY, York Island.

IMPORTANT NOTICE!

Closing up of the Business of THE LATE

WM. MURRAY.

Great Bargains in all descriptions of GOODS, to effect CLEARANCE.

Higher Prices for PRODUCE than any House in Sherbro.

Retail at Wholesale

Never such a chance again!

The Undersigned respectfully hopes that Merchants and Traders will avail themselves the opportunity offered, herein, to replenish their Stock. He is prepared to deal with them on the most liberal Terms. The whole must be cleared.

GEO. LEACH,
On behalf of the Executors late W. MURRAY.

Ju30Sp15.—6t.

NOTICE.

MR. M. Z. MACAULAY,

Begs to inform his Friends and Customers that he has renovated his Business at Whalby Factory. He has now got a large Assortment of Goods to meet the requirements of the Trade, and can almost afford to sell under the Current Market Price.

Come and make a Trial.

14Fbg31Jly.

FOR SALE.

A BOAT or CRAFT,
FOUR & half TONS Capacity.
IN GOOD CONDITION,
For further particulars,
Apply at this OFFICE.
Bonthe Sherbro.
N.B.—The Boat now can be seen at Mendi Mission Wharf.

April 1, 1887

J.A. Clemens

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL
Bookseller, Stationary and Miscellaneous GOODS
ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET
N.B. Removed to upper Ot to Street, opposite the burial ground
Bonthe, Sherbro.

S. M Mission STORE.

OPEN AGAIN!

And the undersigned desires to announce once more to the Public that they will find on our SHELVES a carefully selected and well kept Stock of GENERAL MERCHANDIZE which it is our purpose to increase and refresh continually.

The following are a few of the various ARTICLES to be found in our Stores.

Cotton Goods,
Woolen Goods,
Umbrellas,
Underwears,
Men's Stockings,
Ladies' Hose,

Men's Slippers,
„ Boots and Shoes.

Watches (Silver Hunting Case.)
Open faced Metal Watches,
Watch Cases (silk-lined).
„ Guards
„ Glasses
Hurricane lanterns
at Whole sale and Retail &c.

We have also specially Fine Arrowroot, raised on our own Farms, and prepared with great care under our own supervision.

J. A. EVANS,—Agent.
Bonthe,
23rd Mar. '87.

'Early Dawn' PRINTING OFFICE.

Job Work Done at short Notice.

Enquire of C. G. BELL, Printer.

Four things come not back—the spoken word, the sped arrow, the past life, the neglected opportunity.

ISSUES

MISSING

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. IV. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, AUGUST 15, 1887. No. 15.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, at

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto, delv'ed in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS.—Communications to Rev J. A. Evans, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gumer, Shainnay, West Africa, Rev. Z. Warner, D.D., Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant,	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner,	The Commandant,
Deputy, Coroner,	Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk,	W. Hughes,
2nd do.	A. Johnson,
Interpreter,
Bailiff,	E. B. Buckner.
Sub Treas. & Out	G. H. Garrett.
Chief Clerk	J. D. Macauley
Tide Waiters,	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole
Asst. Examg Officer	Saligh. Jasper Caulker
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May.
Postmaster.	H. P. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. Fatta.
Healer.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett.

Secret societies are dangerous because young men, and others who are not for the moment fully mindful of their public duties, may be led by persuasion, under the peculiar solemnity and impressiveness of an initiation which unsents their judgment, to take oaths which are inconsistent with their duties toward the state and society, and which they may regret, in moments of reflection, that they have taken.—Sel.

Dear Editor,—I am highly gratified in reading the reports given in your Jubilee & Centenary celebrations, but I failed to observe that no mention whatever is made of the Sermons preached in both the St. Matthew's Church and Wesleyan Chapel on Thanksgiving Day, Sunday, June 19th.

However, as your correspondent failed to do so in his report I beg space for inserting the following.

On Sunday the 19th June Special Sermons were preached in the St. Matthew's Church when the pulpit was occupied by its Pastor the Rev. G. G. M. Nicol B. A. The Rev. Gentleman selected for his text as follows In the morning from 95th Psalm, 2nd & 3rd verses "Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving and make a joyful noise unto him with psalms. For the Lord is a great God, and a great King above all gods." In the evening he choose his text from Ephs. 2nd chap. 11,12, & 13 verses "Wherefore remember that ye being in time past Gentiles in the flesh &c The revd. gentleman impressed upon the minds of his congregation four reason why we should be thankful to God for past and present mercies and he also dwelt at length on the horrors of the slave trade and the [illegible] past and present.

He spoke of men who have risen from slavery to positions of trust and honour &c. &c.

At the Wesleyan Chapel the pulpit was occupied the same day by its Pastor Rev. J. C. Thomas. He selected for his morning discourse, Psln. 98th,—rev. 1. "O sing unto the Lord a new song" &c. in the evening from Judges v. 11. "They that are delivered from the noise of archers in the places of drawing water, there shall they rehearse the righteous acts of the Lord even the righteous acts towards the inhabitants of his village in Israel then shall the people of the Lord go down to the gates."

It will take up much of your space to reiterate all that the learned preacher said on these occasions but it is evident that those who were present in the Chapel on both services were quite satisfied, for it was from the lips of the worthy pastor that many became acquainted with the history of Sierra Leone past and and present and the liberties enjoyed for 100 years under the beneficient rule of Her Majesty the Queen I am sure that the sermons preached in both Churches will have a lasting impression on the minds of all. And may the coming era be productive of good results both in our public and private career.

JUNIUS.

Bonthe, July 25th 1887.

Dear Mr. Editor,—From the pen of "An Enquirer" dated June 15, I examined and found that there is some propriety in allowing small dogs in the house. But when they become a nuisance and savage, are not worth keeping. Although some men may raise civil oppositions to eclipse good opinions because there are some dandy dogs that can be trained easily, yet one is liable to write what he thinks best. I am of opinion that to allow small dogs are very good for their use and [illegible] funny play whesever baby feeling comes in their minds. I am quite ready to support the "Enquirer" if only put to view a right standing. Let those who would like to set up new customs first know that as dogs (in European countries) are saving the lives of men can as well save theirs. I am quite fond of small dogs and have a dislike for inactive ones. Really etequette does not oppose dogs being allowed in the house; but to carry them into society is a breach of it From usefulness of dogs I really see no reason to abandon the old customs of allowing baby's pets (I may call it) to be in the house.—Yours, St. NEST.

Kent. July 2[illegible]87

DAMAH CHAPEL.

Dear Mr. Editor,—Sir, On the evening of the 26th of June, in my passing from Shainnay for British Sherbro, I landed at Damah about noon to see my family who fled from the war which reigning in Chief Neal's territory.

About 4 o'clock in the evening, I heard the sound of a horn blown by a Sierra Leone boy about twelve years of age, on making enquiry from friends, about the blowing of that horn, they said [illegible] again, Is there any Chapel here? they said yes. A new Chapel just erected by the following Sierra Leoneans viz. Messrs T.C. Williams J. Greenwood Taylor & others who took upon themselves to erect such building for the purpose of trieving souls to Christ, and I trust that they themselves must not forget that they have souls to save and a God to glorify. Well Mr. Ed. I was surprised when I went to the evening service conducted by Mr. H. J. Weeks (a trader, formerly a school teacher for the Methodist) who choose his text from the Book of Job chap 19 26—27 verses. Though small the congregation was, of 31 that evening yet Bro. Weeks had done nobly he is a man fitted for such a post, to conduct service there always only one thing is needful as "Those who preach the gospel must live by the gospel" I would advise the Presiding Elder of that district to select one who can read fluently; but not Dick and Harry to be reading lessons. The young man who read the lesson that evening must learn to be practised in reading, as as not to call a as a as the, which I regret to say. You know Mr. Editor the office of God is not a work one should trifle with Why should one take an offer of such a work when he knows that he is not capable to carry it out? I believe the public in general knows that the work of God requires presence of mind and more especially "Faith in Christ" I wish that the Rev. Gentleman of St. Mathew's Church will try to give aid to his flock at Damah, and have their Chapel rectified properly. Really they have done well they deserve praise. May they hold fast that which they have and let no man take their crown.

Thanking you Mr. E. for space occupied

Sherbro. Yours— A VISITOR.

July 1st '87

SKEPTICISM

Is a very ancient moral disorder. Its history is coeval with the beginning of human race. The first question recorded in history, the first interrogation point lifting its crooked finger on the written page, is that of skepticism. It is the question of the serpent in Eden to the mother of our race. And how thoroughly typical the question is of the skepticism of every age, and of the present. It begins by casting doubts upon what God has said, "Yea, hath God said?" insinuated this primal head of the race of skeptics. His followers now walk in the same steps, continue the conflict on the same line. They sometimes flatly deny, but more commonly seek to confuse and unsettle by raising doubt. The skeptic of the garden and the skeptic of the present are kindred in spirit, in Methods, and in the end to be accomplished.—Our Bible Teacher.

Our excellent contemporary, the Golden Rule, speaking of "The editors are the only ones who are in a position to judge of the wants and needs of their constituents. They often make mistakes, but they are at least more likely to know them than any one else. A paper with a circulation of twelve thousand reaches at least fifty thousand readers, and it is no easy task to 'right ly divide the word of truth' for such an army. Because an article does not meet your wants, friend, is no proof that it may not reach the needs of the forty-nine thousand nine hundred and ninety nine, or at least, a large proportion of them. You may not like asparagus, but that is no reason it should not be put on the table for those who do like it. Strawberries are said to poison some people, but most of us would be very sorry to have them removed from our summer bill of fare on that account. It must always be remembered that the surest way to kill a paper is to narrow it to one line of thought and the advocacy of one idea. Such advocacy soon clogs even upon the palate of those who believe in the idea."

—Telescope

And parents should avoid bringing their children in contact with the evil, and not send them to public [illegible] where secret societies are tolerated.

Cms 1 2 3 4 5
Ims. BRITISH MUSEUM 2

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Aug. 15, 1887.

THE WAR DEALERS.

African war, seems to be a kind of Traffick in which certain principal or chief men deal; who have influence in the country, and also some means in hand, with which to gather about them a lot of lawless fellows, who are willing to do anything for the sake of adventure rapine or plunder; those fellows are called War-boys and are kept in readiness by the sellers of war, and when anyone has need of their services he sends to their master to buy war: for which of course the applicant must pay; as much as the seller thinks he can get it from him: before the war is despatched to the field of operations, after which of course the war boys must be well filled, and their master must get the lion's share of the plunder; while the buyer may get but a scanty portion, and at the same time be subjected to much inconvenience from the reckless dispositions of the Warriors. And after all, whether the war is a success or not to the buyer, it must in some way be a success to the seller. The boys must be sent away at the close of operations, and cannot go empty away either, for if the buyer cannot satisfy them other wise, they will plunder him of his share, ere they leave and carry all away to their master hence it would appear that the seller of the war is the one who profits most by this Traffick in human blood, and to us it would seem ought to receive equal if not greater punishment. But hitherto it seems that little or no attention has been given to this side of the matter; however we have been pleased to gather from the passing breeze a faint whisper, at least of some steps being taken to find out and punish the men who sell the war. If indeed we have caught the proper sound of the breeze, and the Authorities are really taking steps to arrest and punish the wretches, who in the interior gather the boys to furnish the War-Bands to the wicked disturbers of the public peace within British Jurisdiction: then, indeed, we may feel that an important advance has been made in governmental policy and such too, as will ultimately redound largely to the honor of Her Majesty,s Government and the peace and prosperity of her Subjects in these Settlements.

It is a memorable day, being the 6th of July, a day that one should think of the sad events that took place at Ghambiah. The Apostle Paul in his Epistle to the Romans enjoins, the wages of sin is death, and the Prophet Nahum in his prophetic declaration said, that the Lord is a strong hold in the day of trouble and he knoweth them that trust in him. Previous to this time the deceased young man who committed suicide had been in constant quarrel with his wife on the 17th of June. I had to decided between them whereupon the young man promised with an oath that he will not surely terminate the life of his wife and himself. He further remarked that had it not been for my call that morning matters would not have settled. I continued to discourse with him from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. notwithstanding the admonition given he lightly regarded it. I then questioned him in reference to his eternal welfare supposing you do not put an end to your life, where do you expect to find yourself. He answered in hell, and he will not be the only one who will be there; awful answer! after deciding with himself and wife and effecting peace with them, I asked him to pray for his prayer will, and be answered and it will be to his regret. Oh! how sad is the state of an apostate: sin, when it is finished brings both death. Many would be surprised at the death of the self murdered young man and would be attributing the crimes committed to certain object, that such a thing must be the hand of some one, but I say no! the Holy spirit of God had been removed from the deceased young man and he was unconscious of the awful bullets that will send both soul and body to that bottomless abyss yea to remain in that miserable place described by the Savior him-self as " where the worms dieth not, and the fire is not quenched." The deceased young man had sufficient warning from several friends who entreated him not to commit such a horrible crime on himself, sin blinded the eyes both natural and spiritual, darken the understanding and stop the ears against all warning given by a Mohammedan young man: in answer to this young man he said it was late he had misled himself by using his Rifle in the way of freeing six rounds and his case is but the Chief Officer will send for him and he will be made a prisoner but they will not carry a living man but a dead body and who then will they judge! Oh! what an awful thing is sin, making the punishment of time greater than the future and everlasting punishment. The conclusion is, he had murdered himself, and sensible of his death. The preparation he had come to with a dead conscience handled the Rifle to a distant of about one hundred yards from his house, seated himself on the ground, put the catridge into the Rifle lash a strong tape into the trigger and passed it into his great toe full cock the Rifle, pass the barrel into his mouth snatch the trigger with his toe and pass to Eternity. Ah, dead conscience! May God save us from such a heart; a heart that is buried in sin and wickedness a heart where the fear of God is not. This reminds us to be constant in prayer, for prayer is the Christian vital breath, the Christ-native air; oh let us then in our daily exercise, copy the words of our Savior and say Deliver us from evil. Thanking you Mr. Editor for space accepted. Subscribe-ively Yours in Christ,—W.S.M.

Dear Editor,—In my last of July 13, I promised that you will hear from me again. Since then, I sent mes-sages of caution to the near interior towns from this place, (Palma, Conta, Mongray-Ghinbee, Mo-Fu-ro-boa and Jah-ghiah-houn) to see if I can by that means gain some further information respecting the war rumour from some of the Chiefs. Messenger Saisai, from Palma, reported that the people residing in some of the farkies belonging to Mo-Cassey have got information, that the white people and soldiers, (they say who killed a very great number of Mendi warriors at Shingay, were pursuing their enemies interior ward; and that they (the people) must suffer, should they remain or keep their place. Palma being considered a place of safety, and nearer, they deemed it prudent therefore, to run thereto for concealment, hence the confusion as last reported. In the other places the message sounded strange: but was received with many thanks.

The following is a true copy of the letter I received from Mia Saka, chief of Jah gbiahoon on the 30th July.

Jahghiahoon, 29th July '87.

Mr. Morrison,—My dear Sir,—" Your message about the war news you hear in the Mission, it doubt me too much [illegible] I am also sure your answer to get will tell you that he find me it best. I am friend to the Missionaries and the Mission, although I am a mendi man, but I will not make war with the Queen's people and those who are talking God-palaver, all my war boys are gone to the up war: one of them who I thought been dead in the war was come home, and your messenger can tell you that I make big dance to give for him, I will not make war with the English people, and I will not send war in water side. I thank you kindly, you do to me as a friend, and I will always remember your kindness: please tell the Commandant and the police constables that the news is false, that at any time they hear such report again, they must bring the person face to face with me to know the truth of the matter, I hope God may bless you, I hope you are well."

" I am, yours truly,

" MIA SOKA."

This Mr. Editor, has relieved our minds a great way, and as I believe it will interest your readers and exhaust the impression the news made already on the minds of the public in general, I take the liberty to have it inserted. Thanking you for space occupied.

S. B. M.

Avery Station,
Aug. 11, '87.

Dear Mr. Editor,—In reading your valuable issue of the 30th July, I find an article written by a " Sierra Leonean " in which he described my article of June 15, as a flattery on him. Without going into details, I beg leave to ask that gentleman to peruse his article, and he will find that he has accepted the encomium given him in my letter of June 15, for, after accepting my flattering congratulation, he goes on to say " yet if my efforts have anything directly or indirectly in the present move, I am thankful and more repaid for my pain in writing that letter." Allow me to ask, is he not the first to suggest the necessity of having Steam Communication between this place and Freetown, in his letter of March 15 when he writes as follows " To he here in Sherbro and express sympathy for our people who have to travel in all weathers between Sherbro and S. Leone is no easy matter!" and " I believe you Mr. Editor will without the least hesitation say cannot these people with all their seeming intelligence and growing civilization devise means for better and safer travelling." I believe Mr. Editor that the above suggestion is that which prompted you to open your Editorial in the issue of April 15, with these words. " This subject or (the subject of Steam Communication between this place and Freetown) has been stirred afresh by an article that appeared in our issue of March 15 from the pen of a " Sierra Leonean," which article despite the many obstacles that lie in the way of such a boon as a regular steamer between here and Freetown has excited no small amount of interest " and further " but we must still confess that the interest taken by many persons in the article referred to and the acknowledged need of such communication leads us to believe that it could be accomplished." Has not his suggestion been carried out? If so then why did " Sierra Leonean " consider my letter as a flattering one? The only answer that I can give is, that he pen ran too fast, and I believe he did not read over his manuscript before sending to the press. I hope therefore a " Sierra Leonean " will still express not only my congratulation but that of the [illegible] people.

I must say for his information that the contract is given to the African steam ship Company and not the firm of F. and A. Swanzy as appeared in his letter of July 30th and that their steamer the Formoso will commence operation during the present month.

Bonthe, Yours, Mr. Editor,
10th Aug. '87. JUSTITIA.

"Though hand join in hand, The wicked shall not go unpunished."

Three years ago a section of the parish society were in session at Mahoh near the sea; I was living in the town at the time, and my heart often ached on seeing the boys of different towns dragged to the parish bush; he initiated into the diabolical secrecy of parrohism.

One of our school boys, a native of Sierra Leone, who lived with his father a trader in the town, felt a desire to become a member of the parrosh band he made known his desire to some of the men, but they objected, on the ground that he is a Sierra Leonean, but he persevered until Sessa Minto alias John Goodman took up his case and promised him help if he was well paid. The boy made frequent excursions to my hen roost at nights, time carried off some of my best fowls, and paid his fees to Sessa Minto, thus they became fast friends and they both did many evils in the town of Mahoh. The time arrived the parrosh devil took the boy away to his bush or eat him as their term is.

On the breaking up of the session he came out with the others, went home to his father with whom he lived until a few weeks ago when war broke out and the war boys came down to plunder Mahoh, one of their number caught this boy, but he protested loudly that he was a native of Sierra Leone, the man who was a parrosh man knew the boy to be one of the number pulled his shirt off and showed the parrosh marks on his back to his fellows he was then taken by them from the town into captivity. Thus the evil that he desired and obtained became his sin.

This parrow master Sessa Minto thought a parrosh leader fled from Mahoh to a neighbouring town when the war boys entered his town the followed and slew him such an end has a life of sin.

A CARIB.

NEWS ITEMS.

Aug. 3,—s.s. " Falabah " arrived in this Port from Rio Nunez, consigned to S. B. A. Macfoy of Yelbaa Factory.

The Members of the Church Relief Society celebrated their 9th Anniversary at the St. Matthew's Church School room, when an Essay was read by the Secretary, Mr. W. Hughes. Commandant and Mrs. Moseley were present.

On the evening of the same day there was a Tea Fight at the residence of the Commdt, in connection with the celebration.

5.—s.s. Susu arrived from Freetown with His Excellency Deputy-Govr. Hay, with an escort of the 1st W. I. Regt.

6.—His Excellency the Deputy Governor left in the Colonial Steam Launch for Sulymah escorted by the soldiers.

7.—A very interesting Sermon was preached at St. Matthew's Church by its pastor the Rev. G.G.M.Nicol, on the occasion of his leaving for Bathurst Gambia on recreation leave for two months. His text was from St John 14th chap 27 verse "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you."

8.—The s.s. " Susu " left for Freetown with the following passengers from this place. Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, Mr. M. J. Marke (Sub Inspector of Schools) Mrs J. R. and Miss Cassandra Parkinson (the latter will shortly leave Freetown for England)

9.—The s.s. "Falaba" left for Freetown with the following passenger Messrs C. J. Cole and Geo Bailey.

A young man named James Rose (formerly in the employ of S. B. A. Macfoy at Yelbana) set fire to the dwelling house of Mr Beard at Yhandahoo while in a fit jealousy. He has been arrested and committed for trial in Freetown.

We learn with much pleasure that the steamer Fomosa is advertised to commence the Local service on the 15th inst. between Freetown and Sherbro when we trust our many readers, and the community in general will realize the desired fruition of Steam Communication between this Port and Freetown.

Removed—The divine Services of the Mendi Mission, Good Hope Station, have been removed from the brick chapel Heddle Street to the School building Victoria Road Yandahoo. This removal is only temporary, we believe, for the repairs of their chapel.

Personal

The Comdt. and Mrs. Moseley gave us a pleasant call on the 30th ult. they were both looking well.

Mr. Daniel Collier called on us on the morning of the 1st inst. we had not seen him for a long while and were glad once more to meet him in health.

Mrs. P. Dillett who had been carried away by the War from Ghbampenny near Mandoo some time ago has been redeemed and returned to this place on the 31st ult.

Copr'l J. W. Nicol whose departure for the interior about the 16th ult. (esoape our notice) we are glad to note returned on the 31st ult. safe and sound having we believe accomplished a rather difficult task of duty during his absence.

The s. s. "Nithsdale" arrived out from Boston U. S. A. to Freetown reaching the latter Port on the 25th ult. This we believe marks an epoch in the History of commerce between America and the Dark Continent as this we believe is the first steam ship direct from U. S. A. to Africa.

Mr Allen Caulker of Shaingay Bro. of Chief Neal Caulker was in town he gave us a call on the 2nd inst. accompanied by Mr. H. T. Yaru who has rendered very valuable service in obtaining the release of Mrs. P. Dillett, who had been captured at Ghbanpenny near Mando.

Mr. C. S. Brown Catechist of Bendoo, with Mr. R. N. Smart Trader gave us a pleasant call on the 4th inst.

Mrs. J. A. Lewis wife of Capt. Lewis arrive safely in New York June 21st in good health.

Mr Bidwell Cokes whom we reported in our issue of June 15 to be unwell we are glad to say has since recovered from his illness. He gave us a call and is looking alright.

Mrs. T. N. Joah of Koneonany in this place on the 9th inst on a visit for a change.

Mrs F. A. and Miss A. N. Morrison as also others of Avery Station have been quite unwell but were improving at last accounts.

Mr. William B. Grosvenor of Bendoo, gave us a pleasant call on the 8th inst.

FUNERAL WAKES.

Dear Mr. Editor,—Notwithstanding Bonthe being the seat of Government in Sherbro with its three churches from whence religious instruction is imparted every week, yet I regret to say that pulpit ministration produces little or no effect whatever in the minds of the professed christians.

For, instead of christians setting bright and noble examples to the heathens by whom we are surrounded, they often prove by their conduct that they are worse than the heathens. I have a few reasons to offer for writing this article, which are as follows: " Night Wakes " —This is an ancient custom among the old people who sit, in the house of a deceased person while the body is not yet interred, and religious hymns are sung, while at the same time intoxicating liquors of all sorts are consumed in the premises, to the disgrace of their religion, and profanation of Jehovah's name, sometimes the most immoral acts are committed, and last of all fighting terminates the proceedings of the night.—After the body is interred, the night wake is continued to the 7th day, while the same diabolical and disgraceful acts are committed as will be seen in an article signed " Neptune " in your issue of June 15

It was only on Friday last that I happened to pass by Victoria Road when my attention was directed to a house where there was beating of drums, my curiosity led me to have a peep in, when to my surprise I found a few young men and women who are members of Church and who profess or call themselves christians, mingling in a crowd of lewd and base persons, singing and dancing in a rude and disgraceful manner till 5 a. m., and yet would dare the very next day to appear in God's house in a mild form. Next again—You would be quite disgusted to see young men of respectability on Saturday night in the different Grog Shops where after having filled their belly with that hydra monster Rum, which breeds every evil in man would go in front of J. B. P's where the females have their night markets and brawl, fight, and disgrace themselves in an unbecoming manner.

I hope those of your readers who are of this class will take warning from this Article which I have written, and which will save them from danger. It was drunkenness that caused an individual to commit " Arson " or houseburning on Friday last.—Read Proverbs xxix 1. Mr. Editor, I am done, and trust the ministers of this place will still warn their members against this sin of Night Wakings—Prov. xx. 1. The Centenary is past, we must therefore adopt a new course. Yours Mr. Editor,

SOLOMON.

Bonthe,
Aug. 10, '87.

Mr Editor,—Permit me a space in your valuable journal, to pen facts, not fictions, of all I saw and heard. I had occasion to leave my hut for Freetown, through unavoidable circumstances, permit me to say, coughing of blood immensely by a relative of mine who was taken to Freetown and admitted in the colonial hospital for medical treatment. I had opportunity to pay him visits The first time, I went with a faint hope and melancholy spirit, pierced at the heart for so wonderful a prostration; I exclaimed "not all sickness is for death, but some for the glory of God." Turning my eyes around I saw good many men in bed, all how I pity their condition where I had to encourage one Mr Smart who was chopped in the head and back in the late country war. Thanks, many many thanks to Her majesty the Queen, for her gracious goodness in making provisions for the sick in our country. Pending further, I must state that my second and last visit was on Sunday 10th inst when I was told that the indefatigable Rev Chaplain Taylor late of Hastings preached "good words" to them and distributed to our tracts for their comfort and consolation. That patient asked me to read his headed "The Bulah land" Oh my soul 'tis' I cried like a dove' then would I fly away and be at rest." I attended night service at Krootown Road; under the voice of a well polished young catechist (T. S. Smith) from his 41 chapt 6 and 7 verses.

"Bring my sons from far, and my daughters from the ends of the earth every one that is called by my name" Text, sermon was one I will remember ever. It makes an impression in my mind, and shows an explendi light of my ingratitude to God, in not stretching out my hands as I should for the spread of the gospel, (God knows.) A day previous, I saw chief T. N. C. and Mr Frank Pinto, gracefully pacing along the street by the commissariat, whence I heard that the captives Messrs A. D. and P. D. are in town Learnt further that the case of chief T. N. C. versus William T. B. Caulker, Koogbar &c, will be tried on the 19th inst. Hoping (from the ground of my heart, and the hearts of those whom are the war distressed) that capital punishment should be inflicted upon them, to turn them from the errors of their way, to the marvellous light of the gospel. Yrs. NEOT.

Sa. Leone,
[illegible]

What a Good Girl Can Do.

It is written of the beautiful Hebrew maiden Hadassah or Esther that after she became the acknowledge queen of King Ahasuerus, and mistress of 127 provinces, that "she still did the commandment of Mordecai, her uncle, like as when she was brough up with him." It was the careful training and wise advice of this uncle who assured and carried out all the duties of a father toward his orphan niece which gave her that nobleness of character and personnel that gained favor with the King and his servants. But more than to all else was Esther's steady remembrance of her uncle's counsel, the means of helping her people when she came to power. Had she become proud and lost her head Haman would have succeeded in his designs, her uncle would have lost his life, she her crown, and the Jows been destroyed. The power of one good girl is incalculable. All girls can study Esther's character to profit.

—Southeastern Christian Advocate

We regret that very much bad reading appears in this Issue for want of time to correct, as the Issue is unavoidably late.

NEWS ITEMS.

Aug. 3,—s.s. "Falabah" arrived in this Port from Rio Nunez, consigned to S. B. A. Macfoy of Yelban Factory.

The Members of the Church Relief Society celebrated their 9th Anniversary at the St. Matthew's Church School-room, when an Essay was read by the Secretary, Mr. W. Hughes. Commandant and Mrs. Moseley were present.

On the evening of the same day there was a Tea Fight at the residence of the Comm'dt, in connection with the celebration.

5.—s. s. Susu arrived from Freetown with His Excellency Deputy-Govr. Hay, with an escort of the 1st W. I.Regt.

6.—His Excellency the Deputy Governor left in the Colonial Steam Launch for Sulymah escorted by the soldiers.

7.—A very interesting Sermon was preached at St. Matthew's Church by its pastor the Rev. G.G.M.Nicol, on the occasion of his leaving for Bathurst Gambia on recreation leave for two months. His text was from St John 14th chap 27 verse "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you."

8.—The s.s. "Susu" left for Freetown with the following passengers from this place. Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, Mr. M. J. Marke (Sub Inspector of Schools) Mrs J. R. and Miss Cassandra Parkinson (the latter will shortly leave Freetown for England)

9.—The s. s. "Falaba" left for Freetown with the following passenger Messrs C. J. Cole and Geo Bailey.

A young man named James Rose (formerly in the employ of S. B. A. Macfoy at Yelbana) set fire to the dwelling house of Mr Beard at Yhandahoo while in a fit jealousy. He has been arrested and committed for trial in Freetown.

We learn with much pleasure that the steamer Romosi is advertised to commence the Local service on the 15th inst. between Freetown and Sherbro when we trust our many readers, and the community in general will realize the desired fruition of Steam Communication between this Port and Freetown.

Removed—The divine Services of the Mendi Mission, Good Hope Station, have been removed from the brick chapel Heddle Street to the School building Victoria Road Yandahoo. This removal is only temporary, we believe, for the repairs of their chapel.

Personal

The Comdt. and Mrs. Moseley gave us a pleasant call on the 30th ult. they were both looking well,

Mr. Daniel Collier called on us on the morning of the 1st inst. we had not seen him for a long while and were glad once more to meet him in health.

Mrs. P. Dillett who had been carried away by the War from Gbampenny near Mandu some time ago has been redeemed and returned to this place on the 31st ult.

Copr'l J. W. Nicol whose departure for the interior about the 16th ult. (escape our notice) we are glad to note returned on the 31st ult. safe and sound having we believe accomplished a rather difficult task of duty during his absence.

The s. s. "Nithsdale" arrived out from Boston U. S. A. to Freetown reaching the latter Port on the 25th ult. This we believe marks an epoch in the History of commerce between America and the Dark Continent as this we believe is the first steam ship direct from U. S. A. to Africa.

Mr. Allen Caulker of Shaingay Bro. of Chief Neal Caulker was in town he gave us a call on the 2nd inst. accompanied by Mr. H. T. Yaru who has rendered very valuable service in obtaining the release of Mrs. P. Dillett, who had been captured at Gbanpenny near Mando.

Mr. C. S. Brown Catechist of Rendoo, with Mr. R. N. Smart Trader gave us a pleasant call on the 4th inst.

Mrs. J. A. Lewis wife of Capt. Lewis arrive safely in New York June 21st in good health.

Mr Bidwell Cokes whom we reported in our issue of June 15 to be unwell we are glad to say has since recovered from his illness. He gave us a call and is looking alright.

Mrs. T. N. Joah of Koneonany in this place on the 9th inst on a visit for a change.

Mrs P. A. and Miss A. N. Morrison as also others of Avery Station have been quite unwell but were improving at last accounts.

Mr. William B. Grosvenor of Bendoo, gave us a pleasant call on the 8th inst.

FUNERAL WAKES.

Dear Mr. Editor,—Notwithstanding Bonthe being the seat of Government in Sherbro with its three churches from whence religious instruction is imparted every week, yet I regret to say that pulpit ministration produces little or no effect whatever in the minds of the professed christians.

For, instead of christians setting bright and noble examples to the heathens by whom we are surrounded, they often prove by their conduct that they are worse than the heathens. I have a few reasons to offer for writing this article, which are as follows: "Night Wakes"—This is an ancient custom among the old people who sit in the house of a deceased person while the body is not yet interred, and religious hymns are sung, while at the same time intoxicating liquors of all sorts are consumed in the premises, to the disgrace of their religion, and profanation of Jehovah's name, sometimes the most immoral acts are committed, and last of all fighting terminates the proceedings of the night—After the body is interred, the night wake is continued to the 7th day, while the same diabolical and disgraceful acts are committed as will be seen in an article signed "Neptune" in your issue of June 15.

It was only on Friday last that I happened to pass by Victoria Road when my attention was directed to a house where there was beating of drums, my curiosity led me to have a peep in, when to my surprise I found a few young men and women who are members of Church and who profess or call themselves christians, mingling in a crowd of lewd and base persons, singing and dancing in a rude and disgraceful manner till 5 a. m., and yet would dare the very next day to appear in God's house in a mild form. Next again—You would be quite disgusted to see young men of respectability on Saturday night in the different Grog Shops where after having filled their belly with that hydra monster Rum which breeds every evil in man would go in front of J. B. P's where the females have their night markets and brawl, fight, and disgrace themselves in an unbecoming manner.

I hope those of your readers who are of this class will take warning from this Article which I have written, and which will save them from danger. It was drunkenness that caused an individual to commit "Arson" or house-burning on Friday last—Read Proverbs xxix 1. Mr. Editor, I am done, and trust the ministers of this place will still warn their members against this sin of Night Wakings—Prov. xx. 1. The Centenary is past, we must therefore adopt a new course. Yours Mr. Editor,

Bonthe, SOLOMON.
Aug. 10, '87.

Mr Editor,—Permit me a space in your valuable journal, to pen facts, not fictions, of all I saw and heard. I had occasion to leave my hut for Freetown, through unavoidable circumstances, permit me to say, coughing of blood immensely by a relative of mine who was taken to Freetown and admitted in the colonial hospital for medical treatment I had opportunity to pay him visits The first time, I went with a faint hope and melancholy spirit, pierced at the heart for so wonderful a prostration; I exclaimed "not all sickness is for death, but some for the glory of God." Turning my eyes around I saw good many men in bed, all how I pity their condition where I had to encourage one Mr Smart who was chopped in the head and back in the late country war. Thanks, many many thanks to Her majesty the Queen, for her gracious goodness in making provisions for the sick in our country. Pending further, I must state that my second and last visit was on Sunday 17th inst when I was told that the indefatigable Rev Chaplain Taylor late of Hastings preached "good words" to them and distributed his tracts for their comfort and consolation. That patient asked me to read his, headed "The Bullah land" Oh my soul had I wings like a dove then would I fly away and be at rest." I attended night service at Krootown Road; under the voice of a well polished young catechist (T. S. Smith) from Isa 61 chapt 6 and 7 verses.

"Bring my sons from far, and my daughters from the ends of the earth even every one that is called by my name." The sermon was one I will remember ever. It makes an impression in my mind, and shows an example light of my ingratitude to God, is not streathing out my hands as I should for the spread of the gospel, (God knows). A day previous, I saw chief T. N. C. and Mr Frank Dixon, gracefully parting along the street by the commercarist, whence I heard that the captives Messrs A. D. and P. D. are in town Learn further that the case of chief T. N. C. versus William T. G. Caulker, Kongbar &c, will be tried on the 19th inst. Hoping (from the ground of my heart, and the hearts of those whom the war distressed) that capital punishment should be inflicted upon them, to turn them from the errors of their way, to the marvellous light of the gospel. Yrs. NEOT, Sa. Leone

What a Good Girl Can Do.

It is written of the beautiful Hebrew maiden Hadassah or Esther that after she became the acknowledge queen of King Ahasuerus, and mistress of 127 provinces, that "she still did the commandment of Mordecai, her uncle, like as when she was brough up with him." It was the careful training and wise advice of this uncle who assured and carried out all the duties of a father toward his orphan niece which gave her that nobleness of character and personnel that gained favor with the King and his servants. But more than to all else was Esther's steadv remembrance of her uncle's counsel, the means of helping her people when she came to power. Had she become proud and lost her head Haman would have succeeded in his designs, her uncle would have lost his life, she her crown, and the Jews been destroyed. The power of one good girl is incalculable. All girls can study Esther's character to profit.

—Southwestern Christian Advocate

We regret that very much bad reading appears in this Issue for want of time to correct, as the Issue is unavoidably late.

ALPHA FACTORY, York Island.

IMPORTANT NOTICE!

Closing up of the Business of THE LATE

WM. MURRAY.

Great Bargains in all descriptions of GOODS, to effect CLEARANCE.

Higher Prices for PRODUCE than any House in Sherbro.

Retail at Wholesale

Never such a chance again!

The Undersigned respectfully hopes that Merchants and Traders will avail themselves the opportunity offered herein, to replenish their Stock. He is prepared to deal with them on the most liberal Terms. The whole must be cleared.

GEO. LEACH.
On behalf of the Exors to the late W. MURRAY

Jan 30/87.

J.A. Clemons

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL Bookseller, Stationer and Miscellaneous GOODS

ESTABLISHED IN KING TO STREET

N.B. Removed to upper Oi to Street, opposite the burial ground Bonthe, Sherbro.

To all to whom it may concern.

We the undersigned, being lawful owners of the LANDS situated and lying on the South Eastern part of Bonthe on a portion which the well known Parkes called Beah N Quah is hereby hereby beg to inform the Public in general that we have jointly and severally agreed, bargained, sold legally conveyed to Mr. J. B. Parkinson Merchant of Bonthe all that portion of land lying ( and situated as above described containing about 39¼ Acres of Land.—Bounded on the East by Ghundamah Creek on the West by lands covered with brush woods on the North by Yarneh Creek, and on the South by land covered with brush wood or howsoever otherwise the same may be described or distinguished.

The Public is hereby required to take notice that an action of trespass will be taken against any offender who shall enter into the said lands with the intent of occupying it without the permission of the said J. B. Parkinson, and any person or persons at present having any buildings, farms, &c. on the said lands, should make arrangement with the said J. B. Parkinson or remove their buildings &c.

Bonthe 20th June '87 BANA LEWIS.
W. T. DOUGLAS.
CAIFAY LANGO

S. M Mission STORE.

OPEN AGAIN!

And the undersigned desires to announce once more to the Public that they will find on our SHELVES a carefully selected and well kept Stock of which it is our purpose to increase and refresh continually.

GENERAL MERCHANDIZE

The following are a few of the various ARTICLES to be found in our Stores.

Cotton Goods,
Woolen Goods,
Beecham's Pills,
M'Neil's Pills,
Do. Exterminator,
Stationery,

Men's Slippers,
" Boots and Shoes.

Watches (Silver Hunting Case)
Open faced Metal Watches,
Watch Cases (silk lined).
" Guards
" Glasses
Harmonic Instruments
at Whole sale and Retail R

We have also specially F Arrowroot, raised on our o Farms, and prepared w great care under our own supervision.

J. A. [illegible] Agent
Bonthe Mar '87.

or,—Permit me a space in your ournal, to pen facts, not fictions, e and heard. I had occasion to but for Freetown, through unavoidumstances, permit me to say, coughed immensely by a relative of mine taken to Freetown and admitted in al hospital for medical treatment ortunity to pay him visits The first met with a faint hope and melanrit pierced at the heart for so won-prostration, I exclaimed "not all s for death, but some for the glory
Turning my eyes around I saw y man in bed, ah! how I pity their where I had to encourage one Mr n was chopped in the head and e late country war. Thanks, many nks to Her majesty the Queen, for ous goodness in making provisions ch in our country. Pending her, must state that my second and was on Sunday 16th inst when I that the indefatigable Rev Chaplain ple of Hastings preached "good them and distributed fine tracts comfort and consolation. That pa-ed me to read his, headed "The ul" Oh my soul 'had I wings like a e would I fly away and be at rest.'
d night service at Krootown Road;
e voice of a well polished young
(T. S. Smith) from Isa 43 chapt 6 vers.
r my sons from far, and my daught-the ends of the earth even every is called by my name" The sermon I will remember ever. It makes ression in my mind, and shows an ex-ght of my ingratitude to God, in not g out my hands as I should for the f the gospel, (God knows.) A day
I saw chief T. N. C. and Mr Frank peacefully pacing along the street by mercuries, whereas I heard that, the Messrs A. D. and P. D. are in town further that the case of chief T. N. C.
William T. G. Caulker, Kroeber &c, tried on the 19th inst, Hoping (from ond of my heart, and the hearts of from the war distressed) that capital ment should be inflicted upon them, them from the errors of their way, to yellom light of the gospel. Yrs. NEOT, at a Good Girl Can Do.

is written of the beauti-Hebrew maiden Hadassah ther that after she be the acknowledge queen ng Ahasuerus, and mis-of 127 provinces, that still did the command-of Mordecai, her uncle, as when she was brough with him." It was the al training and wise ad-of this uncle who assured carried out all the duties father toward his orphan which gave her that no-ess of character and perct that gained favor with King and his servants. more than to all else was er's steady remembrance her uncle's counsel, the s of helping her people she came to power.
she become proud and her head Haman would succeeded in his designs, uncle would have lost his she her crown, and the been destroyed. The r of one good girl is inluable. All girls can stu-
Esther's character to profit.

Southwestern Christian Advocate.

regret that very much bad reading s in this Issue for want of time to
, as the Issue is unavoidably late.

ALPHA FACTORY, York Island.

IMPORTANT NOTICE!

Closing up of the Business of
THE LATE
WM. MURRAY.

Great Bargains in all descriptions of GOODS, to effect
CLEARANCE.

Higher Prices for PRODUCE than any House in Sherbro.

Retail at Wholesale

Never such a chance again!

The Undersigned respectfully hopes that Merchants and Traders will avail themselves the opportunity offered herein, to replenish their Stock. He is prepared to deal with them on the most Liberal Terms. The whole must be cleared.

GEO. LEACH.
On behalf of the Executors late W. MURRAY

Bonthe, Sherbro.

J.A. Clemons

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL
Bookseller, Stationer and Miscellaneous Goods
ESTABLISHED 1874 KING STREET

N.B. Removed to upper Oxford Street, opposite the burial ground
Bonthe, Sherbro.

To all to whom it may concern.

We the undersigned, being lawful owners of the LANDS situated and lying on the South Eastern part of Bonthe on a portion which the well known Farkie called Boah N'Quah is built, hereby beg to inform the Public in general that we have jointly and severally agreed, bargained, sold legally conveyed to Mr J B Parkinson Merchant of Bonthe all that portion of land lying and situated as above described containing about 30½ Acres of Land. Bounded on the East by Ghundanah Creek on the West by lands covered with bush woods on the North by Yarnah Creek, and on the South by land covered with bush wood or howsoever otherwise the same may be described or distinguished.

The Public is hereby required to take notice that an action of trespass will be taken against any offender who shall enter into the said lands with the intent of occupying it without the permission of the said J. B. Parkinson, and any person or persons at present having any buildings, farms, &c. on the said lands, should make arrangement with the said J. B. Parkinson or remove their buildings &c.

BANA LEWIS,
W. T. DOUGLAS,
CAIFAY LANGO

Bonthe
20th June '97

S. M Mission STORE.

OPEN AGAIN!

And the undersigned desires to announce once more to the Public that they will find our SHELVES carefully selected and well kept Stock of which it is our purpose to increase and refresh continually.

GENERAL MERCHANDIZE

The following are a few of the various ARTICLES to be found in our Stores.

Cotton Goods,
Woolen Goods,
Beecham's Pills,
McNeil's Pills,
Do. Exterminator,
Stationery,

Men's Slippers,
" Boots and Shoes,

Watches (Silver Hunting Case),
Open faced Metal Watches,
Watch Cases (silk lined),
" Guards
" Glasses
Hurricane lanterns
at Whole sale and Retail &c.

We have also specially F... Arrowroot, raised on our o... Farms, and prepared w... great care under our own ... supervision.

J A ... Agent
Bonthe.
... Mar '97.

ALPHA FACTORY, York Island.

IMPORTANT NOTICE!

Closing up of the Business of THE LATE

WM. MURRAY.

Great Bargains in all descriptions of GOODS, to effect CLEARANCE.

Higher Prices for PRODUCE than any House in Sherbro.

Retail at Wholesale.

Never such a chance again!

The Undersigned respectfully hopes that Merchants and Traders will avail themselves the opportunity offered, herein, to replenish their Stock. He is prepared to deal with them on the most liberal Terms. The whole must be cleared.

GEO. LEACH,
On behalf of the Executors late W. MURRAY.

Jul/Sp18.. 6i

J.A. Clemens

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL
Bookseller, Stationary and Miscellaneous GOODS
ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET

N.B. Removed to upper Otto Street, opposite the burial ground
Bonthe, Sherbro.

To all to whom it may concern.

We the undersigned, being lawful owners of the LANDS situated and lying on the South Eastern part of Bonthe, on a portion which the well known Farkie called Beah N'Quah is built; hereby beg to inform the Public in general that we have jointly and severally agreed, bargained, sold, legally conveyed to Mr. J. B. Parkinson Merchant of Bonthe all that portion of land lying and situated as above described containing about 39¼ Acres of Land.—Bounded on the East by Ghundanah Creek on the West by lands covered with brush woods, on the North by Yarneh Creek, and on the South by land covered with brush wood or howsoever otherwise the same may be described or distinguished.

The Public is hereby required to take notice that an action of trespass will be taken against any offender who shall enter into the said lands with the intent of occupying it without the permission of the said J. B. Parkinson, and any person or persons at present having any buildings, farms, &c. on the said lands should make arrangement with the said J. B. Parkinson or remove their buildings &c.

BANA LEWIS,
W. T. DOUGLAS,
CAIFAY LANGO

Bonthe
20th June '87
July/Sept 30. 6i

S. M Mission STORE.

OPEN AGAIN!

And the undersigned desires to announce once more to the Public that they will find on our SHELVES a carefully selected and well kept Stock of which it is our purpose to increase and refresh continually.

GENERAL MERCHANDIZE

The following are a few of the various ARTICLES to be found in our Stores.

Cotton Goods,
Woolen Goods,
Beecham's Pills,
McNeil's Pills,
Do. Exterminator,
Stationery,

Men's Slippers,
" Boots and Shoes.

Watches (Silver Hunting Case.)
Open faced Metal Watches,
Watch Cases (nickaned).
" Guards
" Glasses
Hurricane lanterns
at Wholesale and Retail &c.

We have also specially Fine Arrowroot, raised on our own Farms, and prepared with great care under our own supervision.

J. A [illegible] Agent
Bonthe.
23rd Mar. '87.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL.—In fair demand. 600 tons sold at steady rates during the past week. The s.s. Mandingo and Cameroons have passed Sierra Leone with 1150 and 1300 casks respectively.

Stock—30th June	1887	1886	1885	1884
	9885	8015	2720	993

Lagos			£19	12 6
Old Calabar, Bonny, Cameroons	£18	to	18	2 6
Benin			17	12 6
Brass, Niger, and New Calabar			17	10 0
Congo			17	0 0
Loanda			17	10 0
Grand Bassam	£17	to	17	5 0
Accra, Addah, Quittah, Aghwey, Little Popo	17 5 0	to	17	10 0
Sierra Leone, Sherbro	£16	to	17	0 0
Saltpond Kinds			16	5 0

PALM KERNELS—A good enquiry at an increase of 2s. 6d to 5s. on last week's prices.

Lagos Bonny, Benin, Brass, Cameroons, Old Calabar and Congo	£10 5 0	to	10	10 0
Liberia, Quitta, Popo, Sherbro, etc.	9 5 0	to	10	0 0
Salt pond, Winnebah, Appam, Accra and Elmina	8 10 0	to	9	5 0

GROUND NUTS—A fair business done. Undecorticated £10 10s to 15 10s. Decorticated 7 10s to £14

COPRA } No sales in absence of Arrivals
BENISEED }

COFFEE—Market very quiet; Bold Berry 75s per cwt.

COCOA—Good African 68s. per cwt.

INDIA RUBBER—Remains very quiet. 15 tons sold at easier prices.

Fair to Prime Gambia Niggers	2s. 3d.	to	2s. 4d.
Do. do. Sierra Leone	1s 10d.	to	2s 0d.
Do. do. do. Flat	1s. 5d.	to	1s. 6d.
Thimbles	2s. 1d.	to	2s. 1½d
Congo and Gaboon Balls	1s. 7d.	to	1s. 10d.
Hard Cape Coast and Assinie	1s. 3d.	to	1s. 6d.
Liberia and Manoh	1s. 2½d.	to	1s. 7d.
Flake and Lumps	11½d.	to	1s. 0½d.
Cut and Dried Accra and Salt Pond	1s. 2d.	to	1s. 7d.
Soft Accra	9d.	to	10d.

GUM COPAL—Sierra Leone 3½d. to 9½d. according to quality, Red Angola 82s.

BEESWAX—Limited demand, £5 per cwt. for Gambia, £4 to £4 10s. for Sierra Leone.

GUINEA GRAINS—17s. per cwt. [cwt.

GINGER—150 Bags Monrovia sold at 18s. S. Leone 21s. per

EBONY—£7 for mixed, 5 10s. to £6 for flat fair small Cal. £5

CAMWOOD—Small demand at £26 per ton.

BARWOOD—£3 per ton.

MONKEY SKINS—No change.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool,
July 10th, 1887.

There are certain other wide spread organizations, such as Freemasonry, which, we suppose, are in their nature hostile to good citizenship and true religion, because they exact initiatory oaths of blind compliance with the claims of equal justice toward man and a good conscience toward God.—Sel.

ISSUE(S)
MISSING

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. IV. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, SEPTEMBER 15, 1887. No. 17.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto, deliv'ed in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS,—Communications to Rev J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GAMER Shannon, West Africa, Rev. Z. WARNER, D.D., Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner	The Commandant.
Deputy Coroner,	Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk	W. Hughes,
2nd do	S. W. Alsop
Interpreter	J. D. Rogers,
Bailiff	F. E. R. Buckner.
Sub-Treas. & Col	G. H. Garrett.
Chief Clerk	J. D. Macauley
Tide Waiters,	J. N. Crown, J. R. Turner, & S. G. Cole
Asst. Examg. Officer	Sallieh, Jasper Coulker
Assistant Col. Surgeon	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May.
Postmaster,	H. R. Williams,
Inspector of Police	M. Betts,
Gaoler	J. A. Dennis
Overseer of Roads,	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road Pastor,	Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.
Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street Pastor,	Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mendi Mission,	(Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor,	Rev. G. N. Jowett.

SAY WELL.—DO WELL.

Say well is good, but do well is bet[ter;
Do well seems the spirit, say well is [the letter;
Say well is godly, and helps to please;
But do well lives godly, and gives the world ease.
Say well to silence is sometimes bound,
But do well is free on every ground.
Say well has friends—some here some there,
But do well is welcome everywhere.
By say well many to God's word
cleave;
But for lack of do well they often leave
If say well and do well were bound in one frame,
Then all done, were all won; and all gotten were gain.—Sel.

Dear Mr. Editor—Allow me through the medium of your Journal as one who is for peace and not for war, to insert the following which I am sure you and your readers would be surprised to hear. The Jong River District under the present reign of Queen Betsy Gaye of Bogoe, is in an unsatisfactory state, through that notorious Gberry, Chief of Gbongeh. This little District Mr. Editor, is the place from whence we obtain our little trade to support not only our families, but to increase the Revenue of Sherbro; as the late disturbances in the Kittam and Boom Rivers by the wars of Mackiah and others has already effected our Revenue and some of us are backward in our business; will it be practicable on the side of the Government to sit quiet, until this notorious chief puts this little and nearest District into confusion whilst the authorities will be saying that Gberry will not do this or that; on a sudden you will hear some strange news that war is in the Jong River if no steps be adopted in time as Gberry had already commenced it, if not so, why did he refuse to come down when he was specially sent for by the authorities? 1st. by a sergeant and 2nd by a Corporal of Police; showing the Authorities directly that he intends putting the people into flight and the Authorities into expense. I believe as Queen Betsy Gaye told me last, before she left Bonthe and no doubt she might have said the same to the Authorities of Sherbro, that, to prevent future Out breaks by Gberry, let Matrow become the head Station of that District; Kaukia and Bagoe become surbordinates; or if possible closed up; I believe so far as I am acquainted with that District, if this Matrow become a station it will save us all, and do the Authorities great good. This is quite an advantage taken by Gberry, either because the Colonial Government is very lenient and indulgent. (I mean in comparison with the Imperial) Or is it because the Queen (Betsy Gaye) has no husband who might have assisted her in her administration? I cannot really tell; hence we see that it is quite unnecessary to indulge especially those half civilized people as Gberry & others; is it not the same had almost dragged the late Mr. Laborde into danger when acting as Civil Commandant which if he had gone into, would have found it very difficult for him to get out easily; we hope that the Authorities will now make this Chief to know, that "whosoever thinketh himself to be something whilst he is nothing, he deceiveth himself." Rumour says that Gberry said that he knows of those upon whom he trusted before he is doing all these things; but we do not believe this report. I must stop to see an I hear what will be done toward this Chief who has thus treated the Authorities with contempt.

One word more Mr. Editor, a man a police officer who is to be in charge of a District like the Jong or small Boom Rivers, or to rule out stations must be one who is active and of a good understanding, especially in Native Subtility; but not every body as I used to observe; for there are many of these officers presently who will be blamed for not bringing out such reports in time as will tend to impede the progress of the country wars, should matters be investigated. So we shall and will be very glad that should the Authorities think fit to establish a Station of Police at Matrow, to send a proper Officer who will be in charge of that District. (be he a child or an old man it matters not) One who will always discharge his duty regardless of bribes and fees, note down everything for the information of the Authorities to the punishment of evil doers and praise of them that do well. Thanking you for the space I have occupied.

Yours,
Bonthe, A TRADER.
6th Sept. '87

COOKING FOR THE DEAD.

Dear Mr. Editor,—Instead of christians setting bright and noble examples to the heathens by whom we are surrounded, they often prove by their conduct that they are worse than the heathens. I have a few reasons to offer for writing this article which is as follows: Cooking for the dead is becoming the general practice at Bonthe I believe if the natives has a delight in such superstitions habits as cooking for their dead, those who are christians and have been baptized in the Name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost hold an office in the Church are coommunicants they are people of whom the public in general have high respect, lettered men who can explain the Holy Bible from Genesis to Revalation, who are always pleading God's cause every Sunday afternoon to the Mendies about the second Commandment that they may avoid all these superstitious practices, yet they themselves do not avoid what they often times tell the natives to avoid. And they say when ever they cook for their dead families and invite their friends to the feast that they have provided for the occasion of the superstitious ceremony, their aim and belief is that in the future Good Luck will attend anything they may undertake to do, and they will be guided and caressed by the dead families. Mr Editor, let these superstitious persons read 2 Peter.ii. 13-14. The Century is past, I believe we must try to adopt a new system, so that in time to come the heathen around us may surely proclaim by their own lips that the Lord God Almighty is the true and living God, which we are to worship. Thanking you Mr Editor for space occupied.—Yours truly,

E. LIGHT

Bonthe, Sep, 6, '87.

Dear Mr. Editor,—Permit me through the medium of your valuable Journal to release my mind of the heavy burdens which perhaps by my bringing it out some of your Correspondents might be able to satisfy my curiosity—As one who is concerned in the welfare of every individual, but in consequence of my being poor preventing my rendering such help as I wish to every one feels it is a duty incumbent upon me, to advocate the cause of our poor, yet courageous and hard labouring "Constables" stationed at Sherbro as they cannot help or speak for themselves—from the time I became a resident of Sherbro, seeing the tasks of duty generally performed by our Noble Constables, and how their lives are in danger every day for our sakes, and how they generally suffer with severe cold which terminates the lives of many, moves me to enquire—Why are not necessary provisions made by the Authorities for these people? such as good rain Coats, Blankets, Water-proof Sheet &c. as they are to be up and down the rivers; to which my informant says that it is beyond his judgment. Capt. A. North Daniel when here acting as Civil Commandant for some time in last year—Seeing the daily troubles of our Constables, even on one occasion gave his own rain Coat to a certain Constable as the rain was very heavy that day, as he ordered the Constable on duty; he made arrangement to order out these necessaries for the use of our Constables; but to their sorrow when he removed from this place all his prepositions died away but suffice it for us to say that if he was here a little longer, something would have been done for our Constables. But to my surprise to see that just a few weeks ago about 12 or 14 Police men came from Freetown, passing off to the Sulymah District to meet the Deputy Governor; each of them had a first class rain Coat, Blanket, &c well fitted for the season, and I am told that they were conveying some of the Blankets, Coats &c, for their own near to the Sulymah District on special duty.—Well, what about our own Constables here at Sherbro, who are daily under the rain and cold? Have they no share in the provisions made by our glorious and gracious Queen to all loyal Subjects in her various Services? is it true that the daily tears, cries, and tears of the Constables do not reach the hearts of the Authorities? why so then? I know and I can testify it before Kings and Judges, that our Constables here ought to have these necessaries for their use; from what I observed, if the Authorities here could but only look closely upon the features of each Police Constable they will sure to find the effect of cold in them, they are not so before with that mighty strength to do strong duties as before; cold is converting them every day from Sergeants down to Privates save very few. In the month of July last a Police Corporal was brought down from the Sulymah District sick, had it not been that the mercies of God are over all his creatures, that Corpl might at this time be in the grave through the effect of cold; I hope that our authorities here will kindly turn their attention to the necessary wants of his children, that their daily cry of—"No one careth for my life" may be changed to say when under severe cold and rain —God bless our Commandant. Thanking you Mr Editor for space allowed me.

Yours on behalf of the Constables of Sherbro.
AN ADVOCATE.

Bonthe, 25th Aug. 87.

ADVERTISEMENT SCALE.

(FOR EACH INSERTION.)

A whole page	£1	10	0
A whole column	0	9	0
Half-a-column	0	5	0
One-fourth of a column	0	3	0
One-eighth of a column	0	2	0
Marriage	0	2	6
Birth and death	0	1	6
Domestic servants wanted	0	1	0
Servants wanting situations	0	1	0

Each notice should not exceed 4 lines every additional line or part of a line 4d extra.

If you lose an hour in the morning, you may hunt all day and never find it.

Ims. BRITISH MUSEUM (N.)

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

SEP. 15, 1887.

CORRESPONDENCE.—Again, we are obliged to say something on this rather tender point, but what we say we wish to be understood as we say it. Many persons essay, to write for publication, who in the first place cannot write a legible hand; as for the Rules of composition, they seem never to have had the merest conception, while Grammar is outraged, and the Dictionary is used for the purpose of obtaining big words for the sole purpose of embellishing their Articles; and thus we often have as a result long incoherent masses of words without meaning sent to us with the almost uniform request of:—"Please insert in your next issue," &c., while at the same time only one or two days perhaps remain before the issue referred to must appear from the press, and as a matter of course the paper is made up and the Article, (if we could read it) does not appear, and in a short time we get a note of complaint, which in many cases we have no time to answer. Other parties send us Articles closely written on both sides of the sheet, which is always very bad for us as it cannot be separated and hence only one compositor can work at it at a time, the result is, it is delayed. From the above and many other difficulties articles are consigned to the "Waste Basket" in future; many more will go that way unless there is great improvement on the part of writers.

Dear Bro. Evans,—Just on the eve of starting for our former Station, Kossoh Town or reward? If not, why not? Lodge which we were compelled to quit in the event of the late Wm. Caulker's war, and seek refuge here, a thought came to my mind, and one I think divinely sent (since God rules the hearts of all His creatures) and that is to make an appeal to the people of Bonthe on behalf of our Work at Kossoh Town. It is a known fact that the War Boys overran all the Mission Stations, and did a good deal of havoc. Books were destroyed and other valuables carried away. The large hand bell which among other things were the gifts of the late and much lamented Bishop Glossbrenner was taken away, and this is a sine qua non, as we not only used it at Kossoh Town proper but attached it in attending, so that without one, it would be a hard case. I shall be more than thankful to (yea God will abundantly bless) any one who would volunteer to come to our aid. The bell would have been a good remembrancer of the late Bishop as often as it pealed, calling people to church, school, &c. Who will come? who is on the Lord's side? I leave it with our generous friends at Bonthe to answer.

At Bompchtsook (Otterbein station) the church furniture, consisting of table, benches &c., have all been cleared away, doubtless used for fuel by the war boys when they encamped there.

The late Mr. J. N. Lefevre had regularly supplied gratuitously all the requisites of Otterbein station, but like the dear old Bishop, he also has gone. With no one come forward and say, Let the work go on? Meanwhile awaiting to hear from some of your numerous readers,

I must my adieu—Pray for us.—Yours In Christ, J. A. RICHARDS.

Victoria Rd, Bonthe,
Sept. 7, '87.

Mr. Gomer landed here a few days ago and brought with him a Magic Lantern together with a number of views of our Mission Stations, from the Shaingay, Bomphe and Mendi Mission Districts the Lantern is one of the best English making; the pictures were also prepared there by one of the best Artists from photographs taken here last December by Mr. St. John these views show nearly all the Stations of the Mission the Mission Schools Houses, Farms, etc, etc. The Pictures are very clear and nice.

SERJT. TAYLOR'S MERITORIOUS SERVICES AT SULYMAH.

Dear Mr. Editor,—When your correspondent L. L. E. in your issue of November 1885 wrote of the success achieved by Brad-haw a policeman at Bonthe who would kindly give me all needful and necessary information touching my mission. After having been in your Christian company and a recipient of your hospitality for nearly a fortnight. I am happy to record the fact to day, that I have found in you the man who fully fills the description of a gentleman and Christian Missionary. I hope, sir, you will not think this flattery, because I mean every word I say with all the energy and power of my soul. I here with offer to accord to you the right to act as Agent throughout the entire limit of your wide acquaintance with your unbounded experience in such work to advocate my cause, or rather the cause I have espoused of a self and aiding work in the interest of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and whose fields are white unto the harvest, I am sure you will gladly lend your helping hand, and as circumstances may permit.

I earnestly solicit your and the prayers of your entire congregation as well also as friend of the Church Work, and all well wishers of my onerous enterprise. Yours in christian fellowship.

B. K. M'KEEVER.

Mendi Sailish,
Aug 29th '87

C. R. MISSION HOUSE
Koolongue Station
Shaingay District
8th Sept 1887

Dear Sir,

Though we parted under feelings of some depression, you will nevertheless be pleased to learn that we arrived here in safety at about 1 a. m. The weather was not altogether fine otherwise we would have been here earlier.

Everything is promising and I am big with hopes for good results. Pray for us. Remember us very kindly to Mrs. Rogers and say we had been very delighted and treated in Jesus who is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother.

We humbly trust we shall have the extreme pleasure of seeing either of you here some fine day. The Station occupies a fine sight and for 160 sq acres all round the ground is the Mission's so that we are quite free from the people who are in the town all around. The "Formoso" has just ceased on her way to Freetown. We are so situated that we enjoy fullness of the sea.

Wishing you God's choicest blessings and success in all your undertakings.

With our united kind regards and best wishes to self Mrs Cole and numerous enquirers, especially Mr Rogers.

I am Yours very humbly
J. A. RICHARDS

Dear Sirs—I have your esteemed favor of 8th instant. I am very glad to know that you have safely reached your destine l station "Koolongue"—where it seems to afford you more homely residence than the well-known "Jubilee Cottage"—You have my hearty congratulation.

Really our parting has impressed feelings of deep regret in me prompted from, besides your valuable services and diligence in the discharge of your duties, combined with the recent affection in our friendship, has certainly made the parting depressing and painful. Nevertheless you must have been impressed with my farewell address to you before leaving the office and could see no necessity to repeat its topics. While I sincerely deplore the loss of your service I am pleased to observe that you have secured the service of a Nobler Friend, who is the Prince of the Universe and shall prove Himself more worthy than you most sanguine expectation—For as your faith must have been based on His Commands and promises to His Disciples, you will have no prevailed not to make shipwreck of that faith especially as you have been devoting your entire services to His work. You have the united and grateful thanks of myself and Mrs for good wishes expressed and wishing yourself and Mrs Richards God speed in your field. Kind regards and best wishes.

Yrs. Affectionately C. J. COLE.

Mr. J. A. Richards,
Koolongue Station,
Shaingay District.

Visit to Victoria.

Mr. Editor,—Early one fine morning I left home for the above named place; and the very first object that attracted my attention was very discouraging, filthy, and indecent. The people living a few lots from Serjt. Nelson's the pensioner, make use the entrance of the public path-way that leads to the ferry, for a garden house, and the effluvium rising from this neglected spot, is very injurious, disgusting, and nasty; I would therefore, kindly ask the Sanitary Officer to put a stop to such filthiness.

Second,—The Road is in a very dilapidated condition; swampy, rugged, and awfully bad so much so, that the Assistant Colonial Surgeon could not make frequent calls as usual to the "Small Pox" Asylum at Mocolo.

Third;—The Ferry or Crossing during the ebb tide is dangerous; one must be compelled to do penance (so to speak) by walking on the mud (about four feet deep) to the Ferry canoe; the remaining part is left with the Authorities themselves to picture, how would women appear in such a juncture.

Fourth,—Although the most part of the land from the ferry to Mocolo is owned by a particular individual, yet he would not condescend to cut down some of the overgrown weeds on the Road, but would as falling large trees to obstruct the public highway &c; it is a pen ns to send a child of some twelve years of age alone from Victoria to Bonthe or from the latter to the former place. The road is very very muddy.

I shall be very thankful if the Authorities will call kindly the attention of the Sanitary Officer, specially to these neglected public affairs, for passers this way are dangerously exposed to injury, etc.— FLAVIUS.

Bonthe, Sep. 10, '87.

Quite a number of our prominent Citizens left this place this morning for Freetown per s.s. Formoso.

NEWS ITEMS.

A curious snake of various colours was shot at the residence of Inspector Betts 6 ft. in length.

A large Aligator was caught in a seine by the fishermen in the river, on the 27th ult. measuring about 12 ft. the gills were taken out at the Govt. yard in the presence of the Commandant and Dr. Jarrett and sunk in the river. A smaller one was also caught in the river on the 3rd inst.

Hedlle Street—We note with pleasure that work has been commenced by the Authorities on this thoroughfare and we trust it will be continued until the whole street with its Bridges are put in to proper order.

Nuisance,—is habitually committed in various parts of our Town by filthy persons; especially where ever grass is allowed to grow on the less frequented streets and vacant lots; especially is this the case as one passes out of the town on Victoria road going toward Mocolo, will the Authorities kindly have a look after this matter?

It is rumoured here that Mr. O. J. Thomas who left here in July last for Freetown, has gone to Calcutta.

DROWNED.—Near Bomph took, Shaingay District, Mr. Wellington of Tombo Sierra Leone on Wednesday the 7th inst: the persons who went to his rescue saved his daughter and another man that were in the Boat with him. His remains were buried at M'Bawmah.

Another of the War Boys Captured.—It seems that on the first inst. a man came to Mentchye as the stranger of Bawah Will but was soon Identified as one of the War Boys of William T. G. Caulker and arrested by the Police of Mo'Kibbee and Kawmendi.

Mendi Mission Chapel that has for so many years stood the ravages of time finally came down on the 5th inst. but there was no other Damage, as everything had been removed from the building before it fell. We understand that a New Church is to be erected on the corner of Mission and Victoria Roads near the Mendi Mission School House.

Personal

Mr. C. J. Cole gave us a pleasant call on the 8th he spoke in the highest terms of the efficient services of Mr J. A Richards, who during his short stay in this place, in consequence of the late Shaingay war, has kept Mr Cole's books for him.

Mr. and Mrs J. A. Richards left this place on the 7th inst on their return to their work at Koolongue Station Shaingay Mission, after refuge here of a few months in consequence of the war we wish them great success in their work.

Mrs E. Sumner of this place had a severe fall from the steps of the Mendi Mission house on the 6th inst.

Mrs Mary W. Gomer and Mrs Remmie G. Caulker of Shaingay we understand are not so well the latter suffering from climatic effects perhaps as she is a new comer to this land of shades.

Rev J. C. Thomas left for Freetown per s s. "Formoso" on the 8th inst.

Mrs. Lewis wife of Capt. J. A. Lewis Freetown is expected to return from America about the first of Oct. She was in the best of health at last accounts.

Messrs. R. B. & A. C. Wilson of Kissy left this place today per s. s. Formoso for Freetown, in consequence of the sudden information that reached them of the severe illness of their mother at Kissy.

Mr S. Schmuch sailed from Freetown for England per s. s Volta about 29th ult we wish him a pleasant passage.

Mr F. W. Cole of Mando called on us on the 12th inst he reports all well and quiet save the occasional rumors of war.

Mr F. W. Fewry Called on us on the 30th ult but after we had closed the last Issue.

Mrs L. During of this place has been sometime worse than usual, we understand and some what threatened with blindness during the past week.

Mr D. W. During the aged Catechist of the P. E. Church York Island has been quite unwell recently.

Rev B. K. M'Keever and wife of Cape Mount, Liberia, left this place on the 2nd inst for Lavanah Sulymah District

---

Our Women at the Public Market.

Dear Mr Editor,—Kindly permit me space in the columns of your valuable journal to make the following enquiries:

I.—Is there no law in force which prohibits women plunging themselves into the water at the public wharf for the purpose of having cassada, fish &c., from canoes that lie at anchor at the wharf, thereby exposing themselves to public view and which is a disgrace to the morals?

II.—If so, why do not the Commandant or the Inspector of Police station policemen daily to guard at the Public Market as was done during the administration of Commandants Davis, Walk, Leggie, and Laborde, to prevent such immoral actions?

As I believe the Commandant is not aware of this conduct on the part of our women who are daily exposing themselves at the public wharf, I therefore report the same and trust he will adopt such measures or make a law that will punish all women who may be found acting contrary to that law. Whatever steps are taken by His Worship in the matter, I shall write you again.

Yours, as usual,
AN EYE WITNESS.

Bonthe,
Septr 10, '87.

"WAR RUMOURED AFFAIR."

Dear Mr Editor,—It is constantly reported, that Humpah Rango is bringing war to Koneonany in order to take revenge for the just treatment done him, ere the energetic Corporal Peacock, when he was apprehended and taken to Bonthe, in '83.

On the arrival of Mr. Garrett Sub. Treasurer and Collector, with Mr. Hughes Chief Clerk to Koneonany on the 2th June of the present year, said Humpah Rango was sent for by the above named gentleman to hear from him whether he was bringing war to the District, as was then reported. He stood up and with a show examined that the time for so doing had not yet come, but he would not be careful to receive any future punishment, since he had completed his desire. The time is come Mr. E when Chief Humpah Rango is bringing his long thought of war. Information reached us today, that he sent his Sceptre to the other Chiefs to assemble them at his place, to consult of the war affairs; and his determination is, to destroy the Sierra Leoneans here and around his District, and will care nothing even for the taking of his life. I therefore submit this to our indefatigable Civil Commandant to see, and to take steps at once either to remove or transport the unprincipled Humpah Rango from this District, so that there will be an entire rest in this place 8th Sep. '87. T.N.

Dear Editor,—Some time in the last quarter my father spoke to me to help the blind man who can not read well to the reading work since that time I feel it a great pleasure to do some work for Jesus I always go with Mr. Avery to Mo'Tarsee though where my father appointed me the people are doing well there but two week ago in July when we had heavy rain we were not able to hold services and the third Sunday which was the first Sunday in this month we found the people scattered abroad they forgot that that day was the Sabbath of the Lord; some of the men who understand to hunt when out went and hunting before Mr. Avery and I and there, and when we finished talking to the few whom we met in the town a man came from the bush to report that mammy Tarrah Bondon who went with them was hurt by a deer which instead of running to the place where the net was fixed came leaping toward the people and stepped on her face, made a hole through out and pulled out two of her jaw teeth Mr. Avery told them that was to show them that they must not work on Sunday for every Sabbath breaker must be punished. Last Sunday we found all of them at home they say they will go no more to hunt or to do any work on Sunday I beg you to send me some few Tracts if you have any on Sabbath Breaking to give to some people who can read, for but are Sabbath breakers living in this country?—I am yours obdtly, CHARLEY.

Avery Station,
Aug 17th '87.

A DISOWNED DAUGHTER REINSTATED.

Concluded from page 4.

my father and my mother desert me; do Thou have mercy upon me.

The mother's feelings could not be restrained, and rushing forward she caught her child to her breast, saying: If God for gives you then I forgive you the father followed the example, and forgave her as freely as he himself hoped to be forgiven."

Just Received

and for sale at the

S. M. MISSION STORE.

An assortment of Medicines,

&c, &c, &.

Nerve and Bone Liniment,
Rheumatic & Gout Cure,
Pain Dispeller,
Liver Regulator,
Comp'd Ex't fluid of Buchu,
Chlorodyne Cough cure.
Sarsaparilla,
Iron Tonic Bitters,
Dyspepsia Cure,
Pectoral Wine,
Comp'd Blk-berry Cordial,
Itch Ointment,
Porous Plaster.

Aug 1887.

We beg to inform the public, that from this date the Compagnie du Senegal et de la cote occidental d' Afrique has changed its name to Compagnie Francaise de l' Afrique occidental.

Bonthe, Sherbro,
15th Sept. '87.

Per Compagnie Francaise de l' Afrique occidental.—C. BARTHELME, Agent.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

SEP. 15, 1887.

CORRESPONDENCE. Again, we are obliged to say something on this rather tender point, but what we say we wish to be understood as we say it. Many persons essay to write for publication, who in the first place cannot write a legible hand; as for the Rules of composition they seem never to have had the most at conception, while Grammar is outraged, and the Dictionary is used for the purpose of obtaining big words for the sole purpose of embellishing their Articles; and thus we often have as a result long incoherent masses of words without meaning sent to us with the almost uniform request of "Please insert in your next issue &c., while at the same time only one or two days perhaps remain before the issue referred to must appear from the press, and as a matter of course the paper is made up and the Article, if we could read it) does not appear, and in a short time we get a note of complaint, which in many cases we have no time to answer. Other parties send us Articles closely written on both sides of the sheet, which is always very bad for us as it cannot be separated and hence only one compositor can work at it at a time, the result is, it is delayed. From the above and many other difficulties articles are consigned to the "Waste Basket" in future; many more will go that way unless there is great improvement on the part of writers.

Dear Rev. Evans,—Just on the eve of starting for our former Station, Kent Lodge which we were compelled to quit in the event of the late Wm. Caulker's war, and seek refuge here, a thought came to my mind, and one I think divinely sent rather God rules the hearts of all. The contributed and that is to make an appeal to the people of Bonthe on behalf of our Work at Koolongo. It is known fact that the War Boys overran all the Mission Stations, and did a good deal of havoc. Books were destroyed and other valuables carried away. The large hand bell which among other things were the gifts of the late and much honored Bishop Gloag, however was taken away, and this is a serious loss, as we not only need it at Koolongo proper but attached it to the morning so that without one, it would be hard case. I shall be more than thankful to you God will abundantly repay any one who would volunteer to come to our aid. The bell would have been a good memorial tower of the late Bishop as often as it pealed, calling people to church, school, &c. Who will come? whom in the Lord's side? I leave it with our numerous friends at Bonthe to answer.

At Bompetshoke (Otterbein station) the church furniture, consisting of tables, benches &c., have all been chased away, doubtless used for fuel by the war boys who flew on regardless.

The late Mr. J. A. Leigh had regularly supplied gratuitously all the requisites of Otterbein station, but like the dear old Bishop, he also has gone. We look to one coming forward and we do the work great. Meanwhile awaiting to hear from some of your numerous readers,

I remain,
Yours &c.,
J. A. RICHARDS.

Mr. Gomer landed here a few days ago and brought with him a Magic Lantern together with a number of views of our Mission Stations, from the Shaingay, Bompbe and Mendi Mission Districts the Lantern is one of the best English making the pictures were also prepared there by one of the best Artists from photographs taken here last December by Mr. St. John these views show nearly all the Stations of the Mission the Mission Schools Houses, Farms, etc. etc. The Pictures are very clear and nice.

SERJT. TAYLOR'S MERITORIOUS SERVICES AT SHERBRO.

Bonthe Mr. Editor,—When your correspondent F. E. C. in your issue of No. 7 under date of the 20th ult. closed by Brother Lawrence in censuring the honorables at the end of Mansfield and pointed out to the attention of the Executive Assembly a needful for which a memorial was in appreciation he always to him in order to incite him to persevere in the discharge of his duties, the sum of three pounds was given to him as a gratuity.

After that period I have often observed policemen ringing the bells of the Churches during the Sabbaths to which we were accustomed to hear the ringing of the bells on week days, but now I have observed that the bells are rung on Sundays only. Now may I ask the question why the bells are not rung on week days as they were formerly? Is it because there are no policemen now to ring the bells? Or is it because the Sabbath is the only day in the week that the bells are rung? Or is it because the Sabbath is the only day in the week that the bells are rung? Or is it because the Sabbath is the only day in the week that the bells are rung

ALPHA FACTORY, York Island.

IMPORTANT NOTICE!

Closing up of the Business of THE LATE

WM. MURRAY.

Great Bargains in all descriptions of GOODS, to effect CLEARANCE.

Higher Prices for PRODUCE than any House in Sherbro.

Retail at Wholesale.

Never such a chance again!

The Undersigned respectfully hopes that Merchants and Traders will avail themselves the opportunity offered, herein, to replenish their Stock. He is prepared to deal with them on the most liberal Terms. The whole must be cleared.

GEO. LEACH,
On behalf of the Executors late W. MURRAY.

Jn'88pl5. 6t

J.A. Clemens

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Bookseller, Stationary and Miscellaneous GOODS

ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET

N.B. Removed to upper Ot to Street, opposite the burial ground

Bonthe, Sherbro.

To all to whom it may concern.

We the undersigned, being lawful owners of the LANDS situated and lying on the South Eastern part of Bonthe, on a portion which the well known Farkie called Beah N'Quah is built; hereby beg to inform the Public in general that we have jointly and severally agreed, bargained, sold, legally conveyed to Mr. J. B. Parkinson Merchant of Bonthe all that portion of land lying and situated as above described containing about 39½ Acres of Land. Bounded on the East by Ghundamah Creek on the West by lands covered with brush woods, on the North by Yarneh Creek, and on the South by land covered with brush wood or howsoever otherwise the same may be described or distinguished.

The Public is hereby required to take notice that an action of trespass will be taken against any offender who shall enter into the said lands with the intent of occupying it without the permission of the said J. B. Parkinson, and any person or persons at present having any buildings farms, &c. on the said land, should make arrangement with the said J. B. Parkinson or remove their buildings &c.

BANA LEWIS,
W. T. DOUGLAS,
CAIFAY LANGO.

Bonthe
20th June '87
Jn'88no30. 6t.

S. M Mission STORE.

OPEN AGAIN!

And the undersigned desires to announce once more to the Public that they will find on our SHELVES a carefully selected and well kept Stock of which it is our purpose to increase and refresh continually.

GENERAL MERCHANDIZE

The following are a few of the various ARTICLES to be found in our Store.

Cotton Goods,
Woolen Goods,
Beecham's Pills,
McNeil's Pills,
Do. Exterminator,
Stationery,

Men's Slippers,
" Boots and Shoes.

Watches (Silver Hunting Case.)
Open faced Metal Watches,
Watch Cases (silk-lined).
" Guards
" Glasses
Hurricane lanterns
at Whole sale and Retail &c.

We have also specially Fine Arrowroot, raised on our own Farms, and prepared with great care under our own supervision.

J. A EVANS,—Agent.

Bonthe,
23rd Mar. '87.

A Reformed Carter's Story.

Capt. Hatfield said; "At the close of an evangelistic meeting in a tent, just as the people were going out, a man passed up his card to me, with the request that he might be allowed to speak for a few minutes; and when permission had been given, this is what he said: 'A few years ago I was a poor drunken carter. When I had money in my pocket I squandered it on drink, and consequently was clothed in rags. Indeed, so disreputable had I become that I was ashamed to show myself in the street, even through the week, and on Sunday I hid my head in any corner I could find. Well, one Sunday I was skulking behind a cask, and trying to get some rest without being seen, when I heard singing in the street. I listened and heard the words of that beautiful hymn, "Oh, think of the home over there." There and then I resolved to give myself to Christ, and I asked him to keep me from sin, as well as to pardon my past sin. At once, thank God, I found peace through his precious blood. Next day I felt a great longing to be away from all my old association and haunts, and so I set sail for Liverpool. There I began life again by carrying parcels, etc., but the Lord prospered me, and now I am a contractor, having many horses and carts of my own." Turning to the speaker, he said, 'Tell those who sing the Gospel in the open air not to be discouraged, though they see no immediate outcome from their work. They know not what a wanderer's ear the hymn may fall upon, and hereby awaken in his heart memories which have slept for years, and which may be the means, in God's hands, of bringing salvation to that man's soul."

Christian Conservator.

KEEPING THE PLEDGE.

A boy signed the temperance pledge. His mother said, "Bring the brandy; I want some for these pies."

Davy obeyed. But as he went the thought came to him "Can I a temperance boy, carry a brandy jug?"—hurrying back to the kitchen he said "Mama, I can't carry that Brandy jug I've signed the pledge; but I'll stir the batter while you go."

Without a word, the mother gave into his little hand the spoon and went herself to bring the jug. She felt a strange, choaking sensation in her throat; she walked up those steps with a firm tread, and seized the jug. When she came down the dear little fellow was beating away at the dough. His eyes followed her as she went to the sink and began to empty out the contents of the jug.

"What are you doing, manma!" I'm emptying out the brandy. We'll not have any more in our mince pies." "O mamma! I'm so glad! Then I can eat them too, can't I, mamma?" "Yes, my dear; and mamma will never make any thing again that her dear boy can not eat." "Oh, I'm so glad we're going to have temperance pies!"

Davy fairly danced up and down in the kitchen, as the brandy gurgled into the sink. Don't you think Davy is a real good temperance boy? Then follow his example. Touch not, taste not, handle not the unclean thing.—Conservator.

A Disowned Daughter Reinstated.

Richard Weaver related: On one occasion a lady led me into a room where I saw, at breakfast, thirty young girls all rescued from evil company, and brought to Christ. When the meal was finished, the lady said there was present a girl, the daughter of good and wealthy parents in the city; would I go with her and try and reconcile them? The following morning I went with the girl to her father's house. As the poor girl sat and looked around her at the old familliar room, her heart was broken, and the tears ran down her cheeks. The father and mother entered. 'Good-evening, Mr Weaver,' one said. 'I did not know you knew me I replied. 'Oh, yes; we saw you at some of our meetings.' 'Then perhaps you know who this girl is?' I said 'Yes,' rejoined the mother, to my shame, I do. She is your daughter I answered. Once my daughter, but now I disown her, and will have nothing whatever to do with her. I turned to the father and said, Will you thus cast out your daughter? She has brought enough disgrace on us, he replied, and we will have no more to do with her. The girl fell on her knees and cried, 'O God!'—Concluded on the 3rd Page.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. IV. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, SEPTEMBER 30, 1887. No. 18.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto, deliv'ed in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS,—Communications to Rev J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GOLDER, Shaiwaw, West Africa. Rev. T. WARREN, D.D., Dayton, Ohio, U S A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant,	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Deputy. Coroner,	Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk.	W. Hughes,
2nd. do.	S. W. Adams.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. R. B. Buckner.
Sub Treas. & Col	G. H. Garrett.
Chief Clerk	J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole.
Asst. Examg. Officer Saltpah.	Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May.
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. Bette,
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road Pastor,	Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.
Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street Pastor,	Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope Pastor,	Rev. G. N. Jowett.

STRONG DRINK.

Is raging and Wine is a mocker and yet how strange, that men who wish to live soberly and respectfully, will persist in the use of that which is raging, and so very disquieting that the man who gets under its influence rages in some cases to such an extent as to destroy his own hard earned property. Men who do not wish to be mocked should not persist in the use of a Mocker.

Dear Mr. Editor,—Permit the following observations to appear in the next issue of your valuable paper as they may perhaps tend to assist some of those aspiring to be writers of articles in the Early Dawn.

Various letters which appeared in your last issue were no doubt intended more or less to interest the public but in my opinion they were not prepared with the care or attention which might have been bestowed on them—

I begin with the letter headed "Cooking for the Dead." The writer states —" I have a few reasons to offer, which is as follows,"—" I believe if the natives has a delight" etc.—Apart from the vague and incoherent manner in which the sentences were arranged, the above quotations are glaring errors which are almost inexcusable.

Take the letter of "An Advocate" about the Sherbro Police—An advocate who kind enough to tell the Public that all Captain Daniel's propositions died away on his removal—Let me assume that it was propositions which "An advocate" meant; if so, of what service can this term be in the case, when it is understood that Captain Daniel had simply intended to order out rain coats for the Sherbro Police —At the conclusion of this able letter of "An advocate" you find these words "I hope that our Authorities here will kindly turn their attention to the necessary wants of his children" &c. I should be glad to know the antecedent of the his.—Take the letter of "An eye-witness" about "our women at the public market"—In his querry No. 2. "An eye witness" asks, "Why do not the Commandant or the Inspector station Policemen &c," more care should be exercised by "An eye-witness" in employing the auxiliary verb do with third person singular nominative.

It may be well to note that I am not at all actuated by any spirit of hostility toward any of your correspondents, in calling attention to the above, but simply do so for the purpose of enabling whoever it may concern to prepare with greater care whatever matter they may feel disposed to bring before the public through the medium of the Early Dawn—so that it may not be said that anything in the shape of an article however absurd it may appear will suit the community of Sherbro.

Thanking you for the space granted me. I am Yours truly,

Bonthe, AMICUS.
21st. Sept. '87.

Save Him First.

In one of the great tornadoes in a western town last spring, a school house was blown down, and a great many little children went down under the ruins. Kind, pitying hearts and hands were soon at work trying to release the little suffers. A little girl was pinned down by a heavy beam begged the men who were working to help her out to leave her and save a little boy near by, "cause he's only five years old!" urged the brave little heart! The same spirit moved the noble boy of whom this story is told;

Some years ago there was an accident in a coal-mine near Bittan, in Gloucestershire. Six men were going down into the mine, when the handle of the cart in which they were sitting broke, and they were all killed.

A man and a boy had been clinging to the rope which held the cart, and as the accident happened, they each made a spring, and managed to catch hold of a long iron chain which is always hung down the side of a coal-pit as a guard.

When the people at the top heard of the accident, and found that some one was clinging to the chain, they sent down a man to rescue him. The man himself was securely fastened to the end of a rope which he could tie around the body of the man to be rescued, and then they would both be drawn up together.

He came first to the boy Daniel Harding, and was just going to seize him, when the boy cried, "don't mind me, I can still hold on a little, but Joseph Brown, who is a little lower down, is nearly exhausted; save him first."

So the brave lad hung on patiently or another quarter of an hour, and saved his friend's life at the risk of his son.—Sel

Let Great Organs be played as great organs; let out their power, evoke their passion, their variety and grace. But let all their tones in the Sanctuary be set apart to sacred uses. If the Organist has no religious music in his soul, let him use that of Beethoven, Palestrina, and a hundred others. Prayer and study, reverence for his instruments, a sense of responsibility for his instruments, a sense of responsibility for his opportunity, and thoughts of emulating the holy worship of Heaven are a needed preparation for playing an organ in a Christian Church.

Sel.

Bonthe Sept. '87.

"A coward can fight a battle when he is sure of winning, but it takes a hero to fight a battle when all the chances are against him. This is as true of moral conflicts as of those that are settled with musket and bayonet. When one takes a stand on the side of his conscience, and the great world opposes, scoffs sneers, there is a moral dignity in the act that Angels might covet. But if the conscience has been well formed, and has brought its possessor into harmony with God's truth, he stands not as a defender of a hopeless cause for, in the end, God is always victor. Two things are of importance to us, then first that, we be sure of our standing with God, and second, that we have grace to stand in our lot and place to the end.—The Christian Conservator.

Mr. Editor,

An authentic report has gained circulation in Bonthe to the effect that an old maiden between 30 and 36 has made it a delightful work here to sow dissensions among friends and families where friendly feelings and love had hitherto existed—It will be well for the public to know this 'diligent' maiden in order to guard against her—for she approaches you with a garb of friendship to enable her without difficulty to carry out her machination —Let the weapon of 'boy cotting' be employed by those already victimised against this professed lady in order to cure her of such a pernicious habit—But can't she return to Freetown from whence she came? peradventure she may there be fortunate in getting 'spliced'; as it is said, she is awfully fond of being told about some bachelor intending to advance her with proposals of marriage—At present she is known to be doing nothing save the dreadful work above described. You may hear from me again Mr. Editor. Yours truly,

Bonthe, ANNA.
20th Sept. '87.

A Philosopher being asked to define a quarrel said: It is usually the fermentation of a misunderstanding.

Early Dawn.

"t Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

HERBRO, WEST AFRICA, SEPTEMBER 30, 1887. No. 18.

tor,—Permit the following to appear in the ur valuable paper as ps tend to assist some to be writers of ar- ly Dawn.

which appeared in re no doubt intended interest the public; ion they were not pre- are or attention which bestowed on them;— the letter headed e Dead." The writer a few reasons to offer, rs."—"I believe if the ght" etc.—Apart from nsherent manner in ences were arranged, ons are glaring errors inexcusable.

er of "An Advocate" Police—An advocate h to tell the Public Daniel's propositions his removal—Let me as propositions which meant; if so, of what egun be in the case, erstood that Captain ly intended to order the Sherbro Police ion of this able letter you find these words Authorities here will attention to the ne- his children" &c. I know the antece- —Take the letter of " about "our women rket"—In his querry witness" asks, "Why rnandant or the In- Policemen &c," more xercised by "An eye- loying the auxiliary hird person singular to note that I am not at ny spirit of hostility your correspondents, on to the above, but the purpose of ena- ay concern to prepare whatever matter they to bring before the the medium of the that it may not be g in the shape of an absurd it may appear mmunity of Sherbro, for the space granted I am Yours truly,

AMICUS.

IM FIRST.

the great tornas- estern town last hool house was and a great children went the ruins. Kind, and hands were trying to re- e suffers. A lit pinned down by im begged the re working to help her out to leave her and save a little boy near by, "cause he's only five years old!" urged the brave little heart! The same spirit moved the noble boy of whom this story is told;

Some years ago there was an accident in a coal-mine near Bittan, in Gloucestershire. Six men were going down into the mine, when the handle of the cart in which they were sitting broke, and they were all killed.

A man and a boy had been clinging to the rope which held the cart, and as the accident happened, they each made a spring, and managed to catch hold of a long iron chain which is always hung down the side of a coal-pit as a guard.

When the people at the top heard of the accident, and found that some one was clinging to the chain, they sent down a man to rescue him. The man himself was securely fastened to the end of a rope which he could tie around the body of the man to be rescued, and then they would both be drawn up together.

He came first to the boy Daniel Harding, and was just going to seize him, when the boy cried, "don't mind me, I can still hold on a little, but Joseph Brown, who is a little lower down, is nearly exhausted; save him first."

So the brave lad hung on patiently or another quarter of an hour, and saved his friend's life at the risk of his son.—Sel

Let Great Organs be played as great organs; let out their power, evoke their passion, their variety and grace. But let all their tones in the Sanctuary be set apart to sacred uses. If the Organist has no religious music in his soul, let him use that of Beethoven, Palestrina, and a hundred others. Prayer and study, reverence for his instruments, a sense of responsibility for his instruments, a sense of responsibility for his opportunity, and thoughts of emulating the holy worship of Heaven are a needed preparation for playing an organ in a Christian Church.

Sel.

Bonthe Sept. '87.

"A coward can fight a battle when he is sure of winning, but it takes a hero to fight a battle when all the chances are against him. This is as true of moral conflicts as of those that are settled with musket and bayonet. When one takes a stand on the side of his conscience, and the great world opposes, scoffs sneers, there is a moral dignity in the act that Angels might covet. But if the conscience has been well formed, and has brought its possessor into harmony with God's truth, he stands not as a defender of a hopeless cause for, in the end, God is always victor. Two things are of importance to us, then first that, we be sure of our standing with God, and second, that we have grace to stand in our lot and place to the end.—The Christian Conservator.

Mr. Editor,

An authentic report has gained circulation in Bonthe to the effect that an old maiden between 30 and 36 has made it a delightful work here to sow dissensions among friends and families where friendly feelings and love had hitherto existed—It will be well for the public to know this 'diligent' maiden in order to guard against her—for she approaches you with a garb of friendship to enable her without difficulty to carry out her machination—Let the weapon of 'boy cotting' be employed by those already victimised against this professed lady in order to cure her of such a pernicious habit—But can't she return to Freetown from whence she came! peradventure she may there be fortunate in getting 'spliced'; as it is said, she is awfully fond of being told about some bachelor intending to advance her with proposals of marriage—At present she is known to be doing nothing save the dreadful work above described. You may hear from me again Mr. Editor. Yours truly,

Bonthe, ANNA.

20th Sept. '87.

A Philosopher being asked to define a quarrel said: It is usually the fermentation of a misunderstanding.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Sep. 30, 1887.

SHERBRO TRADE.

From what we can gather from Merchants, Traders and others, it would seem that the year 1887, so far has been one more of promises, or perhaps delusions, in the line of Trade than otherwise: for at different times before the year came in and also during the earlier and especially the dull months of February, March and April almost every one seemed hopeful of a brisk Trade, when the season should arrive for it, and in fact there was every prospect of such a revival of business as there was then little or no disturbance in the rivers to interfere with the Trade, even the Sulymah outbreak did not seem, but of momentary effect upon Sherbro proper; for while the Gallinas country is productive, yet Sherbro has other productive Districts that yield largely, so that after the first alarm of war in the Kittam had subsided, no one here seemed to feel much concerned for its effect on the General Trade for the present year; yet of course some were apprehensive of a general disturbance of the rivers by other wars, in consequence of the tardiness of the Government in handling the Sulymah Affairs. But to be brief, what was expected in the way of war came, but not just in the way it was anticipated; however it helped to blight the prospects, and really did affect the Trade, but not nearly so much as the bad management of the leading Houses in Sherbro, which or whose managers conceived the idea of the reduction of the prices of produce, especially Palm Kernels our principal staple from 4s. to 3s. 6d. against Merchandise while palm oil was held at the nominal (we may say) value of 9d. or less per Imperial Gallon. The intention of this measure can only be justified in the light of its being taken to retrieve past losses, but was nevertheless a blunder which lost, to a great measure, the whole of the best season for trade; as we understand that as soon as the news of the reduction in price of Palm Kernels reached the rivers, the chiefs refused to remove the purroh from off the Palm Trees, so that the produce could not be gathered the result of which was that our great as well as Small Houses after all their trouble to lay in a stock for a large trade waited in vain for it to come. And we were informed by the Agent of one large Establishment that instead of making a profit of at least £500 during the Trade Season that the House had lost £800 in current expenses that trade would not cover, thus running short Thirteen Hundred Pounds of their lowest estimate and more than Two Thousand Pounds short of what their profits should have been. Another trouble with our trade is that there has been too much (especially Manchester) Goods thrown on this Coast Market in the last few years and hence there has not only been a sharp competition and low prices (yes ruinous prices) but a good deal of stuff that perhaps, cannot be sold at any price and is only of consequence as stock on hand. Some trouble has arisen no doubt out of the fact of some traders venturing too far up the rivers with large quantities of goods especially since native Chiefs of late have so little power over their subjects and less control over the bands of robbers; which they employ for even their own protection; as these may at times rob the Traders under the protection of their employers. But what to us seems necessary for the success of our Sherbro Trade is first of all better protection from the Government with less duty. Second that Merchants and Traders study their business more carefully of which we hope to speak again.

WHICH IS THE BEST?

But it is not in this way that a prominent gentleman put the question to us a few weeks ago; neither is it the way men usually put it. For they usually say as the gentleman above referred to, "Which is the worst?" to have the War Boys from the Interior, come down whenever it suits their convenience and join the Reprobate sons of Belial such as William T. G. Thomas Kobah, and Richard C. B. Caulker, in their work of murdering and robbing peaceable British Subjects of their hard earned property in order that the hordes of the Mendi War-boys may revel in a war-dance, while the bleeding victims of slaughtered infants, lie along the war path and bereaved mothers are subjected to the most brutal treatment by Demons incarnate. Which is the best? for the British Government to allow such horrid acts to be perpetrated on helpless subjects or to take up arms against the wretches who would dare to molest the subjects of Her Majesty's protection? This is the question of today that demands a solution or answer at the hands of the Imperial Government.

THE RAINS—seem to hang on this time at the last end, at least about the harbor here, and in the Delta of the Gbargroo, as they begun pretty early, it would seem that we are to have "the early and the latter rains" which in some way, may be a blessing, but to our present limited understanding of matters seems somewhat to the reverse.

THE WAGES OF SIN.

"It is noted as an interesting fact" by some one "that the Wages of sin have not been cut down to any perceptible extent." And it has suggested to us the thought, that perhaps this is the reason why so many people continue to work for the wages of sin for although during the famous Rev. James Johnson's meetings in and about Sherbro; many persons made professions of their follies, and labors or indulgence in sin. And promised immediate reformation from their sins and that they would labor no longer "for that which satisfieth not." But alas for their promises! and that strike in the Devil's workshop, for they have since turned to, and most of them are at work in greater earnest than ever for the wages of sin. Is it not because there has been no cutting down in the pay? But reader remember, the solemn and awful fact; that however pleasurable are the ways of sin yet the wages thereof are death and "the soul that sineth it shall die."

"MARRIAGE IS HONORABLE."—is we believe, the language of divine Inspiration, and certainly must be true; as almost every one esteems it a fortunate thing to become united to a better half. But why is it so many of our young men remain unmarried? even the famous 'Gracchi' that essayed about a year ago, to write on the evils of Early Marriage &c., did not succeed in making this quite plain to us. Will some one answer?

Dear Mr. Editor,

Permit me just a little space to speak a word of what I think a real necessity in this our community. Although I am a busy body in the matter, but as those who should speak and perhaps who may derive the benefit should the attempt meet with success, cannot speak but go on talking, and suggesting it to themselves without moving in the proper channel, but poking their heads to those things that do not concern them. I therefore say it, having also the assurance that it is evident despite what people may say should I conscientiously perform this duty, no failure in the attempt to which it is directed can produce disgrace.

Among the three Ecclesiastical Departments here namely the N.P. the W.M. and the U.B.G., two are amply and better provided with staff of directors. The first can boast of a pastor, a resident catechist and three adjacent ones. The last can boast of Supt. and a Pastor, besides others performing Missionary operations in the out stations. In the other, there is only a pastor and a catechist who is stationed far away at Mo-Moseler in the Gambia bush; so that in case of emergency while the others are ready at hand with ample supply, the other is left to the mercy of an ordinary School-Teacher.

Although the parson is an energetic labouring man and one who has performed satisfactorily his duty so far as duty is concerned, and who has endeavored to undertake solely the management of the Circuit for the past seven years and that in an efficient manner, for a single man; yet there are times when the need of an assistant is absolutely necessary. For instance in case of illness there ought to be one at hand ready to carry on the work, or at times when periodical visits are being made to attend the Annual District Meetings there should be a responsible assistant to carry on the work. It is a surprising fact that during these so many years there has been nothing in the shape of such an assistant, and the pastor has been left to struggle alone. The School teacher after performing his ordinary duties must prepare for these emergencies whenever they do occur.

It is time that this necessity be seen into, by our supporting brethren for it may not be their privilege always to be blessed with an efficient School master such as the present one. We generally pity the condition of the Rev. Gentleman after the delivery of some elaborate discourse, specially after administering the Sacrament, to prepare again for the evening. Cannot then some help be given to serve as relief after so many years of continual toilings? Because a man proves to be useful and willing to perform faithfully his duty does that show that he must have no relaxation? If an ass be over worked it will soon get weak and die, therefore if the pastor proves worthy of his charge he ought to have some sort of encouragement in the shape of a Catechist.

I trust Mr. Ed. I will not be censured for bringing this out. The H.C. may not know the nature of things and our friends are not frank enough to see about such things as tend to their welfare but such as do not concern them. Thanking you for the space thus occupied.

Yrs. Truly,

Bonthe, CONSCIENCE.

21 Sept. '87.

NEWS ITEMS.

BURNED AT SEA.—s.s. City of Montreal we learn from Foreign papers was consumed by fire in Midocean recently, thirteen lives lost, the others over 200 in all, were rescued by a passing Steamer that was attracted to them by the flames of the burning Vessel.

Rumor has it that there are some rather strange cases in the Court here but we understand they go over to next week.

Personal

Mr E. A Lewis called on us after his return from the Manoh Gbargroo on the 16th inst.

Mrs. Rebecca Humphrey left for Shaingay per s. s. Formoso on the 15th inst; but we learn since that she was obliged to pass on to Freetown.

Mr. A. P. Doomahbey was in this place he left also the 15th inst for Shaingay via Mando and Kookoange by private boat.

Mr. G. A. Domingo a witness in the Thos Kogbah Caulker case left this place for Freetown per s. s. Formoso on the 15th inst.

Rev. J. C. Thomas pastor of the Wesleyan Church in this place returned from Freetown on the 20th per s. s. Formoso.

Rev. R. C. Taylor of Mando arrived here from his Station on the 20th inst and left here on the 22nd on leave to visit his mother who was ill at Waterloo.

Rev. S. B. Morrison of Avery Station who arrived here on the 21st inst returned to the Gbargroo on the 22nd.

Mr J. A. Cookson gave us a pleasant call on the 24th as he was passing from Bembeh-alloh to his Factory at Maniah in the small Boom. Mr C. was looking well; and was hopeful of a fair trade in palm kernels.

Bishop D. K. Flickinger, D.D. —At our latest advices, was at Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A.; he was, we believe, enjoying usual health and much interested in the Affairs of our Foreign Missions; having already heard of the late War in Shaingay District, was glad to know that the leaders had been captured.

Rev. J. M. Lesher, who has lately returned to the United States after a season of labor in Africa and another in Germany, has been appointed to Lecture on Africa and Germany.

Rev. W. S. Sage and wife, are, we learn busy preparing for their return to Africa.

Mr. J. H. Hemmingway Agt. of Pelam Trading Company who arrived here on the 27th inst, from Lavanah gave us a pleasant call on the 28th and proceeded to Freetown per s. s "Fomoso" on 29th inst.

Mr. Henry Titherington of Lavanah Factory arrived here we understand about the 27th inst.

D. Macmillan, & Theophilus Thompson (police constables) and Humpah who were sent to Freetown for the murder of one Tuah Cambo, and which we published in our issue of July 30 were acquitted at the September sessions, they arrived here by the "Formoso" on the 27th inst. The 2 policemen are reinstated to their work.

Mr. Rose who was sent to Freetown for House burning was convicted at the September session and sentenced to one month imprisonment.

Mr. Editor,

On the afternoon of Sunday the 25th July arrived at Sulymah G. H. Garrett Esq. Sub Treasurer and Collector of Sherbro as Officer in charge of the Sulymah District. His arrival was pleasing to the distressed Chiefs and natives of that District, as it was in a time when his presence was needed.

On the 2nd of August he visited Denbe ten miles distant from Sulymah where he heard that the war-boys of Barwah intend crossing over to. The gate of this town was not closed as it was raining and no one was outside the fence, to give the report. The Officer's arrival in this town was unexpected; he called for the Chief, who, with dread came out and shook hands with him, after which he bid himself, and came out later on with number of armed men, but even these were filled with fear. Leaving Denbe he called at Gbehfehoun and the usual respect was paid him, and the natives were sorry that he was not at Sulymah after the war parties had committed their raid and were at Manroe.

Mr. Garrett's presence in the Sulymah District is looked upon by all, as the presence of Captain Edmund Peel.

On the morning of the 19th Aug., Mr. Garrett by the order of the Deputy Governor left for Largo to demand the prisoners taken from the Jurisdiction by Mackish's war party and arrived there on the 23rd. Largo the strong-hold of Mackish and seat of inhuman actions consists of nine towns, four strongly fenced, and five unfenced.

Arriving at the first town, the gates were shut till after sometime he was directed to another town where Mackish was; the gates of this town were closed, and his appearance with his escorts were reported to Mackish who sent to know the number of his party and guns: when he knew this, the gate was opened and Mr. Garrett with party were conducted to the Barray. Almost immediately Mackish with a large number of armed men, (many of whom shook hands with our Officer,) gave him a war palaver, but it was not entertained by the fearless Officer and there was a disperse.

Shortly after Mackish visited Mr. Garrett in the house he was staying to know the purport of his visit. The usual "konance" was made by the courageous Officer, viz:—that he was sent by the Governor for an explanation why his (Mackish's) war was carried into the Gallinas and British limits, and that the prisoners caught should be delivered up.

In reply he said, he was sent by Chief Mormoh Kie Kie, but that he has only a prisoner Issh Fox by name an educated countryman, although there were recognised numbers of women amongst them. Mimah Darbah of Lawanah a village on the left of the Sulymah Beach. So far the conference ceases till later on; Mackish in a very haughty manner, said, "that if Bocarry Governor is not given up to him, he will not not deliver any prisoner, if even the Governor comes and cut his throat" after this he left the room quite excited.

Some of the prisoners ran in to our Officer the evening and begged that he would obtain their release, amongst them a woman, who with tears in her eyes, reported that they had killed her baby "miserable dicta," it being a bother to them, and her son had been sold. It was heart-rending to the officer but he had no alternative (to adhere to his instructions) than "to soothe their sorrowing breasts by words." The Police Constables under the intrepid Corporal Jacob. B. Johnson were quite ready for whatever would be, and though only nine in number were quite fearless, and they entered into the town with such airs as to cause terror amongst the war-boys of Mackish.

We hope Mr Garrett may be permanently appointed to the District. As he seems from his acuteness, as well as acquaintance with native customs to be the right man in the right place.

VERITAS.

Messrs C. J. Cole Kittel Corporal J. W. Nicol and J. D. Macauley arrived per s. s. Formoso on the 27th inst.

Mr Sol. B. Trinity of Korankor Factory (F. & R.) arrived here on the 16th instant.

Mr Editor.—As a member of the Wesleyan connexion in this place and one who takes an interest in our mission work; may I be allowed to ask the following pertinent questions which had long been in my mind and I believe in the minds of the other members of the Church.

I. Why is it that no resident Catechist is appointed to replace Mr Macauley who has been transferred to Mo-Moseley or is there no necessity for one?

II. If there is a necessity (as undoubtedly there is) considering that the indefatigable pastor has often had occasion to be absent from the Station on duty. Why then do not the Trustees of the Church petition the General Superintendent for a Catechist to assist the pastor in his multifarious duties.

III. Is it for want of an efficient person to perform the duties that prevents the Trustees from applying for one?

IV. Why is it that the General Superintendent did not put in his appearance per the s. s. "Formoso" which arrived here on the 20th inst although Mr Wilhelm (who had charge of the district during the unavoidable absence of the pastor to Freetown) had announced to the congregation at the service on Sunday 18th that the Rev gentleman would be here on the 20th inst. Mr. Editor, it is a pity that the Supt did not arrive by the steamer last as there are some irregularities and disorder in our Church which his presence only could set to right. I am afraid that if the Supt do not come over in time to set matters to right, the Church will lose. I hope some concerned will kindly answer the above questions. —A WESLEYAN MEMBER.

Bonthe Sept 24 '87

LOOK LONG TO JESUS.

Take a good look at Jesus as often as you can. You expect soon to behold him in open vision, but they who look most to him here will see most glory in him hereafter. In heaven some will see far deeper into Christ than others. The deeper you see into his grace now, the deeper will you see into his glory then, for glory is measured by grace.

Linger at the place of sacred prayer. If you do not know just what to pray about, look to Jesus for him to give you a prayer. Look to him for your prayer and your faith. After you have opened all your heart to him take time to linger for his answer, to listen for marching orders; and should he choose not to speak, trust him just the same and take time to adore him. Go away from your closet with the clear image of Jesus hanging in your mind.—Sel.

An advantage to all,

FRIENDS

residing here and in the Rivers, requiring the loan of MONEY, will loose no time in applying to who is ready to advance from 10s. to 100s., at a time on good Securities. Further particulars will be given on application.

D.L. COLLIER,

Bonthe, Sherbro,
22nd. Sept. '87.

MARRIED.—At Flicking-er Chapel, Shaingay Mission,

Matthew Augustus Tilly

to AGNES LUCRETIA DAVIS,

on Sunday September 18th, 1887.—Distant friends will please accept this intimation.

A Quilt for Africa was recently donated by Mrs. Mary E. Ross Miss. Ida Reger and Miss. Jennie Butcher of Parkersburg Conference at Buchanon District Institute. The quilt was sold for £2. 1. 8. and now the money and quilt both come to Africa. May heaven Bless the donors.

J.A. Clemens

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Bookseller, Stationary and Miscellaneous GOODS

ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET

N.B. Removed to upper Otto Street, opposite the burial ground

Bonthe, Sherbro.

Just Received

and for sale at the

S. M. MISSION STORE.

An assortment of Medicines, &c, &c, &.

Nerve and Bone Liniment, Rheumatic & Gout Cure, Pain Dispeller, Liver Regulator, Comp'd Ex't fluid of Buchu, Chlorodyne Cough cure. Sarsaparilla, Iron Tonic Bitters, Dyspepsia Cure, Pectoral Wine, Comp'd Blk-berry Cordial, Itch Ointment, Porous Plaster.

Aug 1887.

ADVERTISEMENT SCALE.

(FOR EACH INSERTION.)

A whole page	£1	10	0
A whole column	0	9	0
Half-a-column	0	5	0
One-fourth of a column	0	3	0
One-eighth of a column	0	2	0
Marriage	0	2	6
Birth and death	0	1	6
Domestic servants wanted	0	1	0
Servants wanting situations	0	1	0

Each notice should not exceed 4 lines every additional line or part of a line 4d extra.

To all to whom it may concern.

We the undersigned, being lawful owners of the LANDS situated and lying on the South Eastern part of Bonthe, on a portion which the well known Farkie called Beah N'Quah is built; hereby beg to inform the Public in general that we have jointly and severally agreed, bargained, sold, legally conveyed to Mr. J. B. Parkinson Merchant of Bonthe all that portion of land lying and situated as above described containing about 39¼ Acres of Land.—Bounded on the East by Ghundamah Creek on the West by lands covered with brush woods, on the North by Yarneh Creek, and on the South by land covered with brush wood or howsoever otherwise the same may be described or distinguished.

The Public is hereby required to take notice that an action of trespass will be taken against any offender who shall enter into the said lands with the intent of occupying it without the permission of the said J. B. Parkinson, and any person or persons at present having any buildings, farms, &c. on the said lands, should make arrangement with the said J B. Parkinson or remove their buildings &c.

BANA LEWIS,
W. T. DOUGLAS.
CAIFAY LANGO.

Bont he
20th June '87
JlySept.30 6t.

S. M Mission STORE.

OPEN AGAIN!

And the undersigned desires to announce once more to the Public that they will find on our SHELVES a carefully selected and well kept Stock of which it is our purpose to increase and refresh continually.

GENERAL MERCHANDIZE

The following are a few of the various ARTICLES to be found in our Stores.

Cotton Goods,
Woolen Goods,
Beecham's Pills,
McNeil's Pills,
Do. Exterminator,
Stationery,

Men's Slippers,
" Boots and Shoes.

Watches (Silver Hunting Case.)
Open faced Metal Watches,
Watch Cases (silk-lined).
" Guards
" Glasses
Hurricane lanterns
at Whole sale and Retail &c.

We have also specially Fine Arrowroot, raised on our own Farms, and prepared with great care under our own supervision.

J. A EVANS,—Agent.

Bonthe,
23rd Mar. '87

WE beg to inform the public, that from this date the Compagnie du Senegal et de la cote occidentale d'Afrique has changed its name to Compagnie Francaise de l' Afrique occidentale

For Compagnie Francaise de l' Afrique occidentale

C. BARTHELME,—Agent.

Bonthe, Sherbro, 15th Sept. '87.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—Since our last report has advanced from 30s. to 40s. per ton and is today very firm.

Lagos					£21	0	0
Operta					20	0	0
Old Calabar, Bonny, Opobo and Cameroon	£19	10	to		19	15	0
Whydah	19	5	0	to	19	10	0
Benin					19	0	0
Brass, Niger, & New Calabar, Fernando Po, Accra, Addah Quittah, Prampram Popo Loanda.	£18	12	6	to	18	15	0
Congo, Sherbro, Sierra Leone, Half Jack, Grand Bassam.					18	0	0
Salt Pond, Appam, Chamah Anamaboe					17	5	0
Dixcove, Elmina and Liberian					17	0	0

PALM KERNELS—In demand at an advance of 5s. to 20s. per ton.

Lagos, Old Calabar, Bonny, and Camerouns.					£10	10	0
Brass and Benin					10	7	6
Congo and Loanda					10	5	0
Sherbro, Sierra Leone, Liberian, Adda and Quittuh.	£9	17	6	to	10	0	0
Saltpond, Appam and Winnebah	8	7	6	to	9	15	0

GROUND NUTS—No change.
COPRA—£12 to £14 as in quality.
BENISEED—Sales 32s. to 43s 6d. per 384 lbs.
COFFEE—79s. to 80s. for South Coast.
75s. to 76s. for Liberian.

COCOA—Very quiet.

INDIA RUBBER—We can report no improvement, 15 tons Accra sold at 8¼d.

Fair to Prime Gambia Niggers	2s.	0d	to	2s.	2d.
Do. do Sierra Leone	1s.	9d.	to	1s.	10d.
Do. do. do Flat	1s.	4d.	to	1s.	6d.
Thimbles	1s.	9½d.	to	1s	10d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s.	6d.	to	1s.	7½d.
Hard Cape Coast and Assinie	1s.	3d.	to	1s.	7d.
Liberian and Manoh	1s.	2d.	to	1s.	7d.
Flake and Lumps.		9½d	to		10½d
Ordinary Accra and Saltpond		8d.	to		10d.

BEESWAX—Sales £4 17 6 to £5 for Gambia; £4 5 for Sierra Leone.
GINGER—Neglected value 18s. to 20s. per cwt.
CHILLIES—Difficult of sale.
GUINEA GRAINS—16s.
CALABAR BEANS—4½d. to 6d., as in quality.
EBONY—No further sales.
CAMWOOD—£16 to £22, as in quality.
BARWOOD—Wanted, none here.
GUM—Sierra Leone; 3½d. to 9d. per lb. Accra, 30s. to 40s. per cwt.
MONKEY SKINS.—No change.

EDWARD BROTHERS.

Liverpool,
Sept. 2nd., 1887.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. IV. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA. OCTOBER 15, 1887. No. 19

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

C. M. S. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto delivered in Bonthe,	0	2	6

Address, Communications to Rev J. A. Evans, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, West Africa.

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gurney, Rhotanga, West Africa. Rev. J. Weaver, 14 Dr. Dreams, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.

DIRECTORY.

Commandant	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner	The Commandant
Deputy Co-roner	Wm. Hughes
Chief Clerk	W. Hughes
Police Sergeant	S. W. Adger
Interpreter	J. D. Rogers
Store Keeper & Pay Master	E. H. Hooper
Police Clerk	J. D. Nicholls
Tide Waiters	J. S. Cranes, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole
Asst Frontier Officer Sulliah	Jasper Caulker
Assistant Col. Surgeon	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Telegraph	Rowland May.
Postmaster	H. R. Williams
Inspector of Police	M. Betts,
Gaoler	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads	A. C. E. Walker

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Rev. G. M. Nicol, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.)
Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett

There is no death in the land to which we journey. Here the flowers fade, and lilies decay, and the grass withers, and our loved ones die in our arms. Not so yonder. There it is eternal spring-time, and love is always full hearted and full handed. To reach that good land, we must die; but that comes only once. With many of our loved ones it is now past. With many others the bitterness of death is past, for sin has lost its power. Eternal gates of bliss open on the portals of death to grace Christ.—Sel.

THE PROBLEM OF MISSIONS.

Is one of great importance, probably now, of the greatest, not only to home Churches and Missionary Boards, as regards the Foreign work. But the Foreign Church and the Home Missions as relates to the support of their earlier operations, when the work is unavoidably slow, in consequence of the obstacles in the way of its early progress: it often appears easy for the Home Boards to make ample appropriations for the support of the work; and too often no doubt the sufficiency of means thus supplied to the Home Church in the way of support which really ought to begin with the earliest advent to the christian faith; the first converts should it seems however poor, be taught the duty of giving, as much as the duty of praying, for it is a fact that men can be more easily taught to pray than to pay and more than that it seems, possible that many a missionary's prayer for christians will come short of the glory of God by not paying in their alms to the support of his cause than by failing to say their prayers; hence it seems the imperative duty of christian missionaries to early bring this duty before their converts and adherents for religious growth in them. But when we consider that the work of christian missions embraces the idea of converting the world and since only a small portion of it has as yet been brought under the saving influence of the faith of Christ; and that the need of money is one of the great impediments to the furtherance of the mission work? It becomes doubly important for financial reasons that all churches, at home or abroad, as Missions, domestic or foreign, should make paying as well as praying converts. If such a work of reform can be effected, then we shall see long be able to see the world filled with the light of the gospel, emanating from the true light of living missions. I admit that possibly, the new idea may require the complete investing of all the present property, in the operation of most foreign and many home missions: but as the present demands, especially of the latter, in most of those Churches operating in foreign lands, are enlarging more rapidly than the means of support; the necessity is upon us to solve the problem of Missions, as to how they are to be supported and enlarged in the future so as to accomplish the end for which they are designed—i.e the conversion of the world to Christ, more again.—J.A.E.

WHY IS IT SO?

Mr Ed.—I am rather curious to know the reason of some things, which I have observed in this as well as some other communities in West Africa. One of the things to which I refer, is the seeming lack of confidence, which the people exhibit towards each other; it appears to be very hard for one man or woman to put confidence, to a very great extent, in another; when I so speak I mean full confidence so as to place in their hands the directing of their affairs for them in a confidential way; of course I am aware that at times you will see young men and old men too, managing business of importance for perhaps, in some cases from the proprietors. But after all when you come to investigate the matter closely it is rather what necessity compels, than what the proprietors desire. At one time I supposed that this lack of confidence existed only among Sierra Leoneans, and supposed it to arise out of the circumstance of different tribes or their descendants dwelling together in one country, but still feeling such estranged from the fact of having descended from tribes who possibly in the times past had been at variance with each other. But when I have observed that natives of the same country even when dwelling in their own country and among their own people exhibit the same lack of confidence in each other, I am led to think there must be some other cause for such a thing. There again Europeans too, seem to lack confidence in each other; as I have often heard them express their doubts of each other, and one said to the writer not long since that he could not put confidence in Europeans out here, intimating that they were changed by the place. And I have wondered why it is so. Is it a result of the climate? Another thing that has struck me very forcibly, is Why is it every body almost wants to trade? I know there are among us a few Artizans, Preachers, and School Teachers; some needle women and dress makers. But would it not be easier, to convert most of them to be traders, than it would be to convert a pagan to christianity? my reasons for thinking so is that wherever you go you will find some one trying to trade, to sell something for gain, from a large stock of general Merchandise down to a half penny worth of salt. Passing along the streets of Bonthe and York Island one is led to wonder, not so much who there is to buy, but what the vendors can expect to gain by the sale of their scanty stock and why is it so with them that they rather depend upon the precarious profits on a few paltry wares, than to seek the more certain returns of honest daily labour; I have known them to leave an employment of from one to two and even three pounds per month and go to trading in the country on a few pounds of borrowed Capital, and spend months in exchanging their goods for produce which would not sell for so much as the monthly pay they would have received for the same time had they remained under employment and yet after repeated experiences of this kind many still continue to follow on in the same course More again.

Yours, E. J. BETAL.

Bonthe Oct. 4th '87.

TO HANG AFTER 37 YEARS

The condemned man, who was convicted, found guilty, and sentenced to death at the Carlton Assizes, for the murder of Mr. Cumming, Gr., in 1860, but which was prevented by the escape of the prisoner, will probably occur after twenty seven years. Not one of the jury, which found the original verdict is alive.

One of the most prominent citizens of the county in 1858 was Claborn Vaughn. While riding out to his home of eight he was murdered. Two men were returning to town from the same road, and coming upon Vaughn's horse, recognized it, and, dismounting, found the body of the murdered man. They then proceeded to town and informed the people of what they had seen. Suspicion pointed to the murderers, and they were Jake Pettyjohn, Jesse Freeland, L. Q. C. McGinnis, William Brannan and a younger brother of McGinnis. They brought strong influence to bear, and it was not until 1860 that they were placed on trial. They were convicted and three sentenced to death, and two to life imprisonment.

Freeland was hanged in Sep. 1860, Pettyjohn and McGinnis having escaped in the same time McGinnis was captured and hanged in May, 1861, while Pettyjohn could not be found. Madison Jamison, of this county, took a great interest in prosecuting the case. Last summer his son John concluded to make his home in Indian Territory. Subsequently the young man surprised his father by writing to him that one of his neighbours was Pettyjohn who was wanted here. The necessary investigation was made and the Sheriff has gone out to bring the murderer back.—Sel

"I beg you pardon, madam" said a gentleman, lifting his hat politely to a richly dressed woman on the street, "but your face is strangely familiar to me. I am sure that I have met you before." "I'm Mother Jones," replied the richly dressed woman, "an' I'm shure that knows ye. Ol'm your cook."

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Oct. 15, 1887.

SHERBRO TRADE.

In our last we alluded to the delusions which have attended the prospects of the Trade here, especially during the present year, and are obliged to speak again on the same point; for scarcely had our last gone forth upon the streets than we heard it intimated and even expressed by one or more parties that they had bought more oil than usual and perhaps for years and that one of our large houses was receiving more oil than last year and hence the party with whom we had our interview seemed to feel assured that our trade was more brisk than for years past. The delusion in this as well as many other like cases, arises out of the fact perhaps, that we are too easily elated too many of us see a good load or two being landed at some wharf or a number of people flocking to some house or shop and at once we are elated and begin to feel that Trade is reviving without taking time to think of what it has required in out-lay to bring about this momentary brightness or that customers have become roving in their natures that they are not at all steady in their patronage but go from place to place. Now here and again they are some where else like Eagles they gather where the most accessable carcase is to be found; as a rule men, but especially women, trade most where they owe the least. And are even on the lookout for a new place to try their hand and when a way is once opened, many there will always be to go in thereat. Another noticable fact, connected with our present trade is its comparative smallness. Selling in such dribbs occupies time, exposes to waste and retains stock too long; it is indeed remarkable how busy nearly half a dozen shopkeepers can be kept all day selling less than Fifty shillings worth this must be delusive to the looker on, it certainly must look like business to see men busy in a business place. Retailing is very deceptive in our trade, not only is there waste in handling the articles, but there is greater waste in the weighing and measuring by the majority of clerks which eats up the profits in a large measure without being observed by the proprietors. We are aware that some will feel that they have but a small interest in the retailing department and that it is a mere appendage to the larger houses but it should be borne in mind that the larger dealer depends on the smaller and that however large stocks may be, before they can be consumed they must be resolved into small lots and retailed out to consumers by some one. It is after all the small Foxes that spoil vines; the little leaks that sink the ship. We are busy at times but to what profit? when we sum up the year who will be able to show a large dividend unless it be in old store worn Merchandise or half rotten Canoes building &c. But we refrain from further on delusions in our trade, to take a more healthful view of Sherbro business, which we verily believe can be made really profitable And it is by the means suggested in our last issue. First of better protection by the Government and less duty. By this is not meant a larger, proportionate outlay to the Government, which we do not think possible or on the other hand less revenue. But we do think that there ought to be better defined limits to real jurisdiction for it is said by some that only two living men are informed on this subject, and these two men are growing old. It is difficult at present for any one to know just where the protection of the Government ceases and so may go beyond limits without a knowledge of it and expose their lives and property to the mercy of lawless savages. Again warriors from the interior, come within jurisdiction perhaps without knowing it, now what we ask is that the Government define the limits of jurisdiction so clearly that at least intelligent men may understand it then call the adjacent native chiefs & make known to them these limits of British Territory and that if any of them or their people intrude in any way upon this Territory that they will be made to feel the arm of British power. Of course after making this explanation reduce the number of police stations but increase the number of men in the stations, place efficient officers in charge of them; empowered with whatever civil authority necessary. Supply the stations with arms and ammunition; organize and drill Volunteer Militia Companies of British subjects, and thus prepare such a defensive as to be ready at any time to repel a native attack. Signally punish the first wretch that should dare to violate any treaty stipulation. Under some such an arrangement as the above we should enjoy better protection than we now have; for today we have only five men for the defence of Bonthe while there are numbers of men here that would doubtless feel it a privilege to belong to a volunteer Militia Company for the defence of our town; that in the event of an attack could be called into action. Of duty we must reserve for another issue meanwhile we would solicit suggestions from all interested in our Trade or better protection.

What Is Wrong?—We have received several Communications from Teachers and others complaining more or less of retrenchment and its effects on their circumstances; as they in many cases are far from their homes and suffering many privations in their labor for the various societies employing them. They seem in to blame the local Management for the whole matter. What Is Wrong? Certainly there is not a single Superintendent or Mission Agent, but would be too glad to consider and relieve the necessities of every dutiful employee under their care if they had the means at command. And we will venture to say there is not one of them to day, but feels with selfsacrificing men who truly give themselves to the work of the master. And more than this, Bishops, Superintendents, &c, are all brethren engaged in one common cause of suffering and toil; who should not look at the things that are seen, but to those things which are not seen, yet are eternal; hence while it may be well enough and right for men of the world, who labor only for the bread which perisheth, to complain of their pay being too little for the work done; yet it does not in our opinion comport well with the dignity of heavenly messengers to let their voices be heard on the streets, or through the public Press about their pay, it must of necessity lessen them, in the estimation of the world. Therefore we trust they may find out some other means of securing relief than through the public Press.

Query.—Why do our civilized people act so much like pagans? not many months ago a civilized woman and a professed christian too, we are told, took her child from the Colonial Hospital where it could have been well attended and placed it under the treatment of country Medicine; of course the poor child died and some one says it died in one of the Farkies. Another woman said to be a communicant member of a Christian Church made a second burial or some other feast of the dead at which it is said there was dancing and furthermore we hear that such heathenism is a common practice among our Christian people. If Christians do these things in spite of all their teaching to the contrary when will the Heathen be converted?

PORTENTOUS OF EVIL.

The late raid on Senehoo elsewhere noted in this issue portends something that is far from promising peace or any thing like a settled state of affair in the surounding country to such of us as have something of a knowledge of country or natives affairs this discent of of the Yonnies to the head waters of the Bompeh is like throwing a fresh firebrand in to a grassfield, so far as disturbances are concerned: for it is likely to stir up old strifes, and set on fire the elements of war along the entire frontier of these settlements. For it has been evident to most of us for some time that the Boom has only been waiting to see what steps were likely to be taken by the Government, before opening operations in that quarter and if something decisive is not done at once in the matter of Senehoo; we may expect very serious trouble in the near future, for the natives are becoming more and more daring as they see that the Government uses no force to restrain their encroachments.

Rev G. G. M. Nicol pastor of St. Lukes Parish, has returned from his vacation looking fresh and fine; we were glad to congratulate upon his return to his charge again.

NEWS ITEMS.

Oct 11, s.s. Formoso arrived from Freetown she brought the following passengers for this place Rev G. G. M. Nicol, S B. A. Macfoy Esq. Mrs. Rose Maister and Mrs Mc'Millan.

We are informed that Mr. Quayle-Jones, Queen's Advocate of the Gold Coast Colony has been appointed to the post of Chief Justice of Sierra Leone. Mr. Jones is expected to take up his appointment in November next.

The Sierra Leone Royal Gazette for August was published last week. The Import returns for that month as reported amounted to £2,839 19s. 9d. Exports £128 10s. 10d. The aggregate Tounage of vessels entered in the same month was 19, 456 tons, and those cleared 19, 462 tons.

DIED—On the 3rd instant, at the Residence of her Uncle at Bonthe, Elizabeth, daughter of the late John N. Lefevre of Bompehtooke Sherbro. Aged thirty four years, leaving her bereaved families and friends to bemoan their irreparable loss.

Bonthe Sherbro
12th Oct '87

Personal

Mr. W. H. Davison called on us on the 8th inst he is down to assist in the Court here on the cases mentioned in our last issue.

Mrs T. N. Joah of Koncanany Station arrived here fleeing from a threatened invasion of that District by the Yonnie war boys who it is reported have been taken and destroyed Senehoo.

Rev. S. B. Morrison and family arrived here on the 30th ult Mr M. returned on the 4th inst to his Station but Mrs F. A. and Miss A. N. Morrison are still here for a little change as they have not been well.

Mr J. Macauley of Mo-Moseley an out-station of the Wesleyan connexion of this place, was down and gave us a pleasant call on the 1st inst he reports his work is going on nicely. He also gave us his name as a subscriber.

Mr G. A. Metzger J. P. gave us a pleasant call on the 13th inst he is looking well.

Capt. J. H. Hemmingway, of Palma Trading Company Lavanah who returned from Freetown per s. s. Formoso on the 11th inst called on us the 12th and left by private boat on the 13th for Lavanah.

THE SENNEHOO RAID.

We append a short account of Sennehoo which may interest readers and we hope to be able to publish fuller information in our next.

Sennehoo is situated on the Sennehoo Branch of the Bompeh River in the territory ceded to this Government by the General Turner's Treaty of 1825 which was reaffirmed by the Caulker Convention of 1881. It was one of the principal towns of the late Chief Gbanyah whose name figured prominently during the first administration of Sir Samuel Rowe, when the Caulker and Kinigbo raid into British territory was so deservedly punished. It is now presided over by Madam Yoko, the head wife of the late Chief. In peaceful times, it boasts a population of about 1,200 souls, but since the constant inroads of the Yonnies into this part of the country, the population has considerably dwindled down, and we are pleased to learn that most of them succeeded in making their escape.

Weekly News.

MARRIAGE of MR. E. F. TIPSON, to MISS MARY CLEOPATRA COLE, on Thursday, Oct 6th '87.

At the Wesleyan Chapel Bonthe.

The officiating minister was the Rev. J. C. Thomas the Pastor in charge. A little before 12 o'clock a.m., the Chapel was crowded with spectators of all classes, followed by the bride, and at 12 preeisely the bridegroom appeared when the pastor commenced the ceremony by announcing the 999. Mr. Wilhelm the Organist occupied the harmonium on the occasion—after the pastor has performed the ceremony, the register was signed by the bride and bridgroom, followed by the sponsors Mr. O. A. Campbell and Mrs. Eli. C. Davies. The happy couple left the chapel at 1. p. m. amidst the rejoicings of a vast crowds and repaired to the house of the Godmother where a splendid breakfast was provided.

Among those present were Messrs O. A. Campbell, J. G. Williams, D. Johnson Ricott Campbell D. Huggins G. P. Wilhelm, and W. Bidwell Coker.

Mrs Eli C. Davis H. B. Williams, Bety C. Crown, D. Liverpool, and Miss. Cole (the bride's sister.) Two boats having been provided for the occasion by Messrs J. B. Parkinson and the generous and kind hearted H. B. Williams of Liverpool Factory, the bridal party and suit left precisely at 2 p. m. for their residence at Victoria, which they reached at 3 p. m. on landing at the wharf of F. & R. Mocolo they were received with loud exclamation of joy by the women who had been waiting for them. A few minutes after reaching home the ladies and gentlemen sat to luncheon; Mr. G P. Wilhelm occupied the Chair and Mr Bidwell Coker the Sub, Chairman. Having done justice to the dainties provided, the following toasts were proposed accordingly.

1. The Bride and Bridegroom by Mr. Wilhelm,
2. The sponsors by Mr Bidwell Coker.
3. Bridesmaid by Mr. J. G. Williams
4. Host and Hostes by Mr. Daniel Johnson.
5. Chairman by Huggins.

all of which were responded to in appropriate words after the cutting of the cake, the company seperated.

Communicated.

Mocolo
Oct 8, '87.

Dear Mr Editor.—In reading over your issue of the 20 ultimo. I observed an Article bearing the signature of "Amicus" in which he made some remarks on the Article Headed "Cooking for the Dead" in your issue of Sept 15.

Had your correspondent called my attention to any mistatements found in my article, it would have been better; he seems rather to show to the public that he is well acquainted with the English language which alas is not his and the article in question was never written by himself, but is the production of a friend of his.

However I trust Mr "Amicus" will in future produce his own composition or not criticise the writing of others.

Does he take umbrage because I have exposed the superstitious habits prevailing in our midst notwithstanding our Christianity? I hope your correspondent will not consider himself as the only one who understands the English language and Grammar.—Yours

E. LIGHT.

Oct. 10. '87

Dear Mr Editor,—In your last issue appeared an enquiry, which asked for a reply.

Why is it so many of our young men remain unmarried? This is my answer. If marriage is honorable and the bonds are expected to be kept sacred, should it not be carefully thought over before entering into it? The disgusting manner in which the married life has helped many of those who have been married to cloak themselves while practicing trigamy and polygamy is so bad that many of us would rather remain unmarried. Another reason is that though civilised as we are, there are those friends who must have the young man's all before he could be allowed to be married. Many are they who believe that unless 80 to 100 guests be present to witness the ceremony and join in the repast they will not be satisfied that they are married; but if these stupid ideas be knocked off, and marriages are carried out with less show and expense, it will not be a wonder if within another twelve months all the unmarried men are converted to join the chord except some who are real fortune hunters and would rather die unmarried if they do not obtain their wish.

These are the reasons why the majority of our young men remain unmarried. But can any of our friends tell us which is the easiest way for one to get married?

Trusting that my reasons with the many others that may come from different quarters will satisfy our enquirer.

I am Yours &c.
HOMO.

STRENGTH OF BELIEF.

I have many times thought, and sometimes ventured to say that there is a peculiar potency in belief, whether christian or pagan religions or secular Alexander the Great it is said when he went to consult the Oracle of Delphi, he was told by the infatuated Priestess that he was invincible he tore away from her saying that was all he wanted to know. He in other words believed that he was invincible and in the strength of that belief went forth to the conquest of the world, and no army was able to resist him, successfully. But without delving into remote History just look closely into the character and make up of any successful man and you will perceive that belief in the success of his undertaking has been and is the strongest element in his character. Lincoln believed that American slavery "the sum of villainies" if confined within certain limits of territory would become extinct and he laboured to that end until he saw the accursed institution perish. Miners, Bankers and business men generally succeed more through belief in their enterprises than otherwise. But while belief is strong and has led to good results it must be borne in mind that belief in a bad cause has sometimes led to ruinous results; so men have sometimes believed others to be sincere in their friendship, while they were not and have thus been the losers. Hence we may infer that right and proper belief in that which is good will give us strength to accomplish that which is right and that such belief should be sought found and cultivated, while on the other hand wrong beliefs are strong for evil and will be injurious to our well being and should be avoided, and it is a consolation that amid so many beliefs as we have in our world there is however one belief to which we can with safety point men and that is to the Savior of men. Believe therefore in the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved.

ANON.

Mr. Editor,—Can you or any of your readers tell me what is the proper title by which the medical officer who assists the Asst. Colonial Surgeon here should be called? Most people call him "The Dresser," and others "The Dispenser" by enlightening me on this subject you will greatly oblige Yours, in earnest, NUVUS HOMO.

Bonthe, Oct 8th '87.

Mr. Editor,—I am prompted through an insertion in the latest issue of your valuable paper to answer a query which is stated thus:—"But why is it that our young men remain unmarried?" In answer to this, I beg to state that young men who have not been married choose or see fit to remain so on account of the examples set by most of our married men which are far from being honorable. If after our married men have placed themselves into such a respectable and honorable position, they would restrain themselves from that disgraceful habit (polygamy) which generally characterize most of them, it will be actually unwise for young men to pursue inconsiderably such a course. Hence Mr. Editor, although the question is a necessary one, yet I would prefer that it be handled again by a discreet and experienced man. Thanking you for space occupied.

Yours truly, A Bachelor.

Bonthe,
October 8th, 1887.

Mr. Peters Bookeeper of Fisher and Randall (Ltd.) has we understand, resigned and gone to Freetown.

Dispenser or Dresser which?—Is the question of Novus Homo in this issue, relative to the person who Assists the Colonial Surgeon here? We are not conversant with all the particulars of the duties performed by the personage; but from present knowledge should prefer the term Dispenser, as we believe he issues or dispenses the medicines to applicants. A Dresser is 1. One who dresses. 2. A kitchen table—3.A set of shelves. The term, of course, may be applied to a Doctor's servant.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—There has been an entire absence of demand, and prices have declined 15s. to 20s per ton since our last. We quote today:—

Lagos		£20	to	£20	5. 0.
Bonny, Opobo, and Cameroon				19	0 3.
Old Calabar		£18	15 0	to 19	0 0.
Benin		18	5 0	to 18	10 0.
New Calabar, Brass and Niger		18	0 5	to 18	5 0.
Fernando Po		17	15 0	to 18	0 0.
Congo		17	15 0	to 18	0 0
Loanda		17	10 0
Accra, Addah, Quitah, Grand Popo, and Little Popo.		17	15 0	to 18	0 0
Sierra Leone Sherbro		16	15 0	to 17	15 0
Saltpond, Appam, Winnebah		16	10 0
Dixcove, Grand Bassa Since, Monrovia, Cape Palmas, Assinie		16	5 0	to 16	10 0

PALM KERNELS—Quiet at a decline of 2s. 6d. to 5s. per ton.

Lagos, Bonny, Benin, Brass Game roons, Congo		£9	17 6	to £10	2 6
Liberia, Quitah, Little Popo, Sherbro		9	0 0	to 9	12 6
Saltpond, Winnebah, Appam and Elmina		8	5 0	to 9	0 0
Loanda		9	15 0	to 10	0 0

GROUNDNUTS—100 bags undecorticated sold at £11 10.

COPRA—No change.

BENISEED—Wanted, 43s. 6d. per 384 lb.

COFFEE—Bold Berry, 80s. per cwt.

COCOA—Very quiet. No change in price.

INDIA RUBBER—Continues very quiet.

Fair to Prime Gambia Niggers		2s. 0d.	to	2s. 2d.
Do. do. Sierra Leone		1s. 9d	to	1s. 10d
Do. do. do.	Flat.	1s. 8d.	to	1s. 6d.
Thimbles		1s. 9½d.	to	1s. 10½d
Congo and Gaboon Ball		1s. 6d	to	1s 7½d.
Hard Cape Coast and Assinie		1s. 3d.	to	1s. 7d.
Liberian and Manoh		1s. 2d.	to	1s. 7d.
Cameroons		1s. 3d.
Saltpond		1s. 4d.	to	1s. 5d.
Flake and Lumps		9d.	to	10d.

BEESWAX—Gambia, £5; Sierra Leone, £4 2 6; Angola and Benguela, £4 15 0 per ton.

GINGER—Rather more enquiry, 18s. to 20s. per cwt.

CHILLIES—16s to 30s. as in quality.

GUINEA GRAINS—Dearer, 18s. to 22s. per cwt.

CALABAR BEANS—Steady, 4½d. to 6d. per lb.

EBONY—Remains unchanged in value.

CAMWOOD—Good to fine, £18 to £22; inferior to fair, £7 to £7 per ton.

BARWOOD—Limited demand, £3 per ton.

GUM—Accra, 45s. per cwt.; Sierra Leone, 2½d. to 9d per lb.

MONKEY SKINS—Next sales take place at the end of the month.

IVORY—Auctions will be held 18th October.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool, Sept. 16th 1887.

Very ancient observatories are said to have been erected on the top of the temple of Belus, at Babylon; on the tomb of Osymandyas, in Egypt; and at Benares. The first in authentic history was erected by Ptolemy Soter at Alexandria, about 300 B.C. Of prominent modern observatories the dates are: French Royal, 1667; Greenwich, 1675; Nuremberg, 1678; Utrecht, 1690; Berlin, 1711; Bologna, 1711; St. Petersburg, 1725; Pekin, about 1730; Oxford, 1772; Edinburgh, 1776; Dublin, 1783; Armagh, 1793; Cambridge, England, 1824; Williams College, first in the United States, 1836; Pulkowa, 1839; Cambridge, Massachusetts, 1840; Washington, 1842; Liverpool, 1844; Ann Arbor, 1854; Albany, 1864; The Lick Observatory in California, equipped with the largest refractor yet made, was endowed with $700,000 in 1874.

J.A. Clemens

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Bookseller, Stationary and Miscellaneous GOODS

ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET

N.B. Removed to upper Ot to Street, opposite the burial ground

Bonthe, Sherbro.

An advantage to all.

FRIENDS

residing here and in the Rivers, requiring the loan of MONEY, will loose no time in applying to who is ready to advance from 10s. to 100s., at a time on good Securities. Further particulars will be given on application.

D.L. COLLIER,

Bonthe, Sherbro,
22nd. Sept. '87.

Just Received

and for sale at the

S. M. MISSION STORE.

An assortment of Medicines, &c. &c. &c.

Nerve and Bone Liniment,
Rheumatic & Gout Cure,
Pain Dispeller,
Liver Regulator,
Comp'd Ex't fluid of Buchu,
Chlorodyne Cough cure.
Sarsaparilla,
Iron Tonic Bitters,
Dyspepsia Cure,
Pectorial Wine,
Comp'd Blkberry Cordial,
Itch Ointment,
Porous Plaster.

Aug 1887.

SHINE AS THE STARS.

I have sometimes wondered whether even christians of these days of so much worldliness and false show, wearing of gold and costly apparel have ever considered the superior brightness of the firmament that over-arches our heads so beautifully blue and soft, the sky itself, then how richly set with gems that out-shine not only gold but the purest diamonds, and again how numerous are they, so many stars that no man can number them, and their brightness beyond that of the finest rubies, yet as bright as you behold the stars to shine in the sky above you: they that are wise among men, wise in the saving of their souls shall shine as the brightness of the firmament as the stars for ever and ever. Now it does seem to me that most men, and women, too, want to shine as bright as they can and as there is no brightness of dress or character that can surpass this description that all ought to seek it.—E.

WHAT A MINISTER SHOULD BE—The Hebrew Standard gives the following under the head of "What a Jewish Rabbi should be," which applies as well to what every Christian minister should be that we give it because of its practical and wise suggestiveness fore-ably expressed:

1. He should be a conscientious Israelite [christian]
2. He should be a man of deep personal piety.
3. He should be a man whom the people can respect.
4. He should be thoroughly prepared for his work.
5. He should know his place and keep it.
6. He should be a man of one work. That work he should have at heart.
7. He should be a man of good practical sense and judgment.
8. He should be a constant student.
9. He should be a natural leader of men.
10. He should never be unemployed, and never willingly employed.

A curious instance of what a single change of a comma can produce has been noticed of late. It runs as follows: Lord Palmerston Duck ruled on his head, a white hat on his feet, large but well polished boots upon his arms, a dark cloud in his hand, his faithful walking stick in his eye, a menacing giate saying nothing.

'Early Dawn'

PRINTING OFFICE.

Job Work Done at short

Notice.

Enquire of C. G. BELL, Printer.

GOOD HOPE STATION.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. IV. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA. OCTOBER 31, 1887. No. 20.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Directors of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto, deliv'd in Bonthe,	0	2	6

Address.—Communications to Rev. J. A. Evans, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gowans, Shaingay, West Africa. Rev. Z. Wanser, D.D., Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant,	C. H Hector Mosely
Coroner	The Commandant.
Deputy. Coroner,	Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk	W. Hughes
2nd. do.	S. W. Adams
Interpreter	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff,	F. E. B. Beckner
Sub-Treas. & Col. Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett J. D. Macaulay
Tide Waiters,	J. N. Crown. J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole
Asst. Examg. Officer Saltpan.	Jasper Caulker
Assistant Col. Surgeon. R. C. S.	M. L. Jarrett, M
Dispenser	Rowland May.
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police,	M. Betts.
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett.

The most wonderful era of prosperity, of material, moral, and intellectual development, of growth in country, cities, and towns, ever witnessed on the American continent, has been illustrated in Kansas during the six years since the temperance amendment to our constitution was adopted and especially during the last two years, the period of its most energetic and complete enforcement. Sel.

THE PROBLEM OF MISSIONS.

I closed my last paper with the assertion of the world to Christ, as the end sought by the Missionary enterprise and this too which has been intended by the disciples of the Westerne for the past nineteen centuries but in that time what has been accomplished miracles in the past and wonders are being accomplished at the present, some one has said, truly this may all be; but what is the prospect of the future for the accomplished of the conversion of the world; let it admitted that one fourth of the world is nominally under the influence of the gospel—not saved but has the salvable leaven within the lump—then what shall we have before us to do, three fourths of the world yet to subdue 1850 years have been spent in the work, at the same rate of progress it would still require 5350 years to finished the work of nominal christianity to the ends of the earth. But most persons who think on this subject are of the opinion that the facilities for effective Mission work are increasing very rapidly, but we must bear in mind that this must be in order to meet the demands of a population that is more and more rapidly increasing every generation and that the slower processes of the past ages would not keep pace at all with the accelerated increase of the present age neither will the present progress meet at all the demands of the future this difficult fact has indeed already met us in the prosecution of the work and shows itself monstrously in the form of the Missionary debts that to day are retarding the progress of almost every missionary enterprize, just at a time too when the best opportunities are offering for a grand ingathering of the gentiles. Then may it not be possible that although our facilities are on the increase that their increase has in part at least, loaded our Missionary Boards with the heavy debts which must increase or our facilities decrease under the present mode of operation. Certainly such an event seems possible, if not even probable; since especially that in the later years of missionary progress christendom has involved some, yes, many of its missonary Boards in debt to such an extent that very few can to day do more than go foward with the work in hand. While many are obliged to retrench and withdraw from promising fields.

This is not very encouraging in view of the following taken from The Christian Herald and Signs of our Times of Nov. 10th '86.

"IT IS A STARTLING FACT

and one for which many were not prepared, that the increase of the heathen during a century of remarkable christian activity, is numerically about seventy times greater than that of the converts.

We have heard many proposals for converting the world in a limited period of time, but we fear historic facts are all against them. The comparative slowness of our progress is, however no excuse for indolence or indifference, Nay, rather, it is a Trumpet-call to redoubled, zeal and warlier action." " " Still the fact remains. In spite of all our methods and meth., our missions fall enormously short of keeping step with the growth of ben thendom. The light does shine somewhat, yes it shines on darkness."

J. A. R.

Mr. Editor,—The Articles of your correspondents "Homo" and "A Bachelor" which appeared in your issue of the 15th inst., are some of the funniest pieces I have read for a long time, for the contents put me in an obstreperous fit of laughter when reading the arguments set forth in support of their remaining Bachelors.

Now, without going too far with the Subject, I beg leave to ask your correspondents, what are their direct reasons for remaining bachelors. Is it for want of means to provide a feast for 100 guests? Or is it because they choose to indulge and continue in that pernicious habits of satisfying their carnal lust, for I could not salve out anything from their so-called arguments.

They attribute as reasons for their remaining bachelors to the fact that some of the married men practice or indulge in the sin of polygamy; by this I understand that there are exceptions to the case, then if so, why do not these renowned bachelors copy the examples of those married men who are living chaste and discreet lives, and thereby set an example to their fellow bachelors who may by such examples follow their footsteps.

Is it because a man possessing the means to invite 100 guests to his wedding, therefore "Homo" grudges him? I would advise "Homo" that if he has been unfortunate in his attempt to obtain loans for the purpose of getting married, or that he has no one that would lend him a hand by offering his daughter to him, that he might be in possession of some fortune, let him exercise a little more patience and wait till fortune smiles on him, for it is better to marry a fortune in a wife than to marry a wife with a fortune.

As for "A Bachelor" I would say that his letter is borrowed from "Homo" or the two letters must have been written by the same person, for they are replete with unreasonable jargons, and simply wish to appear in print. I must adopt the language of Holy Writ, that "Marriage is Honorable and the bed undefiled."

Until "Homo" and "A Bachelor" adduce tangible proofs in support of their arguments, I shall ever consider that the reasons I have given above are the cause of their remaining bachelors, for a bachelor has no one to caress him but those of whom it is recorded in Prov. vii. 5—27. Let them read there from and take this advice and resolve at once to come out of Egypt and be married men.—Yours, Mr. Editor,

A MARRIED MAN.

Bonthe, Sherbro,
Oct. 20, '87.

P.S.—As an encouragement to bachelors, I am glad to say that four young bachelors have loosed their fetters and have joined in matrimonial bonds. I wish them every happiness in their new engagements. A. M.

THE INFLUENCE OF CHRISTIAN GIVING.

"IT IS PROPOSED to raise a million dollar endowment in New York City, as a memorial to that of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and the work of making subscriptions is already in progress. The great project is entered upon with considerable enthusiasm, only a single dissenting voice among those interested having been heard to raise objection, the proposed increase of expenditure. The poor are to be former free, and the deans eventually grow to receive worshippers. As the object is said to be that of the first cathedral in the land it is presumed that the fund can readily be procured from the wealthy members of the Episcopal denomination, and other interests of the community which are in pressing need of assistance. But it may be set down as true, despite the fact to the contrary, that people will not give the best churches are born in poverty, attended by persons of small means, while those of wealth and culture are left to struggle for existence after the manner of inferior churches are, with only here and there an exception, too blessed in all their charities. Building a great church often, indeed, has the effect of training a congregation to incessant liberality. members are led to the discovery that they possess more means than they previously supposed, and are generously educated up to the point of generous giving. We have in our thoughts just now a congregation of some wealth which for many years worshipped in an old and unsuitable house. The agents of a neighboring college of the same denomination made their communal visits to this church, and gathered in their amounts, but never anything very striking, the ready pies always being "Our church is old, and we must build for ourselves before we can do much." The work of building was at last undertaken and a somewhat expensive house erected. Before it was quite finished and paid for, the representatives of the college once more visited the congregation. A public meeting was held in one of the rooms of the new church. The members by this time had discovered two things First, that they possessed more means than they had before supposed, and second, that they were able to give without suffering harm. The result was that in a single evening they pledged thirty thousand dollars towards the funds of the college. some of our readers know of congregations where no large sums are reaped for general church interests, but where the wealth of individual members is such as would justify the giving of such contributions as would speedily bring needed relief to a number of our greatly burdened church institutions.—Sel. Teacher.

Barbers always have mirrors in front of their chairs in order to enable their victims to see how a man looks being talked to death.

ORIGINAL DEFECTIVE

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—There has been an entire absence of demand, and prices have declined 15s. to 20s per ton since our last. We quote today:

Lagos			£20	to	£20	5 0
Bonny, Opobo, and Cameroon					19	0 3
Old Calabar			£18	15 0	to 19	0 0
Benin			18	5 0	to 18	10 0
New Calabar, Brass and Niger			18	0 5	to 18	5 0
Fernando Po			17	15 0	to 18	0 0
Congo			17	15 0	to 18	0 0
Loanda			17	10 0
Accra, Addah, Quittah, Grand Popo, and Little Popo			17	15 0	to 18	0 0
Sierra Leone Sherbro			16	15 0	to 17	15 0
Saltpond, Appam, Winnebah			16	10 0
Dixcove, Grand Bassa Sinoe, Monrovia, Cape Palmas, Assinie			16	5 0	to 16	10 0

PALM KERNELS—Quiet at a decline of 2s 6d to 5s per ton.

Lagos, Bonny, Benin, Brass Cameroons, Congo			£9	17 6	to £10	2 6
Liberia, Quittah, Little Popo, Sherbro			9	0 0	to 9	12 6
Saltpond, Winnebah, Appam			8	5 0	to 9	0 0
Loanda			9	15 0	to 10	0 0

GROUND NUTS—100 bags undecorticated sold at £11 10.

COPRA—No change.

BENISEED—Wanted, 43s. 6d. per 384 lb.

COFFEE—Bold Berry, 50s. per cwt.

COCOA—Very quiet. No change in price.

INDIA RUBBER—Continues very quiet.

Fair to Prime Gambia Niggers			2s	6d	to 2s 9d.
Do. do. Sierra Leone			1s	9½	to 1s 10d
Do. do. do. Flat.			1s	3d	to 1s 6d.
Thimbles			1s	9½d	to 1s 10½d
Congo and Gabaon Ball			1s	6d	to 1s 7½d.
Hard Cape Coast and Assinie			1s	3d	to 1s 7d
Liberian and Manoh			1s	2d	to 1s 7d
Conetocus			1s	3d.
Saltpond			1s	4d	to 1s 5d.
Flake and Lumps				9d	to 10d.

BEESWAX—Gambia, 25; Sierra Leone, £1 2 6; Angola and Benguela, £4 15 0 per ton.

GINGER—Rather more enquiry, 18s. to 20s. per cwt.

CHILLIES—16s to 30s. as in quality.

GUINEA GRAINS—Dearer, 18s. to 22s. per cwt.

CALABAR BEANS—Steady, 4½d. to 6d. per lb.

EBONY—Remains unchanged in value.

CAMWOOD—Good to fine, £18 to £22; inferior to fair, £7 to £7 per ton.

BARWOOD—Limited demand, £3 per ton.

GUM—Acera, 45s. per cwt.; Sierra Leone, 2½d. to 9d per lb.

MONKEY SKINS—Next sales take place at the end of the month.

IVORY—Auctions will be held 18th October.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool, Sept. 16th 1887.

Very ancient observatories are said to have been erected on the top of the temple of Belus, at Babylon; on the tomb of Osymandyas, in Egypt; and at Benares. The first in authentic history was erected by Ptolemy Soter at Alexandria, about 300 B. C. Of prominent modern observatories the dates are: Pisech Royal, 1667; Greenwich, 1675; Nuremberg, 1678; Utrecht, 1690; Berlin, 1711; Bologna, 1714; St. Petersburg, 1725; Dublin, 1783; Armagh, 1793; Cambridge, England, 1827; Williams College, first in the United States, 1836; Pulkowa, 1839; Cambridge, Massachusetts, 1840; Washington, 1842; Liverpool, 1844; Ann Arbor, 1854; Albany, 1854; The Lick Observatory in California, equipped with the largest refractor yet made, was endowed with $700,000 in 1874.

J.A. Clemens

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Bookseller, Stationery and Miscellaneous GOODS

ESTABLISHED 1875 OTTO STREET

N.B Removed to upper Otto Street, opposite the burial ground

Bonthe, Sherbro.

An advantage to all.

FRIENDS

residing here and in the Rivers, requiring the loan of MONEY, will loose no time in applying to who is ready to advance from 10s. to 100s., at a time on good Securities. Further particulars will be given on application.

D.L. COLLIER,

Bonthe, Sherbro,

22nd. Sept. '87.

Just Received

and for sale at the

S. M. MISSION STORE

An assortment of Medicines, &c. &c. &

Nerve and Bone Liniment.
Rheumatic & Gout Cure.
Pain Dispeller.
Liver Regulator.
Comp'd Ext. Buchu,
Chlorodyne Cough cure.
Sarsaparilla.
Iron Tonic Bitters.
Dyspepsia Cure.
Pectoral Wine.
Comp'd Blackberry Cordial.
Itch Ointment.
Porous Plaster.

Aug 1887.

SHINE AS THE STARS.

I have sometimes wondered whether even christians of these days of so much worldliness and false show, wearing of gold and costly apparel have ever considered the superior brightness of the firmament that overarches our heads, so beautifully blue and soft, the sky itself, then how richly set with gems that outshine not only gold but the purest diamonds, and again how numerous are they, so many stars that no man can number them, and their brightness beyond that of the finest rubies, yet as bright as you behold the stars to shine in the sky above you: they that are wise among men, wise in the saving of their souls shall shine as the brightness of the firmament as the stars for ever and ever. Now it does seem to me that most men, and women, too, want to shine as bright as they can and as there is no brightness of dress or character that can surpass this description that all ought to seek it.—E.

WHAT A MINISTER SHOULD BE.—The Hebrew Standard gives the following under the head of "What a Jewish Rabbi should be," which applies so well to what every Christian minister should be that we give it because of its practical and wise suggestiveness tersely expressed:

1. He should be a conscientious Israelite [christian]
2. He should be a man of deep personal piety.
3. He should be a man whom the people can respect
4. He should be thoroughly prepared for his work.
5. He should know his place and keep it.
6. He should be a man of one work. That work he should have at heart.
7. He should be a man of good practical sense and judgment.
8. He should be a constant student.
9. He should be a natural leader of men.
10. He should never be unemployed, and never tiringly employed.

A curious instance of what a single change of a comma can produce has been noticed of late. It runs as follows: Lord Palmerston then entered on his head, a white hat on his feet, large but well-polished boots upon his brow, a dark cloud in his hand, his faithful walking stick in his eye, a menacing giate saying nothing. Sel.

'Early Dawn'

PRINTING OFFICE.

Job Work Done at short

Notice.

Enquire of C G BELL, Printer

GOOD HOPE STATION

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. IV. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, OCTOBER 31, 1887. No. 90.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto. deliv'd in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS,—Communications to Rev J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GOMER, Shaingay, West Africa. Rev. Z. WARNER, D.D., Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant	C H Harley Moseley
Coroner	The Commandant
Deputy Coroner	Wm. Hughes.
Chief Clerk	W Hughes
2nd. do.	S W Adams
Interpreter	J D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F E. B. Buckner
Sub Treas. & Col. Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett J. D Macaulay
Tide Waiters	J. N Crown. J. B Turner. & S G. Cole
Asst. Examg. Officer	Sallijah Jasper Caulker
Assistant Col. Surgeon	M L. Jarrett, M R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster	H R. Williams
Inspector of Police.	M Betts.
Gaoler.	J A Dennis
Overseer of Roads	A O. Walker

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett

The most wonderful era of prosperity, of material, moral, and intellectual development, of growth in country, cities, and towns, ever witnessed on the American continent, has been illustrated in Kansas during the six years since the temperance amendment to our constitution was adopted and especially during the last two years, the period of its most energetic and complete enforcement Sel.

THE PROBLEM OF MISSIONS.

I closed my last paper with the convertion of the world to Christ, as the end sought by the Missionary enterprize and this too in what has been intended by the disciples of the Nazerene for the past eighteen centuries but in that time what has been accomplished miracles in the past and wonders are being accomplished at the present, some one has said, truly this may all be; but what is the prospect of the future for the accomplished of the conversion of the world; let it admitted that one fourth of the world is nominally under the influence of the gospel—not saved but has the salvable leaven within the lump—then what shall we have before us to do, three fourths of the world yet to subdue 1850 years have been spent in the work, at the same rate of progress it would still require 5550 years to finished the work of nominal christianity to the ends of of the earth. But most persons who think on this subject are of the opinion that the facilities for effective Mission work are increasing very rapidly, but we must be in mind that this must be in order to meet the demands of a population that is more and more rapidly increasing every generation and that the slower processes of the past ages would not keep pace at all with the accelerated increase of the present age neither will the present progress meet at all the demands of the future this difficult fact has indeed already met us in the prosecution of the work and shows itself monstrously in the form of the Missionary debts that, to say are retarding the progress of almost every missionary enterprize, just at a time too when the best oportunities are offering for a grand ingathering of the gentiles. Then may it not be possible that although our facilities are on the increase that their increase has in fact at least, loaded our Missionary Boards with the heavy debts which must increase or our facilities decrease under the present mode of operation. Certainly such an event seems possible, if not even probable; since especially that in the later years of missionary progress christendom has involved some, yes, many of its missionary Boards in debt to such an extent that very few can to day do more than go foward with the work in hand. While many are obliged to retrench and withdraw from promising fields.

This is not very encouraging in view of the following taken from The Christian Herald and Signs of our Times of Nov. 10th '86.

"IT IS A STARTLING FACT

and one for which many were not prepared, that the increase of the heathen during a century of remarkable christian activity, is numerically about seventy times greater than that of the converts.

We have heard many proposals for converting the world in a limited period of time, but we fear historic facts are all against them. The comparative slowness of our progress is, however no excuse for indolence or indifference, Nay, rather, it is a Trumpet-call to redoubled, zeal and worthier action. * * * Still the fact remains. In spite of all our methods and men, our missions fall enourmously short of keeping step with the growth of heathendom. The light does shine somewhat, yet all around the darkness deepens."

J. A. E.

Mr. Editor,—The Articles of your correspondents "Homo" and "A Bachelor" which appeared in your issue of the 15th inst., are some of the funniest pieces I have read for a long time, for the contents put me in an obstreperous fit of laughter when reading the arguments set forth in support of their remaining Bachelors.

Now, without going too far with the Subject, I beg leave to ask your correspondents, what are their direct reasons for remaining bachelors. Is it for want of means to provide a feast for 100 guests? Or is it because they choose to indulge and continue in that pernicious habit of satisfying their carnal lust, for I could not make out anything from their so-called arguments.

They attribute as reasons for their remaining bachelors to the fact that some of the married men practice or indulge in the sin of polygamy; by this I understand that there are exceptions in the case, then if so, why do not these renowned bachelors copy the examples of those married men who are living chaste and discreet lives, and thereby set an example to their fellow bachelors who may by such examples follow their footsteps.

Is it because a man possessing the means to invite 100 guests to his wedding, therefore "Homo" grudges him? I would advise "Homo" that if he has been unfortunate in his attempt to obtain loans for the purpose of getting married, or that he has no one that would lend him a hand by offering his daughter to him, that he might be in possession of some fortune, let him exercise a little more patience and wait till fortune smiles on him, for it is better to marry a fortune in a wife than to marry a wife with a fortune.

As for "A Bachelor" I would say that his letter is borrowed from "Homo" or the two letters must have been written by the same person, for they are replete with unreasonable jargons, and simply wish to appear in print. I must adopt the language of Holy Writ that "Marriage is Honorable and the bed undefiled."

Until "Homo" and "A Bachelor" adduce tangible proofs in support of their arguments, I shall ever consider that the reasons I have given above are the cause of their remaining bachelors, for a bachelor has no one to caress him but those of whom it is recorded in Prov. vii. 5—27. Let them read therefrom and take this advice and resolve at once to come out of Egypt and be married men.—Yours, Mr. Editor,

A MARRIED MAN.

Bonthe, Sherbro,
Oct. 20, '87.

P.S.—As an encouragement to bachelors, I am glad to say that four young bachelors have loosed their fetters and have joined in matrimonial bonds. I wish them every felicity in their new engagements.—A M.M.

THE INFLUENCE OF GENEROUS GIVING.

It is proposed to build a six million dollar cathedral in New York City. The enterprise is that of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and the work of taking subscriptions is already in progress. The great project is entered upon with unusual unanimity, only a single influential voice among those interested being so far raised against the proposed lavish expenditure. The seats are to be forever free, and the doors constantly open to receive worshipers. As the outlay named is that of the first estimates, it is fair to presume that the final cost may run in to several millions more, and that the edifice when completed will take rank with the first cathedrals of the world. Dr. Huntington, who warmly opposite the undertaking, does so largely upon the ground that it proposes an extraordinary expenditure, when the missionary and other interests of the denomination are in pressing need of money. But it may be set down as true, almost without exception, that people who build the best churches are most free to contribute for general church interests, while people of whom who worship in inferior churches are, with only here and there an exception, less liberal in all their charities. Building a good church often, indeed, has the effect of training a congregation to increased liberality. members are led to the discovery that they possess more means than they previously supposed, and are gradually educated up to the point of generous giving. We have in our thought just now a congregation of some wealth which for many years worshiped in an old and unsuitable house. The agents of a neighboring college of the same denomination made their occasional visits to this church, and gathered in fair amounts, but never anything very striking, the ready pies always being. "Our church is old, and we must build for ourselves before we can do much." The work of building was at last undertaken and a somewhat expensive house erected. Before it was quite finished and paid for, the representatives of the college once more visited the congregation. A public meeting was held in one of the rooms of the new church. The members by this time had discovered two things First, that they possessed more means than they had before supposed, and second, that they were able to give without suffering harm. The result was that in a single evening they pledged thirty thousand dollars towards the funds of the college. some of our readers know of congregations where no large sums are reaped for general church interests, but where the wealth of individual members is such as would justify the giving of such contributions as would speedily bring needed relief to a number of our greatly burdened church institutions.—Bible Teacher.

Barbers always have mirrors in front of their chairs in order to enable their victims to see how a man looks being talked to death.

ORIGINAL DEFECTIVE

The [illegible]
BONTHE.- SHERBRO.
[illegible], 1887.

SHERBRO TRADE.

Our last on this subject promised something further on duty. The reduction of which we had referred to in a previous issue (Septr 30.) Our meaning, however, was not less revenue by any means; as it is an increase of revenue we write to effect; but it was then, and is now our opinion that possibly more revenue could be realized at a lower rate of duty especially does this seem reasonable on Tobacco a commodity greatly needed in the present trade of this vicinity; but the duty on this article seems to be out of all harmony with its nature or use. For while some men regard its use as unhealthy and some have ventured to call it wasteful. Yet it must be admitted that it cannot be set down as ardent spirits in its use and hence it ought to enjoy equal immunity before the law on the score of good or evil. But we are told and have been from the time (July 25th '83) that the duty was increased on tobacco that it was for the purpose of increasing, or rather then for the keeping up of the revenue, which had then begun to decline in consequence of the falling off in trade caused by the disturbance in the adjacent river Districts. But since the additional duty in all these years since it was put on has not effected the original design nor is it likely to do so. But on the other hand has materially effected the trade rendering it much harder for dealers in the close times that have been upon us for the past few years and this caused a good deal of complaint among almost all classes especially Merchants and traders.

We tend it not be fair then to lessen the duty and allow a larger margin to dealers and thus encourage them to handle more tobacco increasing the quantity imported to such an extent, as not only to make up for the reduction in rates, but really to increase the aggregate amount of revenue to the Government? so far as spirits are concerned; we are of the opinion that the same they are climated from our trade the better; for certainly the profits on the sale of them cannot in any way make up for the damage done by their use; whether it be the fault of the dealers or consumers, one thing is certain, if there were no dealers, there could be no consumers. Here again creeps in one of the delusions of trade, of which we may speak again, but for the present must confine our few closing remarks to the subject of Duty which obviously should be less on almost if not every article now subject to Impost. That is if trade is to be encouraged and thereby enlarged so as to increase the revenue of the settlements.

AFRICAN S. S. COMPANY

Make very quick time, thro'their Branch Steamer the Formoso, from Liverpool to Sherbro in 19 days. Certainly this is a great facility offered to Sherbro Merchants and traders to ship direct in smaller quantities, it may be, but more frequently and thus save the waste incurred by long storage of produce. When desirable Merchandise can be brought out more frequently and thus stocks kept fresher and as natural consequence more salable.

MARKET REPORTS.

We regret very much that the Market Report of African Produce in Liverpool did not come to hand in time for this issue, but we note from the Report dated Liverpool Sept. 30th. That the market for Palm Oil is steady with buyers at £20 for Lagos, and £17 10. per ton for Sierra Leone, Sherbro, Rio Pongo, and Laboo. Other kinds chiefly between these quotations.

Palm Kernels, very firm, at £10 2. 6. to £10 7. 6. for Lagos and £9. 5 0. to £9. 17. 6. for Liberia, Lahoo, Quitta, Popo and Sherbro. Beni seed has advanced perhaps a little since the Report of Sep. 16th. Other produce remained about the same, except perhaps the market is a little more steady with possibly an upward tendency which is rather encouraging.

Bishop D. K. Flickinger expected, at our last advices to sail from New-York for England on the 15th inst hence we infer that by this time he is in London. We are not informed as to whether he will be out to Africa this year; but rather expect him to be present at our next Annual meeting in this place about Dec. 15th '87.

Mrs F. A. and Miss A. N. Morrison left this place returning to Avery Station on the 21st inst.

HOMO'S EFFUSIONS.

"Errors like straws upon the surface flow
He who would search for Pearls must dive below."

Sir,—As the very base and practical insinuations thrown to our discredit—as a proof of wi at conscience knows! in the two articles signed "Bachelor" and "Homo" respectively, both of which appeared, in your October 15th publication have a tendency to reflect from the honest aims and opinions which the article upon "Early Marriage" by the famous "Gracchi" (referred to in your Editorial, headed "Marriage is Honorable") published in your Journal in the past year had intended to effect, I beg to offer the following observations with the view to wipe away the rather unpleasurable impression which their might have made on the minds of the community.

The very nonsensical phrase "The disgusting manner in which the married life has helped many of those who have been married to cloak themselves whilst practising trigamy and poligamy" &c—threw us into a morbid state of excitement in consequence of the gross falcity by which it is characterized, and which seriously repudiating the statement, we affirm that "Homo" deserves the severest censure and shame for creating tissu- of falsehood or misrepresentation which without doubt stands prominent in the theory of human existence.

In these days of slander and modern enmity "fellows" of culture and refinement are always guilty in the show and exhibition of their brutal and premature ideas of the gratest absurdities and ignorance, and whilst we shudder with remorse at the purile conceptions exposed in those two wretched attempts at newspaper writing signed "Bachelor" and "Homo" respectively, especially the latter, we venture to apologize to all married men in their behalf ourselves not excluded for the oafish effort and indecent zeal put forth by them in presenting the reputation of the Honorable and Honest Sherbro married men, to bear upon the wrath and indignation of the civilized world.

Unrefigated, rage, resentment and anger were our predominant feelings upon the reading of "Homo's" letter which candidly speaking is like a mighty roar of wind full of sound and fury signifying nothing of consequence "why is it so many of our young men remain unmarried" can be easily answered were we disposed to do so by citing the numerous instances—instances indicative of so much shame and displeasure —in which roving partners had been induced (?) to violate their conjugal oaths) by wayward Bachelors who dressed with a little influence and means would make it a duty to, rather than choose for themselves wives, impose upon the rights of others and introducing thereby dissnion and uncomfortableness where love and harmony once reigned.

With the unprecendentated gallantry of a soldier "Homo" ventures to reproach the idea if inviting some 80 or 100 guests to witness a marriage ceremony as by means thereof one is thrown into considerable expense.

I say in answer to this cleverly proposed: I wish him success but alas how void of reason and understanding his plans are? Has he no sense or feeling of shame to offer such a proposal at such a critical moment? why then did he insinuate Fortune Hunters? It will really be no wonder to us "when these stupid ideas be knocked off and marriages are carried out with less show and expense" to witness "Homo's" initiation to the sacred corps at the end of a "twelfth" month and then cease to regard him as equally a "Fortune Hunter" as he who plainly demands a handsome sum as a wife's dowry before marriage is concluded.

The spirit of "Homo's" loathsome letter convinces me of his immorigidance and filthy not only as regards the ally advices sought by him from the public to point out the easiest way for one to get married, but also in regard to our reputation as married men which is so much declaimed against a course as unsafe as unsagacious—a by any means an unusual course which such finished —because of the ignorant and selfish spirit as "Homo" seem to exhibit.

We would advise Homo against wounding the feelings of a whole community and to refrain from rushing into print as he would to a groom elect's table else he be wriggled and twisted like a prisoner in purgatory awaiting the decison of his master

Yours
AMICI GRACCHI.

Dear Mr. Editor—Since the late war that had done so much damage both in loss of lives and property, we have not been out of reports of war coming again. You cannot imagine what a consternation Yesterday evening when the startling news reached us at 4 p. m. that Mocabay was taken by the war boys: this news created no little agitation and excitement. The natives and Sierra Leoneans from every direction were seen flocking to to the Mission premises like swarms of bees, from 3 p. m. till about 8 o'clock at night. I am not able to tell the noise and crowding of people at the parsonage house, Sowers of canavia, and pots of cooked rice too numerous to mention. At 8 o'clock we were informed that it was a noise made on the occasion of constables arresting somebody which was heard by those in the neighbourhood of Mocabay town and supposed to be the noise of war boys. Boxes and valuables of different discripti-n were brought in to the place considered as a place of refuge, by men, women, children in a half naked state. Indeed it is a place of safety at all times, though now only realized by some in the time of seeming distress. You may hear from me again. Truly Yours

COTOCARPY'S FRIEND.

Shaingay
Oct. 21st 87.

Dear Mr Editor,—I beg of you for a small space in your valuable journal to mention the continual annoyances in the Bargroo District. On the 11th instant complaint was made against one Jaimmy, resident of a town near Mobseylolo, by carpenter Anderson of Mah-Tassoe, whose apprentice boy ran away, went to live in Jaimmy's place both the boy and Jaimmy were sent for by the Corporal in charge of the District on account of misunderstandings. The police men that went, returned hastily and reported that Jaimmy had prepared men in a Parkie called Sombehoo to fight, as soon as the police men got into the Parkie, and began to enquire into the matter, Jaimmy called out Ha! Ha!!! Ha!!! and people began to rush from every part into the Parkie; they were so many, and the constables were trying to protect them, and were retiring when a man was killed and gave constable Richards a heavy blow on his hand with a club. They brought the complaint to the chief officer who went there in haste to make Jaimmy a prisoner, as soon as they saw him at a distance they laid ambush and fired at the Corporal and his men. Bassah Will was there (this man only recently joined Corporal Rogers to the place as being an interested friend to our Government.) By searching in the bush the Corporal caught Jaimmy and brought him to chief Sogbehi to know why he is so determined against the officer. You shall hear from me again how the matter ends, thanking you for space occupied. I remain

AN EYE WITNESS

Sombehoo Parkie.
13th October '87

NEWS ITEMS.

Mrs Caroline P. Trinity, wife of Mr. Solomon B. Trinity, who was laid up in bed for about 14 months, died on the 8th and was buried on the 9th inst.

16.—s.s. "Mandingue" from Freetown consigned to Compagnie Fraucaise.

18.—s. s. "Formoso" from Freetown.

20.—s.s. "Formoso" for Freetown with the following passengers.—Comdt and Mrs. Moseley, Messrs C. J. Cole, J. Porter, Gawler Dennis and several others.

The case of Messrs. Porter, Parkinson, and Cole is to be tried in Freetown.

The town is at present without an officer in charge. The Commandant is away to Freetown, The Collector and Treasurer is at Sulymah, The Colonial Surgeon is in Freetown, The Inspector is at Konconany, and the Goaler is in Freetown.

Mr. Isaac E. Taylor arrived from the Kittam where he had been spending some time.

A new Club has recently been organized by the title of "Bonthe Mutual Literary Club" affiliated to the "Grand East End Club" Freetown, we wish the members of this Club every success in all their undertakings.

Shaingay School, was reported as having an average attendance of 70 pupils up to Sep. 26th (87) this is good so soon after the war and with the affairs so unsettled in the country.

Personal

Corpl J. W. Nicol one of our courageous police of the staff here returned about 13th inst from a tour on special duty to the Boom, but the information was late from our last issue.

Rev. D. F. Wilberforce of Shaingay lately made a visit to Daniville station; but was obliged to return without calling at this place, however it is whispered that he will be this way again in short.

Miss Iris Parkes arrived in this place from Freetown per s.s. Formoso on the 18th inst. she is taking a change here for a few weeks, during which time she will be the guest of Mrs. Evans at the M. Mission House.

Mr. I. J. Campbell from Lavanah we believe an employee of the Palma Trading Compy. called on us on the 18th inst. he was expecting to pass on to Freetown by the Formoso that left on the 20th instant.

Mrs. Lewis wife of Capt. Judson A. Lewis we were pleased to learn by the mail of the 18th inst. had returned to Freetown in good health.

Mrs S. S. Joah, left this place returning to Konconany on the 24th inst.

Mr H. T. Coker of Bompeh river gave us a call on the 24th inst he reports the country in a terrible state about that way. The Yonnies have ruined it.

Mr Chas. F. Fletcher formerly of Lavanah has recently come to Sherbro and will, we understand, be hereafter in the employ of F. & A. Company at Ghundamah. He gave us a call on the 26th inst.

Mr. Langley Grant was in town and gave us a call about the 27th inst. He was well and looking fine.

"Bonthe Mutual Literary Club"

AFFILIATED TO THE

"Grand East End Club"

FREETOWN.

A Club has recently been organized in this place bearing the above title, and its object is to infuse life and to do away the dull monotony that pervades this place, and also to extend to Sherbro those advantages which Freetown has hitherto enjoyed in respect of amusements under taken by various societies especially by the Grand East End Club which has oftentimes encouraged the liveliness of the community to a satisfactory extent by means of Concerts Entertainments, amusements in legerdemain and other pastimes of harmless characters.

A meeting of the above Club took place on Monday the 24th inst. when the rules were read and officers elected.

Among other amusements set down in the Rules, there is to be monthly Lecture [private] to be delivered by a member [compulsory] before the general meeting and also quarterly Lectures, Debate, or address to be delivered to the general Community.

The following gentlemen were elected to serve as officers in the Club,

Patron,—Commandant Moseley.
Vice " Rev. G. G. M. Nicol S. A.
" " S. B. A. Macfoy Esq.
Hon. President C. W. Betts "
Vice do J. D. Macaulay "
Hon. & Corr. Sect. J. Brighton Turner.
Asst. " W. Bidwell Coker.
Treasurer W. B. Coker.

It is to hoped that the Club shall obtain always from the mother Club all help and assistances, advices and admonitions that might be required to make the Club a really enviable one. The Inaugural address will be delivered by the Vice President J. D Macauley Esq. on Tuesday the 8th prox.

Communicated.

Bonthe Sherbro,
Oct. 28th '87.

"WONDERS NEVER CEASE"

Sir—It is very disgraceful to know that in this age of civilization when every individual looks forward with an eye of aspiration to success and progress, that certain sect of our young men of somewhat prominent position in this community, should degrade themselves in being initiated into the order of the Gobar or Fangs a society.

To effect this initiation, I am told that one of them not long ago, betook himself into one of the remote Parkies, where he was killed (as the term is) in the Devil's bush and subsequently raised, washed, and then admitted into the Society of the Gobar's—a Society regarded even by the members themselves as one fraught with the horror of superstition and thrivishness.

It might be strange to hear that a handsome sum as subscription money has since been paid; an action, indicating the want of that propriety and decorum which this individual as a professed Christian should have possessed.

To what end I seriously ask is this waste? mean while, expect to hear from me again.

Bonthe, Oct 28th '87 WONDERS.

DRESSER OR DISPENSER?

Sir,—I regret I cannot give your enquirer the necessary answer he should have, but this much I will say, that with the exception of a surgeon now, all the other surgeons have given up the use of the name Dresser so any of their assistants. If my memory serves me well I think it was the talented Dr. Hort when Colonial Surgeon, who used the name Dresser altogether given up, amongst his men in Freetown, and the other districts, he substituted the more refined title of district Dispensers. It is only in Sherbro now a days that the ancients term seems more preferable than the present one; it is a wonder that both classes of people, the illiterate and illiterate, use the term; they must have done so ignorantly not knowing that the title has been changed for more than 4 years ago. I trust however that our friend "Novus Homo" and those around us will know this, and so give up the name Dresser, and take the modern title of Dispenser.

With kind regards. I am, Yours truly
HOPE

Dear Mr Editor.—By the s. s. "Formoso" which arrived here on the 21th inst, was Rev. G. Marke Wesleyan minister who arrived from Freetown as a deputation to investigate the matter of Mr A. O. Walker's (member of that connexion) against the pastor. Mr. Marke went through the whole proceedings, when it was found that the whole of the charges were ungrounded, and unsupported.

Mr Marke returns to Freetown by the same steamer on the 27th inst.—X

Dear Bro. Evans.—I am just in from a quarterly meeting at Rembee Station.

This is the first quarterly held since the war, I am satisfied that the late war will prove a blessing to our work the people are attending services as they never did before, persons that rarely ever attend the services were present at all the meetings and sent me presents of plantains bananas oranges etc. and promise a radical reform. At Kaolonge, Mambo, and Rembe the out look at present is good Mr. Richards got back to Kaolonge in good time. Mrs Richards is a strong force there of herself conducts a 6 a. m. class, the Sabbath school and interprets for her husband when he preaches besides this has from 6 to 8 Mission girls that she is training properly, I would that we had many more such then again this same family know just how to take care of the P. E. when he calls and this is quite an item which you yourself must know by this time.

J. GOMER.

GBAIGROO ITEMS.

DROWNED.—On the 9th instant, a woman named Venice John native of Kissy town Sierra Leone, at the mouth of Ghamghiah river. Two of her grumaters died also

It is reported that the police constables at Manoh GBargroo has been disturbed by the Timnee people residing in some farkies belonging to Bengeblol, where they were sent to execute duty about the 11th instant. Constable Richards was clubbed on the hand. Corpl Roberts upon hearing the news proceeded there in company with Bonoh Will, and they were fired at. But Jemmie the leader in the matter we are told was arrested and delivered to Chief Seibolo to state grievences and to explain his reasons for resisting the constables.

A STRIKING COINCIDENCE.

Mr. Charles S. Pyne, a well known trader in the Kittam river, who, during the late disturbances in that country sought refuge at Bendoo Thumbah, and now temporarily residing at a place near Jaimaica Factory, rescuer of the Boat "Victory" belonging to Mr. S. B. Morrison, which was said to have been lost under a squall about the 29th of June last, was providentially rescued by Mr. M. on on Friday the 14th inst. His boat having been almost wrecked in the falls abreast the M. Mission House, Avery, Mr. M. is deserving of much praise for the energetic manner in which he conducted the affair in rescuing both boat and the lives of the crew.

Manoh Bargroo,
Oct. 15th '87.

OFFICIAL NOTICE.

It is hereby notified for general information that the Districts of Native and Ceded Quish, Massimerah and Mamrampa are in an unsettled state, and are likely to continue so for a time: traders and others are warned accordingly.

By Command,
T. RISELY GRIFFITH,
Colonial Secretary & Treasurer.
Freetown, Sierra Leone,
21st October, 1887.

THE OUT-LOOK.

The storm is over, the thick dark clouds have passed away, the sky is clearing up and the atmosphere is pure and sweet, and there is a general good feeling, except here and there the storm has carried away a father, mother, sister or brother, a child or a friend, in many instances domestics properly speaking, slaves have been taken captives killed or walked away with during the storm, all of these events naturally cause some sadness, but the war is over, that is a fact, and the out-look for a long reign of peace and prosperity in the Shaingay district is flattering, provided the people can be assured that the English Government will give protection. Already people are pouring into the country from different quarters, and the question is constantly being asked, "Will the Government hold the country?" Slaves up in the Mendi country have heard that the English have taken this country and some have already come down here to be free. If a master here talks of selling slaves, they run at once to the Police for protection. A master in a village about 12 miles from here was about to sell a young girl about 15 years of age to be taken to the Soo-soo country, she hearing this set out for the nearest police station about eight miles distant and reported the case to the Corporal, the girl's master followed her, but failed to recover his property, though he pleaded hard and even applied to the Noble Captain Halkett the girl was told to go where she pleased, that she was no more a slave and though so large she had on no more clothes than mother Eve in the garden, a passing constable took her to Shaingay where the Sergt's wife gave her a small piece of cloth, and she found her way out to the Mission, Mrs Gomer put a dress on her and would have sent her away at once but the girl said she had no where to go, she knew nothing of a mother, for when a very small child, she had been bought by a woman who sold her to this man, he had put her in pledge for cloth and then redeemed her, and now he wished to sell her for a cow and if she was sent off he would surely catch her. The country is being filled with this class of people that wish to be free, yet have no means of taking care of themselves, some monied philanthropist, would do well to open an extensive industrial farm for just this class of people and teach them the art of self support. This girl is smart, can work well but is fearfully rude in her manners, so that we cannot keep her here.

Now is the time the very time that something should be done. In the name of humanity, Christianity and decency I ask that something be done to save these poor degraded and forsaken people. There is not a hospital or an asylum or work-house or Reform School, jail or prison of any kind in the country. At this rate we shall soon have a fearful state of things, there are two sides to the present out look. J. GOMER.

Shaingay,
Oct. 6th 1887.

Dear Mr Editor,—Since William and Thomas Kogbar "Jim's dark days," I have not made up my report nor written up for the 'Dawn' the nature of the work on this Circuit; and as father Gomer wrote in one of his articles, that both Tongo and Charmany stations are good fields, also that they are supplied with new men and that time will speak for them; I believe it is high time now for it to speak for them. Really Mr. Editor I can not but give Almighty God the praise for the manner in which he has directed the work before the rebellion and up to this quarter. The Superintendent visited the ruins of N'Charmany station sometime about the 10th instant, but on account of ill health the one in charge was not there. The warriors at William the Pretender, and Thomas the disaffected burnt down the beautiful Mission Home which he had just been repaired before those dark days came. And as the rains are heavy, the Supt. thinks proper that we should repair the kitchen only and use it for a Mission house for the present.

William's Chapel, as we may call it, for he was the first preacher in charge of this Station is under repairs when we are through with it you will hear from me.

Since my appointment here, I have not had trouble with the dogs that were so annoying to Messrs Bennet and J. J. Doumabaley Ofcourse I have seen a few dogs, but these are not anoying to me. My own idea leads me to believe that those dogs were afraid of long white beard, and this was the cause of their being in a passion. The work in the Parkies is very encouraging at Npallah, a barray has been built for the purpose of worshiping God. And at Solarthy's Parkie another, Mo-Bowmah on the branch of the Kargborroh is not yet peopled, the town being burnt down, the owners are out in their farm houses till the drys come. At Mo-Yaimah the Capital for Bowmah the brethren there are ready for the gospel, Sarmah, Mo-Bith, Gompah, they are quite ready to receive us. Sarnkone is in distress on account of the war, most of their people were carried away captives. Amongst those taken two are our members are our third Bashas Robbin by name is arrested for Freetown as being an accomplice in the Rebellion.

There is no one at Motimpeh, the headman ran away, lest he should be arrested for an accomplice. Rheumatism does not allow me to visit five towns, but shall do so as soon as the rains are over.

Brother N. E. O. Thompson was absent for a short time on account of the war, but has returned, he also is a great help in this part of the field. I was very glad to receive him back. He commenced itinerating as soon as he came, and is reporting success.

The young men of this town ask me to open night School for them and this is what I expect to do when the Chapel is finished. I expect to name the School Gomer's Memorial night School For he was the first preacher from America, in my days, who introduced to us a night School. But Mr Editor, will you allow me to state that this work needs great help And that is, in oil or money to get it. and for this Mr Editor, I beg the assistance of Christian brethren to lend he aid. Some may say the Scholars of the School ought to give something to buy the oil; yes, and this is true; but Mr Editor Charmany is not a place to get kernels, and the birds made away with their rice whilst they were off from the war. Brethren, your prayers are needed. Your help is wanted. Freely ye have received, Freely give.

Thanking you Mr Editor for the space occupied. —Yours,

J. W. DOMINGO.

Mr Editor,—I think some of your readers will like to know something about Thomas Cogbah's war boys, their state and manners when they were in their camp. As the story was told me so I will relate it. First that they were rude, dirty, and daring; all that they wanted could not to be earned honestly, but they hoped to load themselves with spoils, so as to enrich themselves when they get to their filthy homes; hence they flocked at the call of the would be king. Second, that Cogbah made his army swear by greegrees consisting of an Elephant's head and other curiosities, assuring him that they would never retreat till they shall have pulled down Shaingay. At that time they cleared a large piece of ground where they gathered themselves around their gods (gre-grees) Toyambeh, the chief man of Mosankone was away; and having heard of the war he returned and hid in the bush, spied them as they were perpetrating the act. Readers imagine Cogbah in the midst of these ruffians; though an educated man, yet has nothing of refinement about him. Alas! for such a one, who breaks the first commanment and makes a breach of the rest. Third, that when they were boiling the human carcase they putrified reptiles, Cogbah and his boys made no objection to eat nasty things. They were joyous, playing all sort of games, feasting and slapping one another, spelling themselves pugilists and bold warriors, and gave Cogbar all assurance that they will surely bring the heads of T. N. Caulker and others in a charge. In spite of all these boastings they were defeated at Shaingay, ran back and met Cogbah on the look out for T. N. Caulker's head and other principal ones; but was disappointed. He did not fail however to see some of his war boys jaws locked up, some scared by bullets, some died in the bush and they buried some of their dead at Foyah and other farkies. The plans of W. T. G. Caulker and Cogbah were frustrated and like Goliath, they shall gnash their teeth in destruction. What a pitiful sight to these men made themselves? Civilized men who know about the laws of Her Majesty Victoria; surely, all the rightcous blood that they have shed is now crying unto God for vengance. Cogbah has made himself miserable. I have seen the filthy huts in which Cogbar and his war boys lived. They are over 200, made of few sticks and palm leaves. I really believe that even pigs would object to using such huts as stys. Thanking you for space occupied.

Yours the same

T. O. N. E.
Sept 20th 87 A FRENCHMAN.

MISCELLANY.

A Prayer For The Reporters. Chaplain Allison of the Minnesota legislature prayed one morning: "And now dear Lord, bless the reporters, whose stumbling feet catch our every word almost before it is uttered. Like thyself they are omnipresent and almost omnipotent as well as the wings of the morning and fly to the uttermost parts of the earth they are there. They meet us in the jungles of Africa, they waylay us in the solitary canyons of Colorado, and when at length we find the latitude of the Magnetic pole behold they are there. May their light and goodness be equal to their power, and in the general assembly of heaven let no reporter be excluded." Amen.

A boy stood with his hands in his pockets one cold morning watching the burning of his school house, and after the novelty of the thing ceased he ran home saying, "I'm glad the old thing is burned down, for I did n't get my jografy lesson nohow."

"Fellow-citizens," said a carpet bagger, addressing an audience of colored people in South Carolina, "my skin is white, it is true, but my soul is blacker than yours."

A pair of twins were born in a Pullman car coming east last week, and the porter was mean enough to charge the happy father $2.50 for a double birth.

J.A. Clemens

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Bookseller, Stationary and

Miscellaneous GOODS

ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET

N.B. Removed to upper Oto Street, opposite the burial ground

Bonthe, Sherbro.

An advantage to all.

FRIENDS

residing here and in the Rivers, requiring the loan of MONEY, will loose no time in applying to who is ready to advance from 10s. to 100s., at a time on good Securities. Further particulars will be given on application.

D.L. COLLIER,

Bonthe, Sherbro,
22nd. Sept. '87.

Just Received

and for sale at the

S. M. MISSION STORE

An assortment of Medicines, &c, &c, &.

Nerve and Bone Liniment, Rheumatic & Gout Cure, Pain Dispeller, Liver Regulator, Comp'd Ex't fluid of Buchu, Chlorodyne Cough cure. Sarsaparilla, Iron Tonic Bitters, Dyspepsia Cure, Pectorial Wine, Comp'd Blk-berry Cordial, Itch Ointment, Porous Plaster.

Bonthe,
Aug 1887.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. IV. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, NOVEMBER 15, 1887. No. 91.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE, SHERBRO,

Under the Supervision of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto. deliv'ed in Bonth,	0	2	6

Advance.—Communications to Rev. J.A. Evans, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gomer, Shaingay, West Africa. Rev. Z. Warner, D.D., Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.

DIRECTORY.

Colonial Secretary,	C. W. Harley Moseley
Collector,	The Commandant.
Deputy Collector,	Wm. Hughes.
Chief Clerk,	W. Hughes.
Land. do.	Geo. Adams.
Landing Waiter and Gauger,
Sub-Treas. & Col. Chief Clerk	C. H. Garrett J. D. Macauley.
Tide Waiters.	J. S. Crowe, J. B. Turner, S. G. Cole
Asst. Surveyor,	Other Mallah, Jasper Caulker
Assistant Col. Surgeon, R. C. S.	M. L. Jarrett, M
Dispenser	Rowland May.
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police	M. Betts.
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett.

Always abound in the work of the Lord. He who waits to be apprec ate l by the world loses precious time. Some of the best of man's work must wait for recognition until the resurrection of the just.

I must think forever: would an eternal train of my present thoughts be either worthy of me or useful to me? I must feel forever: would an eternal reign of my present spirit and desires please me—make me happy? I must act forever: would an eternal course of my habitual conduct bring blessedness, or even bear reflection?

THE PROBLEM OF MISSIONS.

"The light does shine somewhat; but all I contend that doctrinal exposition of it, as like the words of the Prophet as he stood in the vale of the Jordan almost nineteen centuries ago. As he daily expected the appearance of the Christ among the thronging crowds that gathered about him; he said "the light shineth in darkness, and [but] the darkness comprehendeth it not" The Jews in their blindness would not lay hold upon the Christ light that shone with such lustre before them while even yet the forerunner was heralding his manifestation, nor afterward when Messiah did manifest himself before them in mighty words, such as never man spake, and deeds such as man could not perform opening even the eyes of those born blind. At that period the light did shine, but darkness must have seemed to deepen impenetrably, but God then wrought miracles, not alone in deed, upon physically diseased bodies of men, but upon the the surrounding and deepending darkness of obstinate unbelief, it cost him his son, it is true, but it brought salvation to all men by breaking down the middle of partition that separated Jew and gentile, and the darkness began to see the light, so that those that have not been called before this day were more of John's character; so enlightened up in their zeal for the Master that they could bear sight of themselves as such become indeed voices only declaring the message of truth in such a manner as to cause men to look to Christ and not to them to glorify God rather than honor men's person, then doubtless the gospel of Christ preached by them would become more potent and many sinners would be converted to the faith of the cross. What they would needs today, is The Voice, the voice of God sounded so loud by men that drowsy saints may be awakened and dead sinners raised to life.

THE FACTOR AND MURRAY-MAN.

Dear Mr Editor,—I doubt not that you and your readers will be surprised when going through the following piece of history to learn that Murray-man, a man with an able merchant in this community was however arranged from the humanity of the merchant, that this youngman is to serve as a subfactor at certain sum per annum to enable him to make good his account, in course of time. The merchants supplied him with materials for the building of a Factory house to transact his business. This young man who went up for the purposes of building in the river begetting that the eyes of God are ever upon him, not as soon for a murray man 40 miles or there about from the spot to come and help him etc. as he is not satisfied that he is to be the right person to take charge of the newly built Factory. They some upon bargain for £50. 0. 0. if at all he succeeded, and the merchant gives him goods to trade. The murray man asked him for an advance of £5. 0. 0. to begin with, after expressing his inability of paying the £5. 0. 0. some day was oblige to give his damaged watch in pledge. The murray man returned the damage watch for his knowing the value of it, set to work at once.

No doubt from confidence he had in this youngman, after three months had lapsed the job given him, saw also that goods were supplied to this youngman to trade.

The murray man exclaimed I have finish of the work you gave me to do. The murray-man applying to him for the amount bargained. fifty pounds for service performed this young man no doubt feeling his guilt, wilfully refused paying the murray man his claim and began to reveal the matter to the public to such an extent.

Now Mr. E. it will be wisdom on the part of this young man to know that honour and wealth cometh from God. And that God, is a jealous God and hateth that have to deal with a liar. Thanking you for these and many other truly yours.

THE VOICE.

When the fame of John the Baptist had become so great, as to excite the curiosity of the Vast multitudes of people from City Town and country in the Land of Palestine, especially that portion known as Judea, when these vast crowds gathered about the greatest prophet the world ever saw whose purity holiness and wisdom shone like a burning and shining light that drew upon the admiration of saint and sinner alike. When all, every body, was in expectation of the coming Messiah. "When the Jews sent priests and Levites from Jerusalem to ask him, who art thou?" * * * He said "I am the Voice of one crying in the wilderness." The work of this reply seems to be to let it stand known John the Baptist seems here to lose sight of his personal identity, as if he said I am of no importance to you, but those who sent you had the Voice, you have the message proclaimed, the Lord Messiah coming, prepare the way for the Lord that he may enter in to your hearts. Indeed this is the only purpose for which God sends any man upon the earth is to bring prepare themselves for his coming. The message in this dispensation, I am the Christ, I will give them the Holy Ghost, and they shall be my witnesses, but my hand does bind the Voice, only the Holy Ghost can do that. Now it does seem that it was intentions of the primitive day were more of John's character; so zealoused up in their zeal for the Master that they could leave sight of themselves so as to become indeed voices only declaring the message of truth in such a manner as to cause men to look to Christ and not to them to glorify God rather than honor men's person, then doubtless the gospel of Christ preached by them would become more potent and many sinners would be converted to the faith of the cross. What they would needs today, is The Voice, the voice of God sounded so loud by men that drowsy saints may be awakened and dead sinners raised to life.

THE FACTOR AND MURRAY-MAN.

Dear Mr Editor,—I doubt not that you and your readers will be surprised when going through the following piece of history to learn that Murray-man, a man with an able merchant in this community was however arranged from the humanity of the merchant, that this youngman is to serve as a subfactor at certain sum per annum to enable him to make good his account, in course of time. The merchants supplied him with materials for the building of a Factory house to transact his business. This young man who went up for the purposes of building in the river begetting that the eyes of God are ever upon him, not as soon for a murray man 40 miles or there about from the spot to come and help him etc. as he is not satisfied that he is to be the right person to take charge of the newly built Factory. They some upon bargain for £50. 0. 0. if at all he succeeded, and the merchant gives him goods to trade. The murray man asked him for an advance of £5. 0. 0. to begin with, after expressing his inability of paying the £5. 0. 0. some day was oblige to give his damaged watch in pledge. The murray man returned the damage watch for his knowing the value of it, set to work at once.

No doubt from confidence he had in this youngman, after three months had lapsed the job given him, saw also that goods were supplied to this youngman to trade.

The murray man exclaimed I have finish of the work you gave me to do. The murray-man applying to him for the amount bargained. fifty pounds for service performed this young man no doubt feeling his guilt, wilfully refused paying the murray man his claim and began to reveal the matter to the public to such an extent.

Now Mr. E. it will be wisdom on the part of this young man to know that honour and Serious Elopement Lovers.

---

Two eloping couples from Nelson country secretly last Wednesday night. They were William Brown and Sallie Sanders and Sam Berton and Mary Sanders. The Sanders men were brothers and the girls sisters; and was the property of the plaintiffs father. At Jeffersonville, Indiana, Miss Gretna, Greene County, the elopers. The pursuit was hot, the girls were very clandestine, and to avoid contact the girls were kept in a field adjoining, and it is said at one time after the young men had left for further information, the girls were in the house with their pursuers. They were finally overtaken at Sallie with Sam. They were about seventeen miles from the railroad station and started to drive there as quickly as possible.

The suspicions of the neighbors had been aroused, however, and Mr. Sanders was informed. Mounting a horse, he started in swift pursuit, and soon overhauled the elopers. They would not stop, so he caught the horse in the rear buggy by the reins and halted Sam and Sallie. William gave a whip to his horse and escaped. When they reached the station he and Mary did not hear anything from the other couple, and after talking the matter over they concluded to go ahead and get married anyhow. They reached Louisville last night, and this morning were united by a magistrate in Jeffersonville. The groom told his story frankly, and when asked if there would not be trouble when they got home, said: No, I guess not. Both girls are about alike but I never went to see this one. I will make it all right with Sam when I get home." They returned this afternoon.—Sel.

The dog is certainly to be congratulated on one thing—he doesn't have to send his collar to a laundry every week.

The Early Dawn.
BONTHE, SHERBRO.
Nov. 15, 1887.

Sherbro Trade

Should, like any other, be studied, in order for men to succeed in it. Since our last we have had some conversation with several merchants and traders and are more than ever convinced that men have not hitherto studied this trade close enough, but have in too many cases considered one or two points in their business, while others have been left to care for themselves. Merchants have been more careful perhaps than traders in their calculations, but have either not acted up to their understandings or otherwise have failed to apprehend some of the difficulties of the trade here, one of the principal is the large percentage of damage arising out of the peculiar climate which seems as detrimental to European merchandise, as it is to the health of foreigners. Then as a rule in the Sherbro as most other river trade on this coast, buildings are dead expense, 1. in that they continually need repairs, if built of cheap materials, and if of better material, it will cost a great amount to erect them, 2. in nine cases out of ten if your business fails to pay you, you are obliged to sacrifice the buildings in part or altogether as very few men will either rent or buy old buildings where the business has not paid the first occupant; thus it is that, whatever money goes into buildings is almost like so much dead capital and profits must cover it eventually, otherwise the dealer will wake up some fine morning to find that he has made no money. Traders have need to consider well prices of produce as well as prices of merchandise the margin, if any the length of time also that it requires to make a turn over; the cost of conveyance of Merchandise and produce as well as the labour and expense of storage of both to which also must be added loss from damage shrinkage and all of these are large in the Sherbro trade owing to various circumstances; chiefly however arising out of the unsuitable boats and buildings used in the river trade. When business is dull most all difficulties increase so the sides that could have been desired goes down in the trade, but in Sherbro every man feels himself somewhat of a stranger and being away from home he is entitled to an employment, and often makes this so felt that his employers retain him on their staff, when really there is no profit on the business to pay him. In other words a surplus number of employees are too likely to be found around most establisements in dull times; whose very keeping, be it ever so mean, eats a way the profit of business, but often in such a way as not to be readily observed, this is especially true in retailing establishments. Busy days or weeks, it may even be months, have the the effect of increasing help to meet the demand of the time, and would perhaps be of no real disadvantage; but for (1) the fact that new people (if honest) are not the best prepared to do work in selling at least in a busy time and when new goods are just being opened (2) that the business in hand, altho. filling many hands with work, and exposing much stock to waste, does not yield a reasonable profit. (3) that these additional employees are too often continued after the rush of business is over.

Apology—For the rather bitter discussion, of the Marriage Question, that has been carried on in the last few issues. Our aim in asking the question was to arouse discussion, but we failed to state the question in a manner that would admit of it; however, as others understood our meaning and were proceeding with the discussion, we allowed it to proceed until our attention has been called to its being out of order, and now with a last paper from one of the openers, we drop the gavel and bring the matter to a close.

The "Bonthe Mutual Literary Club"—It was our great pleasure, last evening (14th) to attend the opening exercises of the above named Club, which was presided, over (in the absence of the Vice President) by his Worship C. H. Harley Moseley Esq Civil Commandant of Sherbro, who is also the distinguished Patron of the Club. The audience was large for such an occasion, and we believe in short all in order to clear away doubt in the minds of your readers and the general public, permit me to say that the remarks just quoted from X's letter is unwarrantable. I do not know the feelings which actuated X to rush so heedlessly into print, but all I could say in the matter is, that no charges were preferred against the pastor, but a report was sent to Freetown, when the Rev. Mr. Marke was deputed to come over here and institute an enquiry, and it was only an enquiry.

The fact of the matter is this, that the members consisting the Board "of Enquiry were 6 females and 3 male members, the former hardly know the object of the meeting. Now Mr. Editor, in the other churches I had never heard of females taking any part on such important matter, especially the six of them are all unlettered.—Why were not the majority of the Male members asked to be present in the meeting? The reason I can give for it is, that because the weakness of the females having been already gauged, it was sure that they would give their votes on behalf of the pastor, they being the majority.—Nevertheless the Rev. gentleman went through the whole proceedings, but gave no decision, as the matter is to be submitted to the General Superintendent in Freetown for his decision.

I am therefore at a loss to find out where Mr. X could draw such an unwarranted conclusion? I would advise Mr. X that in future he should not be a busy body in other people's matters but attend to his own business.

Bonthe, Yours Mr. Editor,
Nov. 10, '87. VERITY.

Dear Mr. Editor,—I was startled a few weeks ago in Victoria Road, to hear from the lips of (a member of the Dorcas Association) a communicant in the church, about 6.30 in the evening, that had been duped by a Necromancer to believe in superstitious charms, notwithstanding the religious respect conferred on her, yet she was heard disturbed by every pastor, when she is invoking the aid of her soul god to avenge those wrongs who had private intercourse with her husband, and those servants and employees whom had knowledge of the same, and would not tell it to her.

Mr. Editor, no wonder, (if the church rolls are carefully examined) we find comparatively few native converts in our churches although the real object of the Home committee of the different denominations, for sending missionaries here, is chiefly for the conversion of the heathens, yet I exceedingly regret to find that the heathens are hindered by the bad examples of the Sierra Leone resident Christians, for if not all and accredited Church member would not be ashamed to degrade herself, and the religion she professes by invoking the aid of gree-gree to avenge her adversaries &c. will it be a wonder to us, if we see a poor heathen fervently adoring blocks of wood and stones.

I trust in future the Church will not overlook such a thing; but strictly deal with any member (irrespective of respect and wealth, for "God is no respecter of persons") who would not obey the rules of the Church by excommunicating him or her, so as to deprive such person from all the means of grace, till he or she sees the error of his or her ways.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, for the space occupied. I am yours truly.

A. PASSER.

Dear Sir,—Permit me a small space in your valuable and interesting journal to return my sincere thanks to Mr Lazarus C. Rogers Asst. Examining officer at Bonthe, for the kind treatment I received from him during the period I was stationed in that District as police officer; and I also thank him for his useful advices and admonitions given me from time to time, which has been the cause of my saving so much of my income.

I would advise all police constables who may be privileged to be stationed in that District to follow the good counsels of this benevolent officer; for they will be free from those inconveniences into which some of them are usually placed.

By giving this a place you will kindly oblige me.—Yours ELI H. WILLIAMS.

Bonthe Sherbro
10th Nov. '87.

Dear Mr. Editor,—Since my last to the press informing you and your readers of the threatenings of war over the Gbargroo District, I was waiting for a choice opportunity to interest you and the public about the said war. Instead of the above named District to have had the damage, it fell to the lot of Senehun and Patafoo towns of upper Bompeh river, which sad and deplorable news reached us on the 4th ult; during which time, the entire country was in a total commotion, so much so that men's lives were in danger. The traders and school teachers suffered a great deal in that never to be forgotten war caused by the infidel Yonnies. Some were seen half naked, fleeing for their lives to Konconany. Information reached us then, that a Mr. Johnson wife and child escaped nearly naked to Kent, and his books entirely burnt. Oh! we pity them in their sad state. Mr. Dellop of Patafoo was in Freetown during the fight, his wife who was there, escaped empty handed, while his and the mission's books were burnt and partly carried away. Teachers too are not exempted from country wars; while others are seeking for hiding places, they too must run with their poor wives and perhaps children, and their valuables destroyed.

While we were on our look out, for either the Yonnies or Mendies, and having sleepless nights, we were more than thankful to Almighty God, and the Government, in sending the Sub. Inspector of Police Mr. M. E. Betts, who arrived here on the 11th ult with two more police to re-enforce the station, and on the 9th of the month, arrived also Sergt. D. O. Pratt with three more police to still give strength to this station, so that at present, the station has twelve police-men two non-commissioned officers and the Inspector. Since the arrival of the Sub Inspector, things have come into their right shape, the activity shown by this Officer over his men, was enough to deter the further advancement of either the Mendies or Yonnies to this place, as were determined by them. Inspector Betts is deserving of much praise for the energetic manner in which he has conducted his men in placing guards at nights in order to watch for the enimies. Much improvement has been made by him in this station. Through his exertions, the bush trees and dark bushes in and around this place have been cleared away, also, branches of trees cut down the station has now an overlooking and sweet air, that one can well enjoy.

At present, we have not heard so much news as before, but still perhaps there are some secret workings that have not yet come to light.

Those who have fled for shelter are returning, but slowly to their respective towns, when they have perhaps heard of the Inspector being here, with a handful of Police men.

The world should make it a subject of prayer to Almighty God, that war and other evils should be no more heard, and that the name of Jehovah should be heard every where.

Konconany. T. N. JOAH.
Nov. 4th. 87.

Interesting Communion services were held at Mendi Mission on the 13th inst. the Presiding Elder and the Pastor officiated on the occasion.

The District Supt. of the S. M. Missions visited Mendo Stations on the 12th inst.

NEWS ITEMS.

It is reported that there is to be a called meeting of the chiefs of the Bonthe Banna district, for the purpose of effecting reconciliation in the matter of Queen Betsy Gaye and chief Gbehry by the Commandant.

Nov. 2.—s. s. Formoso arrived from Freetown with the following passengers for this place Commandant Moseley & wife, Messrs J. B. Parkinson, C. J. Cole and several others.

The case of Mr J. Porter for selling spirits without licence that was sent for trial in Freetown have been dismissed in the police Court.

Cassada, the staple article of food can be obtained at the public market for a single head of tobacco (4 leaves) for one large bumper.

6—s. s. "Formoso" arrived from Freetown with the following passengers. Mr J. Porter, Mrs T. E. Macfoy and mother and several deckers.

Mr. J. A. Dennis the Gaoler, was also a passenger by this steamer.

A gold-smith by the name of Mr Robinson of York-Island was severely wounded by thieves who entered his house on the night of the 5th inst for the purpose of robbing him of his jewels. The wounded man is under medical treatment in the Colonial Hospital.

We are informed that Queen Nyarroh is alive and not dead. That she has since her captivity become the wife of Machaforey chief of Tikoukoh, who had given instructions to his warriors not to kill her.

Serjt. C. N. Taylor and private William Taylor who were sent to Darwah for the past 2½ months for the release of Queen N'Yarroh returned on the 11th inst. without achieving any success, the Queen is still detained, unless a ransome of £60. is sent by the Government.

A Meeting of Chiefs—Is reported from Bendemah; which is said to be headed by Chief Humpah Rango, and is supposed to be for regulating of the affairs of country; but up to 14th date of report, their counsels were private, and not understood by our reporter. We hope to refer in short to hear more from their proceedings.

Inaugural Address of Mr J. D. Macaulay Vice President of the "Bonthe Mutual Literary Club," delivered last evening (14th inst) was an able production, and quite up to the demands of the occasion; unfortunately, however Mr. Macaulay was not well, and Mr. Wilhelm was deputed to deliver the address which he did in a masterly manner.

Mr. Thomas Taylor secretary to Chief Macha-to-rey arrived here with Serjt Taylor and private Taylor to report to the Comd't the cause of Queen N'Yarroh's detention:—

Mr W.D.Pasha, Cathecist of St. Matthew's Church left this place yesterday for the rivers to collect subscriptions for the N. P. and S. L. C. M.

Personal

Our Editor who left for Gbargroo on the 29th ult. returned to town on the 31st October.

Rev. J. C. Thomas, Pastor of Wesleyan Church in this place, gave us a call on the 3rd inst.

Mr. Langley Grant called on us again on the eve of his departure for Freetown per s. s. "Formoso" on the 3rd inst.

Corp'l J. W. Nicol also gave us a pleasant look in on the 3rd inst. He left about the 5th inst. for Small Bone District.

Rev. W. S. Sage and wife arrived out on the return to Africa per Barque Liberia on the 29th inst. Mr. and Mrs Sage are out under the Auspices of the Womans Missionary Association (U. B. C.) and will be stationed at Rotofunk Bompeh Mission. We wish them abundant success in their labours.

Mr. D. W. During Catechist of P. E. Church of York Island gave us a call on the 5th inst. we were pleased to meet him.

Mr W. H. Davison was down from Kronkon to meet his brother, Mr. E. Davison lately from Lagos, who arrived here on the 8th inst per s. s. Formoso they gave us a pleasant call on the 9th

Mr. S. Tamoh called on us on the 9th inst on business for Alpha Factory.

Mr. H. R. Williams Postmaster of this place called on us on the 12th inst, Mr. Williams we are sorry to note has not been so well for sometime past.

Mr. Remmie G. Caulker of Shaingay Mission arrived here on the 11th inst. crossed over to Bendoo on the 12th to relatives and friends.

Mr. J. A. Williams of this place arrived from the river on the 12th inst he will proceed we believe to Freetown in short for a few week's change. Mrs Williams we learn will accompany him.

Mr. P. G. Williams, late of Prussian Factory Kittam River gave us a call on the 12th inst Mr Williams was enjoying good health, we believe, he expects to proceed to Freetown ere long.

Mr. Thos E. Coker of Gbanghartooke gave us a call this morning (13th)

Dear Mr. Editor,—In your last issue appeared the two articles signed "A Married Man" and "Amici Gracchi." I regret to say that both of these articles are useless; I fail to see what they were trying to prove—"Amici Gracchi" bitter is moaningless; he is disposed to quarrel, for the many uncalled for remarks and his style of writing tells me so. I would therefore leave him with his childish idea of things and his characteristic quarrel; some disposition to have his own way, as I am otherwise disposed. Just a word for Mr. "A Married Man"—I am not the least surprised to see in what strain he writes, he has not only failed to disprove what I stated but admits that the majority of married men live in the field of polygamy, of which he seems a patron. If in my mentioning that many would wish to have 50 to 100 guests to witness their ceremony, shows that I grudge Mr. "A Married Man," I can assure him that he makes the greatest mistake imaginable; I am not aware that he invited such a number of friends when he was married; then he was fortunate enough to have the means to carry out his purpose some how or other than obtaining loans; is that it? if so I congratulate him, that he was not detected when obtaining the means to have his purpose carried out; but he forgets that those men who make such feasts are considered otherwise! so much so that it is said of them "Fools make feast for wise to eat." I am sure that honest bachelors as we are, will never consent to marry for fortune sake, (as some of you have done and are disappointed) but from the pure motive of love which will bring with it lasting future happiness. Now who is to blame the honest bachelor who has no one to caress him and tries to find one, or the dishonest and disatisfied married man who takes along with his wife, those who are to find a home in the bachelor. Unless the evil ways of the married men be stopped, the bachelors will remain as they are.

As I shall be leaving this place tomorrow for another, for the purpose of taking my selected maid, I beg to state that you will hear from me no more as I shall never come up these shores again. Thanking you for the space occupied.

I am, yours truly,
Sherbro, Homo.
Nov. 12. '87.

ORIGINAL
DEFECTIVE

A MODERN SPARTAN.

Lycurgus had been reading in his ancient history about his illustrious name sake and the Grecian warriors till his eye glanced with warlike fire; then leaping to his feet and stretching him self out to his full height, he exclaimed: "I wish I had been born in Sparta; then I should have been a noted lawgiver or a famous warrior, perhaps a great general, renowned for bravery and praised in history for many gallant deeds and great victories won!"

"Yes," said his older sister, "and so you would be dead nearly three thousand years."

"Oh, but I mean if I were a Spartan now," promptly answered Lycurgus, thinking that the difficulty was triumphantly surmounted.

"But Spartans now are not much greater than Americans in warlike achievements," persistently answered his sister.

This crushing reply had the effect of kindling into a flame the sparks of warlike fire which smouldered in the breast of the gallant youth, and having no brazen shield to repel the piercing dart, nor Grecian short sword to strike through the neck of his assailant, he answered with a tone and in a manner not at all in full accord with brotherly deference: "But I say, if this were the age of Spartan chivalry, and I were a Spartan by birth and training, then I might become a lawmaker or a soldier renowned in arms as much as any other Spartan."

"In other words," quietly urged his sister, "if you had been the famous Grecian Lycurgus instead of Lycurgus Smith, you would have been somebody of note instead of—a silly boy."

A proclamation of war was about to shake the house from cellar to garret, when their mother, who had listened in silent amusement to the war of words which had raged so hotly for a few moments between brother and sister, broke in: "I do not see why you may not be come as great, and even greater than any Spartan who has ever drawn a sword or made a law or wielded a sceptre."

The martial spirit of Lycurgus now yielded to that of curiosity to know how it was possible to make a practical success of his ambitious inspirations.

"We don't have any wars in America," ruefully answered the boy.

"Yes my son" assured his mother, "there are many battles to be fought, and if you have the spirit of a true soldier you will fight them, too."

"I thought you always wanted me to become a foreign missionary when I grew up to be a man; now you say I ought to be a soldier and fight battles with the Indians in the West I suppose."

"That is the lowest kind of bravery which delights in killing men, weather they are red or white," said his mother. The Spartans you think so great were a race of stern and cruel, rude and savage warriors, incapable of appreciating that which makes a man truly great—greatness of character. He is not great who takes pleasure in shedding blood, and making war is a great crime to those who are the instigators of it. It is only right to those who are forced to defend themselves and their country from unjust attacks of an invader, or of him who would deprive them of their lawful rights, civil and religious.

"There are many other enemies, however which it is right for you to fight and conquer, too. In that way you may become a very great warrior. You recollect the words of the wise man: "A wrathful man stirreth up contention; but he that is slow to anger appeaseth strife. He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty, and he that ruleth his sprit than he that taketh a city."

Lycurgus' face glowed a little, for he remembered the momentary heat of passion stirred up by his sister's petty controversy with him.

"Keep thy heart with all diligence," added his mother, "for out of it are the issues of life." But in order to do this you must gain the victor over yourself.

"But people don't fight with themselves! inquiringly suggested Lycurgus, thinking to turn the application away from himself.

"Yes, indeed, said his mother. "You remember the Apostle Paul speaks of a law warring against the law of his mind and bringing him into captivity"—when I would do good evil is present with me. But I keep under my body and bring it into subjection, lest that by any means, when I have preach ed to others, I myself should be a castaway. And he charges the Ephesian Christians 'Take unto you the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all to stand.' Yes, there are thousands of enemies to be over come. For example, if you overcome the tendency to idleness you will be able to master your Latin Grammar easily and to commit to memory the questions in Catechism. If you conquer selfishness you will be able to look with pleasure upon the graces or the property of others without envy or grudging You are sometimes self-willed, and therefore slow to follow the advice of those who are wiser than you. This enemy must be over come. The great Lycurgus, for whom you were called, might have been a king in place of his brother, but he proclaimed the infant son of his brother king and himself became his guardian. Lycurgus was not a lawgiver without first applying himself to close study for many years. To gain this knowledge he left his home and travelled in distant parts of the world, studying the laws and constitutions of other nations. When he returned to Sparta, full of wisdom, he drew up a code of laws, gave them to his countrymen, and probably fearing that they would make him their king he left Sparta and was never heard of more.

"No one becomes great by wishing but by learning to obey and then to do. Even Christ pleased not himself, for 'though he was rich, yet for our sakes he became poor that we through his poverty might be rich.' He was so meek and so lowly, so self-sacrificing and so submissive, and yet so great, that those who desire to be truly great must follow his example."

—The Weekly Itinerant.

SLAVE TRADE IN AFRICA.

While the African slave trade with nominally Christian nations has been suppressed, it is a painful fact that it still exists in large proportions in Africa itself. It is certain that, not very long ago, 2,000 rescued slaves were turned over by the British authorities to the church missionary at Freretown, East Africa. It is also certain that a raft drawn loaded with slaves are constantly crossing the Red Sea. Reliable reports of a comparatively recent date from the Upper Congo, mention the discovery of a camp of 2,300 slaves secured by the burning of 118 villages and by the devastation of at least forty three districts. A traveler reports that during a six years residence at Massai, in West Africa, he has never undertaken a journey of seventy miles without meeting a caravan of slaves. Some of these caravans number as many as 2,000. Between spirits of turpentine, slightly disguised as rum, and this slave traffic, with its burning of towns and devastation of large sections of country, the future of Africa appears dark and the work of missionaries is discouraging from a human standpoint.

—The Methodist Herald.

A Quaker's Retort.—"I never turn aside for scoundrels," said a bully, meeting a Quaker, and stepping up square before him to inaugurate a quarrel. "I do," said the Quaker and took the other side of the way.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—During the month of September, receipts were . . . . . 2,614 tons.
Deliveries . . 2,881 "
Stock on 30th September . 10 431 "
In August—receipts were . 5,930 "
Deliveries . . . 5,820 "
Stock 31st Aug. '86, 8,767 tons 31 Aug. '85 5,595 "

The market is steady at a slight advance on our quotations of 30th September.

	Present Price.	Same time last year.
Congou per ton	£18 0 0 to £18 5 0	£19 5 0 to £19 10 0
Niger, Brass, New Calabar	18 2 6 to 18 7 6	19 15 0 to 20 0 0
Old Calabar	19 0 0 to 19 5 0	20 0 0 to 20 5 0
Lagos	20 0 0 to 20 5 0	21 0 0 to 21 5 0
Benin	14 5 0 to 18 10 0	19 15 0 to 20 0 0
Accra, Addah, Quitah & Launds	18 5 0 to 18 10 0	19 5 0 to 19 10 0
Saltpond, Appam & Winnebah	16 5 0 to 16 10 0	18 0 0 to 18 5 0
Grand Bassa	16 5 0 to 16 10 0	17 15 0 to 18 0 0
Sierra Leone and Sherbro.	17 15 0 to 18 5 0	18 10 0 to 19 0 0

PALM KERNELS—A good business has been done at our last quotations, the market closing a little easier as follows:—

Old Calabar, Niger, Brass, Bonny, Opobo and Lagos, £10 2 6 to £10 7 6; Benin and Congou, £9 17 6 to £10 2 6; Sierra Leone, Sherbro, Monrovia and Grand Bassa, £9 5 to £9 17 6. Adda, Quittah, Saltpond, Appam and Winnebah, £8 5 0 to £9 5 0.

GROUND NUTS—Fine Bathurst in the shell £16 per ton.

COPRA—Good sold at £13 10 0.

BENISEED—No change.

INDIA RUBBER—A large business done at steady prices, common qualities neglected.

Fair to Prime Gambia Niggers	2s. 0d.	to 2s 2d.
Do. do. Sierra Leone	1s. 9d.	to 1s 10d.
Do. do. do. Flat	1s. 2d.	to 1s 6d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 6d.	to 1s 7½d.
Hard Cape Coast and Assinte	1s 3d.	to 1s. 7d.
Liberian	1s. 2d.	to 1s. 4d.
Saltpond	9d.	to 1s.
Flake and Lumps	9d.	to 10d.
Ordinary Accra, Stock	8d.	to 8½d.
Stock last year at same time	2,768 tons
Price of fine Para	1,267 tons
Do. do. same time last year	2s. 11½d.
	3s. 4½d.

GUM COPAL—Steady, Sierra Leone sold at 3¾d. to 7½d.

COFFEE—Firm, Bold Berry sold at 80s.

COCOA—No change in quotation.

BEESWAX—Sierra Leone sold at £3 17 6.

GINGER—17s. to 19s. Dull.

CHILLIES—Fair Sierra Leone, 26s.

GUINEA GRAINS—Sold at 18s. 6.

EBONY—Gaboon, 40 tons mixed sold at £5 15 0.
Old Calabar, £5 2 6 to £6.

CAMWOOD—Sales at £14 to £17.

MONKEY SKINS—At the late sales 10,637 skins were offered and 7,084 sold—1st and, 2nd1s. 6d. to 2s. 3d. each; 2nd and 3rd. 1s. 1d. to 1s. 4d. each; good mixed lots, 1s. 4d. to 1s. 9d. each.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool,
October 11th 1887.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. IV. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, NOVEMBER 30, 1887. No. 22

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0 6 0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0 5 0
Half yearly by Mail,	0 3 0
Ditto. del'vd in Bonth,	0 2 6

Annuxes.—Communications to Rev J. A. Evans, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gemmer, Shaimau, West Africa, Rev. Z. Warner, D.D., Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant,	C. H. Harder Moseley
Coroner,	The Commandant.
Deputy Coroner,	Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk,	W. Hagues,
Bail. do.	S. W. Ashong.
Interpreter,	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff,	F. E. B. Buckner.
Sub Town. & Col	G. H. Garrett
Chief Clerk	J. D. Macauley.
Tide Waiters,	J. S. Crosse, J. B. Turner, S. G. Cole.
Asst. Enemy Officer Subjth	Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon,	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster,	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police,	M. Betts.
Gaoler,	J. A. Bonnis.
Overseer of Roads,	A. O. Walker

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Rev. G. M. Nicol, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational,) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett

A story is told of an ancient heathen who made a wonderful cup. When filled with wine it appeared like other cups, until the thirsty drinker, suspecting no device, drained it to the dregs, when, lo! there lay before him a serpent, coiled upon the bottom, with gleaming eyes and extend fangs as if prepared to stricke at its victim. So it is with those who drain the cup of sin There may be pleasantness in the wine at first, but there is a serpent at the end!

The Problem of Missions.

Ten times as much money and ten times as many men; for the Missionary work is about the idea brought forward in my last paper; as the most favorable that we can expect with present methods, but there are some considerable probabilities against such a thing as so rapidly increasing the income of Missionary societies. To increase the number of men without increasing the money seems according to present methods the same kind of folly that has been committed already by some managers of missionary enterprises and has precipitated more than one or two missionary societies in to deep financial difficulties. Then while it may be possible to obtain the increase of laborers it is not one under the present methods to do so, unless the money is obtainable for their support. Hence on the line of present modes the end sought by the missionary enterprise seems hardly to be accomplished, and yet christendom seems to be slow to move in any other way: although the past and present both present other modes. That the past were successful history furnishes abundant evidence, for if we only refer to the Acts of the Apostles with the Epistles of St. Paul when many of the wonderous machinery of modern missionary societies, had been invented; you can readily see that the spread of the gospel was very rapid, if not really more rapid than at present, it was certainly more effectual in overcoming the obstacles in the way of its progress, single individuals accomplished more than whole churches of christians of the present. Paul I may venture to say planted and trained more christian societies during the thirty or more years of his ministry than some missionary societies have done in a like number of years, of course I admit that he may have been more abundant in labors than any of the Apostles; and yet many of them and their successors, were eminently essential to the great work of gospel preaching, and teaching, and to their industry, plans, and success they planted through their successors, the christian church in nearly, if not, every part of the then known world, to that unusual christianity became almost universal, and whatever may be said of its decline in after ages, it must be acknowledged that they more successfully planted the seed, than we are now doing, at our present rate, and that had their methods of operation, been continued, to the present time, the world would, most likely, have, long since, been converted to Christ. Again, if we come forward to the time of Luther and other reformers and trace the history of the Church along to the beginning of the operations of the Church in the New World; just think of the success of Whitefield, the Wesleys, Otterbein, and many others who unfettered with the present methods, went forward as flaming Heralds of the truth, dispensing a blessing, without restraint, wherever they went. The result was that marvelous success attended their labors. If then these past Methods were so eminently successful would it not be well to study them. In my opinion it would be the best thing to do. For it seems to me that these plans contained elements of successful work of which our new Methods are totally devoid. 1. They were more unselfish and did not consider so much the personal interest of men as the present plans, but considered the needs of the World, and the saving of souls. It was not so much my salary, or what I shall eat, or wear, as it was how shall I win the most souls? 2. They were more of faith, on the part, both of the Church and the Preacher; both relied more upon God, through faith in Christ, having little hope of pecuniary aid they lived by trust in him whose promises never fail. 3 There was more of consecration in those old methods, for they required a separation from the World with all its pomp and show and offered no Worldly emoluments and hence invited no adventurers for place, fame, or worldly honor. 4 They placed the work in the hands of leaders and every laborer's success depended on his power, under God, to draw on the sympathies of the good and overcame the sinners resistance to the truth, and thus win him over to Christ. The power to lead men was preeminently a grace of the missionary of the cross of those past times. 5. But above all the work was more directly in the hands of those in the field; a thought to be enlarged upon in my next paper, the Lord willing.—J. A. E.

Bonthe Mutual Literary Club

AFFILIATED TO

"Grand East End Club,"

FREETOWN.

Inaugural Address delivered by Mr. G. P. Wilhelm, in the absence through illness of the Vice President, J. D. Macaulay Esq., at the Court Hall, on Monday evening the 14th Novr. 1887. His Worship Commandant Moseley, Patron of the Club, occupying the Chair.

Mr Chairman,
Ladies and Gents.

Before attempting on the purport of this evenings gathering, the members of the Club desire me to return their hearts thanks for the attention you have paid to their invitation in the assembling of yourselves as at present, and they trust your presence tonight is a foretaste of that co-operation they so greatly look for.

My position to which I stand before you tonight Ladies and Gents is that of the Vice President of the "Bonthe Mutual Literary Club" affiliated to the Grand East End Club in Freetown. A Club recently organized in the place in the face of opposition and foes, and its object and aim is to dispel and annihilate that system of clang-ur and apathy that so characterises this our Sherbro community. Such a system, has a decided tendency to the retrogression of those precious few in this community that have been blessed with the privilege of sound and christian moral training and if there be not a stimulus to check this excessive principle, ere long these precious few will so pitiably fall into such a state of degradation that to retrace their steps from whence they came, will appear hardlessome, seeing they will lose one from loss of culture, totally unfit for Society.

The age Mr Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen, is an age of improvement; and as such, there must be no stone left unturned for the enhancement of its improvement. Our aim is to devise and put to practice measures Literary, Social and Spiritual, for the Edification of every one who feels himself capable of improvement. The standing evelus that has long been so prevalent in our midst must now be placed with our associations pull us for eradication, with every casteil application let us set if in a Tug of War against whatever may appear to deter our progress.

It must be borne in mind Mr. Chairman, ladies and Gents that this newly organized Club does not lose sight of the fate of its predecessors that have arisen & fallen never more to rise. It does not boast of invincibility nor of fear of suffering the same fate as its antecedents, but the chief reliance of the Club is, that as its members are composed of the same element and are amongst those that participated in the other Clubs, they have the assurance to hope that the strength they have acquired coupled with the unanimous co-operation of the general public they promise of co-leavouring to stand unmovable.

If Sherbro could boast of anything worthe of note, it is that of the repeated failures of organized societies whose sole object is for the development and cultivation of the intellect. There are many reasons for saying so; and if these repeated failures have not been gauged from this stand-point, I say it is time for us to give the decision in that direction. Take for instance that a society is to be formed here and from its commencement and continuance nothing is found in the shape or social development though it may decline and fall accordingly, yet it would last for a much longer period than one whose aim is at intellectual improvement. Let another again be organized for the purpose of dancing, gambling and the perpetration of all kinds of immoral and diabolical practices, where slaves can be intoxicated with the alcoholic effluvia, see how lasting a period it would occupy and if like others it did come to wreck, what pitiable impressions will its termination produce in each breast! But let me come to what is substantial and real. How many Societies have not been formed here in our midst and have continued and still continue to exist? Some it has been found out to have survived two years, some three, to five years and another has of late celebrated its tenth year of existence. Why have not these societies come to wreck and died the kindred death as others? It is (1) because each one is well interested in the sure reward that awaits the union, if a strict obedience in conformity to the means for the stability of the society, be carried

Continued on Page 4.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Nov. 30, 1887.

THE YONNIE WAR
ROBARI TAKEN.

The reputed impregnable strong hold of these wild sons of the forest; we are informed succumbed after an unsuccessful resistence of seven hours fighting, which was mostly done in the way to the town and in the vain effort to prevent the expeditionary force from reaching the place, and for this purpose many ambuscades had to be dislodged from their hiding places. The road once cleared and the troops brought up before the walls of Robari a short work was made of the capture of the town and by about four o'clock on Tuesday afternoon the 22nd inst, the place was taken and thus the strongest town of the Yonnies has been easily over thrown by British force, and with a very small loss to the expedition, as we have not heard of any killed, and only a few wounded, all of whom it is believed will recover. of course the enemy did not fare quite so well.

Prudence and Safety.—both to our paper & correspondents demands that we be far more particular, as to what we insert in our columns, as we find that every now and then some one will send us communications which contain very objectionable expressions, the animus of which we cannot know, not being familiar with the circumstances which give rise to such expressions and while we have repeatedly disclaimed our responsibility for the opinions of our correspondents, yet some persons seem to fail to understand that we do not endorse the opinions, in many cases of our correspondents, and in no case are we responsible for such. As for unfortunate expressions as in the letter of "A Passer" in our last issue, which we regretted very much They often escape the notice of the editor, who in some cases has but little time to give to the reading of an article, and as we have stated before, it is not the duty of proof readers to change expressions. Hence as some persons will sometimes use unfortunate terms, we will be compelled in the future to give more particular editorial attention to articles which in many cases will result in greater delay, and a other times the rejection of art cles, which of course we pass to the Waste Basket; and will under no circumstance obligate ourselves to return.

The Field.—Interesting services had been held, at Avery Station for some time past by the pastor, and on Sunday the 20th inst. Communion Services were held by the Presiding Elder, whichwere well attended & full of religious life and interest. Rev S. B. Morrison is certainly to be congratulated for his success in religious and revival work among the people of his charge We are sorry however to note that Sinkia with its farkies had been cut off by the unsettled condition of the country that way. This severance of so large a sub-pastorate from Avery charge makes quite a large loss in the membership. From Konconany, we have words of cheer as refers to religious work. Rev. W. S. Macaulay of Danville had not been so well, but we believe is better, his charge has suffered loss from removals, the best people as well as many others have removed to other parts and hence the once teeming population of Gbangbiah and farkies has been much reduced. Yet there are hundreds of people left and of these quite a large number attended the Communion Services at Danville on the 27th inst and afternoon services of the same day in Gbangbiah were largely attended and the best attention was given to the preaching of the word.

LONDON LETTER

Editor Early Dawn,—I wish to compliment you on the improvements you are making in your paper. Continue to make it newer, an exclude long articles, especially all of a controversional character, with little else in them but personal flings, or useless criticisms. The free expression of opinion on all questions relating to Commercial, Social, Intellectual, and the moral advancement of Africa, with plans and suggestions, as to how its interests, in all these respects, may be best promoted, and all such facts, and items of news, as will interest your readers, are the things which should appear in the Early Dawn.

The following three things should be duly considered at your Annual Meeting (1). How may we during 1888 pay all Debts. We have much reduced the amount in the last two years, an now in the next year all should be wiped out. I know how you will feel as to what ought to be done, viz, that chapels and houses destroyed by the war, and otherwise, ought to be rebuilt. But as the Board at home is so intent on paying its debts, that it does not intend to appropriate money to this work, until his is done, neither must we attempt it until all debts on our side of the Atlantic Ocean are paid. ; this can be done in 1888 if properly managed.

(2). You should give the Educational Work special attention. The Training School should be operated vigorously; The young men and women qualified to enter it, should be gathered from all our other schools, and elsewhere, and put under a course of training in the Rufus Clark and wife Theological Training School. The future work in our schools, at the different Mission stations, should be done with reference to qualifying persons for this School largely. Push the work of school teaching, gather in all the children and young people, possible.

(3). Then urge upon all who preach as Itinerants, or otherwise, the importance of "preaching not with enticing words of man's wisdom, but in demonstration of the spirit and of power," and to "study to show themselves approved unto God, workmen that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." To "feed the flock of God which is among you," and to win souls to Christ, is indeed a great work, and only such as prevail with God in prayer, until their minds are illuminated by the Holy Ghost, and their hearts filled with love to God, and to man, can succeed. Let your motto be, 1,000 heathens brought to a knowledge of the truth as it is in Christ during 1888, & all possible attention given to the near 4,000 who are already in our churches in western Africa. May the Great Head of the Church be with you in your Annual Meeting, and give you abundant success in your future labors.

London, D. K. FLICKINGER.
Nov. 11, '87.

Capt. Judson A. and Mrs Lewis gave a thanksgiven dinner, on the 24th inst. at their residence in Water St. Free town; in accordance with a long established custom of the United States. The Entertainment is reported as having been very pleasant indeed.

THE RUFUS CLARK AND WIFE
TRAINING SCHOOL.

Mr Editor,— By your kind permission, I will call the attention of your readers and the public, to the above named school, which is located at Shaingay Sherbro, and conducted under the auspices of the Board of Missions of the United Brethren in Christ. A commodious building has been erected, capable of accommodating a large number of students. A separate building has also been provided, where young ladies attending the school shall have their home under the immediate care of the Principal.

The School is divided into two departments, Theological and Normal. The Theological course embraces Old and New Testament History, Theology, Church History, Exegitical studies in Scripture. The Normal course includes General History, Mathematics, Methods of Teaching Mental Philosophy etc. Rhetorical exercises will be held frequently. Latin and Greek though not included in the regular course, may be taken up as extra studies, by special arrangement with the Principal. Thus it will be seen that the object and aim of the institution is, as rapidly as means and circumstances permit, to provide courses of study as will qualify students for the practical duties of life, and afford opportunities for the discipline of their intellectual powers. Candidates for the regular course must be able to read well in the Fifth Reader or its equivalent, and have gone as far as Decimal fractions in Arithmetic. Must understand the Elementary English Grammar and have knowledge of Primary Geography.

The tuition is placed within the reach of all ranging from 7s. 6d. and upwards per quarter. By a special arrangement, pupils in any of the schools of Bompeh Mendi and Sherbro U. B. Missions possessing the required qualifications, may upon the recommendation of the Superintendents of those Missions or any one acting as such, be admitted free of the regular tuition; an incidental fee of only 5s. per quarter being required. It must be understood that the tuition fees do not include Board, washing, and clothing. Arrangements for board &c can be made with the Principal or friends in the neighborhood.

Some of our classes have been organized and work begun. The formal opening of the school will take place (D.V.) on the first monday in February 1888. Candidates for admission will be examined the Tuesday following the opening of the school. For further particulars and informations address

D. F. WILBERFORCE
Principal

Shaingay Sherbro
Nov. 25th '87

Dear Mr Editor,—Permit me just a small space in the columns of your journal to refute the statements of your correspondent "Verity" which appeared in your issue of Nov 15. and trust it will be read with interest.

In the first place "Verity" denies that any charges were preferred against the pastor, Now if the report sent to Freetown and which is couched in in libellous terms is not a charge; then what is it? The charges preferred as I wrote in your issue of Oct 31st were "ungrounded and unsupported" for in Methodism, the report of a Society or Societies is to be presented to the District meeting by the pastor who is the Superintendent of the Circuit and not by Tom, Dick, and Harry. hence no notice was taken of the report.

Secondly. The Rev C. Marke was never deputed to come here to institute inquiry, but at the request of the pastor, he came to try Mr.——for maligning his minister, hence he was called to prove the charges preferred against the Pastor, when he failed miserably.

Thirdly.—"Verity" says that there were only 6 females in the Board, this I flatly deny, there were only 4 females Methodism all over the world has leaders, male and female and as it is the function of a Leaders meeting to try members and bring discipline to bear upon them, who must be the constituents of the Board but Leaders male and female. Other Churches are not required to follow methodism as each has its system of government. Mr. Verity ought to know this. He attributed ignorance to the females composing the Board. Had the females been ignorant they would not have known that the papers of Mr.——contained nothing but inputations, and had he the sense of the females he ought to have known that the results of his writings would be the issuing of a warrant to arrest. However I am glad to know that the weakness of the females resulted in an apology from Mr.——to the pastor in the presence of three respectable gentlemen on the 18th inst

I must further say that Mr. Marke did not say anything because the sentence of expulsion should be delayed a week after in accordance with the methodist constitution Mr Editor-I am done with Mr Verity, but I must have your readers to understand that I have no hostile feelings against Mr "Verity" but as he seemed to upbraid me in the last issue, I am moved to explain the facts of the case more clearly and to remove all doubts from the minds of the public. I shall write no more on this subject.—Yours

X.

Bonthe Nov 25, '87

NEWS ITEMS.

The Annual District meeting of the U. B. C. Missions has been postponed to March 16th 1888.

Nov. 15th s. s. "Falalah" from Leeward Coast consigned to French Company. Mr. O. J. Thomas is the supercargo on board.

18th s. s. Munroe from Freetown consigned to T.E. Macfoy.

19th s. s. "Falabah" left for Freetown.

22. s. s. "Formoso" from Freetown with the following passengers Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Jarrett. Miss R. Collier, Mr. F. Nicol brother of the Rev. G. G. M. Nicol and Miss. Nicol.

s s. "Footah" arrived from Freetown she brought as passengers Mr. Ryff of the Compagnie Francaise.

24th s. s. "Formoso" for Freetown with the following passengers Messrs Jos. Porter and J. P. Brainard.

Birth—At Beresford Lodge Bulman Street. Kent, at 10 a. m. 21st inst, the wife of Mr. Henry J. Williams Teacher of of Shaingay Mission, (Shaingay) of a son.

Personal

Miss Iris Parkes, who had been spending some time in this place, left for Freetown by s. s. Formoso on the 17th inst.

Mr. J. A. Barnes, gave us a pleasant call on the 22nd inst. he says business is rather dull in Themdale.

Rev J. Gomer arrived here on the evening of the 15th inst, he was in good health and reported his work as coming around again into good shape and that there is considerable religious interest and enter [illegible] manifested in some places.

His Excellency Governor Rowe arrived in Freetown on Sunday 27th inst. per s. s. Teaciffe from Gambia.

Governor Hay leaves for England on leave we believe shortly.

Comd't. C. H. Harley Moseley, gave us a very pleasant call on the 23rd inst., he was contemplating a trip to the Gbargroo, on Government business, we believe, Mr. Moseley is a very industrious and earnest officer; who has the good of her Majesty's Government and the interest of her subjects at heart.

MY VIEW OF SHERBRO.
From our Special Correspondent.

With the approaching season the Sherbro metropolis has begun to put on a tidier appearance by the cleaning of the principal streets in a becoming way to suit a civilized life; but one could not help stopping as he passes on, to scrutinize the zig zag manner in which the side road lines are formed, thereby destroying the beauty the streets would have exhibited, by a little more attention.

Whilst thanking the Authorities for the efforts put forth in the proper management of the streets and roads for our convenience, we might as well suggest, that if a thing is worth the doing, it should be done well.

May the present month carry away with it, its numerous troubles, difficulties, and unpleasantness it brings in many a household between loving partners; and may December spring forth with all its jovialities and pre meditated pleasures, gathering both parents and children together for Merry Christmas enjoyments, and our young bachelors copying "the example of the Honest Sherbro married men" by the end of a twelfth month."

The gossip, slander and defamatory system, practised in this little community, does not seem to go with impunity now-a-days as was supposed aforetime; and only on the evening of Friday the 18th instant, "Verity's" Westlevanson-romance published in the last issue of this paper was weighed in the balance, and has resulted in an apology made in the presence of three respectable gentlemen of this place to the worthy but worried Pastor; and for charity sake, a criminal prosecution was staved. 'Tis time that an example be made of "The Champions" of this unholy band of fabricators and mischief making sect; for by this means alone, a check can be put to those who, for want of sufficient means, a civil action for damages cannot be brought against them for a free use of their tongue and pen.

The s. s. "Formoso" on her weekly rounds, supplies both rich and poor with that once most rare condiment (as the illiterate term is used here) Onions Fabbas; and this highly seasoning plant of the genus allium has become so cheap, that people of every grade can now afford to buy from an ha'penny worth, to a pound if they like.

I suppose we have not sufficient Police constables to patrol the principal streets at night; but even few as they may be at present, yet, it is very ridiculous to notice that about half dozen of these rare congregate them-elves every evening in the station house, (on duty of course) for the sole object of passing away the hours in idle gossip, rather than performing actual service.

And next the vagrancy ordinance is most adapted to a place like Sherbro, and ought to be put in force, where most of the natives think it not worth their while to perform manual labour for subsistence; but spend their time daily (Sundays not excepted) in gambling all their life out.

To give "a pleasant call" on the Editor with a view of having their names inserted in the "Early Dawn" in conjunction with the respectable few in Sherbro, is the object of some of the upstarts of this country. The appearance of their names in print, they think gives influence and position; the omission of which renders the paper an eye sore to them.—

The Asst. Colonial Surgeon having returned from his six weeks leave of absence on Tuesday last the 22nd inst, left the next day for Gbengeh with Mr. Wm. Hughes, Deputy Coroner, and twelve others to hold a post mortem examination on the body of a man who, had been murdered about three weeks ago, Naturally the Doctor must have inhaled from the object exhumed, a not very unaccustomed odour which announced to him returning to duty with a vengeance.

Nov. 25th, 1887.

DRESSER OR DISPENSER?

Sir.—The explanation contained in an Article under the above heading in the issue of the 31st October last, of your valuable journal signed "Hope" is so far from being satisfactory, that I would ask your correspondent to further enlighten your readers by answering the following

(1) Why is the term Dispenser were applicable to the generality used word Dresser? (2) Is Dr Hart a sufficient authority for the so-called change of the term Dresser for Dispenser? (3.) or does the present Dresser consider himself humiliated by being so called? (4.) If not, why complain of the term being used by only a Surgeon now?—Yours truly,

A SURGEON'S FRIEND.
Bonthe Nov. 24th '87

Report of Avery Station, Mendi Mission for the quarter ending 30th Septr 1887.

Mr. President,—Through the blessings of God it is again my previledge to report that our work in this District has been more lively than we expected.

Several places have been visited by the brethren and a goodly number have heard the gospel preached. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather our class meetings and week-night Services as also Bible Class have been regularly kept up.

We have found it necessary to hold special prayer-meetings throughout the first week in each month and those have largely increased our spiritual growth. Backsliders have been restored and a good work of grace has been in progress among those that believed. Some removals have occurred in both the Seekers and Communicants' classes, nevertheless our congregations are good and hearers attentive.

We have extended our itinerating work since the commencement of the quarter with a view to strengthen the work as was last reported; held preaching services at Mattroo and other places in Bendoonah river, and we have been induced to arrange with the Sierra Leone friends for a transfer of their Church business or to organize our own, which without difficulty was agreed to; so, that at the present season we are hoping that the gift will soon be confirmed and the building commenced though the latter (our own) is much preferable.

At present we report as usual 19 Seekers' classes consisting of 303 members; Communicants 20 Total 323.

Day School.—There is also a heavy decrease in this department, though the children are progressing in their studies.—Total number of both sexes 38.

The Sabbath School—is improving and attendance good. Teachers and Officers 2 Scholars 40 Total 42.

Missionary Collections——£3. 9. 6
Light Ditto ——0. 4. 0
Preachers' Salary ——1. 2. 0

Total Amt Collected——£4. 15. 6

The "Inaugural Address" delivered at the Court which appears in this issue came to us early and was set up, of course as in the best of papers, we found some errors but not more than the average, so where we could we corrected them and published the Address, one or two days later, we received a letter asking us not to publish it, but of course it was too late and as a consequence our readers have the adress laid before them without the corrections, which the Author desired to make; and while we very much regret the circumstance, yet the fault is not ours.

MARRIED.

Labor—Coker—On Wednesday the 23rd Nov 87. At Christ Church, Pademba Road, Freetown by the Rev M. Pearce, assisted by the Rev G. J. Maratley pastor of Kissy. Mr. J. Sebastian, Labor to Miss Mary Ann Philippa sister to Mr Bidwell Coker of this place.

SLIPPERS! SLIPPERS!!

So Long Expected,

have at length arrived

Please call and See them

At The

S. M. MISSION STORE.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

THE PUBLIC are hereby requested to take NOTICE that the LANDS situate and lying on the Western part of Victoria Road Bonthe on the portion from swamps known as the head of Gbundamah Creek along southward on to the LAND mark in possession of one Cafai Kobotu.

We the undersigned are lawfull owners of the said LANDS, above diseribed and that we have jointly and severally agreed bargained and legally conveyed the said portion of Land of about 5 acres west and (Half) ½ acre south of Victoria Road to Mr John D. Rogers Govt Interpreter.

Any person or persons occupying or having any buildings or farms thereon at present should make arrangement with the said John D. Rogers as an action for trespass will be enforced against offenders intending to occupy without permission after three months from this day's date hereof.

W. T. DOUGLAS
his BANA ✕ LEWIS
mark

Nov30,87, m/Feb.29,'88.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL.—In fair demand, Market closing steady at quotations, "in transit."

Lagos	£20	0	0
Oporta	18	17	6
Old Calabar Bonny & Opobo.	18	10	0	to	£18	15	0
Cameroons	18	7	6
Benin	18	0	0	to	18	2	6
Accra, Addah and Quitta	17	15	0	to	17	17	6
Brass, Niger, New Calabar and Congo	17	10	0	to	17	15	0
Sierra Leone & Sherbro	16	10	0
Saltpond, Appam and Winnebah	16	5	0
Dixcove & Liberian	16	0	0	to	16	2	6

PALM KERNELS—There has been a good demand for spot and near at hand, at the following prices:—

Lagos, Old Calabar, Bonny and Cameroons £10. 5s. to £10 7s. 6d., Brass, Benin and Congo, £10 to £10 2s. 6d.; Sierra Leone, Sherbro, Liberian, Quittah and Addah £9 15s.; Saltpond, Appam and Winnebah, £8 5s. to £9.

GROUND NUTS—Sales of decorticated £13 5s.

COPRA—£13. 10s. to £14.

BENISEED—40s. 6d. to 45s. per 384 lbs according to quality.

INDIA RUBBER—In fair demand at steady prices.

Fair to Prime Gruban Niggers	2s.	0d.	to	2s.	2d.
Do. do. Sierra Leone	1s.	9d.	to	1s.	10d.
Do. do. do Flat	1s.	2d.	to	1s.	6d.
Thimbles	1s.	9½d	to	1s.	10d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s.	5d.	to	1s.	7½d.
Hard Cape Coast and Assinie	1s.	3d	to	1s.	7d.
Liberian	1s.	2d.	to	1s.	4d.
Saltpond		9d.	to	1s.
Flake and Lumps		8½d.	to		9½d.
Ordinary Accra		8d.	to		8½d.

GUM COPAL—Accra 25s. to 40s.; Red Angola 83s to 85s per cwt.; Sierra Leone 4d. to 6½d. per lb.

BEESWAX—Sales of Sierra Leone at £4.

COFFEE—Quiet 78s. to 79s. 6d., Liberian 75s. to 80s.

COCOA—Sales 57s. to 61s. per cwt.

GINGER } No Sale.
CHILLIES }

GUINEA GRAINS—18s. 6d.

EBONY—Sales of Old Calabar at £5. 2s. 6.

CAMWOOD—Very flat and difficult of sale except at greatly reduced prices; ordinary Grand Bassa not being worth more than £16 per ton.

IVORY—See our special circular.

MONKEY SKINS—No change.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool,
October 28th 1887

J.A. Clemens
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL
Bookseller, Stationary and
Miscellaneous GOODS
ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET
N.B. Removed to upper Ot o Street, opposite the burial ground
Bonthe, Sherbro.

'Early Dawn'
PRINTING OFFICE,
Job Work Done at short
Notice.
Enquire of C. G. BELL, Printer.
GOOD HOPE STATION.
Bonth, Sherbro,
W. C. Africa.

MAJOR-GENERAL SIR FRANCIS DE WINTON, R. A., K. C. M. G.

THE arrival among us at a critical moment of so eminent a personage as Major General Sir Francis de Winton, R. A., K.C.M.G. to deal with the difficulties recklessly thrown into the way of order and peaceful commerce, shows that England is not unwilling nor unready to put her best men forward and expend her treasure without stint to promote peace and good order and to establish justice among the tribes; and this distinguished arrival is a proof also that Her Majesty's Government, notwithstanding their multifarious cares, intend in future to give more careful and earnest attention to a continent in which there are so many possibilities for a long despoiled race and for the cause of humanity.

The arrival of Sir FRANCIS DE WINTON is hailed by the community, who sincerely hope that his influence will not only secure peace and quiet in the disturbed districts, but establish the means for the preservation of order and for the enlargement of the area of security of life and property in this part of Western Africa.

Another subject which will relieve the public mind in this country of a great deal of concern is the new departure which according to a recent notification from the Foreign Office, which we republish to-day, Her Majesty's Government are about to take in connection with a proper administration of government in the Niger Districts.

The complaints which have gone to England against the proceedings of the Royal Niger Company have, we are glad to say, had their effects in the proper quarters. The Notification informs us that "the measures in course of preparation for the administration of justice, and the maintenance of peace and good order in the Niger Districts will be duly notified and published."

We shall look with anxiety for the measures which will be adopted by Her Majesty's Government for the proper control in the interest of justice, peace and good order of the most important part of Central Africa, and inhabited by the most intelligent and enterprising tribes of the continent.

From accounts we see in the papers from time to time the German experiment of African Colonization has not thus far been prolific of encouraging results. But it is clear that if England sets herself to the task in earnest she is able in view of the conditions in her sense of right and justice which the Natives entertain, to control peaceably and effectively all the Nigritti and countries in the interest of an honorable commerce and a lofty civilization.

—Weekly News.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS,

Concluded from 1st Page.

ont; and (2) because there is nothing in the shape of mental cultivation in them. Judging from this basis it seems as if those who had undertaken the formation of Clubs possessed not that spirit of self interest which is so plainly manifested in the other societies: they felt as if they were secured when verily they were not. Nothing but self conceitedness is the cloak under which clubs are formed, and this place, we sometimes calculate ourselves greater than what we are, and at the end we are esteemed less than what we really are. Conceit is the most contemptible and one of the most odious qualities in the world; for certainly it is the admirer of himself and not the admirer of virtue that thinks himself superior to others.

When I look around and gaze with wonderment on the state of things Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gents, I find that our young men require some place to resort, and I fancy myself in the position of Valpy when he uttered "O qui me gelidis in valebus Hemi sistat et ingenti-ramorum protegat umbra" Yes our young men require a solitary place where to sit at the cool of the evening after the daily toil is o'er for the purpose of treasuring up knowledge, that knowledge which is power; for the discovery of what is true, and the practice of that which is good; a resort where as Johnson says—"No man shall give preference to himself" but shall inculcate the spirit of true politeness; that politeness which Lord Macaulay defined as "benevolence in small things" and which Chesterfield defined to be "ease and freedom consisting simply in treating others as you love to be treated yourself.

Permit me to state that we are not actuated by any selfish principle or by any spirit of bigotry or opposition in the organization of this Club. It is our intention to walk on side by side with our brother the "Bonthe Mutual Improvement Club," that is struggling for existence, to further on the interest of the general public. We advocate a thirst after knowledge, a longing for christian societies, we require social intercourse one with another, for, from social intercourse are derived some of the highest enjoyments of life, because where there is a free interchange of sentiments, the mind acquires new ideas, and by a frequent exercise of its powers, the understanding gains fresh vigour. We aim at establishing life and activity by introducing time after time series of Lectures, Debates, Concerts, Entertainments and other harmless enjoyments, and we solicit Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gents your hearty co-operation. Such are the notions which prompted the formation of this Club which we trust every one here in Bonthe will participate in.

And you who are my co-partners in the club you who have embarked your frail craft in the pursuit of knowledge, I say to you to night go on—never fear to win the day. Be not intimidated by the whims and caprice of your opponents it haply there may arise any—know that the burden will become lighter when cheerfully borne. Let your life be exemplified by your conduct, manifest one towards another that spirit of cheerfulness, remember that "if good people would but make their goodness agreeable, and smile instead of frowning in their virtue they would (says Archbishop Usher) win many to the good cause."

MISCELLANY.

A little girl was trying to tell her mother how beautifully a certain lady could trill in singing, and said; "Oh, mother you ought to hear her gargle."

"I think it's outrageous," said Mrs Sparrowgrass. "Here it says in the paper that St. John has been nominated for president. It's bad enough making fun of live people, but when they begin lugging in the apostles it certainly is too much."

A post-master in an eastern city is a raving lunatic. Last week a letter came to the office directed to the prettiest woman in the town, and the run on the office was so great that the poor fellow could n't stand it. The letter is still undelivered.

A merchant who died suddenly not long ago left on his desk a letter he had intended mailing to a correspondent. An Irish clerk finding it, sent it off after adding the postscript: "Since writing the above I have died."

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. IV. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, DECEMBER 15, 1887. No. 23

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At
BONTHE, SHERBRO,
Under the Auspices of the Board of Managers of the
U-B-IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0 6 0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0 5 0
Half yearly by Mail,	0 3 0
Ditto. deliv'd in Bonth,	0 2 6

ADDRESS,—Communications to Rev. J. A. Bevan, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gumbe, Shainang, West Africa. Rev. Z. Warren, D.D., Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Corder.	The Commandant.
Deputy Corder, Chief Clerk.	Wm. Hughes, W. Hughes.
2nd do.	S. W. Adams.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. R. Backster.
Bell Tower & Co.	S. H. Garrett
Chief Tailor,	J. C. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. H. Cole, J. E. Turner, S. G. Cole.
Asst. Examg. Officer Sallijah.	Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Cyl. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	R. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. Betts.
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	Asst. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Rev. H. G. H. Neal, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Bendi Mission, (Congregational.)
Good Hope,
Pastor, Rev. G. S. Jowett.

The Progress of Missions.

By the old methods of Missionating I have already remarked, in my former paper, that the work was placed more directly in the hands of those in the field. That is true. If we go back again to the Banks of the Jordan; to the days of the Baptist, he, under God, had charge of his own Mission, and direct as his work appears to be moved by the spirit of God and was a "burning and shining light," eminently successful in his Mission, and ushered in the rising sun in its brightness, with graceful splendor before the world, then in darkness, as "the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world." And when John had finished his mission and was perforce of the world's hatred, retired to the seclusion of a desolate prison. Jesus of Nazareth proceeded with the work, directing it himself, choosing, appointing and sending forth apostles, disciples and workers as seemed to him best, into the villages whither he himself would afterward go; and all the while that he was here on the earth, his work was the same considering with his disciples, himself being conversant with the field of operations. After his ascension, the Apostles went forward with the work in the same manner, travelling out far and wide over the world, preaching the word, converting men, planting and training Churches of the Christian faith everywhere, without reference to any general head except Christ who with them at that early day of Missionating, was every thing; it was then Christ first, and Christ last, Christ all the while. Beyond this every great leader seems to have gone on with his work as best suited to the end sought,—i. e saving of men and bringing the world to Christ.—There may have been conferences of considerable gathering and importance, but they were far from being at stated times or particular in giving directions for the prosecution of the work, but left the details to men in the field to carry out as would best forward the conquest of the world to Christ. No ponderous edicts were sent out to the various Churches nor were there required definite monthly quarterly or even Annual reports to be sent by Paul, Barnabus or any one to Jerusalem or Antioch. Whatever of report may have been, it seems so have been, a mere relation of the dealings of the Lord, with the various workers in his vineyard, over which all rejoiced together that the world was being converted. Counting the sheep was then mostly left for the angels to do, who have more time; for no where do we find definite numbers given, by the Apostle Paul in his churches, although he often speaks in terms that imply large numbers and prosperous work, so far reports are spiritually of benefit, but beyond that all are my, imperfect understanding, savors of pride and borders close on worldliness and was generally omitted in the old methods of Missionary computation. But to return to the subject of the more direct controll of the work, by those who were operating in the field. The plan possessed great advantages as must be most readily seen, as those who are competent to labour, at least at the head, of a band of christian workers, ought to understand the nature & wants of their work better than anyone at a distance; no matter how ever careful or frequent that work may be reported to the person at a distance, however short the distance. But if we consider the long expanse between continents as at this day and from the time even of Whitefield and others, it must become more evident that the men in the field, understand the wants of that particular work better than anyone at a distance, who is especially unacquainted with the people of the country in which the work is carried on hence there would seem to have been a decided advantage in this respect under the old methods of missionating, however, let no one understand me as at all intimating, that the old methods were without some disadvantages, but only as worthy of our careful study for their advantages, and as helpful to the solution of our present problem.

J. A. B.

Dear Mr Editor,—Now that the Kola nut is receiving large attention at headquarters and one map naturally conclude that there are brighter days in embryo for this once much neglected plant, I think it a good time for some of our unfortunate merchants and traders to try their chances. It is much to be deplored that we are apt to embark long and perhaps faithfully in an unfruitful enterprise; most of our enterprising men who have tried in the liquor traffic in the Sherbro country on an average of from 10 years and upwards with little or no success, may safely obtain by some legitimate means a fertile spot, (you have not to look far for it) and commence to grow a few scores of the above plant, and patiently wait for five years for the result if you will try 10 years with the pernicious liquor traffic, then try another 10 in kola planting and balance the results. Besides it will not only prove a blessing to you but it will tend greatly to develop the agricultural powers of the natives. It is not better than developing their latent proposition to evil? But you say Mr Sherbro is not my country nor my home. Neither do I say so.

But you may have a farm in Sherbro and have a home elsewhere. The Hon Samuel Lewis B. L. has a thriving plantation about 17 or 18 miles from his home in the city. Besides there will be less plundering and rapine. A decrease of rum sellers means increased facility to the heralds of the cross to win Sherbro for Christ.

A RUSTIC.

A NOVEL SERMON.—Remember son, says a modern philosopher, that the world is older than you are by several years; that for thousands of years it has been so full of smarter and better young men than yourself that their feet stuck out of the dormer-windows, that when they died the old globe went whirling on and not one man in ten hundred thousand went to the funeral, or even heard of the death.

Be as smart as you can, of course. Know as much as you can, without blowing the cracking out of your cylinder heads; shed the light of your wisdom abroad in the world; but don't dazzle people with it. And don't imagine a thing is so simple because you see it is. Don't be too sorry for your father because he knows much less than you do. Remember the reply of Dr. Wayland, to a certain University student, who said it was an easy enough thing to make proverbs such as Solomon wrote. "Make a few," tersely replied the old man. And we never heard that the young man made any. The world has great need of young men, but no greater need than the young men have of it. Your station fit you better than your father's fit him; they cost more money, they are more stylish.

Your moustache is neater, the cut of your hair is better, and you are prettier far for pride than "pa." But, young man, the old gentleman gets the biggest salary, and his homely, scrawling signature on the business end of a check will draw more money out of the bank in five minutes than you could get out with a ream of paper and a copper plate signature in six months. Youngsters are useful & they are ornamental, and we all love them, and we couldn't engineer a picnic successfully without them. But they are no novelties. Oh, no, nothing of the kind. They have been here before. Don't be so modest as to shut yourself clear out; but don't be so fresh that you will have to be put away in the cool to keep from spoiling. Don't be afraid that you will not be discovered.

People all over the world are hunting for you, and if you are worth finding, they will find you. A diamond is not as easily found as a quartz pebble, but people search for it the more intently.

—Sel

READ GOOD BOOKS.

Of the making of many books there is no end" says the preacher in Ecclesiastes and when one contemplates the deluge of books constantly issuing from the press we realize that one of the most needful reading here. Both of this literature is unfortunately badly chosen of the name and is often harmful and pernicious in its influence. We lately examined in detail the book review of a prominent news paper, and of thirty books recently published seventy-one or more than two thirds were works of very inferior grade. In literature as in trade, the demand always creates the supply, and it certainly does not require well for the public taste when so many works of fiction usurping the place of those that can best inform the mind and enlarged the understanding. We do not wish to be understood as indiscriminately condemning all works of fiction. There are books of this class that give us new insight into character and bring us into more active sympathy with humanity and such can be read with profit. The modern society novel is not of this class it is a heterogeneous compound of silly sentimentalism, improbable and debased of experiences and frequently positively vicious and is calculated with good morals. We cannot understand how persons having good common sense in all other matters can pour over these stories for many weeks, following their hero or heroine through all manner of absurd and impossible adventures until they are in such a state of excitement that they can scarcely contain themselves until they reach the end. Such reading is dissipating and injurious beyond estimate. It appeals only to the desire for that which is novel, and entertaining, and ignore nobler faculties of the soul altogether. This is more to be regretted, because there is such an abundance of good literature, and none better or more profitable to the follower of Christ than that issued by the Publishing Houses of our own church. If we wish to read the biography of eminent men, we can peruse the lives of Otterbein and Asbury and learn something of their devotion and self sacrifice to the cause of Christ. If we desire a more thorough knowledge of Scripture we can obtain from a large number of Orthodox expositions of a Scriptural doctrines, and thus be enabled to "give a reason for the faith that is in us." Should we delight in books of travel and find pleasure in following some close observer and eloquent writer in his descriptions of the countries and people of the East, of which we can choose nothing better than the instructive book of Barrows Travels written by Dr. Hott. It contains many interesting and eloquent descriptions of places famous in history, and its observations on customs, society and religion are eminently profound and discriminating. Books of this kind never grow stale. They are not like the modern novel which we throw into the corner as soon as we have unravelled the plot, and probably never look at it again; but a good book can be read over and over time with new profit and delight.

—Weekly Standard.

ORIGINAL
DEFECTIVE

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL.—In fair demand. Market closing steady at quotations, "in transit."

Lagos	£20	0	0
Oporta	18	17	6
Old Calabar Bonny & Opobo.	18	10	0	to	£18	15 0
Cameroons	18	7	6
Benin	18	0	0	to	18	2 6
Accra, Addah and Quitta	17	15	0	to	17	17 6
Brass, Niger, New Calabar and Congo	17	10	0	to	17	15 0
Sierra Leone & Sherbro	16	10	0
Saltpond, Appam and Winnebah	16	5	0
Dixcove & Liberian	16	0	0	to	16	2 6

PALM KERNELS.—There has been a good demand for spot and near at hand, at the following prices:—

Lagos, Old Calabar, Bonny and Cameroons £10. 5s. to £10. 7s. 6d., Brass, Benin and Congo, £10 to £10 2s. 6d.; Sierra Leone, Sherbro, Liberian, Quittah and Addah £9 15s.; Saltpond, Appam and Winnebah, £8 5s. to £9.

GROUND NUTS.—Sales of decorticated £13 5s.

COPRA.—£13 10s. to £14.

BENISEED.—40s. 6d. to 45s. per 384 lbs according to quality.

INDIA RUBBER.—In fair demand at steady prices

Fair to Prime Gimbia Niggers		2s.	0d.	to	2s. 2d.
Do. do. Sierra Leone		1s.	9d.	to	1s. 10d.
Do. do. do Flat		1s.	2d.	to	1s. 6d.
Thimbles		1s.	9½d	to	1s. 10d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball		1s.	5d	to	1s. 7½d.
Hard Cape Coast and Assinie		1s.	3½	to	1s. 7d.
Liberian		1s.	2d	to	1s. 4d.
Saltpond			9d.	to	1s.
Flake and Lumps			8½d.	to	9½d.
Ordinary Accra			8d.	to	8½d.

GUM COPAL.—Accra 25s. to 40s.; Red Angola 83s to 85s per cwt.; Sierra Leone 4d. to 6½d. per lb.

BEESWAX.—Sales of Sierra Leone at £4.

COFFEE.—Quiet 78s. to 79s. 6d., Liberian 75s. to 80s.

COCOA.—Sales 57s. to 61s. per cwt.

GINGER } No Sale.

CHILLIES }

GUINEA GRAINS.—18s. 6d.

EBONY.—Sales of Old Calabar at £5. 2s. 6.

CAMWOOD.—Very flat and difficult of sale except at greatly reduced prices: ordinary Grand Bassa not being worth more than £16 per ton.

IVORY.—See our special circular.

MONKEY SKINS.—No change.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool,
October 25th 1887

J.A. Clemens

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Bookseller, Stationary and Miscellaneous GOODS

ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET

N.B. Removed to upper Otto Street, opposite the burial ground

Bonthe, Sherbro

Early Dawn

PRINTING OFFICE,

Job Work Done at short

Notice.

Enquire of C. G. BELL, Printer.

GOOD HOPE STATION

Bonth, Sherbro,

W. C. Alnes

MAJOR-GENERAL SIR FRANCIS DE WINTON, R.A., K.C.M.G.

THE [illegible] of this gallant officer [illegible] of Sir Francis de Winton, R.A., K.C.M.G., to deal with the difficulties recklessly thrown into the way of [illegible] Commissioner, should be [illegible] England is prepared to spend and expend her treasure without stint to provide peace and good order in her newly established Protectorate, and [illegible] showing clearly afforded is a proof also that Her Majesty's Government, notwithstanding their misfortunes [illegible] intend in future to give more practical and earnest attention to a continent in which there are so many responsibilities for a long despised race and for the cause of humanity.

The arrival of Sir FRANCIS DE WINTON is hailed by the community, who supposedly hope that his influence will not only secure peace and quiet in the districts [illegible] but establish the means for the preservation of order and for the enlargement of the area of security of life and property in this part of Western Africa.

Another subject which will relieve the public mind in this country of a great deal of concern is the new department which we understand is to be created at the Foreign Office, which we respectfully point out Her Majesty's Government are about to take in connection with a proper administration of the affairs of the Niger Districts.

The complaints which have come to England against the proceedings of the Royal Niger Company have, we are glad to say, had their effect in the appointment of a Commissioner. Notification informs us that [illegible] the measures in course of preparation for the administration of justice in the Niger Districts will be [illegible] and put in force.

We shall look with anxiety for the news when it shall be adopted by Her Majesty's Government for the proper control in the interest of justice, peace and good order of the most important part of central Africa, and inhabited by the most intelligent and enterprising tribes of the continent.

From accounts we see in the papers from time to time to hear the German experiment at Adowa, the information has not thus far been prolific of encouraging results. But it is clear that if England is to succeed to the task it has undertaken, it will be [illegible] in her interest right and justice which the Natives entertain, to control possible and effectively all the [illegible] countries in the interest of an honorable commerce and a lofty civilization.

—Weekly News.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS,

Concluded from 1st Page.

ont; and (2) because there is nothing in the shape of mental cultivation in them. Judging from this basis it seems as if those who had undertaken the formation of Clubs possessed not that spirit of self interest which is so plainly manifested in the other societies: they felt as if they were seeing if when a verity they were not. Nothing but self consciousness is the third cause which [illegible] cannot stand in the place, we sometimes [illegible] ourselves greater than what we are, and at [illegible] we recommend [illegible] what we really are. Conceit is the most contemptible and one of the most odious qualities in the world; for certainly it is the absence of himself and not the [illegible] of virtue that thinks himself superior to others.

I [illegible] and [illegible] with wonderment on the state of things Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen, I find that our young men require some place to resort, and I have myself in the position of Vally when he attended [illegible] me gobbles to varbles How social regulations [illegible] prodigal unless." Yes our young men require a solitary place where to spend [illegible] of knowledge which is power; for the discovery of what is true, and the practice of that which is good; a resort where as John says—"No man shall give [illegible] experience to himself" but shall inculcate the social and true principles; that [illegible] which Lord Macaulay defined as "benevolence in small things" and which Chesterfield defined to be "ease and freedom consisting simply in treating others as you love to be treated yourself.

Permit me to state that we are not actuated by any selfish principle or by any spirit of bigotry or opposition in the organization of this Club. It is our intention to walk on side by side with our brother the "Bonthe Mutual Improvement Club," that is struggling for existence, to further on the interest of the general public. We advocate a thirst after knowledge, a longing for christian societies, we require social intercourse free with another, for, from social intercourse are derived some of the highest enjoyments of life, because where there is a free interchange of sentiments, the mind acquires new ideas, and by a frequent exercise of its powers, the understanding gains fresh vigour. We aim at establishing life and activity by introducing time at or time series of Lectures, Debates, Concerts, Entertainments and other harmless enjoyments, and we solicit Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gents your hearty co-operation. Such are the notions which prompted the formation of this Club wherefore we trust every one here in Bonthe will participate in.

And you who are my co-partners in the club you who have embarked your frail craft in the pursuit of knowledge, I say to you to night no ostrich fear to win the day. Be not intimidated by the whims and caprices of your opponents it haply there may arise and I know that the burden will become lighter when cheerfully borne. Let your life be exemplified by your conduct, manifest one towards another that good [illegible] cheerfulness, remember that "if good people would but make their goodness agreeable, and smile instead of frowning in their virtue they would (says Archbishop Usher) win many to the good cause."

MISCELLANY.

A little girl was trying to tell her mother how beautifully a certain lady could trill in singing, and said; "Oh, mother you ought to hear her gargle."

"I think it's outrageous," said Mrs Sparrowgrass, "Here it says in the paper that St. John has been nominated for president. It's bad enough making fun of live people, but when they begin lugging in the apostles it certainly is too much."

A post-master in an eastern city is a raving lunatic. Last week a letter came to the office directed to the prettiest woman in the town, and the run on the office was so great that the poor fellow could n't stand it. The letter is still undelivered.

A merchant who died suddenly not long ago left on his desk a letter he had intended mailing to a correspondent. An Irish clerk finding it, sent it off after adding the postscript: "Since writing the above I have died."

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. IV. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, DECEMBER 15, 1887. No. 23

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto, deliv'ed in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS, Communications to Rev. J. A. Pease, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gowan, Shainow, West Africa, Rev. J. Warren, D.D., Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moodie
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Deputy Coroner,	Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk.	W. Hughes
2nd do.	S. W. Adams
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Beckner.
Sub Treas. & Col. Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett J. D. Macauley
Tide Waiters.	J. S. Crowe, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cox.
Asst. Examg. Officer Sulijah.	Jasper Caulker
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. R.C.S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. E. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. Betts.
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett

THE PROBLEM OF MISSIONS.

By the old methods, of Missionating I have already remarked, in my former paper, that the work was placed more directly in the hands of those in the field. This is true if we go back again to the Banks of the Jordan; to the days of the Baptist, by, under God, had charge of his own Mission, and directed his work doubtless as moved by the Spirit of God and was a "burning and shining light," eminently successful in his Mission, and labored in the rising sun of righteousness, with graceful splendor before the world, then in darkness, as "the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world." And when John had fulfilled his mission and was perforce of the world's hatred, retired to the seclusion of Herod's prison. Jesus of Nazareth proceeded with the work, directing it himself, choosing appointing and sending forth such disciples and workers as seemed to him best, into the villages whither he himself would afterward go; and all the while that he was here on the earth, his work was the same colaboring with his disciples, himself being conversant with the field of operations. After his ascension, the Apostles went forward with the work in the same manner, travelling out far and wide over the world, preaching the word, converting men, planting and training Churches of the Christian faith every where, without reference to any general head except Christ who with them at that early day of Missionating, was every thing; it was then Christ first, and Christ last, Christ all the while. Beyond this every great leader seems to have gone on with his work as best suited to the end sought,—the saving of men and bringing the world to Christ.—There may have been conferences of considerable gathering and importance, but they were far from being at stated times or particular in giving directions for the prosecution of the work, but left the details to men in the field to carry out as would best forward the conquest of the world to Christ. No ponderous edicts were sent out to the various Churches nor were there required definite monthly quarterly or even Annual reports to be sent by Paul, Barnabus or any one to Jerusalem or Antioch. Whatever of report may have been, it seems to have been, a mere relation of the dealings of the Lord, with the various workers in his vineyard, over which all rejoiced together that the world was being converted. Counting the sheep was then mostly left for the angels to do, who have more time, for no where do we find definite numbers given, by the Apostle Paul in his churches, although he often speaks in terms that imply large numbers and prosperous work, so far reports, are spiritually of benefit, but beyond that all to me, imperfect understanding, canons of pride and borders close on worldliness and was generally omitted in the old methods of Missionary computation. But to return to the subject of the more direct controll of the work, by those who were operating in the field. The plan possessed great advantages as must be most readily seen, as those who are competent to labour, at least at the head, of a band of christian workers, ought to understand the nature & wants of their work better than anyone at a distance; no matter how ever careful or frequent that work may be reported to the person at a distance, however short the distance, for if we consider the long expanse between continents as at this day and from the time even of Whitefield and others, it must become more evident that the men in the field, understand the wants of that particular work better than anyone at a distance, who is especially unacquainted with the people of the country in which the work is carried on hence there would seem to have been a decided advantage in this respect under the old methods of missionating, however, let no one understand me as at all intimating, that the old methods were without some disadvantages, but only as worthy of our careful study for their advantages, and as helpful to the solution of our present problems.

J. A. E.

Dear Mr Editor,—Now that the Kola nut is receiving large attention at headquarters and one may naturally conclude that there are brighter days in embryo for this once much neglected plant, I think it is high time for some of our unfortunate merchants and traders to try their chances. It is much to be deplored that we are apt to embark long and perhaps faithfully in an unfaithful enterprise; most of our enterprising men who have tried in the liquor traffic in the Sherbro country on an average of from 10 years and upwards with little or no success, may safely obtain by some legitimate means a fortune apot, (you have not to look far for it) and commence to grow a few scores of the above plant, and patiently wait for five years for the result if you will try 10 years with the pernicious liquor traffic, then try another 10 in kola planting and balance the results. Besides it will not only prove a blessing to you but it will tend greatly to develop the agricultural powers of the natives. Is it not better than developing their latent propensities to evil? But you say Sherbro is not my country nor my home. Neither do I say so.

But you may have a farm in Sherbro and have a home elsewhere. The Hon. Samuel Lewis B. L. has a thriving plantation about 17 or 18 miles from his home in the city. Besides there will be less plundering and rapine. A decrease of rum sellers means increased facility to the heralds of the cross to win Sherbro for Christ.

A RUSTIC.

A NOVEL SERMON.—Remember son says a no less philosopher, that the world is older than you are by several years that for thousands of years it has been so full of smarter and better young men than yourself that their feet stuck out of the dormer-windows that when they died the old globe rolled wearily on and not one man in a hundred thousand went to the funeral, or even heard of the death.

But smart as you are, of course. Know as much as you can, without blowing the packing out of your cylinder heads, shed the light of your wisdom abroad in the world, but don't bore people with it. And don't imagine a thing is so simply because you say it is. Don't be too sorry for your father because he knows so much less than you do. Remember the night of Washington's defeat, when a very young and verdant University student who said it was easy enough thing to make proverbs such as Solomon spoke. "Make a bow," tersely replied the old man. Profit was never heard that the young man made any. The world has great need of young men, but no greater need than the young men have of it. Your clothes fit you better than your father's did long, they cost more money, they are more stylish.

Your moustache is neater, the cut of your hair is better and you are prettier, oh for pretti[illegible] Pshaw! But young man, the old gentleman gets the biggest salary, and his home is expanding splendour on the limited scale of a dress will cause more money out of the bank in five minutes than you could get out with a ream of paper and a copper plate signature in six months? Youngmen are useful & they are ornamental and we all love them, and we couldn't engineer a picnic successful to without them. But they are no novelties now. Oh, no, nothing of the kind. They have been in the world. Don't be so modest as to shut yourself clear out, but don't be so fresh that you will have to be put away in the cool to keep from spoiling. Don't be afraid that you will not be discovered.

People all over the world are hunting for you and if you are worth finding, they will find you. A diamond is not invariably found as a quartz pebble, but people search for it the more intently.

—Sel

READ GOOD BOOKS.

"Of the making of many books there is no end" says the preacher in Ecclesiastes and when one contemplates the deluge of books constantly issuing from the press we realise that ours is pre-eminently a reading age. Much of this literature is unfortunately worthy neither of the name and is often harmful and pernicious in its influence. We lately examined in detail the book review of a prominent news paper, and of thirty books recently published twenty-one or more than two thirds were novels of a very inferior grade. In literature as in trade, the demand always creates the supply, and it certainly does not argue well for the public taste when we find works of fiction usurping the place of those that can best inform the mind and enlarged the understanding. We do not wish to be understood as indiscriminately condemning all works of fiction. There are books of this class that give us new insight into character and bring us into more active sympathy with humanity, and such can be read with profit. The modern society novel is not of this class. It is a heterogeneous compound of silly sentimentalism, improbable and unheard of experiences and frequently contain ideas very much at variance with good morals. We cannot understand how persons showing good common sense in all other matters can pour over these stories for many weeks, following their hero or heroine through all manner of absurd and impossible adventures until they are in such a state of excitement that they can scarcely contain themselves until they reach the end. Such reading is disgusting and injurious beyond estimate. It appeals only to the desire for that which is novel and entertaining, and leaves nobler faculties of the soul destitute. This is more to be regretted, because there is now such an abundance of good literature, and none better or more profitable, to the follower of Christ than that issued by the Publishing Houses of our own church. If we wish to read the Biographies of eminent men, we can procure the lives of Otterbein and Edwards and learn something of their devotion and self sacrifice to the cause of Christ. If we desire a more thorough knowledge of Scripture we can choose from a larger number of Orthodox expositions of Scriptural doctrines, and thus be enabled to "give a reason for the faith that is in us." Should we delight in books of travel and find pleasure in following some close observer and eloquent writer in his descriptions of the countries and people of the old world, we can choose nothing better than the instructive book of Euroy an Travels written by Dr. Hott. It contains many interesting and eloquent descriptions of places famous in history, and its observations on customs, society and religion are eminently profound and discriminating. Books of this kind never grow stale. They are not like the modern novel which we throw into a corner as soon as we have unravelled the plot, and probably never look at it again; but a good book can be read often and each time with new profit and delight.

—Weekly Itinerant.

ORIGINAL DEFECTIVE

The Early Dawn

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Dec. 15, 1887.

WHAT IS NEXT TO BE DONE?

Since we have been made to rejoice in the success of Expidition against the Yonnies under the command of that illustrious leader General Sir Francis De Winton who we understand has completely dismantled the principal War towns of those terrible trespassers on British soil and the peaceful homes of her Majesty's subjects. While, we say, we congratulate the General and his galant Aides upon their success. The question natural arises what is next to be done? is the work of chastisement to be continued against the various other offenders who so richly deserve it; along the whole of our border? or will the imperial Government consider the work done sufficient and repose again upon a false security and leave the Yonnies to return and rebuild their towns again? and set up the stockades from which to sallie forth in a few years again to the annoyance of our peace? We hope not, but trust that Makiah, Dawah and others will receive their just deserts from the hands of the Government and that while General Sir Francis has his hand in and is on these shores that he will continue the work so nobly begun until every "ragged rascal" shall have been secured and every interior warlike chief made to know that he cannot at pleasure intrude upon British soil without being made to feel it. And further we hope that some measures will be adopted for the maintainance of peace after it shall have been secured; upon which we hope to make some further suggestions in future.

Earthquake.—Unmistakable sensations of an earthquake, were felt in this place on the morning of the 9th inst about seven o'clock; at the Mendi Mission House, the floors of several Rooms and Offices were felt to shake, while the dishes in the cupboards and on the tables rattled. Besides the shaking of the earth, there was a noise as of the rolling of distant thunder. About the same sensations, were felt at Avery Station, in the Manoh Gharat about the same hour on the same day. And Rev S. B. Morrison informs us that it is the second time that such sensations have been felt at that Station whbin the past eighteen months.

TEMPERANCE.

Although this subject, of late, has not seemed to offer sufficient inducement, for the writers in our local papers to give much, if any attention to it; yet from careful observation, in this community we are led to believe that it has fewer opposers now than in the past, and while its advocates may not have been so ready to write as in the past, yet they have been silently at work, and have thus won friends to the cause of Temperance and silenced many of its foes. In fact, of late, intemperance seems more the result of an uncontrollable appetite to which some, perhaps we should say many, have become addicted, and from which it is hard for them to break away, rather than any disposition to defend the cause of drink. For there are now comparatively few men, whether drinkers or not, but will admit the evil of the drinking habit. And whether they have either strength or courage to quit or not, yet they do not pretend that it is a good practice, and some of them denounce it as vile; an inconsistency, that is often ludicrous it is true, to hear a man who is himself a drinker, denouncing the bottle, but this we have heard many times, and while it is not as it should be, yet it shows that the better man is against the evil habit of drinking. Our object in this paper is not so much to discuss the subject of Temperance; as it is to note our observations, and if possible to call attention to an important subject that seems not to occupy our attention as it should for while it is true that the cause of Temperance seems to be gradually gaining favor in theory; there is yet too little of practice, on the part of the masses and hence there should be an awakening on the subject of Temperance such as would shut up the grog-shops and unsettle the foundations of the Rum Traffic, which is to day the crying curse of the land.

Short Articles,—are now much in demand by the readers of books, but more especially news papers, hence in future we shall be greatly favored if our correspondents will bear it in mind, and keep close to the rule of brevity of statement.

The Hollidays,—are fast approaching, and ere we can bring out our next issue. Christmas will have ushered in the annual festivities; and however careful these may be celebrated even among christians, they are sure to be more or less dissipating to religions and moral life, in the best ordered communities, where there is the highest regard, for virtue and chastity; but in a community like Sherbro, every one should be on the alert, and careful of their Associations during the holliday season, otherwise they may have cause afterward to regret their course when it is too late.

Koneonany—is looking much neater and cleaner since the stay of Inspector Betts, and whether it was a war or peace measure it has added greatly to the appearance of the place.

Dear Bro Evans,—For want of direct conveyance, which latterly has been anything but frequent, we have not been able to send you news.

"Fem deh hoon" i. e. "War is coming" which was the daily cry throughout the country, ceases to be heard, and gradually things are settling down and there's much more quiet and certainty in nearly everything. A few weeks ago, we could scarcely enjoy our night's rest, and in consequence life itself was becoming a burden in many homes; and members sailed away from the territory as they could not with certainty employ their time in anything definite. Still a great deal of suffering from Hunger and Poverty.

It is strange however to observe that with those providentially ineffective, their late and sad experiences, (and from which they could scarcely be said to be free,) have left no serious impressions upon them, from the fact that they have since started a monster Bondo which they daringly styled "God's Bondo"—as it is said some one dreamt that God was going to send some sickness into the country and that the starting of this Bondo will be a preventive or if you like to call it an antidote.

I have been doing my utmost, by the grace of God, to expose the whole affair and show the people how utterly impossible it is for God to authorise such indecency as Bondeism and how that the propagators were "Wolves in sheep's clothing." "False Prophets" who were simply too lazy to work for their livelihood and sought to cheat the people out of their good things, speaking great rally from Deut xiii. may God bless the effort.

From other quarters we have a good deal to encourage us. Mampoo whose people are "zealous of good works" continues to take the lead. Bro Humphrey who more regularly itinerates to that part of the Circuit works well and cheerfully. He has since succeeded as far with the people as to get them, with the aid of outside friends, to contribute to the purchasing of a bell for their Barray worth Thirty shillings. It was a day of great joy when the bell was set up by the writer.

They have since expressed a desire to have a teacher there are as many children there, who could have been sent on daily to Koodoonge, but for a large stream between the places which is not conveniently crossed in bad weather. Bro Elder (Rev J. Gomer) who has since visited Mampoo twice Oct 23rd and Nov 19 has promised to give it some attention. Meanwhile we shall be very thankful to any of the friends of missions near at home or abroad who will consider the wants of these poor heathen people, hungering and thirsting so much after Religious knowledge, and come to the "help of the Lord against the mighty"

"Can we whose souls are lighted
With Wisdom from on high,
Can we to men benighted,
The lamp of Life deny?

I pause for a reply.—

The Bonthe folks come voted for their rank indifference are now, thank God in answer to prayer, "seeking the Lord if haply they might find Him" They come out in good numbers to the Sunday services. Some twenty of their children also regularly attend the Sabbath School and are getting to be quite interested in the story of the Cross of Jesus about whom Mrs. Richards tells them in their own native tongue. They are also taught to pray. We commend these children and the entire work to the prayers of the faithful and solicit the aid of any who would kindly send us some clothes and other presents for those destitute children nearly all of whom come to school and the services in a state of perfect of nudity.

I am still on the black-out. Be relieved to the appeal I made in your issue of Sept 15th to friends at Bonthe. I wonder who will be first? God help us. Yours in Christ,

J. ARTHUR RICHARDS

U. B. Mission House
Koodoonge Station
25th Nov 1887

DRESSER OR DISPENSER?

Sir.—In your issue of 30th Nov, I was surprised to find that the above question had again referred to by a Surgeon's Friend, etc. thing that my explanation of the term used in for from satisfactory; to be brief I'll only answer his questions.

(1) The term Dispenser is more applicable than Dresser for from the nature of the duties of these officers; so that after due thought it was decided that the former or old name be done away with. (3) Dr Hart should be considered as a sufficient authority for the change of the title as he was the head of his department he saw the necessity for the change which he recommended and was met with the approval expected; he was the author of the change, none before him did it and those after were pleased as it, (2) I am not a Lawyer as to the feelings of the present Dispenser when the name Dresser is used, but I believe that for the general use of the present title he would not like to be called with different title from his other brother officers. (4) It is no complaint whatever when I say that the term Dresser is used by only a Surgeon, now a-days There are some men who would like to make themselves singular unless it is so in the case of the Surgeon I see no reason why he should not go with the others in using the present term.

Thanking you for space occupied.

I am yours turly
HOPE.

Sherbro, 13 Dec '87

REGULATING THE TRADE—There is of late, considerable talk in Bargroo District, about Chief Humper Rango's laws, regulating the trade in that District. But of the particulars we are not well informed, yet so far as we can learn, they can not be of much importance, to the general traffick.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Is hereby given, that all the Schools of the Mendi Mission Distrcit will close for the Annual Vacation on Friday Dec. 23rd '87

J. A. EVANS.
Dist. Supt. M. M

Bonthe W. C. A.
15th Dec '87

NEWS ITEMS.

The Colonies and India.—perhaps the greatest journal of its kind; published Weekly in London; has been received at this office, from the Royal Colonial Institute, and we hereby express our greatest thanks to that institute for the same.

A crowded gathering—At religious services, on the 27th ult. is reported from Koneonany.

Mando—Interesting Communion services were held at that station, by the Presiding Elder on the 4th inst. The work of religion in that quarter has much to oppose it, but still it goes on.

s. s. "Cumbrian"—We understand is to arrive out from Boston U. S. A. direct to Freetown about 22nd Dec. with American goods for Messrs F. & A. Swanzy

Personal

Mr. Chas. S. Pyne who was sometime ago, rescued by Rev. S. B. Morrison from drowning in the Manoh River; gave us a friendly call on the 9th inst, he was proceeding to the Kittim in prospect for trading.

Mr. F. and Miss Annie Nicol, brother and sister of the Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, of this place are spending sometime with their brother here.

The Comdt. and Mrs. Mose returned from the Gbangroo about the 2nd inst. Mrs M. remained at Avery Station while the Comdt. proceeded to Koneonany and Moh-Koombarah, at least so says our reporters.

Dec 1.—Mr J. A. Williams and wife Mr G. W. Betts, Mrs S. W. Adams Ellen Cole and several other passengers left for Freetown per s. s. "Formoso"

7.—Mr S. B. A. Macloy returned from Freetown per s. s. Formoso.

8.—Mr W. D. Pasha Catechist of St. Matthew's Church returned from the West.

The marriage of Mr Newgent Davis of Mabole Factory to Miss Emma Davis took place at the Wesleyan Chapel on Sunday the 4th inst. A splendid group of the Wedding parties were photographed by Mr E. A. Lewis photographer.

Mr. Geo. Macauley (carpenter) nephew of Mrs Enoch the Cole was drowned at Sulymah last week.

During the past week there were about half a dozen of boats from York and Kent with passengers, and freight they succeeded in carrying many passengers from this place, York Island and Bendoo.

The members of the Bonthe "Mutual Life ary Club" are preparing for their Christmas enjoyment. We understand that they will have sports and Regatta &c we wish them every success.

MY VIEW OF SHERBRO.

From our Special Correspondent.

The lapse of nine days hence, will usher us into a Merry Christmas, the season in which good humour, good spirits good fare, sociability, kindness and charity, are invariably predominant in every family circle in this community: and in which the christians shall with one voice

"Salute the happy morn
Wherein the Saviour of mankind
[was born."

and the glad tidings of great joy to all people be proclaimed in our Sanctuaries. From the preparations that are being made by the young men, I opine, that there is not the slightest probability of our usual fashionable celebrations of the merry season suffering any serious decay or addending any considerable change. The usual inclination toward such celebrations is not at all diminishing. The luxuries as well as necessaries for the season have been provided for the public, and are to be had, not without price, from the two usual stores at Victoria road. May no dark shadow of riot or disturbances arise, either from the natives or from the Sierra Leoneans to cloud the brightness of the Christmas Feast, for which I wish the readers of the "Early Dawn" all joy and happiness.

The powers that be would be conferring a great benefit upon the public, were they to turn attention to the repair of the long embankment, which stretches itself from Yhandaheo in the "Cut Offer," the only road from this to Victoria. Owing to the neglected state in which it has been left during these past two years, this road has become destructive in more ways than one, to the health of those who travel to and from Victoria. One cannot but enquire —has the Sherbro Revenue fallen so low, that it cannot admit of the voting of a comparatively small amount out of it, for the repair of this important thoroughfare? Or is it from want of fair representation of its state to the Authorities in Freetown that the road is left as it is? Within a few days, if left to remain in its present condition, travelling to and from Victoria will turn out an impossibility.

One of the Advertisements on the fourth page of this paper is "Job-Work done at short notice in the Early Dawn Printing Office." Should the editor give every penny-a-liner who has the burning desire to see himself in print, for the sole object of giving vent to his feelings, for an office he may have taken from a very trifling cause, to understand, that he would stick to the above quoted advertisement, job work would be plentiful by the publication of fly sheet; the press would realise money; and scurrilities be kept out of the columns of this paper. Let him who wishes to abuse, pay for the printing, and take the responsibility to boot. May the writers of scurrilous articles keep in mind Bishop Pickinger's suggestions to the editor of the 11th established in London, viz. "respect to the "exclusion of articles of a controversial character with little else in them but personal flings or useless criticisms" and the insertion of those articles "on questions, relating to the Commercial, Social, Intellectual and Moral advancement of Africa, &c." with the advertisement referred to.

Superstition is the order of the day. Men who will not work for their livelihood are running to Bonthe from every quarter to deceive. The game to the deceivers is by no means a losing one. Five or Ten Pounds in cash with a fat sheep are not too much to give. Good luck in trade is what every trader requires from deceivers who have not been able to better themselves. At present, there is a man living in a stone corner, built be in one of the principal streets here, where most of our people, especially the women resort to at night, to consult the oracle of Delphi. It is however amusing to know, that in perpetrating his deeds, the deceiver uses a little girl with a white cloth covering her head, and a mirror in her hand, by which the genii is supposed to respond to every question put forth by this great deceiver. Is Divine Providence a dream to those who go to be deceived? until they see the Deity personally, many will never believe in Him.

The sad news of death by drowning at the Sulymah of a young man of this place came upon his relatives like a thunder clap on the 5th inst, and it excited the sympathizing tendency (be it said to their praise) of the female portion of this community.

It is to be hoped that the removal of a sick relative when there are visible signs of dissolution, to the Colonial Hospital to breath his or her last for the sole purpose of increasing the work of the Asst. Col. Surgeon, will not get into vogue here. It is no crime to allow one to die in peace in the midst of his or her relatives. It was a pity to see Chief Sahoren on the 6th inst. removing the mortal remains of a Mrs. Mary Ann Dunn; from the "Dead house" to the public cemetery in a very angry attitude, "post haste," at the same time stinging the relatives with abusive words, and throwing down the coffin at the place of interment with disgust as if they were wreaking vengeance on them for their neglect.

The visit of the Comdt with Mrs. Moseley to the Bargroo has resulted in the withdrawal of the reinforcement of Police that was lately sent to protect that District against the war scare, as the scare is now over. Avery delighted the visitors exceedingly.

A light shock of earthquake was felt here on the 9th inst, at 7 o'clock a.m. May our hearts quake also when about to devise methods which are mischievous. This is the second occurience of such incident

No British subject will be disappointed to learn of the success attending the Expeditionary Force under the command of Genl. Sir Francis De Winton against the Yonnies, and it is not too much to hope that the Gen'l will turn his attention to the part of the world to capture and chastise or transport to Kirk, who is preparing to withstand the British Army, and Mackatoray and Darwah with others of their clique. Bonthe.

Dec. 10, '87.

This issue is a little belated by job work and the Mails which closed at 10 a. m. to-day

It was reported at Koneonany on Sunday 11th inst by a young man who was returning from the expedition, that the Yonnie war is about over & that still the one exception of Rohari the Yonnies made a very poor show of resistance in fact fled from most of the towns before the Expedition reached them.

Coporal J. W. Nicol, returned, we beleive, from the small Boom about the 12th inst.

Rev S. B. Morrison of Avery Station is in this place he arrived on the 14th inst and will be leaving tomorrow.

Mr. B. S. Sandy returned from Freetown on the 14th inst per s. s. Formoso and may likely leave for the river to day (15th inst.)

NOTICE.

The Undersigned begs to acquaint his FRIENDS and numerous CUSTOMERS and the Public in general that he has now in his STORE, lately arrived from Europe FANCY & TRADE GOODS suitable for the SEASON.

VIZ—

Ladies' patent & Kid Boots, Gents Kid & Balmoral Boots & Shoes. Ladies' Velvets, Felt & Straw Hats richly trimmed.—Ladies' gloves, elastic garters, stockings, scarlet and striped.—Ladies' corsets of various sizes to fit any one.—Gent's scarlet ored and striped half hose.—Gents' Lamb wool Shirts.—

Boys & Girls

Boots and Lace Shoes with socks and stockings to match Finest Libed & Cambric Pocket hdkfs pressed in box. White cotton Damask Table Covers.—Fine silk and Elastic Gents' Imperial Braces.—Ladies' Parasols with deep lace fringe—Velvet-Gowns and Caps.—Velveteen in pieces.—Cashmere-Cloth of the best quality by the piece.—Union shirts.—Fancy Cloths for Ladies—Cloths for Gents' Suits—Besides Hardware and lot of other goods, too numerous to mention.

Come and see.

J. B. PARKINSON
Victoria Road,
Bonthe Sherbro.
Dec. 14th 1887.

ORIGINAL DEFECTIVE

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

DEC. 15, 1887.

WHAT IS NEXT TO BE DONE?

Since we have been made to rejoice in the success of Expidition against the Yonnies under the command of that illustrious leader General Sir Francis De Winton who we understand has completely dismantled the principal War towns of those terrible trespassers on British soil and the peaceful homes of her Majesty's subjects. While, we say, we congratulate the General and his galant Aides upon their success. The question natural arises what is next to be done? is the work of chastisement to be continued against the various other offenders who so richly deserve it; along the whole of our border? or will the imperial Government consider the work done sufficient and repose again upon a false security and leave the Yonnies (to return and rebuild their towns again? and set up the stockades from which to sallie forth in a few years again to the annoyance of our peace? We hope not, but trust that Makiah, Dawah and others will receive their just deserts from the hands of the Government and that while General Sir Francis has his hand in and is on these shores that he will continue the work so nobly begun until every "ragged rascal" shall have been secured and every interior warlike chief made to know that he cannot at pleasure intrude upon British soil without being made to feel it. And further we hope that some measures will be adopted for the maintainance of peace after it sha l have been secured; upon which we hope to make some further suggestions in future.

Earthquake.—Unmistakable sensations of an earthquake, were felt in this place on the morning of the 9th inst about seven o'clock; at the Mendi Mission House, the floors of several Rooms and Offices were felt to shake, while the dishes in the cupboards and on the tables rattled. Besides the shaking of the earth, there was a noise as of the rolling of distant thunder. About the same sensations, were felt at Avery Station, in the Manoh Gbargoo, at about the same hour on the same day. And Rev. S. B. Morrison informs us that it is the second time that such sensations have been felt at that Station within the past eighteen months.

TEMPERANCE.

Although this subject, of late, has not seemed to offer sufficient inducement, for the writers in our local papers to give much, if any attention to it; yet from careful observation, in this community we are led to believe that it has fewer opposers now than in the past, and while its advocates may not have been so ready to write as in the past, yet they have been silently at work, and have thus won friends to the cause of Temperance and silenced many of its foes. In fact, of late, intemperance seems more the result of an uncontrollable apetite to which some, perhaps we should say many, have become addicted, and from which it is hard for them to break away, rather than any disposition to defend the cause of drink. For there are now comparatively few men, whether drinkers or not, but will admit the evil of the drinking habit. And whether they have either strength or courage to quit or not, yet they do not pretend that it is a good practice, and some of them denounce it as vile; an inconsistency, that is often ludicrous it is true, to hear a man who is himself a drinker, denouncing the bottle, but this we have heard many times, and while it is not as it should be, yet it shows that the better man is against the evil habit of drinking. Our object in this paper is not so much to discuss the subject of Temperance; as it is to note our observations, and if possible to call attention to an important subject that seems not to occupy our attention as it should for while it is true that the cause of Temperance seems to be gradually gaining favor in theory; there is yet too little of practice, on the part of the masses and hence there should be an awakening on the subject of Temperance such as would shut up the grog-shops and unsettle the foundations of the Rum Traffic, which is to day the crying curse of the land.

Short Articles,—are now much in demand by the readers of books, but more especially news papers, hence in future we shall be greatly favored if our correspondents will bear it in mind, and keep close to the rule of brevity of statement.

The Hollidays,—are fast approaching, and ere we can bring out our next issue. Christmas will have ushered in the annual festivities; and however careful these may be celebrated even among christians, they are sure to be more or less dissipating to religions and moral life, in the best ordered communities, where there is the highest regard, for virtue and chastity; but in a community like Sherbro, every one should be on the alert, and careful of their Associations during the holliday season, otherwise they may have cause afterward to regret their course when it is too late.

Koneonany—is looking much neater and cleaner since the stay of Inspector Betts, and whether it was a war or peace measure it has added greatly to the appearance of the place.

Dear Bro Evans.—For want of direct conveyance, which latterly has been anything but frequent, we have not been able to send you news.

"Pem deh hoon" i. e. "War is coming" which was the daily cry throughout the country, ceases to be heard, and gradually things are settling down and there's much more quiet and certainty in nearly every thing. A few weeks ago we could scarcely enjoy our night's rest, and in consequence life itself was becoming a burden in many homes; and members and others were afraid to engage in their work could not with certainty employ their time in anything definite. Sad plight! There's a good deal of suffering from Hunger and Poverty.

It is strange however to observe that with these proverbially indifferent people, their late and sad experiences, (and from which they could scarcely be said to be free,) have left no serious impressions upon them, from the fact that they have since started a monster Bondo which they daringly styled "God's Bondo" —as it is said some one dreamt that God was going to send some sickness into the country and that the starting of this Bondo will be a preventive or if you like to call it an antidote.

I have been doing my utmost, by the grace of God, to expose the whole affair and show the people how morally impossible it is for God to authorise such indecency as Bondoism and how that the propagators were "Wolves in sheep's clothing" "False Prophets" who were simply too lazy to work for their livelihood and sought to cheat the people out of their good things, speaking generally from Deut xiii. may God bless the effort.

From other quarters we have a good deal to encourage us Mampoo whose people are "zealous of good works" continues to take the lead. Bro Humphrey who more regularly itinerates to that part of the Circuit works well and cheerfully He has since succeeded so far with the people as to get them, with the aid of outside friends, to contribute to the purchasing of a bell for their Barray worth Thirty shillings. It was a day of great joy when the bell was set up by the writer.

They have since expressed a desire to have a School as there are so many children there, who could have been sent on daily to Koukonge, but for a large stream between the places which is not conveniently crossed at least by children. The Presiding Elder (Rev J Gomez) who has since visited Manpoo twice the 23rd and Nov 13 has promised to give it some attention. Meanwhile we shall be very thankful to any of the friends of missions near at home or abroad who will consider the wants of these poor heathen people, hungering and thirsting so much after Religious knowledge, and come to the "help of the Lord the help of the Lord against the mighty."

Can we whose souls are lighted
With Wisdom from on high,
Can we to men benighted,
The lamp of Life deny?

I pause for a reply—

The Bowmah folks once noted for their rank indifference are now, thank God in answer to prayer, "seeking the Lord if haply they might find Him" They come out in good numbers to the Sunday services. Some teachers of their children also regularly attend the Sabbath School and are getting to be quite interested in the story of the Cross of Jesus about whom Mrs. Richards tells them in their own native tongue. They are also taught to pray. We commend these children and the entire work to the prayers of the faithful and solicit the aid of any who would kindly send us some clothes and other presents for these destitute children nearly all of whom come to school and the services in a state of perfect of nudity.

I am still on the look-out for answers to the appeal I made in your issue of Sept 10th to friends at Bonthe. I wonder who will be first! God help us. Yours in Christ,

J. ARTHUR RICHARDS

U. B. Mission House
Kookonge Station
25th Nov 1887

DRESSER OR DISPENSER?

Sir—In your issue of 30th Nov. I was surprised to find that the above question was again referred to by a Surgeon's Friend, stating that my explanation of the term used is far from satisfactory, to be brief I'll only answer his questions.

(1) The term Dispenser is more applicable than Dresser for from the nature of the duties of those officers so that after due thought it was decided that the former or old name be done away with (2) Dr Hart should be considered as a sufficient authority for the change of title as he was the head of his department and saw the necessity for the change which he recommended and was met with the approval expected, he was the author of the change, none before him did it and those after were pleased at it, (3) I am not aware as to the feelings of the present Dispenser when the name Dresser is used, but I believe that for the general use of the present title he would not like to be called with different title from his other brother officers. (4) It is no complaint whatever when I say that the term Dresser is used by only a Surgeon now a days There are some men who would like to make themselves sing else unless it is so in the case of the Surgeon I see no reason why he should not go with the others in useing the present term.

Thanking you for space occupied.

I am yours turly
HOPE.

Sherbro, 13 Dec '87

REGULATING THE TRADE—There is of late, considerable talk in Bargroo District, about Chief Humper Rango's laws regulating the trade in the District. But of the particulars we are not well informed, yet so far as we can learn, they can not be of much importance, to the general traffick.

SPECIAL NOTICE

Is hereby given, that all the Schools of the Mendi Mission District will close for the Annual Vacation on Friday Dec. 23rd '87

J. A. EVANS.
Dist. Supt. M. M

Bonthe W. C. A.
15th Dec '87

NEWS ITEMS.

The Colonies and India.—perhaps the greatest journal of its kind; published Weekly in London; has been received at this office, from the Royal Colonial Institute, and we hereby express our greatest thanks to that institute for the same.

A crowded gathering—At religious services, on the 27th ult. is reported from Koncona-ny.

Mando—Interesting Communion services were held at that station, by the Presiding Elder on the 4th inst. The work of religion in that quarter has much to oppose it, but still it goes on.

S. S. "Cumbrian"—We understand is to arrive out from Boston U. S. A, direct to Freetown about 22nd Dec. with American goods for Messrs F. & A. Swanzy

Personal

Mr. Chas. S. Pyne who was sometime ago, rescued by Rev. S. B. Morrison from drowning in the Manoh River; gave us a friendly call on the 9th inst. he was proceeding to the Kittim in prospect for trading.

Mr. F. and Miss Annie Nicol, brother and sister of the Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, of this place are spending sometime with their brother here.

The Comdt. and Mrs. Mose returned from the Gbargroo about the 2nd inst. Mrs M. remained at Avery Station while the Comdt. proceeded to Koncomany and Moh-Koombarah, at least so says our reporters.

Dec 1.—Mr J. A. Williams and wife Mr C. W. Betts, Mrs S. W. Adams Ellen Cole and several other passengers left for Freetown per s. s. "Formoso"

7.—Mr S. B. A. Macloy returned from Freetown per s. s. Formoso.

8.—Mr W. D. Pasha Catechist of St. Matthew's Church returned from the rivers.

The marriage of Mr Newgent Davis' of Mocolo Factory to Miss Emma Davis took place at the Wesleyan Chapel on Sunday the 4th inst. A splendid group of the Wedding parties were photographed by Mr E. A. Lewis photographer.

Mr. Geo. Macauley (carpenter) nephew of Mrs Enoch Cole was drowned at Sulymah last week.

During the past week there were about half a dozen of boats from York and Kent with passengers, and freight they succeeded in carrying many passengers from this place, York Island and Bendoo.

The members of the Bonthe "Mutual Life ary Club" are preparing for their Christmas, enjoyment. We understand that they will have sports and Regatta &c we wish them every success.

MY VIEW OF SHERBRO.

From our Special Correspondent.

The lapse of nine days hence, will usher us into a Merry Christmas, the season in which good humour, good spirits good fare, sociability, kindness and charity, are invariably predominant in every family circle in this community and in which the christmas shall with one voice and the glad tidings of great joy to all people be proclaimed in our Sanctuaries. From the preparations that are being made by the young men, I opine, that there is not the slightest probability of our usual fashionable celebrations of the merry season suffering any serious decay or undergoing any considerable change. The usual inclination toward such celebrations is not at all diminishing. The luxuries as well as necessaries for the season have been provided for the public, and are to be had, not without price, from the two usual stores at Victoria road. May no dark shadow of riot or disturbance arise, either from the natives or from the Sierra Leoneans to cloud the brightness of the Christmas Feast, for which I wish the readers of the "Early Dawn" all joy and happiness.

"Salute the happy morn
Wherein the Saviour of mankind
[was born"

The powers that be would be conferring a great benefit upon the public, were they to turn attention to the repair of the long embankment, which stretches itself from Yhandahun to the "Cut Over," the only road from this to Victoria. Owing to the neglected state in which it has been left during these past two years, this road has become destructive in more ways than one, to the health of those who travel to and from Victoria. One cannot but enquire —has the Sherbro Revenue fallen so low, that it cannot admit of the voting of a comparatively small amount out of it, for the repair of this important thoroughfare? Or is it from want of fair representation of its state to the Authorities in Freetown that the road is left as it is? Within a few days, if left to remain in its present condition, travelling to and from Victoria will turn out an impossibility.

One of the Advertisements on the fourth page of this paper is "Job Work done at short notice in the Early Dawn Printing Office" Should the editor grow every penny a-liner who has the burning desire to see himself in print, for the sole object of giving vent to his feelings, for an offence he may have taken from a very trifling cause, to understand, that he would stick to the above quoted advertisement, job work would be plentiful by the publication of fly sheets; the press would realize copey; and scurrilities be kept out of the columns of this paper. Let him who wishes to abuse, pay for the printing, and take the responsibility to boot May the writers of scurrilious articles keep in mind Bishop Fleckinger's suggestions to the editor of the 11th ult. lated in London, with respect to the "exclusion of articles of a controversial character with little else in them but personal flings or useless criticisms" and the insertion of those articles "on questions, relating to the Commercial, Social, Intellectual and Moral advancement of Africa, &c." with the advertisement referred to.

Superstition is the order of the day. Men who will not work for their livelihood are running to Bonthe from every quarter to deceive. The game to the deceivers is by no means a losing one. Five or Ten Pounds in cash with a fat sheep are not too much to give. Good luck in trade is what every trader requires from deceivers who have not been able to better themselves. At present, there is a man living in a snug corner, hard by in one of the principal streets here, where most of our people, especially the women resort to at night, to consult the oracle of Delphi. It is however amusing to know, that in perpetrating his deeds, the deceiver uses a little girl with a white cloth covering her head, and a murror in her hand, by which the genii is supposed to respond to every question put forth by this great deceiver. Is Divine Providence a dream to those who go to be deceived? until they see the Deity personally, many will never believe in Him.

The sad news of death by drowning at the Sulymah of a young man of this place came upon his relatives like a thunder clap on the 5th inst, and it excited the sympathizing tendency (be it said to their praise) of the female portion of this community.

It is to be hoped that the removal of a sick relative when there are visible signs of dissolution, to the Colonial Hospital to breath his or her last for the sole purpose of removing the work of the Asst Col. Surgeon, will not get into vogue here. It is no crime to allow one to die in peace in the midst of his or her relatives. It was a pity to see the Govt. labourers on the 8th inst removing the mortal remains of a Mrs. Mary Ann Dunn from the "Dead house" to the public cemetery in a very angry attitude, "post haste" at the same time singing the relatives with abusive words, and throwing down the coffin at the place of interment with disgust as if they were wreaking vengeance on them for their neglect.

The visit of the Comd't with Mrs. Moseley to the Bargroo has resulted in the withdrawal of the reinforcement of Police that was lately sent to protect that District against the war scare, so the scare is now over. Avery delighted the visitors exceedingly.

A light shock of earthquake was felt here on the 9th inst., at 7 o'clock a.m. May our hearts quake also when about to devise methods which are mischievous This is the second occurrence of such incident

No British subject will be disappointed to learn of the success attending the Expeditionary Force under the command of Genl. Sir Francis De Winton, against the Yonnies, and it is not too much to hope that the Genl will turn his attention to this part of the work; to capture and chastise or transport Makiah, who is preparing to with stand the British Army, and Mackaforay and Dawah with others of their clique. Bonthe.

Dec. 10, '87.

This issue is a little belated by job work and the Mails which closed at 10 a. m. to-day

It was reported at Koncona-ny on Sunday 11th inst by a young man who was returning from the expedition, that the Yonnie war is about over & that with the one exception of Robari the Yonnies made a very poor show of resistance in fact fled from most of the towns before the Expedition reached them.

Coporal J. W. Nicol, returned, we beleive, from the small Boom about the 12th inst.

Rev S. B. Morrison of Avery Station is in this place he arrived on the 14th inst and will be leaving tomorrow.

Mr. B. S. Sandy returned from Freetown on the 14th inst per s. s. Formoso and may likely leave for the river today (15th inst.)

NOTICE.

The Undersigned begs to acquaint his FRIENDS and numerous CUSTOMERS and the Public in general that he has now in his STORE, lately arrived from Europe FANCY & TRADE GOODS suitable for the SEASON.

VIZ—

Ladies' patent & Kid Boots, Gents Kid & Balmoral Boots & Shoes. Ladies' Velvets, Felt & Straw Hats richly trimmed.—Ladies' gloves, elastic garters, stockings, sell-colrd and striped.—Ladies' corsets of various sizes to fit any one.—Gent's sell-colored and striped half hose.—Gents' Lamb wool Shirts.—

Boys & Girls

Boots and Lace Shoes with socks and stockings to match Finest Linen & Cambric Pocket hdkfs pressed in box. White cotton Damask Table Covers.—Fine silk and Elastic Gents' Imperial Braces.—Ladies' Parasols with deep lace fringe—Velvet-Gowns and Caps.—Velveteen in pieces.—Cashmere-Cloth of the best quality by the piece.—Union shirts.—Fancy Cloths for Ladies—Cloths for Gents' Suits—Besides Hardware and lot of other goods, too numerous to mention.

Come and see.

J. B. PARKINSON
Victoria Road,
Bonthe Sherbro.
Dec. 14th 1887.

ORIGINAL DEFECTIVE

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—The demand has subsided, and the Market closes quiet.

Lagos	£19	15	0
Old Calabar and Bonny	18	10	0
Cameroons	18	7	6
Benin	18	2	6
Accra kinds	17	15	0
Grand Bassa	16	2	6	to 16	5	0
Brass New Calabar Niger and Congo	17	10	0
Sherbro	16	10	0
Saltpond, Appam, & Winnebah	16	5	0	to £16	10	0
Loanda	18	0	0
Bonny and Opobo	18	10	0	to 18	15	0

PALM KERNELS—Firm and in good demand

Lagos, Old Calabar, Bonny and Cameroons £10 7s 6d. Brass, and Benin £10 2s 6d to £10 5s; Congo, £10 2s 6d; Liberia and Quitta £9 15s; Sierra Leone and Sherbro, £9 7s. 6d.

BENISEED
GROUND NUTS } No change.
COPRA

COFFEE—Since our last the Market has shewn great weakness, and Bold Berry has declined to 72s. per cwt., at which price sales have been made. We quote today—72s to 73s. per cwt.

COCOA—Unchanged, and value ranges from 50s. to 62s. per cwt.

RUBBER—Fine Para firmer, sales having been made at 3s 2d per lb, but we can report little change in Africa.

Fair to Prime Gambia Niggers	2s.	0d.	to	2s.	2d.
Do. do. Sierra Leone	1s.	9d.	to	1s.	10d.
Do. do. do. Flat	1s.	2d.	to	1s.	6d.
Thimbles	1s.	10d.	to	1s.	10½d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s.	6d.	to	1s.	7½d.
Hard Cape Coast and Assinie	1s.	3d.	to	1s.	7d.
Liberian	1s.	2d.	to	1s.	4d.
Saltpond		9d.	to	1s.
Flake and Lump		8½d	to	8¾d.
Ordinary Accra		8½d.	to	8¾d.

Estimated Stocks in Liverpool and London, October 1887.

LIVERPOOL:

Para 1st hand	565
„ 2nd	265
African	585
Peruvian	150
	1,565 against 755 in 1886.

LONDON:

Borneo and Assam	287
Madagascar	7
South American	148
Mozambique	603
African	5
	1053 against 467 in 1886.

GUM COPAL—Sierra Leone 4d. to 8½d per lb.; Accra 30s. to 40s. per cwt.

BEESWAX—Gambia, £4 15.; Sierra Leone at £3 17s. 6d. to £4. per cwt.

GINGER—Sierra Leone, 18s. per cwt.
CHILLIES—20s to 25s. per cwt.
GUINEA GRAINS—17s. to 18s. per cwt.
CALABAR BEANS—4½d per lb.

CAMWOOD—Grand Bassa £15. to £17 per ton.
BARWOOD—£2. 10s. to £3 12s 6d. per ton.
PORCUPINE QUILLS—3s. to 10s. per 1000.
MONKEY SHINS—Have advanced 2d. to 3d. per skin for fine quality. We quote: Selected, 2s to 2s. 7d. each; 1st and 2nd 1s. 6d. to 2s. 3d. each; 2nd and 3rd 1s 4d to 1s. 5d. each; mixed good lots 1s 5d. to 1s. 10d each; mixed fair lots 1s. 2d. to 1s. 5d. each.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool,
November 11th 1887.

J.A. Clemens

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Bookseller, Stationary and Miscellaneous GOODS

ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET

N.B. Removed to upper Ot to Street, opposite the burial ground

Bonthe, Sherbro.

SLIPPERS! SLIPPERS!

So Long Expected,
have at length arrived
Please call and See them
At The
S. M. MISSION STORE.

Also Cube Sugar,
Black China Tea,
AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES
Medicines and Stationary.

Bonthe, Sherbro
Nov. 20th '87

PUBLIC NOTICE.

THE PUBLIC are hereby requested to take NOTICE that the LANDS situate and lying on the Western part of Victoria Road Bonthe on the portion from swamps known as the head of Ghundamah Creek along southward on to the LAND mark in possession of one Cafai Kobotu.

We the undersigned are lawfull owners of the said LANDS, above discribed and that we have jointly and severally agreed bargained and legally conveyed the said portion of Land of about 5 acres west and (Half) ½ acre south of Victoria Road to Mr John D. Rogers Govt Interpreter.

Any person or persons occupying or having any buildings or farms thereon at present should make arrangement with the said John D. Rogers as an action for trespass will be enforced against offenders intending to occupy without permission after three months from this day's date hereof.

W. T. DOUGLAS
his BANA ⋈ LEWIS
mark

Nov20,87.-3Feb.29,'88.

MISCELLANY.

The memory of a drunkenman is sometimes strikingly alive. A well-known citizen stood in a bar-room attempting to induce every man to drink. Very naturally his war experience soon came up, and with that cheat-swell of pride which ever characterizes the old soldier, said: "I fought seven battles during the war, and ain't afraid of no man. "Come on and go home." remarked a friend, taking his arm. "No, I won't go home. I fought seven battles, and ain't afraid of no man, but I won't go home. I am a married man."

"Yes," said the doctor, "you must prepare yourself for the worst. You can not live many days. You may better make your will at once." "Make my will!" gasped the sick lawyer. "Yes, replied the doctor gently: "It would be well, I think." "No" the legal man said, shaking his head: "I will never make a will. My family need what little property I have got."

The advocate of tax on raw materials has his eye on the oyster as a full-shell rest.

'Early Dawn'
PRINTING OFFICE,
Job Work Done at short
Notice.
Enquire of C. C. BELL, Printer.
GOOD HOPE STATION.
Bonth, Sherbro.
W. C Allen

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. IV. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, DECEMBER 31, 1887. No. 24.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At
BONTHE, SHERBRO,
Under the Auspices of the Board of Management of the C. M. S. Church.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:
One Year by Mail, 2s 6
Delivered in Bonthe, 2
Half Yearly by Mail, 1
Single Copy, or in Bonthe, 1
Advertisements and Communications to be addressed to "Editor of Early Dawn," Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa.

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Godman, Bonthe, West Africa. Rev. W. Moore, Boston, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.

DIRECTORY.

Commandant, C. J. Harley Moseley
Colonial Commandant.
Deputy Colonial Treasurer, Thos. Hayden
Chief Clerk and Interpreter, Wm. Hayden
2nd do. do. R. W. Adams.
Interpreter, J. W. Moore.
Bailiff, Robt. Spencer.

Sub-Treasurer, A. Collier.
Chief Clerk, C. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters, J. N. Crivis, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole.
Asst. Examg. Officer Sabjah, Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon, M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser, Rowland May.
Postmaster, H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police, M. Betts.
Gaoler, J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads, A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett.

The Problem of Missions.

The old methods of Missionary work, offered or possessed other advantages, also, of possible value, to the solution of our present problem. Specially so as regards the support of the work; for then it was of necessity in almost, if not every place, self supporting from its very beginning; for the Apostles went from place to place preaching, and the greatest of them all (Paul) although he calls himself least of all, laboured with his own hands for his support while he ceased not to warn men, with tears day and night of their sins, and we have but little doubt that others of those days laboured in like manner, even while they like Paul maintained the doctrine that the labourer is worthy of his hire and that those who minister in spiritual things should receive of carnal things. But while the Apostles knew and felt it was the duty of the church to support its ministry; yet they did not fail to see the reluctance with which the church took hold of the responsibility laid upon her; and being deeply interested in her welfare, as [illegible] they were willing to spend and be spent in the service of their Master; so they gave hand and heart to the work. The result of which also they themselves could not fathom in the prospect of great. Missionary societies, but upon the Lord who called them, and as they went they preached Christ crucified as the Saviour of men, praying as the Holy Spirit gave them utterance, and whatever their hands found to do they did it with their might. By these and methods the church was made wonderfully conquerors and the world was made to feel its whole strength the result of which was the very rapid advancement of the Christian faith. Two world was impotent to resist such united effort as the church of the Apostolic age put forth to her great strides toward the victory of the Cross. Since the days of the Apostles there have been times of retrenching, and of increased efforts, when the work of Missionating, went far more rapidly than ordinary success, but it seems to us that at no other time has there been a time almost that period when the whole strength of the church has been brought to bear upon the forces of heathendom. And just here seems to be wherein the secret of our present weakness lies, our insufficiency to meet the demands of the age, in which we now live. Having now, however found by the preceding considerations, in what the power of the church in the past, especially the Apostolic age consisted, and that the past did give more assurance of the success of the conquest of the world, for Christ, than the present; we are then at least in a fair way to a probable solution of our problem.

J. A. E.

A Beautiful Story.

One Sunday, about twenty-five years ago, while one of our greatest Sabbath schools was assembled and busily occupied with the lesson of the day, a very tall stranger walked in and sat down. His looks were plain, but entirely calculated to inspire respect. He seemed delighted with the sight of so many beautiful children and devoted teachers, all deeply interested in their work. The superintendent noticed the effect made by the sight upon the stranger, and before the school closed he stepped up to him and said: "As you have manifested so warm an interest in this our solemn work, I should be obliged to you if you would address a few words to the school before they separate. I am sure the children would long remember it." The stranger consented, and when called on, rose to his feet, looking like young King Saul among his assembled Israelites. He addressed the school in simple, kind, affectionate terms, telling them how privileged they were in the enjoyment of such advantages of common schools during the week, and Sunday schools on the Sabbath with Bible studies and religious instruction so kindly given them. He told them how children used to grow up in the western parts of the country during his childhood, and how his mother taught him the A. B C. and to spell and to read, and to study the Bible and the catechism, or he would have grown up like an Indian as thousands of children then did in those parts etc. He then proceeded to impress them with the debt of gratitude they all owed to God for these inestimable blessings, and what their country had a right to expect from citizens trained up and taught as they were. The entire school listened to the words of the tall speaker with rapt, even breathless attention. When he had finished, and was preparing to leave, the superintendent requested for himself and the school the privilege of knowing to whose voice they had been permitted to listen, assuring him that the scholars would never forget his words, but carry them through all their future days. The stranger replied, "My name is Abraham Lincoln," and passed out, leaving the superintendent almost embarrassed with surprise.—Sel.

Temperance Dots.

Spell "Murder" backwards and you have its cause.

A circuit court in Arkansas has decided that brandied peaches cannot be sold without a license.

It is as hard to tell when a moderate drinker becomes a drunkard as it is to tell when a pig becomes a hog.

A man who recently got drunk in an Eastern town where saloons are licensed, and was arested and fined, appealed the case to the circuit court on the ground that a town has no right to fine a man for getting drunk after licensing saloons to sell liquor. He won the case.

A man in Covington, Ky. made a bet the other day that he could drink a pint and half of Cincinnati [illegible]

[illegible]

Each soul must answer for himself at last. It will not do to say, I should have kept God's commandments if so and so had done so. It will not do for any soul to place responsibility on any one's shoulders. God speaks to each one separately.

An invalid gentleman and his wife had engaged a berth in a Pullman car on a certain railway. Toward midnight the patient awoke with a severe pain in his back, and asked his wife to apply a mustard plaster as quickly as possible. His better half at once got the plaster ready, and then ran to the other end of the carriage to warm it and make it draw all the better. Returning to her sick husband, the little woman unfortunately went to the wrong bed, which happened to be occupied by a stout German wine merchant, who was fast asleep. She quickly drew the curtain lifted the bedclothes, and in a twinkling clapped the plaster on the traveller's back. At that moment the sick husband called out from the berth; "Mary, what a long time you are!" Now the poor woman first became aware of her terrible mistake. Hurrying to her husband she told him in a whisper of what she had done. The poor sufferer could not help laughing in spite of his pain, and he laughed until his pain fled left him. Then all was still for a while, until suddenly loud cries and imprecations were heard proceeding from the wine traveler. "Herr-got-millionendonnerwetter!—What is that I have got on my back? Himmel—mellombem—granaten elements—donnerund. Angslwetter! Whew, how it burns! Water! Fire! Ah! Oh! my back! The bed is on fire! Thunder and lightning! Water—my back!" We draw a veil over the rest.—Sel.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—The demand has subsided, and the Market closes quiet.

Lagos	£19 15 0
Old Calabar and Bonny	18 10 0
Cameroons	18 7 6
Benin	18 2 6
Accra kinds	17 15 0
Grand Bassa	16 2 6 to 16 5 0
Brass New Calabar Niger and Congo.	17 10 0
Sherbro	16 10 0
Saltpond, Appam, & Winnebah	16 5 0 to £16 10 0
Loanda	18 0 0
Bonny and Opobo	18 10 0 to 18 15 0

PALM KERNELS—Firm and in good demand

Lagos, Old Calabar, Bonny and Cameroons £10 7s 6d. Brass, and Benin £10 2s 6d to £10 5s; Congo, £10 2s 6d; Liberia and Quitta £9 15s; Sierra Leone and Sherbro, £9 7s. 6d.

BENISEED, GROUND NUTS, COPRA } No change.

COFFEE—Since our last the Market has shewn great weakness, and Bold Berry has declined to 72s. per cwt, at which price sales have been made. We quote today—72s to 73s per cwt.

COCOA—Unchanged, and value ranges from 50s. to 62s. per cwt.

RUBBER—Fine Para firmer, sales having been made at 3s 2d per lb, but we can report little change in Africa.

Fair to Prime Gambia Niggers	2s. 0d. to 2s. 2d.
Do. do. Sierra Leone	1s. 9d. to 1s. 10d.
Do. do. do. Flat	1s. 2d. to 1s. 6d.
Thimbles	1s. 10d. to 1s. 10½d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 6d. to 1s. 7½d.
Hard Cape Coast and Assinie	1s. 3d. to 1s. 7d.
Liberian	1s. 2d. to 1s. 4d.
Saltpond	9d. to 1s.
Flake and Lump	8½d to 8¾d.
Ordinary Accra	8½d. to 8¾d.

Estimated Stocks in Liverpool and London, October 1887.

LIVERPOOL:

Para 1st hand	565
„ 2nd	265
African	585
Peruvian	150
	1,565 against 755 in 1886.

LONDON:

Borneo and Assam	287
Madagascar	7
South American	148
Mozambique	605
African	5
	1052 against 467 in 1886.

GUM COPAL—Sierra Leone 4d. to 8½d per lb; Accra 30s. to 40s. per cwt.

BEESWAX—Gambia, £4 15.; Sierra Leone at £3 17s. 6d. to £4. per cwt.

GINGER—Sierra Leone, 18s. per cwt.
CHILLIES.—20s to 25s. per cwt.
GUINEA GRAINS—17s. to 18s. per cwt.
CALABAR BEANS—4½d per lb.
CAMWOOD—Grand Bassa £15. to £17 per ton.
BARWOOD—£2. 10s. to £3 12s 6d. per ton.
PORCUPINE QUILLS—8s. to 10s. per 1000.
MONKEY SKINS—Have advanced 2d. to 3d. per skin for fine quality. We quote; Selected, 2s to 2s. 7d. each; 1st and 2nd 1s. 6d. to 2s. 3d. each; 2nd and 3rd 1s 4d to 1s. 5d. each; mixed good lots 1s 5d. to 1s. 10d each; mixed fair lots 1s. 2d. to 1s. 5d. each.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool,
November 11th 1887.

J.A. Clemens

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Bookseller, Stationary and Miscellaneous GOODS

ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET

N.B. Removed to upper Ot to Street, opposite the burial ground

Bonthe, Sherbro.

SLIPPERS! SLIPPERS!

So Long Expected,

have at length arrived

Please call and See them

At The

S. M. MISSION STORE.

Also Cube Sugar,

Black China Tea,

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES

Medicines and Stationary.

Bonthe, Sherbro
Nov. 30th '87

PUBLIC NOTICE.

THE PUBLIC are hereby requested to take NOTICE that the LANDS situate and lying on the Western part of Victoria Road Bonthe on the portion from swamps known as the head of Ghundamah Creek along southward on to the LAND mark in possession of one Cafai Kobotu.

We the undersigned are lawfull owners of the said LANDS, above discribed and that we have jointly and severally agreed bargained and legally conveyed the said portion of Land of about 5 acres west and (Half) ½ acre south of Victoria Road to Mr John D. Rogers Govt Interpreter.

Any person or persons occupying or having any buildings or farms thereon at present should make arrangement with the said John D. Rogers as an action for trespass will be enforced against offenders intending to occupy without permission after three months from this day's date hereof.

W. T. DOUGLAS
his BANA ⋈ LEWIS
mark

Nov30,87. to Feb.29,'88.

MISCELLANY.

The memory of a drunkenman is sometimes strikingly alive. A well-known citizen stood in a bar-room attempting to induce every man to drink. Very naturally his war experience soon came up, and with that cheat-swell of pride which ever characterizes the old soldier, said: "I fought seven battles during the war, and ain't afraid of no man." "Come on and go home," remarked a friend, taking his arm. "No, I won't go home. I fought seven battles, and ain't afraid of no man, but I won't go home. I am a married man."

"Yes," said the docter, "you must prepare yourself for the worst. You can not live many days. You may better make your will at once." "Make my will!" gasped the sick lawyer. "Yes, replied the doctor gently: "It would be well, I think." "No" the legal man said, shaking his head: "I will never make a will. My family heed what little property I have got."

The advocate of tax on raw materials has his eye on the oyster at a half-shell rest.

'Early Dawn'

PRINTING OFFICE.

Job Work Done at short

Notice.

Enquire of C. G. BELL, Printer.

GOOD HOPE STATION.

Bonth, Sherbro,

W. C Africa

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. IV. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, DECEMBER 31, 1887. No. 24.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto, delivered in Bonthe,	0	2	6

Advance.—Communications to J. A. Bevier, "Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, West Africa."

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gorman Rheinwein, West Africa, Rev. Wm. McKee Boston, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.

DIRECTORY.

Commandant, C. H. Harley Monsley
Coroner, The Commandant.
Depty. Coroner, Wm. Hughes.
Chief Clerk, Cecil W. Hughes.
Asst. do. S. W. A Adams.
Interpreter, J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff, R. E. B. Buckner.

Sub-Treas. & Collector, C. H. Garrett.
Clerk, J. D. Moriarty.
Tide Waiters, J. N. Crews, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole.
Asst. Examg. Officer S. Sierra Leone, Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon, M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser, Rowland May.
Postmaster, H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police, M. Betts.
Gaoler, J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads, A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road Pastor, Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas.

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett.

The Problem of Missions.

The old methods of Missionary work, offered or possessed other advantages of possible value, to the solution of our present problem. Specially so as regards the support of the work; for then it was of necessity in almost, if not every place, self supporting from its very beginning; for the Apostles went from place to place preaching, and the greatest of them all (Paul) although he calls himself least of all, laboured with his own hands for his support while he ceased not to warn men, with tears day and night of their sins, and we have but little doubt that others of those days laboured in like manner, even while they like Paul maintained the doctrine that the labourer is worthy of his hire and that those who minister in spiritual things should receive of carnal things. But while the Apostles knew and felt it was the duty of the church to support its ministry; yet they did not fail to see the reluctance with which the church took hold of the responsibility laid upon her; and being deeply interested in her welfare, as ministers (servants) imbued with the true spirit of service, they were willing to spend and be spent in the service of the Master; as they gave hand and heart to the work. The result of which was that they went out not depending on the support of great Missionary Societies, but upon the Lord who called them, and as they went they preached Christ crucified as the Saviour of men, practiced as the Holy Spirit gave them utterance, and whatever their hands found to do they did it with their might. By these old methods the church was made wonderfully aggressive and the world was made to feel its whole strength the result of which was the very rapid advancement of the Christian faith. The world was impotent to resist each united effort as the church of the Apostolic age put forth in her giant strides toward the victory of the Cross. Since the days of the Apostles there have been times of refreshing, and of increased effort, when the work of Missionating went forward with more than ordinary success, but it is rather doubtful as to whether there has ever been a time since that period when the whole strength of the church has been brought to bear upon the forces of heathendom. And just here seems to be wherein the secret of our present weakness lies, our insufficiency to meet the demands of the age, in which we now live. Having now, however found by the preceding considerations in and the power of the church in the past, especially the Apostolic age consisted, and that the past did give more assurance of the successful conquest of the world, for Christ, than the present; we are then at least in a fair way to a probable solution of our problem. J. A. E.

A Beautiful Story.

One Sunday, about twenty-five years ago, while one of our greatest Sabbath schools was assembled and busily occupied with the lesson of the day, a very tall stranger walked in and sat down. His looks were plain, but entirely calculated to inspire respect. He seemed delighted with the sight of so many beautiful children and devoted teachers, all deeply interested in their work. The superintendent noticed the effect made by the sight upon the stranger, and before the school closed he stepped up to him and said: "As you have manifested so warm an interest in this our solemn work, I should be obliged to you if you would address a few words to the school before they separate. I am sure the children would long remember it." The stranger consented, and when called on, rose to his feet, looking like young King Saul among the assembled Israelites. He addressed the school in simple, bland, affectionate terms, telling them how privileged they were in the enjoyment of such advantages of common schools during the week, and Sunday schools on the Sabbath with Bible studies and religious instruction so kindly given them. He told them how children used to grow up in the western parts of the country during his childhood, and how his mother taught him the A. B C. and to spell and to read, and to study the Bible and the catechism, or he would have grown up like an Indian as thousands of children then did in those parts, etc. He urged to improve them with the debt of gratitude they all owed to God for these inestimable blessings, and what their country had a right to expect from citizens trained up and taught as they were. The entire school listened to the words of the tall speaker with rapt, even breathless attention. When he had finished, and was preparing to leave, the superintendent requested for himself and the school the privilege of knowing to whose voice they had been permitted to listen, assuring him that the scholars would never forget his words, but carry them through all their future days. The stranger replied, "My name is Abraham Lincoln," and passed out, leaving the superintendent almost embarrassed with surprise.—Sel.

Temperance Dots.

Spell "Murder" backwards and it has its cause.

A circuit court in Arkansas has decided that brandied peaches cannot be sold without a license.

It is as hard to tell when a moderate drinker becomes a drunkard as it is to tell when a pig becomes a hog.

A man who recently got drunk in an Eastern town where saloons are licensed, and was arrested and fined, appealed the case to the circuit court on the ground that a town has no right to fine a man for getting drunk after licensing saloons to sell liquor. He won the case.

A man in Covington, Ky. made a bet the other day that he could drink a pint and half of Cincinnati whiskey in twenty hours. He won the bet, and his widow preached at the funeral the next day that it was the first money he had earned by hard work in ten years.

The absorbing theme before the American people is not railroad monopolies but the whisky monopoly; and the most important tariff question is the tariff the saloon levies upon the wages of the workingmen, which ought to go and bless their homes.

In seventy-four counties in Iowa a man has to be a temperance man to stand any show of a nomination or electing to any office. This rule applies to both parties.

Mikelitsch, who had his neck legally broken at Canton for murdering his wife in her sleep, preached as powerful a sermon as ever emanated from the pulpit, when he said to a friend a few days before the gallows claimed him: "I owe all my trouble to drinking and attending low dances."

Each soul must answer for himself at last. It will not do to say, I should have kept God's commandments if so and so had done so. It will not do for any soul to place responsibility on any one's shoulders. God speaks to each one separately.

An invalid gentleman and his wife had engaged a berth in a Pullman car on a certain railway. Toward midnight the patient woke with a severe pain in his back, and asked his wife to apply a mustard plaster as quickly as possible. She better half at once got the plaster ready, and then ran to the other end of the carriage to warm it and make it draw all the better. Returning to her sick husband, the little woman unfortunately went to the wrong bed, which happened to be occupied by a stout German wine merchant, who was fast asleep. She quickly drew the curtain lifted the bedclothes, and in a twinkling clapped the plaster on the traveller's back. At that moment the sick husband called out from the berth: "Mary, what a long time you are!" Now the poor woman first became aware of her terrible mistake. Hurrying to her husband she told him in a whisper of what she had done. The poor sufferer could not help laughing in spite of his pain, and he laughed until his pain had left him. Then all was still for a while, until suddenly loud cries and imprecations were heard proceeding from the wine traveler. "Herr-got-millionendonnerwetter!—What is that I have got on my back? Himmel-sundtausenden-granaten elementdonnerwind. Angelwetter! Wiew, how it burns! Water! Fire! Ah? Oh! my back! The bed is on fire! Teufel and lightning! Water—my back!" We draw a veil over the rest.—Sel.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

DEC. 31, 1887.

A Merry X'MAS & a Happy NEW YEAR

To all our Readers & Friends

With this issue No 24, we close our fourth volume; and we feel that while we have come far short, of what we should have done; yet we can say we have maintained our paper under many discouraging and embrassing circumstances and that weak as may have been our efforts we are still in the field of journalism to defend the right and denounce the wrong. We feel also to return our thanks to all those who have given us their help in any way either by contributions, Subscriptions, Advertising or otherwise and we also trust that we shall have their continued patronage and support.

REFORM IN NAME AND DRESS.

We have hitherto, held our peace on this Subject, from the fact that we have believed all the while that the subject was of too little moment to pay any heed to it; not that there is no danger in it if pushed on, but we have believed that as those who raised the question were men of great intellectual strength they would ere this have perceived the danger and as lovers the race would have allowed the matter to drop. But since the matter is rather gaining ground upon the unwarry minds of the masses; and we even find good men perplexed over such an uncalled for, and certainly useless Reform; we are obliged to speak out on the subject; so fraught as it is with race, tribal, and clan prejudice. So calculated to distend the elements of Society, especially in these Settlements where our population is made up of the descendants of so many different tribes whose ancestors were more or less at variance with each other.

The reasons so far as we can understand them for the Reform advocated are we believe, 1. The names of Africans ought to be of African origin and not as those of civilized Africans are now, chiefly of European origin. 2. That the Forms of dress worn today is also European and not becoming to Africans. 3 That as Africans adopt European names and dress they thereby mimic Europeans is the same to the degradation of themselves. 4. That the natives of China and India have not adopted European names or dress &c

Now, as we have about stated the meaning of the leading reasons for the proposed Reform, let us notice the first that of name why should Africans retain their former names when their conditions and in many cases places are entirely changed, other people have not done so from the earliest times. Abram that journeyed out from Ur of the Chaldees became by divine command Abraham, & Sarai became Sarah by the same divine authority. God also changed Jacob's name to Israel all of this apparently to cause them to forget their former people and heathen Associations and that in due time he might make of them a nation great and mighty; but especially a peculiar people set apart to his own Service. And we will venture the ascertion that it was precisely the same motives that led the Missionaries and Philanthropists of the past, to give new names to the poor Africans they liberated from physical or spiritu l slavery. They had altered their circumstances in life, and they gave them new names to mark the change. Those men loved Africa and sympathised with her sons, and consequently undertook the work of their Regeneration, and they baptized their children with such names as would cause them to forget their heathen Ancestral Associations and to remember their Benefactors and the religion of Jesus the Savior of the world.—More again.

The Church Pastorate School—of this place gave a very interesting Entertainment in the form of a School Exhibition followed by Prize giving on the 28th inst The Comd't and Mrs Moseley were in attendance and while the former presided, he was supported by the latter in a most pleasing manner. Mrs. Moseley, after a remark of introduction by His Worship, presented the Prizes, which were, we understood, mostly given by the attempt to defend the prize "Bonthe Mutual Literary Society." Each of the successful competitors receiving their prize from the hand of Mrs Moseley made a very polite bow and retired in a very becoming manner. Among the important personages present we noticed, besides our Worthy Commandant and wife, Revd. O. Moore of the C.M.S. Grammar School, Freetown, Revd G. G. M. Nicol, Pastor of St. Matthew's, Messrs J B. Parkinson, M. Z. Macaulay, F. Nicol, E W. Parkinson, W. D. Pasha, D. W During, besides many other Ladies and Gentlemen of this and other places, filling the School-Room to its utmost capacity. The whole affair was very pleasant indeed. Mr. Brown and others are certainly to be highly congratulated upon the success of their School.

The most of the prizes, which were awarded at prize giving on 28th instant at the Church Pastorate Day School Exhibition were we learn given by the B. M. L. Club of this place; whose generosity, we understand, had also been proferred alike to all the schools of Bonthe this indeed speaks well for the Club and we wish them every success.

CHRISTMAS—as a holiday in the secular, and perhaps, worst, sense, had of necessity to be celebrated on Monday the 26th instant, and there was the usual passing around, from place to place by our Citizens great and small enquiring after Christmas, but as a rule, we should think the gifts were rather small and savored much of the dullness of the times. Pagans and christians seemed to vie with each other in boisterous mirth. It is rather a pity that christendom should exhibit so little of the spirit of world's redeemer whose birth the day or week of Christmas is kept to commemorate.

TEMPERANCE.

In our last we gave it as our opinion, that the theory of Temperance was gaining ground in our community, but admitted that there was rather too much bad practice; which statements have been no doubt well authenticated by the experience of many in the past ages. For while we have not met with any one that would attempt to defend the practice of drinking yet we have seen quite a num er who did not scruple from the hand of Mrs Moseley made a very polite bow and retired in a very becoming manner. Among the important personages present we noticed, besides our Worthy Commandant and wife, Revd. O. Moore of the C.M.S. Grammar School, Freetown, Revd G. G. M. Nicol, Pastor of St. Matthew's, Messrs J B. Parkinson, M. Z. Macaulay, F. Nicol, E W. Parkinson, W. D. Pasha, D. W During, besides many other Ladies and Gentlemen of this and other places, filling the School-Room to its utmost capacity. The whole affair was very pleasant indeed. Mr. Brown and others are certainly to be highly congratulated upon the success of their School.

The most of the prizes, which were awarded at prize giving on 28th instant at the Church Pastorate Day School Exhibition were we learn given by the B. M. L. Club of this place; whose generosity, we understand, had also been profered Majesty's representative here, has proved himself by his actions towards his officers, as well as the public in general, a most exemplary and useful leader. "As Patron of the Bonthe Mutual Literary Club," he has endeavoured to win success in all its amusements, and with his admirable partner, they are not in want of that love and affection for our race, which is the characteristic of every true born Englishman. The public hopes on him for a success of the Club's Regatta.

December is the order of the day: Hurrah! Every body now a day endeavours to patronize this virtue in the best possible way; and about town we observe, a forcible show of it in the week day use of Tanie, Sack, Old-market, the newly invented New-market, and what not, by every Tom, Dick and Harry.

There is great dissatisfaction felt both in Church, and State, in that part of Sierra Leone known as the York Island; and without my venturing to meddle in this, the feelings of the inhabitants, and of the members of the Church, I do hope that the Powers that be, would take steps to discover where the errors lie, and make the timely remedy.

The Victoria Road tragedy of last Thursday as an unfortunate one. So many mis-presentations have been made in regard to the matter, that we are at a loss to know where the truth lies; and though public opinion says, that "jealousy in trade" is the cause of the unpleasantness, yet we wait to be better informed.

To Subscribers, readers, and leaders of this valuable Journal, we wish the compliments of the season.

Dec. 31st 1887.

THE BENEFITS OF CHANGE.

Whether in time, place, condition or otherwise are many, and varied; not of course to say that all changes are good by any means, but that there are many beneficial changes, I believe no one will attempt to deny. It is often of these good changes which I would write a word. The invalid that has suffered long from the wasting of disease in some particular locality, especially if it be within Town or City, would delight in a change to some other spot with different if not better surroundings. The official who has been pressed with a thousand cares at the head of Department feels hopeful when he contemplates a change from the burden of such duties and can testify to the benefits of change. Clergymen too are glad after a season of toil, to get away from Parochial cares to some other spot, on this green earth, in order to breathe in the sweets of a change. The Catechists, School masters &c. all delight to follow in the way of their Parochial Head in the enjoyment of a change. All of these or nearly so, manage to get a change in some way or another; but there is a host of less favored beings whose toils and cares are seldom or never allowed to interfere with the pleasures of the more favored of mankind; among these, may be found a few foreign Missionaries whose labors are excessive for many consecutive years far from home and friends. But the less favored are clerks in our shops whose duties in of course often as the pleasures of others increase; then comes the servants of all descriptions who are obliged to remain at their posts Sunday, Monday, and every day, whose change seems never to come, infact it seems that few people think that servants especially children could enjoy a change and yet it would be as beneficial to them as to others.

SCRIBBLER.

RARE COMPANY IN HEAVEN.

What a place to visit in, where your next door neighbours are kings and queens (ourselves kingly and queenly) if they want to know more particularly about the first paradise, they have only to go over and ask Adam. If they want to know how the sun and moon halted, they have only to go and ask Joshua. If they want to know how the storm pelted Sodom, they have only to go over and ask Lot. If they want to know more about the arrogance of Haman, they have only to go over and ask Mordecai. If they want to know how the Red Sea boiled when it was clove, they have only to go over and ask Moses. If they want to know the particulars about the Bethlehem advent, they have only to go over and ask the serenading angels who stood that Christmas night in the balconies of Crystal. If they want to know more of the particulars of the crucifixion, they have only to go over and ask those who were personal spectators while the mountains re-echoed and the Heavens got black in the face at the spectacle. If they want to know more about the sufferings of the Scotch Covenanters, they have only to go over and ask Andrew Melville. If they want to learn more about the old time revivals, they have only to go over and ask Whitefield, and Wesley, and Livingston, and Edwards, and Nettleton, and Finney. Oh, what a place to visit in!

If eternity were no minute shorter it would not be long enough for such a visitry. Think of our friends who in this world were passionately fond of flowers turned into paradise! Think of your friends who were very fond of raising superb fruit turned into the orchard where each tree has twelve kinds of fruit at once, and bearing the fruit all the year round!

What are our departed Christian friends doing in Heaven, those who on earth found their chief joy in the gospel ministry? They are visiting their old congregations.

Most of those ministers have got their people around them already. When I get to Heaven—as by the grace of God I am destined to go to that place—I will come and see you all. Yes, I will come to find the people to whom I have ministered in the church and in the alleys of London, when through the kindness of the printing press, I am permitted to preach every week in this land and in other lands—letters come from New Zealand and Australia, and uttermost parts of the earth, as well as from near nations, telling me of the souls I have helped—I will visit them all. I give them fair notice. Our departed friends of the ministry are engaged in that delectable entertainment now.

—Sel.

Public Notice.

THE PUBLIC are requested to take Notice that the LAND transferred to JOHN DOVE ROGERS by W. T. Douglas and Bana Lewis, is our real Property for which we have Grant from the Colonial Government.

All persons occupying or having buildings, on said lands, are requested three months from date to remove their buildings; or to come and make arrangement with the Agents in charge, as an action for trespass will be enforced against offenders intending to occupy without permission of the said Agts in charge after the expiration of the time specified in this Notice viz. March 27th 1888.

Pr. Cie Francaise de L'Afrique Occidentale.
C.BARTHELME—Agent.
" C.M.S. Thro' Sa Leone Ch. Committee.
G.G.M.NICOL—Pastor.
For The Medi Mission.
J.A.EVANS—Agent M.M.

Bonthe,
December 27th, '87.

J.A. Clemens
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL
Bookseller, Stationary and
Miscellaneous GOODS
ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET
N.B. Removed to upper Ot to Street, opposite the burial ground
Bonthe, Sherbro.

SLIPPERS! SLIPPERS!!
So Long Expected,
have at length arrived
Please call and See them
At The
S. M. MISSION STORE.
Also Cube Sugar,
Black China Tea,
AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES
Medicines and Stationary.
Bonthe, Sherbro
Nov. 30th '87

PUBLIC NOTICE.

THE PUBLIC are hereby requested to take NOTICE that the LANDS situate and lying on the Western part of Victoria Road Bonthe on the portion from swamps known as the head of Ghundamah Creek along southward on to the LAND mark in possession of one Cafai Kobotu.

We the undersigned are lawfull owners of the said LANDS, above discribed and that we have jointly and severally agreed bargained and legally conveyed the said portion of Land of about 5 acres west and (Half) ½ acre south of Victoria Road to Mr John D. Rogers Govt Interpreter.

Any person or persons occupying or having any buildings or farms thereon at present should make arrangement with the said John D. Rogers as an action for trespass will be enforced against offenders intending to occupy without permission of

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, JANUARY 15, 1888. No. 58

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto, deliv'd in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GOSLER, Shaingay, West Africa. Rev. Wm. McKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Depty. Coroner,	Wm. Hughes,
Cust'd'rk.	W. Hughes.
2nd. do.	S. W. Adams.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Buckner.
Sub-Treas. & Col.	G. H. Garrett.
Chief. Clerk	J. D. Macaulay.
Tide waiters.	J. M. Ogden, J. B. Turner, S. G. Cole.
Asst. Examg. Officer Sallijah.	Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. Bette,
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor,	Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.
Wesleyan Methodist,	Lime Street
Pastor,	Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mendi Mission, (Congregational.)	Good Hope
Pastor,	Rev. G. N. Jowett.

The Problem of Missions.

Having considered, somewhat, briefly the Old Methods of Missionating and having discovered, as we believe the cause of their power and success, we now revert again to the further consideration of the New Methods, hoping to be able to solve our problem or at least to point out the existing difficulties in the way of accomplishing the World's Redemption or rather conversion to Christ, by the church of the present age.

First of all the church of the present has attempted the use of means which for convenience of argument we may call its Machinery. This machinery is very extensive and complicated and while it doubtless possesses advantages if judiciously managed at the same time has weight and requires power to move it, which diminishes the amount of power of the church, should be the spirit of God, but this machinery requires another element and that is money; a large share of which must be expended upon the expenses of the Boards, Committees, Officers, otherwise they will not act, & if they cease to act then the Machine clogs and the church so far as the foreign Missionary work is concerned becomes ineffective, because as these are her recognized means of operation she has no other means of making her power felt upon the Heathen World. Now certainly these Boards &c., are of advantage to the church if they do not cost more to support them than it would to carry on the work they do in some other way. But it must be easily seen that these are of a disadvantage when the church must expend more up on home Boards than it would cost her to send out men into the field and support them without these Boards. I am aware that it is claimed that we need these Boards &c to transact the business of the various Missionary Societies but the question here arises. Why do not the general councils or assemblies of the various Church connexions appoint men to go into the foreign field and take the oversight of the work and make them amenable as other general officers of the connexion? As for the gathering the money for support of Missions let it be gathered as it is now only let the church give more and send the money if necessary to the agents of the Church Publishing Houses of the various denominations and let these pay over their receipts for the Missionary cause to the General Missionary of Foreign or Frontier Missions as the church might direct in its general Conference, council, or Assembly. I have suggested Publishing Agencies as receivers of monies as these have facilities for receiving and disbursing funds. In many cases monies could be sent direct to the General Missionaries in the field who should receipt every sender and report receipts from time to time to the church organs and then again to the general body of the church from which he had received his appointment. For the furthering of missionary interests in the field he would in conjunction with approved ministers (native or foreign) in the field, appoint missionaries native or foreign for the work, arrange with them for their salaries and pay them from the Missionary funds; this plan admits of but one head to a foreign field but the fields may be multiplied as any denomination of christians may see fit, General Missionaries should be at liberty to return on visits to their Home Churches as often as the good of the Missionary cause might require.

J. A. E.

Mr. George Cuikshank challenged the world to prove any case in the previous forty years of robbery with violence, and brutal assault, or any murder, by a teetotaller.

aim to secure uniformity in studies, and at the same time lay before each teacher the work to be gone through each quarter. This should have been followed by personal visits to each school. Two things hindered. First, the invasion of our territory in the months of May and June, and second, but chiefly the failure of the Board to provide for the expenses attending such visits. And I could not ask the Superintendents of the Shaingay and Mendi districts to bear that expense, for I knew what burdens those brethren have to bear with a limited appropriation. Besides they had been assured that my work would in no way add to their expenses. Rev J. A. Evans of the Mendi Mission however wrote an urgent request to have his schools visited and examined to defray all expense. By this I have been enabled to examine the schools at Good Hope and Avery. On the Shaingay district only the Shaingay school was examined. The results of frequent visits for inspection and examination are so apparent that I need not mention them.

It would be very unfair to teachers and scholars to make my first visit an occasion for critical comments I saw what I thought was commendable work being done and yet it is left for future examinations to show whether progress is being made as I shall have the results of this first visit as my basis of estimate. I must say however in the schools examined viz, namely Shaingay Good Hope and Avery the pupils did fairly well. The attendance on examination day at Good Hope and Avery was small. This was owing to the fact that neither teachers nor pupils were notified as to time of examination, and at Avery I arrived after the regular session, but called the children together and went through the examination of the regular school hours. The results or grades of the examinations may be seen at each station.

I shall here call attention to an evil that must be remedied ere uniformity in studies etc, can be secured. I refer now to the scarcity of books that exist in all our schools. When our schools were very few and number of pupils small it was an easy matter to supply our children with books. Now our schools have grown in numbers and they embrace quite an Army of pupils who must have books. Those supplied from America are insufficient to meet the demands. It looks seriously as if, unless books are supplied in abundance we must give up our much loved and highly prized American books to which we have clung so long with tenacity, and adopt some one of the Standard books sold in this colony. This is a subject that should engage your attention and call forth some consideration at your next Annual District Meeting.

D. F. WILBERFORCE
Superintendent

Shaingay,
Dec 30 '87

& WIFE TRAINING School Shaingay, will take place D.V. on the first Monday in February 1888. It is desirable that those who hope to attend the School will aim to be present on the opening day. The course of studies in each Department will embrace three years. Any Student completing either course will receive a Certificate or Diploma of the Institution. Classes in the course are known as Junior, Middle, and Senior. The terms for Board and tuition are very moderate.

Day Scholars Junior, 7s. 6d. Middle 12s. 6d., Senior 15s. 6d. per quarter, with additional charges for Classics or higher Mathematics. Ordinary Boarders are charged (for Board and tuition) from £2 3s. 0d., to £2 15s. 0d., per quarter. Preparatory classes will be formed to qualify Students for the regular course, Tuition 5s. a quarter, with boarding 21s. 6d per quarter.

D.F. WILBERFORCE
Principal.

Jan'ry, 7th '88.

The Bishop's Advice.

"And don't keep telling about your last appointment," says Bishop Fowler. "I knew a minister who was always telling how the people treated him at Brownsville. It was Brownsville here and Brownsville there—everything was Brownsville. This went on until everybody got thoroughly tired of hearing Brownsville. One night a good old lady arose in the weekly prayer meeting to give in her testimony. She was a dear good soul—one of the saints on earth. She said she had had a hard week. 'My soul,' she said, has been greatly depressed all the week. I find my faith very weak and my hope very dim. I can no longer see my way to reach heaven. I may hold out till I get to Brownsville, but I can't go a step further. There was no more heard of Brownsville in that charge after that."

A correspondent wants to know if there is more than one religious denomination that believes in feet-washing. It is sincerely to be hoped that there is.

Cm1 2 3 4 5
Ins. BRITISH MUSEUM 2

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, JANUARY 15, 1888. No. 25

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail	£0 6 0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0 5 0
Half yearly by Mail,	0 3 0
Ditto, delivd in Bonthe,	0 2 6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, West Africa.

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GUMMER, Shaingay, West Africa Rev. WM. McKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley.
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Deputy. Coroner,	Wm. Hughes.
Court Clerk.	S. W. Hughes.
2nd. do.	S. W. Adams.
Interpreter.	J. D. Fuller.
Bailiff.	F. E. H. Buckner.
Sub Treas. & Cod.	G. H. Garrett.
Chief Clerk	J. D. Macauley.
Tide waiters.	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner.
Asst Examg Officer Sulyia.	Jasper Cunker.
Assistant Col. surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser.	Rowland May.
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. Betts.
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church. Victoria Road
Pastor, Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas.

Mendi Mission, (Congregational) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett.

The Problem of Missions.

Having considered, somewhat, briefly the Old Methods of Missionating and having discovered, as we believe the urgent of their power and success, we now revert again to the further consideration of the New Methods, hoping to be able to solve our problem or at least to point out the existing difficulties in the way of accomplishing the World's hedemption or rather conversion to Christ, by the church of the 20th age.

First of all the church of the present has attempted the use of means which for convenience of argument we may call its Machinery. This machinery is very extensive and complicated, and while it doubtless possesses advantages if judiciously managed at the same time has weight and requires power to move it, which diminishes the amount of power to act directly upon the unconverted World. In other words we have now Missionary Societies and these societies have their Boards and Committees, their officers &c, this is then the Machinery by which th church does its work of missionating. The Motor Power of the church, should be the spirit of God, but this machinery requires another element and that is money; a large share of which must be expended upon the expenses of the Boards, Committees, Officers, otherwise they will not act, & if they cease to act then the Machine clogs and the church so far as the Foreign Missionary work is concerned becomes ineffective, because as these are not regular means of operation and has no other means of machinery power but upon the Heathen World. Now certainly these demand dear, are of advantage to the church if they do not need more to support them than it would to carry on the work they do in some other way. But it must be easily seen that these are of a disadvantage when the church could expend more upon home Boards than it would cost them to send out into the field and support them without these Boards. I am aware that it is claimed that we need these Boards & to transact the business of the various Missionary Societies but the question here arises. Why do not the general councils or assemblies of the various Church connections appoint men to go into the foreign field and take the oversight of the work and to take them responsible as other general officers of the connection? As to the gathering the money for support of Missions let it be gathered as it is now only let the claims give more and send the money if necessary by the agents of the Church Publishing Houses of the various denominations and let these pay over their receipts for the Missionary cause to the General Missionary of Foreign or Frontier Missions as the church might direct in its General Conference, Convocation or Assembly. I have suggested Publishing Agencies as receivers of monies as these have facilities for receiving and disbursing funds. In many cases in other countries could attend to the General Missionaries in the field who should account every quarter and report receipts from time to time to the church organs and then again to the general body of the church from which he had received his appointment. For the furthering of missionary interests in the field he would in all questions of appointed ministers (native or foreign) in the field, appoint missionaries native or foreign for the work, arrange with them for their salaries and pay them from the Missionary funds; the payments of the [illegible] had to a foreign field but the funds may be sent [illegible] as any denomination of christians may see fit. General Missionaries should be at liberty to return on visits to their Home Churches as often as the good of the Missionary cause might require.

J. A. E.

Mr. George Cuikshank challenged the world to prove any case in the previous forty years of robbery with violence, and brutal assault, or any murder, by a teetotaller.

Report of the Superintendent of Schools.

At the Annual District meeting held a year ago, I prepared a plan and course of studies for our Day schools, with the aim to secure uniformity in studies, and at the same time lay before each teacher the work to be done through each quarter. This should have been followed by personal visits to each school. Two things hindered. First, the invasion of our territory in the months of May and June and second, but chiefly the failure of the Board to provide for the expenses attending such visits. And I could not ask the Superintendents of the Outstations and Native districts to bear that expense, for I knew what burdens those brethren have to bear with a limited appropriation. Besides they had been assured that my work would in no way add to their expenses. Rev J. A. Evans of the Mendi Mission however made an urgent request to have his schools visited and examined to defray all expense. By this I have been enabled to examine the schools at Good Hope and Avery, the Shaingay district only the Shaingay school was examined. The results of frequent visits for inspection and examination are so apparent that I need not mention them.

It would be very unfair to teachers and scholars to make my first visit an occasion for critical comments I saw what I thought was commendable work being done and left it left for future examinations to show whether progress is being made as I shall have the results of this first visit as my basis of estimate. I must say however in the schools examined viz. namely Shaingay Good Hope and Avery the pupils did fairly well. The attendance on examination day at Good Hope and Avery was small. This was owing to the fact that further teachers nor pupils were notified as to time of examination, and at Avery I arrived after the regular session, but called the children together and went through the examination of the regular school hours. The results or grades of the examinations may be seen at each station.

I shall here call attention to an evil that must be remedied ere mid-country schools can be secured. I refer now to the scarcity of books that exist in our schools. When our schools were very few and number of pupils small it was an easy matter to supply our children with books. Now our schools have grown in numbers, and there embrace quite an Army of pupils who must have books. These supplied from America are insufficient to meet the demands. If books seriously as it, unless books are supplied in abundance, we must give up our much loved and higher priced American books to which we have clung so long with tenacity, and adopt some one of the Scotch books sold in this colony. This is a subject that should engage our attention and if [illegible] some conclusion at your next Annual District Meeting.

D. F. WILBERFORCE
Superintendent

Shaingay.
Dec 30 87.

TRAINING SCHOOL.

Dear Mr. Editor,—I wish again to remind many friends, that the opening exercises of the Rufus Clark & wife Training School, Shaingay, will take place D.V. on the first Monday in February 1888. It is desirable that those who hope to attend the School will aim to be present on the opening day. The course of studies in each Department will embrace three years. Any Student completing either course will receive a Certificate or Diploma of the Institution. Classes in the course are known as Junior, Middle, and Senior. The terms for Board and tuition are very moderate.

Day Scholars Junior, 7s. 6d. Middle 12s. 6d., Senior 15s. 6d. per quarter, with additional charges for Classics or higher Mathematics. Ordinary Boarders are charged (for Board and tuition) from £2 3s. 0d., to £2 15s. 0d., per quarter. Preparatory classes will be formed to qualify Students for the regular course, Tuition 5s. a quarter, with boarding 21s. 6d per quarter.

D.F. Wilberforce
Principal

Jan'ry, 7th '88.

The Bishop's Advice

"And don't keep telling about your last appointment," says Bishop Fowler. "I knew a minister who was always telling how the people treated him at Brownsville. It was Brownsville here and Brownsville there—everything was Brownsville. This went on until everybody got thoroughly tired of hearing Brownsville. One night a good old lady arose in the weekly prayer meeting to give in her testimony. She was a dear good soul—one of the saints on earth. She said 'one had had a hard week. 'My soul,' she said, has been greatly depressed all the week. I find my faith very weak and my hope very dim. I can no longer see my way to heaven. I may hold out till I get to Brownsville, but I can't go a step further. There was no more heard of Brownsville in that charge after that."

A correspondent wants to know if there is more than one religious denomination that believes in feet washing. It is sincerely to be hoped that there is.

Cms 1 2 3 1 3 2 Ins. BRITISH MUSEUM

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

JAN. 15, 1888.

REFORM IN NAME & DRESS.

Again we advert to this subject, and ask of those who advocate this Reform in name; how are they to accomplish it? since it is very doubtful as to whether the public will accept of many of the new names which would be thus brought forward quite foreign to the sense of Christian propriety as well as civilized taste: our reasons for saying this, is, that since we last wrote we have heard a prominent resident of the City Freetown, declare that as far as he is concerned he will never address Mr. Davies by his new appellation (O. FADUMA) and we have reasons to believe from what we could gather in the City, that there are many others of the same feelings, and if any opposition of this kind arises from high quarters, where is the power to over-come it? but of course we cannot trust this barrier strong as it may seem for the so-called Reform is a down-ward movement, from a higher to a lower plane, and all kinds of weight add to its momentum as it proceeds down the plane therefore it is of importance that it be resisted with all possible effort and that too at once. The reform in name is not merely from European to African or it might be of little consequence; but the change is from christian to pagan; from civilized to uncivilized forms, from the religion that raises the world heavenward to the superstitions that would drag it down to distruction. Hence the reform seeks to undermine the work of christian missions in Africa and thus in the very beginning of the second century of History of the settlement of Sc. Leone we see an effort put forth under the name of reform to stampede the work of christian advancement and to effect a retreat back to heathenism. For just let us take away the European names, Dress and manners of the people of Sierra Leone and what would be left of civilization or refinement,—a mere shade of Mohamidanism scarcely distinguishable from the Pagan mass,—so let those who advocate this new reform consider that it means the degradation and not the promotion of the Africans and more than that it means the displacement of Christianity and the reinstatement of heathenism in its stead.

Another Expedition Needed.—Of late we have heard here and there a little talk of another Expedition to Sulymah; but nothing so far seems definite on the subject, but really to us it would seem one of the saddest misfortunes of governmental policy to fail to send an Expedition to the Galinas that would signally punish the disturbers of the peace; and we most sincerely hope that the visit of Major Pigott will result in the sending of such an Expedition to that quarter as shall put a quietus on all the disturbances in those rivers. If that is done then we may expect peace, but if not, matters will ere long be worse than ever.

SOME IRREGULARITIES.—In glancing over the make up of this Issue we regret to note that several papers or articles very poorly written, and that savor very much of the personal and objectionable kind appear; however these came under our notice too late to avoid their appearance, but we would here say that this alone saved those articles from the Waste Basket.

The new Tariff is certainly a heavy blow to the trade of these Settlements for it effects almost every commodity of Trade or Commerce and burdens nearly every one with additional expense while it does not give any protection to any industry in the country except it may be lumbering which cannot profit but a very few or it is so not to any great extent as there are comparatively few persons engaged in the lumbering business and most of such persons work by hand and consequently turn out but little stuff for the Market. On the other hand the specific duty on sugar alone touches every consumer of that article to the extent of more than a penny on the pound and considering the amount of sugar used at present by nearly if not all classes it makes the matter felt by every body and the result is that the dissatisfaction is general. Duty being less on unrefined sugar is of little or no consequence. Hardware & salt are commodities of commerce that cannot be dispensed with & must be imported—except perhaps a very little salt—But to be brief the New Tariff viewed from any stand-point appears to be a heavy blow on our declining Trade and for that reason a very unwise movement calculated to damage rather than help these settlements, of the ad valorem duties and exemptions we may speak again.

CUSTOMS FEES.—This miserable appendage, to our Customs arrangements, was certainly very annoying, on the 10th and 11th insts. to almost every one having anything to do with the s. s. "Formoso" as scarcely any of the ship's time in the harbor was within Customs, hours and hence it was 10s for per-mit; It is true perhaps that some did not pay but why are we annoyed with such a nuisance-ina place like this especially in the case of the Local Mail Steamer!

We have been informed of an act of public munificence on the part of S. B. A. Macfoy Esquire the leading native merchant of this country. Four weeks ago this gentleman presented to the Authorities for the use of the Court Hall in this District a magnificent oil painting of Her Majesty Queen Victoria measuring 24×28 which exemplary gift, His excellency the Governor Chief has been pleased to accept and which will soon delight the eyes of visitors to the said Hall. Mr Macfoy has hereby earned public thanks, and has led the way in this community in the case of private individuals conferring public benefits, which secure to the donor himself lasting honor as well distinction to his posterity.

An Entertainment at the MENDI MISSION SCHOOL ROOM.

An Entertainment in connection with the above School took place on Friday evening 13th inst, at the School Room, Victoria road. The Chair was occupied by Commandant Moseley supported on his right by Mrs Moseley.

The Room was tastefully and elegantly decorated with flags, evergreens and numerous beautiful pictures. Over the head of the Commandant was placed a splendid portrait of Her Majesty the Queen with the flags of the United States of America and the British Ensign—The room was filled with a respectable audience—The meeting was opened by the Revd J. A. Evans who introduced the Chairman, who occupying the chair made very suitable and appropriate remarks, then followed a Song by the school children "Our Greeting." Among those present were—Messrs Wm. Hughes, H. R. Williams, S. W. Adams, W. Bidwel Coker, G. P Wilhelm, H. S. Jenkens W. D. Macaulay, Revd G. N. Jowett Catechist Pasha and several ladies and gentlemen

The first in the programme was "Boys Sermon on Mind" a recitation by Master Lincoln. 2. "Education" recitation by Miriam Bull. 3.—"A word to Mothers" by J. H. Evans. 4.—"Show Business" by Masters Williams and Evans. 5. A Song—"Kiss, my Mother" by the whole school. 6. A recitation by Miss Hannah Jowett (a very good advice to young men). 7.—"The two office Boys"—A Dialogue by Alfred Sumner, Wolf and Tucker. 8. "Be careful how you speak"—by Miss Jane Jowett. 9. Song—"People will talk"—the whole school. 10.—"Marry no man if he drinks"—a recitation by Miss Hannah Jowett. 11. "Pat and the Magistrate"—by Wolf and Sumner, Then followed an interesting Debate on "Are the Mental capacities of the sexes equal?" 14 Speakers took the floor—Mr. W. B Coker the opener in favor of the male sex, but after hearing the powerful arguments on the other side as to the equality of both sexes mentally, he was obliged to give his votes for the female sex. The Programme was a lengthy one, but notwithstanding, the Actors played well their part to the satisfaction of the audience. After the programme had been exhausted, Revd Evans moved a vote of thanks to the Chairman for having presided over the Business of the meeting which was seconded by Mr. Wm. Hughes and supported by Mr W. D. Pasha. Next followed by Postmaster Williams, seconded by Mr. Horatio Jenkins and supported by Mr. Wilhelm, That the thanks of the meeting be accorded to the Managers and Teachers of the School, also to the pupils for the exertions manifested and the success achieved in this meeting, which was responded to by Revd Evans. The chairman made some very touching remarks as to his intended departure from our midst which remark was received with sorrow and regret by all present. This interesting and ever to be remembered meeting came to a close at 10. 30 p.m.

[Communicated.]

Bonthe,
Jan. 14, 1888.

Extracts from "TIT-BITS."

"Riches take unto themselves wings and fly away," said the teacher; "what kind of riches is meant?" And the smart boy at the foot of the class said he "reckoned they must be ostriches."

Judge—(to prisoner) "Your statement does not agree with the evidence of the last witness."

Prisoner: "I dont wonder. He's a bigger liar than I am."

A man by name of Day was married yesterday to a Miss Week, and a friend worked his brain and sent the following poem:

A day is non
A week is lost,
But time need not complain,
For soon there'll be of little Days
Enough to make a Week again

"Gerty, did I show you this engagement ring of emeralds and diamonds that Charlie Brown gave me?"

"Oh, I have seen it before!"

"Seen it before?"

"Yes, I was engaged to him at the beginning of July."——

NEWS ITEMS.

Jan. 2. '88.—Grand Concert at the Court Hall by the members of the "B. M. L. Club"

4.—A Regatta by the Members of the above Club took place this day, and in the evening an Entertainment was given at the spacious shed erected at the Gov't Yard.

Comm'd't and Mrs Moseley were present.

5.—s. s. Formoso left for Freetown with the following passengers—Messrs J. S. T. Davis, F. Nicol, A. H. Williams and Rev. J. A. Evans, Editor of the Early Dawn.

10.—Revd. J. A. Evans and Mrs S. W. Adams and child returned per the Formoso.

11.—s. s. Formoso left for Freetown with Messrs J. B. Parkinson, C. J. Cole, Thes. philus Coker, Revd O. Moore (Principal C. M. S. Grammar School) Mrs. C. J. Cole &c.

Misses Moore and Lumpkins also left in the same steamer.

Major Pigott with a small escort arrived here from Freetown per s. s. Formoso on the 10th instant and proceeded to Sulymah on the 11th.

Revd. D. F. Wilberforce, Principal of the Rufus Clark Training School, arrived in this place about the 5th inst. and spent a few days on business and visiting parents and friends.

It is reported that a Man of-war came into the entrance of this Harbor on Sunday the 15th inst., and that Major Pigott returned to Freetown by it.

Mr. Editor,—This is an age when those who appear in public to give an address, should consider well the subject they would deal upon, and the audience they are expected to meet and one who makes an attempt to display oratorical powers, should be a man of sound practical judgment and good mental qualifications, and unless this course is adopted, our literary status will be only a farce, despite the establishment of a Literary Club in our midst.

In our little community is one who is always in front to display (instead of literary qualifications) the opposite and those who were present at the examinations of the Wesleyan Day School on the 20th ultimo would join me in saying that the remarks made by this gentleman were altogether beyond the pale of reason and decorum, and bespeaks want of literary culture. A few days after, this very gentleman appeared at the Entertainment given at the St. Matthew's Church School Room where he again displayed his usual adverbial qualifications.

I would only advise this noted gentleman in future to think twice ere he approaches the public with his oft repeated phrases. Let him remember the remarks made by Revd. J. A. Evans and Mr. C. S. Brown, at the Inaugural Address of the "B. M. L. Club" on the import of the word "Literary."

Yours,—LITERATURE.

Jan. 7, '88.

Report of Koneonany Station for the Year ending December 31, 1887.

Dear Sup'dt,—Although the year was one of sorrow, yet, the unmeasured goodness of God towards us is great, for which we return Him our greatest thanks

There have been some irregularities in connection with the work here, in the past, which has produced some withdrawal of the members from the church, but the Lord who is the Author of peace and not of confusion, has built peace among us since the change of last Conference. The Lord has assisted and enabled us to work devotedly during the year, although there has been some discouragements. The Itineracy was nicely going on before and after the rains. Much attention has been paid to the preached word, and large gatherings found everywhere on my visits. There has been two visits to this station during the year when communion services were held, and sixteen persons in number were baptized at the times consisting of both adults and infants. Some of our people here and friends abroad have been liberal toward the cause of missions and the chapel, while others are indifferent about so noble a work.

The Sabbath School is in some measure tolerably good, consisting more of children to whom the Holy Scriptures are read and explained.

The Day School has increased in numbers and the children have progressed in their studies. The evil here is that parents of children are not steady in one place, and hence there the gatherings were always of a fluctuating nature.

At present we report as usual.—No. of appointments 12; No. of Seekers' class, 6; No. of Seekers, 156; No. of Day School Scholars, 21; No. of Sabbath Scholars, scholars, 27;

Missionary Collection	£0. 12. 0.
Light Ditto.	0. 14. 2½d.
Chapel Ditto.	1. 10. 0.
Total amt. collected	£2. 16. 2½d.

Koneonany, T. N. JOAH.
Jan 2, '88.

Dear Editor,—Allow me a small space in your journal to remove from the minds of the intelligent public the vague expressions uttered by one of the speakers at the Entertainment at the Saint Matthew's Church School Room.

The speaker whose knowledge of the English language is very limited notwithstanding his collegiate training, is generally known to be a champion at every meeting (whether invited or not) to display his boyish foubles. The remarks made as to the Wesleyan Day School having totally failed in their public examination is altogether without any foundation whatever for the speaker who was also an examiner in that school promised 2 prizes to pupils Isaac Peters & Theodore Jarrett for Geography and mental Arithmetic and I must confess that my ears tingled when I heard the expression made use of by this very gentleman. As I was present at that examination I must confess that the children answered the questions put to them in a satisfactory manner, the exception is, when the same examiner asked questions that no could not answer himself and which no one present could understand, then it was that there was a delay of a few minutes giving time to review the questions, the same was also observed at the St. Mathew's Examination.

However I would advise this examiner in future to be well versed in the questions before putting them to the children in a public examination, and that he should express sympathy with the pupils (even if they had failed) rather than use such expressions in a public gathering, which I must confess was caused through cowardice.

I believe a Club is organized to promote Education, and as such, be being a member of that Club, should not be so audacious in future.

Yours,—SPECTATOR.

Jan. '88.

THE NEW CUSTOMS TARIFF.

For several months there has been a talk of imposing a new Customs Tariff for the settlement. Since the return of His Excellency Sir SAMUEL ROWE from Bathurst Gambia, this question has engaged his attention. Several meetings of the Legislative Council have been recently held, and after many protracted sittings, the new Ordinance was passed on Friday last the 30th ult. There was also passed on the same day an Ordinance entitled the "Tonnage Dues by all vessels entering our Habour has been abolished.

We publish the Ordinances on the fourth page of this impression for the information of our readers. It will be seen by the new Tariff that an ad valorem duty of 5 per cent. on most importations has been imposed:—that the duty on unmanufactured tobacco has been reduced from 6d. to 4d per lb. that there is now specific duty on lumber, hardware, salt and sugar,—and that of refined sugar being 10s per cwt.—that Export duties have been entirely abolished.

This is a complete renovation, and it must not be supposed that these Ordinances did not meet strenuous opposition in many salient points from the unofficial members; they are fully alive to the welfare of the country and the interest of the people, and they fearlessly opposed what they felt was injurious to the progress of the settlement. We defer further observations until our next issue—Weekly News.—Sierra Leone.

The number of cripples in England and Wales alone is reckoned at not less than one hundred thousand, and the saddest thing of all is that by much the larger number of them owe their infirmities and deformities to bad fathers, bad mothers, bad nurses. Tumbling out of the arms of staggering drunkards, parents or nurses, they get their bones broken, or their joints dislocated, or their limbs fractured. There is no doubt that the use of intoxicating drink is the root of this and a host of other domestic, social and political evils. Year by year it cripples thousands of innocent infants; more ruinous to the country than the pillage of the Bank of England—it costs sixty millions of money; and more fatal than the bloodiest battle-field sixty thousand lives are sacrificed. Neither Moloch nor any other heathen idol was ever worshipped with such cruel and costly sacrifices as this Christian kingdom offers year by year to the demon of drink.—Sel.

"Papa, what is the tariff?" asked a congressman's little boy. Gazing compassionately at the youthful knowledge-seeker and sadly shaking his head, his father replied: "My son I cannot tell a lie; I do not know."

This Issue is the first of Volume V. and should be No. 1. instead of 25 as it is.

ALPHA

FACTORY,

YORK ISLAND.

This desirable and commodious place of Business now

For Sale.

The Factory stands on its own ground of about 2½ acres, and has among its other advantages that of one of the best situations in the Sherbro River.

The place is free-hold with GOVERNMENT GRANT and in first rate condition.

Further particulars to intending purchasers on application to

GEO. LEACH

Manager for the Estate of the late

WILLIAM MURRAY.

J.A. Clemens

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Bookseller, Stationary and Miscellaneous GOODS

ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET

N.B. Removed to upper Otto Street, opposite the burial ground

Bonthe, Sherbro.

SLIPPERS! SLIPPERS!!

So LONG EXPECTED,

have at length arrived

Please call and See them

AT THE

S. M. MISSION STORE.

Also Cube Sugar,

Black China Tea,

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES

Medicines and Stationary.

Bonthe, Sherbro

Nov. 30th '87

PUBLIC NOTICE.

THE PUBLIC are hereby requested to take NOTICE that the LANDS situate and lying on the Western part of Victoria Road Bonthe on the portion from swamps known as the head of Ghundamah Cro Kolong southward on to the LAND mark in possession to one Cafai Kobotu.

We the undersigned are lawfull owners of the said LANDS, above discribed and that we have jointly and severally agreed bargained and legally conveyed the said portion of Land of about 5 acres west and (Half) ½ acre south of Victoria Road to Mr John D. Rogers Govt Interpreter.

Any person or persons occupying or having any buildings or farms thereon at present should make arrangement with the said John D. Rogers as an action for trespass will be enforced against offenders intending to occupy without permission after three months from this day's date hereof.

W. T. DOUGLAS
his BANA ✕ LEWIS
mark

Nov30.87. toFeb 29.'88.

Public Notice.

o

THE PUBLIC are requested to take Notice that the LAND transferred to JOHN DOVE ROGERS by W. T. Douglas and Bana Lewis, is our real Property for which we have Grant from the Colonial Government.

All persons occupying or having buildings on said lands, are requested three months from date to remove their buildings; or to come and make arrangement with the Agents in charge, as an action for trespass will be enforced against offenders intending to occupy without permission of the said Agts. in charge after the expiration of the time specified in this Notice. viz. March 27th 1888.

Pr. Cie Francaise de L'Afrique Occidentale.
C. BARTHELME—Agent.
" C.M.S. Thro' Sa Leone Ch. Committee.
G.G.M.NICOL—Pastor.
For The Mendi Mission.
J.A.EVANS—Agent M.M.

Bonthe,
December 27th. '87.

NOTICE.

The Undersigned begs to acquaint his FRIENDS and numerous CUSTOMERS and the Public in general that he has now in his STORE, lately arrived from Europe FANCY & TRADE GOODS suitable for the SEASON.

VIZ–

Ladies' patent & Kid Boots, Gents Kid & Balmoral Boots & Shoes. Ladies' Velvets, Felt & Straw Hats richly trimmed.—Ladies' gloves, elastic garters, stockings, selfcol'rd and striped.—Ladies' corsets of various sizes to fit any one.—Gent's self-colored and striped half hose.—Gents' Lamb wool Shirts,—

Boys & Girls

Boots and Lace Shoes with socks and stockings to match Finest Linen & Cambric Pocket hdkts pressed in box. White cotton Damask Table Covers.—Fine silk and Elastic Gents' Imperial Braces.—Ladies' Parasols with deep lace fringe—Velvet-Gowns and Caps.—Velveteen in pieces.—Cashmere. Cloth of the best quality by the piece.—Union shirts.—Fancy Cloths for Ladies.—Cloths for Gents' Suits—Besides Hardware and lot of other goods, too numerous to mention.

Come and see.

J. B. PARKINSON

Victoria Road,
Bonthe Sherbro.
Dec. 14th 1887.

ROBERT COLLYER.

o

Not long ago the Revd. R. Collyer told the story of his life to the students of Eastman Business College, in Poughkeepsie, drawing from it many pointed morals. The story is well worth reading and pondering; and we cannot forbear giving our readers one or two brief extracts from the published report. Mr. Collyer mentioned four things which "as he had learned his lesson, go to make a man; good birth, good breeding, your own good endeavor, and that good fortune which is but another name for the goodness of God." He described the simple home in Yorkshire, paying his mother a tender tribute for the cleanliness and wholesome regimen that secured perfect health, and for the training that repelled vice and fostered self-improvement. In concluding his 'talk,' Mr. Collyer gave the following characteristic and sensible advice: "When you get through with the College, and take hold of your life's work, do not think of making a fortune as the one grand aim of your life, but of carving out a home, finding a good, true woman for your wife, and raising, please God, a good family. I do not cry down money. I think it is a good servant and a good friend, but it is about as cruel a master as ever used a whip. A shrewd farmer said to me once, 'Never marry for money, my lad; marry for love; but if thou finds a nice girl that has money, try to love her.' I would not say that to you, but this: If you find the nice girl, some such match for you as my mother was for my father, and it you love her, marry her, if she will have you, tho' she has not a dollar to her name. This is a sore evil under our American sun, that there should be such mishap and disaster in the wedded life. It lies in this, that in the most momentous thing we can do, we so often use the least judgment. We who have had our turn and the young men of your birth and breeding to raise a generation of a nobler and better type, boys and girls strong of arm and sure of foot, deep-chested, sunny-hearted, full of faculty, and wholesome to innermost nerve, and to do this you must do two things: give them noble mothers, and don't linger shivering on the brink, and fear to launch away, but when you know you can take care of a home in a simple, wholesome fashion, go right to work and do it.—sel.

An exchange has the following: "The subject of this sketch, formerly an honored and gallant soldier of our army, has become degraded and so low that for months he has not slept in a bed. He is never sober as long as anyone will furnish rum for him. Recently, while lying helplessly drunk in the rear part of a saloon, some of his half drunken companions tried to play a joke on him by stealing his clothes. In removing them they found underneath his shirt, suspended by a string from his neck, a small canvas bag. On opening this bag, they found in it his commission as Brevet Major-General, two congratulatory letters–one from General Grant, and one from President Lincoln—a photograph of a little girl, and a curl of chestnut-brown hair. When these things were found, even they felt some respect for the man's former greatness and a pity for his present condition, and quietly they replaced the articles and clothes on him. When he was interviewed he declined to communicate anything. On being told that his right name and former position were discovered, he wept like a child. With tears trickling down his cheeks, he said: For God's sake, sir, don't publish my degradation —at least, not my name. Is it not enough that I myself know how low I have fallen? It will do no good, and it will do my friends a great deal of harm, as, fortunately, they think I am dead."—Sel.

'Early Dawn'

PRINTING OFFICE.

Job Work Done at short

Notice.

Enquire of C. G. BELL, Printer.

GOOD HOPE STATION.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, JANUARY 31, 1888. No. 2.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto. deliv'rd in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gunn Shaimou, West Africa. Rev. Wm. McKee Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant. C. H. Harley Moseley
Coloner. The Commandant.
Deputy. Coroner, Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk. W. Hughes.
Ind. do. R. W. Adams.
Interpreter. J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff. F. E. B. Buckner.

Sub-Treas. & Col Chief Clerk G. H. Garrett
J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters. J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole
Asst. Examg. Officer Sallijah, Jasper Caulker.

Assistant Col. Surgeon. M. L. Jarrett, M R. C. S.
Dispenser Rowland May
Postmaster. H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police. M. Bette,
Gaoler. J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads. A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett.

THE PROBLEM OF MISSIONS.

General Missionaries, should, I have said, be at liberty to return to their Home Churches, as often as the good of the Missionary cause might require; that is whenever necessary to visit these churches, to arouse in them afresh the Missionary fire so as to keep them in sympathy with the great work; these general missionaries being themselves fresh from the field could give individuals and congregations particulars of information from personal experience such as no missionary secretary can possibly give, who only gathers his information from the Reports of field missionaries, however careful the secretary or correct the Report may be; for the general missionary resides in the field, visits the literating towns with and without the missionary in charge of the Work; holds interviews with natives, learns how the people live in their own hamlets, weighs the influence of the missionary in charge upon the minds of the people among whom [illegible] to the fitness of the Missionary from what he is doing and can do in the place where he labors and if a change is desirable he can better direct that change, and while travelling at home he can lay the wants of particular Stations, Districts, & Missions before the various congregations he may be able to visit and his talks, lectures &c would be enhanced by the fact of his being fresh as a worker from the field money given to the cause of missions would be given directly to workers in the field and the Talent now restricted to carrying on the Home Offices and the vast amount of Machinery now used to connect the home churches, with their frontier and foreign missions would be used in missionating. Another difficulty would be obviated, which to me seems very desirable and that would be corporate bodies that have the means or power to contract debts, which increase often to very annoying dimensions in spite of the best management of many Home Boards, with all their best resolutions against going in debt; hence to my mind the only sure way to avoid Mission debts is to abolish the power to contract obligations of any considerable amount and if this be done and responsible general missionaries sent out to live and labor in the field selecting their own helpers their work as it moves and making under the sanction of their Home Churches their own appeals for funds to carry on direct missionary operations, instead of otherwise as is necessary under tie present methods, there is but little doubt that the cause of missions will be more largely supported than now and as all the support would go directly to the work it would be much increased, from that source alone as then those now employed as treasurers and secretaries; by the proposed new arrangement would employ the most of their superior talent, as well as time, in the field; doing actual Missionary work; of course I am aware that this novel plan would not be so pleasant, but it is not pleasure but service directed in the most profitable way that I am trying to point out and to solve the problem of missions as to how the church may most readily accomplish the work of bringing the world to Christ. And in order to this I must of necessity notice those things in our present plans that retard the work. And certainly today there is no greater evil, working against the Missionary interests than that of the debts of the various Missionary Societies these eat like a cancer upon the very vitals of the Societies and although they are their honest obligations, yet they annually eat up enough in the form interest to support a goodly number of Missionaries and in some cases these debts threaten to use up the most of the Societies' funds on interest paying. J.A.E.

THE DRINK TRAFFIC.

The curse some one, and perhaps more, has said of Africa and while it may be true, as many others have observed, the ruin of many in other parts of the world. Yet we here are more, at present, concerned for Africa, [illegible] other disadvantages, which operate so sadly against its moral elevation. One of the deplorable facts connected with the drink traffick is that the rum, gin &c, that is sold is made in Christian countries brought by christian (nominal) Merchants and sold by christian clerks to christian & pagan drinkers who use it alike to their ruin and degradation and when remonstrated with on the subject of such a habit refer at once to the fact that men in civilized Europe and America make the rum and gin, and send it out here for Africans to drink or that white men drink Brandy wine, &c, because they are able to get it while the poor black man drinks that which he is able to procure, and that one is no worse than the other, hence the poor native christian or Pagan has the drink brought to him by enlightened nations of the world and men from those same lands set the example of drinking; hence while ever the vile stuff is sold we must ever expect to see drunkards on our streets; for that reason every lover of moral progress should put forth every effort in his power to stop the drink Traffick in this dark land. I am glad to note that there are those both in England and America that are interested in trying to put down the liquor Traffick with native races.

E.

Dear Editor,—By the steamer "Formoso" which arrived in port on the 18th instant, intelligence was received of the happy termination of the "Victoria Road Tragedy," (which took place at Bonthe on the 29th ult.) in the presence of the leading member of the Sierra Leone Bar and a few gentlemen of high position in Freetown which has resulted in the aggressor or defendant in the matter, offering a humiliating and affecting letter of apology which the plaintiff accepted and holds as a guarantee of future good conduct and behaviour on the part of the defendant. From the purport of the apology it appeared that the defendant was labouring under a very wrong impression when he committed the assault but the plaintiff being a compassionate man, and wishing to fulfil the Divine Command (that we are not to render evil for evil, but to forgive one another) accepted the apology.

Mr. Editor, This circumstance transpiring as it did, so shortly after the celebration of our Lord's Advent, serves to teach us that we are not to be too precipitate in forming evil opinions of our fellowmen, and I hope the lesson we have learnt from this case may be the means of changing our minds to higher and nobler objects—and I believe the community is grateful to the injured party for having accepted the apology.

Bonthe, Yours,—PEACE.
Jan. 23, 1888.

A WIDOW'S FAITH.

A City missionary in London, one Saturday night, was going home with a basket of provisions on his arm. Meeting a policeman, he asked him if there had any families moved in the bounds of his beat during the week. He answered, "Yes," and pointing to a building up an alley said, "I know some children are living there now. The [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] lying by a small light, sewing. In the corner of the room were two little girls, apparently from nine to twelve years of age, playing.

The missionary said, I am here to see if you will allow your girls to attend Sunday school to-morrow morning. I would, but what you see on them is all the clothing they have, and you would not wish them to go as they are now." "The Lord will provide. Have you no money." "No yet, but I have committed my case into the hands of the Lord." "Have you anything to eat?" Nothing sir;" "What will you do for breakfast?" Oh sir, I once had a husband: he provided when he could. Those children had a father, he supplied their wants—but he is dead now. Yet my maker, even God, is my husband, and He has promised to be a father to the fatherless. We have committed all to Him, have called upon Him in this our day of trouble. I am trusting in God to take care of a poor widow and her children in a strange place, and I know He will provide."

"Thank God for such faith!" said the missionary; and handing her the basket said, "Here is your breakfast, and you shall have the clothing for your children." Wiping tears streaming down her face she replied,

"Oh, thank God for His faithfulness! He answereth prayer. May He bless you! And, said the missionary, I felt the promise was sure, for if she was blessed in receiving, I was more so in giving.

Friday.

"In some way or other the Lord will provide,
It may not be my way, it may not be his way,
But yet in His own way the Lord will provide.

Sel.

TALMAGE ON HIGH LICENSE.

They say a prohibitory law can not be executed, and, therefore, we had better not have any such law on the statue book. Will you tell me my friends, which one of the laws is fully executed? We have a law against Sabbath-breaking. Millions of people break that law every Sunday. We have laws against blasphemy. Sometimes the air is lurid with imprecation. We have laws against theft, but you have highway men and burglars filling your jails and penitentiaries, and thousands of people out-side of jail who ought to be inside. You have laws against murder, yet we have three men in our Raymond Street jail for murder; and there are scores of them in the United States, and Cincinnati has her full share. Now, why not throw overboard these laws, if they are not executed fully, and let us give for a high license to a few men all the privileges of swearing and stealing and murder?—Sel.

To Church by Proxy.—"No," said Mrs. Lofticus; "now that sunday breakfasts are so fashonable, I really dont get time to attend Church any more; but I send one of the servants to sit in the pew and put my card on the plate. I understand it's all the go down in Boeting.

A lad cannot expect to be dressed up like a man until he is through being dressed down like a boy.

The Early Dawn

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

JAN. 31, 1888.

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS.

Professor F. Neville principal of Fourah Bay College Sierra Leone and Rev W. Allan C. M. S. London accompanied by Rev. G. G. M. Nicol gave us a very pleasant call on the 20th inst Rev Mr Allan we were too glad to find was very much concerned about the liquor traffick on this coast and its extent and bearing upon the religious agencies here and whether or not there has been any change in sentiment for the better on the subject within the years of our observation &c. Mr Allan was pleased to give the writer the address of Rev Grant Mills the Secretary of " the United Committee for liquor traffick among native races " in London; with whom he wished the writer to correspond. Indeed the whole interview with the Rev Gentleman, although much too brief to give him such answers to his questions, as we could have desired, or to receive such information, as we could have wished from him, not only on the liquor traffick, but on the Missionary work, Slave Trade &c ; was a very profitable one and very stimulating to us in our conflict against especially the baleful rum traffick, that awful serpent that is coiled up in every locality of this coast and is gradually, not only retarding the religious progress of the churches, but is actually debasing society to the lowest possible level. And it is certainly gratifying to find that there are strong men in England who are uniting their efforts against this horrid Traffic with native races and we trust that Mr. Allan may be successful while out here, altho' attending to other business or work, to arouse a sentiment among the better people of all classes against Intemperance and the liquor Traffick.

The Mendi Mission School —Victoria Road Yandahun opened for the first half year term on the 23rd inst And we understand, that Rev R. G. Taylor of Mando is expected shortly, to relieve Mr F. Johnson, as the head-master and we believe the staff of teachers is to be increased, and that no pers the the various leaders of the marauders have been offering in human sacrifices to prevent as they believe the contemplated expedition marching to their country. It is to be hoped that the expedition will not be hindered from undertaking this duty, otherwise it would lead those disturbers of the peace to believe that their superstitious rites have had the desired effect, and greater trouble and confusion would speedily follow—But I am afraid as it is being hinted here and there, that the expedition may not after all start, in which case, I am free to say that a great calamity may befall Sherbro, for, not only will the plunderers pounce on the property of peaceful traders, the majority of whom are British subjects, but will also put to cruel death any one standing in their way, save a well disciplined armed force ; and I do not see anything to prevent them from carrying their depredations to places already within British jurisdiction, for it has been done over and again.

This is not the time to adopt conciliatory measures with the natives; they have been repeatedly tried, and failures have been the result. The natives have become emboldened everywhere through the quiet policy of the Government—It was only two days ago that news was received in Bonthe of several towns in the Bargroo having been plundered and some of the inhabitants murdered and others outraged—In such case it requires vigorous measures to deal with the offenders. But may I be permitted to ask what are the Merchants and Traders in this District doing? are they not more or less interested in what is daily taking place in the surrounding Rivers, especially in the Kittam, Boom, and Gallinas? have not some of them suffered losses in the last raid at Sulymah by those lawless natives? If they have a spark of interest in Sherbro matters they should at once commence to make a move by getting up a strong petition to the Authorities, pointing out the absolute necessity of a Military Expedition to the Sulymah District; being the only means believed by every one acquainted with the cunning ways and manners of the natives, that will prevent further outbreaks.

It might be urged that a Commissioner has been appointed and is now stationed at Sulymah, and that his presence would always act as a deterrent to out-break.—I confess that the present hall in that District is due to the fact of the natives expecting at every moment the Expedition, but for that alone, they would have long since attacked one another, for they were already prepared to carry out their savage work before the report of the Expedition reached them—And even the presence of the Commissioner at Sulymah cannot prevent an attack being directed against Lavannah or Manoh Sulym. before the Commissioner could reach either of the two last mentioned places the work of plundering and depredation would be complete—I do not write for the sake of writing, it is simply my wish to call attention to what may take place before long, if proper measures be not adopted in time—To be forewarned is to be fore-armed. Thanking you Mr. Editor for space granted me.

24th Jan. '88. Yours Truly,
Bonthe, WATCHMAN.

Customs Fees Again.—Since our last issue we have been informed, that by the kindness of Mr. C.H.Harley Moseley, acting sub-Collector for this Port —all the Fees on the occasion to which we then referred were remitted, we are pleased to make this correction, as we have the greatest confidence in Comd't Moseley's interest in the welfare of Sherbro.

The Weather seems almost as hard a problem to solve as that of politics just now, for when we were in our highest anticipation of fine weather, with heat and dry; we are visited with, not showers, but heavy rains, wet and cold making the season very disagreeable indeed ; and weather-wisers say, that this state of things is ominous of an unhealthy season ; but whether that be true or not, we are certain that these rains make it more expensive to keep our streets and yards clean which is quite an item in these hard times.

CROWNED OUT—One or two articles that we had set up for this issue and also some Editorial remarks on leading topics of the day.

Parcels Post—We are pleased to note has been, at length, established between this Coast and England, a facility for forwarding small packages which will be of great benefit to all classes of communicative people, but especially to those requiring such Parcels from England and the lower parts of this Coast.

THE SULYMAH DIFFICULTY.

Mr. Editor,—Please allow the following observations to appear in the columns of your valuable paper as they may be of some interest to the public.

It has been rumoured, (perhaps with good reason) that the Yonnie expedition has been brought to a successful close, that is the enemy has been convinced of his impotency to oppose the British arms—all that is well and good —But what about the long spoken of expedition to the Sulymah District—I am afraid they are getting too long about it—at any rate we are anxiously looking out for the expedition to proceed to the above District to punish those evil doers who have of late given so much trouble to the Authorities.

A report has reached " Sherbro Pro-

KEEP HOLY THE SABBATH.

Dear Mr Editor,—I could not help sending this letter to the press, for when it is read by the general public, it will be found that it is written simply to correct an abuse which are, as far as possible avoid, and that is, the violation of the Lord's Day.

On Sunday afternoon the 22nd inst., I happened to attend a funeral at Yhandahoo and on my way to that place I observed a man on the roof of a house thatching or placing new bamboos in place of those this wind had blown off on the Saturday night. I called the attention of some friends to this and sight especially as the owner of the house is (no doubt) a christian lady (the wife of an absent pastor.)

It is to be regretted that notwithstanding your repeated remarks &c. the observance of the Lord's Day, yet our people would wilfully break God's Holy Command which is included in the 4th Commandment, to " Remember the Sabbath Day " and to " Do no manner of work " especially not only by a christian woman, but the wife of a pastor, whose duty it is to expound the laws of God to man, thereby setting a bad example to the heathen. I hope the party concerned will mourn over her past sins per adventure God might forgive her.—Ezek : xviii 27.

A SABBATH KEEPER.

Bonthe,
Jan. 25, 1888.

Dear Mr. Editor,—The Avery School had been examined on Thursday the 22nd. ult. by the Rev. D.F. Wilberforce Principal of the Rufus Clark & Wife Theological Training School Freetown ; and from all I can gather, the children had passed a creditable examination ; whether this is true or not, to me it seems that not half the matter was told.

I have had the pleasure also of attending the children's meeting on Monday the 26th. Long before the hour appointed, the church was douely crowded by the Natives as well as Sierra Leoneans: precisely at 7 p.m. the meeting was opened by singing and prayer, and the reading of the 4th chap. of Prov. by the Pastor, after which he in a nice and concise speech introduced Mr. N.S.A. Morrison of the Wesleyan High School Freetown to preside, owing to the unavoidable absence of the Rev. W. S. M'Cauley of Danville Station Glanghan. He on taking the Chair was applauded by all who felt very proud at seeing him in such an exalted position (some of them being his school mates formerly) he made a pretty nice speech alluding to the necessity of having the mind stored up with a sound and christian Education in early life, and that their motto should be Excelsior. He on taking his seat called upon the scholars respectively for the recitation of their pieces, when each of them readily recited to the entire satisfaction of those who were present. To grace and complete the whole, appropriate songs interspersed the greater part of the Programme; on the whole, the scholars succeeded marvellously, and every one, both Natives as well as Sierra Leoneans went home perfectly satisfied; much credit is due to the Pastor and also the teachers, who notwithstanding other necessary duties could find time to prepare these poor Native children's minds so that they may not be behind-hand with other schools. I wish them success in their work of faith and labor of Love. Thanking you Mr. Ed, lest time and space occupied.—I remain

A VISITOR.

Rev. D. F. Wilberforce returned from his tour to the rivers & called at this place on the 27th inst. he has since proceeded to Shaingay on the 30th

NEWS ITEMS.

18—s. s. "Formoso" arrived from Freetown with the following passengers for this place Messrs. J. Parkinson, C. S. Brown jr F. Pinches and wife Revs F. Neville (principal of the Fourah Bay College Freetown) and Revd W. Allan, [illegible] Sherwell [illegible]

19—Diocesan inspection of St. Matthew's School took place this day by Rev F. Neville the Inspector.

A Concert was given by Mr. A. Snell at the Court Hall.

Mr J. W. Creighton returned from York.

20—s. s. "Formoso" left for Freetown with the following passengers,—Revs F. Neville and W. Allan, Messrs Roques, Snell, Prince Coker, Mrs M. Z. Macaulay and daughter Miss Sarah Ann Davis and mother and several other passengers.

Small Pox is reported in the vicinity of Manoh Gbargroo, and from what we can understand, it is among the natives, who try to conceal it, or perhaps we should say they deny that it is the small pox.

The members of the B. M. L. Club had their first monthly Debate in the Club Room (private.) The subject was "To marry for Money or to marry for Love which tends more to promote the future happiness of the partners." Messrs Brighton Turner, Thorpe, Wilhelms, voted for Money and and Messrs Bidwell Coker Jenkins and W. B. Coker for Love. The chairman on the occasion was D. L. Collier Esqr After a lengthy Discussion by both parties, the latter won the subject in favour of Love. The meeting was an interesthg one.

It is reported that several people in Karkie ate poison from some cocoa bought and cooked one of them died from the effect of the poison —the rest are under medical treatment.

The Rufus Clark and Wife Training School will, we understand be formally opened the first Monday in Feb—6th proximo—the Programme anticipates several distinguised persons who will deliver Addresses on the occasion.

Returned to England—General Sir F. De Winton, Major Pigot & Capt. Trotter, we are informed left Freetown by the ss. Ambria on Saturday the 21st., for England ; and hence there seems little hope of the expected Expedition to Sulymah.

Personal

Capt. J. Arthur Windham and Mr. James Wright Chief Engineer of the s.s. "Formoso" gave us a pleasant call on the 25th inst. these gentlemen are indeed very accommodating and pleasant Officers.

Mr. S. B. A. Macfoy of Yelbana the leading Merchant of Sherbro gave us a look in on the 20th we believe Mr. M. has some notion of turning his attention also to planting and has ordered 10 bushels of seed coffee for that purpose.

Mr James Paterson Chief Officer of the s. s. "Formoso" dropped in to see us on the 20th inst we were glad to see him, having been so well treated by him and his fellow Officers on a voyage to Freetown a few weeks ago.

Corp'l J.W.Nicol left here on the 23rd inst. for Konconany to relieve Sergt. Pratt for a short time from his post at that Station. The latter we understand came down on Official duty.

MY VIEW OF SHERBRO.

From our special Correspondent.

There is a rule of life so directly the ordinance of nature, that all those who are in, as well as those under authority are unanimous in its favour. Merchants and Traders Mechanics and others in the various spheres of life, should insist on the duty of reviewing the natural periods of time, and setting the balance of losses and gains.

As we are placed in the world to advance and improve, we lose at least an important security and stimulus should we fail to keep a log of our voyage, and take a stock of our goods. It would serve every one of sane mind in good stead, in our community to count the success and casualties of the past year, with its achievements and failures ; to reckon the friends he has made, and those whom he has lost, to recall the lights and shadows of the past and to reperuse its lessons of rebuke and warning.

The faith of many, from a retrospect has been overturned in many things and things, and their convictions and illusions shaken and dissipated. No reasonable man would part with the old year without regret, as from a sincere and oft spoken friend whose words may often wound his self love, and mortify his vanity ; but from whom he never savored without feeling that his harshness is very instructive, and his exposure of his faults and errors just and salutary.

With special anticipations did we enter upon this new and untried year ; and such anticipations were heightened by the arrival of Major Pigot on the 10th inst. by the Formoso and in his trip up to the Kittam.

Every one expected that there would be a political reform, which would operate for good in the commercial sphere ; but at present it seems, to us as if things are doomed to remain as they are. Things must remain as they are, despite the large revenue that Sherbro yields annually, still the well-to-do sink their differences arising from private pique, and come in common for the welfare of the country.

The system which obtains in this town, of friends asking litigants to spare litigations after having issued summons or obtained warrant for the arrest of miscreants for insults &c received, is working a great evil. It has become a well-known fact, that friends will buy ; therefore the miscreants take great delight in the perpetration of their actions " The peacemakers are blessed for they shall be called the children of God." But we must not forget that wilful offenders, who make it their duty to disturb the peace of others, should receive that punishment which they earn, and which they so richly deserve from the hands of the law.

Her Majesty's representative here is on the expectancy for his relief, that he might be placed in a position to take his deserved leave of absence, in accordance with the civil regulations. It is to be hoped that the Head of the Executive will not allow his anxiety to subside ere the relief comes to assume command.

Bonthe,
28th Jan. 1888.

THE RANGERS OF BORDER LIFE IN BARGROO.

Dear Editor.—Is it true that terror reigns unchecked in certain portions of Bargroo District, especially in the border villages between Konconany section and the territory of Chief Takoy! We learn with deep regret that extensive outrages have lately been perpetrated in those localities a report of which has reached the Authorities here. It is said that the Serg't in charge of Konkonany has been sent for, to furnish details of the raid upon which, action will be taken to punish marauders. It appears that on the 20th inst. the marauders surprised the villages of MAKOMBRA, TYAMAWOO-RO and other adjacent places plundering Konkonany and only bent on plundering and kidnapping, but on murder and other barbarities. Accounts of the casualities at MAKOMBRA are sufficiently heart rending. They tell of the brutal murder of a man who was hacked to death, of many persons chopped and wounded and more carried away to be dealt with as slaves. Three of the sufferers who barely escaped with their lives are here, they bear upon them but too plainly the marks of violence. From them we learn that the marauders hailed from Lorngay District and were led by a ruffian called Ghandoh Ngoon. This brave leader no doubt has got back safe and is already enjoying in tranquillity his share of the first fruit of this bloody incursion. May his peace be early broken by the Avenger of blood,!

The case before us Mr. Editor exemplifies a growing contempt for those sacred laws under which protection is guaranteed to the lives and liberty of British subjects dwelling peacefully under their own vine, but as yet we are unwilling to suppose that this contempt has been engendered in the minds of the " ragged rascals " by a sense of the facilities they enjoy in committing outrages with impunity.

Thanking you in advance Mr. Editor for the space this would occupy in your valuable journal, We remain, Dear Sir

Your humble servants
HOPE & TRUST.

Bonthe. Jan. 27th '88.

Mr. Jno T. C. Campbell, Agent for S. B. A. Macfoy Esq Tittiball Factory, arrived in town on Friday 27th inst., on two weeks leave, during his absence Mr. Macaulay of Yelbana will have charge of the Factory. Mr. C is looking very fresh, and fine.

NOTICE.

The Undersigned

begs to inform his FRIENDS CUSTOMERS, and the PUBLIC in general, that he is prepared to furnish at Short Notice, BOATS of all sizes on Hire per diem or per trip ; viz:—

SIX OARED GIG BOATS.
FOUR OARED GIG do.
TWO OARED DINGY,

with or without hands.

—ALSO—

Lighters

from 4 to 13 TONS.

For further particulars apply to

J. B. PARKINSON,
Victoria Rd, Bonthe.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO

JAN. 31, 1888.

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS

Professor F. Neville principal of Fourah Bay College Sierra Leone and Rev W. Allan C. M. S. London accompanied by Rev G. G. M. Nicol gave us a very pleasant call on the 20th inst Rev Mr Allan we were too glad to find was very much concerned about the liquor traffick on this coast and its extent and bearing upon the religious agencies here and whether or not there has been any change in sentiment for the better on the subject within the years of our observation &c. Mr Allan was pleased to give the writer the address of Rev Grant Mills the Secretary of "the United Committee for liquor traffick among native races" in London; with whom he wished the writer to correspond. Indeed the whole interview with the Rev Gentleman, although much too brief to give him such answers to his questions, as we could have desired, or to receive such information, as we could have wished from him, not only on the liquor traffick, but on the Missionary work, Slave Trade &c; was a very profitable one and very stimulating to us in our conflict against especially the baleful rum traffick, that awful serpent that is coiled up in every locality of this coast and is gradually, not only retarding the religious progress of the churches, but is actually debasing society to the lowest possible level. And it is certainly gratifying to find that there are strong men in England who are uniting their efforts against this horrid Traffic with native races and we trust that Mr. Allan may be successful while out here, altho' attending to other business or work, to a rouse a sentiment among the better people of all classes against Intemperance and the liquor Traffick.

The Mendi Mission School —Victoria Road Yandahun opened for the first half year term, on the 23rd inst And we understand, that Rev R. C. Taylor of Manoh is expected shortly, to relieve Mr F. Johnson, as the head-master and we believe the staff of teachers is to be increased, and that no pains will be spared by the Managers to make this school one of the best in the community.

Customs Fees Again—Since our last issue we have been informed, that by the kindness of Mr C.H.Harley Moseley, acting Sub-Collector for this Port —all the Fees on the occasion to which we then referred were remitted, we are pleased to make this correction, as we have the greatest confidence in Cond't Moseley's interest in the welfare of Sherbro.

The Weather seems almost as hard a problem to solve as that of politics just now, for when we were in our highest anticipation of fine weather, with heat and dry; we are visited with, not showers, but heavy rains, wet and cold making the season very disagreeable indeed; and weather-wisers say, that this state of things is ominous of an unhealthy season; but whether that be true or not, we are certain that these rains make it more expensive to keep our streets and yards clean which is quite an item in these hard times.

CROWDED OUT—One or two articles that we had set up for this issue and also some Editorial remarks on leading topics of the day.

Parcels Post—We are pleased to note has been, at length, established between this Coast and England, a facility for forwarding small packages which will be of great benefit to all classes of communicative people, but especially to those requiring such Parcels from England and the lower parts of this Coast.

THE SULYMAH DIFFICULTY.

Mr Editor,—Please allow the following observations to appear in the columns of your valuable paper as they may be of some interest to the public.

It has been ruminated, in this with good reasons[ed] that the Yoni[s] expedition has been brought to a successful close, that is the enemy has been vanced of their audacious purpose the British arms on the 24th inst. —But what about the [illegible] of expedition to the Sulymah District I am afraid there are matters [illegible] are we are anxiously looking out for the expedition to proceed to the above District for [illegible] those evil doers who have [illegible] so much trouble to the Authorities, [illegible] the various leaders of the [illegible] have been [illegible] in [illegible] to prevent, as they believe [illegible] contemplated expedition marching [illegible] their country. It is to be hoped [illegible] that the expedition will not be hindered from undertaking this duty, otherwise it would lead those disaffects of the peace to believe that their superstitious rites have had the desired effect, and greater trouble and confusion would speedily follow.—But [illegible] of that it is being insisted here and there, that the expedition may not after all start, in which case, I am free to say that a great calamity may befall Sherbro, for not only will the plunderers pounce on the property of peaceful traders, the majority of whom are British subjects, but will also put to cruel death any one [illegible] standing by their wish, save a well disciplined armed force [illegible] not see [illegible] prevent them from carrying their depredations to places already within British jurisdiction, for it has been done over and again.

This is not the time to adopt conciliatory measures with the natives, they have been repeatedly tried, and failures have been the result. The natives have become emboldened every where through the rapid peace of the Government—If was only two days ago that news was received in Bonthe of several towns in the Bargroo having been plundered and some of the inhabitants murdered and others outraged—In such case it requires vigorous measures to deal with the aggressors. But may I be permitted to ask what are the Merchants and Traders in this District doing? are they not in some or less interested in what is [illegible] daily taking place in the surrounding Rivers, especially in the Kittam, Boum, and Gallinas? have not some of them suffered losses in the last raid at Sulymah by those lawless natives? If they have a spark of interest in Sherbro matters they should at once commence to make a move by getting up a strong petition to the Administrators, setting forth the absolute necessity of a Military Expedition to the Sulymah District; being the only means believed by every one acquainted with the cunning ways and manners of the natives, that will prevent further outbreak.

It might be urged that a Commissioner has been appointed and is now stationed at Sulymah, and that his presence would always act as a deterrent to our bad break.—I confess that the present lull in that District is due to the fact of the natives expecting at [illegible] every moment the Expedition, but [illegible] that alone, they would have long since [illegible] attacked one of the stations, for they were already prepared to carry out their savage work before the report of the Expedition reached them—And as to the presence of the Commissioner at Sulymah cannot prevent an attack being directed against Lavannah or Mamah Sonja, before the Commissioner could reach either of the two places mentioned above, the work of plundering and depredation would be completed—I do not write for the sake of writing, it is simply my wish to see the teachers, who notwithstanding [illegible] to which may take place [illegible] of the land, if proper measures [illegible] adopted in time—To the [illegible] is due to be [illegible] This being [illegible] Mr. Editor for space granted me.

I am Sir,
24th Jan. '88. Yours Truly,
Bonthe. WATCHMAN.

KEEP HOLY THE SABBATH

Dear Mr Editor,—I would not help [illegible] these letters to the press, for [illegible] it is not my line of [illegible] but [illegible] be found that it is written [illegible] to correct an abuse, which we, as [illegible] fear should avoid, and that is, the violation of the Lord's Day.

On Sunday afternoon the 22nd inst., I happened to attend a funeral at Yhandahun and on my way to that place I observed a man on the roof of a house thatching or placing new bamboos in place of those the wind had blown off on the Saturday night. I called the attention of some friends to this sad sight especially as the owner of the house is (no doubt) a christian lady (the wife of an absent pastor.)

It is to be regretted that notwithstanding your repeated remarks on the observance of the Lord's Day, yet our people would wilfully break God's Holy Command which is recorded in the 4th Commandment, to "Keep holy the Sabbath Day" and to "Do no manner of work" especially not only by a christian woman, but the wife of a pastor, whose duty it is to expound the laws of God to man, thereby setting a bad example to the heathen. I hope the party concerned will mourn over her past sins per adventure (God might forgive her.—Ezek: xviii 27.

A SABBATH KEEPER.

Bonthe,
Jan. 25, 1888.

Dear Mr. Editor,—The Avery School had been examined on Thursday the 22nd. ult. by the Rev. D.F. Wilberforce Principal of the Rufus Clark & Wife Technical Training School Shaingay; and from all I can gather, the children had passed a creditable examination; whether this is true or not, to me it seems that not half the matter was mentioned.

I have had the pleasure also of attending the children's meeting on Monday the 26th. Long before the hour appointed, the church was densely crowded by the Natives as well as Sierra Leoneans; precisely at 7 p.m. the meeting was opened by singing and prayer, and the reading of the 4th chap. of Prov by the Pastor, after which he in a nice and concise speech introduced Mr N.S.A Morrison of the Wesleyan High School Freetown to preside, owing to the unavoidable absence of the Rev. W. S. M'Cauley of Danville Station Glanghah. He on taking the Chair was applauded by all who felt very proud at seeing him in such an exalted position (some of them having him [illegible] torpedo) he made a pretty nice speech alluding to the necessity of having the mind stored up with a sound and christian Education in early life, and that their motto should be Excelsior. He on taking his seat called upon the scholars respectively for the recitation of their pieces, when each of them readily recited to the entire satisfaction of those present. To grace and complete the whole, appropriate songs interspersed the greater part of the Programme; on the whole, the scholars succeeded marvellously and every one, both Natives as well as Sierra Leoneans went home perfectly satisfied; much credit is due to the Pastor and other necessary duties could find time to prepare these poor Native children's minds so that they may not be behind hand with other schools. I wish them success in their work of faith and labor of Love. Thanking you Mr. Ed. for time and space occupied,—I remain

A VISITOR.

Rev. D. F. Wilberforce returned from his tour to the rivers & called at this place on the 27th inst. he has since proceeded to Shaingay on the 30th

NEWS ITEMS.

18—s. s. "Formoso" arrived from Freetown with the following passengers for this place Messrs J. B. Parkinson, C. S. Brown jr F. Pinches and wife Revs F. Neville (principal of the Fourah Bay College Freetown) and Revd W. Allan,

19—Diocesan inspection of St. Matthew's School took place this day by Rev F. Neville the Inspector

A Concert was given by Mr. A. Small at the Court Hall.

Mr J. W. Creighton returned from York.

20—s. s. "Formoso" left for Freetown with the following passengers.—Revs F. Neville and W. Allan, Messrs Rogues, Snell, Prince Coker, Mrs M. Z. Macaulay and daughter Miss Sarah Ann Davis and mother and several other passengers.

Small Pox is reported in the vicinity of Manoh Ghargroo, and from what we can understand, it is among the natives, who try to conceal it, or perhaps we should say they deny that it is the small pox.

The members of the B. M. L. Club had their first monthly Debate in the Club Room (private.) The subject was "To marry for Money or to marry for Love which tends more to promote the future happiness of the partners" Messrs Brighton Turner, Thorpe, Williams, voted for Money and Messrs Bidwell Coker Jenkins and W. B Coker for Love. The chairman on the occasion was D. L Collier Esqr After a lengthy Discussion by both parties, the latter won the subject in favour of Love. The meeting was an interesting one.

It is reported that several people in a farkie ate poison from some cocoa bought and cooked, one of them died from the effect of the poison —the rest are under medical treatment.

The Rufus Clark and Wife Training Schyoh will, we understand be formally opened the first Monday in Feb—6th proximo—the Programme anticipates several distinguished persons who will deliver Addresses on the occasion.

Returned to England—General Sir F. De Winton, Major Pigott & Capt. Brown, we are informed left Freetown by the Arabia on Saturday the 21st, for England; and hence there seems little hope of the expected Expedition to Sulymah

Personal

Capt J. Arthur Windham and Mr. James Wright Chief Engineer of the s.s. "Formoso" gave us a pleasant call on the 25th inst. these gentlemen are indeed very accommodating and pleasant Officers.

Mr. S. B. A Macfoy of Yelbana the leading Merchant of Sherbro gave us a look in on the 20th we believe Mr. M. has some notion of turning his attention also to planting and has ordered 10 bushels of seed coffee for that purpose.

Mr James Paterson Chief Officer of the s. s. "Formoso" dropped in to see us on the 20th inst we were glad to see him, having been so well treated by him and his fellow Officers on a voyage to Freetown a few weeks ago.

Corp'l J.W.Nicol left here on the 23rd inst for Konoco many to relieve Sergt. Pratt for a short time from his post at that Station. The latter we understand came down on Official duty.

MY VIEW OF SHERBRO.

From our special Correspondent.

There is a rule of life so directly the ordinance of nature, that all those who live in, as well as those under an climate are unanimous in its favour Merchants and Traders Mechanics and others in the various spheres of life, should insist on the duty of reviewing the various periods of time, and settling the balance of losses and gains.

As we are placed in the world to advance and improve, we have at least an important security and stimulus should we fail to keep a log of our doings, and take a stock of our goods. It would serve every one of some mind in good stead, in our common to count the success and mistakes of the past year, with its achievements and failures; to reckon the friends he has made, and those whom he has lost, to recall the lights and shadows of the past, and to reperuse its lessons of rejoice and warning.

The faith of many, from a retrospect has been overturned in many things and things, and their expectations are sometimes shaken and disappointed. No reasonable man would part with the old year without regret, as from a sincere and real friend whose words may often wound but to [illegible] and mortify his vanity; but from whom he never severed without feeling that his backbone is very instructive, and his experience of [illegible] and [illegible] just and reliable.

With special anticipations did we enter upon the new and untried year, and such anticipations were [illegible] by the arrival of Major Pigott on the 10th inst by the Formoso and in his trip up to the Kittam.

Every one expected that there would be a political reform which would operate for good in the commercial sphere; but at present it seems to us as if things are doomed to remain as they are. Things must remain as they are, despite the large revenue that Sherbro yields annually, still the well-to-do sink their differences arising from private pique, and unite in common for the welfare of the country.

The system which obtains in this town, of friends asking litigants to peace, litigants after having ceased summons or obtained warrant for the arrest of miscreants for frauds &c received, is such a great evil it has become a well-known fact, that friends will buy; therefore the miscreants take great delight in the perpetration of their actions. The peacemakers are cursed for they shall be called the children of God; but we must not forget that wilful offenders, who make it their study to disturb the peace of others, should receive that punishment which they earn, and which they so richly deserve from the hands of the law.

Her Majesty's representative here is on the expectancy for his relief, that he might be placed in a position to take his deserved leave of absence, in accordance with the civil regulations. It is to be hoped that the Head of the Executive will not allow his anxiety to subside ere the relief comes to assume command.

Bonthe,
28th Jan 1888

THE DANGERS OF BORDER-LIFE IN BARGROO.

Dear Editor—Is it true that terror reigns unchecked in certain portions of Bargroo District, especially in the border villages between Konoonany section and the territory of Chief Takoy? We learn with deep regret that extensive outrages have lately been perpetrated in those localities a report of which has reached the Authorities here. It is said that the Sergt in charge of Konkonany has been sent for, to furnish details of the raid upon which, action will be taken to punish marauders. It appears that on the 20th inst. the marauders surprised the villages of MAKOMBRA, TYAMAWOO-EO and other adjacent places bordering Konkonany, not only bent on plundering and kidnapping, but on murder and other barbarities. Accounts of the casualities at MAKOMBRA are sufficiently heart rending. They tell of the brutal murder of a man who was hacked to death of many persons chopped and wounded and more carried away to be dealt with as slaves. Three of the sufferers who barely escaped with their lives are here, they bear upon them but too plainly the marks of Vandalism From them we learn that the marauders had fled from Loongay District and were led by a ruffian called Gbandeh Ngoon. This brave leader no doubt has got back safe and is already enjoying in tranquility his share of the first fruit of this bloody incursion. May his peace be early broken by the Avenger of blood.!

The case before us Mr. Editor exemplifies a growing contempt for those sacred laws under which protection is guaranteed to the lives and liberty of British subjects dwelling peacefully under their own vine, but as yet we are unwilling to suppose that this contempt has been engendered in the minds of the "ragged rascals" by a sense of the facilities they enjoy in committing outrages with impunity.

Thanking you in advance Mr. Editor for the space this would occupy in your valuable journal, We remain, Dear Sir

Your humble servants

HOPE & TRUST.

Bonthe, Jan. 27th '88.

Mr. Jno T. C. Campbell, Agent for S. B. A. Macfay Esq Tittibull Factory, arrived in town on Friday 27th inst., on two weeks leave, during his absence Mr. Macaulay of Yelbana will have charge of the Factory. Mr. C is looking very fresh, and fine.

NOTICE.

The Undersigned

begs to inform his FRIENDS CUSTOMERS, and the PUBLIC in general, that he is prepared to furnish at Short Notice, BOATS of all sizes, on hire per diem or per trip:

VIZ:—

SIX OARED GIG BOATS,
FOUR OARED GIG do.
TWO OARED DINGY,
with or without hands;

—ALSO—

Lighters,

from 4 to 13 TONS.

For further particulars apply

J. B PARKINSON.

Victoria Rd Bonthe

J.A. Clemens

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Bookseller, Stationary and Miscellaneous GOODS

ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET

N.B. Removed to upper Ot to Street, opposite the burial ground

Bonthe, Sherbro.

SLIPPERS! SLIPPERS!!

So Long Expected,

have at length arrived

Please call and See them

At The

S. M. MISSION STORE.

Also Cube Sugar,

Black China Tea,

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES

Medicines and Stationary.

Bonthe, Sherbro

Nov. 30th '87

PUBLIC NOTICE.

THE PUBLIC are hereby requested to take NOTICE that the LANDS situate and lying on the Western part of Victoria Road Bonthe on the portion from swamps known as the head of Ghundamah Creek along southward on to the LAND mark in possession to one Cafai Kobotu.

We the undersigned are lawfull owners of the said LANDS, above discribed and that we have jointly and severally agreed bargained and legally conveyed the said portion of Land of about 5 acres west and (Half) ½ acre south of Victoria Road to Mr John D. Rogers Govt Interpreter.

Any person or persons occupying or having any buildings or farms thereon at present should make arrangement with the said John D. Rogers as an action for trespass will be enforced against offenders intending to occupy without permission after three months from this day's date hereof.

W. T. DOUGLAS
his BANA ⋈ LEWIS
mark

Bonthe, 27th Feb 20, '87.

Public Notice.

THE PUBLIC are requested to take Notice that the LAND transferred to JOHN DOVE ROGERS by W. T. Douglas and Bana Lewis, is our real Property for which we have Grant from the Colonial Government.

All persons occupying or having buildings, on said lands, are requested three months from date to remove their buildings; or to come and make arrangement with the Agents in charge, as an action for trespass will be enforced against offenders intending to occupy without permission of the said Agts. in charge after the expiration of the time specified in this Notice. viz. March 27th 1888.

Pr. Cie Francaise de L'Afrique Occidentale.
C.BARTHELME—Agent.

" C.M.S. Thro' Sa Leone Ch. Committee.
G.G.M.NICOL—Pastor.

For The Mendi Mission.
J.A.EVANS—Agent M.M.

Bonthe, December 27th, '87.

ALPHA FACTORY, YORK ISLAND

This desirable and commodious place of Business now

For Sale.

The Factory stands on its own ground of about 2½ acres, and has among its other advantages that of one of the best situations in the Sherbro River.

The place is free-hold with GOVERNMENT GRANT and in first rate condition.

Further particulars to intending purchasers on application to

GEO. LEACH

Manager for the Estate of the late

WILLIAM MURRAY.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL since our last has declined from 5s. to 10s. per ton, market closing steady at following transit quotations:—

Lagos	—	—	£20	0	0
Bonny and Old Calabar	—		18	7	6
Cameroons	—	—	18	2	6
Benin	—	—	18	0	0
Accra kinds	—	—	18	0	0	to 17	5	0
Fernando Po	—	—	17	5	0	to 17	10	0
Grand Bassa, Sinoe, Monrovia, Cape Palmas	—		16	0	0
Brass, Niger, and New Calabar	—	—	17	7	6	to 17	5	0
Congo	—	—	16	5	0	to 17	0	0
Sherbro	—	—	16	10	0
Saltpond kinds			16	0	0
Dixcove & Liberian	—		15	15	0
Loanda	—	—	17	15	0	to 18	0	0

PALM KERNELS.—Firm with a good enquiry. We quote transit basis 5 per cnt. shell.

Lagos, Old Calabar, Bonny, and Cameroons, £10 7 6 to £10 8 9; Brass, £10 5 0; Congo and Benin, £10 2 6; Liberian, and Quitta kinds, £9 15 0; Sherbro and Sierra Leone, £9 15 0; Common Shelly, £9 7 6.

GROUND NUTS—Fine Bathurst, £16.
BENNISEED } Unchanged
COPRA }
COFFEE—There has been a firm advance in Market during the last fortnight, 3,700 bags selling at 73s. 6d. to 75s. per cwt.
COCOA—Market slow at 53s. to 55s. for common to fair, good qualities only in demand at 60s. to 65s. per cwt.
INDIA RUBBER—Without change. Fine Para firm and held at 3s. 1½d. per lb.

Fair to Prime Gambia Niggers	—	2s.	0d.	to	2s.	2½d.
Do. do. Sierra Leone	—	1s.	8½d.	to	1s.	10d.
Do. do. do.	Flat	1s.	2d.	to	1s.	8d.
Do. do. Thimbles	—	—	1s.	9½d.	to	1s. 10d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	—	—	1s.	6d.	to	1s. 8d.
Tongues	—	—	—	1s.	4d.	to 1s. 6d.
Hard Cape Coast and Assinie	—	—	1s.	4d.	to	1s. 7d.
Liberian	—	—	—	1s.	2d.	to 1s. 4d.
Saltpond	—	—	—	—	9d.	to 1s. 0d.
Flake and Lumps	—	—	—	—	8d.	to 8½d.
Ordinary Accra	—	—	—	—	8½d.	to 9½d.

GUM COPAL.—Sales common to fair; Sierra Leone, 6d. to 6½d per lb.; Accra, 35s. to 46s. per cwt; Red Angola, 82s. 6d
BEES-WAX.—Dull.
CHILLIES—Nothing doing, next arrivals will come to a good market.
GUINEA GRAINS.—18s. to 18s. 6d. per cwt.
CALABAR BEANS.—2d. to 3d. per lb
CAMWOOD—£13 to £13 5s. for ordinary Grand Bassa; £16 to £18 for good to fine.
BARWOOD.—Sales at £8 per ton.
EBONY—Gaboon, £7 10s.; Old Calabar, £5; £6 to £6 5s. selected larger wood.
COTTON—From 4, 9-16th to 5½ per lb. as in quality.
MONKEY SKINS—1s. to 2s. 6d each.
IVORY—Next sales take place January 15th, 1888.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool,
December 23rd. 1888.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, FEBRUARY 15, 1888. No. 8.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto, deliv'ed in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS.—Communications to I. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GOSPER, Shinnyay, West Africa, Rev. WM. McKAY, Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant,	C. H. Harley Moseley, The Commandant.
Deputy. Commsr.,	Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk.	W. Hughes.
2nd. do.	R. W. Alexa.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Buckner.
Sub-Treas. & Col. Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett. J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. S. Crosse, J. B. Turner, C. G. Cole.
Asst. Examg. Officer Sailors.	Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. B. C.S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. Betts.
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.)
Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett.

THE PROBLEM OF MISSIONS.

The interest on the debts, of some Missionary Societies I have remarked in my last paper, annually eats up as much as would support several Missionaries. Possibly I should exhibit this fact in a plainer light for the benefit of those who have not facts and figures at hand; then let us take for an instance a Missionary Society that has a debt of £10,000 upon which it pays 5 per cent interest per annum, that is least will be £500 a year; this amount would more than pay three Missionaries at £150 a year, while in many cases two clergymen and their wives from America or perhaps Scotland, can effectual fatigue Missionaries with their wives a force of eight Christs. Workers would be thus supported by what is now being expended by some societies for luxuries or gewgaws; and surely, such a band if consecrated as they should be to their work, would in a few years do a great deal toward the salvation of men; but let no one for a moment suppose these observations to be against the payment of the Missionary debts now in existence, no indeed the churches that have organized societies with corporate powers, to contract obligations, are every one of them in duty bound, not only before the laws of their respective countries, but before God to discharge those obligations both in the payment of interest and principal to the uttermost farthing. You will naturally ask why speak of the interest then? Well, I, because the obligations ought never to have been contracted; the church should have given money as it was needed and at the time it was due from her members who have too often wilfully withheld their tithes from the Lord's Storehouse—Missionary Treasury—and thus caused his devoted servants to ere for Bread so pitiously that the Board Of Boers felt obliged to borrow in order to feed the needy and destitute Missionary. 2. Because the churches should pay the Principal and devote the money now expended in paying interest, to the support of Missionary Work and thus increase the facility of the Church for the conversion of the world to Christ. And 3rd because while there can be no question as to whether it was morally right for the Officers of the various Boards of Missions to pay their sacred obligations. May it not be a question, as to whether the churches have a right to allow the debt thus incurred to remain unpaid, and devote sacred money to the secular purpose of paying interest on debts which they have the ability to pay? The only right course to be pursued seems to be for the churches whose Missionary societies are in debt, is for those churches to pay up the principal of debts as speedily as possible; meanwhile a permanent stop should be put to the contracting of debts and the only sure way to do this seems to be to suspend the field operations of these societies. And if either let the general conferences, Assemblies or Board of Bishops, appoint men for the frontier and Foreign Mission Work; or let Annual Conferences send out such men as like Barnabas of old are "full of the Holy Ghost and of Faith" Such as would be willing, to go forth even to the foreign field, counting not their lives dear unto them, so long as they might be able to win souls for Christ. Such men men would depend under God, for their support upon the contributions of the saints, of the members of the church at home and abroad; this dependence of itself, would foster the growth of the doctrine of self support in foreign lands, while at the same time the Home Churches would actually give more, Missionaries would be multiplied in the field, and God would be more glorified, because the work would be more of faith and the fruit would be more abundant; for "herein" said Jesus, "is my father glorified, that ye bear much fruit, so shall ye be my disciples." Jno. xv. 8.

J. A. E.

THE EVILS OF MONEY MAKING are perhaps far greater than many, possibly most persons, think, and corroborate well the statement of holy writ, that "the love of money is the root of all evil" For sometime past I have been thinking upon the evils arising Money-getting; whether it be a necessity, or whether it be for amassing a Fortune, in either case there are many evils connected with the work of getting money. A man may be but a day labourer and earning but a pittance each day, all of which is needed for the real necessities of himself and his family, and yet that man in his anxiety to put in every day at his work or rather to get pay for every day, tries to work when he is really unable, for want of sufficient strength, and perhaps the result of his perseverance is a week's illness; of course sometimes he may do this to please his employer, but we have now only to do with those who overwork themselves for money. There is again the poor Laundress, who with aching head and painful limbs plunges herself into the cold bath of the brook to gain, it may be but a scanty subsistence, and yet she may thereby take a cold from which she will languish for weeks; thus far we have been noticing the necessary evils of making enough money upon which to live, and evils too that are not sins and hence as far as they cannot be avoided must be endured. But now let us turn to some other classes of persons.—The Market Woman of our community; for instance see how she has to do in order to make a few paltry pence in trade. 1. She must do hurriedly her house work and sometimes neglect much of it, to get time to attend her trade, 2. She often has to her shame to beg the merchant for Goods, then beg the people to buy the Goods from her hand, often at a small profit and on Trust or Credit and then she has to beg her customers to pay, and beg the merchant Creditor to wait for his pay; which she will try to get at the time she promises to pay, but her customers do not pay her, and then if she cannot borrow the amount, she is compelled to go empty handed to her Creditor and beg him again and again to excuse her; and worse than all, her Creditor sometimes will not believe her story, and will say hard things to her although she has tried her best to meet her payments and to please him. These trials, and many of a worse kind, of selling her Goods of collecting (packing supper the women call it) are certainly great evils, but what Market or Trading woman has not experienced them. But there are yet other evils connected with this money making, that are morally worse than those I have mentioned; for instance a woman buys for a low price an article worth much more and she goes out to sell it for a good Price, which some one disputes and asks her to take less instead of refusing outright and pleading the value of the article, she will say it cost so much, when she knows it is not true, of course we know this is a Merchant's "trick in Trade" but it is nevertheless an evil in money making and the evil is greater when it is found out in the woman who is a wife and mother; for if she will allow herself to practice deception with her customers, might she not at length deceive her husband? or if she practices falsehood, will she be likely to train up her children to speak the truth? Are these evils not sufficiently gross to cause every right thinking man to try to do something to keep his wife out of the shambles in order that she might have time to care for her household and not be exposed to the evils of making money? of which I may write more again.—J. ALBERT.

THE DEATH KNELL OF THE SUGAR BOUNTIES.

(From the Colonies and India)

Within the word of promise held out by the proposal accepted by the representatives of the various European Powers who attended the Sugar Bounties Conference is surely kept by the way, and it broken by the hope, the West Indian Colonies will have good grounds to remember with gratitude the Christmas of '87, which has brought to glad tidings of great joy" in the shape that the system of bounties on Beetroot sugar, which has brought them so much hardship, is doomed. And not the West Indies Colonies only, but large numbers of capitalists, employers of labor, and laborers in the United Kingdom will have reason to look back to the present season as a turning point in their fortunes. There is, of course, many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip, and it would be unwise for any of those who are interested in the matter to forget the possibility that the proposed agreement entered into by the high contracting parties may not develop as speedily as is hoped into an actual fulfilment. Still, it can hardly be doubted that the knell of the bounties now paid on sugars exported from France, Germany, Belgium, Austria, and other continental countries has been sounded, and that, sooner or later, if not actually by the date foreshadowed, the system will be a thing of the past, settled, like the duels, the wars, and the great suit. All the eleven Powers represented, without exception, condemn the principle of the sugar bounties, and the Delegates recommend their Governments to legislate for their removal—those who now practise the system substantially admitting the opinion expressed by the minority where its operation has always been condemned. In accordance with this practical, the Delegates undertake to submit to their respective Governments the proposals in which they have concurred for the practical solution of the question, and these proposals are embodied in a convention as agreed to by the parties. The Governments concerned will inform Her Majesty's Government, before March 1 next, whether they accept the proposals in principle, and in case of acceptance they will further state the mode in which they propose to carry them into operation. When this has been done the Conference will re-assemble to consider the results attained and to exchange the necessary ratifications of the Convention, the date of such re-assembling being provisionally fixed for the first day of the British financial year. The emphatic wording of the agreement leaves little room for doubt that the expectations thus indulged in, will be fully realised for, indeed, it is promised that the Delegates had assembled for the purpose of considering the basis of an understanding relative to the suppression of bounties on the exportation of sugar, the first article of the Convention requires the contracting parties to take, or to propose to their respective Legislatures, such measures as shall constitute "an absolute and complete guarantee that no bounty, direct or indirect—" converts or equivalent "shall henceforth be granted on the exportation of sugar," and the only measure which recommends itself to the judgment of the great majority of the Delegates for carrying this undertaking into effect is the establishment of a system of manufacturing and refining in bond. This suggestion, which is in exact accordance with that made by Mr. Washington Eves and others of course, presupposes

continued on page 8.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

FEB. 15, 1888.

TEMPERANCE.

In spite of all that can be said to the contrary is absolutely gaining, on the minds of thinking men, who have to see much of the ill effects of strong drink and there are now many advocates of reform both in the traffic and use of spirits, and there are comparatively few men of worth who will not now admit that even trade would be better without it; especially if it had been so commenced, at first, the trouble now seems to be with such men as to how to get rid of the rum now, since it has been introduced and forms a staple in trade; but to our mind this can be done much easier than they think by trying the trade without it; just open their Factories without the poison drug and expose useful goods in their stead and invite the people to buy and while for a time the people will and may ask for spirits, yet if they find the trader does not sell them they will soon buy other Merchandise instead; and we do feel to insist that this ought to be done by christian traders and Merchants dealing with natives, and further they ought to urge upon them abstinence from the use of strong drink, especially when they see so many of the evils among the low and degraded in society. We shall be glad to hear from some of our correspondents on this subject, who will be first!

The RUFUS CLARK & WIFE THEOLOGICAL TRAINING-SCHOOL was formally opened on the 6th inst. The exercises commenced about 11: 30. a.m., in the presence of a large audience, gathered in the Chapel Room of the School Building. The Principal, Revd. D. F. Wilberforce called the house to order and then introduced the Revd. J. Gomer, General Supt. of the U.B. Missions as chairman, who rose and announced a song "Tell it out" which was sung by the choir the chair then called on the Revd. J. C. Sawyerr to lead in prayer, after which he announced another song "Peace shall come" which was also sung by the choir. The chairman then proceeded to read a very interesting Address (which we hope to give to our readers) reviewing the history of the Sherbro (Shaingay) Mission, detailing many of its struggles since it was founded 33 years ago. J. A. Evans of Bonthe Sherbro was next called on to speak, followed by Revd. W.S. Sage of Rotufunk station Bompeh Mission, his speech was brief, but full of feelings of gratitude for the privilege of such an occasion. The choir then sung "May Heaven protect our shore." After which Revd. D. F. Wilberforce the principal was called upon and he delivered his Inaugural address, which was very able indeed, and was delivered in his usual, masterly manner; but as we hope to publish the Address in a future number we refrain now from further comment. Mrs E. Balmer Sage was the next speaker; her remarks were specially characterized with deep feelings of emotion, such as struck home to the heart, seemingly of almost, if not, every one. Mr. J. A. Richards now followed in his usual eloquent manner, and became much stirred during the progress of his speech. Mrs. J. Thompson of the Lesher School next spoke in her usual spicy and very interesting manner. Revd J. C. Sawyerr, the venerable pastor of Mamboe when called upon said he had no speech—i. e., prepared, as he, like Mr. Ricards, had not seen his name on the programme, however the occasion was such, as would not permit him to be silent, hence he spoke and with great earnestness too The Principal then made some announcements, and these interesting exercises were brought to a close about 1. p.m., with Doxology and Benediction.—We should remark here that we had taken notes with a view to giving the substance of the various speeches above mentioned; but time and especially space in these columns forbid the attempt, however we expect hereafter to give the speech of the Chairman, and the Inaugural Address of the Principal.

A FEW SCRAPS.

Editor Early Dawn,—I returned from Germany the 5th. inst. having been away from London ten days. Glad to find you our missions there are mostly in a prosperous condition. Our paper "The Heidelote," which is larger than the Early Dawn, and published by our missionaries there, is doing well financially, and otherwise. The Brethren in charge of our Printing Interests there have issued Almanacs for several years which sold well, but the one they got out for 1888 pleased the people so well, that the 10,000 printed were all sold long before the year 1887 had ended. As many more could have been sold. They are already at work collecting matter for next year's Almanac, of which they hope to sell 20,000.

Another good thing they did, and are doing, to get places to hold meetings in, halls are rented at most points in which they preach. The cost of getting and keeping these warmed and lighted, has been quite an item of expense. Our people are generally poor and though with us they have to pay all the taxes to the state and state churches, that they would if they worked in and with the state churches The people of Germany with a standing army of from four to five hundred thousands, and with so many high officials, both in church and state pay, are very heavily taxed yet they are in most places now paying all expense of renting and keeping their places of worship. A considerable amt. of money is also raised for missions and to pay their own preachers.

They are also enlarging their missions by adding new preaching places. They are growing in numbers, in spirituality, and financial strength.

I hope and pray the other wing of my district, Africa, may speedily regain all its losses by the late war, and be more prosperous in the near future, than ever before. With good men and women as teachers and preachers who adhere to Bible methods to enlighten and save men, success must attend our efforts.

As I do not expect to visit Africa again before next dry season, I shall often be with you in imagination. You doubtless had good reasons for putting off your Annual Meeting until March. May our God be with you now, then, and ever, and may you, Bros. Gomer and Wilberforce, who have such great interests to manage, be divinely guided in all your labors. Amen.

D. K. FLICKINGER.

London,
Jan. 20, 1888.

Dear Mr Editor,—I wish to acknowledge through the columns of the "Early Dawn" the receipt of a first class certificate and 5 gold Soverings from Mr James Taylor the treasurer of the Centinial Jubilee Exhibition for Exhibits sent to the Exhibition from this Mission for which the committee have the thanks of the Mission.

J. GOMER.

Shaingay Mission
Feb 7th '88

Mr. Editor,—I saw in the last issue of your journal an Article signed "Peace." Judging from the terms of that letter, one is disposed to think that the pen was leader of the thought of the author thereof,—for the letter could not have been so much out of place had it declared itself "War" and not "Peace." However the writer has thrown the gauntlet, I accept the challenge now for the fray.

1. I am in a position to state that besides the leading member of the Sierra Leone Bar, the Treepasser the Avenger and a native clergyman of the established Church of England,—there was no person in the Barristers private office at the time the "Victoria Road Tragedy" was looked into. 'Peace's' statement therefore as to extra number of gentlemen is absolutely untrue.

2. "Peace" does not seem or rather care to know that the letter of apology if it can be so called, was given after the Avenger had administered a severe cudgelling on the trespasser, and that more cudgels and letters of apology are in store for the trespasser, unless he be wise in time and so put an end to his wicked career.

I may mention that "Peace" in his precipitations was not mindful to study the tenor of the letter of apology to know if any humble opinion is expressed in it, and that the apology was jumped at by the trespasser because he knew full well how great the public indignations against him would have been had the avenger preceded him in his flight to Freetown. It was Lord Brougham who said that "justice deffered, enthusiasm the prize at which you must purchase safety and peace.

3. "Peace" regrets very much like myself that the trespasser should have been so far gone as to indulge in the gratification of his carnal desires "shortly after the celebration of our Lord's Advent;" I really thank Peace for this exhibition of christian spirit on his part. are in most places now paying all expense of renting and keeping their places of worship. A considerable amt. of money is also raised for missions and to pay their own preachers.

4. "Peace's" Article smells the smoke of a trespasser's lamp—"It is a shame to speak of those things which are done of him in secret." But let me assure him in the name of conscience that to go on pack-in-sin upon sin is unworthy of a Christian.—I am, yours,

FRANK.

Dear Mr Editor,—I have read with great surprise "Peace's" letter which appeared in your last issue, purporting to misrepresent than to frankly write the facts connected with it. The subject matter of that letter was the "Victoria Road Tragedy" which occurred some time ago to the displeasure of every one here. I almost fancy that people for a morsel of bread a shirt or pangs will steer against their mind and their consciences. No one who was an eye witness of that Tragedy could write in the spirit of "Peace's letter. A letter evidently partial, its whole spirit having a tendancy towards reproaching the one and affectionately sympathising with the other.

On general survey of the whole transaction, I feel to suggest that this issue should bring the whole thing to a close. Treachery cowardice ignorance and ill admonitions have all had in their respective spheres the fullest encouragement in this matter every thing that has'vers call "Crass Ignorantia" has been betrayed.

To ascertain however public opinion in Freetown I feel bound in justice to the cudgeller to cite the remark of the eminent and judicious writer of "My view of Things" an article published in the Sierra Leone Weekly News of the 4th February the precepitate and cautious writer perhaps after acquiring sufficient information on both sides writes

A copy of the "Early Dawn," (a Sherbro periodical) for January 21, 1888, has just been put into my hands. And, in hunting its articles, I found one neatly written, entitled "My View of Sherbro," which contains, amongst other things, the following sentences. "The peacemakers are blessed for they shall be called the children of God. But we must not forget that wilful offenders who make it their duty to disturb the peace of others, should receive that punishment which they earn." But in a hurry-up letter signed "Peace," an aggrieved party was characterised as the aggressor," while the person agrrieving was held up to the public as "the fulfiller of the Divine command." Let me give a timely warning to those concerned in the "Victoria Road Tragedy" to be ever circumspect, lest in an unguarded hour they should betray themselves into the hands of a writ of summons commencing with the words—"Victoria, by the grace of God &c." I am yours

STIGMA.

Sweeter than Sugar.—From a European, contemporary, we learn, that a substance many times, sweeter than sugar has been discovered in some part of Europe, and that it is now being prepared for use; of which we hope to give further our next issue.

NEWS ITEMS.

Two Classes.—We believe were present at the formal opening of the R. C. W. T. School at Shaingay on the 6th inst, one of these classes consisting of 3 young men, had been under instruction during the past year and the other consisting we believe of 6 foundation students who enter this year. Besides the two classes there are we believe several others in a preparatory class.

Missionary mass meeting.—While attending the opening of the Rufus Clark &c at Shaingay last week we had also the pleasure of attending a very interesting Missionary Mass meeting, of a large gathering presided over by the Rev J. Gomer.

Steamer Wrecked.—It is reported that a vessel was wrecked lately near Bananas (Dublin) Island with about 900 tons of palm kernels

The Annual District Meeting of the U. B. Church Missions will be held at Shaingay, instead of this place, as before appointed, on the 15th of March.

The Girls Home,—An Institution for the training up of native Girls is now nearing completion we learn, at Rotufunk Station Bompeh Mission Rev W. S. and drs E. B. Sage we believe are to have charge of the Institution and we wish them every success in their work.

Personal

Rev R. C. Taylor, has arrived in this place and taken charge as head-master of the M. M. School Mrs Taylor has also been added to the staff of teachers.

Mr. C. B. Collier, gave us a call on the 8th inst. Mr Collier has built up a nice little school at Mokate, which we believe has done much toward the Education of native children at that place, we wish there were many more men who would immitate Mr. C's example.

Mr. J. A Williams returned with Mrs Williams from Freetown feeling better for the change.

Rev. W. S. Macauley, of Danville Station Gbangbiah has come down, for Medical treatment, we believe, he arrived here to-day (15th inst.)

MY VIEW OF SHERBRO.

Lord Macaulay in his critical and historical essay on "Machiavelle" says "Habits of dissimulation and Falsehood no doubt mark a man as utterly worthless and abandoned" I must apply this principle to "Peace's" letter, which appeared in your last issue, up on the subject of the "Victoria Road Tragedy." In this respect no information concerning that unfortunate transaction affords more striking reflections of falsehood and misrepresentation than is contained in that letter. I concur in the opinion expressed by "My view of things" published in the "Sierra Leone Weekly News" of the 4th Feb. in this matter and it stands to reason that the sentiments of a writer ("My view of Things") generally noted for his perspicuity of style, frankness, and honesty should and must be regarded.——

An Revoir to the 'Victoria-Rd Tragedy'

Eben. A. Lewis Esq. a gentleman of unquestionable modesty and frankness, left here in the s.s. "Formoso" last week for Freetown.—The many good work that Mr Lewis has done here, has already gained for him the confidence and respect of the people—In the performance of his duty as a Photographer he has endeavoured to give the fullest satisfaction. I only regret that he has not obtained that patronage from the people which his services in many respects deserve—We wish him a happy and prosperous change.

When Husbands and Wives for a few moments' look at each other in silence and without moving, it needs no prophet to say that the scene is loose somewhere—when visitors therefore observe this silence and coolness they require no "bad face" to suggest their taking the back seat. Strange to learn that people here are always anxious to become judges and curious about, ascertaining the cause of a row between a husband and wife, which in endeavouring to enquire into generally purchase for themselves at a cheap rate the indignation of the wife or the husband and in some cases of both—May these marplers allow the God father and God mother to perform their sacred duties, and cease to interfere in matters that do not concern them.

I would never measure any thing by the world's opinion as I know by doing this I would simply grasp at the shadow and lose the substance. "Victoria Rd" again—I do those who are concerned the justice of not believing the very unhappy statement of three weeks old. Wives evidence against their husband in such matters are always the best procurable evidence especially where the husband is occupying so delicate & tender a situation—Whilst we desire husbands to behave themselves according to their situations in life, Wives also should remember that a woman forfeits her place in a society by what in a man is too commonly considered as an honorable distinction and at worst as a venial error a certain writer says. "The moral principle of a woman is frequently more impaired by a single lapse from virtue than that of a man by twenty years of intrigues."

Why should you boast yourself by trying to win a place in that society which plainly does not suit you? what can you see in those untidy people that makes you admire them so much and seek them so eagerly? Is it the flavor of the fastedious perfume "Ghongbon" or what for goodness sake that infatuates you so much! These questions are put to those who make it their duty, rather than pointing out and endeavouring to correct the vices and immoral tendencies of the natives, to make of them wives and objects of love admiration. "The York Island Obloquy" which unfortunately terminated in "Nennch vs ———" has got into my hearing, I shall introduce the matter to "My view of Things" in Freetown.

On Sunday last owing to indisposition I was unable to attend Divine Service, but late in the afternoon news reached me of the appropriate and learned discourse delivered by the Pastor of St. Matthew's Church the Revd. Gurney Nicol B.A., of the University of Cambridge, I congratulate those who were under the discourse and desire that the admonitions put forth especially as regards "ungratefulness"—that most contemptible vice—will have their desired effect. On the evening of the same day I attended the Bonthe Wesleyan Chapel, the sermon was not less instructive and interesting; but the music was bad as the lights were distressing.

C. W. Betts Esquire a young and enterprising Merchant at Mosaille and President of the Redoubtable Bonthe Mutual Leterary Club was a visitor here last Sunday together with his cousin Miss Mildred Clemens—Mr Betts as President of the Club deserves the thanks of the community for amusements afforded during the past christmas season, and I hope on him for the Club's cooperation with any movement likely to be set on foot for the celebration of the Silver Wedding day of H. R. H. the Prince and Princess of Wales to take place early next month.

I sympathise with journalism and all Literary Societies in Sierra Leona for the sad and irreparable loss of Mr Geo. Ambrose Freeman late manager of the West African Reporter Newspaper.—Mr. Freeman was recognized up to the time of his death as a very fearless advocate of his country as a journolist he was clear frank and fearless and without regard to colour Race or nationality he always performed his duty to the general satisfaction of the public. As a mark of esteem Subscriptions should be raised to erect a tomb over the remains of this young, but distinguished and respectful negro.—

SHAINGAY DISTRICT.

Concluded from Page 4.

ciety make impromtu speeches on the evils of the rum traffic, I think that three of the boys had spoken, and there was a lull, some one suggested that the girls speak, a modest little girl walked out before the speaker's desk and said I will speak, but I will change the subject I think that slavery is a very bad thing, because often the slaves are beaten and treated very cruely and they are not fed, but made to work hard, the masters dont treat them good, they dont teach their own children to work but make their slaves do all the work and never pay them, and after this manner she spoke very feelingly, her mother owns slaves evidently the spirit of God had touched her heart. Some of the young gentlemen (whose parents too were deep in the mire) took grave exceptions to the young lady's remarks and said, she had left the subject, she was out of order, we had not come for that, some slaves were treated good &c. Mr Luke the chairman had to call them to order.

Mr French Agent for Mr Macfoy is doing a lively business here in the Mission shop i. e. for the season tho they have no spirits trade is flowing in, it is reported that a spirit shop is to be opened in the village of Shaingay we hope this will never come to pass however.

J. GOMER.

Shaingay
Dec 22nd '87.

THE DEATH KNELL OF THE SUGAR BOUNTIES.

(From the Colonies and India.)

Concluded from page 1.

the maintenance of the duties at present imposed on sugar in all the countries interested except England. If any of our continental neighbours should see their way to follow our example and abolish absolutely the duties now imposed on sugar, there would be an end to the whole difficulty; but there is no immediate prospect of their being able to dispense with the sugar taxes as a source of revenue, and so long as these taxes are maintained the remedy suggested for getting rid of the bounties—"differences," if not "ouvertes" is to allow the refiners to manufacture or refine in bond. It is true that the Belgian Delegates, while concurring with their colleagues in condemnation of the system of bounties, reserve to themselves the right to propose a different mode of abolishing them, viz, by reducing the tax and increasing the percentage of legal yield, by which means they hope to be able better to adjust the sums levied on the raw material in them allowed by way of draw-back on the refined article exported; but the Delegates of nearly all the other countries have recorded their conviction that this expedient will not afford a sufficient guarantee that the object of the protocol, viz., the abolition of bounties in any shape, may not be—however unwittingly, and however partially—defeated. In view of this strong expression of opinion, it is not unreasonable to hope that Belgium will be able to reconsider her position, and to announce before the period for the practical ratification of the Convention its acceptance of the only really effective measure, short of a total abolition of duty. If Belgium should prove obdurate, there is yet a fear that the whole work of the Conference will fall of immediate result; but we can hardly regard the first contingency as a probable one; yet should it unfortunately arise, it is impossible that the force of public opinion will not eventually, however tardily, lead to the removal of this the sole obstacle to the fulfilment of the principles which the Conference so unanimously endorsed.

The only other point in the Convention which remains to be noted is the fact that its stipulations are expressly declared not to apply to British India, Canada, Newfoundland, the Cape, Natal, the Australian Colonies and New Zealand, but power is reserved to them to enter into the agreement at any time within the ten years during which it is to be in force, or during its year-to-year continuances after that period. These exceptions however, are of no practical effect, and are little more than a recognition of the position occupied by the Majority of the Colonies mentioned by virtue of their possession of "Responsible Government." The fact of their omission, however, is significant, in view of the fact that, after all, one of the principal reasons for the opposition to the sugar bounties is to be found in their effect upon our colonial sugar industry; and it is, therefore, theoretically, if not practically, inconsistent to omit any part of the Empire from the operation of the Convention.

Quarantine—Quite a sensation was produced yesterday in this place, or at least, in the neighbourhood of this office in consequence of the rumour of Small Pox coming from the Gbargroo, but all is over now, and the Doctor has decided so easa.

ORIGINAL

J. A Clemens.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Bookseller, Stationary and Miscellaneous GOODS

ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET

N.B. Removed to upper Otto Street, opposite the burial ground.

Bonthe, Sherbro.

HURRICANE LANTERNS, AND EXTRA SHADES

ALWAYS ON HAND.

Please call and See them

AT THE

S. M. MISSION STORE.

Also Cube Sugar,

Black China Tea,

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES

Medicines and Stationary.

Bonthe, Sherbro

Nov. 30th '87

PUBLIC NOTICE.

THE PUBLIC are hereby requested to take NOTICE that the LANDS situate and lying on the Western part of Victoria Road Bonthe on the portion from swamps known as the head of Ghundamah Creek along southward on to the LAND mark in possession of one Cafai Kobotu.

We the undersigned are lawfull owners of the said LANDS, above discribed and that we have jointly and severally agreed bargained and legally conveyed the said portion of land of about 5 acres west and (Half) ½ acre south of Victoria Road to Mr John D. Rogers Govt Interpreter.

Any person or persons occupying or having any buildings or farms thereon at present should make arrangement with the said John D. Rogers as an action for trespass will be enforced against offenders intending to occupy without permission after three months from this day's date hereof.

W. T. DOUGLAS
his BANA ✕ LEWIS
mark

v00,87. to Feb 29, 88.

Public Notice.

THE PUBLIC are requested to take Notice that the LAND transferred to JOHN DOVE ROGERS by W. T. Douglas and Bana Lewis, is our real Property for which we have Grant from the Colonial Government.

All persons occupying or having buildings, on said lands, are requested three months from date to remove their Buildings; or to come and make arrangement with the Agents in charge, as an action for trespass will be enforced against offenders intending to occupy without permission of the said Agts. in charge after the expiration of the time specified in this Notice. viz. March 27th 1888.

Pr. Cie Francaise de L'Afrique Occidentale.
C. BARTHELME—Agent.
" C.M.S. Thro' Sa. Leone Ch. Committee.
G.G.M. NICOL—Pastor.
For The Mendi Mission.
J. A. EVANS—Agent M.M

Bonthe,
December 27th. '87.

ALPHA FACTORY, YORK ISLAND

This desirable and commodious place of Business now

For Sale.

The Factory stands on its own ground of about 2½ acres, and has among its other advantages that of one of the best situations in the Sherbro River.

The place is free-hold with GOVERNMENT GRANT and in first-rate condition.

Further particulars to intending purchasers on application to

GEO. LEACH

Manager for the Estate of the late

WILLIAM MURRAY.

NOTICE.

The Undersigned

begs to inform his FRIENDS CUSTOMERS, and the PUBLIC in general, that he is prepared to furnish at Short Notice, BOATS of all sizes, on hire per diem or per trip:

VIZ:—

SIX OARED GIG BOATS,
FOUR OARED GIG do.
TWO OARED DINGY,
with or without hands;

—ALSO—

Lighters,

from 4 to 13 TONS.

For further particulars apply to

J. B. PARKINSON,
Victoria Rd. Bonthe.

Jan31to Ap30.—3ms.

NOTICE.

The Undersigned begs to acquaint his FRIENDS and numerous CUSTOMERS and the Public in general that he has now in his STORE, lately arrived from Europe FANCY & TRADE GOODS suitable for the SEASON.

VIZ—

Ladies' patent & Kid Boots, Gents Kid & Balmoral Boots & Shoes, Ladies' Velvets, Felt & Straw Hats richly trimmed.—Ladies' gloves, elastic garters, stockings, selfcol'rd and striped.—Ladies' corsets of various sizes to fit any one.—Gent's self-colored and striped half hose.—Gents' Lamb wool Shirts,—

Boys & Girls

Boots and Lace Shoes with socks and stockings to match Finest Linen & Cambric Pocket hdkfs pressed in box. White cotton Damask Table Covers.—Fine silk and Elastic Gents' Imperial Braces.—Ladies' Parasols with deep lace fringe—Velvet Gowns and Caps.—Velveteen in pieces.—Cashmere Cloth of the best quality by the piece.—Union shirts.—Fancy Cloths for Ladies—Cloths for Gents' Suits—Besides Hardware and lot of other goods, too numerous to mention.

Come and see.

J. B. PARKINSON
Victoria Road,
Bonthe Sherbro.
Dec. 14th 1887.

SHAINGAY DISTRICT.

In this district we are strugling along "trying all how" as the people say to collect our scattered forces, there are many I find whose names were on the seekers lists that will never answer present again, until the general roll is called, some of the missing we have cause to belive will be present there, others are far away in distant lands we hope and pray that they may be a blessing to the people among whom their lot is cast and that their captivity may prove a blessing not only to themselves but to others, there have been many removals some will fall away but others will be added through the influence of the faithful ones, so that though they be lost to us on our books here, there will be no actual loss in the end an all wise providence is overruling this whole affair it is for us not to fret because of evil doers, but just to do our part and to give ourselves no concern about what belongs to the Master, I have read where he says Be still and know that I am God, I will be exalted amongst the heathen Psln. xcvi. 10.

Frank Will has heard of his little brother that was carried off, he was sold to the interior of of the Mendi country, and was grieving much having heard that his brother Joseph was killed at Shaingay and that Frank was slain at Manoh the same time that he was caught, Frank has borrowed £3. and sent to redeem him, he is only getting 20s per month and that money is from a special fund, I wish some Christian person would make Frank a donation of this amount for he is not able to sustain this loss. I have given until I can give no more.

Quite an amusing scene occurred at the meeting of the Christian Temperance Army last evening, there was to have been a discussion but the principal speakers were not present, and the order was changed, it was proposed that the younger members of the So-

Continued on page 2.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, FEBRUARY 29, 1888. No. 4.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO,

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto, dele'd in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gowans Shaingay, West Africa, Rev. Wm. McKee Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant,	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner,	The Commandant.
Depty. Coroner,	Wm. Hughes.
Chief Clerk,	W. Hughes.
2nd. do.	S. W. Adams.
Interpreter,	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff,	P. S. B. Buckner.
Sub-Treas. & Col Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett
	J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters,	J. N. Crown. J. B. Turner. & S. G. Cole
Asst. Examg. Officer Sulijah,	Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon,	M. L. Jarrett, M R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster,	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police,	M. Bette,
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis
Overseer of Roads,	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road Pastor,	Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.
Wesleyan Methodist, Pastor,	Lime Street Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mendi Mission,	(Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor,	Rev. G. N. Jowett.

PUBLIC ADDRESS

Delivered by the Rev. J. Gomer, Chairman, on the occasion of the opening of the Rufus Clark and Wife Theological Training School Shaingay.

My dear Friends.—I cannot deny the fact of feeling that a great honour has been conferred upon me, by being invited to preside at the opening of this Training School.

This beautiful building in which we are now assembled is an answer to many earnest prayers, and now that we have the building, our faith is strengthened and we have good grounds for hoping that even greater blessings may follow. If I were going to preach a sermon on this occasion, I should select for my text the four last words of the xxiii ch. and 23rd verse of Numbers—" What hath God wrought ! "—It is claimed by many that Balaam was a very wicked man and it is said that the wicked shall die; Balaam is dead; but many of his expressions live and will live while time lasts. It is obvious also that many of the missionaries sent here have been wicked men; yet God has been pleased through them to perform a great work here; a work that will live when they are gone. On the 26th of this present month it will have been Thirty three years since our first Missionaries to this mission were landed in Freetown. Please make a note of this fact that the foundation of this mission was laid by 12 men, when they resolved to send one or more missionaries to Africa. It was not until 1857, however that they secured this sight; so beautiful for situation. The names of Bishop Flickinger who secured this sight from the old Chief Thomas Stephen Caulker, and of Revd J. K. Billheimer who erected the first mission chapel and our present mission residence which served as a Fort during the late war, (some called it Fort Flickinger) but I think fort Billeimer would have been more appropriate, for here he labored, suffered, and sowed seed for seven long years. Though Revd W. J. Shuey was the pioneer in the work, Bros. Flickinger and Billheimer broke the ground and sowed the first seed, and although Mr. Flickinger has often been off on furlough, he has never given up his commission or even laid aside his weapons, but keeps them constantly bright and ready for use at the shortest notice. Mr. Billheimer was left most of the time alone on the field with one Native helper a Mr. John A. Williams. Mrs Billheimer was in due time added to the staff who proved to be both a valuable help meet as well as a comfort. Revd O. Hadley and wife took charge of the work in 1866 as Bro. Billheimer's health had completely failed. Mr. and Mrs. Hadley could only remain two and a half years when Mr. H's health failed him and they were obliged to return home. Up to that time, nine Missionaries had crossed the ocean and had been driven back by the climate. The treasury had become very low and money scarce; would it be any wonder if some of the original 12 should have become discouraged and have concluded that they had selected the wrong field to labor in? Yes, some like Thomas doubted though none were as bad as Judas. These doubters had, it would seem forgotten the promise of the Master in Isa. lv. 11. " So shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth; it shall not return unto me void but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it." During these years of trials, sufferings and afflictions, good seed was being sown, and sown in tears. The flower of the church had been bound and lain on the altar tho' not slain. A Storey, a Kunker, a Flickinger, a Witt, a Wilson, a Billheimer & wife, a Hadley and wife, all had been sacrificed by the church though God in His mercy had spared the lives of them all except that of Mr Hadley. But the seed sown did not die. When Mr Hadley and wife left for America Mr. John A. Williams & wife natives were left in charge of the Station. Shortly after he died and the work was left with no person to run it; at this time your humble servant and his wife were selected to come and mind the place untill a proper person could be had to take charge of the work. We were appointed Nov. 8th 1870 and landed in Freetown Jan 7th 1871. On our passage out we were favored with the company of Mr. D. W. Barton, an old Missionary, the general Superintendent of Mendi Mission, on the passage out and for two weeks after, in their own Mission they gave us lessons in Mission work. Mr. Burton introduced me to the old King Thomas Stephen Caulker who together with his people received me kindly. I told them of the love of God and his plan of Salvation, some believed whilst other's doubted, but the old King was saved for on August 15. 71. after spending the day in prayer and listening to Scripture reading he passed quitely over the river. The last words I understood from his lips were—For Jesus Christ Sake, Amen. The seed that had been sown in tears was now begining to spring up and the tender plants needed care. Persons were anxious for baptism and children were being offered for the school more laborer's were needed. Your humble servant was not a minister. Mrs. Hadley was sent back to finish the work that she had began with her husband, and Rev. J. A. Evans of Michigan conference was sent to baptize converts and do the preaching. Your chairman was helping in the work and doing what he could in the Sabbath School—Prayer meetings and Bible Classes and in exhorting and talking to the people in their huts and on their farms. The work grew on our hands Nov. 1872 Rev Warner and wife of the Sandusky conference Ohio were added to our numbers. But their stay was short for on the 16th of April 1873 they sailed again for America. Whilst here he was the Superintendent of the Mission when I having he appointed Rev. J. A. Evans to act for him, Mr. Evans acted until the last of July when he sailed for America. Mrs Hadley was now at Avery Station of the Mendi Mission, where she had gone for a change so that Mrs. Gomer and myself were alone again, (however Mrs. Hadley soon returned to us at the Mission,) the interest in the work kept up. Whilst Mr. Warner was here Mrs Gomer and myself had taken up our quarters at Bompeh-took in a small mud hut; we received visitors and told them of the better way we started a Sabbath School and we were happy. When Mr. Warner left for America we returned to Shaingay and left a native man to manage the work at Bompeh-tooke. In the month of October Mr. Warner returned to Africa and in May 1874 Mrs Hadley's health failed and she was obliged to return to the States; this time she had been out 2 years and 5 months. In June of the same year Bro. Warner returned again having completed the new stone chapel; it was to finish this chapel that he came out the last time. Revd J. M. Williams and wife, (West Indians) had been for some time in charge of Bompeh-tooke station they were succeeding well in the work there, as he was a natural born Itinerant, he visited many villages and got up quite an interest in the work. Jan. 4, 1875, Dr. Flickinger, our Secretary landed in Freetown again—he remained here nearly four months and carried home a very flattering report of the work. During my first four years, I find from my journal that after my first fever, I was scarcely a month without fever; my wife was afflicted much, and these were years of financial trouble also. But amid all the work grew constantly; visitors from the country were constantly inviting us to their towns; I have mentioned the coming and returning of missionaries to show what an enemy they found in the climate, also the constant drawing on the treasury to pay passage. Were I to go into details, it would make my paper tedious and weary your patience. In April '76 my wife and I sailed for the States for a change. We had been here then 5 years and 5 months. We left a Rev. Jos. Wolfe of the Western Reserve Conference to carry on the work in our absence. We spent a little over six months in America and returned; Two ladies came with us to join in the work; a Miss Bowman and a Miss Becken; Miss Becken was to be the Woman's Missionary. The industrial work was now to be opened; Mr. Wolfe was to manage that part of the work as his health failed, and after spending some months at Madeira and returning here for a short time he left for America Jan. 2., 1878 (Miss Bowman had already gone) the same year on the 17th of December, Rev. D. F. Wilberforce and wife landed here he had spent seven years in America preparing for this work, and no missionary was ever more joyfully received; and none that has ever come to this mission have been so well fitted for the work. Speaking the native language and being familiar with all of their habits and customs, young in years and having a zeal for the work, gave him a great advantage He at once took charge of the schools and done a full share of preaching itinerating &c. To him really is due the credit of the missionary Aid Society that was organized Oct. 27th 1879 and has been instrumental in doing great good. At first a small public cause was particularized and itinerants were sent out on Sundays and remain over the Sabbath to visit towns that were calling for the gospel, and that the mission could not respond to for want of means; to defray the expense of our Itinerants, a collection was taken monthly. The Native Aid Society was the first to open the Tondoo and Rembe districts and the Tucker river districts; as the work grew on their hands it was handed over to the Parent Society as the Secretary consented to take it off their hands. Since 1883, the Aid Society has withdrawn from this district and has taken up a station at Konnomany, Bargroo country. In 1882 the Mendi Mission became united with this work and they have assisted greatly in supporting the work and under the superintendency of Bro. Evans it has become a Mission of no mean proportions, for it numbers Seventy-three villages and 1597 C.m. & Seekers. It was in Jan. 1881 that Bro. E was landed here the 2nd time, this time he brot a wife and 2 children; the work grew on our hands; constantly from the Ribbee, the Boom and Kittam rivers we had calls from the natives to come and teach them God's Word.

To be concluded in our next.

The Early Dawn

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

FEB. 29, 1888.

SCARCITY OF RICE.

For some years past we have anticipated, and there have been many prophets of such an event, but up to this year all has seemed otherwise; however now unless our information, which has been carefully gathered, be untrue the time has really come when rice is scarce, especially clean rice. We are aware that there is yet some considerable walker and rough rice reported in various places, but of anything like good quality there does not seem to be much forth coming of even these kinds, while the demand for clean rice daily increases; and as it is still early in the season it now seems likely that it will be very much scarcer before the new crop will be ready for the Market.

CAUTION.—It would be well if persons before writing articles for the Press would consider and weigh well their statements, before rushing into print with a matter, that it called into question, they could not produce evidence to substantiate the half of the assertions made therein. It should always be borne in mind, that not every truth can be proven. And that while it may be true that "truth tho' crushed the earth will rise again" yet it may be so long in rising; that some one like Thurlow Weed may have had to pay a good round sum for its utterance. Hence writers have not only to attend to the veracity of their statements, but also the evidence obtainable. And further whether the statement is worth making or not. The worthless seem to be the most prevalent in these parts.

ANTI-SECRECY TRACTS &c.

We have received Pamphlets and Tracts from the National Christian Association Chicago U. S. A.—through the kindness of Rev Joseph Gomer of Shaingay Mission. To whom and the Association we return our thanks. Of course we presume that it is, generally known, the world over, that this Association is opposed to Odd Fellowship in particular, and to secret Societies in general; and that for such as wish to be enlightened on the evils of Freemasonry & kindred institutions These tracts are invaluable.

In our last we mentioned the discovery of an Article sweeter than sugar, and promise to give some further account of it. We are glad to be able to do so from extract from the British Mercantile Gazette under the head of "Sugar from Coal Tar" which may be found in another column of this issue it is also proper to state that the Gazette has been kindly loaned to us by one of our subscribers to whom we are much obliged.

Omissions,—In consequence of the absence of our regular reporter we believe from this place, several personals have been omitted among others was the departure of Rev J. C. Thomas, pastor of Wesleyan connexion in this place

Market Reports of African Produce have of late been so delayed in reaching us that we have not found it convenient to insert them. Prices however have continued much the same with perhaps on the whole an upward tendency in palm nuts and oil. But no very great advance in prices of African produce can be reasonably expected, while such large stocks remain on the market and sales for the most part especially of oil and rubber scarcely equal the current receipts so that the enormous stocks rather increase, and there is likely to be a larger stock in the market this year than there was last year.

A Good Point was made in a very fine discourse delivered on Sunday evening Feb. 26th, by Rev. G. N. Jowett, Senior Pastor of Good Hope Station, Mendi Mission. His subject was "Regeneration"—the special point made was that most of the audience "had been born of water, but could it be said that anything like that number had been born of the spirit?" This certainly is a question of more than Ordinary Importance to a community like this where every one seems to regard water baptism as everything, but pay little or no regard to the baptism of the Spirit. In fact like Nicodemus of old they know nothing of Masonry in particular, and to the Spiritual Birth.

MY VIEW OF SHERBRO.

Of all human virtues none is so difficult to compass as that of, full and frank forgiveness. No vengeance is so often pronounced and nothing so seldom done as "I forgive you." Friends fall out, hatred & wicked imaginations, to effect one an other's ruin—as a consequence step by, an enquiry into the matter is made, the one is wronged, the other justified, and "I forgive you" says the one to the other and that ends the sorry drama. But alas! no sooner the words are uttered and said than the wild imaginations creep in again, the enmity thereupon assumes a graver aspect, conceals itself for some time and bursts out again in double vindictiveness—These are the hindrances that retard more than improve the progress of our profession as christians Let us therefore endeavour to cultivate the lessons of forgiveness and forgetfulness given us from time to time by those responsible for our spiritual advancement so that whilst we forgive we may also forget.

Much depends upon a man's courage when he is slandered and traduced. Weak men are crushed by detraction but the strong hold on and succeed. It is obvious that our people here are always as anxious to give opinion of other people's conduct and behaviour as a hungry and well exhausted man for dinner. Whilst there are some (with whom I sympathize) who make it a duty to appear dejected and poorly when scandalous information regarding themselves reached their ears. Be it remembered however that when one by his actions and conduct—perhaps through ignorance and cowardice makes himself subservient to the inclination of a slanderous community does not only expose himself to the whims and caprices of the people, but confirms whatever reports that might be disseminated abroad concerning him—To ignore the slanderous disposition of a people should be the aim of every judicious and wise man.

"Be sure your sins will find you out" was the subject of a sermon delivered by the "locum tenens" of the Rev. J. C. Thomas, Pastor of "Bonthe Wesleyan Church," on Sunday morning the 19th instant. Although the members of that church were not therein charged with committing private sins yet the preacher did not unsuccessfully labour to prove that sins done in secret are equally heinous and offensive as those of public character—I am not self-opinionated in this matter but would go further to say private sins are more odious and contemptible in the sight of God, and whereas private sins at once expose the offender to the indignation of both God and man, private ones though unknown to men perhaps detected after a long period, are generally rewarded for, by some sudden calamities or loathsome diseases which generally are attributed to innocent causes—When circumstances are confronting private sins and are not detected, it is evident they are praying with all their "might" "Those who bear the vessels of the Lord must be clean."

A woman with all her senses sharpened and quickened, but her own defects in many respects; there are a few simple minded persons who consider the frivolous actions of a woman should be considered in the same light as that of a man, however ignorant or enlightened each woman after all is superior to man in respect of her very many disadvantages and nothing like will is the constant repetition of right actions which brings up a man's noble character and makes him superior to her and this acted on my fallacious process ovulated from a thorough acquisition of knowledge and experience of his daily transactions in life, make him capable of discerning from a greater distance than a woman would do—women therefore should be treated with differentiation.

There is presently existing at York Island, Yiamia, Mocolo and Bendoo that apparent and sorry texture, strongly indicative of the dullness and stagnant condition of Trade—In and over these places the sad, sad cry of the distress which pervades the commercial progress of the district is still heard and every one is looking out with eager expectation, to hear that after all the Downing Street Autaorities have decided to send up the expedition to the Sulymah district where endless threats, now & again occur of the breaking out of war and plunder as a consequence of promotion of British subjects & H. Garrett Esq., the very energetic and useful officer in charge of that district was here a few days ago together with the squeamish Boccarry Governor who rumour says was engaged in a most unholy game with our Government. Mr. Garrett was reticent and nothing could be had from him.

Lying and stealing are almost synonimous terms and the man who prevaricates with a fallacious intent is equally liable to the same punishment as the man who steals—lying however may be properly defined as a statement made orally or in writing with intent to deceive and defraud the person to whom it is made but where one is obliged under close circumstances to make statements which he does not know at the time to be false is not lying but an information "in malum se" The following extract which perhaps might interest your readers is a forcible proof of lying—"A young American lawyer was retained as advocate in a case as to which not feeling himself sufficiently prepared to plead was very desirous of obtaining a postponement as however the court had already protracted its sessions beyond the usual period in consequence of an unusual amount of business, and as the jury were getting impatient to be relieved from their duties he was well aware that it would be impossible to procure such a postponement unless he could allege some extraordinary cause—Fortunately or unfortunately as the result proved—he had a lively imagination and quickly formed a plan which he thought would be successful. Rising with his handkerchief to his eyes, he addressed the court in great apparent emotion "May it please the court, I have just heard of the dangerous illness of my venerable mother who is lying at the point of death—In such circumstances much as I regret protracting an already lengthened session I must request that this case be postponed." My feelings are so powerfully agitated that I should be unable to do justice to the case feeling as I do that my proper place is at the bedside of my mother." The pathetic appeal was successful. A feeling of earnest sympathy for the afflicted counsel filled all hearts and the jurors though anxious to return to their families were not sufficiently hard of heart to wish to have the business of the court proceed at such a sacrifice of personal feelings—The judge was a tender hearted man, had risen and was about to grant the request of the counsel when the deep basso was broken by a shrill voice which proceeded from a lady in a Quaker bonnet who was handing over the railing of the gallery—It was the mother of the eloquent counsel who so far from being at the point of death was at that very moment in knowledge to new and good. "Timothy! Timothy!" she exclaimed in voice which could be heard all over the court "how often have I chastised thee for lying!"

The case was not postponed.

NEWS ITEMS.

Sourey Behyo it is reported threatens the imorerh again in revenge for the loss he had suffered in that region notwithstanding the £25 indemnity paid him by Chief Beah Boomo.

Fourah Bay College.—Calender for 1888 has been received at this Office; many thanks to Rev F. Neville-principal-for the same. The Calender is a neat little Pamphlet of 18 pages printed at T. J. Sawyers works very concise in its get up, yet containing all desirable information respecting the college.

Revd H. H. Hinman, formerly a Missionary of the Mendi Mission, is engaged we believe in the Anti-Secrecy reform work of America. And we notice his name as the compiler of one of the Pamphlets which we mention in another column under the head of Anti-Secrecy Tracts &c.

A Large Viper is reported to have been killed, by the laborers at Shaingay on the Mission Premises about the 22nd inst in the rear of Roy's (Home) closet. It measured we learn 12 inches in length and 6 inches in width and was armed with two small horns.

Personal

Mr. T. N. Joah, formerly of Konconany station has been transfered to Mando station to fill vacancy created there by the removal of Rev R. C. Taylor to this place Mr Joah has already entered on the duties of his new Station.

Com.lt. C. H. Harley Moseley gave us a pleasant call on the 18th inst. he was looking well and feeling quite cheerful.

G. H. Garrett Esqr arrived from Sulymah on the 15th inst and brought down with him, we understand, Boccary Governor one of the kittim chiefs.

Rev. W. S. Macauley who arrived here from Danville Station on the 15th inst for Medical treatment having recovered some what, returned to his Station on the 18th inst.

Mr J. W. Campbell of Messrs Kinloch, Campbell and Co., Glasgow gave us a call on the 18th inst in company with Mr. L. Grant and Mr. D. M. P. Thorpe.

Mr. Victor P. Mason, returned from the rivers, we believe, about the 24th inst and gave us a call on the 25th he had been away for some months.

THE SULYMAH DISTRICT.

Mr. Editor,—In your issue of Jan. 31st, I noticed a communication from "A Watchman," in which he asks the very natural question, "What are the Merchants and Traders in the above District doing, are they not more or less interested in what is daily taking place in the surrounding rivers, especially the Kittam, Boom and Gallinas?" That it may not be taken for granted that all are supine in this matter, I beg to enclose you a copy of a letter addressed to G. H. Garret Esq. the indefatigable Officer in charge of the Sulymah District, which if you can find space in your valuable paper, I should be obliged by your inserting same.

I am, yours faithfully,
J. H. HEMINGWAY.

The Editor,
"Early Dawn." Bonthe.

Lavanah,
Jan. 25th 1888.

Sir,—I have the honor to call your attention to the present existing state of affairs in the Kittam District as shewn in the extract from letter received from one of the most influential and respectable firms of Native Merchants trading in that, and the Boom districts, and which, now have the honor to enclose.

The long looked for, long talked of expedition under Sir Francis De Winton had not yet put in an appearance, and the interior natives, and the disaffected of the Treaty Chiefs are thus emboldened to harass and plunder the country more and more to the almost entire stoppage of all legitimate trade.

Should the existing state of affairs continue, I shall feel compelled to advise the Directors of the Company I represent to withdraw their Business from this place—as unless steps are promptly taken to pacificate the country and restore confidence to the surrounding Traders, it would be futile to carry on a Business which under favorable circumstances yields no inconsiderable Revenue to the Colonial Government.

I have respectfully to request that you transmit the substance of this Communication to His Excellency the Governor in Chief.

I have the honor to be,
Sir,
Your obedient servant,
J. H. HEMINGWAY.

G. H. Garrett Esq.,
Officer in Charge,
Sulymah District.

SUGAR FROM COAL TAR.

From the British Mercantile Gazette.

The announcement that a saccharine material has been produced from the gas works here, refuse, that it is three hundred times more intense than cane sugar, and may be consumed in excess without the ill effects upon the system, naturally arouses an interest at once widespread and profound. It was at first imagined, even by scientific experts, that the very sweetness of the laboratorial chemist's plaything—which could at best only be prepared as minute specimens, and would never be forthcoming in quantity sufficient to permit of its being incorporated amongst the ordinary articles of human diet. Doubt has, however, been dispelled, and result off-hand by the appearance of specimens of commercial produce, in bulk and purity equal to all possible requirements, and by the very practical statement that the German military authorities who are certainly not characterised by too lenient a grasp of the doors, are at the present moment accepting the deliveries of very large consignments of the new sugar, with a view to its inclusion amongst the daily rations of their troops. Several accounts have been published respecting "Saccharine," but few persons have even allowed to see it actually manufactured, or have had the advantage of an explanation of its properties at the hands of the manufacturers themselves. An inspection of the enormous works at Maybury, which cover five acres of ground, and are devoted exclusively to the preparation of saccharine, is an entertainment of no mean order, and involves the acquisition of information which may with advantage be made public. The crowning triumph in the investigation of coal tar derivatives would seem to have been reserved for the Oesterreichs Feldberg, who has succeeded in isolating a substance which is actually possessed of three hundred times the sweetening power of pure cane sugar. The discovery has been made the subject of an exhaustive discourse by Sir Henry Roscoe at the Royal Institution, and it was further alluded to by him in his presidential address at the recent meeting of the British Association at Manchester. Indeed, he may be said to have fathered its introduction into this country, and it is a matter for congratulation that so eminent an authority should have been able to refer its future and its applications in such unrestrained terms of eulogy. The manufacture of saccharine, which is the somewhat unfortunate name given to the new sugar, has been a far more brilliant piece of work than its original discovery. The latter was accidental, the former is a veritable triumph of the application of the recital principles to principal requirements. Eight years of patient and incessant labour have been necessary to achieve that result, and this notwithstanding the fact that Dr. Fahlberg was at the outset sufficiently astute to secure the co-operation of capitalists who had absolute confidence in his ultimate success. The works at Magdeburg are, indeed provided with all the requirements of modern chemical apparatus, brought together from all countries. It was during a recent visit of the writer to the works that Dr. Fahlberg pointed to an enormous rubbish heap, in proximity to the factory, with the remark that many thousands of pounds were buried within it, in the form of spoiled products and abortive experiments.

But saccharine is at length and article of commerce, and it is anticipated that it will be largely employed for dietetic purposes. Indeed the demand for it is already considerable. It therefore becomes of interest to discuss its properties and its applications, and to inquire to what extent it is likely to interfere with the markets of the sufferingly oppressed sugar refiners of this country. It has been conclusively proved to be without action of any kind upon the system, and a further statement to such effect has been made by the senior physician to the principal hospital in Berlin. This expression of opinion is the result of extensive practical experience, and the hospital's daily administration to every class of patient as well as to healthy individuals during many successive months. It is unanimously agreed that saccharine does not disagree with digestion, and that it is rapidly voided by the system unchanged and undecomposed. Hence it may be safely employed by diabetic patients and by persons suffering from gouty affections, from obesity, and from fever complaints as a sweetening material for foods and beverages, where the use of cane sugar would be out of the question. This is an advantage that will be appreciated by thousands who have for years been forbidden to indulge in sugar. Dr. Fahlberg, the inventor of saccharine is sufficient to sweeten a cup of tea or coffee, and it is very difficult, if not impossible, to distinguish whether a beverage is sweetened with saccharine or cane sugar. Small tablets have been manufactured for use in sweetening purposes, and practicability of adapting these to the requirements of the army has been recognised by the authorities in every department. Their soldiers can now carry a week's supply of sweetening material in a small bottle, and thus dispense with ordinary articles, which would be out of the question if the transport of a large bulk of cane sugar were involved. Saccharine may have been made by accident, as stated by one probability, "Eureka" discovery, so that skill has still probably now a debt of gratitude to the discoverer of saccharine. Sweetened liquors and refreshments for invalids have long been made, and many other applications have been either carried out or suggested, the practicability of which can only be proved by time. In pharmacy it possesses, without doubt, a wide field of usefulness, for its powers of obscuring the nauseous taste of many drugs is very remarkable. Even if cane sugar possessed the same properties as saccharine, it would be impossible to apply it to many of the cases of this kind because of the bulk that would be required, and of the digestive complications that would attend its use.

It will be apparent that saccharine must at least constitute a formidable rival to cane sugar. The strongly preservative and anti-fermenting properties of the former, coupled with its heat resisting qualities, will enable it to be employed in many cases to the exclusion of sugar. Fortunately for the refiner, the manufacture of saccharine is at present a costly process, and it cannot for the present at any rate, be sold as cheaply as sugar, so that the latter still in many cases continues to hold its ground.

Extract from "THE BIBLE."

"Papa" said a little boy the other night, after studying for some minutes an engraving of a human skelton, how did this man manage to keep in his dinner!

Lord Houghton once said that social happiness consisted in being asked every where and going nowere.

PRICES OF LUMBER AT THE AVERY MILLS.

Fair to Good Scantlings per thousand ft.	£7. 10. 0.
Fair to good scantlings per 100 ft.	0. 15. 0.
Extra fine 20 feet to 21 feet scantlings 100 ft.	0. 18. 0.
Extra fine 20 feet to 21 feet scantlings 1,000 ft.	£8. 10. 0.
Boat Boards fair to good pr. 100 feet.	0. 18. 0.
Boat Boards fair planks per 100 feet.	0. 18. 0.
Transomes choice per ft.	3d
Keels do.	do. 3d
2nd Rate Boards per hundred feet	0. 12. 6.
2nd Rate Boards per 1,000 feet.	£5. 5. 0
2nd Rate Boards per ft	½d.
1st Rate Boards per Thousand feet.	£6. 5. 0.
1st Rate Boards per hundred feet	0. 15. 0.
1st rate Boards per ft.	2d.
3rd Rate Boards per Thousand ft., from	£3. to £4.
3rd Rate Boards per hundred ft. from 6s. to 10s.
First Slabs per Hundred ft., from	3s. 4d. to 3s. 6d.
1st rate Slabs pr. foot.	1d.
Laths, Strips, Posts &c.	&c.
Clean Coffee per lb.	8d.
Coffee in parchment per lb.	4½d
Coffee seeds per Bus.	6s.
Arrowroot per lb.	6d.

Avery Station, Bargroo,
Feby 28th 1888.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO

FEB. 29, 1888.

SCARCITY OF RICE.

For some years past we have anticipated, and there have been many prophets of such an event; but up to this year all has seemed, otherwise; however now unless our information, which has been carefully gathered, be untrue the time has really come when rice is scarce; especially clean rice. We are aware that there is yet some considerable quantity of rough rice reported in various places, but of anything like good quality there does not seem to be much forthcoming of even these kinds, while the demand for clean rice daily increases; and as it is still early in the season it now seems likely that it will be very much scarcer before the new crop will be ready for the Market.

CAUTION.—It would be well if persons before writing articles for the Press would consider and weigh well their statements, before rushing in to print with a matter, that if called into question, they could not produce evidence to substantiate the half of the assertions made therein. It should always be borne in mind, that not every truth can be proven. And that while it may be true that "truth tho' crushed to earth will rise again" yet it may be so long in rising; that some one like Thurlow Weed may have had to pay a good round sum for its utterance. Hence writers have not only to attend to the veracity of their statements, but also the evidence obtainable. And further whether the statement is worth making or not. The worthless seem to be the most prevalent in these parts.

ANTI-SECRECY TRACTS &c.

We have received Pamphlets and Tracts from the National Christian Association Chicago U. S. A.—through the kindness of Rev. Joseph Tromer of Shangay Mission. To whom and the Association we return our thanks. Of course we presume that it is generally known, the kind of work that Spirit. In fact that Association is supported to call they know nothing of Secret Societies in general and that for showing forth the enlightened on the evils of Freemasonry & kindred institutions. These tracts are invaluable.

In our last we mentioned the discovery of an Arteric sweeter than sugar, and promise to give some further account of it. We are glad to be able to do so from extract from the British Mercantile Gazette under the head of "Sugar from Coal Tar" which may be found in another column of this issue. It is also proper to state that the Gazette has been kindly loaned to us by one of our subscribers to whom we are much obliged.

"Omissions.—In consequence of the absence of our regular reporter we believe from this place, several persons have been omitted among others was the departure of Rev. J. C. Thomas, pastor of Wesleyan connexion in this place.

Market Reports of African Produce have of late been so delayed in reaching us that we have not found it convenient to insert them. Prices however have continued much the same with perhaps on the whole an upward tendency in palm nuts and oil. But never a great advance in prices of African produce can be reasonably expected, while such large stocks remain on the market, and sales for the most part especially of oil and rubber scarcely equal the current receipts so that the enormous stocks rather increase, and there is likely to be a huge stock in the market this year than there was last year.

A Good Point was made in a very fine discourse delivered on Sunday evening Feb. 26th by Rev. G. N. Jowett, Senior Pastor of Good Hope Station, Mendi Mission. His subject was "Regeneration"—the special point made was that most of the audience "had been born of water, but could it be said that anything like that number had been born of the spirit?" To is certainly is a question of more than Ordinary Importance to a community like this where every one seems to regard water baptism as everything, but pay little or no regard to the baptism of the Spirit. In fact like Nicodemus of old they know nothing of the Spiritual Birth.

MY VIEW OF SHERBRO

[illegible] as that of full and frank [illegible]

[illegible] is [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Extract from "Tit Bits."

"Papa" said a little boy the other night, after studying for some minutes an engraving of a lion in skelton, how did this man manage to keep in his dinner?

Lord Houghton once said that social happiness consisted in being asked everywhere and going nowere.

PRICES OF LUMBER AT THE AVERY MILLS.

Fair to Good Scantlings per thousand ft. £7. 10. 0.

Fair to good scantlings per 100 ft. 0. 15. 0.

Extra fine 20 feet to 21 feet scantlings 100 ft. 0. 18. 0.

Extra fine 20 feet to 21 feet scantlings 1,000 ft. £8. 10. 0

Boat Boards fair to good pr. 100 feet. 0. 18. 0.

Boat Boards fair planks per 100 feet. 0. 18. 0.

Transomes choice per ft. 3d

Keels do. do. 3d

2nd Rate Boards per hundred feet 0. 12. 6.

2nd Rate Boards per 1,000 feet. £5. 5. 0

2nd Rate Boards per ft 1½d.

1st Rate Boards per Thousand feet. £6. 5. 0.

1st Rate Boards per hundred feet 0. 15. 0.

1st rate Boards per ft. 2d.

3d Rate Boards per Thousand ft., from £4 to £4.

3d Rate Boards per hundred ft. from 6s. to 10s.

First Slabs per Hundred ft., from 3s. 4d. to 3s. 6d.

1st rate Slabs pr. foot. 1d.

Laths, Strips, Posts &c &c.

Clean Coffee pr lb. 8d.

Coffee in parchment per lb. 1½d

Coffee seeds per Bus. 6s.

Arrowroot per lb. 6d.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

THE PUBLIC are hereby requested to take NOTICE that the LANDS situate and lying on the Western part of Victoria Road Bonthe on the portion from swamps known as the head of Ghundamah Creek along southward on to the LAND mark in possession of one Cafai Kobotu.

We the undersigned are lawfull owners of the said LANDS, above discribed and that we have jointly and severally agreed bargained and legally conveyed the said portion of Land of about 5 acres west and (Half) ½ acre south of Victoria Road to Mr John D. Rogers Govt Interpreter.

Any person or persons occupying or having any buildings or farms thereon at present should make arrangement with he said John D. Rogers as an action for trespass will be enforced against offenders intending to occupy without permission after three months from this day's date hereof.

W. T. DOUGLAS
his BANA ✕ LEWIS
mark

vbo.87. to Feb.29,'88.

Public Notice.

THE PUBLIC are requested to take Notice that the LAND transferred to JOHN DOVE ROGERS by W. T. Douglas and Bana Lewis, is our real Property for which we have Grant from the Colonial Government.

All persons occupying or having buildings, on said lands, are requested three months from date to remove their buildings; or to come and make arrangement with the Agents in charge, as an action for trespass will be enforced against offenders intending to occupy without permission of the said Agts. in charge after the expiration of the time specified in this Notice. viz. March 27th 1888.

Fr. Cie Francaise de L'Afrique Occidentale.
C.BARTHELME—Agent.
C.M.S. Thro' Sa Leone Ch. Committee.
G.G.M.NICOL—Pastor.
For The Mendi Mission.
J.A.EVANS—Agent M.M.

Bonthe,
December 27th, '87.

J.A Clemens.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL
Bookseller, Stationary and Miscellaneous GOODS
ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET

N.B. Removed to upper Otto Street, opposite the burial ground

Bonthe, Sherbro.

HURRICANE LANTERNS,

AND EXTRA SHADES
ALWAYS ON HAND.
Please call and See them
AT THE
S. M. MISSION STORE.
Also Cube Sugar,
Black China Tea,
AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES
Medicines and Stationary.
Bonthe, Sherbro
Nov. 20th '87

NOTICE.

The Undersigned

begs to inform his FRIENDS CUSTOMERS, and the PUBLIC in general, that he is prepared to furnish at Short Notice, BOATS of all sizes, on hire per diem or per trip:

VIZ:—

SIX OARED GIG BOATS,
FOUR OARED GIG do.
TWO OARED DINGY,
with or without hands;

—ALSO—

Lighters,

from 4 to 13 TONS.

For further particulars apply to

J. B. PARKINSON,
Victoria Rd. Bonthe.

Jan31toApl30—3ms.

DR HITCHCOCK AS A HYMNOLOGIST.

In the articles that have appeared in the various religious and secular journals concerning the late President R. D. Hitchcock D. D. while appropriate mention has been made of the chief work of his life, no adequate testimony has been borne to the debt due to him by the church at large for his indefatigable researches in hymnology and his labors to elevate the service of song to its true place and dignity in the worship of the Sanctuary. Dr Hitchcock, in conjunction with Drs. Eddy and Schaff was the first one to attempt anything like trustworthy editing of a hymn or tune book. In their excellent "Hymns and Songs of Praise," the names of authors of hymns and the composers of tunes were given with their birth and death dates and and the year of first publication. Others also were laboring diligently in the same field notably Prof. Bird and Dr Hatfield, and it was by their joint labors that much concerning the history of hymnology has been saved from oblivion, and an interest awakened in this direction which has called forth such works as Dr. Hatfield's "Poets of the Church" and the "English Hymns," by the Rev S. W. Duffield.

The interest of Dr. Hitchcock in the worship of song amounted almost to a passion. Every new book American and foreign, was eagerly purchased, and his red and blue pencil-marks throughout the work shows how eagerly it was reviewed. His exquisite taste, his refined judgment, and his love for that which was worshipful and hopeful is more marked in his second and latest work in this direction, the Carmina Sanctorum. This work, being a selection rather than a compilation, discovers more frequently the marks of his hand. Concerning all that is necessary to the labors of his associates, Drs. Eddy and Mudge, in the hymnology, one can easily read the tender spirit, the courageous heart, and the strong orthodoxy, which were so conspicuous in the character and teachings of Dr Hitchcock, while in the frequent insertion of translations of the historical hymns of the church we see also the influence of his studies in connection with the chair he so long and ably filled in the Union Theological Seminary.

When a man so prominent in ecclesiastical circles as Dr. Hitchcock is called to his last reward, nothing short of a full biography can do justice either to the man or his work; but it is safe to say that no one who was at all familiar with his loves or the employments of his leisure hours during at least the last twenty years of his life would consider any notice of that life complete which did not emphasize those labors in which he did valuable service and was so much in sympathy with—the great communion of saints of all ages and nations.—Sel.

THE FINE LOOKING MAN.

Dear Editor.—On my way to Bonthe I happened to land at Bombelloh to await the tide My friend and I went on shore to see the few traders there. They gave us a warm reception. Some of them were busy collecting from their debtors, monies that had been long standing (it is not a pleasant task to perform). One of the traders with whom I am well acquainted said that some of the people were owing him £10, others £5. I think it is time our friends in these parts give up crediting as a rule, for it has so do in a great measure with the general cry of dullness of trade, for when the people go to credit, their words drop like honey, but in time of payment they become quite irrelevant. The store of Mr. S. B. A. Macfoy stands prominent among the rest with this pertinent advice legibly written and posted at the door for the benefit of those who come in to make purchases "Pay today Credit tomorrow." While here, we saw a fine looking Timmanee man of middle age, one of the followers of Mahomet crossing the other part of the road, a short distance from the shops. At first sight the shop-master thought he saw the man who owed him £20 and of whose whereabouts he cannot tell. But after calling him, he discovered his mistake and accordingly offered a suitable apology. The fine looking man did not incline to leave soon, having caught sight of the various articles exposed for sale, he thought of trying a chance. They soon entered into conversation, and spoke of various portions of the Timmanee country where this trader had been, spoke of living and dead Chiefs and a lot of other things; but to make short a rather long story, when the man arose to go, a leaf of tobacco was given him probably to make good the apology previously offered, then he commenced "Thank you, thank you." I have looked into your hearts (husband and wife standing) and I see what is troubling you. Trade is not as brisk as you wish, but if you come, we can talk the matter over. I live in the town of ——if you cant come you can send your wife; you see here, (putting his hands in his breast pockets and producing a few sheets of writing paper) "I received these papers from Mr. —— to work for him; I am not a novice in this line of business, I worked for D T, & L," at this time giving the names of quite a number of persons, and as you see me in this country, I did not come of my own accord, I was specially sent for by B. B., and if at any time you hear B.B's name reported favourably in the trade circle it was I. I must add here as explanatory to your readers that I knew this last trader and that his success consisted in his having fallen in Accts with his employer, he left his place of business clandestinely because he could not manage otherwise; the shop-master and wife sent him off with a pleasant airsgit. How careful should we be not to allow these fine looking quiet followers of the false prophet to draw us into their meshes, for they think Romam Catholics are very artful in drawing the unwarry promising to give what they wish to have from you. This is especially true of the former; Bombelloh is a fine trading spot, with plenty of palm nuts, but the people as a rule receive payment when the nuts are quite green on the trees. A RUSTIC Bonthe, Feb. '88.

ISSUES

MISSING

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, MARCH 31, 1888. No. 6

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0 6 0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0 5 0
Half yearly by Mail,	0 3 0
Ditto, deliv'ed in Bonth,	0 2 6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. Evans, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gomm, Shainnay, West Africa. Rev. Wm. McKee Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harler Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Depty. Coroner,	Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk	W. Hughes.
Asst. do.	S. W. Adams.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers
Bailiff,	F. E. R. Bockner.
Sub-Treas. & Col Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett J. D. Macauley.
Tble Waiters.	J. N. Crown, J. R. Turner, & S. G. Cole
Asst. Examg. Officer	Saliju. Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Ratte,
Usher.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope.
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett.
Asst Do. Rev R. C. Taylor

When affliction baffles all our plans and breaks in upon the pence, we long for rest in God, and look up to him to know what lesson of wisdom is to be learned but rest assured that the sorrow will not pass without developing good fruit; therefore do not seek—so much—to have discipline removed as to have wrought in the heart, just the lesson of wisdom it is designed to impart. Sel.

And parents should avoid bringing their children in contact with the evil, and not send them to public schools where secret societies are tolerated.

"The Resources of Sherbro"

Are very abundant, indeed, for it is estimated that over ten thousand tons of Palm Kernels and perhaps more than half as many thousand tons of palm oil are annually exported, besides other produce from Sherbro. But of late years there has been as much or more of the produce of the palm tree wasted than has been brought into the market chiefly in consequence of the inter tribal wars that have been allowed to interrupt the river districts. To think of this waste alone in the aggregate of, say 15,000 tons of palm kernels and oil is almost astounding and yet there has been more lost than that; for in some instances there has been much left to waste where wars did not actually hinder the gathering of it. But where the prices offered were not acceptable and the result was that the Chiefs refused to take off the porrah and the stuff rotted. Thus it may be seen that the palm produce alone of Sherbro if properly collected would easily exceed thirty thousand tons per annum and would greatly increase the Revenue of the settlement by enlarging Imports. But then the other products of the Sherbro and from the interior, that should pass through the Sherbro, scarcely receive any attention at present, but of these I may write again.

J. ALBERT.

Bonthe, Mar. 20, '88.

The Timber Trade.

From what I can learn many years ago was more flourishing that it has been for sometime past and that it dealt with other kinds of wood than at present and chiefly in other forms, in fact was really more of Timber than now, as at present we have really more of a Lumber trade which deals in a variety of kinds of wood; some of which are nearly worthless, but this obviously comes from the lack of judgment in those who fell the trees, for it appears that on the same ground with this poor timber there is enough of good wood if only judicious persons were at hand to select the tree for the fellers. I have remarked that our present is rather a Lumber than a Timber trade. It attempts the manufacture of stuff for use or export, hence deals with Boards, Plank, Scantling, and as there are but few Mills in the country and most of the work is done by hand the result is that the quantity, however great it may seem, must of necessity be very much less than it would be, if a large number of Water or Steam Mills were introduced for the cutting of Lumber from native woods. But very naturally the question would it pay? might and would arise here. This would depend upon the capital and experience of the parties undertaking the enterprise; for it must be remembered, first that there should be more capital at command than to merely pay for and locate the Mills, there must be a good margin with which to conduct the business of making Lumber and to accumulate a stock of Timber from which to execute orders. Second Judgment must be exercised in locating, especially a Water Mill; as it cannot be removed without considerable expense, to properly locate will require experience to consider 1. The timber supply as to quality as well as quantity. 2. The water supply as to quantity and power of propelling Machinery as also the continuance of this power and supply during the dry season. 3. The labor supply and in this particular there is need of considering quality as well as number of men obtainable. 4. The distance to market, and facility of conveyance &c. If these considerations be attended to with care, there is little doubt as to the business paying, if it is pushed with due energy but if any man supposes that he can make the Timber or Lumber trade pay by lying at ease in hammock he will certainly fail. Nor on the other hand will energy succeed without a knowledge of the business. Hoping to give some further observations in this line in future, I close for the present.

J.A.E.

"BONTHE MUTUAL LITERARY CLUB."

There was not a very large, but neat gathering in the Court Hall about the latter part of last year, when the Inaugural address was read by one of the members, and the subject masterly discussed by competent speakers. Those who were present in that meeting were pleased not only with the sublimity of the address, not only in the manly way the members gave their word and pledged themselves, but when they were made to understand that the object of the Club is to remove totally the dead melancholy which had prior to the formation of the Club pervaded this place, and to foster education and literature.

I would be considered partial, if I allow my pen to pass without congratulating the members for the unprecedented and successful entertainments they had during the Christmas season of 1887, for which they are greatly indebted to C. H. Harler Moseley Esq. Civil Commissioner of Sherbro and Sulymah Districts and Patron of the above Club, who left for England few days ago.

Although every member was clever enough that evening to understand every sentiment emphatically uttered by the Rev J. A. Evans in his lengthy, but elaborate discussion, (in the meeting of the Inaugural address) in which he not only clearly showed the members the importance of the meeting and their responsibility, but the almost insurmountable difficulties they have to contend with (in the face of opposition) in fostering education in a place where the minds of the majority are shackled with prejudices, yet since the last entertainment they never had but one meeting From this standpoint it shows at once that the Club if not properly worked up by able and better officers, will meet with the same fate as other Clubs had met.

I sympathise greatly, with the members for having elected officers, who would not faithfully discharge their duties, and not capable of holding any position of trust.

I trust the officers and members will use almonely endeavor (as they are not yet in a fit position as promised to bestow the community of Sherbro) to restore the elementary discipline by which the "B. M. L. Club" is forced to be guided.

BONA FIDE.

Lent Term
1888.

Industrial Instruction.

I am pleased to see that others are beginning to see with me the necessity of instructing our youths to labor with their hands and thus be able to do something more than trade, a thing or employment that at best can only really benefit one in a thousand to any great extent; beyond that the tendency of trade is to poverty or Bankruptcy. I notice in reading over the report of Mr. Sunter H. M's Inspector of Schools for West Africa as published in the "Methodist Herald" of March 14th inst. that he favors industrial instruction as fast becoming indispensable to the future material progress of the Colony [illegible] that some School Managers are about ready to take up the matter or a consideration of it. Mr. Sunter further on in his report says "I am glad to mention the fact here that Mrs Robbin, wife of Rev J. Robbin, Bishop's commissary for S. Leone, has formed an industrial class for girls, who come from distances even for the purpose of instruction in domestic economy. I have seen those girls at work, and should like to see such enterprises encouraged, less of petty trade, more of practical productive industry!" With the above I heartily concur; and I am certainly glad to see that such a learned educator as the Revd. Metcalf Sunter has so freely expressed himself and so favourably on the subject of Industrial Instruction. And, I do hope that ere long, many others will give their influence and attention as well as support to this great subject and that other women will, like Mrs Robbin form Classes for Training girls in the Industrial pursuits of life.

J. A. E.

The Missing Saw-Mill.

An old story is revived and redressed by the Detroit Free Press:

The other day T. G. met an old friend, who was formerly a prosperous young lumberman up North, but whose habits of drinking resulted as they often do, though he has since reformed, and is trying to do better.

"How are you?" said T. G.

"Pretty well, thank you but I've just been to a Doctor to have him look at my throat."

"What's the matter?"

"Well, the doctor couldn't give me any encouragement. At least he couldn't find what I wanted him to find."

"What did you expect him to find?"

"I asked him to look down my throat for the saw mill and farm that had gone down there.

"And did he see nothing of it?"

"No, but he advised me if I ever get another mill to run it by water."

"How would you like to have hair cut?" asked the barber. "With the scissors" replied the customer, and silence fell on the place with a dull thud.

Cm. 1 2 3 4 5
Ins. BRITISH MUSEUM 2

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

MAR. 31, 1888.

IT HURTS SOME PEOPLE very much when they have a private pique at some individual if they cannot vent their spite through the Public Press whether they can interest anyone else but themselves or not. It hurts others, when they wish to communicate some unimportant message to the Comd't if they are refused the privilege of doing so through the columns of a newspaper; whether that officer wishes to be so communicated with or not. Others again are hurt if their names do not appear every now and again among the personal notices, especially when they have called upon the editor for that special purpose. Then again there are those who feel hurt if their names are mentioned in the paper, and many such avoid the office on that account. Not a few of our paying subscribers are often disgusted with the miserable rubbish sent in to us by those who if they pay at all are always in the arrears with their subscription. But to sum up, now that it hurts some people to have their poor Articles rejected, and it hurts some other people to read such articles, which are not of public interest, then what must be done? We have decided, however, to reject such as in our judgment, are not suitable for our columns, or that we may not be able to read, or such as require too much correction or for which we may not have space to insert within a reasonable time.

AVERY STATION—Quarterly communion services were held at this important Station of the Mendi Mission, on the 25th inst quite a large number of persons were present at each of the three services, and much religious interest was manifested; giving evident signs of the close and particular, attention of the Pastor and Leaders, to the spiritual welfare of the souls under their care; two children were baptized and a goodly number of persons communed. The Presiding Elder Officiated and preached twice during the day to very attentive and interesting audiences. On Monday the 26th at 7 80 a. m. the quarterly conference was held and the business of the session was well attended to. The only sad feature of the occasion was the necessity of silencing an old Itinerant who had been previously suspended by the Itinerants and Leaders meeting for immorality; aside from this the reports showed progress and were pleasant There had been a slight increase in member-ship and also, we believe, in collections The Pastor Rev S. B. Morrison is making an effort to repair their fine church and meeting with some success we trust the community and friends will give him a helping hand.

THE GBANGBOO DISTRICT is perhaps one of the finest localities along the coast, from Cape Shilling to Cape Mount. Of course the lower Delta is a low and swampy region cut into a large number of islands separated a few of them by considerable branches or arms of the Great Sherbro, or the Big Gbangboo rivers; while larger number of sections are only separated by little mud brooks or creeks the larger of which are commonly known as poonkies and form navigable connections between the larger branches of the Big Gbangboo river. In this lower and southwestern, or perhaps we should say western part of the district, very little of the land is arable, but mostly covered by the tides at some season of the year; in its present unimproved state. The timber of the region is dense growth of mangrove usually of small size, yet in many cases quite straight and somewhat tall, in some places trees of from 2½ to 4 ft in circumference may be found in considerable numbers and we believe if cut and sawed while green might be made into lumber for buildings and would last a long time if not exposed to the weather. The present beauty (if such it may be called) consists in this immense expense of thousands of acres of deep green foliage of mangrove forest. intersected by almost innumerable streams, relieved alone by the black alluvial mud-banks at low tide. Gloomy however as the above description may appear, it is yet true that to the student of nature there is something beautiful in this almost monotonous scenery. And we may say further that it is evident to every practical man of wide experience that this whole lower region could be rendered needful in a high degree to commerce, if not indeed to agriculture and manufacturing interests, all it needs is to be improved as such lands have been in other parts of the world. On this lower level should be located the cane mills, saw-mills, oil presses, Indigo manufactories, Boat-builders yards, Machine shops &c., all of which could be easily reached from sea or land and then it would present one of the most inviting retreats for ships in the world. More again of this wonderful but undeveloped region, when we have opportunity.

WELL BURNED FARMS.

On the subject or matter of Farm burning, there has been some anxiety ever on the part of those not themselves planters, owing to the fact especially of late that rice is becoming scarcer and dearer every day. And of course farm makers themselves have had more of the burden of anxiety than others. But it must be a relief to the minds of some in the Gbangboo to have been able in the last week or two to get a good burn, as we noticed some had done along the Manoh Gbangboo on our visit about 26th inst and we were also informed that many others in those parts had been able to get a good burn and that there is at least a fair prospect for planting.

THE INFIDELITY OF THIS WORLD'S FRIENDSHIP.

It always so happen, that when a spurious son of Belial, whose character had been stigmatized graciously obtains a situation in the establishment of the son of Levi, his sole object is to demonalise and mar the character of those who were once in favor with his employer, so as to enable him to perpetrate successfully his diabolical practices It does not require the telescope of an Astronomer to discover the habit of such persons, for by their fruit, they will be known. The youngman who extravagantly wasted his father's goods like the prodigal must of necessity subsist on husk, and unless he reforms, will ever bring disgrace on himself and parents.

Contemplating seriously on the unfaithfulness of this world's friendships, I can with safety advice old and young to be careful how they are making friendship, especially with those whose character has been marked with all kinds of infamy; for today you may be considered the best of friends, when the fair breeze of prosperity blows on you, and tomorrow when the hurricane of adversity blows vehemently, and everything puts on a cloudy appearance, your confidant is the very first like Judas to give the traitor's kiss, defame, forsake, and distress you; therefore as the fine coup of this world is not to be able, especially in a place like this where the insincering of friends reign supreme, I will advice every man and woman to make friend-ship with Christ, for if we are faithful we will not only find him to be a friend, but our Benefactor who will ever stand by us, till we have reached the "Fair Haven" of rest.

—PLAIN TALK.—

March 88.

NEWS FOR THE SCHOOL INSPECTOR.

Dear Mr Editor,—It would seem surprising to yourself and the general public that an attempt is made to write a short article on the above. Surprising though it may appear yet as I regard it as a surprising fact. I shall be very glad every interested individual form a true conception in his mind after he shall have known the origin of this news.

No doubt it seems probable that the masters of our Elementary Schools here having been informed that the Government Annual Inspection is likely to take place soon, commenced arranging and regulating the scholars of their schools against the inspector's visit.

Probable a master pressing upon the children of his school the necessity and the advisability of renewing and redoubling their exertions so as to enable them to pass a creditable examination, mentioned (although it might be as a stimulus) that the Inspector himself will come this time and see what progress they have made.

As I was wending my way up Medina St. last Saturday evening I came in contact with a number of youths talking together about the expected inspectorial visit. Being only on an evening excursion I stopped to listen the conversation when one of them said "the master told them possitively that the Inspector himself is coming round this time and that we should look over our lessons at home;" but another said "We must not mind him, so master say year-before-last and he nor cam, Same way he say last year and he not cam, nor mind him daddy the white man done die or he done go home for him." This boy being somewhat bigger than the rest the others to disperse convinced by his own ignorant impression rather than take what their master told them By this Mr Editor you see at once how much children are apt to take notice of little things, and how they are suspicious of every trifle which bigger ones would make light of. This boy by saying this put his master's word to the test, which no doubt would place him in an awkward position if he be not relieved; although the children may not have the pluck to affront him yet silent influence goes a great way, and Mr. Gill advised teachers to be careful of fault finding. They did not understand their master's drifts for internally impressing on them the fact they simply judged externally from what had come to their notice. To relieve the master from this critital position I believe that as this is the fourth year the Inspector has not come to Sherbro his favouring us now with a visit will be one not only productive of much good, but also (1) will be relieving the master that is at present circuatly situated and (2) will make the children see for themselves that the Inspector Mr. Sumter is not dead nor gone away.

I trust Mr. Editor that through the medium of this your paper assisted by your cotemporary the "Weely News" the Inspector will be apprised of this news Thanking you for insertion

Yours truly

Bonthe DELIGHTED.

10. 3. 88.

NEWS ITEMS.

Mar. 6.—Mrs. G. P. Wilhelm left for Freetown per York Boat.

8. 8. "Mandingue" from Freetown consigned to French Company.

17.—Mails for Freetown per s. s. "Mandingue."

Boat "Cassandra" from Freetown with Mrs. Taylor.

KILLED.—A man by name of Gbangang, of Barkinter in the Pimpy district was killed near Bachallo's by some person or persons unknown on or about the 20th inst. A coroner's jury was subsequently held over the remains of the young man, and as we learn rendered the verdict that the deceased came to his death by wilful murder by the hands of some person or persons unknown.

21.—s. s. "Formoso" from Freetown with the following passengers—Messrs J. D. Macaulay (Customs) D.M.Punshon Thorpe, Robt. B. Wilson, Mr. & Mrs F. E. B. Buckner, Mrs. Sarah Ann Martyn and Revd J. Gomer of Shaiaga.

23.—s. s. "Formoso" for Freetown with Rev. J C. May, Mr. Mends and T. Dalton.

Boat "Cassandra" for Freetown.

27.—s.s. Formoso from Freetown with T. Dalton.

28.—s. s. "Formoso" for Freetown with Messrs Thomas O. Jones, J. B. Parkinson, Mesdames Saml: Pratt and Catherine Coker of Bathurst Gambia.

Personal

Rev J. C. May Principal of Wesleyan High School, Freetown called on us on the 15th inst; he spoke of his work as fairly prosperous, and also that of his connexion, the financial pressure is felt in the general Church finances and reduces the same very materially.

Rev. S. B. Morrison and family of Avery Station Manoh Gbangroo were down on the occasion of Mr. May's marriage and spent a few days in the place. They returned on the 16th inst accompanied by Revd J. C. May, after a visit to alo Sallie, he left for Freetown on the 23rd inst per S. S. Formoso.

Revd J. C. May, Principal of Wesleyan High School returned from his visit to Avery station, Manoh Gbangroo on the 29th inst.

Mr. J. B. Meads of Freetown and others gave us a call on the 17th inst.

Mr. Stewart (an old resident carpenter) died at Bendoo on the 8th inst and buried on the 9th: leaving a widow and four children.

THE SCHOOL BOYS' QUARREL.

Dear Mr Editor,—Though you have passed through school life, and have been well acquainted with it yet I have great pleasure in writing you something about it. The time for recess has come, and all were sent out to play as usual. In a short time, a cry was heard; the master who was sitting in the School-Room stood at a window, and asked what was the matter. "Nar Jacob stone me sir," was the reply. "Where is he?" "He da pantap mango sir." The master then ordered the boy to come down from the tree.

And as soon as he reached the ground the boy who was crying, picked the very mango and threw it after him. The master being still at his post, seeing what was going on, called both of the boys in. "Why do you stone him?" said he. "Please sir him vie been hopen soe he da see me nah-him he stone me sir. Eh he not tell me hass sir." The other boy said that he never meant to stone him, and also that it was not he who sent the mango; he saw a ripe one and in shaking it, the green happen to fall, and knocked the other boy, who was under the tree. The master then turned to him and asked, "What is your nationality?" "Ar coast Salong sir." "Are you?" "yes sir." "But that is not what I asked you I mean what nation are you" "Me dade nah Kbo, en me Mammy nar Aku sir" "All right" said the master—"But you see this boy is bigger than you and hat he taken the mango again & hit you what would have d me?" The boy stood speechless, & the master after warning him sent them away.

I remain Mr. Editor yours

A SCHOLAR.

M. M. School Room

Mar. 29. '88

FORGIVENESS.

As an important part of our prayers is for forgiveness, it is all important that we should understand the necessity of cultivating a forgiving disposition. Many do not comprehend this when they repeat the Lord's Prayer. When we ask God to forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors, we virtually, unless we have a forgiving disposition, implore our Father to withhold his forgiveness from us.

A converted unbeliever said that for awhile after he had acknowledged Christ, he felt that he could not conscientiously repeat this part of the Lord's Prayer. He prayed instead, "Forgive us our debts, as we should forgive our debtors;" for he said he had many debtors of various degrees—some that he thoroughly hated. He was unwilling to forgive them. He felt more like taking them by the throat, and saying, "Pay me that thou owest." But reflection soon convinced him that he must forgive them or abandon the prayer, as well as all attempt to lead a religious life. As he had resolved to become a follower of the meek and lowly Jesus, he determined that with the help of God he would forgive them. In pursuance of such resolution, he one night selected the chiefest of his enemies one that he thoroughly disliked despised, and made him the subject of his most earnest heart-felt prayers. The following night the next most objectionable debtor was as ardently prayed for, the first one also being remembered. the third night another debtor was so prayed for together with the first and second. By continuing this method he soon experienced the most gratifying result. He found that he was without any more material for such special prayers before he had gone through the list which he had prepared. A candid, critical examination of his heart convinced him that all feelings of resentment and unforgiveness toward all whom he had disliked had been removed.

"Forgive, and it shall be forgiven you, for with what measure ye mete withal, it shall be measured to you again."—B.

—In Religious Telescope.

Pastoral Visiting

Your minister, having sermons to prepare, the sick to visit, the dead to bury, committees to attend, and some little matters of his own and his family's to look after (for we do not hold up the celebacy of the clergy, nor pay ministers at such a rate that they can keep clerks and stewards to attend to correspondence and business details), finds it hard enough to make the calls upon you in your homes that he would like. When he arrives, litt up your hands and eyes in amazement, tell him that a sight of him is good for sore eyes, intimate that you were wondering if he had forgotten you altogether, and mildly hint that the Smiths were not left out in the cold as you were This will set him at his case, draw out his sympathies toward you, make his conversation free and genial, & lead up naturally to a simple flomely, friendly talk about the best things, and a prayer in which, for a moment, he is like the head of your house. O friend, if you only knew what load of anxiety ministers often carry, even when trying to be cheerfull, you would think of less discouraging greetings for them when they reach your houses. Sel.

Senator Roberts of Liberia, called here en route for Freetown about the 16th inst. Mr. Roberts was accompanied by his family and spent one night in this place, the guest of the Mendi Mission, and proceeded to Freetown on the 17th per s. s Mandingue.

A Good Reason.

It is said on one occasion a man met Dr. Tucker, of the Christian Index, on the street, and said:

"Doctor, can you prove to me that there is a God?"

"No, sir," replied the doctor.

"What!" continued the man, "you a Christian, a preacher, a scholar, and can't prove to me the existence of God!"

"No sir," said Dr. Tucker.

"Well, tell me why, doctor. You amaze me."

"I can't prove anything to a fool," responded the doctor, and the fellow went away. It was time to go.

Extract from "TIT BITS."

He: How did you enjoy the sermon? She: Oh! ever so much. I had on a new hat and jacket, and I sat just in front of that horrid Miss Briggs."

Mr. FAINTHEART.—Do you think that it would be safe for we approach your father on the subject.

Miss. Fairlady—"Oh, perfechly; he has the gout again."

A late book is entitled "Half Hour with Insects." What a lively half-hour one can have with a wasp!

Notice.

Messrs KINLOCH CAMPBELL & Co., has appointed MR. D. M. P. THORPE to act as their Sub-Agent in Sherbro, and all ORDERS given through him will have our immediate attention.

L. GRANT

For Kinloch Campbell & Co.

Public Notice.

THE PUBLIC are requested to take Notice that the LAND transferred to JOHN DOVE ROGERS by W. T. Douglas and Bana Lewis, is our real Property for which we have Grant from the Colonial Government.

All persons occupying or having buildings, on said lands, are requested three months from date to remove their buildings; or to come and make arrangement with the Agents in charge, as an action for trespass will be enforced against offenders intending to occupy without permission of the said Agts. in charge after the expiration of the time specified in this Notice. viz. March 27th 1888.

Pr Cie Francaise de L'Afrique Occidentale.
C.BARTHELME—Agent.
" C.M.S. Thro' Sa Leone Ch. Committee.
G.G.M.NICOL—Pastor.
For The Mendi Mission.
J.A.EVANS—Agent M.M.

Bonthe,
December 27th. '87.

NOTICE.

The Undersigned

begs to inform his FRIENDS CUSTOMERS, and the PUBLIC in general, that he is prepared to furnish at Short Notice, BOATS of all sizes, on hire per diem or per trip:

VIZ:—

SIX OARED GIG BOATS,
FOUR OARED GIG do.
TWO OARED DINGY,
with or without hands;

—ALSO—

Lighters,

from 4 to 18 TONS.

For further particulars apply to

J. B. PARKINSON,
Victoria Rd. Bonthe.

Jan31toApl30—3mo.

NOTICE

PRICES OF LUMBER AT THE AVERY MILLS.

Fair to Good Scantlings per thousand ft. £7. 10. 0.

Fair to good scantlings per 100 ft. 0. 15. 0.

Extra fine 20 feet to 21 feet scantlings 100 ft. 0. 18. 0.

Extra fine 20 feet to 21 feet scantlings 1,000 ft. £8. 10. 0.

Boat Boards fair to good pr. 100 feet. 0. 18. 0.

Transoms choice per ft. 3d

Keels do. do. 3d

2nd-Rate Boards per hundred feet 0. 12. 6.

2nd Rate Boards per 1,000 feet. £5. 5. 0.

2nd Rate Boards per ft 1½d.

1st Rate Boards per Thousand feet. £6. 5. 0.

1st Rate Boards per hundred feet 0. 15. 0.

1st rate Boards per ft. 2d.

3rd Rate Boards per Thousand ft., from £3, to £4.

3rd Rate Boards per hundred ft. from 6s. to 10s.

First Slabs per Hundred ft., from 3s. 4d. to 4s. 2d.

1st rate Slabs pr. foot. 1d.

Laths, Strips, Posts &c &c. at reasonable rates

Clean Coffee pr lb. 8d.

Coffee in parchment per lb. 6d.

Coffee seed per Bus. 6s.

Arrowroot per lb. 6d.

Avery Station, Manoh Bargroo, Feby 29th 1888.

J.A Clemens,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Bookseller, Stationary and Miscellaneous GOODS

ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET

N.B. Removed to upper Otto Street, opposite the burial ground

Bonthe, Sherbro.

HURRICANE LANTERNS,
AND EXTRA SHADES
ALWAYS ON HAND.

Please call and See them
AT THE
S. M. MISSION STORE.
Also Cube Sugar,
Black China Tea,
AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES
Medicines and Stationary.
GROUND COFFEE.
ALWAYS ON HAND

Bonthe, Sherbro
Nov 26th '87

THE ENERGY THAT SUCCEEDS.

The energy that wins success begins to develope very early in life. The characteristics of the boy will commonly prove those of the man, and the characteristics of young life should be encouraged and educated in the wisest possible manner. The following story strongly illustrates this truth.

About thirty years ago, said Judge P—, I stepped into a bookstore in Cincinnati in search of some books that I wanted. While there, a little ragged boy of twelve years of age came in and inquired for a geography.

"Plenty of them," was the salesman's reply

"How much do they cost?"

"One dollar, my lad."

"I did not know they were so much.

He turned to go out, and even opened the door, but closed it again, and came back.

"I've got 64 cents," said he, "could you let me have a geography, and wait a little while for the rest of the money?

How eager his little bright eyes looked for an answer, and how he seemed to shrink within his ragged clothes, when the man, not very kindly, told him he could not! The disappointed little fellow looked up at me with a very poor attempt to smile, and left the store. I followed and overtook him.

"And what now?" I asked.

"Try another place, sir."

"Shall I go, too, and see how you succeed?"

Four different stores I entered with him, and each time he was refused.

"Will you try again?" I asked

"Yes, sir: I shall try them all, or I should not know whether I could get one."

We entered the fifth store, and the little fellow walked up manfully and told the gentleman just what he wanted and how much he had.

"You want the book very much."

"Yes, very much."

"Why do you want it so very much?"

"To study sir. I can't go to school, but I study when I can at home. All the boys have got one and they will get ahead of me. Besides, my father was a sailor, and I want to learn of the places where he used to go."

"Well my lad, I will tell you what I will do; I will let you have a new geography, and you may pay me the remainder of the money when you can, or I will let you have one that is not quite new for fifty cents.

"Are the leaves all in it, and just like the other, only not new?"

"Yes just like the new one."

"It will do just as well, then, and I will have eleven cents left towards buying some other books. I am glad they did not let me have one at the other places."

Last year I went to Europe on one of the finest vessels that ever ploughed the waters of the Atlantic. We had very beautiful weather until very near the end of the voyage; then came a most terrible storm that would have sunk all on board had it not been for the captain. Every spar was laid low, the rudder was almost useless, and a great leak had shown itself, threatening to fill the ship. The crew were all strong, willing men and the mates were all practical seamen of the first class; but after pumping for one whole night, and the water still gaining upon them, they gave up in despair, and prepared to take to the boats, though they might have known that no small boat could live in such a sea.

The captain, who had been below with his chart, now came up. He saw how matters stood, and with a voice that I distinctly heard above the roar of the tempest, ordered every man to his post.

"I will land you safe at the dock in Liverpool," said he, "if you will be men."

He did land us safely; but the vessel sank moored to the dock. The captain stood on the deck of the sinking vessel, receiving the thanks and blessings of the passengers as they passed down the gang-plank. As I passed, he grasped my hand and said:

"Judge P—, do you recognize me?"

I told him I was not aware that I ever saw him, until I stepped aboard of his vessel.

"Do you remember that boy in Cincinnati?"

"Very well, sir; William Haverly."

"I am he," he said. "God bless you!"

"And God bless noble Captain Haverly."—Sel.

"Were you ever in an engagement?" inquired and innocent rustic of a militia man

"Yes," one replied the son of mars; "but she sued me for breach of promise."

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, APRIL 15, 1888. No. 7.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto. deliv'ed in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GOMER, Shaingay, West Africa, Rev. Wm. McKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Depty. Coroner,	Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk.	W. Hughes.
Asst. do.	S. W. Adams.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. K. B. Buckner.
Sub-Treas. & Col Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett. J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. S. Crown, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole
Asst. Examg. Officer Sailjsh.	Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon. R. C. S.	M. L. Jarrett, M
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts,
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road Pastor,	Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.
Wesleyan Methodist, Pastor,	Lime Street Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mendi Mission, Pastor.	(Congregational.) Good Hope Rev. G. N. Jowett.
Asst Do.	Rev R. C. Taylor

[Report of Avery Station, Mendi Mission, for the Quarter ending March 31st 1888.]

Mr. President,—The year 1887 has passed away with mingled feelings of joy on the one hand, and of sorrow on the other. It is cheering to know that a good and gracious work has crowned our weak efforts. We have had marks and signs of success, and the gospel is finding place into the hearts of many. The Lord has been blessing his work, and by the influence of the Holy Spirit there have been some conversions, and although a few have showed coldness, yet there are the precious few "whose faces are set to find the way to Zion's Hill."

At Mo-Tassoe, since the deer hunting on the Lord's Day which almost resulted fatally with Tarroe Bondoe, a man also received marks of Divine displeasure, having been wounded by his companion from a quarrel that arose between them whilst they were engaged in gambling; and the people are now led to see the necessity of keeping the Sabbath day holy. A good work has been done throughout the different circuits The Sabbath attendance has increased, and congregations regular. Our monthly prayer meeting have been productive of much good, and Believers strengthened. Bro. T. R. Avery was called to higher studies in the Rufus Clarke & wife Training School at Shaingay, and we wish him success. On the other hand, our work here had faced fresh discouragements, some of our members have shrunk back by listening to the enemy of souls and others have removed from the district to reside elsewhere; but in the midst of all there, is a "kindly light amid the encircling gloom"

Bendoomah Church building affair has also met with interruptions; but a new site has since been offered to us for building at mattro materials for which has been prepared independent of whatever help we may give towards its completion. We need much of the quickening of the Holy Spirit to aid us in this great work.

During the quarter, I have been privileged to visit some of the near Interior towns, and I am glad to say, that notwithstanding the distance to some of these places, yet when they were told of a living Saviour, who died for them, joy, and gladness beamed in their faces. I remembered the night previous to the day I left Kar-wahyah, I preached to 256 persons about the shortness of time, they all listened with marked attention; after preaching, I asked my interpreter to pray, which he did in the Mendi language, and when we rose up from our knees, they began to enquire as did the Philipian Jailor, "What must we do to be saved." There are many calls around us, the fields are white, ready for the harvest; it remains now for us to bow in humble supplication to the Lord that he may send forth laborers,-men who have the interest of, and the salvation of souls at heart, men who count not their lives dear unto them in the vineyard. As usual there are 19 seekers class consisting of 318 members; Communicant 18. Total 336.

Day School there is still a decrease in this department, but the children are improving in their their studies. The want of books we hope will be remedied soon. Number of attendance both sexes 38.

The Sabbath School is improving in interest, and attendance good. Teachers and Officers 3. Scholars 41. Total 44.

Missionary Cols.—£5. 14. 9
Preachers' Salary —1. 11. 9
Light Collections—0. 8. 1

Total—£7. 14. 7

S B. MORRISON.

FILLED WITH THE WORD OF GOD.

In our rush for human wisdom we are too apt to forget the wisdom which comes from the book of God. In the education of the young and the disciplining of their minds and the formation of their literary tastes we look for the best standards and the purest sources of refinement and culture. Either for wisdom or true culture the Bible is worth more than all classics and languages—more than all books that have ever been written. Forget it not.

Another tendency of the times is to depend upon our conceptions of the word of God and human interpretations of that blessed book. We should be thankful for the numerous and exceeding helpful commentaries in our homes, and Sunday-school lesson helps which put at ready command pious learning, criticism, and wisdom of those who have long diligently, and prayerfully studied the blessed volume. We do well to make wise use of these great lights upon the divine message to man. But we are not to place undue dependance upon these. The mind and heart must go to the bottom of the fountain of biblical learning, down to the word itself.

There are beautiful lectures and comments and explanations on the word of God which are so fine and extended and superior that when the reader and student and Sunday-school scholar or teacher has done with them they have been got entirely away from the word itself. It is not comment on the Bible that sticks to the soul, but the word itself.

If our Sunday-schools are to be criticised at all, as they are now conducted, it is in this, that they give to the youth comments upon the lessons from the word of God too much without giving the very word. John Ruskin, in the preface to his autobiography, says: "My mother's influence in molding my character was conspicuous. She forced me to learn daily long chapters of the Bible by heart. To that discipline and patient, accurate resolve I owe not only much of my general power of taking pains, but the best part of my taste for literature."

We want our children not only to read, but memorise the Bible. David hid the law of God in his heart. The world, the flesh, and the devil are all powerless with that one whose mind has been filled with the word of God. The reason why so many who profess Christ fall away is that their experiences are not built upon the word of God, which abideth forever.— Telescope.

The true motive of our actions, like the real pipes of an organ, are often concealed; while the gilded and hollow pretext is pompously placed in front of the show.

Ah, if you knew what peace there is in an accepted sorrow.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

APRIL 15, 1888.

AMERICAN LIBERTY

Is severely criticised by the Revd. J. A. Cole, in an article published in the "Methodist Herald" of Sra Leone (Feb 8th 88) and we had determined not to say anything on the subject but since so many ask of our opinion as to the correctness of Mr. Cole's statements in that letter, and American citizens here and elsewhere abroad seem pained at the way that their country's liberty is assailed by one who has so recently received such appreciation and respect from its citizens as to enable him to return from its shores with more than £2000. 0. 0 as the gift of Americans to aid Africans. Really to us the whole article seems very much out of place and to some extent inconsistent in its own wording it purports to speak of American Liberty as being a farce but it surely admits of the fact of a free white population who dominate over another less favored population in certain localities in the south more particularly where he says the Kuklux &c. carried on by the white men of the south have killed over fifty thousand negroes and are bent on the distruction of the whole, and yet the facts are that in this very same locality the negroe population has increased more than three millions since the war or in the past 23 years and while Mr Cole tells us that the laws of the United States are a dead letter so far as negroe liberty is concerned he does not cite a single instance of meeting a slave on the free soil of America, and he himself had the liberty of travelling over the country; if he was at times denied the privilege of eating with white men. That some white Americans object to social equality of the races and and that there exists much proscription on account of color in various localities of the United States and further that at times some inconvenience is experienced by men of color in travelling is quite true. But that America does not actually give freedom to all men irrespective of color, (unless we except the Chinese) is not true and that while the negroes do suffer in their social and political rights somewhat for the present, in the southern states, it is also true that they are rapidly increasing in numbers, intelligence, and wealth, and that the day is not far distant when they will shake off the last social and political shackle as those of the most inhuman bondage were broken off, less than 25 years ago, as for eating the crumbs from a white man's table on a steam boat, no respectable servant, we will venture to say was ever asked to do that, the outrage of a colored woman being shot dead in a southern court by a white prisoner seems rather quixotic to be true. To be brief, the writer who has traveled in the states, north and south, can assure any native African of respectable standing, who can take with him such recommendations as any other man would need to insure the American public against imposition, and will behave himself as a gentleman that he can go to America and enjoy life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness.

DANVILLE STATION.

Communion Services on Easter Sunday, at the above named Station were conducted by the Presiding Elder of the M. M. District, assisted by the Pastor of the Station, Revd. W. S. Mcauley; and notwithstanding the somewhat threatening weather, there was a good gathering of the people of the locality, and rather more than the usual proportion of them partook of the Sacrement of the Lord's Supper;and more than all there was a grand spiritual interest manifested on the occasion The after noon services in the town of Gbangbiah were also good and interesting and altho. the attendance was slightly hindered by the falling rain, yet there was a goodly number present and the children sang as sweetly as ever.

Extract from Report 1879.

Editor of the "Early Dawn."

In my report to Board May 1879, at its Annual meeting held in Westerville Ohio, I read the following resolution, the same being based on remarks found in the report, but to get a note of the Board direct on this item it was referred to Committee, and by it reported back to the Board, for its approval and was by the Board, adopted without a dissenting voice.

"Resolved that the unjust discrimination, becoming so general in this country against Negroes, Indians, Chinese, and all who have mixed blood, is criminal before God, and a shame to our christian civilization. The Chinese because they work for fair wages, and do not patronize venders of intoxicating drinks, the Indians because they have forcibly been deprived of their lands, and on account of being shame fully cheated, and outraged, do at times resent wrongs; and the Africans because they were forcibly reduced to chattels, and regained their God given rights, are despised, misused and cruelly wronged. We are nevertheless under the same obligations to them as to others they being in the image of God: and Christ died for them, and hence they have claims upon our sympathy, benevolence, and efforts for their civilization, and salvation."

D. K. FLICKINGER.

[Extract from Report of 1881]

Editor "Early Dawn."

In my report to the Board of Missions in May 1881, I said could our people see what has been done in Germany and Africa and have definite knowledge of the needs of our Missions in these countries they would double their contributions." I also gave the following explanation of how it was. "Honest people are perplexed with the question. Why is it that the greater the success upon missions The more pressing the demands for increased help, as a rule The answer is that one successful mission opened the way for another and a second such, makes a demand for a third, It will necessarily be so until the whole world is enlightened." The report also shows that many people who are intelligent upon most other subjects are deplorably ignorant upon missions. That ministers ought to have books on mission work, and that colleges and Sunday-schools, ought to have good libraries."

How few, people in christian lands realize how much Missionaries have to do of a purely secular character, in heathen lands, to carry forward missions. Houses have to be built for Missionaries to live in, presch and teach school in, the people have to be taught from line to precept for many things relating to building houses, cooking, clothing, and other things, relating to secular affairs. As a matter of course the moulding of mind, and heart is the all important work To get men to look to Christ for salvation and by faith cast their burdens upon Him, forsaking all that God's word prohibits, and repenting sincerely for past sins, is the end sought.

This same report shows why missionaries are needed in Germany. The German Empire, divided into 26 States and 11 Provinces, with a population of about 50,000,000, on a territory no larger than the State of Texas, and a standing army of, from four to five hundred thousand soldiers, and with many civil as well as military officers to support, is a very taxed country. But they have a large ecclesiastical force to support also. Their churches are built by taxation, and the Pastors and helpers are all paid in the same way. But not a few of the villages are from three to five miles from towns having churches. Many of the poor people work 12 hours a day all week, and are too tired on Sunday to walk so far. The fact that they have to work so hard to pay their heavy taxes for church, as well as other purposes, disgusts them with all, and the result is most of Germans never go to the State church.

D. K. FLICKINGER.

Passion Week at St Matthew's.

Mr. Editor,—I was fortunate to be present at Bonthe during Passion week and to attend the St Matthew's Church from Monday the 26th to Good Friday March 30th.

I must really confess that I was much pleased with the discourses delivered from the pulpit by the pastor Rev. G. G. M. Nicol A. K.

In order to show the attention I paid to the discourses delivered I herewith subjoin the texts selected for the occasions as follows:—On Tuesday Mar. 27, Matt. xv. 29-32. Wed. 28. Luke xxii. 31 32. Thurs. 29. Matt. xxiii 30. Good Friday John xix 30, and in the evening of the same day by Mr Catechist Pasha, Matt. xxvii 57-60. During these services I was seriously impressed, as the worthy pastor warned the congregation against imbibing a feeling of hatred and revenge towards their fellowmen and that they are not to recompense evil for evil but to be possessed with a patient and humble spirit as our Lord.

He also spoke against parents indulging their children by allowing them to have their own ways and to encourage them even in their faults—1 Sam. ii 12, -17. & iii 11-14.

When he called attention to the sufferings of our Lord, how he was ill-treated by the Jews &c., the whole church which was composed of members of every denomination (Methodist and U.B.C.) were prickled in their hearts, and to make the services a solemn one, the pastor delivered his discourse in a plain, practical manner, and with such earnestness that the hearts of Cain and Judas would have been melted had they been present.

The denial of Peter was also considered. The pastor pointed out that there are many Peters in the world now-a-days who embrace religion with a firm grasp at the beginning but who when adversity afforts them they would shrink from following the Lord Jesus. He said also that we should follow the example of our Lord by reproving our friends and neighbours with love for we are apt to sport of our neighbours' fault to a friend or the streets rather than calling them aside and reprove them. In thinking seriously over the discourses delivered I must conscientiously side with the preacher for he has been here long enough to know the character and disposition of the people, for at the present moment there are still many who are still at variance with each other and who are bent upon revenge, and there are also many slanderers who go about speaking evil of each other to defame their character without any cause whatever, (this is the prevailing sin in Sherbro) and there are other classes who exercise their powers to crush the powerless. The pastor delivered a practical discourse on Sunday evening the 25th to a full congregation selected from Rev. ii. 4, "Those who were present in that meeting are better judges of the force and effects of the words—"Nevertheless, I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast forsaken thy first love." I hope the lessons learnt from the pulpit of St. Matthew's Church during Passion week will tend to stamp out these evils from our midst.

Yours,—A VISITOR.

Bonthe,
April 7, '88.

Swamped at Mando Bay on the night of the 31st March one four cared boat with four men and produce; the property of F. W. Cole; three men saved, but one lost: and the boat is not yet found.

Personal

Mr. J. B. Nicol Catechist of the P. E. Church Mocolo gave us a pleasant call on the 11th inst reports his work as progressing.

Mrs P. Dillett who arrived here from Sluningay on the 10th and returned on the 11th reports Mrs Chief Néal as fully recovered from her late severe illness And all as quiet that way now.

Rev D. K. Flickinger D. D from our last advices, will most likely sail for America on or about the 28th of this month; which will be directly after his return to England from Germany.

Anniversary of the Native Pastorate, and Church Missions Sherbro.

On Sunday the 8th inst, two sermons were preached at St. Matthew's Church by Mr. W. D Pasha, the catechist.

He selected for his text in the morning from 1 Cor. ix. 14—"Even so hath the Lord ordained that they which preach the gospel should live by the gospel."

The learned gentleman in his usual way of delivery divided his discourse into two parts 1. The office of Christ's ministers." 2. "Their reward and wages."

He pointed to the congregation that the constitution of the church demands that all her members contribute towards the support and maintenance of the church, and that civilized nations depend upon the industry of the people to maintain the Government,tithes were paid as a national constitution, and that those who gave willingly of what they possessed were greatly benefited and that those who gave less or nothing at all robbed God of what belongs to him. He said that ministers of the gospel are to preach and admonish faithfully. He also pointed out that the Native Pastorate is a negro Church and that it is our bound en duty to support its ministers who minister unto us spiritual things.

In the evening of the same day he selected his text from Mark xii 41-42.

On Monday the 9th inst., the public meeting in connection with the above institution took place at 7 p. m. The meeting was opened by the pastor Rev. G.G.M.Nicol, who gave out the 106 Hymn, after which prayer was offered. The pastor having made some appropriate remarks introduced Mr. C. B. Collier as the chairman of the meeting. On the platform were Revds G.G.M.Nicol, J. C. Thomas, (Wesleyan Minister) Messrs S. B. A. Macfoy, H. R. Williams, D. L. Collier, D.M.P.Thorpe and Catechist Pasha.

The Report was read by the pastor and the financial report by the catechist.

The pastor expressed his regret at the illness of Rev. Boston of Free town who was deputed to preach the Anniversary sermons.

He remarked that on his return from Batbeni Gambia, he found the church in a proper working order and there was peace among the members. The financial report was very encouraging which shows that the amount collected during the year for various objects amounted to £252 5. 7½ of which Victoria the smallest, and most insignificant of all the outstations (Bendoo and York Island) contributed £18. 9. 10. Mr. Pasha has been vigorously engaged with the females to establish a small shed at a village called Domborkah about a mile from Bonthe, for holding meeting on Sabbaths afternoon. The work is progressing favourably.

Reports on the following are satisfactory.

Female class (Fridays and Tuesdays) attended satisfactorily.

School progresses under the care and assidnity of Messrs C.S.Brown jnr Teacher, and Horatio C. Jenkins his assistant, as evidenced from the result of the public examination held in December last. Attendance at Church 160, encouraging. Church Building monies collected £350. Bendoo Church baptised, 11., 2 confirmed—York Island 10 Marriage.1 confirmed. Victoria, baptism 7

The Pastor mentioned two striking acts of liberality in the gift of S. B. A. Macfoy Esq. of £150 towards Church Building, and of Messrs Thompson Brothers of £25. toward N.P. and S.C. Missions

Mr. Macfoy was the first speaker who on rising said that he was quite satisfied with the reports read and although he is satisfied, yet he believes that much more could be done to increase the amount to £500, if those who are disposed would give as God has blessed them. He said that some of the people who are present in the meeting have come out of Egypt and and that much praise is due to our worthy pastor in being the means of bringing them from Egypt and are now enjoying christian privileges—

He said that there are those who called themselves christians, but who are willing to spend large amount to a fetish man, to assist them to make big trade &c. on Mr Macfoy remming his sent the Rev J. C Thomas (Wesleyan minister)was next called.

On rising he said that he was a Wesleyan minister and although a staunch methodist yet he loved The Native Pastorate Association collapse it will not be the fault of the Sherbro people, but he knows of a certainty that it will never collapse. He said that he is as a lion here in the more attention is paid to the N. P. than to the Church Mission he urged that both institutions should have the same general sympathy and he hoped for the time when the salaries of pastorate ministers will be increased and there will be means sufficient to engage agents to carry the gospel to the Boom, Kittam, and Gallinas countries.

He said the reason why less sympathy is manifested toward the Church Mission is that people often feel discouraged when they labour labours for many years among the natives without any permanent results, but that we seem to forget that Paul may plant and Apollos water but it is God that giveth the increase so it is with ministers of the gospel all we have to do is to show our fidenlity by supporting peculiarly the carrying forth of the gospel to our benighted brethren. He would be glad to be stationed in the rivers in order that he might make known to the heathens, the unsearchable riches of Christ

Messrs S. B. Williams, D. L. Collier, and D. M. P. Thorpe and Pasha next addressed the meeting in choice and appropriate words. Next followed the vote of thanks to the chair and spoken by Mr. Pasha, which was responded to by the Chair.

The pastor expressed his regret at the thinness of the congregation and attributed the same to want of interest in the work and the people are not to be relied upon he said that we are in a troublous time and he asked whether we are supporting the Church upon Principle or upon Charity, that we are fail to see the professional services of a [illegible] whether he heals or not [illegible] we must help up to not so [illegible] the services of the minister who preaches to us, and the Church is to be supported upon intelligent principles.

After the pastor had taken his seat the Chairman made some observations and the meeting came to a close at 9. 15 p. m.

Election of officers for St. Matthew's Church for 1888. Elected Easter monday April 2 88.

Committee Members.

W. Hughes
C. B. Collier
H. R. Williams
R. T. Collier
Dr. M. L. Jarrett
S. B. A. Macfoy
M. Z. Macauley
W. B. Coker
D. L. Collier
J. B. Parkinson
J. N. Crown
T. E. Macfoy

Pastor's Warden—J. N. Crown
People—H. R. Williams
Treas.—A. Parkinson
Sec.—J. D. Macauley
Asst.—D. L. Collier
Sidesmen—W. A. John & E. W. Parkinson
Pew Rent Collector—W. Hughes

MY VIEW OF SHERBRO.

Sherbro is passing through a memorable period of severe and prolonged depression of trade unprecedented in her history resulting from the state of ferment into which she has been thrown It is a fact patent, that, when rulers undertake the task of grappling with na tive difficulties, with a very inadequate idea of what the result would be, owing to their wanting in Colonial experience and when they are sent to fight with their hands tied before or behind them, their accrued blunders must involve the country in prolonged disgust, and occasioned much suffering. But account for this depression as we may or attribute it to the mistakes or indiscretion of our interested (?) rulers, the job has been jobbed: the grave reality is before our eyes, and has been urgently pressing upon our attention. To brood over it is fruitless. Something must be done. To correct the mistakes of the past throughout their various ramifications, which implies an outlay, is the only alternative,

Let me crave indulgence in ventaring to state that a "move in the right direction" has been set on foot, and the public await with no ordinary anxiety to realize the result of the meeting of Merchants and traders held at Yelbana some three weeks ago. The unity that has called the merchants and traders to unite for the good of the country, we trust may not become a "rope of sand." No country can rise, so long as want of unity for its good is allowed to fester in the bosom of its principle inhabitants. Such an element of misery and mischief pent up in our midst is incompatible with the general interests of Sherbro. Seemingly this, evil element is being grappled with, and will ere long be arrested: otherwise there must be an explosion that will shatter the strongest structure that human laws and institutions can pile together.

It is known beyond the boundaries of Sherbro (Govt officials excepted) that the Col Hospital here has only one ward in which male and female patients are huddled up. Well, a thin cotton screen will serve to separate them. Who is to blame but ourselves!

The prosperity of Tom provokes the envy of Dick and to bring Tom to adversity, Dick would be scheming for months or years, and as soon as he can find his way, his counterplot will be consummated.

Such an appalling state of things is indicative of something wrong in the constitution of society here, and it is a malignant ulcer eating into the very vitals of our Christianity.

Bonthe,
April 10, 1888.

MY VIEW OF MISSIONARY PROCEEDINGS

Dear Editor,—Will you or any of your readers conscientiously say whether it is necessary or unnecessary that I should bring the following manner of proceedings before the public or not.

It surprises me much to see the frequent visits of the clergy and catechists to the Sulymah district for the purpose of collecting for the cause of Missions; and they are usually successful in getting something to assist in the cause of Missions. But when the people of the district make an appeal for a place of worship or a school for the teaching of heathen children or that their needs should be forwarded to the committee by the clergy, little or no notice is taken of their requests. And yet no scruple whatever is made of gathering what little they can from the people, showing thereby that they have no other interest in the people of the district than to get what money they can and care not for their souls. And although the command of the Holy Scriptures is "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature" yet our ministers now a days are not preaching the gospel to every creature, but to some creatures, which, if I may be allowed to say so, seems rather awkward. And I hope that hereafter ministers and others may not only be making trips into this Sulymah district, for money to help the fund but also to preach the gospel and establish a work among the people, and try to set up a memorial building in this part of the field for the winning of souls to Christ, and the training of children from the land, for the more they extend the more they fulfil the great command. Thanking you Mr. Editor in advance for the space this will occupy in your valuable journal.

Lavanah, I am, yours truly,
April 1st 1888. A SPECTATOR.

Election Meeting.

Bonthe Mutual Literary Club.

The Semi-annual election of officers for the above Club took place at the residence of Mr. D. M. P. Thorpe on Wednesday the 4th April at 7 p. m.

Patron—The Commandant of Sherbro
Vice do—Rev G. G. M. Nicol B. A.
Do. do.—S. B. A. Macfoy Esqr.
Do. do.—Dr. M. L. Jarrett M. R. C. S.
President—C. W. Bertis Esqr.
Vice do.—W. B. Coker
Treasurer—J. D. Macauley "
Hon. Sec.—D. M. P. Thorpe "
Asst. do.—W. Eldred Coker " Corresp do.—J. Brighton Turner "

HONORARY MEMBERS

W. Hughes Esquire
H. R. Williams "
T. E. Macfoy "
C. J. Cole "
J. B. Parkinson
D. L. Collier "
J. Bunting Wright J. P
J. A. Williams

Published by request of the Club

RIDWELL COKER
Asst Secretary

Club Room
April 11 1888

Notice.

Messrs KINLOCH CAMPBELL & Co., has appointed Mr. D. M. P. Thorpe to act as their Sub-Agent in Sherbro, and all ORDERS given through him will have our immediate attention.

L. GRANT
For Kinloch Campbell & Co.

NOTICE.

The Undersigned begs to acquaint his FRIENDS and numerous CUSTOMERS and the Public in general that he has now in his STORE, lately arrived from Europe FANCY & TRADE GOODS suitable for the SEASON.

VIZ–

Ladies' patent & Kid Boots Gents Kid & Balmoral Boots & Shoes. Ladies' Velvets, Felt & Straw Hats richly trimmed.—Ladies' gloves, elastic garters, stockings, self-col'rd and striped.—Ladies' corsets of various sizes to fit any one.—Gent's self-colored and striped half hose.—Gents' Lamb wool Shirts,—

Boys & Girls

Boots and Lace Shoes with socks and stockings to match Finest Linen & Cambric Pocket hdkfs pressed in box. White cotton Damask Table Covers.—Fine silk and Elastic Gents' Imperial Braces.—Ladies' Parasols with deep lace fringe—Velvet-Gowns and Caps.—Velveteen in pieces.—Cashmere Cloth of the best quality by the piece.—Union shirts,—Fancy Cloths for Ladies—Cloths for Gents' Suits—Besides Hardware and lo of other goods, too numerous to mention.

Come and see.

J. B. PARKINSON

Victoria Road,
Bonthe Sherbro.
Dec. 15th 1887.

J.A Clemens.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Bookseller, Stationary and Miscellaneous GOODS

ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET

N.B. Removed to upper Otto Street, opposite the burial ground

Bonthe, Sherbro.

Public Notice.

THE PUBLIC are requested to take Notice that the LAND transferred to JOHN DOVE ROGERS by W. T. Douglas and Bana Lewis, is our real Property for which we have Grant from the Colonial Government.

All persons occupying or having buildings, on said lands, are requested three months from date to remove their buildings; or to come and make arrangement with the Agents in charge, as an action for trespass will be enforced against offenders intending to occupy without permission of the said Agts. in charge after the expiration of the time specified in this Notice. viz. March 27th 1888.

Pr. Cie Francaise de L'Afrique Occidentale.
C.BARTHELME—Agent.

C.M.S. Thro' Sa.Leone Ch. Committee.
G.G.M.NICOL—Pastor.

For The Mendi Mission.
J.A.EVANS—Agent M.M.

Bonthe,
December 27th. '87.

HURRICANE LANTERNS,
AND EXTRA SHADES
ALWAYS ON HAND.
Please call and See them
AT THE
S. M. MISSION STORE.
Also Cube Sugar,
Black China Tea,
AMERICAN AND ENGLISH BIBLES
Medicines and Stationary.
GROUND COFFEE.
ALWAYS ON HAND.

Bonthe, Sherbro
Nov. 30th '87

NOTICE.

The Undersigned

begs to inform his FRIENDS CUSTOMERS, and the PUBLIC in general, that he is prepared to furnish at Short Notice, BOATS of all sizes, on hire per diem or per trip:

VIZ:—

SIX OARED GIG BOATS,
FOUR OARED GIG do.
TWO OARED DINGY,
with or without hands;

–ALSO–

Lighters,

from 4 to 13 TONS.

For further particulars apply to

J. B. PARKINSON,
Victoria Rd. Bonthe.

Jan18to Apl30 3ms.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—There are no signs of improvement. Prices in transit:

Lagos			£19	10	0	to	19	12	6.
Old Calarbar, Bonny and Cameroon.			18	5	0	to	18	7	6.
Benin			17	15	0	to	17	17	6.
Accra, Addah, Quittah, Pram Pram, Popo, Daxe, Ahgwev & Loanda.			17	12	6	to	17	15	0.
Brass, Niger & New Calabar.			17	7	6	to	17	10	0.
Half Jack, Grand Bassa & Laho			17	5	0	to	17	15	0.
Congo, Sierra Leone, Sherbro & Rio Pongo.			16	15	0	to	17	0	0.
Saltpond, Appam, Winnebah, Chama, & Anamaboe			16	0	0	to	16	5	0.
Dixcove, Secondee, Assinee, Elmina, & Liberia.			15	15	0	to	16	0	0.

PALM KERNELS—Easier. Sales at following prices; basis 5 per cent shell "transit"

Lagos, Old and New Calabar, Bonny & Abbonema.			£10	5	0	to	10	6	3.
Brass and Cameroons			10	2	6
Benin & Congo			10	0	0
Liberian			9	12	6	to	9	15	0.
Sierra Leone & Sherbro			9	10	0	to	9	12	6.
Addah, Quittah, Cape Coast Yeschi, & Grand Bassam.			8	0	0	to	9	10	0.
Saltpond, Winnebah, Appam, Accra & Elmina.			8	5	0	to	9	0	0.

GROUND NUTS—No sales.
COPRA—Sales, £13 to £13 10s. per ton.
BENNISEED.—41s. to 46s. per 384 lbs.
COFFEE—Slow of sale. Bold berry 51s. to 52s. Monrovia, 53s. to 57s
COCOA—40s. to 60s. per cwt as in quality.
INDIA RUBBER—Prices are rather easier.

Gambia Niggers, fair to prime	1s. 11d	to	2s.	1d.
Sierra Leone do. do.	1s. 8½d	to	1s	9½d
Thimbles	1s.		8d.	to 1s. 9d
Gongo and Gaboon Ball	1s		3d.	to 1s. 7d
Soft and Flaky Ball	0s.		9d.	to 0s. 11d
Hard Cape Coast & Assinie	1s.		3d.	to 1s. 6d.
Liberian	1s.		2d.	to 1s. 4d.
Saltpond	0d		9d.	to 1s. 0d.
Accra Pressed and Dried	0s.		9d.	to 1s. 1d.
Do. Ordinary.	0s.		8d.	to 0s. 8½d
—Flake and Lumps	0s.		8d.	to 0s. 8½d.

GUM COPAL—Accra 36s. No change in price of Sa. Leone.
BEESWAX—Unchanged.
GUINEA GRAINS—In good demand at 22s. to 23s. per cwt.
GINGER—Very little enquiry, 16s. to 19s. per cwt.
CALABAR BEANS—7d. to 8d. per lb.
CAMWOOD—Sales of Sherbro £9. 10s. to £10. Liberian, £10. to £15. as in quality.
EBONY } —No arrivals, and no change in values.
BARWOOD }
CHILLIES—19s. to 31s. per cwt.
KOLA NUTS—No change in value.
COTTON—Quiet.
MONKEY SKINS—In improved demand at 30 to 40 per ct. higher prices than last sales. Todays prices:—

Selected	4s. 7d. to 6s. 7d.	each.
1sts and 2nds	2s. to 5s. 9d	do.
2nds and 3rds	1s. 2d. to 1s. 6d.	do.
Good mixed lots	2s.6d. to 4s. 8d.	do.
Fair do.	1s. 8d. to 2s. 6d.	do.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool,
March 16th 1888.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, APRIL 30, 1888. No. 8

The "Early Dawn."
Published Semi-Monthly, At
BONTHE, SHERBRO.
Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the
U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto, Deliv'ed in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GOSLER, Shenango, West Africa. Rev. WM. MCKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Depty. Coroner,	Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk.	W. Hughes.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. S. Beckner.
2nd Transt. & Col Chief Clerk	C. H. Garrett J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. H. Crown. J. B. Turner. & S. G. Cole
Asst. Examg. Officer Sulijah.	Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts,
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett.
Asst Do. Rev R. C. Taylor

In proportion as selfishness can be removed from our hearts in that proportion will the spread of Gospel truth be increased. There are many good workers in the church idle today because they are too selfish to take hold of the work, and others do nothing because of the selfishness of their associates with whom they are obliged to work. On either side the devil is pretty much control and manages to put in effectual stokes against the advancement of christianity. —Sel.

Colonial Secretariat,
Freetown, Sierra Leone,
April 14, 1888.

Sir,—I have the honor by direction of His Excellency the Governor to forward to you the accompanying copies of correspondence respecting the proposed establishment of a Department for Commercial and Industrial Intelligence in connection with the Imperial Institute, and to say, that His Excellency will feel obliged if you will kindly publish the same in the "Early Dawn" for the information of the public.

I have the honor to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient. Servant,
J. J. CROOKS.
Acting Col. Secty. & Treasurer.

[Circular]

Downing Street,
March 1st 1888.

Sir,—I have the honor to transmit to you a copy of a letter from His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, from which you will learn that steps are being taken for establishing, as a Branch of the Imperial Institute, a Department for Commercial and Industrial Intelligence.

The Prince's letter explains in detail the nature of the information which it is desired to collect, and I have no doubt that your Government will readily give its best assistance towards the attainment of the important objects which His Royal Highness has in view, so that the Imperial Institute may, at as early a date as possible be fully provided with such publications and statistics as may worthily illustrate the condition and progress of the colony under your Government. It will be observed that the Books and Documents should be transmitted to the Organising Secretary of the Imperial Institute.

I have, &c.,
(Sgd) KNUTSFORD.

The Officer Administering the Govt. of the West Africa Settlement, &c., &c.

True Copy
E. FAULKNER.
Chief Clerk Col. Sect.
14. 4. '88.

[Copy]

H. R. H. The PRINCE OF WALES

TO THE COLONIAL OFFICE.

Imperial Institute,
8, Adam Street, Adelphi,
London, W.C.
January 30th 1888.

Sir,—The Organising Commitee of the Imperial Institute is occupying itself, at my suggestion, with the consideration and execution of the measures necessary for establishing one of the most important branches of that Institute, namely a Department for Commercial and Industrial Intelligence, which will also deal with the collection and distribution of information relating to emigration and colonization, and to technical education. One of the first steps which it is necessary to take in organising this Department is to secure the regular and expeditious supply of official and other publications and documents relating to Commerce, Agriculture, Political economy, the natural history and resources of the Colonies, of statistical returns, enactments and Official notifications by Colonial Governments, &c., with a view to the development of a comprehensive reference library, already in course of formation, and to the preparation of precis and statistical information for speedy distribution among public bodies, societies and institutions in the Empire which are connected with Commerce, trades, and industries, and with technical education.

I entertain the hope that in view of the importance which attaches to a speedy and effective development of this branch of Institute, you will feel disposed to move the Governments of the several Colonies to afford their valuable aid by authorising the steps necessary for speedily carrying into effect arrangements for collecting and transmitting to the organising Secretary of the Institute such works and Documents of the nature indicated as can be spared which have already been issued or published, and for their future regular supply to the Library of the Institute.

I may add that I share, with the Organising Committee, the expectation that when the intelligence Department is fairly at work, its operations will prove to be of direct value to the Colonial Governments, who, by their prompt and active co operation in the direction indicated, will have important facilitated its establishment and development.

I have, &c.,
(Sgd) ALBERT EDWARD.

The Secty of State for the Colonies.

True copy.
E. FAULKNER.
Chief Clerk Col. Sect.

HINTS FOR THE YOUNG.

Every child that treads the earth, is a creature of very great importance. His future destiny, though in the hands of divine Providence is largely shaped by himself. He is an object of public gaze. The natural curiosity to be eagerly aspired to the eye of every one, to read the inner man or feature woman is the child. And while you extend the street purchases with pain or unrest, be assured that thousands of interested eyes are scanning you, trying to read your future from the present. The transition from youth to manhood or womanhood may be estimated to the life of one who has been passing through a large and brilliantly lighted hall strewn with beautiful flowers and where sweet melodies and merry and innocent voices are heard. Two windows are erected to shut out the light of heaven. It starts from one end of the hall pressing forward to gain the other end. His first year of life is his starting point and the last year of his term is his exit point. He has no idea of the outside world to which he is hastening, till at last the great door is partially opened, he passes out and it is suddenly closed after him forever. So soon the light of the sun breaks upon the vivid mind in the inner chamber. There are presented rays of different shapes and views, who eagerly seek the friendship of the stranger. Each has a recommendation of the one route. "Follow me and I will conduct you to my master the Captain and giver of life" our road will be through a strait and narrow way, but it will bring you to the land of peace. My master is Jesus who died for you and me and is constantly waiting to receive us. We plead to you earnestly and sincerely that the poor stranger children should like to see this Jesus and enter the field of peace.

Southern papers, evidently favorable to the Jackson regime, publish the following as a specimen of the sermons delivered by the colored preachers: "Follow me and I will conduct you to pay your debts with." Others there will enjoy yourself." There is nothing that you can think of but will be readily granted by you. You will be attended with plenty, for they call my master "The God of this world. He has all accounts of sins for each and every one who stops to listen to what I have to say, and he will be too glad to receive you. Our road will inevitably be through a barren way which leadeth to death I cannot stop to describe to you but when we have fairly pursued our course, and before we reach the end of our journey you will surely see the great city board which fully describes the name of the city. He is an owner to his pleadings. The poor stranger is bewildered. He halts (as the fact will) and though the first friend plead intensely and earnestly with him, he goes on to meet the acquaintance of the gay.

T.

CHINESE AT BREAKFAST.

Yau Phon Lee writes for With Awake a very interesting article descriptive of Chinese methods of cooking, the manner in which food is served, and of what is usually consumed. Writing of a Chinese breakfast, he says:

Soup is taken first; then each person, holding the chop sticks in the right hand and a bowl of rice in the left, lifts his head to his mouth, pushes the lumps in with sticks, alternating this motion with picking meat, fish, or vegetables with his fingers, from the dishes which are common to all.

One must take only from that side of the plate which is nearest to him, however. It is a breach of etiquette to reach over to the opposite side. When one finishes he bids the rest to "eat leisurely," which is our mode of saying "excuse me!" The Chinese invariably wash their hands and faces after every meal. Tea is drank about the same time. It is taken without milk or sugar. Coffee is not common in China, and we are not accustomed to drink cold water. Tea is the national beverage, and is taken to assuage thirst at all times and occasions, as water is in America. At noon a lunch of cakes or pastry may be served. The majority of people are satisfied with two meals a day. Supper or dinner is served at five o'clock.

The merchant who disposes of his goods below cost price may be known as a sub-seller.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

APRIL 30, 1888.

The Social Glass

Harmless, as it may appear, to those reared up from youth among persons of position and character who have always made free use of wines on their Tables and in their Parlors for sickness and health. We say harmless as the custom of social drinking may appear it is nevertheless an unsafe practice from many considerations. 1. it possesses the same elements of destruction as the liquor druuk, in many if not all public houses, by this we mean to say that it has the same power to intoxicate, and may possess many of the foreign ingredients, that are to be found in the drinks of public houses, which are positively opposed to the health of the human system, at least so say many leading Medical men; as well as nearly all the makers of patent Medicines. 2. it certainly has the same tendency to produce a taste or liking to drink that the wine of the public house has and not a few cases are on record where the moderate drinker at the public house in time becomes the besotted drunkard. Nor are instances wanting where persons begining with the moderate use of the social glass become hopless inebriates, and in disgrace have at length filled a drunkards grave. 3 The influence of the social glass has a wider range in the family than that of the public House for while the father and brothers may only reach the public tumbler; the mother and sisters are exposed to the evils of the social goblet. Social drinking then is perhaps slower in its work, but it strikes at a larger number and is equally sure to bring them down if they follow the leadings of appetite.

The Upper Gbargroo contrasts very beautifully with the Lower Delta disceibed in our issue of 31st ult. As one ascends the Big Gbargroo river or any of its numerous tributaries, he almost abruptly enters the uplands consisting at first chiefly of smaller hills with sloping sides, in some cases gently rising from the banks of the river, but at other times ugly looking rocks frown down upon you, covering, as it were, that he might not live until her arrival, he dictated a last message to her, and from this we repeat the following :- "While I do not think I have any strength to spare, and, for your sake, dislike to give it to get well I will, therefore, have Brother Drury write down a few things. I hope to see you again, but may not. I want to thank you for a pure womanly love, for rich motherly interests, for your earnestness and zeal in Christian work, and home duties. Our fellowship in Christ has been very sweet ; and much that would have been otherwise, was made pleasant, because we both can truly say that we have loved the Lord Jesus Christ . . . I want to assure you of my readiness for any change that God may arrange. If I lack anything, it has not been revealed unto me. I am not going to a strange country, for Jesus, for whom I have preached for more than thirty five years, is one of the chief objects of that country to which I am going, and where I shall live. I know him and can trust him . . . If we meet again in this life, there are many things which I might mention to you. If we do not meet in this life, they will remain unspoken until we meet in heaven."

Dr. Warner lived to see his wife again but soon afterward sank into extreme weakness, so as to be unable to converse much. These words may be regarded as among the last spoken by him. They are fragrant with the breath of heaven, freighted with hope inexpressibly precious. Dr. Warner's life work was closed while he was yet in the full strength of natural manhood, being not quite fifty five years of age. To thousands of teachers and sisters, notably in West Virginia, where he lived and labored during the greater part of his life, his memory will long remain precious.—Bible Teacher,—Mar. '88.

The Royal Colonial Institute —Have our best thanks for their Annual Report recently received at this Office also for the Colonies and India regularly received. We are glad to note from the Annual Report of the Institute, that notwithstanding the unusual number of deaths of fellows last year, the association is prospering numerically and financial. During the year 291 resident and nonresident. Fellows had been elected and the total number of fellows according to report was 3,125 The receipts in cash for the past year were, more than eight thousand pounds besides numerous donations from various sources. Among which are files of 190 different papers from the publishers, 132 of this number are from the different Colonies and India. The Early Dawn is, unfortunately the only paper published on the West Coast of Africa that is on file in the Institute.

The Public School Examinations took place, in sherbro during last week, we learn ; they were conducted by the Sub-Inspector Mr. M. J. Marke who arrived here on the 24th per s. s. Formoso and we believe finished his rounds and returned by the same steamer on the 27th, we are however without any report of the result of the examinations; except it may be that, we insert a letter in this issue relating to the examination at the Wesleyan school of this place but so far as we can learn, the masters have been doing good work and as result satisfied with the Inspection, perhaps we should that the Mendi Mission school is not included among the schools Examined by the Government Inspector. But will he examined later by their own Supt. of schools.

REV. Z. WARNER, D.D.

Most of our readers have already learned of the death of the Rev. Dr. Warner, late general Missionary Secretary, and editor of The Missionary Visitor. He passed away in great peace, on the evening of January 24th, at Gibbon, Nebraska. Some words spoken by Dr. Warner, indicating the state of his mind, in view of the approaching end, were so sweet and assuring that we wish to present them here. When it became apparent that his life must soon ebb away, a dispatch was sent to this city, summoning his wife to come to his bedside. Fearing, however, that he might not live

---

MY VIEW OF SHERBRO.

It has become an established policy that, besides paying the officers and other engaged in the civil service here, the comparatively large revenue which Sherbro yields, must be transmitted to Freetown. This is a fact which at present, stares every right minded man in the face, if he can only think of the cause or causes of the deplorable state of the entire country.

A shilling spent on the repair of the public market, (so called), roads, and bridges at Bonthe, York Island, Moodo, and Bendoo, would be considered a waste of public money. There are many important gulfs to be filled up in Sierra Leone.

Captain Windham was fined 10s. and cost by the Court on the 19th instant, for making a fun ? with one of the boatmen of Mr. H. A. Macfoy of Yelbanna. by shooting that boatman with an Air Gun, as he was alongside the vessel waiting for Cargo. Knowing the Captain as he is known to be, it would be delightful to see him fun in that way with his mate or with his Engineer or any of his compeers on shore.

The Government, on a somewhat small scale, is encouraging Elementary Education in this District, as was seen by the arrival of the Sub-Inspector of Schools on the 31st instant to inspect the Schools, and report upon them to His Excellency the Governor and Board of Education in Freetown, as the Mendi Mission Schools excepted. It is to be hoped that fair results from the examination would be obtained. School accommodation, in my opinion, in the needy Colonies so far as the two Bonthe Schools are concerned. Competition between boys and girls will be out of the question here, so long as there is that disinclination on the part of some mothers to send their daughters to school regularly.

The atmosphere in these regions is not unpropitious to the moral development of the rising generation. When a parent may as account of a very little inconvenience order a child to tell egregious falsehood, as to say he is out at house when he is really at home ; when a master makes his servant become a partaker of his guilt, or when a servant must be used as an instrument, or a medium through which the perpetration of a vicious action must be effected, it would be useless to expect, under the countenance of such a baneful state of things, the improvement of the moral condition of the rising generation.

The 26th inst was a grand day at Bendoo when Mr. R. B. Wilson trader on the Bum River was joined in of Holy Matrimony to Miss Victoria Collier. I wish the happy pair long life and happiness.

Lots of concubinage and more of marriage proper would be a blessing to our community.

Bonthe 30. April '88

To Contibutors.—Articles for insertion in the issue of the 15th of the month must reach us as early as the 10th or 11th previous ; and those intended for the 30th must not be later than the 24th or 25th any received later may not get in.

Personal

Rev. J. C. Thomas returned from the rivers about the 16th inst, we believe he had been out on a collecting tour, preparatory to the coming Anniversaries of the Wesleyan Connexion.

Capt. J. H. Hemmingway of Lavanah, (Paima Trdg Com'y) arrived here on the 17th, gave us a pleasant call on the 18th, and left on the 20th per s. s. Formoso for Freetown ; he has since returned and proceeded to Lavanah on the 27th.

Mr. R. N. Smart also gave us a pleasant call on the 17th inst.

Mrs Bettie Caulker of Shaingay, arrived here with Mr. A. P. Doomahbey of the same place on the 18th instant.

Mr. H. Ryff, Agent of the French Company at Gbarmaby, who has been relieved to go home for a change, called on us on the 17th instant.

Chief Engineer J. Wright of s. s. Formoso gave us a look in on the 20th inst., just before going to sea. We were glad to see him.

Mrs T. E. Macfoy returned on the 23rd inst from her visit to Avery Station Manoh Gbargroo, she was accompanied by Miss A. N. Morrison in her return, but we regret to learn that she did not meet Mr. Macfoy quite so well.

Corpl. J. W Nicol gave us a pleasant call on the 24th inst. We had not seen his friendly face for some time past, he is looking fine as usual.

Mr. John H. Lewis, of Lavanah gave us a call on the 25th inst he has lately come out, we believe, in the latter part of Dec. last, seems to be weathering the climate well.

Mr. H. Tubertington of Manoh Factory, we regret to note has not been well for some weeks past, we trust however before this reaches our readers that he may be much better.

Rev. G.G.M. Nicol B.A., Pastor of St. Luke's Parish, Sherbro, has for sometime been suffering from rheumatism, but we believe is now recovering.

TIMBER OR LUMBER.

Sometime ago I wrote (Issue of Mar. 31st '88) an article on the Timber trade in the course of which I explained that our trade of late is rather a lumber than a Timber trade, because we give attention, or rather attempt to, to the manufacture of woods into staff for use, I also further stated that such manufacture and trade would pay if more capital were invested and machinery properly employed by persons acquainted with the business and now I wish to point out in further evidence of these statements the fact 1), that those few now engaged in the manufacture of African woods into lumber find a constant and ready sale for their stuff notwithstanding the dull times and so far as Orders are concerned for special purposes, at present it is impossible to fill them so fast as they come by without solicitation. 2. The large importation of American Pine Lumber, much of which is not worth working for the time it will last under this climate and could in a large measure be substituted by native woods of far greater durability, at least in the tropics. 3. There is at present a large supply of the rough timber available for the manufacture of lumber for home consumption and export. Other considerations might be noticed, but I hasten to say that the question arises, as to whether it is better under present circumstances for us to engage in a timber or Lumber trade, as refers to home consumption, the matter seems settled that we should make our own boards, scantlings, laths, &c., for then the freight at least may be saved and just at this time the specific duty on imported lumber. But when we turn to export trade then the matter is not so easy to decide, but considering everything from present light on the subject, it would seem that a timber trade in unmanufactured stuff would be better as less skilled labor would be needed here, Cargoes could be easier collected and in less time for shipping, and it would furnish more freight for ships and more employment for persons in the countries to which the timber might be exported, and more than likely reduce the expense of manufacturing, and at the same time turn out a finer quality of lumber.

J. A. E.

"BONTHE M. L. CLUB."

As per notices placarded, a public Debate by the members of the above Club was held in the Schoolroom of St. Matthew's Church, kindly placed at their disposal by the Rev. G.G.M. Nicol, pastor in charge.

On the meeting being opened Mr. D. M. P. Thorpe the Club's Secretary advised the parpose of the meeting and gave out as the subject for the Debate "Polygamy or Single Marriage, which tends the more to promote Christianity"

C. W. Betts Esq. President of the Club introduced Dr. M. L. Jarrett, M.R. C.S., and Vice Patron of the Club as the Chairman.

The Doctor on rising said, He was particularly anxious to preside over the Debate not only because the members through the Secretary requested him to do so, but that because the subject was one of vital importance and is at present under very close consideration amongst those who are responsible for moral development and future steadfast growth of the church. The Doctor then gave out some practical observations in regard to the intellectual movements of the Club, and whilst awarding in advance some praise to the members of the Club for their movement in this respect would advise them to still continue from time to time as they have pledged themselves to do, to awaken the dull monotony which burdens the intellectual condition of the District.

He next called upon Mr. Thorpe the opener to commence proceedings.

This gentleman was not behind hand He proceeded to prove how effective it would be to encourage the plurality of wives as regard the further advancement of religion—He was practical, plain and unusually concise—He was not however concise because he had nothing to say but that to give sufficient time to the many speakers on both sides.

Mr. W. B. Coker next spoke :—He was against polygamy, from his speech one can observe that the want of free speech in a Debate or public meeting is a great desiderantum. He struggled hard to confute the arguments adduced by the opener but pity ! besides intellect there is something yet required to make his arguments which were sound, instinctive and plain ; very effective.

Mr. Brighton Turner next came in amidst loud applauses, he however did not say much, his arguments were not as hitherto tangible and effective, the screw, so far as he is concerned, appears to be loose somewhere. The mind wants to be researched, on this occasion his arguments were merely speculative, he was however cheered when he resumed his seat, he was something like a "chamberlain."

Mr. E. W. Parkinson,—For a long time this gentleman labored, but to no purpose to destroy the arguments of his opponents. He appears though to understand the spirit of public Debate, he was practiced and calm, and I will add nothing more.

Mr. Jno. D. Macauley, as usual, he was practical and singularly effective in bringing forth forcible arguments till he gradually destroyed the arguments of his opponent which he charged with falsity and levity. Any way as a Custom officer I laud Mr. Macauley's ability and knowledge of scriptures.

Mr. H. C. Jenkins—This young man was a perfect executionist but rather industrial, he adduced nothing though he was seconded some applause on resuming his seat.

Mr. G. P. Wilhelm—next followed He raised arguments that were firm and solid, he made no end of scriptural quotations so much so that those without and within all accorded him applause.

Mr. Rowland May—argued against polygamy, he condemned the system as one having a tendency to destroy Religion—His arguments were firm and to the point, he showed a great deal of energy and spirit.

Mr. Bidwell Coker—This rather radical speaker rose amidst loud applause and signs of acclamation. Like one who had some qualified training of public speaking rose in his arguments and be a sort of decent and intelligent method, brought in brief language all the points raised by his predecessors on both sides and whilst confirming the argument of the one, he threw into ashes the arguments of the other.

Mr. E. F. Tipson—He too has, it appears, some idea of English speaking, little did I think he understood the Queen's English to the extent he showed by speech-He showed from his speech that he had previously prepared, but oh my ! in the face of his opponents they all absconded away from his memory as the must of a candle to a mass of fire. His arguments were not very popular.

Mr. Thorpe then closed the Debate.

After the Debate was closed, the Chairman observed that the Debate was very interesting, only there were too many scriptural quotations and for which he gave the speakers great credit.

Mr. Turner interposed on behalf of the Club He said he was sorry to observe himself so many scriptural quotations made on the debate and that the only excuse he would give is that Bible could now be obtained at the Mendi Mission here at the cheap price of 6d each.

The Chairman then said, he reserved his opinion. The question was then put to the meeting which however decided in favour of single marriage. This interesting meeting came to a close at 9. 30 p. m.

[Communicated.]

Bonthe April 24. '88

WESLEYAN DAY SCHOOL BONTHE.

Mr. Editor,—The examination of the children of the above school took place on Wednesday morning the 25th inst, by Mr. M. Marke the Sub-Inspector of Schools, (who arrived from Freetown on the 24).

I must candidly say from all I can gather, the children have acquitted themselves remarkably to the satisfaction of their teacher Mr. Wilhelm as also to their parents, who were present. I may add in passing that although the questions put to them were very hard and puzzling, yet they were up to the point. It would have surprised you had you been present, to witness how some of the tiny fellows gave answers to questions put to them.

Surely the hearts of their parents must have been gladdened to find that the money spent for their education is not lost, and also the teacher for the labours bestowed by training and educating them to meet the present examination, I hope the children will endeavour to continue in their studies as on that alone depends their future career in life, for this is an age of progress. It is to be hoped that in the next public examination which will take place in December D.V., they will acquit themselves admirably.

Yours Mr. Editor,

Bonthe, A LOOKER ON.

Apl 27, '88.

SPECIAL NOTICE

Is hereby given that arrangements have been made with Rev D. F. Wilberforce Supt. of Schools (U. B. C.) for Semi-Annual Examination about the last week in June next 1888 Teachers will please prepare accordingly

J. A. EVANS,

Dist. Supdt. W Mission.

Bonthe Apl 21st '88

Delinquent Subscribers, please note that your Subscriptions are overdue for the Early Dawn and send us the Cash at once and oblige the Publisher.

A New Steam Launch.—Capt J. H. Hemmingway on his return from Freetown on the 24th inst. bro't with him the splendid new Steam Launch lately arrived from England for his business convenience in the rivers. The Launch was steamed about the Harbor for a day and pronounced in good trim. It left here for Lavanah on the 27th.

Mr. C. S. Brown Sr. we regret to note has been quite unwell, of late at Bendoo. But we are glad that he is better again.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

APRIL 30, 1888.

The Social Glass

Harmless, as it may appear, to those reared up from youth among persons of position and character who have always made free use of wines on their Tables and in their Parlors for sickness and health. We say harmless as the custom of social drinking may appear it is nevertheless an unsafe practice from many considerations. 1. it possesses the same elements of destruction as the liquor drunk, in many if not all public houses, by this we mean to say that it has the same power to intoxicate, and may possess many of the foreign ingredients, that are to be found in the drinks of public houses, which are possitively opposed to the health of the human system, at least so say many leading Medical men; as well as nearly all the makers of patent Medicines. 2. it certainly has the same tendency to produce a taste or liking for drink that the wine of the public house has and not a few cases are on record where the moderate drinker at the public house in time becomes the besotted drunkard. Nor are instances wanting where persons begining with the moderate use of the social glass become he'pless inebriates, and in disgrace have at length filled a drunkards grave. 3 The influence of the social glass has a wider range in the family than that of the public House for while the father and brothers may only reach the public tumbler; the mother and sisters are exposed to the evils of the social goblet. Social drinking then is perhaps slower in its work, but it strikes at a larger number and is equally sure to bring them down if they follow the leadings of appetite.

THE Upper Gbargroo contrasts very beautifully with the Lower Delta discribed in our issue of 31st ult. As one ascends the Big Gbargroo river or any of its numerous tributaries, he almost abruptly enters the uplands consisting at first chi-fly of smaller hills with sloping sides, i.e. s me cases gently rising from the banks of the river, but at o ther times ugly looking rocks frown down upon you, covered with wild vine or Tangle-wood inhabited by monkies, a dozen or more of which may be seen at once, almost any cloudy day. In other places bluff like hills rise abruptly from the water's edge, and still again the margin of river is fringed as in the vicinity of Konconany, by a dense growth of mangrove, the roots and branches of which are bent into almost inconceivable shapes. As one pursues their upward journey toward the head of the waters, he meets in some cases with falls or ugly rapids in the river, some of these can be passed with boats at favorable tides and seasons, others I believe cannot. During the rains the noise of the waters is something fearful, especially is this the case above Manoh on the Manoh Gbargroo branch of the river; nor is the noise alone fearful, but the waters are dangerous and many lives have been lost in them; and yet scenery of these same waters is grand beyond description and their usefulness is beyond question since they greatly facilitate the Lumber and other Trade in that region. Leaving the waters to take a view of the land one looks out over a vast and varied landscape of picturesque and ground hills as they extend eastward and westward and northward, they seem to rise into grander beauty with their and there the forest interupted by the intrusion of country farms or the natural features of the lovely landscape disturbed by a cluster of native huts. Valleys of almost every conceivable shape settle themselves down between these forest covered hills. While brooks and rivulets in their serpentine windings find their way down toward the great waters. Beneath your feet as you rove over these hills and valleys there is a rich gravelly soil, beseeching you, as it were, to come with your plough and test its capacity to yrild you a golden harvest of the comforts of life

REV. Z. WARNER, D.D.

Most of our readers have already learned of the death of the Rev. Dr. Warner, late general Missionary Secretary, and editor of The Missionary Visitor. He passed away in great peace, on the evening of January 24th, at Gibbon, Nebraska. Some words spoken by Dr. Warner, indicating the state of his mind, in view of the approaching end, were so sweet and assuring that we wish to present them here. When it became apparent that his life must soon ebb away, a dispatch was sent to this city, summoning his wife to come to his bedside. Fearing she might not live until her arrival, he dictated a last message to her, and from this we repeat the following: "While I do not think I have any strength to spare, and, for your sake, I should give it to get well I will, therefore, have Brother Drury write down a few things. I hope to see you again, but may not. I want to thank you for a pure womanly love, for such motherly interests, for your earnestness and zeal in Christian work, and home duties. Our fellowship in Christ has been very sweet; and much that would have been otherwise, was made pleasant, because we both can truly say that we have loved the Lord Jesus Christ . . . I want to assure you of my readiness for any change that God may arrange. If I lack anything, it has not been revealed unto me. I am not going to a strange country, for Jesus, for whom I have preached for more than thirty five years, is one of the chief objects of that country to which I am going, and where I shall live. I know him and can trust him . . . If we meet again in this life, there are many things which I might mention to you. If we do not meet in this life, they will remain unspoken until we meet in heaven."

Dr. Warner lived to see his wife again but soon afterward sank into extreme weakness, so as to be unable to converse much. These words may be regarded as among the last spoken by him. They are fragrant with the breath of heaven, freighted with hope inexpressibly precious. Dr. Warner's life work was closed while he was yet in the full strength of natural manhood, being not quite fifty five years of age. To thousands of brethren and sisters, notably in West Virginia, where he lived and labored during the greater part of his life, his memory will long remain precious.—Bible Teacher,—Mar. '88.

The Royal Colonial Institute.—Have our best thanks for their Annual Report recently received at this Office also for the Colonies and India regularly received. We are glad to note from the Annual Report of the Institute, that notwithstanding the unusual number of deaths of fellows last year, the association is prospering numerically and financial. During the year 291 resident and nonresident. Fellows had been elected and the total number of fellows according to report was 3,125 The receipts in cash for the past year were, more than eight thousand pounds besides numerous donations from various sources. Among which are files of 190 different papers from the publishers, 132 of this number are from the different Colonies and India The Early Dawn is, unfortunately the only paper published on the West Coast of Africa that is on file in the Institute.

The Public School Examinations took place, in Sherbro during last week, we learn; they were conducted by the Sub-Inspector Mr. M. J. Marke who arrived here on the 24th per s. s. Formoso and we believe finished his rounds and returned by the same steamer on the 27th, we are however without any report of the result of the examinations; except it may be that, we insert a letter in this issue relating to the examination at the Wesleyan school of this place but so far as we can learn, the masters have been doing good work and are as result satisfied with the Inspection, perhaps we should that the Mendi Mission school is not included among the schools Examined by the Government Inspector. But will be examined later by their own Supt. of schools.

MY VIEW OF SHERBRO.

It has become an established policy that, besides paying the officers and other engaged in the civil service here, the comparatively large revenue which Sierra Leone sends to Freetown. This is a fact which at present, stares every rightminded man in the face, if he can only think of the cause of causes of the deplorable state of the entire country.

A shilling spent on the repair of the public market, (so called), roads, and bridges at Bonthe, Port Loko, Moyamba and Bandajuma, would be considered a waste of public money. There are many important gulfs to be filled up in Sierra Leone.

Captain Wadham was fined 10s and cost by the Court on the 19th instant, for making a fuss with one of the boatmen of Mr. S. B. A. Macfoy of Yeabanna, by shooting that boatman with an Air Gun, as he was alongside the vessel waiting for Cargo. Knowing the Captain as he is known to be, it would be delightful to see him fun in that way with his mate or with his Engineer or any of his campers on shore.

The Government, on a somewhat small scale, is encouraging Elementary Education in this District, as was seen by the arrival of the Sub-Inspector of Schools on the 24th instant to inspect the Schools, and report upon them to His Excellency the Governor and Board of Education in Freetown, for the Mendi Mission Schools excepted. It is to be hoped that fair results from the examination will be obtained. School accommodation, in my opinion, is the keenly felt want so far as the two Bonthe Schools are concerned. Competition between boys and girls is a part of the question here, so long as there is that dissatisfaction on the part of some mothers to send their daughters to school regularly.

The atmosphere in these regions is not unpropitious to the moral development of the rising generation. When a parent may on account of a very little income-must order a child to tell egregious falsehood, as to say he is not at home when he is really at home; when a master makes his servant become a partaker of iniquity, or when a servant must be used as an instrument, or a medium through which the perpetration of a vicious action must be effected, it would be useless to expect, under the continuance of such a baneful state of things, the improvement of the moral condition of the rising generation.

The 30th inst was a grand day at Bendoo when Mr. R. B. Wilson trader the Boom River was joined in of Holy Matrimony to Miss Victoria Collier. I wish the happy pair long life and happiness.

Lens of concubinage and more of marriage proper would be a blessing to our community.

Bonthe 30 April '88

To Contibutors,—Articles for insertion in the issue of the 15th of the month must reach us as early as the 10th or 11th previous; and those intended for the 30th must not be later than the 24th or 25th any received later may not get in

Personal

Rev. J. C Thomas returned from the rivers about the 16th inst, we believe he had been out on a collecting tour, preparatory to the coming Anniversaries of the Wesleyan connexion.

Capt. J. H. Hemmingway of Lavanah, (Palma Trdg Com'y) arrived here on the 17th, gave us a pleasant call on the 18th, and left on the 20th per s. s. Formoso for Freetown; he has since returned and proceeded to Lavanah on the 27th.

Mr. R. N. Smart also gave us a pleasant call on the 17th inst.

Mrs Bettie Caulker of Shaingay, arrived here with Mr. A P. Doomahbey of the same place on the 18th instant.

Mr. H. Ryff, Agent of the French Company at Gbarmapy, who has been relieved to go home for a change, called on us on the 17th instant.

Chief Engineer J. Wright of s. s. Formoso gave us a look in on the 20th inst., just before going to sea. We were glad to see him.

Mrs T. E. Macfoy returned on the 23rd inst from her visit to Avery Station Manoh Gbargroo, she was accompanied by Miss A. N. Morrison in her return, but we regret to learn that she did not meet Mr. Macfoy quite so well.

Corpl. J. W Nicol gave us a pleasant call on the 24th inst. We had not seen his friendly face for some time past, he is looking fine as usual.

Mr John H. Lewis, of Lavanah gave us a call on the 25th inst he has lately come out, we believe, in the latter part of Dec. last, seems to be weathering the climate well.

Mr. H. Tuherington of Manoh Factory, we regret to note has not been well for some weeks past, we trust however before this reaches our readers that he may be much better.

Rev. G.G.M. Nicol B.A., Pastor of St. Luke's Parish, Sherbro, has for sometime been suffering from rheumatism, but we believe is now recovering.

TIMBER OR LUMBER.

Sometime ago I wrote (issue of May 31st '88) an article on the Timber trade in the course of which I explained that our trade of late is rather a lumber than a Timber trade, because we give attention, or rather attempt so, to the manufacture of woods into stuff for use, I also further stated that such manufacture and trade would pay if more capital were invested and machinery properly employed by persons acquainted with the business and now I wish to point out in further evidence of these statements the fact 1. that those few now engaged in the manufacture of African woods into lumber find a constant and ready sale for their stuff notwithstanding the dull times and so far as Orders are concerned for special purposes, at present it is impossible to fill them as fast as they come in without solicitation. 2. The large importation of American Pine lumber, much of which is not worth working for the time it will last under this climate and could in a large measure be substituted by native woods of far greater durability, at least in the tropics. 3. There is at present a large supply of the rough timber available for the manufacture of lumber for home consumption and export. Other considerations might be noticed, but I hasten to say that the question arises, as to whether it is better under present circumstances for us to engage in a timber or lumber trade, as refers to home consumption, the matter seems settled that we should make our own boards, scantlings, laths, &c., for then the freight at least may be saved and just at this time the specific duty on imported lumber. But when we turn to export trade then the matter is not so easy to decide, but considering everything from present light on the subject, it would seem that a timber trade in unmanufactured stuff would be better as Mendi and Bullom would be needed here. Cargoes could be easier collected and in less time for shipping, and it would furnish more freight for ships and more employment for persons in the countries to which the timber might be exported, and more than likely reduce the expense of manufacturing, and at the same time turn out a finer quality of lumber,

J. A. E.

"BONTHE M. L. CLUB."

As per notices placarded, a public Debate by the members of the above Club was held in the Schoolroom of St. Matthew's Church, kindly placed at their disposal by the Rev. G.G.M Nicol, pastor in charge

On the meeting being opened Mr D. M. P. Thorpe the Club's Secretary advised the purport of the meeting and gave out as the subject for the Debate "Polygamy or Single Marriage, which tends the more to promote Christianity"

C. W. Bettis Esq. President of the Club introduced Dr. M. L. Jarrett, W.R.C.S., and Vice Patron of the Club as the Chairman.

The Doctor on rising said, He was particularly anxious to preside over the Debate not only because the members through the Secretary requested him to do so, but that because the subject was one of vital importance and is at present under very close consideration amongst those who are responsible for moral development and future steadfast growth of the church. The Doctor then gave out some practical observations in regard to the intellectual movements of the Club, and should awarding in advance some praise to the members of the Club for their movement in this respect would advise them to still continue from time to time as they have pledged themselves to do, to awaken the dull mindstone which burdens the intellectual condition of the District.

He next called upon Mr. Thorpe the opener to commence proceedings.

This gentleman was not behind hand He proceeded to prove how effective it would be to encourage the plurality of wives as regard the further advancement of religion—He was practical, plain and unusually concise—He was not however concise because he had nothing to say but that to give sufficient time to the many speakers on both sides.

Mr. W. B. Coker next spoke:—He was against polygamy, from his speech one can observe that the want of free speech in a Debate or public meeting is a great desideratum. He struggled hard to confute the arguments adduced by the opener but pity! besides intellect there is something yet required to make his arguments which were sound, instinctive and plain; very effective.

Mr. Brighton Turner next came in amidst loud applauses, he however did not say much, his arguments were not as hitherto tangible and effective, the screw, so far as he is concerned, appears to be loose somewhere. The mind wants to be researched, on this occasion his arguments were merely speculative, he was however cheered when he resumed his seat, he was something like a "chamberlain."

Mr. E. W. Parkinson,—For a long time this gentleman labored, but to no purpose to destroy the arguments of his opponents. He appears though to understand the spirit of public Debate, he was practical and calm, and I will add nothing more.

Mr. Jno. D. Macauley, as usual, he was practical and singularly effective in bringing forth forcible arguments till he gradually destroyed the arguments of his opponent which he charged with fallacy and sophistry. As an old Custom officer I had Mr. Macauley's ability and knowledge of scriptures.

Mr. H. C. Jenkins—This young man was a perfect encyclopedist but rather industrial, he adduced nothing though he was accorded some applause on resuming his seat.

Mr. G. P. Wilhelm—next followed. He raised arguments that were firm and solid, he made no end of scriptural quotations so much so that those without and within all accorded him applause.

Mr. Rowland May—argued against polygamy, he condemned the system as one having a tendency to destroy religion—His arguments were firm and to the point, he showed a great deal of energy and spirit.

Mr. Bidwell Coker—This rather radical speaker rose amidst loud applause and signs of acclamation. Like one who had some qualified training of public speaking rose in his arguments from the lowest to the highest and most important point of proof He maintains his arguments and be a sort of decent and intelligent method, brought in brief language all the points raised by his predecessors on both sides and whilst confirming the argument of the one, he threw into ashes the arguments of the other.

Mr. E. F. Tipson—He too has, it appears, some idea of English speaking, little did I think he understood the Queen's English to the extent he showed on Tuesday. He showed from his speech that he had never quite prepared, but oh my! in the face of his opponents they all absconded away from his memory as the mass of a candle in a mouse fire. His arguments were not very popular.

Mr. Thorpe then closed the Debate

After the Debate was closed, the Chairman observed that the Debate was very interesting, only there were too many scriptural quotations and for which he gave the speakers great credit.

Mr. Turner interposed on behalf of the Club He said he was sorry to observe himself so many scriptural quotations made in the debate and that the only excuse he would give is that Bible could now be obtained at the Mendi Mission here at the cheap price of 6d each.

The Chairman then said, he reserved his opinion. The question was then put to the meeting which however decided in favour of single marriage. This interesting meeting came to a close at 9.30 p.m.

[Communicated.]

Bonthe April 24 '88

WESLEYAN DAY SCHOOL BONTHE

Mr. Editor,—The examination of the children of the above school took place on Wednesday morning the 25th inst, by Mr. M. Marke the sub Inspector of Schools, (who arrived from Freetown on the 24).

I must candidly say from all I can gather, the children have acquitted themselves remarkably to the satisfaction of their teacher Mr. Wilhelm as also to their parents, who were present. I may add in passing that although the questions put to them were very hard and puzzling, yet they were up to the point, It would have surprised you had you been present, to witness how some of the tiny fellows gave answers to questions put to them

Surely the hearts of their parents must have been gladdened to find that the money spent for their education is not lost, and also the teacher for the labours bestowed by training and educating them to meet the present examination, I hope the children will endeavour to continue in their studies as on that alone depends their future career in life, for this is an age of progress. It is to be hoped that in the next public examination which will take place in December D.V., they will acquit themselves admirably.

Yours Mr. Editor,

Bonthe, A LOOKER ON.

Apl 27, '88.

SPECIAL NOTICE

Is hereby given that arrangements have been made with Rev D F. Wilberforce Supt. of Schools (U. B. C.) for Semi-Annual Examination about the last week in June next 1888 Teachers will please prepare accordingly

J. A. EVANS,
Dist. Supdt. M Mission

Bonthe Apl 21st '88

Delinquent Subscribers, please note that our Subscriptions are overdue for the Early Dawn and send us the Cash at once and oblige the Publisher.

A New Steam Launch.—Capt

J. H. Hemmingway on his return from Freetown on the 24th inst, brot with him a the splendid new Steam Launch lately arrived from England for his business convenience in the rivers. The Launch was steamed about the Harbor for a day and pronounced in good trim. It left here for Lavanah on the 27th.

Mr. C. S. Brown Sr. we regret to note has been quite unwell of late at Bendoo. But we are glad that he is better again.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—Market continues very quiet.

Bonny . . .	£18	2	6	transit,	£18	7	6	quay.
Old Calabar, . .	18	2	6	to	18	5	0	transit
Cameroons . .	18	2	6	transit
Benin	17	2	6	to	17	5	0	quay
Lagos	19	7	6	to	19	10	0	transit
and	19	2	6	to	19	5	0	quay
New Calabar .	17	2	6	transit
Accra and Addah	17	2	6	to	17	15	0	transit
Half Jack . .	17	5	0	quay
Sherbro . . .	16	10	0	transit
Saltpond . . .	16	0	0	transit
Liberian . .	15	15	0	transit

PALM KERNELS—Steady at late rates. Transit quotations; basis 5 per cent shell.

Lagos, Old and New Calabar, and Bonny.	£10	5	0	to	10	6	3
Brass . . .	10	2	6
Benin and Congo .	10	0	0
Liberian Sherbro & Sierra Leone	£9	10	0
Addah Quitty, Dixcove, Saltpond, Appam & Winnebah	7	15	0	to	9	0	0

GROUND NUTS—Sales of Bathurst at £11 per ton.
BENNISEED—14s. per 381 lbs for good Sierra Leone.
COPRA—No change.
COFFEE—firmer sales, 53s. to 54s. for bold berry. Monrovia, 54s. to 58s.
COCOA—40s. to 60s. per cwt. as in quality.
INDIA RUBBER—Steady at following prices:—Supplies continue large.

Gambia Niggers, fair to prime	1s. 10d	to 2s	0d.
Sierra Leone do. do.	1s. 8d	to 1s	9d.
Thimbles	1s. 7½d	to 1s	8½d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball . .	1s. 3d	to 1s	6½d.
Soft and Flaky Ball . . .	0s. 9d	to 0s	11d.
Hard Cape Coast Axim & Assinie	1s. 3d	to 1s	6d.
Liberian	1s. 2d	to 1s	4d.
Saltpond	0s. 9d	to 1s	0d.
Accra Pressed and dried .	0s. 9d	to 1s	1d.
Do. Ordinary	0s. 8d	to 0s	8½d.
Flake and Lumps	0s. 8d	to 0	8½d.

GUM COPAL—In good demand.
BEESWAX—No enquiry.
GINGER—Sales of new 17s. to 17s. 6d. per cwt.
CHILLIES—Neglected.
CALABAR BEANS—6½d. per lb.
CAMWOOD—Lower, 30 tons fair ordinary Grand Bassa sold at £9 7s. 6d. to £9. 10s.
IVORY } —No sale.
RAWWOOD }
KOLA NUTS—No demand.
MONKEY SKINS—In good demand from 1s. 2d. to 6s. 9d. according to quality.
IVORY—Next sale April 17.
COTTON—No change.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool,
March 29th. 1888.

Notice.

Messrs KINLOCH CAMPBELL & Co., has appointed Mr. D. M. P. THORE to act as their Sub-Agent in Sherbro, and all ORDERS given through him will have our immediate attention.

L. GRANT
For Kinloch Campbell & Co,

S. M. MISSION STORE.

Having Completely closed out OUR OLD STOCK OF

Woolen & Cotton Goods,

Are now beginning to replenish

Our Shelves

With entirely New

GOODS.

Some of which have arrived by the last Steamer and others are expected in the next few weeks.

N.B.—We still keep on hand a fresh & fine supply of provisions

J. A. EVANS

Bonthe, Apl 21, '88.

J.A Clemens.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Bookseller, Stationary and Miscellaneous GOODS

ESTABLISHED 1874 OTTO STREET

N.B. Removed to upper Otto Street, opposite the burial ground

Bonthe, Sherbro.

NOTICE.

The Undersigned

begs to inform his FRIENDS CUSTOMERS, and the PUBLIC in general, that he is prepared to furnish at Short Notice, BOATS of all sizes, on hire per diem or per trip:

VIZ:—

SIX OARED GIG BOATS,
FOUR OARED GIG do.
TWO OARED DINGY,
with or without hands;

—ALSO—

Lighters,

from 4 to 13 TONS.

For further particulars apply to

J. B. PARKINSON,

Victoria Rd. Bonthe.

Jan31to Apl30—3ms.

CARE FOR THE CHILDREN.

Care for the children. They are the brightest jewels God has given this world. There are no flowers in all its gardens so fair and sweet as they. They are the bloom of the garden of the heart.

"They have less of earth and earthly clod
They are freshest from the hand of God."

Shall the fairest treasure of earth waste for our neglect, and the images of the innocent and holy be marred because we are too indifferent to the good and the divine to nurture these tender plants?

Care for the children. They are intrusted to our hands, as the ten talents by the master who is "gone on a journey," but will come again. No gold, no influence, no estates, no opportunities make up such responsibilities as the children in our homes and those about us. This is the highest trust. Of all that God has put into human hands.—Sel.

MISCELLANY.

Professor de Morgan found out by mathematical computation that an eggshell is so strong as to be able to support a man's weight. People who doubt this can put one in their coat tail pocket and try it.

"Pa" said a farmer's daughter, "the laziest tramp I ever saw came into the yard to-day. He stood there by the wood pile and let the dog undress him."

Mistress (arranging for dinner): Didn't the macaroni come from the grocer's, Bridget?"—Bridget: "Yis but oi sint it back. Every wan av thim sins was imty."

"Ya as," said Mr. D. Soppy, "time works wonders. Why, when I was born I was the youngest in my family, and now I have faw brothers all younger than myself."

A GREAT DESCENT.—Mr.—M'Corkle (an attenuated dude standing before portrait of a broadchested, warrior-like ancestor): "I tell you, Miss Nivens. I'm no snob, but I'm proud of my descent." Miss Nivens: You should be, Mr. M'Corkle, it has been a great one!

Young Blifkins went out gunning, and shot six times at an owl before he discovered that it was a piece of mud on his eyeglasses.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL V. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, MAY 15, 1888. No. 9

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO:

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto, deliv'd in Bonthe,	0	2	6

Address.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gomer Shrigley, West Africa. Rev. Wm. McKee Boston, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant	C. H. Harley Mosely,
Coroner	The Commandant.
Deputy Coroner	Wm. Hughes.
Chief Clerk	W. Hughes.
Interpreter	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff	F. E. B. Buckner.
Sub-Treas. & Col Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett. J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. N. Cowan, J. B. Turner, A. G. Cole
Asst. Examg. Officer Sulijah.	Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon. R. C. S.	M. L. Jarrett, M
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster	R. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Bate,
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church. Victoria Road Pastor,	Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.
Wesleyan Methodist, Pastor,	Lime Street Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mendi Mission, Good Hope Pastor,	(Congregational.) Rev. G. N. Jowett.
Asst Do.	Rev R. C. Taylor

TRADE SEASON.

With this month (May) purrob, in most places where the people or chiefs are disposed to trade will be taken down and the gathering of Gbangor will be pushed by the natives, if they feel so inclined. As a result the making of palm oil and preparation of palm kernels will be carried on. So that these the staple products of the country will begin to flow into the the Market and by the time this reaches our readers we expect the Trade season will have been fully opened and every one trying to get the largest share of the spoil.

Bathurst, 17th April 1888.

Editor of the "Early Dawn."

Sir,—Being on a Business tour to the West Coast of Africa and visiting Freetown and Sherbro 1st & 2nd respectively, I had to write a few words in the "Early Dawn" and the "Weekly News" about the very bad administration which the latter received at the hands of the Freetown Government.—I now come to Bathurst.—During my short stay my eyes have been opened to similar and more glaring maladministration than that even experienced at Sherbro. Bathurst can be classed amongst one of our oldest Settlements and about 20 years ago principally consisted of English Merchant Houses and English Commerce. What is it now? Is it not a possitive fact that year after year those very Houses gradually dwindled away until now there are more French Houses and French Commerce than English. What has been the reason? That that august mother of ours, who took upon herself to protect her dutiful children against all time coming, gradually got tired of them, gave them out to nurse, and left them pretty well to die. Bathurst, one of the finest settlements we have, both rich in produce and minerals, that it should slowly but surely be taken possession of by the French, and all for what? for the want of proper control and management. Bathurst requires to be severed entirely from Sierra Leone and wants independent action of its own A Representative Legislative council, a Governor of its own, who would have full power to act as he thought fit, and to have imperative instructions not to go on any Milk and Sugar Expedition, that is to say, Not to pamper those most disreputable murderers and cut throats with pressure of clothing &c: but to chastise them in true and proper British fashion. The time for sympathy and philantrophy with those robbers has gone past, because they only whoop down upon peaceful villages, pillage them, burn them, kill the men, and carry away the women and children into slavery, and this remember right under the nose of our British Government, that Government who has hitherto held itself forth to the world as being The great Protector of the Poor ignorant and Benighted Native, and what can our British Colonev Bathurst do? send out at the 12th hour about 20 policemen, remember native policemen, & think if you gave them an aim at 50 yards to fire at, they would be about 12 yards wide, and the experienced sergeant I dont suppose would be much behind them in his brilliancy, and all this in civilized Bathurst, a colony which yielded thousands of tons of Produce when thoroughly under British control, but most of which is now principally directed to France. Is it not a slur on our honour and dignity, and enough to make British subjects sell their birthright for a mess of pottage? A British subject speaks to one of these natives, he will stand and insult him, because he says he can do with him as he likes, but to a Frenchmanhe is very respectful. And then, as well as good Administration here, we must also have good administration at home. All these youths in the Colonial or Foreign Office, who have been born with silver or golden spoons in their mouths, and who could not tell one, on the Map, where Bathurst lay should be quietly cleared out: and only men of good sound judgment, tact and experience take their place.—There is another crying evil in Bathurst, and that is, The Beach.—Facing a fine open River, it could be made a beautiful promenade: but to a stranger his nasal organs inhales the glorious essence of human filth. I understand the Superintendent of Police has this matter under his control; he ought to enforce his authority more rigourously that the people keep the Beach clean under a penalty, and to see that they strictly adhere to the place set apart for them: the streets also require better attention; and the people more strictly looked after regarding their filth deposits; at the present between the beach and streets, it is sufficient to cause a plague; and is certainly most injurious to the public.—Health Now what Bathurst requires is—1st To be severed entirely from Sierra Leone control in every shape and form; and to become an Independent Settlement: only to take or receive instructions from the Imperial Government.

2nd. To have a Representative Executive Council.—3rd To have a Governor with full power to act along with his Council, as to the best ways and means regarding the proper management and control of the Settlement.—4th To have a small force of Military to quell all interior disturbances promptly.—5th To have one of the Sierra Leone Gun Boats stationed at Bathurst, there are too many there.—6th A more efficient police force.—7th The Sanitary condition of Bathurst more promptly, properly, and rigourously carried out: let us have all these; then we shall have good Administration; a largely increased Interior Trade; a happy and contented people and no more cries from the Government Exchequer "No Funds on Hand"—I may mention to the Merchants, Traders, and others interested in this most serious and vital question, that I intend to strongly represent at Home the present state of affairs at Bathurst; but I think it would be well for some of the spirited Citizens to call a meeting and invite all interested to be present; and come to some definite action; because you all know the old adage "Union is Strength" I must desire Mr Editor your Correspondence taking up so much of your valuable space; and beg to remain.

Yours Faithfully
J. W. CAMPBELL of the Firm of Messrs Kinloch Campbell & Co.
Glasgow.

For the "Early Dawn."

Mr. Editor,—Your readers will be glad to know that some measures have been adopted to effect peace in the interior among the Mendi and Mo-Bunta tribes.

Not long ago Tuah-Boe, (Mendi) a notorious plunderer and disturber of peace, was killed with his followers; and it is likely Some Boybo may share the same fate.

This latter (Tinnee) some of your readers know well when he visited Bonthe last year. A few weeks after that time, he was seen at Gbangbook gratifying himself with some unmerited gifts from Sherbro, and being too much influenced by the counsels and intrigues manifested, (unknown by the Authorities,) he destroyed and carried away properties belonging to some Sierra Leoneans, who temporarily resided at that place (Gbangbatook) to the interior. Report says that from certain displeasure, which he gave the people of Ta-ne-nehoo sometime ago, he was afraid to proceed to the chief town; but directed his course to Mo-boo-tuah where he resided for a short time, and then passed off to Manoh, into Kah-Joe's town, to arrange for troops to accomplish his wicked design against the people of Gaugamah, Imperieh; but his schemes turned out an entire failure. On being disappointed, he abandoned all his former plans, and made fresh arrangements to attack Taneneehoo, and persuaded some principal men to accompany him. He told them to talk over some matters.

At a near approach to the town, messengers were sent to remind him of the consequences that must follow the wreck of their peace, (private) reputation; especially as they have installed the Society already in that capacity; but he Some having been decoyed in many of his former depredations and outrages, though he could have much also in this instance, ordered his men into the town, contrary to their parole negotiation; on blowing of horns, beating drums, and threatening; and at the same time ready to defend his men if it should turn out otherwise. The men of the town who regarded the importunities as the touch for a stranger, and for one like themselves attempted to pounce the spoil. Upon this, Some used his revolver by killing a man in the town, and forthwith executive measures were then taken, when Thirty seven of his men were killed on the spot, himself wounded on the arm and escaped to Manoh; and others of his men caught in the bush and put in stocks. The people of Taneneehoo and Bumpeh are now told have since sent to demand him alive, otherwise it would end in war. Now Mr. Editor, all who are readers of our Local & Outside can see that wars do not cause a Mendi or whatever tribe it may be from carrying out their depredations; even if we did, we see it in distinct instances, (apart from the Boom &c) we see it verified to this. Who could have thought that Some Sherbro would have dealt so unfaithfully with our Authorities? I trust this will add to their stock of experience. "For but all that glitters is gold."

Thanking you very much for wearying your patience, and the space I have occupied.

Yours truly,
S. B. MORRISON.

Bangoro,
May 5th '88.

Cease to lament for that there cannot help and study help for that which thou lamentest.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

MAY 15, 1888.

THE CREDIT SYSTEM.

In Business and otherwise has had a long rope, so to speak, on this coast and has ruined very many in its course but at length it is about to ruin itself, if indeed it has not already done so. For it has become evident to almost every business man that to give credit to any considerable extent,—either as to the number of persons to whom he gives or the amount he may give to a few,—is to lose sooner or later; so that every prudent person must, at least, refuse, as a rule, to give credit, and so far as our observation goes there is very little real credit given, of course when we so speak, we except the transactions of Europeun Houses doing business with coast traders, and confine our remarks to general business practice here on the coast. When we say that the system has ruined itself, we refer to the fact that the failure of so many to perform their obligations has opened the eyes of the prudent, to cease from a losing game, while on the other hand the imprudent are being forced, by circumstances to quit business or cease to credit. One important thing remains, and that is for European firms to quit the old wreck, of the credit system, refusing credit to every fellow, that may be able to write a good business letter, from this coast, for although some may have seemed to profit by such ventures, it has ever been at the expense of some one who has been the loser, and greatly in some cases to the damage of general trade, for many of these men with little or no expense and no capital could afford to so far undersell substantial business houses, as to make trade suffer by the breaking down of paying prices.

CHRISTIANITY OR MOHAMIDANISM

There seems to be from time to time more or less appearing in public print, in the way, as it were of a comparison between these two systems of religion; and also as to which of them would be the more readily received by the African people? or in other words which of the two systems is the best adapted to native, and especially the more interior, tribes of Africa, all the circumstances considered? Such able minds have been employed up on the subject pro & con, that it would almost seem prosumption, in us to venture a word, were it not for the glaring fact that no reasonable comparison can be made between a false and the true religion; the false may seem to alleviate the soul pangs of humanity, but the true really heals the infirmities of man's nature, liberates his soul, and gives hope of heaven, even to the ignorant and degraded. Certainly every intelligent Christian, not to say scholar, is aware of the fact that Mohamed was a false Teacher, and that his religion is a false religion. It must also be further admitted that it is far behind the Christian religion as a civilizing and refining power or force as the condition of nations under its influence will readily show. Observe its influence in India before British occupation and then Turkey (even in Europe) What do you see to recommend the faith of the false Prophet to any people for their elevation? In other words if Mohomedanism has failed to elevate the less degraded races of men, how can it be adapted to the wants of Africa? more again when we have the time.

AVERY STATION, MENDI MISSION, is the finest and most valuable of the stations of the Mendi Mission and in many respects it is the most important station of any of our Missions in Africa; at least it commands the keys, we may say, to the shortest and most direct route to the interior and is at the same time, within easy and short communication with the seat of the Sherbro Government, lies within civil jurisdiction and enjoys all the privileges of a British West African Village. From the best accounts I can gather Avery was founded about the year 1857 by Mr. Daniel Wilcox Burton, an agent of the Mendi Mission then under the auspices of the American Missionary Association.

THE TRADE OUTLOOK—Is fraught with some forebodings not of the most desirable nature to the river Traders, and not arising alone from the unsettled state of the river districts, but from a disposition for some years past on the part the larger Houses to dispense with the Middle-men, who go higher up the rivers and into the more interior as well as the out of the way places, and either with supplies from larger houses, or with small stocks of their own buy up the dribs of produce which the natives bring in to them; and thus gather it into larger quantities, before it reaches the merchant or larger dealers, In years past this vocation was undisturbed and many men made money by it & sometimes quite rapidly; the success that attended the work led many to engage in the petty Trade until in one way or another the rivers have become filled with small Traders male and female, not only men but women are engaged in it. In years past when trade was better, and profits larger, the larger dealers could more willingly divide the gains. But now that matters are changed the Merchant seeks to get rid of the middle-man and to deal directly with the producer, to whom he now offers Merchandise in small quantities as cheaply, or nearly so, as he will sell to the small trader. And more also for sometime the larger houses have been extending their own Factories farther and farther out from the centres which they occupy, until now the out look is that they will eventually shut out the small traders altogether.

We have the following from good authority and in-sert it for the general information of those interested.

"T. A. Wall Eqr. Formerly Commandant of Sherbro and wife are passengers by the Teneriffe for Accra where Mr. Wall has an appointment in the Customs service.

It will be remembered that Mr. Wall was very badly treated by Secretary Griffith and Governor Havelock and summarily bounced out of the service members of Parliament I am told have had him reinstated in the service."

Mr. Henry Titherington of Manoh Factory left this place for England about the 4th inst he was quite ill on the s. s. Formoso in the Harbor before leaving we trust he has had a prosperous journey.

The Parsonage,
Hastings.
May 11th 1888.

Dear Sir,—The "Early Dawn" is a welcome messenger to me every time it comes in, bringing, as it always does, items of interesting information about affairs in Sherbro. I beg to enclose herewith a P. O. O. for Twelve Shillings, my subscription for Two Years.

Wishing it increasing popularity, and with kind regards to you.

I remain, Dear Sir,
Your humble Servant,
J. B. BOWEN.

Rev. J. A. Evans.

THE REVIEWED COMMUNICATION BY CLEOPATRA'S NEEDLE.

Most men, in this community clog the wheels of their respect, and, in revenge seek to undo others; whilst many are made contracted and compounded of false and empty words; therefore Poionius' patent advice to his son was "This above all—to thine own self be true."

It is an admissible fact, that we live in an age of thought, an age of progress, and an age of action, when it would be considered suicidal to close our eyes against any fictitious and prejudicial communication, however interesting it may be, so long as the grand lights of journalism are brilliantly shining with resplendent brightness.

I read with utter dissatisfaction and regret the communicated letter inserted in your last issue, purporting to be the arguments advanced on both sides of the Debate recently held at the Church School room, Bonthe. It would be waste of time for me to enter respectively into the details of the Debate, but I shall as brief as ever, reasonably endeavour to erase from the minds of the readers, the impression, that incorrect, partial and prejudicial communication had infused in them.

This "Radical Speaker" in favor of polygamy, who thought that any communication, however faulty and untrue is its nature, must be admitted by all for gospel, heedlessly ran to the Press with the view of exhibiting his literary qualifications, without adhering to the principles of Newspaper writing, but inconsiderately sent matters to the Press, matters constructed, in untruthfulness, having for their foundation partiality and prejudice.

None but my "Radical Speaker" alone could admire the incoherent scriptural citations those against Single Marriage cited, except it was unintentional but if not, there's nothing on earth enough to incite him to make such a blunder, but for the "Loaves and Fishes," he was necessarily compelled to flatter one, who was called to order for misconstruing the Holy Writ. I wonder at your notes-taking communication. In the face of conscience who could believe that the whole of the arguments in favor of Single Marriage were not valid, whilst it had the vote unanimously carried by every man and woman in the meeting upon all that despite the ablest arguments produced by one who had been accustomed to public speaking, and who totally destroyed the arguments of his opponents to the ground!

I shall be thankful to the writer, if he is disposed, to state exactly the words uttered by the chairman, in his concluding speech, and why Mr. Turner apologized, and whether he ever mentioned any body besides himself who heard Mr T. said anything in his apology relative to the price of tables at the Mission.

Although the writer is praiseworthy for his indefatigableness, as regards Newspaper writing, yet I shall advise him to send genuine and not abortion matters to the Press, as this himself and communication will be creditably regarded.

NEWS ITEMS.

It is reported, that the issue or result of the long pending Caulker case; in the Supreme Court of Sierra Leone, is that the three Caulkers are to be hanged.

A Commissioner &c. of Sulymah has, we understand been appointed and has already gone to the District, to relieve G. H. Garrett Esqr., Sub Treasurer and Collector of Sherbro who has for many months been in temporary charge of Sulymah.

Great Excitement was reported to be prevailing in and about Shaingay about the 7th inst. in consequence of a rumor that had reached that place that Francis Caulker (a brother of Wm. T. G. Caulker) carrying war that way to avenge his brother's cause.

May 2.—Rev G. G. M. Nicol from Daymah

4.—"Formoso" for Free town with Kittel.

Gun firing at 8 p. m. and 5 a. m. resumed by order of Capt Daniel Acting Commandant.

9.—Formoso from Freetown with Mr. Z. E. T. Williams Mesdames Felitia Davis, James, and Nicol.

11.—"Formoso" for Free town with Mrs. Sally Martyn.

G. H. Garrett arrived from Sulymah.

13.—"Countess of Derby" from Freetown—and left on the 14th with Capt. Daniel who is proceeding to England.

The members of the "B. M. L. Club" intends having a—Quadrille party on the 24th inst., in commemoration of Her Majestys Birthday, several Ladies and Gents will be invited.

13.—Two special Annual sermons were preached at the Wesleyan Church both morn- and evening by the pastor Rev J. C. Thomas.

"CANIBALISM AGAIN."

Mr. Editor,—It was in the month of June last year that I wrote an article in your issue of the 15th relative to the evil practice of substituting human flesh for fresh meat by the natives in the interior. At the same time I expressed my satisfaction for the sentence passed on one of the parties concerned to the long period of 10 years. I thought at the time that the sentence would have had the desired effect, that is, to prevent the occurrence of such inhuman actions. To my great surprise I happened to take a walk to the Police Station a few days ago where I found a man in custody charged with the wilful murder of a woman who was caught in the river by a supposed alligator, in the presence of her husband who was quite helpless to render her any assistance, (for he narrowly escaped from his assailant). The surviving husband is to be seen within the Govt. compounds, bearing their only child about two years old on his back.

Mr. Editor, By this you will find that the natives do not regard the lives of their fellow creatures as being sacred and I would almost come to the belief (and I believe a just and reasonable one too) that penal punishment alone would not make any serious impression on the minds of the natives, excepting or unless they are made to feel what capital punishment or death by hanging is then and not till then will the lives of men be held sacred.

As the prisoner will be tried in the next Session to be held in Freetown on Monday the 14th inst, I hope the jurors will carefully investigate the matter and bring such verdict as will cast a lasting impression on the minds of those who are perpetrating the same deeds. Even here about Bonthe, it is reported that a man lays in ambush in the form of a leopard, attempting to fall upon unwary travellers who may happen to pass the way to Dumbokoh this puts the women in fear to proceed to that locality without an escort.

I await to hear what verdict will be brought on the present accused.

A CORRESPONDENT.

Bonthe,
May 10, '88.

For the "Early Dawn."

Dear Editor,—Permit me through the medium of your valuable journal, to enquire from the Authorities; why the natives who are residing in British Territory are not paying License for their boats and canoes? Are they not sharing equal rights, protections, and privileges as any of the Sierra Leoneans? Many of them from the Boom, Kittam and the Imperreh countries are to be found here and there within British protection; and are enjoying more than equal rights, with Sierra Leoneans and foreigners; in connection with the general trade, they are also engaged in boat building &c., &c., and are allowed to ply their crafts, canoes, &c., of any size in British waters, both North and south free of License and undisturbed. It was thought sometime ago that that portion in Her Majesty's Ordinance would have taken thorough effect at the time, when License were imposed upon one Daniel, a Sherbro man, temporarily residing at Benbomah creek for plying his Boat in British waters; but nothing further was seen or heard of Kong. Sainay, Gbannah Tuah and Humpah's boats or canoes. Sure enough Mr. Editor, I cannot for certain arrive at the conclusion that Her Majesty's Authorities are partial in dispensing justice to all; but viewing the whole in the line of business, what is predicated to one should be extended to the others, if such measures be adopted, I strongly believe it will serve to increase the Revenue of Sherbro rather than crippling it. Although it is not our lot to enjoy the benefits of the Revenue of Sherbro, such as the building of our Market house, the repairing of roads, bridges &c. Yet I can say candidly that "what is good for Tom is also good for John." You will hear from me again. Thanking you for space allotted me.

Meanwhile I remain
Upper Bargroo, Yours truly,
May 5th '88. A TRADER.

SCHOOL TEACHING IN SHERBRO.

The above, like all other engagements in life, presents two sides, the dark and the bright side. The educational question, so far as Bonthe is concerned is fraught with difficulties. Irregularity.—This is a gigantic evil with which teachers and managers of schools have had to contend, and would have been more easily dealt with, were it not that it comes from four different directions:

(1.) Parents.—and these are divided into two classes' intelligent and ignorant.

(2.) Guardians,—godly and ungodly. Two of the four, can be easily dealt with by teachers and managers. But they have not been able to devise such means as to obtain the co-operation of the other two, which is very desirable. It does not require strenuous efforts on the part of teachers to enlist the sympathy of parents as regards their children's education, (provided the parents are intelligent) seeing that it, under God, is calculated to be of great benefit to the children in after years. It is equally easy to enlist the sympathy of godly guardians. But the other two classes (?) They baffle all skill.

A roving disposition, is another serious drawback. You dare not rely on the one half of the children, who like birds of passage stay only for a season. You may count, if their attendance for a short time, but when you expect to see the fruit of your labor, they are gone to some of the rivers where ninety-nine per cent turn out wreckless characters, who help to swell the wretched horde of depredators.

Another serious hindrance is that a portion of a school may be of native children, who enter the school at the age of 12 or 13 years; amidst many difficulties. He has to support himself and is obliged to offer his service at a disadvantage, to a very popular factory in this place, where he receives a few yards of cloth at times, and at other times a bottle of gin, (and that of the lowest kind) in return for service faithfully rendered the factory; and thus the poor child forms an energy for drinking, which neither the example, nor the precept of the teacher, or both put together can break. As a rule he makes little or no progress in his studies.

Tardiness is another discouraging feature which upsets all plans, however well laid by the teacher for the advancement and well-being of the scholars; and this is insuperable, with but very rare exceptions to the same source with irregularity.

Home influence is another together with a train of others, which not only beset the path of the teacher to a successful working of his school, but seem to bind his hands behind his back, so that he can only look, lament and go planning for the future. But there is a bright side. The thought of the responsible position which he holds, rouses the teacher from despondency, and bids him hope on. His is a very great responsibility. Responsible to God and man. The parent and relatives of the children look to him, society looks to him, the Church looks to him. He is indeed a representative man. Then teachers cannot be too faithful in the discharge of their duties, facing their individual difficulties and sad and undimmed, though the salary, with one or two exceptions in Freetown, is meagre and simply deplorable, yet the time is not distant when parents, society, the state, the Church, and managers of schools will send forth a unanimous and effectual cry which will be wafted on the wings of the wind from one part of the West Coast of Africa to the other, and will finally be adopted by the community of Bonthe, "Pay the teachers better salary"

T.

May, '88.

Mr. Editor,—Sir I was so fortunate to be present at Good Hope Church on the 13th inst. The pulpit was occupied by the Rev W. S. Macauley of Gbangbis his text was taken from 1. Peter iii: 10, 11, 12, "For he that will love life and see good days let him refrain his tongue from evil and, and his lips that they speak no guile".

I must really confess that I was much moved with the discourse delivered from the pulpit by the Rev gentleman, and during the service, I was seriously impressed when he warned the congregation against lying tongues & speaking evil of one another I must say, that God has put into the mouth of his servant to tell us our faults, he stated also that we should follow the example of our blessed Lord; and what it is to be hypocrites in the house of God those who were present in that meeting were better judges of the force and effects put forth. Thanking you for space accorded.

Yo
M. J. MACAULEY.

May, '88.

Mr James Patterson Chief Officer s. s "Formoso" left the Coast in s. s. "Benin" for a months leave at home he is expected to be out again in July next.

Notice.

The SEMI-ANNUAL EXAMINATION of Schools will D. V. take place from 15th to end of June 1888.

D. F. WILBERFORCE.
Supt of Schools, Shaingay.
May 4th '88.

Notice.

THE Undersigned

A WRITING CLERK & ACCOUNTANT,

Begs to inform the Public of Bonthe and the Rivers that he is prepared to do all

WRITING JOB WORKS,

as follows:—

STOCK TAKING,
MAKING UP ACCTS,
WRITING LETTERS &c.

Charges Moderate!

For further particulars apply at his Residence, Williams St., abreast the Wesleyan Church, or by letter.

He solicits their patronage

W. BIDWELL COKER.

Bonthe,
May '88.

SPECIAL NOTICE

Is hereby given that arrangements have been made with Rev D. F. Wilberforce Supt. of Schools (U. B. C.) for Semi-Annual Examination about the last week in June next 1888 Teachers will please prepare accordingly.

J. A. EVANS.
Discl. Supdt. M Mission

Bonthe, Apl 21st '88.

Miss Prude (aged forty, going to bed)—"Somebody's under my bed! My goodness! Can it be Fido! Fido! Fido (She then holds out her hand under the bed, and the wise burglar licks it). Oh! all right! It is Fido." She then retires, reassured, and sleeps through the burglary.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

MAY 15, 1888.

THE CREDIT SYSTEM.

In Business and otherwise has had a long rope, so to speak, on this coast and has ruined very many in its course but at length it is about to ruin itself, if indeed it has not already done so. For it has become evident to almost every business man that to give credit to any considerable extent,—either as to the number of persons to whom he gives or the amount he may give to a few,—is to lose sooner or later; so that every prudent person must, at least, refuse, as a rule, to give credit, and so far as our observation goes there is very little real credit given, of course when we so speak, we except the transactions of European Houses doing business with coast traders, and confine our remarks to general business practice here on the coast. When we say that the system has ruined itself, we refer to the fact that the failure of so many to perform their obligations has opened the eyes of the prudent, to cease from a losing game, while on the other hand the imprudent are being forced, by circumstances to quit business or cease to credit. One important thing remains, and that is for European firms to quit the old wreck, of the credit system, refusing credit to every fellow, that may be able to write a good business letter, from this coast, for although some may have seemed to profit by such ventures, it has ever been at the expense of some one who has been the loser, and greatly in some cases to, the damage of general trade, for many of these men with little or no expense and no capital could afford to so far undersell substantial business houses, as to make trade suffer by the breaking down of paying prices.

CHRISTIANITY OR MOHAMIDANISM

There seems to be from time to time more or less appearing in public print, in the way, as it were of a comparison between these two systems of religion; and also as to which of them would be the more readily received by the African people? or in other words which of the two systems is the best adapted to native, and especially the more interior, tribes of Africa, all the circumstances considered? Such able minds have been employed up on the subject pro & con, that it would almost seem prosumption, in us to venture a word, were it not for the glaring fact that no reasonable comparison can be made between a false and the true religion; the false may seem to alleviate the soul pangs of humanity, but the true really heals the infirmities of man's nature, liberates his soul, and gives hope of heaven, even to the ignorant and degraded. Certainly every inteligent Christian, not to say scholar, is aware of the fact that Mohamed was a false Teacher, and that his religion is a false religion. It must also be further admitted that it is far behind the Christian religion as a civilizing and refining power or force as the condition of nations under its influence will readily show. Observe its influence in India before British occupation and then Turkey (even in Europe) What do you see to recommend the faith of the false Prophet to any people for their elevation? In other words if Mohomedanism has failed to elevate the less degraded races of men, how can it be adapted to the wants of Africa? more again when we have the time.

AVERY STATION, MENDI MISSION, is the finest and most valuable of the stations of the Mendi Mission and in many respects it is the most important station of any of our Missions in Africa; at least it commands the keys, we may say, to the shortest and most direct route to the interior and is at the same time, within easy and short communication with the seat of the Sherbro Government, lies within civil jurisdiction and enjoys all the privileges of a British West African Village. From the best accounts I can gather Avery was founded about the year 1857 by Mr. Daniel Wilcox Burton, an agent of the Mendi Mission then under the auspices of the American Missionary Association.

THE TRADE OUTLOOK—Is fraught with some forebodings not of the most desirable nature to the river Traders, and not arising alone from the unsettled state of the river districts, but from a disposition for some years past on the part the larger Houses to dispense with the Middle-men, who go higher up the rivers and into the more interior as well as the out of the way places, and either with supplies from larger houses or with small stocks of their own buy up the dribs of produce which the natives bring in to them; and thus gather it into larger quantities, before it reaches the merchant or larger dealers, In years past this vocation was undisturbed and many men made money by it & sometimes quite rapidly; the success that attended the work led many to engage in the petty Trade until in one way or another the rivers have become filled with small Traders male and female, not only men but women are engaged in it. In years past when trade was better, and profits larger, the larger dealers could more willingly divide the gains. But now that matters are changed the Merchant seeks to get rid of the middle-man and to deal directly with the producer, to whom he now offers Merchandise in small quantities as cheaply, or nearly so, as he will sell to the small trader. And more also for sometime the larger houses have been extending their own Factories farther and farther out from the centres which they occupy, until now the out look is that they will eventually shut out the small traders altogether.

We have the following from good authority and insert it for the general information of those interested.

"T. A. Wall Esqr. Formerly Commandant of Sherbro and wife are passengers by the Teneriffe for Accra where Mr. Wall has an appointment in the Customs service.

It will be remembered that Mr. Wall was very badly treated by Secretary Griffith and Governor Havelock and summarily bounced out of the service members of Parliament I am told have had him reinstated in the service."

Mr. Henry Titherington of Manoh Factory left this place for England about the 4th inst he was quite ill on the s. s. Formoso in the Harbor before leaving we trust he has had a prosperous journey.

The Parsonage,
Hastings,
May 11th 1888.

Dear Sir,—The "Early Dawn" is a welcome messenger to me every time it comes in, bringing, as it always does, items of interesting information about affairs in Sherbro. I beg to enclose herewith a P. O. O. for Twelve Shillings, my subscription for Two Years.

Wishing it increasing popularity, and with kind regards to you.

I remain, Dear Sir,
Your humble Servant,
J. B. BOWEN.

Rev. J. A. Evans.

THE REVIEWED COMMUNICATION BY CLEOPATRA'S NEEDLE.

Most men, in this community clog the wheels of their respect, and in revenge seek to undo others; whilst many are made contracted and compounded of false and empty words; therefore Poionius' patent advice to his son was "This above all—to thine own self be true."

It is an admissible fact, that we live in an age of thought, an age of progress, and an age of action, when it would be considered suicidal to close our eyes against any fictitious and prejudicial communication, however interesting it may be, so long as the grand lights of journalism are brilliantly shining with resplendent brightness.

I read with utter dissatisfaction and regret the communicated letter inserted in your last issue, purporting to be the arguments advanced on both sides of the Debate recently held at the Church School room, Bonthe. It would be waste of time for me to enter respectively into the details of the Debate, but I shall as brief as ever, reasonably endeavour to erase from the minds of the readers, the impression, that incorrect, partial and prejudicial communication had infused in them.

This "Radical Speaker" in favor of polygamy, who thought that any communication, however faulty and untrue in its nature, must be admitted by all for gospel, heedlessly ran to the Press with the view of exhibiting his literary qualifications, without adhering to the principles of Newspaper writing, but inconsiderately sent matters to the Press, matters constructed in untruthfulness, having for their foundation partiality and prejudice.

Now but my "Radical Speaker" alone could admire the incoherent scriptural citations those against Single Marriage cited, except it was unintentional but if not, there's nothing on earth enough to incite him to make such a blunder, but for the "Lowres and Fisher," he was necessarily compelled to flatter one, who was called to order for misconstruing the Holy Writ. I wonder at your notes-taking communicator. In the face of conscience who could believe that the whole of the arguments in favor of Single Marriage were not valid, whilst it had the vote unanimously carried by every man and woman in the meeting upon all that, despite the ablest arguments produced by one who had been accustomed to public speaking, and who totally destroyed the arguments of his opponents to the ground!

I shall be thankful to the writer, if he is disposed, to state exactly the words uttered by the chairman, in his concluding speech, and why Mr. Turner apologized, and whether he even mentioned any body besides himself who heard Mr T. said anything in his apology relative to the price of bibles at the Mission.

Although the writer is praiseworthy for his indefatigableness, as regards Newspaper writing, yet I shall advise him, to send genuine and not spurious matter to the Press, so that himself and communication will be creditably regarded.

NEWS ITEMS.

It is reported, that the issue or result of the long pending Caulker case; in the Supreme Court of Sierra Leone, is that the three Caulkers are to be hanged.

A Commissioner &c. of Sulymah has, we understand been appointed and has already gone to the District, to relieve G. H. Garrett Esqr., Sub Treasurer and Collector of Sherbro who has for many months been in temporary charge of Sulymah.

Great Excitement was reported to be prevailing in and about Shaingay about the 7th inst. in consequence of a rumor that had reached that place that Francis Caulker (a brother of Wm. T. G. Caulker) carrying war that way to avenge his brother's cause.

May 2.—Rev G. G. M. Nicol from Daymah

4.—"Formoso" for Free town with Kittel.

Gun firing at 8 p. m. and 5 a. m. resumed by order of Capt Daniel Acting Commandant.

9.—Formoso from Freetown with Mr. Z. E. T. Williams, Mesdames Felitia Davis, James, and Nicol.

11.—"Formoso" for Free town with Mrs. Sally Martyn.

G. H. Garrett arrived from Sulymah.

13.—"Countess of Derby" from Freetown—and left on the 14th with Capt Daniel who is proceeding to England.

The members of the "B. M. L. Club" intends having a—Quadrille party on the 24th inst., in commemoration of Her Majestys Birthday, several Ladies and Gents will be invited.

13.—Two special Annual sermons were preached at the Wesleyan Church both morn and evening by the pastor Rev J. C. Thomas.

"CANIBALISM AGAIN."

Mr. Editor,—It was in the month of June last year that I wrote an article in your issue of the 15th relative to the evil practice of substituting human flesh for fresh meat by the natives in the interior. At the same time I expressed my satisfaction for the sentence passed on one of the parties concerned to the long period of 10 years. I thought at the time that the sentence would have had the desired effect, that is, to prevent the occurrence of such inhuman actions. To my great surprise I happened to take a walk to the Police Station a few days ago where I found a man in custody charged with the wilful murder of a woman who was caught in the river by a supposed alligator, in the presence of her husband who was quite helpless to render her any assistance, (for he narrowly escaped from his assailant) The surviving husband is to be seen within the Govt. compounds, bearing their only child about two years old on his back.

Mr. Editor, "By this you will find that the natives do not regard the lives of their fellow creatures as being sacred and I would almost come to the belief (and I believe a just and reasonable one too) that penal punishment alone would not make any serious impression on the minds of the natives, excepting or unless they are made to feel what capital punishment or death by hanging is then and not till then will the lives of men be held sacred.

As the prisoner will be tried in the next Session to be held in Freetown on Monday the 14th inst, I hope the jurors will carefully investigate the matter and bring such verdict as will cast a lasting impression on the minds of those who are perpetrating the same deeds. Even here about Bonthe, it is reported that a man lays in ambush in the form of a leopard, attempting to fall upon unwary travellers who may chance to pass the way to Dumbokoh this puts the women in fear to proceed to that locality without an escort.

I await to hear what verdict will be brought on the present accused.

A CORRESPONDENT

Bonthe,
May 10, '88.

For the "Early Dawn."

Dear Editor,—Permit me through the medium of your valuable journal, to enquire from the Authorities; why the natives who are residing in British Territories are not paying License for their boats and canoes? Are they not sharing equal rights, protections, and privileges as any of the Sierra Leoneans? Many of them from the Boom, Kittam and the Imperreh countries are to be found here and there within British protection; and are enjoying more than equal rights, with Sierra Leoneans and foreigners; in connection with the general trade, they are also engaged in boat building &c., &c., and are allowed to ply their crafts, canoes, &c., of any size in British waters, both North and south free of License and undisturbed. It was thought sometime ago that that portion in Her Majesty's Ordinance would have taken thorough effect at the time, when License were imposed upon one Daveh, a Sherbro man, temporarily residing at Bendoomah creek for plying his Boat in British waters; but nothing further was seen or heard of Kong, Saisay, Gbannah Tuah and Humpah's boats or canoes. Sure enough Mr. Editor, I cannot for certain arrive at the conclusion that Her Majesty's Authorities are partial in dispensing justice to all; but viewing the whole in the line of business, what is predicated to one should be extended to the others, if such measures be adopted, I strongly believe it will serve to increase the Revenue of Sherbro rather than crippling it. Although it is not our lot to enjoy the benefits of the Revenue of Sherbro, such as the building of our Market house, the repairing of roads, bridges &c. Yet I can say candidly that "what is good for Tom is also good for John." You will hear from me again. Thanking you for space allotted me.

Meanwhile I remain
Upper Bargroo, Yours truly,
May 5th '88. A TRADER.

SCHOOL TEACHING IN SHERBRO

The above like all other engagements in life presents two sides, the dark and the bright side. The objectionable side, so far as Bonthe is concerned, is fraught with difficulties. Irregularity.—This is a gigantic evil with which teachers and managers of schools have had to contend, and would have been more easily dealt with, were it not that it comes from four different directions.

(1.) Parents—and these are divided into two classes' intelligent and ignorant.

(2.) Guardians.—godly and ungodly. Two of the four can be easily dealt with by teachers and managers. But they have not been able to devise such means as to obtain the co-operation of the other two, which is very desirable. It does not require strenuous efforts on the part of teachers to enlist the sympathy of parents as regards their children's education, (provided the parents are intelligent) seeing that it, under God, is calculated to be of great benefit to the children in after years. It is equally easy to enlist the sympathy of godly guardians But the other two classes defy their battle-ill skill.

A roving disposition, is another serious drawback. You dare not rely on the one half of the children, who like birds of passage stay only for a season. You may secure their attendance for a short time, but when you expect to see the fruit of your labor, they are gone to some of the rivers where ninety-nine per cent turn out wreckless characters, who help to swell the wretched horde of depredators.

Another serious hindrance is that a portion of a school may be of native children, who enter the school at the age of 12 or 13 years; amidst many difficulties. He has to support himself and must be obliged to offer his service at a disadvantage, to a very popular factory in this place, where he receives a few yards of cloth at times, and at other times a bottle of gin, (and that of the lowest kind) in return for service faithfully rendered the factory, and thus the poor child forms an early habit of drinking which neither the example, nor the precept of the teacher, or both put together can break. As a rule he makes little or no progress in his studies.

Tardiness is another discouraging feature which upsets all plans, however well laid by the teacher for the advancement and well being of the scholars, and this is traceable, with but very rare exceptions to the same source with irregularity.

Home influence is another together with a train of others, which not only beset the path of the teacher to a successful working of his school, but seem to bind his hands behind his back, so that he can only look, in regret and despondency for the future. But there is a bright side. The thought of the responsible position which he holds, rouses the teacher from despondency, and bids him go on. His is a very great responsibility. Responsible to God and men. The parent and relatives of the children look to him, society looks to him, the Church looks to him. He is indeed a representative man. Then teachers cannot be too faithful in the discharge of their duties; their individual difficulties must be, and undoubtedly though they may, with one or two exceptions in Freetown, is meagre and simply deplorable, yet the time is not distant when parents, society, the state, the Church, and managers of schools will send forth a unanimous and effectual cry which will be wafted on the wings of the wind from one part of the West Coast of Africa to the other, and will finally be adopted by the community of Bonthe. "Pay the teachers better salary."

T.

May, '88.

Mr. Editor,—Sir I was so fortunate to be present at Good Hope Church on the 13th inst. The pulpit was occupied by the Rev W. S. Macauley of Gbangbia his text was taken from 1. Peter iii. 10, 11, 12. "For he that will love life and see good days let him refrain his tongue from evil and, and his lips that they speak no guile."

I must really confess that I was much moved with the discourse delivered from the pulpit by the Rev gentleman, and during the service, I was seriously impressed when he warned the congregation against lying tongues & speaking evil of one another I must say, that God has put into the mouth of his servant to tell us our faults, he stated also that we should follow the example of our blessed Lord; and what it is to be hypocrites in the house of God those who were present in that meeting were better judges of the force and efforts put forth.

Thanking you for space occupied.

Yes
N. J. MACAULEY

May, '88.

Mr James Patterson Chief Officer s. s. "Formoso" left the Coast in s. s. "Benin" for a months leave at home he is expected to be out again in July next.

Notice.

The SEMI-ANNUAL EXAMINATION of Schools will D. V. take place from 15th to end of June 1888.

D. F. WILBERFORCE.
Supt of Schools, Shaingay

May 4th '88.

Notice.

THE Undersigned

A WRITING CLERK & ACCOUNTANT,

Begs to inform the Public of Bonthe and the Rivers that he is prepared to do all

WRITING JOB WORKS,

as follows:—

STOCK TAKING,
MAKING UP ACCTS,
WRITING LETTERS &c.

Charges Moderate!

For further particulars apply at his Residence, Williams St., abreast the Wesleyan Church, or by letter.

He solicits their patronage

W. BIDWELL COKER.

Bonthe,
May '88.

SPECIAL NOTICE

Is hereby given that arrangements have been made with Rev D. F. Wilberforce Supt. of Schools (U. B. C.) for Semi-Annual Examination about the last week in June next 1888 Teachers will please prepare accordingly.

J. A. EVANS,
Disct Supdt M Mission

Bonthe Ap! 21st '88

Miss Prude (aged forty, going to bed)—"Somebody's under my bed! My goodness! Can it be Fido! Fido! Fido (She then holds out her hand under the bed, and the wise burglar licks it). Oh! all right! It is Fido." She then retires, reassured, and sleeps through the burglary.

S. M. MISSION STORE.

Having Completely closed out OUR OLD STOCK OF

Woolen & Cotton Goods,

Are now beginning to replenish

Our Shelves

With entirely New

GOODS.

Some of which have arrived by the last Steamer and others are expected in the next few weeks.

N.B.—We still keep on hand a fresh & fine supply of provisions

J. A. EVANS

Bonthe, Apl 21, '88.

NOTICE.

The Undersigned

begs to inform his FRIENDS, CUSTOMERS, and the PUBLIC in general, that he is prepared to furnish at Short Notice, BOATS of all sizes, on hire per diem or per trip:

Viz:—

SIX OARED GIG BOATS,
FOUR OARED GIG do.
TWO OARED DINGY,
with or without hands;

—ALSO—

Lighters,

from 4 to 13 TONS.

For further particulars apply to

J. B. PARKINSON,
Victoria Rd, Bonthe.

Jan31to Apl28—3mo.

'Early Dawn'

PRINTING OFFICE.

Job Work Done at short

Notice.

Enquire of C. G. BELL, Printer.

GOOD HOPE STATION

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—We have to report a firm market and an advance of 5s. per ton on all oils except Lagos and Congo. Stock in Liverpool at the end of March 1888—8,850 tons.

Lagos	£19.	7.	6.
Old Calabar, Bonny and Cameroons	18.	10.	0	to	18	12	6.
Benin	17.	12.	6.	to	17	15	0.
Brass, Niger, and New Calabar.	17.	10.	0.
Loanda	17	5	0	to	£17	17	0
Accra kinds	17.	10.	0.	to	17	12	6
Congo	16.	15.	0.	to	17	0	0
Appam Saltpond & Winnebah,	16.	5.	0.	to	16	7	6
Dixcove & Liberian	16.	0.	0.
Sierra Leone & Sherbro,	16.	15.	0.	to	17	5	0

PALM KERNELS—Firmer quotations transit; basis 5 per cent shell.

Lagos, Old & New Calabar, Bonny & Cameroons	£10.	6.	3.	to	10	7	6.
Brass,	10	2.	6.	to	10	5	0
Benin and Congo,	9	17	6	to	10.	0	0.
Loanda	9	15	0	to	9	15	6
Liberian, Sherbro & Sa. Leone	9	12.	6.	to	9	15	0
Common shelly	9.	5	0.	to	9.	7	6.

GROUND NUTS—No sales.

BENNISEED—Unchanged.

COPRA—Sales £12. 5. 0. to £13. 5. 0. as in quality.

COFFEE—55s. to 56s. for bold berry; 60s. to 70s. Liberian.

COCOA—50s. to 90s. according to quality.

INDIA RUBBER—No change. Today's prices as follows:—

Gambia Niggers fair to prime	1s.	10d.	to	2s.	0d.
Sierra Leone do. do.	1s.	8d.	to	1s.	9d.
Thimblea	1s.	7½d.	to	1s.	8½d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s.	3d.	to	1s.	6d.
Soft and flaky Ball	0s.	9d	to	0s.	11d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim, & Assinie.	1s.	3d.	to	1s.	6d.
Liberian,	1s.	2d.	to	1s.	4d.
Saltpond	0s.	9d.	to	1s.	0d.
Accra, pressed and dried	0s.	9d.	to	1s.	1d.
Do Ordinary	0s.	8d.	to	0s.	8½d.
Flake and Lumps	0s.	8d.	to	0s	8½d.

GUM COPAL—Sales, Sierra Leone 8½d to 8¾d. as in quality, Accra inquired for at 37s. per cwt.

GINGER—New Sierra Leone 17s. to 17s. 6d. per cwt.

CHILLIES—23s. to 23s. 6d.

CALABAR BEANS 6½d per lb.

CAMWOOD—Again lower, £8. 10s. to £9. per ton.

EBONY—No change.

BARWOOD—No change.

KOLA NUTS—Very difficult of sale.

MONKEY SKINS—Sales from 1s. to 6s. as in quality.

IVORY—Sales postponed till May 2nd.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool,
April 13th 1888.

TIMBER FOR EXPORT.

Would naturally have to be of the better quality such as might increase in demand abroad, especially in England the great Market centre to which the West Africa Settlements on the coast now look; and toward which for many reasons a large portion of the interior is most likely to look, in, I should hope, the near future, for the varied products of those regions among which we may reasonably expect that rare and valuable woods will form a part; and if some means of conveyance is established, less precious woods, for the more ordinary and substantial purposes will also be brought into requisition, from even the now remote interior regions. But for the present, we must only hope for a trade in the Timber, about the headwaters of the rivers, which seems to be in sufficient abundance, as well as good enough in quality for an export trade. What now seems wanting is the mean of entrance and path to enter those dense forests of standing timber, select samples; making at the same time notes of the size in general of the trees, their length or height, and about how many of timber size are to be found on an acre, or at least make some estimate of the quantity of each kind of timber of which samples are selected. There is little or no doubt of finding all that is requisite for an export trade, provided there can be found a market abroad for the rough material, and from what we can learn from various sources it would seem that such a market could be found in England; if some one would give attention to the matter, and surely if there is a new kind of produce possible on this coast for any European market, it ought to be brought to the front in these times of dull trade. A timber trade possesses many other advantages of which I must try to write in my next, all being well.

J. A. E.

"There 're comforts in Marriage Life
And there are crosses too."

It was said by one who had great experience in a Marriage Life, that "When a man marries, then his trouble begins," however true it this statement, I will kindly submit it to those who have been long initiated to the Holy Order of Matrimony for decision; but my unpublished hands shall not attempt to solve the problem.

The young man, who deceitfully allows his hands to be mutually joined with the idea of accumulating wealth, or procuring a fortune, without considering that Matrimony was not only instituted for the procreation of children and to avoid the sin of fornication, but for the mutual society, help and comfort that the one ought to have of the other, both in prosperous and adverse circumstances, is cautiously advised not to take upon himself the responsibility of Marriage, unadvisedly, lightly or wantonly like irrational creatures that have no understanding, but advisedly, reverently, discreetly, soberly, and in the fear of God.

"Fools rush in where angels fear to tread."

As we have begun to see ripples of agitation on the surface of marriage waters, I will advise those who intend being a member, not to marry with the idea, of having a fortune, but from the motive of Love, and not for the "Loaves and Fishes." We need not wonder when we see the marriages of many result in blows and abuse, when the match is uneven, the qualification, nationality &c. is a dequate, and if there is any thing like the words L. O. V. E. existing between the pair in when the neighbours with eager feet, rush to ascertain the cause of the shout RED RUM, (the Capitals are to be pronounced inwardly).

I will sincerely beg my young inexperienced friend to adhere to the principle of marriage, and treat his dear partner better than he had done before.

His FRIEND

Minister (to boy who is digging for worms.)—Little boy, dont you know that it is wrong to work on Sunday, except in case of necessity? Boy (going on with his digging)—This is a case of necessity. A taller man's go fishin' 'bout so late.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, MAY 30, 1888. No. 10

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto, deliv'd in Bonthe,	0	2	6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GOSS, Shaingay, West Africa. Rev. WM. MCKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant	C. H. Hanley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Deputy Coroner,	Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk	W. Hughes
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff	F. R. B. Buckner.
Sub-Treas. & Col Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett. J. D. Macauley.
Tide Waiters.	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole
Asst Exmng Officer Saliph.	Jasper Coulter.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Inspector	Rev'and May
Postmaster.	R. B. Williams
Inspector of Police.	M. F. Reitz,
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis
Overseer of Roads.	A. G. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor. Rev. G. N. Jowett.
Asst Do. Rev R. C. Taylor

Mr and Mrs C. H. Hanley Moseley of British Sherbro who had arrived in England early in last month were in attendance at the 6th meeting of the session of the Royal Colonial Institute on Tuesday April 10th at the White Hall Rooms, Hotel Metropole, when a paper on "South Africa" was read by Sir Donald Currie K.C.M.G. M.P. The substance of the above information is from the "Colonies and India" of the 11th April and should have appeared in our last issue; but we are glad to give it now as many friends here have not been informed of Commandant and Mrs Moseley's safe arrival in England.

BOOKS AT HOME.

Among the many wise things that Mr. Beecher has said, there is none wiser than his words about books in the home. "We form judgments of men," says he, "from little things about their houses, of which the owner perhaps never thinks. In early years when travelling in the West, where taverns were scarce, and in some places unknown, and every settler's house was a house of entertainment, it was a matter of some importance and some experience to select wisely where you should put up. And we always looked for flowers. If there were no trees for shade, no patch of flowers in the yard, we were suspicious of the place. But no matter how rude the cabin or rough the surroundings, if we saw that the windows held a little trough for flowers and that some vines twined about strings let down from the eaves, we were confident that there was some taste and carefulness in the log-cabin. In a new country, where people have to tug for a living, no one will take the trouble to rear flowers unless the love of them is pretty strong; and this taste, blossoming out of plain and uncultivated people, is in itself a clump of harebells growing out of the seams of a rock. We were seldom misled. A patch of flowers came to signify kind people, clean beds, and good bread. But in other states of society other signs are more significant. Flowers about the rich man's house may signify only that he has a good gardener, or that he has refined neighbours, and does what he sees them do. But men are not accustomed to buy books, unless they want them. If on visiting the dwelling of a man in slender means we find that he contents himself with cheap carpets and very plain furniture in order that he may purchase books, he rises in our esteem. Books are not made for furniture, but there is nothing else that so beautifully furnishes a house. The plainest row of books that cloth or paper ever covered is more significant of refinement than the most elaborately carved sideboard. Give us a house furnished with books rather than furniture. Both if you can, but books at any rate! To spend several days in a friend's house, and hunger for something to read, while you are treading on costly carpet and sitting on luxurious chairs, and stooping upon down, is as if one were bribing your body for the sake of cheating your mind. Is it not pitiable to see a man growing rich, augmenting the comforts of home, and lavishing money on ostentatious upholstery, upon the table, upon everything but what the soul needs? Books are the windows through which the soul looks out. A home without books is like a room without windows. No man has a right to bring up his children without surrounding them with books if he has the means to buy them. It is a wrong to his family. He cheats them! Children learn to read by being in the presence of books. The love of knowledge comes with reading and grows upon it. And the love of knowledge in a young mind is almost a warrant against the inferior excitement of passions and vices. Let us pity these poor rich men who live barrenly in great bookless houses! Let us congratulate the poor that, in our day, books are so cheap that a man may every year add a hundred volumes to his library for the price which his tobacco and his beer would cost him. Among the earliest ambitions to be excited in clerks, workmen, journeymen, and, indeed, among all that are struggling up in life from nothing to something, is that of owning and constantly adding to a library of good books. A little library growing larger every year is an honorable part of a young man's history. It is a man's duty to have books. A library is not a luxury, but one of the necessaries of life.—Am. Ed. Catalogue.

BETTER PAY FOR TEACHERS.

T., a Correspondent in the last issue of the Early Dawn under the head of "School teaching in Sherbro" closes his fine paper, by expressing a desire for the better pay of Teachers; which has naturally raised a question in the mind of the writer, and that is who should pay these Teachers a better salary? Is it the persons whose children are being taught in the schools or the Government that collects a Revenue, from the Trade of the country, or should the different Missionary Societies operating in the country pay it? To me it would seem that Teachers ought to receive better pay, where they devote their whole time, talent, and energies to the work, as I have every reason to believe that T. does. But then from whom should the money come, is the great question from home or abroad? It has seemed to me, that every intelligent person that has a child under the tuition of a good teacher, ought to contribute, in some way to that teacher's support. And if this was done, how easily it would be for the managers of some schools to increase the pay of Teachers. In many Mission schools, at the present time, the Societies supporting them are obliged to keep the school houses in repair, supply the children with Books, Slates, Pencils, Ink, Pens, Copy Books, &c., &c; which cost in a year a good sum of money, aside from the Teacher's salary. And all this money must come from abroad, from strangers who receive no benefit from it whatever. To ask these foreigners and strangers to increase the means for paying teachers, to instruct the home-born children of this country seems absurd, when the parents of these same children will not, or do not, at least, pay anything for their education.

Yours,—J. ALBERT.

Bonthe,
May 21, '88.

FAITHFUL TESTIMONY.

The Editor of the Wesleyan Methodist, says:

"In these later days the devil seems to have inaugurated another scheme—the pet of his heart of darkness—and that is the multiplication of secret societies under multiplied names and specious pretences, and the flooding of the church with their secret, treasonable conspiracies against the genius, spirit, life and power of the Gospel of Christ and that purchased with his blood. That there is a common bond of secret union running through the secret fraternities some of them are so plausible in their outward protests as to deceive, if possible, the very elect. For many years the temperance cause has been brought to the support of organized secrecy. Since the war the honor of the country feels bound to bestow upon its brave defenders is subjected to the same base service, while a multitude of secret insurance swindles has deceived many with profers of money for their allegiance to secretism. The claims of honest labor for legitimate consideration is turned aside to support a secret despotism. As an advocate of temperance we have never deemed anything allied to the cause which needed secret secrecy. It is a public cause, and when it triumphs will triumph in open conflict. Those who know the history of the temperance cause best, know that secrecy has been its blight and mildew. When the great Washingtonian movement of nearly half a century ago was taken into secrecy, it ceased to its death.

"What an old soldier one need of secrecy is a question which, as an old soldier of between three and four years service, we have never been able to discover. The soldier's record was made in open view of an imperilled nation, and only a sneak and a coward needs the tyled and cartooned prostrate of secretism as the archivers of his record, though many brave men have been deceived into secret allegiance in the name of the Grand Army of the Republic. We honor the defender of his country, and deem his self-sacrifice worthy of open proclamation, and in every way above the tyled and guarded precincts of lodgery.

"We have only sympathy and honor for the honest, industrious working man, and protest against his being sold into secret bondage to become the slave of high salaried task masters, to be ordered to idleness to the impoverishing of the laborer and his needy family. This is a free country, and a man can work for whom he will, as each terms as he pleases on mutual agreement between the individual free man and the employer of labor, with the consistent hope that he may become in time himself an employer. We have not time or space to trace this line of thought. We have in our heart to lift a voice of warning in the ears of our dear people against this whole secret business, which has the bend of darkness upon it, and by the instruction of him who "ever spake openly." "He that doeth evil hateth the light." Secretism is the legitimate sphere for all that is false, and deceptive, and vile, but not the legitimate sphere for all that is true and pure. Again let God be forever praised that he has raised up the Wesleyan Methodist connection of America, to "lift up a standard among the people" against the dark orders which swarm the land like the destructive locusts of Egypt. It is plainly written in our disciplinary law that members of secret societies are not allowed membership in our church. We ask in the name of Christ, fidelity to the law of the church enacted after years of deliberation and with only four dissenting votes in its final passage.

Concluded on page 6.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

MAY 30, 1888.

THE SPIRITS TRADE.

So we name it, as but few men like to speak out about liquor of rum or gin, in fact there are not many but are ashamed of the liquor business and hain would not have it spoken of in respectable circles. Then it may be asked why they do not cease from dealing in a thing of which in reality every gentleman is ashamed; and for very shame's sake if he must refer to it in good company he calls spirits which is a more respectable name, since there other than alchoholic spirits spoken of in the world? The only reason we can gather for the continuation of the spirits or liquor Trade is that 1. the practice is of long standing has gained popularity among the masses of a very much abased population 2. its popularity among the low and very many who ought to be high has given it a great demand in almost every locality 3. large sales as a result of the great demand recommend it to dealers as a commodity of great, if not indispensable, value to trade. These we believe are the chief reasons why men adhere to the liquor Traffic with such tenacity and even violate their own conciences and good morals sense for the sake of handling something that sells quick and with which they can make an easy turnover. It is however a very great pity that Native Merchants, and who professing christians, and who from day to day see the debasing influence of strong drink on the race, will not consider the wrong effect of the liquor trade upon every community and cease from such a ruinous traffic. For we feel that it is little use for a man to give liberally, even to the cause of Missions, for elevating his race while on the other hand he continues to deal out to the same people rum and gin to their utter degradation and ruin.

THE VIRGINIA CONFERENCE of the U. B. Church, of which the writer is a member, held its Fifty-seventh Annual Session in Dayton Va., U. S. A. from 14th to 18th of March. This the first session since the separation of Maryland Conference, was of rather more than ordinary interest. The Conference passed a very kind resolutions referring both to the writer, and also the "Early Dawn" for which we return our most hearty thanks. The Conference is heartily in sympathy with our Mission in Germany and Africa, and passed good resolutions touching the work in each field.

Messrs Thompson Brothers, are we believe, admitted, on all hands to be the leading Firm of Native Traders doing business in the rivers and at present lead the River Trade. Yet they do not, and have not for the past two years, dealt in spirits or liquor. And one of the partners told the writer a few days ago, that they have not felt the want of liquors at all in their business since they quit selling it; and that they have done a good business ever since. Mr. Thompson said further that he is trying to induce other traders to give up the sale of liquor and believes if they will that it will tend to quiet the river districts. We sincerely wish this noble Firm every possible success, in their trade without rum the curse of Africa.

A World's Missionary Conference—it is reported (and has been for some months past) will be held in Exeter Hall, London, June 9th to 19th proximo when it is expected that great subjects of the Missionary Enterprize will be discussed by able workers. We have not space to give the heads of the subjects, but can say that they are very important. The design of the conference, as we understand, is "to stimulate and encourage all evangelistic agencies." The Missionaries & their converts in the field are asked to spend a part of each day, during the conference, "in prayer for the gift of the Holy spirit, which includes all good things."

ANNIVERSANY OF THE WESLEYAN MISSIONS.

From our special Correspondent.

On Sunday the 13th inst., the Rev. J. C. Thomas, pastor, preached two Interesting and instructive Sermons on behalf of the above Missions in the Church in Lime Street. The preacher selected for his text 1 Cor. xv.-25. "For he must reign till he hath put all enemies under his feet." After a succinct exordium based upon the 110th Psalm and upon the prophecies of Isaiah and Zechariah, respecting the exaltation of the Redeemer to the Mediatorial government resulting from the accomplishment of the Work of Redemption, the preacher showed that sin was an enemy to Christ, and that it had caused various forms to the world, so that the enemies of Christ were many; he enumerated a few with which the congregation were familiar, such as Superstition and Idolatory, Mohamedanism, and war, in their distinct and specific characters, and proved from the prophecies that their destruction was inevitable.

In the evening after showing that Death was the last enemy to be destroyed, the preacher practically urged upon the congregation that the design of the Redeemer's reign was to destroy sin and promote the salvation and happiness of the human family, and that they were the means in the hand of the Spirit for the subjugation of all the enemies of Christ. This is to be hoped that the lesson learnt from the discourses of 13th would make an indelible impression on the minds of those who listened to them.

The Juvenile Missionary meeting which took place on Tuesday the 15th at 11. a.m. under the presidency of Mr. S. B. Macaulay was pervaded with a very good feeling, of as the audience listened to the cheering report read by the Secretary and to the humourous and impressive speeches of Messrs D.M. P. Thorpe, I. R. K. May, E. W. Parkinson, and Rev. R. C. Taylor. This was followed by a sermon at 7, p. m. to a crowded congregation from the Revd. W. R. C. Cockill Chairman and Gen'l Superintendent of the Sierra Leone and Gambia District who had arrived from Freetown in the course of that day. The discourse which was listened to with rapt attention, and which was based upon the words from Job xxviii, 28, was a masterpiece. The preacher who has a fine voice was very plain and understood by every one. Another service was held on the morning of the 16th but not in connection with the Anniversary, as no collection was taken up, when Mr. Cockill preached to a large audience from Matthew v. 13. Truth, although bitter, is the truth. If professors of the Christian religion can only realize that they are the salt of the earth, and regulate their lives according by, their influence in Society and in the world would operate for the good of their fellow creatures.

The Public Meeting was in accordance with previous notice held and presided over by J. Williams Esquire. The report read by the Secretary, was encouraging and the amount realized was in advance of last year. The speakers on the occasion were the Revs. S. B. Morrison, J. A. Evans, W. S. Macaulay and Mr. W. D. Pasha. Want of space precludes the possibility of giving in extenso the speeches of the gentlemen. The rum and gin trade was denounced by Messrs Morrison and Evans as iniquitous, because it had been deleterious to the influence of the gospel in these regions, reduced many persons to penury, a larger amount being annually spent on it than is given towards the cause of Christ, and has wrought untold missery in the entire country. The chairman in his closing speech admitted the fact, and stated that it would be a good thing for the country should all the traders follow in the wake of Messrs Thompson Brothers who trade in the Boom and Kittam without rum and gin. After a vote of thanks to the chairman the Meeting closed by singing the Doxology and by the pronouncing of the Benediction.

QUEEN'S BIRTH DAY AT BONTHE.

The members of the "B. M. L. Club" in honor of the 70th Birthday of Her Majesty the Queen gave a conversazione at the Court Hall kindly placed at their disposal by the Acting Commandant G. H. Garrett Esqr., on Thursday evening last the 24th inst.

No sooner the hour at which the amusement was to commence had arrived, a crowd of Ladies and Gentlemen poured in the compound, dressed in tasteful Robes, and ere the clock struck 8 a sufficient number had been gathered together to portend the treats of dancing as was Programmed. Upon the arrival of the Acting Civil Commandant, a thrill of perfect stillness took place and the Band played the National Anthem in such tones of perfect melody and sweetness, that when I stood, I felt thoroughly enraptured.

The Hall was tastefully decorated with Flags, Banners and evergreens and the brilliancy of the Lights were to the extent of embracing every feeling in the observer on the ground even the smallest.

After the Commandant had expressed to Club's executive his entire satisfaction of the loyalty evinced by the members of the Club in regarding to such a commendable extent the 70th Birth-day of Her Majesty the Queen, kindly accepted the thanks of the Club's Executive and retired an hour afterwards. There was much attention paid to those invited by the members of the Club who were modest and polite in their manners on the occasion and anxious to please all those with whom they came in contact refreshments were well peovided.

We wish the Club all possible success and we trust that with Mr Thorpe the indefatigable Secretary and his assistant Mr Bidwell Coker at the head, there will be many more such amusements to enliven the District from time to time.

This interesting gathering came to a close at 2. a. m.

2. In accordance with general orders from G. H. Garrett Esqr., Acting Commandant Inspector Betts ordered the men in the police force under his command to appear in the New Battery arrayed by Capt Daniel, and which is called by the public "Daniel's Battery," at the precise hour of 11. 45. a.m. in their full Dress uniform with the Inspector at their head and in his full uniform having his silver laced cap and a sword drawn representing a Colonel when a General Royal salute of 21 guns were fired from the Battery and also a feu de joie by the Police in the presence of the acting Commandant and a respectable gathering including the Government Officials, merchants &c.

The sum of Twenty Shillings was presented to the Police by the Acting Commandant. In the afternoon of the same day the Acting Commandant received at his quarters several distinguished visitors who passed the time most jovially.

AN EYE WITNESS.

May 25, '88.

Mr. H. Burnett, Agent for Sierra Leone Coaling Company &c., Freetown Sierra Leone who arrived by the s. s. Formoso on the 20th inst., gave us a very pleasant call indeed he also subscribed to our paper one copy for his Firm & another for himself as a private individual; We must confess that we rather more than appreciate Mr. Burnett's way of doing the thing. Mr. B. is seemingly in fine health and spirits, he will most likely return to Sierra Leone by the steamer to-morrow (31st inst.)

NEWS ITEMS.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.—We have received at this Office a copy of the Published minutes of the Virginia Annual Conference for 1888, through the kindness of Messrs Rudbush Keiffer & Co., Printers Dayton Rockingham Co. Va., U. S. A., who have our best thanks for the same.

The New Saw-Mill of the Sierra Leone and Sherbro sawmill Co., is, we understand, about ready to run when they get sufficient water. The water being very low, at present, in that quarter.

15.—s. s. Formoso from Freetown with Rev W. R. C. Cockill Genl. Supt., of the Wesleyan Connexion and Edward Edwards as passenger.

16.—Formoso for Freetown with Dr. M. L. Jarrett, Messrs C. J. Cole, W. H. Davison, J. Songo Davis, Rev W. R. C. Cockill and masters Parkinson and Macfoy.

Anniversary of Wesleyan Mission took place the same day.

24.—The members of the B. M. L. C. gave a Quadrille party at the Court Hall in honor of H. M. Birth-day.

26.—A general Royal Salute was fired at Daniel's bat ery by the police under command of Inspector Betts.

The Acting Commandant G. H. Garrott Esqr., was present.

Mr. C. T. Wilhelm and T. A Saunders called on us on the 23rd inst the former we believe is Mr. J. B. Parkinson's Agt. at the Pimpee.

Mr. E. A. Lewis Garrison St. Freetown has been appointed Agt. for the Early Dawn News Paper this gentleman will be pleased to receive the names of persons wishing to Subscribe for our journal in Freetown

Personal

Rev. W. R. C. Cockill Supt. of the Wesleyan Connexion arrived in this place per s. s. Formoso on the 15th inst, and preached in the Wesleyan chapel the Annual Sermon of the Anniversary, which is said to have been a very good sermon indeed; he also preached again at 7. a. m. and left by the s. s. Formoso the same day for Freetown.

Mr. E. Edwards has returned from England, he arrived here from Freetown on the 15th inst.

Rev. S. B. Morrison of Avery Station spent a few days in this place about 16th to 18th of this month.

Capt. J. A. Lewis, Agent Yates and Porterfield of Freetown, left for the United States per barque Liberia, Mr. J. M. Burnett will conduct the business of Y. & P. during the absence of Capt Lewis.

Mr. Wm. Lewis junr., who had been so ill at the Gbargroo we are glad to learn is still improving and we hope may soon be all right again.

Capt A. North Daniel, who left here on the 14th inst per s. s. Countess of Derby; has since proceeded to England we learn by the s. s. Sherbro.

We regret to note in this issue the death of Dr. G. V. T. Manly of Freetown, so well and favorably known in the Sherbro. Many of our readers this way will be saddened by this intelligence. Dr. Manly we believe passed away on the 24th inst.

DR. GEORGE V. T. MANLY.

On Thursday morning last, passed away from us to join the great majority, Doctor George V. T. Manly, for several years Medical Practitioner in this city.

Through the generosity of His Honor the late Chief Justice CARR, the deceased in his youthful years had the benefit of educational training at the Grammar School, and was subsequently employed as a Clerk to the Judge, his benefactor. Some years later he was selected by the C. M. Society for the purpose of pursuing medical studies in England. After a short residence in London he proceeded to Edinburgh, where he pursued his studies with great diligence and took his first degrees. While reading for a higher degree, his health failed and he was compelled to return to his native land. With the help of his friends he obtained a large supply of drugs and began his medical career which extended to over quarter of a century, during which period, he served very usefully his country and people. The deceased was a most patient and painstaking physician, and all who had the benefit of his treatment would admit that he was kind and agreeable to the extreme. He was particularly skilful in midwifery and made the diseases of women and children a special study. The poor invalid sufferer has always met with a kind reception at his surgery, and hundreds of this class, who regarded him as "the poor man's doctor" will miss him keenly.

About the year 1880, Dr. Manly was appointed by the Colonial Government to supply the vacancy at Sherbro, in the absence of the Assistant Colonial Surgeon. He carried with him to that station a devotion to his profession which secured for him the highest esteem of the inhabitants of that district and it was with deep regret that they parted from him at the expiration of his term of service.

About a year ago, the health of the deceased began to fail. It first evidenced itself in the losing of money and subsequently in the gradual failure of speech; he grew worse and serious apprehensions were entertained. He was removed a few weeks ago to his country seat at Brookfiuld, where an excessive prostration brought him to the point of death, and he was hastily borne to his town residence as dead. A flying report of his death was circulated throughout the town but he rallied and survived for nearly a fortnight, and when trail nature became completely exhausted, he fell asleep about 10, 20 on Thursday morning, deeply lamented. The funeral took place on the following morning, when at the Cathedral the solemn ceremony was performed by Ven. Archdeacon Robbin Chaplain Eldred Taylor, and at the grave, the Rev. O. Moore assisted. The large number of our leading citizens who attended both at church and followed the procession to the grave, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, testifies the great respect in which the deceased was held in the community.

The late Doctor Manly during his career, has generally identified himself with every religious and patriotic movement, and in these gatherings his familiar form will now be missed. In the council board of the Native Pastorate Church of which he was a member, his voice will no longer be heard; he has finished his work and is gone to his reward. We offer our deepest sympathy to his bereaved widow and children on their irreparable loss.—Weekly News.

Rev D. K. Flickinger D. D who left England for the United States about the last of Ap'l informs us, in a private letter to the writer, that himself and Dr. J. G. Jones had just purchased a new Bell for the Rufus Clark and wife Training School at Shaingay on the 26th Ap'l the day previous to his writing. He further speaks of meeting Rev. J. A. Cole in London and that he had sent a copy of Dr. Blyden's Book to Shaingay Mission by Mr. Cole who we believe was on the eve of coming out to the coast.

Kittam,—Makiah,—Bandajumah &c.—We are in receipt of a letter, from the Kittam but too late for insertion in this issue which gives information of an expected attack by Makiah on Bandajumah; or perhaps it is better to say that Makiah having failed in a former attack on Bandajumah may return again, but should he fail to do so, the people of Bandajumah may seek revenge and thus in either case our informant (who signs himself Peaceful Ben) fears the peace of the country may be disturbed unless the Govt. interferes.

I have heard it said very truly that if we put God in His right place, He will put us in our right place.

FAITFUL TESTIMONY.

From Page 1.

No member of any secret society has any right to seek to impose himself upon our churches, and any member of a secret society which may be now in our church—and thank God, they are few and far between—should at once choose between the lodge and the church. If they prefer the lodge to the church they should take them-selves out of the church at once, and if they prefer the church to the lodge they should take themselves out of the lodge at once.

NOTICE.

THE Undersigned begs to inform the Public and his numerous customers that he has reduced the price of

Fresh Meat,

from 7d. to 6d. per lb.
Mutton 9d.—Pork 8d. per lb. can be had at his stall, Victoria Road, opposite Mr. J. B. Parkinson, every Saturday.

WILLIAM A. JOHN,
Butcher.

May 1888.

Medicine! Medicine!! Medicine!!!

Now on hand & for sale at the

S. M. MISSION STORE

Acid Phosphate,
Blackberry Cordial,
Beecham's Pills,
Cathartic Pills,
Castor Oil large & small,
Calisaya and Iron,
Cough cure (Heusley),
Dyspepsia cure,
Damina Pills,
Epp's Ernly Sche,
Epsom Salts,
Holloways Pills & Oint.
Quinine,
Greek and Indian cure,
Griadilis Asthma,
Gout cure,
Iron Tonic Bitters,
Kidney cure,
Liver Regulator,
Lion Pills & Ointment
Mc'Neil's Blood Pills
Renie's Magic oil,
Nerve and bone liniment,
Porous Plaster,
Pain Killer,
Pain Exterminator,
Pain Dispeller,
Pectoral wine,

J. A. EVANS
Bontho.
May 22, '88.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

MAY 30, 1888.

THE SPIRITS TRADE

So we name it, as but few men like to speak out about liquor or rum or gin, in fact there are not many but are ashamed of the liquor business and him would not have it spoken of in respectable circles. Then it may be asked why they do not cease from dealing in a thing of which in reality every gentleman is ashamed; and for very shame's sake if he must refer to it in good company he calls spirits which is a more respectable name, since there other than alcoholic spirits spoken of in the world? The only reason we can gather for the continuation of the spirits or Liquor Trade is that 1. the practice is of long standing has gained popularity among the masses of a very much abased population. 2. its popularity among the low and very many who ought to be high has given it a great demand in almost every locality 3. large sales as a result of the great demand recommend it to dealers as a commodity of great, if not indispensable, value to trade. These we believe are the chief reasons why men adhere to the Liquor Traffic with such tenacity and even violate their own consciences and good moral sense for the sake of handling something that sells quick and with which they can make an easy turnover. It is however a very great pity that Native Merchants, who are professing christians, and who from day to day see the debasing influence of strong drink on the race, will not consider the stifling effect of the liquor trade upon every community and cease from such a ruinous traffic. For we feel that it is little use for a man to give liberally, even to the cause of Missions, for elevating his race while on the other hand he continues to deal out to the same people rum and gin to their utter degradation and ruin.

THE VIRGINIA CONFERENCE of the U. B. Church of which the writer is a member held its Fifty-seventh Annual Session in Dayton Va., U. S. A. from 14th to 18th of March This the first session since the separation of Maryland Conference, was of rather more than ordinary interest. The Conference passed a very kind resolutions referring both to the writer, and also the "Early Dawn" for which we return our most hearty thanks. The Conference is heartily in sympathy with our Mission in Germany and Africa, and passed good resolutions touching the work in each field.

Messrs Thompson Brothers, are we believe, admitted, on all hands to be the leading Firm of Native Traders doing business in the rivers and at present lead the River Trade. Yet they do not, and have not for the past two years, dealt in spirits or liquor. And one of the partners told the writer a few days ago, that they have not felt the want of liquors at all in their business since they quit selling it; and that they have done a good business ever since. Mr. Thompson said further that he is trying to induce other traders to give up the sale of liquor and believes if they will that it will tend to quiet the river districts. We sincerely wish this noble Firm every possible success, in their trade without rum the curse of Africa.

A World's Missionary Conference—it is reported (and has been for some months past) will be held in Exeter Hall, London, June 9th to 19th proximo when it is expected that great subjects of the Missionary Enterprize will be discussed by able workers. We have not space to give the heads of the subjects, but can say that they are very important. The design of the conference, as we understand, is "to stimulate and encourage all evangelistic agencies." The Missionaries & their converts in the field are asked to spend a part of each day, during the conference, "in prayer for the gift of the Holy spirit, which includes all good things."

ANNIVERSARY OF THE WESLEYAN MISSIONS.

From our special Correspondent.

On Sunday the 13th inst., the Rev J. C. Thomas, pastor, preached two interesting and instructive Sermons on behalf of the above Missions in the Church in Lime Street. The preacher selected for his text 1 Cor. xv-25 "For he must reign till he hath put all enemies under his feet." After a succinct exordium based upon the 110th Psalm and upon the prophecies of Isaiah and Zechariah, respecting the exaltation of the Redeemer to the Mediatorial government resulting from the accomplishment of the Work of Redemption, the preacher showed that sin was an enemy to Christ, and that it had assumed various forms in the world, so that the enemies of Christ were many: he enumerated a few with which the congregation were familiar, such as Superstition and Idolatory, Mohamedanism, and war, in their distinct and specific characters, and proved from the prophecies that their destruction was inevitable.

In the evening after showing that Death was the last enemy to be destroyed, the preacher practically urged upon the congregation that the design of the Redeemer's reign was to destroy sin and promote the salvation and happiness of the human family, and that they were the means in the hand of the Spirit for the subjugation of all the enemies of Christ. It is to be hoped that the practical deduction from the discourses of 13th would make an indelible impression on the minds of those who listened to them.

The Juvenile Missionary meeting which took place on Tuesday the 15th at 11. a.m. under the presidency of Mr. S. B. Macaulay was pervaded with a very good feeling, of as the audience listened to the cheering report read by the Secretary and to the humorous and impressive speeches of Messrs D.M. P. Thorpe, I. R. G. May, E. W. Parkinson, and Rev. R. C. Taylor. This was followed by a sermon at 7. p. m. to a crowded congregation from the Revd. W. R. C. Cockill Chairman and Gen'l Superintendent of the Sierra Leone and Gambia District who had arrived from Freetown in the course of that day. The discourse which was listened to with rapt attention, and which was based upon the words from Job xxviii, 28, was a masterpiece. The preacher who has a fine voice was very plain and understood by every one. Another service was held on the morning of the 16th but not in connection with the Anniversary, as no collection was taken up, when Mr. Cockill preached to a large audience from Matthew v. 13. Truth, although bitter, is the truth. If professors of the Christian religion can only realize that they are the salt of the earth, and regulate their lives accordingly, their influence in Society and in the world would operate for the good of their fellow creatures.

The Public Meeting was in accordance with previous notice held and presided over by J. A. Williams Esquire. The report read by the Secretary was encouraging and the amount realized was in advance of last year. The speakers on the occasion were the Revs. S. B. Morrison, J. A. Evans, W. S. Macaulay and Mr. W. D. Pasha. Want of space precludes the possibility of giving in extenso the speeches of the gentlemen. The rum and gin trade was denounced by Messrs Morrison and Evans as iniquitous, because it had been delterious to the influence of the gospel in these regions, reduced many persons to penury, a larger amount being annually spent on it than is given towards the cause of Christ and has wrought untold misery in the entire country. The chairman in his closing speech Admitted the fact, and stated that it would be a good thing for the country should all the traders follow in the wake of Messrs Thompson Brothers who trade in the Boom and Kittam without rum and gin. After a vote of thanks to the chairman the Meeting closed by singing the Doxology and by the pronouncing of the Benediction.

QUEEN'S BIRTH DAY AT BONTHE

The members of the "B M & Club" in honor of the 70th Birthday of Her Majesty the Queen gave a conversazione at the Court Hall kindly placed at their disposal by the Acting Commandant G. H. Garrett Esqr., on Thursday evening last the 24th inst.

No sooner the hour at which the amusement was to commence had arrived a crowd of Ladies and Gentlemen poured in the compound, dressed in tasteful Robes, and ere the clock struck a sufficient number had been gathered together to perform the work of dancing as per Programme. Upon the arrival of the Acting Civil Commandant a thrill of perfect stillness took place and the Band played the National Anthem in such tones of perfect melody and sweetness, that where I stood I felt thoroughly enraptured.

The Hall was tastefully decorated with Flags, Banners and evergreens and the brilliancy of the Lights were to the extent of rendering every facility to observe on the ground even the smallest.

After the Commandant had expressed to Club's executive his entire satisfaction of the loyalty evinced by the members of the Club in regarding to such a commendable extent the 70th Birth day of Her Majesty the Queen, kindly accepted the thanks of the Club's Executive and retired an hour afterwards. There was much attention paid to those invited by the members of the Club who were modest and polite in their manners on the occasion and anxious to please all those with whom they come in contact refreshments were well provided.

We wish the Club all possible success and we trust that with Mr Thorpe the indefatigable Secretary and his assistant Mr Bidwell Coker at the head, there will be many more such amusements to enliven the District from time to time.

This interesting gathering came to a close at 2. a. m.

2. In accordance with general orders from G. H. Garrett Esqr., Acting Commandant Inspector Betts ordered the men in the police force under his command to repair to the New Battery erected by Capt Daniel, and which is called by the police "Daniel's Battery" at the precise hour of 11. 45. a.m. in their full Dress uniform with the Inspector at their head and in his full uniform having his silver laced cap and a sword drawn representing a Colonel when a General Royal salute of 21 guns were fired from the Battery and also a feu de joie by the Police in the presence of the acting Commandant and a respectable gathering including the Government Officials, merchants &c.

The sum of Twenty Shillings was presented to the Police by the Acting Commandant. In the afternoon of the same day the Acting Commandant received at his quarters several distinguished visitors who passed the time most jovially.

AN EYE WITNESS.

May 25, '88.

Mr. H. Burnett, Agent for Sierra Leone Coaling Company &c., Freetown Sierra Leone who arrived by the s. s. Formoso on the 29th inst., gave us a very pleasant call indeed he also subscribed to our paper one copy for his Firm & another for himself as a private individual; We must confess that we rather more than appreciate Mr. Burnett's way of doing the thing. Mr. B. is seemingly in fine health and spirits, he will most likely return to Sierra Leone by the steamer tomorrow (31st inst.)

NEWS ITEMS.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.—We have received at this Office a copy of the Published minutes of the Virginia Annual Conference for 1888, through the kindness of Messrs Reubush Keiffer & Co., Printers Dayton Rockingham Co. Va., U. S. A., who have our best thanks for the same.

The New Saw-Mill of the Sierra Leone and Sherbro sawmill Co., is, we understand, about ready to run when they get sufficient water. The water being very low, at present, in that quarter.

15.—s. s. Formoso from Freetown with Rev W. R. C. Cockill Genl. Supt., of the Wesleyan Connexion and Edward Edwards as passenger.

16.—Formoso for Freetown with Dr. M. L. Jarrett, Messrs. C. J. Cole, W. H. Davison, J. Songo Davis, Rev W. R. C. Cockill and masters Parkinson and Macfoy.

Anniversary of Wesleyan Mission took place the same day.

24.—The members of the B. M. L. C. gave a Quadrille party at the Court Hall in honor of H. M. Birthday.

26.—A general Royal Salute was fired at Daniel's battery by the police under command of Inspector Betts.

The Acting Commandant G. H. Garrett Esqr., was present.

Mr. C. T. Wilhelm and T. A. Saunders called on us on the 23rd inst the former we believe is Mr. J. B. Parkinson's Agt. at the Pimpee.

Mr. E. A. Lewis Garrison St. Freetown has been appointed Agt. for the Early Dawn News Paper this gentleman will be pleased to receive the names of persons wishing to Subscribe for our journal in Freetown

Personal

Rev. W. R. C. Cockill Supt. of the Wesleyan Connexion arrived in this place per s. s. Formoso on the 15th inst, and preached in the Wesleyan chapel the Annual Sermon of the Anniversary, which is said to have been a very good sermon indeed; he also preached again at 7. a. m. and left by the s. s. Formoso the same day for Freetown.

Mr. E. Edwards has returned from England, he arrived here from Freetown on the 15th inst.

Rev. S. B Morrison of Avery Station spent a few days in this place about 16th to 18th of this month.

Capt. J. A. Lewis, Agent Yates and Porterfield of Freetown, left for the United States per barque Liberia, Mr J. M. Barnett will conduct the business of Y. & P. during the absence of Capt Lewis.

Mr. Wm. Lewis junr., who had been so ill at the Gbargroo we are glad to learn is still improving and we hope may soon be all right again.

Capt A. North Daniel, who left here on the 14th inst per s. s. Countess of Derby; has since proceeded to England we learn by the s. s. Sherbro.

We regret to note in this issue the death of Dr. G. V. T. Manly of Freetown, so well and favorably known in the Sherbro. Many of our readers this way will be saddened by this intelligence. Dr. Manly we believe passed away on the 24th inst.

DR. GEORGE V. T. MANLY.

On Thursday morning last, passed away from us to join the great majority, Doctor George V. T. Manly, for several years Medical Practitioner in this city.

Through the generosity of His Honor the late Chief Justice Carr, the deceased in his youthful years had the benefit of educational training at the Grammar School, and was subsequently employed as a Clerk to the Judge, his benefactor. Some years later he was selected by the C. M. Society for the purpose of pursuing medical studies in England. After a short residence in London he proceeded to Edinburgh, where he pursued his studies with great diligence and took his first degrees. While reading for a higher degree, his health failed and he was compelled to return to his native land. With the help of his friends he obtained a large supply of drugs and began his medical career which extended to over quarter of a century, during which period, he served very usefully his country and people. The deceased was a most patient and painstaking physician, and all who had the benefit of his treatment would admit that he was kind and agreeable to the extreme. He was particularly skilful in midwifery and made the diseases of women and children a special study. The poor invalid sufferer has always met with a kind reception at his surgery, and hundreds of this class, who regarded him as "the poor man's doctor" will miss him keenly.

About the year 1880, Dr. Manly was appointed by the Colonial Government to supply the vacancy at Sherbro, in the absence of the Assistant Colonial Surgeon. He carried with him to that station a devotion to his profession which secured for him the highest esteem of the inhabitants of that district and it was with deep regret that they parted from him at the expiration of his term of service.

About a year ago, the health of the deceased began to fail. It first evidenced itself in the losing of memory and subsequently in the gradual failure of speech he grew worse and serious apprehensions were entertained. He was removed a few weeks ago to his country seat at Brookfield, where an excessive prostration brought him to the point of death, and he was hastily borne to his town residence as dead. A living report of his death was circulated throughout the town but he rallied and survived for nearly a fortnight, and when frail nature became completely exhausted, he fell asleep about 10. 20 on Thursday morning, deeply lamented. The funeral took place on the following morning, when at the Cathedral the solemn ceremony was performed by Ven. Archdeacon Robbin Chaplain Eldred Taylor, and at the grave, the Rev. O. Moore assisted. The large number of our leading citizens who attended both at church and followed the procession to the grave, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, testifies the great respect in which the deceased was held in the community.

The late Doctor Manly during his career, has generally identified himself with every religious patriotic movement, and in these gatherings his familiar form will now be missed. In the council board of the Native Pastorate Church of which he was a member, his voice will no longer be heard: he has finished his work and is gone to his reward. We offer our deepest sympathy to his bereaved widow and children on their irreparable loss.—Weekly News.

Rev D. K. Flickinger D. D who left England for the United States about the last of Ap'l informs us, in a private letter to the writer, that him self and Dr. J. G. Jones had just purchased a new Bell for the Rufus Clark and wife Training School at Shaingay on the 26th Ap'l the day previous to his writing. He further speaks of meeting Rev. J. A. Cole in London and that he had sent a copy of Dr. Blyden's Book to Shaingay Mission by Mr. Cole who we believe was on the eve of coming out to the coast.

Kittam.—Makiah.—Bandajumah &c. We are in receipt of a letter, from the Kittam but too late for insertion in this issue which gives information of an expected attack by Makiah on Bandajumah; or perhaps it is better to say that Makiah having failed in a former attack on Bandajumah may return again, but should he fail to do so, the people of Bandajumah may seek revenge and thus in either case our informant (who signs himself Peaceful Ben) fears the peace of the country may be disturbed unless the Govt. interferes.

I have heard it said very truly that if we put God in His right place, He will put us in our right place.

FAITFUL TESTIMONY

From Page 1.

No member of any secret society has any right to seek to impose himself upon our churches, and any member of a secret society which may be now in our church—and thank God, they are few and far between—should at once choose between the lodge and the church. If they prefer the lodge to the church they should take themselves out of the church at once, and if they prefer the church to the lodge they should take themselves out of the lodge at once.

NOTICE.

THE Undersigned begs to inform the Public and his numerous customers that he has reduced the price of

Fresh Meat,

from 7d. to 6d. per lb.
Mutton 9d.—Pork 8d. per lb
can be had at his stall, Victoria Road, opposite Mr. J. B. Parkinson, every Saturday

WILLIAM A. JOHN,
Butcher.

May 1888.

Medicine!
Medicine!!
Medicine!!!

Now on hand & for sale at the

S. M. MISSION STORE

Acid Phosphate,
Blackberry Cordial,
Beecham's Pills,
Cathartic Pills,
Castor Oil large & small,
Calisaya and Iron,
Cough cure (Heusley),
Dyspepsia cure,
Damina Pills,
Eno's Fruit Salts,
Epsom Salts,
Holloways Pills & Ointment,
Greek and Indian cure,
Grindilia Asthma,
Gout cure,
Iron Tonic Bitters,
Kidney cure,
Liver Regulator,
Lion Pills & Ointment,
Mc'Neil's Blood Pills,
Reme's Magic oil,
Nerve and bone liniment,
Porous Plaster,
Pain Killer,
Pain Exterminator,
Pain Dispeller,
Pectoral wine,

J. A. EVANS
Bontho
May 22. '88.

A Public Hall Needed.

Mr Editor—It seems to me that one thing is greatly needed in this place. And that thing is a Public Hall of sufficient size to accommodate three or four hundred persons, for holding public meetings state receptions of the coming and returning Commandant's Governor's &c large school Entertainment Church Anniversaries &c. &c. A commodious place for such gatherings would be greatly to the advantage of all concerned and a profit to the community. And in my opinion such a Hall could be easily erected either as a private or public enterprise, but for public use, and that it could be so arranged as to be let at such reasonable rates, that no one having in charge the affairs of any large gathering would refuse to patronize the Hall, seeing as he would receive the advantage he must gain for his enterprise by the use of a proper building. Hoping to hear from some one else on the subject I remain yours truly.

E. J. BETAL

Bonthe Yandahoo Side.
29. 5. 88.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

The Undersigned begs to acquaint his FRIENDS and numerous CUSTOMERS and the Public in general that he has now in his STORE, lately arrived from Europe FANCY & TRADE GOODS suitable for the SEASON.

VIZ—

Ladies' patent & Kid Boots, Gents Kid & Balmoral Boots & Shoes. Ladies' Velvets, Felt & Straw Hats richly trimmed.—Ladies' gloves, elastic garters, stockings, sell-col'rd and striped.—Ladies' corsets of various sizes to fit any one.—Gent's self-colored and striped half hose.—Gents' Lamb wool Shirts,—

Boys & Girls

Boots and Lace Shoes with socks and stockings to match Finest Linen & Cambric Pocket hdkfs pressed in box. White cotton Damask Table Covers.—Fine silk and Elastic Gents' Imperial Braces.—Ladies' Parasols with deep lace fringe—Velvet-Gowns and Caps.—Velveteen in pieces.—Cashmere-Cloth of the best quality by the piece.—Union shirts.—Fancy Cloths for Ladies—Cloths for Gents' Suits—Besides Hardware and lo. of other goods, too numerous to mention.

Come and see.

J. B. PARKINSON

Victoria Road,

Notice,

THE

Undersigned

A WRITING CLERK & ACCOUNTANT,

Begs to inform the Public of Bonthe and the Rivers that he is prepared to do all

WRITING JOB-WORKS,

as follows:—

STOCK-TAKING,
MAKING UP ACCTS,
WRITING LETTERS &c.

Charges Moderate!

For further particulars apply at his Residence, Williams St., abreast the Wesleyan Church, or by letter.

He solicits their patronage.

W. BIDWELL COKER.

Bonthe,
May '88.

S. M. MISSION STORE.

Having Completely closed out OUR OLD STOCK OF

Woolen & Cotton Goods,

Are now beginning to replenish

Our Shelves

With entirely New

GOODS,

Some of which have arrived by the last Steamer and others are expected in the next few weeks.

N.B.—We still keep on hand a fresh & fine supply of provisions

J. A. EVANS

Bonthe, Apl 21, '88.

'Early Dawn'

PRINTING OFFICE.

Job Work Done at short

Notice.

Enquire of C. G. BELL, Printer.

GOOD HOPE STATION.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—In moderate demand. We quote transit.

Lagos	£19. 0 0
Whydah	£18. 10. 0 to £18 15 0
Benin	£17 15 0
Old Calaba, Bonny & Cameroons	£18 5 0
Brass, Niger, New Calaba, Fernando Po, and Loanda	£17 5 0 to 17 7 6
Accra, Addah, Quitta, Pram Pram, Ahwey, Danoe, Grand & Little Popo	£17 5 0 to 17 6
Congo, Sierra Leone, Sherbro, Rio Pongo, Grand Bassam, and Half Jack	16 17 6
Winnebah	16 5 0
Saltpond, Appam, Chama, Anamnboe, Secondee, Elmina, Dixcove, and Liberian	£16 0 0 to £16 2 6

PALM KERNELS.—Firm Market, with a fair enquiry at quotations. Prices basis 5 per cent sbell. transit.

Lagos, Old and New Calabar, Bonny, Opabo and Cameroons	£10 7 6
Brass	10. 2. 6 to 10. 3. 0
Benin and Congo	9. 17. 6 to 10. 0. 0
Liberian	9. 12. 6
Sherbro and Sierra Leone	9. 10. 0
Grand Bassam	£8 15 0
Addah, Quitah, Axim, Grand and little Popo	7 15 0 to 9 5 0
Saltpond, Dixcove, Appam, Winnebah, Accra and Elmina	7 15 0 to 8 15 0

GROUND NUTS } No stock.
BENNISEED }
COPRA—£12. 5s to £13 10s, as in quality.
COFFEE—Quiet; bold berry 53s 6d to 54s Liberia 60s to 62s Sierra Leone, 50s 6d.
COCOA—Continues in limited demand 45s. to 70s., as in quality
INDIA RUBBER—In moderate demand at easier prices.

Gambia Niggers, fair to prime	1s. 10d. to 2s. 0d.
Sierra Leone do. do.	1s. 8d. to 1s. 9d.
Thimbles	1s. 7d. to 1s. 8½d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 3d. to 1s. 6½d.
Soft and Flaky Ball	0s. 9d. to 0s. 11d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim and Assinie	1s 3d. to 1s. 6d.
Liberian	1s. 1d. to 1s. 3½d.
Saltpond	0s. 8d. to 0s. 11½d.
Accra Pressed and Dried	0s. 9d. to 1s. 1½d.
Do. Ordinary	0s. 8d. to 0s 8½d.
Flake and Lumps	0s. 7½d. to 0s. 8d.

GUM COPAL—Sales of Sierra Leone 8½d. to 8¾d. Accra kinds in demands, no stock.
GINGER—Sales Sierra Leone 17s. to 17s. 9d.
CHILLIES—23s. to 25s. per cwt.
CALABAR BEANS—Sales 5½d. per lb.
CAMWOOD—40 Tons of Grand Bassa, sold at £9 to £9. 10
EBONY—Sales of Gaboon at £7 for billets, £6. 12. 6 for heavy, and £4 5 to £4. 10 for flat
BARWOOD—None here.
COTTON—No change to note.
KOLA NUTS—Unsaleable.
MONKEY SKINS—In good demand, but no change in value.
IVORY.—Next Sales May 2nd.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool, April 27th 1888.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, JUNE. 15, 1888. No. 14.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST,

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0 6 0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0 5 0
Half yearly by Mail,	0 3 0
Ditto. deliv'rd in Bonth,	0 2 6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to HARRY DOCKER, Shaingay, Mr. E. A. LEWIS, Freetown, West Africa. REV. WM. MCKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Deputy. Coroner,	Wm. Hughes.
Chief Clerk.	W. Hughes.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Barlow.
Sub-Treas. & Cst.	G. H. Garrett.
Chief Clerk	J. D. Macauley.
Tide Waiters	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, S. G. Cole.
Asst. Examg. Officer	Saltjah. Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police	M. S. Betts.
Gaoler.	J. A. Deanis.
Overseer of Roads	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road Pastor,	Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.
Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street Pastor,	Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope Pastor,	Rev. G. N. Jowett
Asst Do	Rev R. C. Taylor

THE RESOURCES OF SHERBRO.

Mr. Editor—This is my second Paper on this subject, my first appeared in your Issue of Mar. 31st 1887 and was confined to the consideration of the Palm produce alone; a large amount of which has been and is still being allowed to go to waste and never reaches our Marts at all. It is, however to be hoped, from developments, in our Commercial Circles since my last writing, that a change for the better is at hand in the line of Palm Nuts and Oil; and that in the near future much that has heretofore been wasted for want of gathering will be saved and brought into the market for sale; by the better inducements soon to be offered by the competion of the various business Houses now doing business here, and especially those that will in short open up here; and indeed when we consider what has never before come into market but has wasted in the forest, we must feel that the sooner the business increases the better for both buyer and seller. But I have said in my former Paper, that there are other Products of Sherbro &c, of course we must understand, the Terra in its wider sense as comprehending all those districts, the trade of which flows into it; these are many and produce other kinds of Produce besides that of the Palm Tree. I cannot now mention these in the order of their quantity or importance, but as they come to my mind, and as I have been studying them. Benni seed has been grown and at times found its way to the market in considerable quantities, but has never received the attention it should either from the Merchants on the one hand or the growers on the other hand. However the fact remains that it grows well in the tributaries of the Sherbro and is one of the resources of the District that has money in it and should be developed. And from what I have observed of the nature of the plant and its growth, especially in the Upper Gbangboa, I have little or no doubt but the Sherbro and the immediate outlying districts are capable of producing six thousand tons of Benni seed, and that too without in any way interfering with the development of other resources.

Chillies, grow almost of themselves anywhere that the seeds happen to touch the soil" but certainly would produce in far greater abundance if carefully planted and attended by experienced planters. They also need to be properly prepared for the Market so as not to damage their quality as has been done in this section heretofore. But I must close hoping to write more again,

Yours,
J. ALBERT.

Bonthe,
June 1st, 1888.

Dear Mr Editor

Permit me just a narrow space in one of your estimable columns to insert the following report, respecting the present critical and unsettled state of the Kittam territory.

Just a few weeks ago it was reported that a chief by the name Mackiah had, after repeated threats, sent his war boys to a place called Bandajumah for the purpose of satisfying his capturing and bloodshedding propensities; but did not succeed in carrying out his nefarious intention his war boys having been compelled to retreat, through the firm resistance of the natives of that place.

The report further states that the matter is yet in abeyance, and that the parties aggrieved are determined to seek for redress at the hands of the aggressors, otherwise a heavy fight may no doubt decide the matter.

This being the case I would strongly urge on you to give an early publicity to the foregoing report so as to come before the notice of the Government, of whom others than myself, as British subjects, are daily expecting, to use its influence by adopting such measures of severity as may tend to check all warlike parties.

Thanking you Mr Editor for the space this may occupy,

I am

Dear Mr Editor,
Very truly yours
PEACEFUL BEN.

MISSIONARY LETTERS.

BY ADDISON.

Apostolic Missionaries.

The last command from the lips of the risen Lord fell upon listening ears and obedient hearts. They did not set forth at once upon their mission, but tarried ten days at Jerusalem for the endowment of power. At the time of Pentecost, after the descent of the spirit, we began that great evangelistic and missionary work that has been rolling in mighty waves over all the earth. Peter's sermon struck the key-note of the hymn of salvation that has filled the ages with the notes of triumph. After this grand inauguration of the gospel of redemption, the apostles, according to the closing words of the Book of St. Mark, "went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them, and confirming the word by signs following."

The Open Field—Jerusalem.

At that time the whole world was a missionfield. The words of the Lord before this were, "Behold the fields are white already to the harvest." Jerusalem the beautiful, the favored city, was the missionground, for the foundations of the church of Christ were just laid, and the whole work of building just to be accomplished. The gospel seed had just been lighted, and it remained for the apostles, to light a beacon on all the hills of the darkened world. Jesus had said that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations beginning at Jerusalem.

In this, too, the apostles were obedient. Their first work was among their among their own friends and kindred. What a field was Jerusalem at this time to receive the "good seed of the kingdom!" There were gathered Jews and devout men from every nation under heaven. These had evidently long desired to hear more fully the doctrine concerning the kingdom of God, and were ready to accept Jesus as the Messiah, and he, by faith and baptism received into the newly-founded church. Thus were gathered from among the multitudes the first fruits of the ripened harvest. Even the bigotry of the priesthood gave way before the mighty power of God and the resistless force of the apostles' preaching, and a great company of priests were obedient to the faith.

The Nations Beyond.

Soon persecution and opposition were aroused against the apostles. The rulers could not brook the wonderful success of their labors. Every dying ember will have its death-throes. So it is with idolatry and heathenism in these days. Peter and John were imprisoned. Stephen, one of the newly-appointed deacons, preached with such power that it awakened even the moderate opposition of the Jewish court, and he was seized, tried, and stoned to death without the city. Thus he was the first of the disciples of Christ to gain the martyrs crown. Multiplied thousands of the noble heralds of the cross have followed him in the baptism and the glory. This did not quench the flame but only scattered the brands to kindle new flames in many countries and many hearts. True God-kindled missionary zeal cannot be buried, smothered, or suppressed. Checked in one place, it will burst forth afresh and intensified in another.

Philip went to Samaria, and preached to the people, who were greatly prejudiced against anything Jewish, "and the people with one accord gave heed unto those things, and there was great joy in that city." Peter and John were sent into Samaria by the church at Jerusalem when they heard of the result of Philip's preaching and at their word the Holy Ghost fell upon all that believed. Philip is next sent by the Spirit to the Eunuch of Ethiopia, who is returning to his own country from Jerusalem, and he is converted, baptized, and went home rejoicing.

Peter, asleep at Joppa, on the housetop of Simon tanner, sees a vision from the Lord. The import of it was that salvation was not alone for the Jews, but for all men. He goes with the messengers to Cæsarea; and preaches to Cornelius and baptizes him and his family and receives them into the communion of the saints.

Thus the gospel was spread into all parts of the civilized world. Disciples found their way as far as Damascus and Antioch. Indeed within a very short time after the commission was given, missionaries had found their way to all parts of the Roman empire. There is a tradition that the apostles partitioned the world into twelve districts, and each one was to evangelize his district. This as it may, Christianity was early established in the great centres of population and commerce, proceeding, from these centers extended to all the surrounding countries. St. Peter certainly preached in Pontus, Asia, Bythinia, Galatia, and Cappadocia, as his first epistle is addressed to the strangers of these countries. St. John preached in Asia Minor, and was a long time pastor of the church at Ephesus.

Traditionary Labors.

Peter is said to have preached the gospel in Babylonia and the east. Andrew is said to have preached and traveled through Thrace, Greece, Asia Minor, and to have established the church at Constantinople; Jude or Judas in Syria, Arabia, and Phœnicia; Philip in Phrygia; Thomas in Parthia, Persia and India, (Rufinus states that he was buried at Edessa); Simon the Canaanite is reported to have preached in Egypt and Cyrene; Matthew in Ethiopia, Media, and Persia. To John and Mark is attributed the founding of the church in Alexandria.—Sel.

MEN JUDGED BY THEIR DRESS

Men may also from motives of policy adopt a superior style of dress. They judge one another very much by stirr. That most acute observer, Chesterfield, has told us that a well-dressed man, by means of his good clothes, impresses men much more than he does women. I think this very true. Life is a struggle. We make way for a successful man just as in old times they made way for the man in armor. It is by a man's personal appearance that the world, to a considerable degree, judges of his success. There, is perhaps, no country in which men are so much judged by their appearance as in this. No one has a title or a family to fall back upon, and there are few other things by which to form a judgement.—Sel.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

JUNE 15, 1888.

THE SCARCITY OF FOOD.

In the country about us seems to be a stubborn fact, that must now be admitted. Rice stores have been or are being rapidly exhausted, even at the trading centres and those who once had on hand good supplies of rice are now obliged to buy, and the difficulty is that there is very little to be had. But in the country outlying from these Trading centres the difficulty is much greater, as there is less to be bought, and more has been needed, as in such places, seed as well as food is required, in the Rice time, and there is little doubt but many have and are still suffering for the Rice they have used for seed; and yet seeding was a necessity to prevent greater scarcity in the future. When we announced some time ago (Feb 29th '88) the Scarcity of Rice, the announcement gave some alarm in certain circles, but it was then to be hoped that there was abundance of Cassada upon which the people might subsist. Since that, however, Cassada has grown scarcer and yet for a while some have given, other than the true reason, of its Scarcity in this place; attributing the absence of Cassada canoes to the fact that the country people were busy planting and could not come down, but at length the true reason appears to be the Scarcity of Cassada in the country, of course this has been, in a measure produced by the absence of Rice in many places which has increased the demand for Cassada; until now the Cassada canoes are becoming fewer every day; and it is interesting to notice, how closely the water side is watched, for the approach of one these crafts and no sooner is one seen to come near than a crowd gathers calling out, some from the shore, and others from smaller canoes, to those having the Cassada hold one Hamper or two Hampers for me!

But Scarcity does not confine itself to Rice and Cassada alone, other articles are equally hard to get, as for several years crop has not yeilded the one fourth part of the usual crop of former years this failure in the corn crop seems now likely to be the same again the present year. Of course our readers will understand our remarks, on this subject of Scarcity of food, to apply to native productions upon which the Masses of the people, both in, and out of the settlements must depend, for except Rice nothing is imported here that is cheap enough for the masses to eat. Again we should remark, that scarcity of food must likely increases with the distance from the settlements and Trading centres, at least this is the case so far as we have traveled or have any information; which is over a large portion of the surrounding countries. What the result of this Scarcity of food will be we cannot say. In other lands we should hope for the bteter, but in Africa may expect the worse which isthe cutting of the Palm Cabbage and the destruction of the Palm Tree. Cannibalism and destruction of human life meager planting which will end in small crops.

WHAT WE MOST NEED.

At present in this part of Africa is more producers and fewer consumers. Almost every one is now a consumer, which is indeed the case in every country, but what we wish to say is that there ought to be more produced in a country than is consumed in it, not that even a larger number of persons, necessarily should be producers, but that there should be an excess in the production of the Country over the Consumption. Then there would be at least a possibility of increase in the real wealth of the country and also of the inhabitants generally. Some one has said that while ever a country buys more than it sells it is growing poorer, but when it sells or exports more than it buys or Imports then it grows richer and times become better in it.

THE PURROH & TRADE.

That which we now refer to is the country law or custom that prevents the gathering of PalmNuts during certain, not to say seasons, but arbitrary periods, principally regulated it would appear by the country chiefs, whether in or out of British jurisdiction. The primary object of the Law of the puroh, being, we understand, to prevent the untimely gathering of the Palm nuts; and of course to regulate other matters among the natives which it is possible could not be readily reached by the present code of British laws in use in this settlement; thus far it would seem that purroh is useful in the country. But of late years, the operations of the purroh in reference to the Palm produce have been and continue to be very disadvantageous to the Trade; as it seems to be put on and arbitrarily continued at the pleasure of a few influential persons, who gain little or nothing by its continuance while at the same time a large number suffer and the produce in large quantities goes to waste for the want of gathering; Trade is much hindered, in many localities by this seeming irregularity of the purroh and the quantity of produce for export greatly reduced. And as this must, in time, indirectly affect the revenue of the Government by reducing the Imports, we have wondered why some steps have not been taken to regulate the operation of the purroh at least within British territory.

THE SOCIETY FOR THE PROPAGATION OF THE GOSPEL.

Following the precedent of 1878, the standing Committee of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel have determined to postpone the society's annual public meeting until Tuesday, July 10, and to make it, as was done 10 years ago, an occasion of offering welcome to the Right Rev. Prelates, who have come to England for the purpose of attending the Lambeth Conference. It is proposed to devote the whole of one day to this object some large Assembly Room being obtained for this Pan-Anglican gathering, His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury has undertaken to preside, and we learn that every part of the world and every department of missionary work will be represented by bishops who will relate their own experiences. The proceedings will be divided into two sessions, the first commencing at 10. 30 a.m., terminatidg about 1 p.m. The afternoon session will commence at 2.00 and will end at 5 p.m. The proceedings of the morning session will be begun by on address of welcome from the society, and an introductory speech from his Grace the President, to be followed by papers from the Bishop of Calcutta upon the Provincial and Diocesan Organisation in India; from the Bishop of Rangoon Medical Missions and upper Burmah as a route to China; from the Rev. R. R. Winter of Delhi, upon Woman's Work in Missions; from Bishop Borne of Shanghai upon missions in China: from the Bishop of Japan upon missions in Japan and the Corea; from the Bishop of Cape Town upon the Church in South Africa: from the Bishop of Zululand upon the native races of South Africa; and from Bishop Smythies upon missions in Equatorial Africa. This already wide field of experience and observation will be followed in the afternoon by a retrospect of the history of the Ecclesiastical Province of Canada, by the Bishop of Fredericton. Three other papers upon the American Church will follow—namely, the Church in North-West Canada by the Bishop of Rupertsland; the domestic missions of the Church of the United States, by the Bishop of Missouri, and the foreign missions of the Church of the United States by the Bishop of South Dakota. Papers upon the Church in Hayti, upon missions in Guiana, upon English Congregations on the Continent by the Bishop of Gibraltar and upon other subjects, will be also read at this interestig gathering representing so many parts of world.
—Colonies and India.

DIED—At his residence in this place on the 14th inst. Mr D. W. During Catechist of the P. E. Church, York Island. Mr D. had attained to great age, being above three score and ten. His illness was of short duration. He rapidly sank into the arms of death. We greatly sympathise with his afflicted family, and especially his aged and suffering companion.

Alpha Factory,
York Island,
15th June 1888

The Editor of the 'Early Dawn'

Dear Sir

I shall be glad if with the usual urbanity, you will kindly make it knows through the medium of your interesting Journal, that Alpha Factory is now the property of Messrs F & A Swanzy it having been formerly taken over by me this day on their behalf.

I have the gratification to announce that Mr. George Leach. who has for some years been at the Factory, has entered into an agreement with the Firm, whereby his services are retained so that although the Factory changes hands, the agent remains the same, which no doubt will be a source of pleasure and satisfaction to the community generally.

I remain, Dear sir,
Yours faithfully
T. J. ALLDRIDGE
Agent. F & A SWANZY

Messrs F. & A. SWANZY having purchased ALPHA FACTROY from the Executors of the late Mr. Wm. Murray—Mr. T. J. Alldridge the firm's Agent took over possession on the 15th inst. and hoisted the House Flag at 8. 30. a. m.

The services of Mr. George Leach—who has been winding up the estate for the executors having been retained by Messrs Swanzy—he remains at Alpha Factory as the Agent in charge.

NEWS ITEMS.

May 29.—s. s. "Formoso" from Freetown with Dr. Jarrett. Messrs C. J. Cole J. B. Kittell and Mrs. Martyn.

31.—"Formoso" for Freetown with Rev. G. G. M. Nicol and Dr. Jarrett.

A nolle prosequi has been entered in the case of Reg: vs Kittell for Forgery.

June 7.—s. s. "Formoso" from Freetown with Dr. Jarrett, Mr. S. T. Cromanty and Mrs. W. D. Howson (Dressmaker and Milliner).

9.—s. s. "Formoso for Freetown with Messrs S. B. A. Macfoy and D. M. P. Thorpe.

13.—s. s. of Countess Derby from Freetown with Capt. and Mrs Halkett and Hon. J. K. Doualdson, Queen's Advocate She leaves the same day for Freetown.

14.—Mr. D. W. During Catechist of York-Island died at Bonthe this morning.

Opening Services were held in the New Chapel, Mando on the 3rd inst. by the Dist. Supt., at Mendi Missions. The more Formal delication, we believe, will take place later on.

Interesting services are reported to have been held in the New Chapel at Mando on the 10th inst by Mr. T. N. Joah the teacher in charge.

Lokkoh War—It was reported here about 30th ult. that the Lokkohs were gathering at Jammah for the purpose of avenging the cause of Sourie Behyo.

The Execution of the Caulkers took place at Shaingay on Wednesday 6th inst. a large crowd was present to witness it.

Seed Rice—We have been informed, has been supplied to the people in the warstricken District of Shaingay by the Government on loan. This is certainly a worthy and noble act on the part of His Excellecy Sir Samuel Rowe.

Personal

Mr. T. N. Joah, of Mando Station was in this place a few days about the first of the mouth he returned to Mando on the 2nd inst.

Mr. Nicholas May,—Photographer called on us, on the 7th accompained by his brother Mr. Rowland May. (Dispenser) we believe Mr. N. May has bean giving entire satisfaction, since he has been here in Photography.

Bp William Taylor D. D. of the South Central African M. E. Missions is now in America attending the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church of America.

Mr. T. A. King passed here about the 8th inst from Gbangbiah emoute for Freetown, we learn, that he expects to get married, we hope he may succeed.

Mr. J. A. Coukson of Banbelloh returned from Freetown about the 8th and called in on the 9th he has been married we beleived lately. We congratulate him on his success.

Mr. G. M. Delbanco was down from the Boom and dropped in to see us on the 11th inst and gave us his name as a subscriber to our paper.

MR. F. JOHNSON'S EXPLORATIONS IN BECHUANALAND.

Further official correspondence was published on May 14 on the subject of Bechuanaland, and the adjacent territories. The dispatches chiefly deal with the question of Moshette's grazing rights; which appear to have excited some controversy: but there is also an interesting letter from Mr F. Johnson, of the Nothern Gold Field Exploration Syndicate, to the Administrator of British Bechuanaland, containing a report of his visit to Matabele, and Mashona countries. He walked 245 miles, during August, September and October last, following the conrse of the Amazoe, river to 17 degs. south and then striking back for Gouramaponsie river, following up to its source to Hanyane. He tried at equal distances, apart 127 places and found rich alluvial gold in 124 of them. The principal auriferous rivers are the Amazoe Gouramapontsie, and the Umlobordju, while every little creek, or old dry watercourse northeast of the Hanyane carries gold. He found all this district well nigh depopulated, the ruthless assegais, of the marauding Matabele, aided by famine having almost exterminated the unfortunate Mashonar the few that are left leading miserable lives in caves in granite hills, existing chiefly on roots and wild berries. The district is well watered, and abounds in rich fertile valleys and is better adapted for an agricultural than a cattle country. On reacaing Umaotchwa, in Matabeleland, on November 12. Mr Johnson found the king in a state of panic, fearing the rush of gold seekers to this territory in consequence of the appearance of parties of prospectors in the disguise of hunters. Mr Johnson was fined 100/- 10 tins of gunpowder and 10 blankets by the king and the councils of Indunas, on a charge of spying and digging for gold, and other charges which the king invented. In its present state adds Mr Johnson, the country can never be developed, as there is not the slightest security for investment of capital.—The Colonies and India.

POST OFFICE NOTICE.

The Public are hereby informed that Money Orders will not be issued on the day that the mails for Freetown are made up

By Order
H. R. Williams,
Bonthe. Postmaster
1st June 1888.

POST OFFICE NOTICE.

On and after this date, the mails for the Sulymah district will be closed at 6 o'clock p. m. on every Tuesday.

By Command.
H. R. Williams,
Bonthe. Postmaster.
5th June 1888

THE U. B. BOARD MISSIONS.

Met in its Thirtyfifth session in the city of Dayton Ohio U. S. A. on Thursday morning May 10th. Bishop Weaver D.D. presiding. After the devotional exercises. The Bishop delivered the Opening address the meeting of the board lasted for two days, and seems to have been well informed on all the branches of its Work; and its doings altho not just, what we could have recomended, especially as refer to the Secretary and Foreign Bishop work, yet they exhibit great care thougt and cool delidration and we trust thereby have arrived at the best possible conclusions, and while, we learn with regret of the reduction of the appropriations to the African and German Work, especially the African we yet feel that having done our best to carry forward the work and to faithfully present its needs to the Board and the Church, to acquiesce in their final decisions as the best. We should however state that we do not consider the appropriation to the Foreign Bishop as apprpriated to the African Work any more than the salary of the Missionary Treasurer or Secretary.

VAUDOIS OR WALDENSES.

The term Vaudois is applied to the inhabitants of the Canton of Vaud in Switzerland

The Waldenses were a sect said to have derived their name from Peter Waldo, a merchant of Lyons who practiced what he regarded as the pure doctrine of the Scriptures in the year 1160. His views spread through France, Italy Bohemia, and adherents became numerous in the provinces and valleys of Piedmont.

These people were condemned by the Synod of Tarragona, in 1242 Large numbers were put to death. Those living in the valleys suffered persecutions under Sixt IV. A crusade was preached against them. Persecution of the Vaudois and Piedmot continued until about the middle of the eighteenth century. In 1848 Sardinia was granted full religious and ecclesiastical liberty and equality of civil and political rights, by the Roman Catholics. Until 1848 they were confined to three valleys of the Cottian Alps—Lucerne, Perosa, and San Martino. Since 1848 they have organized new congregations in other towns of Sardinia and since 1858 in all parts of Italy.

Their doctrines are simular to those of the Reformed churches They recognised the Bible as their only rule of faith and agree with the Calvinists in regard to the Lord's Supper, but have not adopted the doctrine of absolute predestination. Every congregation has a consistory composed of a minister, elder and deacon. Above this consistory is placed the supreme consistory called the Table, composed of three clergymen and two laymen. Std.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

The Undersigned begs to acquaint his FRIENDS and numerous CUSTOMERS and the Public in general that he has now in his STORE, lately arrived from Europe FANCY & TRADE GOODS suitable for the SEASON, VIZ—

Ladies' patent & Kid Boots, Gents Kid & Balmoral Boots & Shoes. Ladies' Velvets, Felt & Straw Hats richly trimmed.—Ladies' gloves, elastic garters, stockings, self-col'rd and striped.—Ladies' corsets of various sizes to fit any one.—Gent's self-colored and striped half hose.—Gents' Lamb wool Shirts,—

Boys & Girls

Boots and Lace Shoes with socks and stockings to match Finest Linen & Cambric Pocket hdkfs pressed in box. White cotton Damask Table Covers.—Fine silk and Elastic Gents' Imperial Braces.—Ladies' Parasols with deep lace fringe—Velvet-Gowns and Caps.—Velveteen in pieces.—Cashmere Cloth of the best quality by the piece.—Union shirts,—Fancy Cloths for Ladies—Cloths for Gents' Suits—Besides Hardware and lo of other goods, too numerous to mention.

Come and see.

J. B. PARKINSON

Victoria Road,

'Early Dawn'

PRINTING OFFICE.

Job Work Done at short

Notice.

Enquire of C. G. BELL, Printer.

GOOD HOPE STATION.

If you leave the cork out of the bottle of perfume, the perfume will all evaporate; and if you are careless about your religion it will take itself off in the same way.

In prayer it is better to have a heart without words than words without a heart.

S. M. MISSION STORE.

Having Completely closed out OUR OLD STOCK OF

Woolen & Cotton Goods,

Are now beginning to replenish

Our Shelves

With entirely New

GOODS.

Some of which have arrived by the last Steamer and others are expected in the next few weeks.

N.B.—We still keep on hand a fresh & fine supply of provisions

J. A. EVANS

Bonthe, Apl 21, '88.

Medicine! Medicine!!

Now on hand & for sale at the

S. M. MISSION STORE.

Acid Phosphate,
Blackberry Cordial,
Beecham's Pills,
Cathartic Pills,
Castor Oil large & small,
Calisaya and Iron,
Cough cure (Hensley),
Dyspepsia cure,
Damina Pills.
Eno's Frnit Salts,
Epsom Salts,
Holloways Pills
Do. Ointment.
Greek and Indian cure,
Griadilia Asthma,
Gout cure,
Iron Tonic Bitters,
Kidney cure,
Liver Regulator,
Lion Pills & Ointment.
Mc'Neil's Blood Pills.
Renie's Magic oil,
Nerve and bone liniment,
Porous Plaster,
Pain Killer,
Pain Exterminator,
Pain Dispeller,
Pectoral wine,

J. A. EVANS

Bonthe,
May 22, '88.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

—ORO—

PALM OIL—No change. Closing "transit."

Lagos	....£19 0 0
Old Calabar, Bonny & Cameroons	£18 5 0
Benin	17. 10. 0
Accra, Addah, Quitta & Popo	£17 5 0 to 17 7 6
Half Jack & Grand Bassam	£17 5 0 to 17 10 0
Brass, Niger and New Calabar ...	£17 2 6
Congo, Sierra Leone, & Sherbro	16. 10. 0 to 17. 0 0
Appam, Saltpond & Winnebah	£16 0 0
Dixcove & Liberian ...	...£15 15 0

PALM KERNEL.—Easier. We quote basis 5 per cent shell "transit."

Lagos, Old and New Calabar, Bonny and Cameroons	£10 5 0 to 10 6 3
Brass	...10 0. 0 to 10 2 6
Benin and Congo	9 17 6 to 9 18 9
Liberian, Sherbro & Sierra Leone ...	£9 10 0 to 9 12 6
Addah, Quitta	... 7 15 0 to 9 5 0
Saltpond, Appam, Winnebah	... 7 15 0 to 8 15 0

BENNISEED—No sales.

GROUND NUTS—Sales of Gambia in the shell £13 10 to £15 10 according to quality.

COFFEE—Very firm. Sales of Liberian 65s per cwt. No stock of South Coast.

COCOA—Sales of fine quality at 63s

INDIA RUBBER—Quieter, and difficult of sale

Gambia Niggers, fair to prime ...	1s. 9d. to 1s. 11d.
Sierra Leone do. do. ...	1s. 7. to 1s. 8½d.
Thimbles	1s. 6d. to 1s. 8d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 2d. to 1s. 6d.
Soft and Flaky Ball	0s. 8½d. to 0s. 10d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim and Assinie	1s. 2d. to 1s. 5½d.
Liberian	1s. 1d. to 1s. 3d.
Saltpond	0s. 8d. to 0. 11d.
Accra Pressed and Dried	0s. 9d. to 1s. 1½d.
Do. Do.	0s. 7½d. to 0. 8d.
Flake and Lumps	0s. 7½d. to 0s. 7½d.

GUM COPAL—Sales of Sierra Leone 6½d. to 9½d.

BEESWAX—Sales of Gambia £4 10 to £4 12 6, Sierra Leone £4 to £4 2 6.

GINGER—Sales of ordinary African at 12s to 18 6
Good 19s. to 19s. 3d.; East India kinds very low in price and relatively cheaper than African.

GUINEA GRAINS—Sales 24s. 6d.

CALABAR BEANS—5½d. per lb.

CAMWOOD—Sales of Grand Bassa £8 15 to £9 10

BARWOOD, EBONY } No Arrivals.

KOLA NUTS—No Demand.

MONKEY SKINS—Next Sales 12th June.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool, May 11th 1888.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, JUNE. 30, 1888. No. 12

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0 6 0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0 5 0
Half yearly by Mail,	0 3 0
Ditto. deliv'rd in Bonth,	0 2 6

ADDRESS,—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev J. GOMER, Shaingay, Mr. E. A. LEWIS, Freetown, West Africa, Rev. WM. MCKEE Dunton, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner	The Commandant
Deputy Coroner,	Wm. Hughes.
Chief Clerk	W. Hughes.
Interpreter,	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff	F. E. B. Buckner
Asst Treas. & Col Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett J. D. Macaulay
Tide Waiters.	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner & S. G. Cole
Asst Examg. Officer Sulliah.	Jasper Caulker
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts.
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.)
Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett
Asst Do. Rev R. C Taylor

MIXING GOLD WITH SILVER

A friend remarks :—When a man is converted to Christ the Holy Spirit enters into him and makes him a temple and dwelling place of Deity. It is as if you take a batter or silver cup, old, stained, and worn, and after melting down pour it into a crucible containing melted gold and mix the two together, and from that mixture making a new cup. This new silver-gold cup is as the original man it contains the silver, the original nature, purged of its uncleanness; but with it, if I may so say, is mixed the gold—God's Holy Spirit, which has fused itself among the silver, making the whole unspeakably precious."—Sel.

"Children, obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right. Honor thy father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise."

TIMBER AGAIN.

In my last paper, published in the May 15th issue of this journal, I had my eye on England as a Market, and still feel that it may be, but since that time, I have had a call from another, and quite unexpected quarter, and that is a request has been communicated to the writer from a New York House, of an English Firm doing a large business in England and on the coast, for samples of Good African Wood for the American Market, this is a very unexpected call indeed, but from my knowledge of the American countries and especially of the history of their Timber Trade, it does not at all seem improbable even that a successful Trade, in Timber in the course of a few years might be built up between Africa and America; not however as in the years gone by and even now, America especially the United States supplying Africa with Lumber, but the exact reverse Africa supplying America; a land of Forest supplying a land of plains and treeless prairies, a land that for Two Centuries has been trying to see how rapidly it could denolish its Forests in the East while the advance to the West ward has been into vast Treeless plains. Surely the matter can only be a question of time, as to the building up of a Trade in Timber with some of the more improved and less Timbered Countries; so we should do all we can to hasten the time and if possible reap some of the benefits.

In my last paper above refered to, I promised to write in this, my next paper on the subject, of many other advantages possessed by the Timber trade. First and most important of all considerations, in the present unsettled state of the country, is that the number of laborers required for the manning of a Timber camp would be such as to afford protection to whatever merchandise that might be required for the buying of Standing Timber; as the work should be carried on by the employment of intelligent laborers to fell the Trees which should be selected & marked by a skilled foreman. As the least number that should constitute a timber camp ought to be two hundred men they would scarcely be attacked by any War party and if they were could easily put the enemy to flight. A second advantage of the Timber trade would be that it would give employment to a large number of laborers, which it would remove from our over crowded towns and villages. Third the Timber Trade would be an industry that would promote manual labor among the people and would thus school them into preparation for other Enterprises, as agriculture and manufacture that would most naturally follow in wake of the Timber enterprise. Another advantage of the of the Timber Trade would be the opening of roads, and the exploring of new regions, and who can tell but would bring to light more valuable mineral wealth, than has yet been discovered on the Dark Continent? J.A.E.

THE CHINESE IN THE COLONIES

The Commission appointed by the Chinese Government to inquire into the condition of natives of the Flowery Land in Foreign countries have had not time in reporting the result of their investigations; and, curiously enough, the publication of their report occurs almost simultaneously with the development of a very acute stage in the relations between the Australian Colonists and the Chinese immigrants. The action of the Imperial Commissioners through Australia was watched with great interest both in the colonies and in this country, because it occurred at a time when popular feeling was running very high on the subject of placing a prohibitive poll tax on all Mongolians landing on the shores of Australia; but, although it was made pretty plain to the shrewd representatives of the Court of Pekin that the presence of their countrymen was by no means welcome in the Colonies, and that the feeling against them was likely to increase in geometrical ratio with every additional made to their numbers, yet it was equally clear that a Chinaman practically enjoyed as much freedom and toleration when once he had paid his poll tax as any other foreigner. At any rate no personal violence was offered to him; and many Chinese, so far from suffering hardship, were in affluence and were held in high esteem. Perhaps the Commissioners, as men of the world, were not able to efface from their minds all traces of recollection of the inconveniences, and hindrances, and insults, to which "outer barbarians" of all denominations were subjected in China within their own experience; and they no doubt reflected that if a tempta were made to keep John Chinaman at arms length this was no more than a Roland for the Oliver which the Government of Pekin countenanced less than a generation ago. They no doubt, hugged themselves at the idea of a British Colony, a dependancy of the Power which had forced open the ports of China to European enterprise and settlement at the cannon's mouth setting up a barrier against the peaceful immigration of a few hundreds or thousands of Chinese subjects and congratulated themselves on the superior ideas of liberty entertained by themselves as compared with those by which ruler and people alike from Port Darwin to Port Adelaide appeared to be animated. But whatever their opinion thought on this aspect of the question, they at any rate met with nothing but civility themselves, and had no serious complaints of the treatment and general condition of their fellow subjects in Australia and other British Colonies, where their experiences contrasted strongly with what they heard and saw elsewhere' Besides Australia, they visited Rangoon, the English settlements in the Straits, the Spanish Colonies of the Philipines, and the Dutch Colony of Sumatra. Altogether the Commission report that "the number of Chinese subjects at present trading or working in foreign lands does not fall short of several millions, and in some ports the imigration is increasing."

The treatment which these emigrants receive differs under different flags. The Commissioners report that the "merchants are thriving," and it is to the jealousy with which foreign Governments are thereby inspired that the hostility with which they are treated is attributed. "The advancing prosperity of our people," say the Commissioners, "attracted the attention of the various foreign Governments, and their jealousy has been aroused." As a consequence the "Dutch authorities have been endeavouring to expel the Chinese from their Colonies, and various devices to the Chinese that is are becoming of many frequent occurrence. But the [illegible] Dutch possessions there are over 300,000 Chinese, who are described as being "the most enterprising & resolute race in the East, and when the commission visited them they were all with one impress poured forth their grievances." In the Spanish East Indies the case of John Chinaman is no better. At Manila the Chinese community, numbering some 40,000, and described as carrying on a most thriving business, complained bitterly of the stamps they received at the hands of the Spaniards, and earnestly begged for the appointment of Consuls to protect them, notwithstanding to pay all the expenses of Consular establishments, declaring that they are married, their houses are set on fire and plundered, to say nothing of the fact that they are made the victims of extortionate taxation." No such picture is drawn of the condition of Chinamen under the British flag. In Singapore, where they number about 100,000 they are the richest among the inhabitants Four-fifths of the landed property is theirs, and large numbers of Chinese labourers pass through the port every year. In Malacca and Penang also the Chinese are thriving; in Perak and Selangore, where there are 100,000 of them mostly tin miners, they are protected, and several of them are Millionaires. In Rangoon there are about 30,000, who make no complaint. In Australia the only complaint is that a "heavy tax, varying from 10£ to 30£. per head, is levied on Chinese landing there, the object being to prevent their immigration." Unfortunately, this record, the appreciation of which by the countries concerns is emphasised by the statement that they were received with particular manifestations of "friendship and good will" by the English officials wherever they went, is now disfigured by the reports of riotous attacks having been made on Chinese residents in Brisbane during the past week. Such manifestations of popular feeling savour rather of old world than Australia, and will not conduce to a satisfactory settlement of the difficult question it will, in fact, give strength to the demand which the Chinese Commissioners make for the appointment of Consuls to protect the interests of Chinese subjects in foreign countries—a demand which it will be difficult to resist in any case, and the granting of which will, ipso facto, recognise the right of Chinese to settle in any country for which a Consul is appointed. The whole question is a difficult one, and will need to be handled with the greatest care. It is impossible to ignore that there is much force in the Australian objection to having their country overrun by immigrants of another race than their own. On the other hand, it is difficult to resist the demand which China makes for reciprocity on the part of a nation which has forced her to admit the "foreign devil" within Concluded on page 3rd.

. M. MISSION
STORE.

ing Completely closed out
UR OLD STOCK OF Woolen & otton Goods,
now beginning to replenish
Our Shelves
With entirely New GOODS.
me of which have rrived by the last
amer and others are ex-
ted in the next few weeks.
N.B.—We still eep on hand a esh & fine sup-
y of provisions
J. A. EVANS
he, Apl 21, '88.

Medicine!
Medicine!! ow on hand & for sale at the
. M. MISSION STORE.

Acid Phosphate,
Blackberry Cordial,
Beecham's Pills,
Cathartic Pills,
Castor Oil large & small,
Calisaya and Iron.
Cough cure (Hensley),
Dyspepsia cure,
Damina Pills.
Eno's Fruit Salts,
Epsom Salts,
Holloways Pills
Do. Ointment.
Greek and Indian cure,
Griadilia Asthma,
Gout cure,
Iron Tonic Bitters,
Kidney cure,
Liver Regulator,
Lion Pills & Ointment.
Mc'Neil's Blood Pills.
Renie's Magic oil,
Nerve and bone liniment,
Porous Plaster,
Pain Killer,
Pain Exterminator,
Pain Dispeller,
Pectoral wine,
J. A. EVANS
nthe,
May 22, '88.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—No change. Closing "transit."

Lagos	£19 0 0
Old Calabar, Bonny & Cameroons	£18 5 0
Benin	17. 10. 0
Accra, Addah, Quitta & Popo	£17 5 0 to 17 7 6
Half Jack & Grand Bassam	£17 5 0 to 17 10 0
Brass, Niger and New Calabar	£17 2 6
Congo, Sierra Leone, & Sherbro	16. 10. 0 to 17. 0 0
Appam, Saltpond & Winnebah	£16 0 0
Dixcove & Liberian ...	£15 15 0

PALM KERNEL.—Easier. We quote basis 5 per cent shell "transit."

Lagos, Old and New Calabar, Bonny and Cameroons	£10 5 0 to 10 6 3
Brass	10 0. 0 to 10 2 6
Benin and Congo	9 17 6 to 9 18 9
Liberian, Sherbro & Sierra Leone ...	£9 10 0 to 9 12 6
Addah, Quitta	7 15 0 to 9 5 0
Saltpond, Appam, Winnebah ...	7 15 0 to 8 15 0

BENNISEED—No sales.

GROUND NUTS—Sales of Gambia in the shell £13 10 to £15 10 according to quality.

COFFEE—Very firm. Sales of Liberian 65s per cwt. No stock of South Coast.

COCOA—Sales of fine quality at 63s

INDIA RUBBER—Quieter, and difficult of sale

Gambia Niggers, fair to prime ...	1s. 9d. to 1s. 11d.
Sierra Leone do. do. ...	1s. 7. to 1s. 8½d.
Thimbles	1s. 6d. to 1s. 8d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 2d. to 1s. 6d.
Soft and Flaky Ball	0s. 8½d. to 0s. 10d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim and Assinie	1s. 2d. to 1s. 5½d.
Liberian	1s. 1d. to 1s. 3d.
Saltpond	0s. 8d. to 0. 11d.
Accra Pressed and Dried	0s. 9d. to 1s. 1½d.
Do. Do.	0s. 7½d. to 0. 8d.
Flake and Lumps	0s. 7½d. to 0s. 7¾d.

GUM COPAL—Sales of Sierra Leone 6½d. to 9½d.

BEESWAX—Sales of Gambia £4 10 to £4 12 6, Sierra Leone £4 to £4 2 6.

GINGER—Sales of ordinary African at 17s to 18 6 Good 19s. to 19s. 3d.; East India kinds very low in price and relatively cheaper than African.

GUINEA GRAINS—Sales 24s. 6d.

CALABAR BEANS—5½d. per lb.

CAMWOOD—Sales of Grand Bassa £8 15 to £9 10

BARWOOD, EBONY } No Arrivals.

KOLA NUTS—No Demand.

MONKEY SKINS—Next Sales 12th June.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool, May 11th 1888.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, JUNE 30, 1888. No. 12

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0 6 0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0 5 0
Half yearly by Mail,	0 3 0
Ditto, deliv'd in Bonth,	0 2 6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GOMAN, Shaingay, Mr. E. A. LEWIS, Freetown, West Africa, Rev. Wm. McKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner	The Commandant
Deputy Coroner,	Wm. Hughes.
Chief Clerk	W. Hughes
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff	F. E. B. Buckner
Sub Treas. & Cal Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett J. D Macaulay
Tide Waiters.	J. N Crown, J. B. Turner & G. Cole
Asst Examg. Officer	Salijah Jasper Caulker
Assistant. Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M R C S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts.
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road Pastor,	Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.
Wesleyan Methodist, Pastor,	Lime Street Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mendi Mission, Good Hope Pastor,	(Congregational.) Rev. G. N. Jowett
Asst Do.	Rev R. C. Taylor

MIXING GOLD WITH SILVER

A friend remarks. "When a man is converted to Christ the Holy Spirit enters into him and makes him a temple and dwelling place of Deity. It is as if you take a butter or silver cup, old, stained, and worn, and after melting down pour it into a crucible containing melted gold and mix the two together, and from that mixture making a new cup. This new silver gold cup is as the regenerated man: it contains the silver, the old original nature, purged of its uncleanness, but with it, if I may so say, is mixed the gold—God's Holy Spirit, which has fused itself among the silver, making the whole unspeakably precious."—Sel.

"Children, obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right. Honor thy father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise."

TIMBER AGAIN.

In my last paper, published in the May 15th issue of this journal, I had my eye on England as a Market, and still feel that it may be, but since that time, I have had a call from another, and quite unexpected quarter, and that is a request has been communicated to the writer from a New York House, of an English Firm doing a large business in England and on the coast, for samples of Good African Wood for the American Market, this is a very unexpected call indeed, but from my knowledge of the American countries and especially of the history of their Timber Trade, it does not at all seem improbable even that a successful Trade, in Timber in the course of a few years might be built up between Africa and America; not however as in the years gone by and even now, America especially the United States supplying Africa with Lumber, but the exact reverse Africa supplying America; a land of Forest supplying a land of plains and treeless prairies, a land that for Two Centuries has been trying to see how rapidly it could demolish its Forests in the East while the advance to the West ward has been into vast Treeless plains. Surely the matter can only be a question of time, as to the building up of a Trade in Timber with some of the more improved and less Timbered Countries; so we should do all we can to hasten the time and if possible reap some of the benefits.

In my last paper above refered to, I promised to write in this, my next paper on the subject, of many other advantages possessed by the Timber trade. First and most important of all considerations, in the present unsettled state of the country, is that the number of laborers required for the manning of a Timber camp would be such as to afford protection to whatever merchandise that might be required for the buying of Standing Timber; as the work should be carried on by the employment of intelligent laborers to fell the Trees which should be selected & marked by a skilled foreman. As the least number that should constitute a timber camp ought to be two hundred men they would scarcely be attacked by any War party and if they were could easily put the enemy to flight. A second advantage of the Timber trade would be that it would give employment to a large number of laborers, which it would remove from our over crowded towns and villages. Third the Timber Trade would be an industry that would promote manual labor among the people and would thus school them into preparation for other Enterprises, as agriculture and manufacture that would most naturally follow in wake of the Timber enterprise. Another advantage of the of the Timber Trade would be the opening of roads, and the exploring of new regions, and who can tell but would bring to light more valuable mineral wealth, than has yet been discovered on the Dark Continent? J.A.E.

THE CHINESE IN THE COLONIES.

The Commission appointed by the Chinese Government to inquire into the condition of natives of the Flowery Land in Foreign countries have lost no time in reporting the result of their investigations; and, curiously enough, the publication of their report occurs almost simultaneously with the development of a very acute stage in the relations between the Australian Colonies and the Chinese immigrants. The action of the Imperial Commissioners through Australia was watched with great interest both in the colonies and in this country, because it occurred at a time when popular feeling was running very high on the subject of placing a prohibitive poll tax on all Mongolians landing on the shores of Australia; but, although it was made pretty plain to the shrewd representatives of the Court of Pekin that the presence of their countrymen was by no means welcome in the Colonies, and that the feeling against them was likely to increase in geometrical ratio with every addition made to their numbers, yet it was equally clear that a Chinaman practically enjoyed as much freedom and toleration when once he had paid his poll tax as any other foreigner. At any rate no personal violence was offered to him; and in my Chinese, so far from suffering hardship, were in affluence and were held in high esteem. Perhaps the Commissioners, as men of the world, were not able to efface from their minds all traces of recollection of the inconveniences, and hindrances, and insults, to which "outer barbarians" of all denominations were subjected in China within their own experience; and they no doubt reflected that if a tempts were made to keep John Chinaman at arms length this was no more than a Roland for the Oliver which the Government of Pekin countenanced less than a generation ago. They no doubt, hugged themselves at the idea of a British Colony, a dependancy of the Power which had forced open the gates of China to European enterprise and settlement at the cannon's mouth setting up a barrier against the peaceful immigration of a few hundreds or thousands of Chinese subjects and congratulated themselves on the superior ideas of liberty entertained by themselves as compared with those by which ruler and people alike from Port Darwin to Port Adelaide appeared to be animated. But whatever their inmost thought on this aspect of the question, they at any rate met with nothing but civility themselves, and had no serious complaints of the treatment and general condition of their fellow subjects in Australia and other British Colonies, where their experiences contrasted strongly with what they heard and saw elsewhere. Besides Australia they visited Rangoon, the English settlements in the Straits, the Spanish Colonies of the Philipines, and the Dutch Colony of Sumatra. Altogether the Commission report that "the number of Chinese subjects at present trading or working in foreign lands does not fall short of several millions, and in some parts the imigration is increasing."

The treatment which these emigrants receive differs under different flags. The Commissioners report that the "merchants are thriving," and it is to the jealousy with which foreign Governments are thereby inspired that the hostility with which they are treated is attributed. "The advancing prosperity of our people," say the Commissioners, "attracted the attention of the various foreign Governments, and their jealousy has been aroused." As a consequence the Dutch authorities have been endeavoring to expel the Chinese from their colonies, and relations between the two Powers [illegible] are becoming of more frequent occurrence. But the Dutch proceedings there are over 300,000 Chinese, who are described as living "in as contented a condition as the Dutch nationality ideal when the commissioners visited them they all with one impress pressed forth their wrongs." In the Spanish East Indies the case of John Chinaman is no better. At Manila the Chinese community, numbering some 30,000, and described as carrying on a most thriving business, complained bitterly of the wrongs they received at the hands of the Spaniards, and came the longest for the appointment of Consuls to protect them, even offering to pay all the expenses of Consular establishments, declaring that they are murdered, their houses are set on fire and plundered, to say nothing of the fact that they are made the victims of extortionate taxation." No such picture is drawn of the condition of Chinamen under the British flag. In Singapore, where they number about 150,000 they are the richest among the inhabitants. Four-fifths of the landed property is theirs, and large numbers of Chinese labourers pass through the port every year. In Malacca and Penang also the Chinese are thriving; in Perak and Selangore, where there are 100,000 of them mostly tin miners, they are protected, and several of them are Millionaires. In Rangoon there are about 30,000, who make no complaint. In Australia the only complaint is that a "heavy tax, varying from 10£ to 30£ per head, is levied on Chinese landing there, the object being to prevent their immigration." Unfortunately, this record, the appreciation of which by the commissioners is emphasised by the statement that they were received with particular manifestations of "friendship and good will" by the English officials wherever they went, is now disfigured by the reports of riotous attacks having been made on Chinese residents in Brisbane during the past week. Such manifestations of popular feeling cannot rather at California than Australia, and will not conduce to a satisfactory settlement of the difficult question it will, in fact, give strength to the demand which the Chinese Commissioners make for the appointment of Consuls to protect the interests of Chinese subjects in foreign countries—a demand which it will be difficult to resist in any case, and the granting of which will, ipso facto, recognise the right of Chinese to settle in any country for which a Consul is appointed. The whole question is a difficult one, and will need to be handled with the greatest care. It is impossible to ignore that there is much force in the Australian objection to having their country overrun by immigrants of another race than their own. On the other hand, it is difficult to resist the demand which China makes for reciprocity on the part of a nation which has forced her to admit the "foreign devil" setting

Concluded on page 4rd.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

JUNE 30, 1888.

A CRY OF HUNGER

Still is made to ring in our ears from every side among the masses, this is too no doubt being considerably increased by the tardiness of trade, which seems very slow indeed reaching the Market this year, hence there is not as much employment for labor as would otherwise be if the Factories had a brisk Trade and vessels were coming into the harbor for cargo more frequently. As it is we pitty very much the poor, among whom there is already much and great suffering for want of food of any kind in many places. From Shaingay where first the war wasted the country,& afterward the grass hoppers destroyed almost every thing green,but especially the casada that would have greatly helped to supply the want of rice and food other and from what we can learn the cry at hunger borders upon famine in those regions. It is however to be hoped that through the aid given the District by the Government Loan of seed rice that their distress will be greatly relieved.

TARDINESS OF TRADE

There seems to be a remarkable tardiness in trade this season; for it is contended on all hands that Palm Oil should have began to come down in quantity During the month of May, if these had, as been a prolonged continuance of the Parrish on the Bangor gathering. but even since the parrish was taken off there has been time enough for oil to have reached the Factories by the last of May, & from what we saw of the progress of the work in the Thomdale District about the first of June we felt sure that we should have seen a brisk business ere this time in both Palm Nuts and Palm Oil, but so far we have not realized our expectations, in fact if any change has been at all it seems that it has been in the reduction of the quantity coming down. One or two Factories seem to be receiving a reasonable quantity of produce, while others with fine stocks of merchandise are scarcely getting anything, some of which begin to feel anxious about the future as they cannot seem to understand the cause of the present backwardness in Trade. However, we understand now from the country people of the place that the reason of this Tardiness, in the coming down of their countrymen, produce is because of the lack of food and seed Rice, together with the much and heavy rains, that set in early; and that these things have delayed the farm making, of palm Oil and breaking of palm nuts. hasbeen hindered and hence it is not ready yet in many places for market, This interpretation of the matter is quite reasonable and no doubt gives the mainfacts in the case but we know that much rough Bangor has been cut, and also that some farms are not yet planted for want of seed which the owner are still trying to obtain, but in many cases without success as very little of the Rice from the large Factories will grow if planted; hence there can be no inducement, for the rice-planter, to prepare Palm Oil or Kernels for the Trade, in order to get seed; as he has long since learned that such work is to< little or no purpose since the Factory Rice in nine cases out of ten will not grow at all.

Examinations—of the U. B. C. Schools of the Shaingay and Mendi Mission Districts, by professor D. F. Wilberforce of the Rufus Clark and Wife Training School; will have been fully completed ere this issue reaches our readers, and so far as we have been able to gather the teachers have been diligent in their work, and for the facilities opportunities they have done about all that could have been expected, there may be possibly, exceptions to these general remarks, when, we see the Superintendents report and can g& more carefully. It is however, to be regretted, that circumstances have been such that some of the schools had not been in operation long enough prior to the time for Examination to make it worth while to Examine them, but it is to hoped that by the end of the year, or the time for the Annual Examinations, that these hinderances may have passed away.

THE CAULKER CASE.

The our contemporary the Weekly News. of Freetown, in its Issue of the 9th inst. took it would seem decided exceptions to the course of the Government in the case of W. T. G. Caulker and others and even centures the course as even wrong and unjust claiming that the Jury recommended mercy in the case. It should be distinctly remembered that the Jury in some way had decided that the three unfortunate criminals were guilty and that the decision was that of the Jurors and if there is blame it rests with them; and not with either the Chief Justice or the Executive, these only carried out the requirements of Law and we say, (and believe the Sherbro Community will bear us out) Justice. So far as the cry of the Jury was concerned for Mercy it had been ten times better if it had not been uttered, and a thousand times better, if it had not been published. The very Idea is revolting to sound judgement and savors very much of childishness, nor do we believe that such a thing was ever heard of before. Our contemporary refered to the paucity of the gathering at Shaingay on the day of the execution. But evidently was totally ignorant of the causes While it was true that not as many were present as it was desired that there should have been yet there was a large gathering for a place like Shaingay, at least, so we are informed from various sources. The causes of which the Weekly News seems not to have been informed and which mutilated against a larger gathering were first the want of a timely notice—say of at least 30 days—for the people to gather, as much preparation is always necessary to get a number of people together from the rivers to Shaingay, as there is much water to be crossed, second, there are no large towns near to Shaingay and the population especially since the war has been even less than before in Villages for many who ran away during the war have not returned. Third. it should not be exoected that as many people could be brought together at Shaingay as at Bendoo for it is not as easy of access from the Interior hence no such number of natives, can be gathered. As to the Impression made on the natives we will venture the assertion that it is even greater than could nave been made in any other way. As for instance if the lives of Caulker & others had been spared they would have attributed to their medicines and not to either sympathy of the jury or the clemency of the Executive, and other malcontents in the country would have thereby been emboldened to carry out their nefarious aims. So cansidering every possible phase of the case and being as we are, conversant with the country affairs and also the Caulker family; we feel that while it is hard for man to execute the sentence of death upon his fellow; yet that in the case above refered to it was but just and right. And that we fully endorse the course of the Government in the case.

AGRICULTURE—WILL IT PAY!

This question, is continually foreing itself forward for consideration. And the writer having made repeated experiments with sometimes the most signal failures, as far as the financial part upon which the question hinges, is concerned; having repeatedly expended two or three times as much as the crops grown would bring, had been forced under the pressure of such failures, to say that farming in this part of Africa, at least, would not pay; thus giving the negative answer to the question above. But while thus being compelled to speak from the pressure of the circumstances brought to bear in consequence of failures, yet was never quite fully convinced of the theory of agriculture as being wrong for it has always seemed to me possible that there was something wrong in the practice; which a more careful study has made more & more clear from time to time; hence I have now concluded to bring forward a few facts bearing on the case which I have gathered from observation. First of all, the attempts I observed that have been made at improved farming have been burdened with too much expense in impliments with which to carry on the work and then again too much high priced, and rather amateur, than skilled labor has been employed in every agricultural undertaking, which is quite inconsistent with the history and practice of successful agriculture and being so of course has not and could not succeed. In perhaps every other land agriculture has been commenced, in the rudest and most simple manner, and has in, almost if not, every case succeeded. Agriculture in every country where it has succeeded has been practiced by the plain and uncultured classes as a rule, the scientific Farmer being the exception, and does not as a rule find his way into the rural districts with his fine tastes and amateur performances, until long after the rustic Farmer has cleared away the Timber of the forest, uprooted the stumps, removed the stones and rocks from the fields and completely subdued the wild nature of the Virgin soil. But in this part of Africa the reverse has been attempted; the man of fine taste has tried in vain to become the scientific Farmer, as a rule, on a sterile Fallow soil. Hence the result of every attempt has been at a financial loss.

A second observation I have made is that the number of persons employed in every attempt at the cultivation of the soil is out of all proportion to the acreage of crops to be grown, the yield and value considered, this remark applies to every class of West African Agriculture, now practiced to any considerable extent. For instance the native in his rude way essays to Farm,if he plants ten acres of rice he must have a force of not less than from ten to 20 people to do the work, and sometimes more persons are required the average yield of rice is perhaps about a half ton or say 20 bushels per acre and the average price to the farmer about £3. per ton in Merchandize at not less than 100 per cent above cost which would reduce the cash value of the whole crop to about seven pounds ten shillings of course we here assume that the farm yields ether stuff enough for the people to eat and that the rice crop may be disposed of for other necessaries at an Average of 1s. 2d. per month for each of ten persons or 7½ per month for twenty persons which is the most likely numbers to be employed on such a farm the result thon, for a years' labor is seven shillings and six pence for each person employed, but it will be easily perceived here, that the fault lies not in the soil; but the overpluss of laborers employed, and the low price for produce realized by the producer; other economical thoughts could be here evolved, however that is not my present aim in making this observation, but to show that the number of laborers is out of proportion to the amount of land cultivated—Value of crops and yield being considered—And yet from this last observation there is hope of good returns from the proper tillage of the soil.

J. ALBERT.

June 26th, '88.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

THE Undersigned begs to inform the Public and his numerous customers that he has reduced the price of

Fresh Meat,

from 7d. to 6d. per lb. Mutton 9d.—Pork 8d. per lb. can be had at his stall, Victoria Road. opposite Mr, J. B. Parkinson, every Saturday.

WILLIAM A. JOHN,
Butcher.

Bonthe,
May 1888.

Personal

June 18. Mr S. H. Goodman our old office foreman and printer called on the 16th. We were pleased to see Mr G again after a long absence.

Mr R. H. Hemmingway called on the 21st, he will be remembered as having been in charge of Yelbana Factory some years ago.

Revd S. B. Morrison was also in this place on business he left on his return to Avery the 22nd inst.

Revd D. F. Wilberforce Supt. Schools (U.B.C) arrived here on the 22nd and Examined the Mendi Mission School and left on the 23rd.

REPORT OF MANDO STATION FOR THE MONTH ENDING MAY 1888.

Rev Sir.—The work here this month is far better than the past two months, owing to my effort and understanding of the people. Sabbath morning services always properly attended, but night services are only attended by our children, owing to the fact, that the people complained about darkness of the nights. But when it was moonlight, we always have few from the town who attended. As our Chapel is opened already in Town where at all possible event, we can persuade them to attend, we are succeeding every time we meet for this purpose. Last Sabbath morning and evening services the chapel was crowded; these all attended to hear about the dying Saviour. Accordingly they heard and after the close of each service hands have been forwarded as usual, and thanks have been uttered. On Thursday last the 14th inst we had in the night service 30 attendances who listened with attentiveness about the preaching of God's word. The roads to itinerate are very discouraging at present, nowith standing these this part of the work is not left undone, as the willingness of the people in each town is great for religion.

There are 18 Towns properly visited, at present, and there are more towns will soon have our attention when we will be furnished with a canoe. In fact sir, there is no rest to be speak in this Station for one whose motto is to work for God and soul-saving. After all, we know candidly, that there is a rest in Heaven for each faithful worker is Christ's vineyard

The Day School is greatly improving in the lessons prepared for Examination by the Inspector of U. B. Schools; but I daresay that much could not be done here, seeing we are but handful of attendance. Religious study is also pursued by these children.

Sabbath School also is in a good condition Children only attended. Except more young people in the town to attend, as they've promised to do so. The Holy Bible is read, and Catechism taught. We earnestly solicit your prayers in our behalf of this Station.

I remain your obedient servant,
THOMAS JOAH.

To The Early Dawn

Mission House,
Bonthe Sherbro
20th June 1888

I take this opportunity to acknowledge receipt from the Revd J. Gomer S. M. of a nice lot of girls Hats, Dress Goods, Dennins, Checks and Prints for Mission and School children in the Mendi Missions, for which on behalf of the Mission. I return to Dro. Gomer and the Shaingay Mission our best and most hearty thanks, with best wishes for their success.

Very truly J. A. EVANS
District Supt.
M. Mission

Dear Editor,—The very able article of the last but on issue of "The Weekly News" dressed as it is with the Superbgarb, "Public opinion," to me, is very uncharitable, dangerous, and uncalled for. It is uncharitable, because the author, residing in safety in Freetown and enjoying all the advantages and privileges of the city, should have thought more charitably of those who are obliged to leave the city and attend to their business in the Rivers, and whose lives and properties are at the mercy of the natives. Dangerous—because it tends to clog the only source of protection, not only to those in the rivers, but to the author himself and the public whose opinion was published. If it is uncharitable and dangerous it is therefore uncalled-for, especially at the present unsettled state of the country. It brands the Colonial Government with injustice and bloodshed; and those who have received the due reward of their deeds, as poor innocent men.

Are we as a people prepared for self protection, and as not your Columns, Mr. Editor been occupied with appeals from those who are apprehensive of danger to life and property in the rivers by men of late W. T. G. Caulkers stamp minus his intelligence? Were the Government to withhold its kind protection for only one month, and let it be generally understood by the natives around, I suppose the author of "Public opinion" will see ample reason to change sides, when he shall have been made to tremble for his safety, by those whose cause he so warmly and generously espoused. Can the Author of that article—conscientiously say that W. T. G. Caulker was ignorant of the nature of the contract entered into between Caulkers and the Government? Besides, I understand that the affirmative and negative sides of the question were proposed to the Jurors who sat on the Caulker case "Guilty or not Guilty"? Was there on opportunity for them to plead "not guilty"? Were they compelled to plead guilty especially if there was the least doubt in their minds, should they not have given the benefit of the doubt to the prisoners, as it was a matter of infinite moment,—a matter of life and death! Was it right for them to plead guilty, only to cry for mercy, thus trifling with men's lives as a thing of little or no value! The Jurymen, like W. T. G. Caulker were fall blooded Negroes. A European holds the reins of the Colonial Government. Though the learned lawyers whose services were engaged in that notorious and odious Caulker case did their best for and against, and the learned judge summed up all the important facts in connection with the case into one focus, yet they were all dependent on those full-blood ed Negroes, who, without an assenting voice returned a verdict of "Guilty" The death warrant could not have been signed, nor the gallows erected, and the lives of the poor innocent men would have been spared but for the Jurors; and yet they gave rise to the "Public opinion" by their plead ng guilty this moment, and mercy the next moment! Such fickleness is not characteristic of Jurors. Where then does the blame rest, on the Government or the Jurors? In what is the life of W. T. G. Caulker better than the lives of those who have been hurried unprepared to the awful tribunal of God in the late Shaingay raid? The lives of Rev. J. Gomer and his harmless party of missionaries with their wives were embittered, many traders were maltreated and trade paralized, and all because of one man and his accomplices.

It is however encouraging to know that the author of "Public Opinion" believes in the retributive government of God, and also in the Bible. He should not have failed to see that Prov. II v. & xxi. Prov. xxi. 12. Gen. ix. 6. and a collation of other passages have been literally fulfilled in this case. On the whole that article should not have come from the pen of a West African. For situated as we are, and surrouded by these restless and warlike tribes, it the author of "Public Opinions" has any interest in the good of the public, he will soon be the author of an appeal to the very government which has done the best it could for the good of the Aurnon, and the Public without thanks.

POOR BEN.

Why He Never Was Late.

"How is it that you are never late at Sunday School, Edwin?" I asked. His Sunday School began a quarter before nine in the morning. and I concluded that many of the children found it hard to be prompt, as they came straggling in all through the opening service; Edwin, never—he was always in time.

"How is it, Edwin?"

"O, I always plan to come," said Edwin. I put the polish on my boots over night. I find my Bible and question book and place them in a safe corner beforehand. I brush and put on my Sunday clothes before breakfast So after breakfast and prayers I start in time to get there before the Superintendent rings the school to order."

"And you don't lag by the way?"

"Never," said Edwin. It is better to be five minutes too early than one minute too late."

Ah, boys, see how it helps one along to have a plan.—Sel

MISSIONARY LETTERS. BY ADDISON.

The Greatest Missionary

Saul of Tarsus is the man. He was the flaming of fire-brand that kindled the gospel flame of salvation in a thousand hearts and a score of lands. He is first introduced to the reader of Scripture as a young Jew who voted with those who condemn the first Christian martyr to death; and then guarded the clothes of the witnesses "who stoned Stephen, calling upon God" This was not all. "Being exceeding mad against them, I persecuted them even to strange cities" The intensity of his hatred and the fervor of his opposition are expressed in such language. "And Saul yet breathing out threatening and slaughter," as though his very breath was heated with the fire of persecution. In this state of mind and heart he sets out to visit Damascus and bring back to Jerusalem those whom he found there who called on the name of Jesus. When nearing the city he meets his persecuted Lord, is struck with blindness that his eyes might be opened to the truth, and is converted from a persecutor to the most zealous and powerful of all who called themselves Christians. In God's message to him by Ananias it was declared, "For he is a chosen vessel unto me to bear my name before the gentiles and kings and the children of Israel. Thus he was by the Lord of the harvest to go forth into the great untried and untrodden field of the gentile world to begin the work of "bringing the nations to God. True, tee way of access had been opence by Peter to receive gentiles into the church. But to this "chosen vessel was committed the great work of gathering into this open door the "other sheep,, which were not of the Jewish fold. To what more important work was ever mortal called? Only second to the mission of the Messiah was the mission of the great apostles of the gentiles.

CALLED

The word missionary, from mitto. to send implies one who is sent forth to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ. Is it not a glorious calling? Who would not be a messenger of such tidings as the gospel tells? Who would not obey the heavenly Voice calling to such a work? Whatever others had done or might do, Saul was ready to "launch out into the deep, and let down the net,, into the untried waters of gentile deprarity. His ardent nature carried the same fiery zeal at the new direction given his life. His nature and by education he was richly

ENDOWED AND PREPARED.

Concluded in our next.

THE CHINESE IN THE COLONIES.

Concluded from page 1.

her gates A compromise, however, is not likely to be facilitated by an appeal to mob law.—Sel.

To the Editor of Early Dawn.

Dear Sir—In reading your Issue of the 31st ult; I saw an Article signed a Trader, showing the Government as it were its duty, that natives ought to pay license, for plying their boats canoes &c, in British Waters. Will Mr Trader allow me to tell him plainly, that this is not his business, and that England expects every man to see after his own business. It really seems to me that Mr Trader has shown a spirit of covetousness toward the poor natives, that are pitied by our Gracious Sovereign the Queen. Mr Trader do you covet the natives' privilege because they are coming up, while some of your countrymen are down? Do you not know that a treaty has been signed by her Majesty and our forefathers by which, we have the right to ply our Crafts in British waters without paying license? Or is it because we natives are refusing to Trade with you African Merchants, but are selling our kernels to European agents out here? Awaiting Mr Trader's reply, and, thanking you Mr Editor for space occupied.

I am,
Yours faithfully,
BURER CHARLEY.
A real Native.

Medicine!

Medicine!!

Now on hand & for sale at the

S. M. MISSION STORE

Acid Phosphate,
Blackberry Cordial,
Beecham's Pills,
Cathartic Pills,
Castor Oil large & small,
Calisaya and Iron,
Cough cure (Hensley),
Dyspepsia cure,
Damina Pills,
Eno's Frnit Salts,
Epsom Salts,
Holloways Pills
Do. Ointment,
Greek and Indian cure,
Grindilia Asthma,
Gout cure,
Iron Tonic Bitters,
Kidney cure,
Liver Regulator,
Lion Pills & Ointment,
Mc'Neil's Blood Pills,
Renie's Magic oil,
Nerve and bone liniment,
Porous Plaster,
Pain Killer,
Pain Exterminator,
Pain Dispeller,
Pectoral wine,

J. A. EVANS

Bonthe,
May 22. '88.

S. M. MISSION STORE.

Having Completely closed out OUR OLD STOCK OF

Woolen & Cotton Goods,

Are now beginning to replenish

Our Shelves

With entirely New

GOODS.

Some of which have arrived by the last Steamer and others are expected in the next few weeks.

N.B.—We still keep on hand a fresh & fine supply of provisions

J. A. EVANS

Bonthe, Apl 21, '88.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

—oOo—

PALM OIL.—With large supplies, and only a limited demand, the market is dull. Closing "transit."

Lagos		£18	10	0
Old Calabar		17	15	0	to	£18	0.	0.
Bonny & Cameroon		17	15	0
Benin		17	7	6	to	17	10.	0.
Accra, Addah & Quittah.		17	0	0
Brass, Niger and New Calabah.		16	15	0	to	17.	0.	0.
Sierra Leone & Sherbro.		16	5	0	to	17.	0.	0.
Congo		16	12	6	to	15.	15.	0.
Appam Saltpond & Winnebah.		15	10	0	to	15.	12.	6.
Dixcove & Liberian		15	10	0

PALM KERNELS are quieter. Quotations "transit," basis 5 per cent.

Lagos, Old and New Calabar, Bonny, Cameroons & Abonnem	£10	3	9	to	£10	5.	0.
Brass	10	0	5
Benin	9	17	6
Congo	9	15	0	to	9	17.	6.
Liberian, Sherbro and Sierra Leone.	9	10	0
Addah, Quittah, Saltpond Apam Winebah.	7	15	0	to	9	5.	0.

BENNISEED—Sales at 40s. per 384 lbs.
GROUND NUTS } No change.
COPRA }
COFFEE—Very firm, and we expect higher prices. Bold berry, 54s. to 55s, Liberian 60s. to 70s. per cwt.
COCOA—From 45s. to 65s. per cwt. as in quality.

INDIA RUBBER—Very quiet and sellers have to submit to a further decline.

Gambia Niggers fair to prime	1s.	9d.	to 1s.	11d.
Sierra Leone	1s.	6d.	to 1s.	8d.
Thimbles	1s.	6d.	to 1s.	8d.
Congo and Gaboon Balls	1s.	2d.	to 1s.	6d.
Soft and Flaky ball.	0d.	8d.	to 0d.	9½d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim, Assine	1s.	1d.	to 1s.	4½d.
Liberian	1s.	0d.	to 1s.	3d.
Saltpond	0d.	8d.	to 9d.	11d.
Accra Pressed and dried.	0s.	9d.	to 1s.	1d.
Do. ordinary	0s.	7½d.	to 0s.	7½d.
Flake and Lumps.	0s.	7d.	to 0s.	7½d.

GUM COPAL—In good demand.
BEESWAX—Slow of sale.
GINGER—In good request. Sales 19s. 9d. to 20s. 3d. pr. cwt
GUINEA GRAINS } In demand.
CHILLIES }
CAMWOOD—Market very quiet and no change in price.
BARWOOD } No Stock.
EONY }
CALABAR BEANS.—5½d. per lb.
KOLA NUTS—Unsaleable.
MONKEY SKINS—In good demand.
IVORY—Next Sales in July.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool,
May 29th 1888.

TOTAL ABSTINENCE.

Seems a subject too far out on the Plains of Social progress to be even mooted at in the present stage of our Temperance movement, if it may be said, that we are moving in that line at all, as we most earnestly desire to feel that we are making at least an effort in that direction. But would it not be better in these days of great reform and gigantic Enterprises to step boldly forward and take a stand with the advanced promoters of prohibition and wage an earnest warfare against not only the immoderate sale and use of intoxicants, but to persuade men from the use of Liquors as not only a beverage, but for any and all purposes? I know well that we shall hear the cry just now that under this climate we must use stimulants in order to keep up under the debilitating influences that are brought to bear on the nervous system; but when I consider how many years consecutive labor of the most active, kind that I have been able to accomplish under this very same deplorable climate without the use of intoxicants, or beverages of that description. I am persuaded that the cry of climatic requirement is only at best a delusion and that men may break away from it as from any other fantum. And it would seem that it might be the easiest way to rid the land of the curse of strong drink to strike at once at the roots of the evil and expell it from the genteel parlours among the great as well as strive to wrench it from the hand of the weak and simple. Remove the evil from our midst and it will not delude or tempt any one to use it, abstain from drinking any and all kinds of alcoholic beverages then we shall not compell the simple to judge either as to quality, kind, or quantity to drink but they will learn from your example, not precept, not to touch the accursed thing.

The dealers in strong drink are not ignorant of its evil effects and even many times deplore the same, but the desire for present gain induces them in most cases to remain silent upon the subject; and yet without intention they sometimes expose their knowledge of these evils. An instance of which just now recurs to me; some years ago, In one of our large business Establishments I met the principal Agent much wrought up over the case of a poor mechanic of some kind that he had some time shortly before found destitute & had employed more out of Charity than otherwise. But it apeared this man was given to the cup and as soon as he began to earn a little money commenced to take drink until at length just the evening before the affair of which I relate, filled with rum, he had grossly insulted and assaulted the principal who was obliged in order to preserve the decorum as he said of the Establishment to arest and have him punished for the offense which he was certain, the man committed while under the influence of liquor and which he knew, and confessed, that the man would never have committed but for the vile stuff. The matter was however compromissed at a cost of 13s. to the offender.

J. A. E.

'Early Dawn'

PRINTING OFFICE.

Job Work Done at short

Notice.

Enquire of C. G. BELL, Printer.

OD HOPE STATION.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, JULY. 15, 1888. No. 13.

The "Early Dawn,"

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0 6 0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0 5 0
Half yearly by Mail,	0 3 0
Ditto. delv'rd in Bonth,	0 2 6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GOWER, Shaingay, Mr. E. A. LEWIS, Free town, West Africa. Rev. WM. MCKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Depty. Coroner,	Wm. Hughes.
Chief Clerk.	W. Hughes.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Buckner.
Sub-Treas. & Col Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett J. D. Macauley.
Tide Waiters.	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole
Asst. Examg. Officer Sallijah.	Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Bette.
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road Pastor,	Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.
Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street Pastor,	Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope Pastor,	Rev. G. N. Jowett.
Asst. Do.	Rev R. C. Taylor

ADVERTISEMENT SCALE

Reduced rates.

(FOR EACH INSERTION.)

A whole page	£1	10	0
A whole column	0	8	0
Half a column	0	5	0
One-fourth of a column	0	3	0
One-eighth of a column	0	2	6
Marriage	0	2	0
Births and deaths	0	1	0
Domestic servants wanted	0	1	0
Servants wanting situations	0	1	0

Each notice should not exceed 4 lines every additional line or part of a line 6d extra.

From Religious Telescope.

MISSIONARY LETTERS.

BY ADDISON.

Endowed and Prepared.

for his great mission. By nature he possessed a master intellect. Who can read his epistles without being compelled to consider and acknowledge the force of his arguments! His logic was irresistable. The links were so welded by the white-heat of passion under the hammer of truth as to form a chain which could not be broken. His endowments were enriched and enhanced by the most thorough training. From his very childhood he was a student of the law. Then in the school of Gamaliel he had the best culture of the day. He was a Pharisee of the strictest sect, and an unyielding tenacity to their tenets was usual with him. To this was added the conscienciousness that closely bordered on fanaticism Conscientions in persecution, he became doubly so in rendering service to his Lord and Master. Combined with a deep humility, he possessed a lofty faith in God which knew no impossibility. "Who is able for these things?" he asks. "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me," answers his faith. His intense energy and consuming zeal were the fires which set in motion and kept in motion those wonderful powers of mind and heart.

The work of preparation was completed. Having proceeded from Jerusalem to Antioch with Barnabas, he remained there in the church preaching and teaching.

ORDAINED AND CONSECRATED.

As they ministered to the Lord and fasted, the Holy Ghost said Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them. And when they had fasted and prayed and laid their hands on them they sent them away." This was the first ordination ever held, and Paul and Barnabas were the first ordained missionaries. What a scene was that! All heaven must have looked on with wonder and interest as the greatest of the missionaries began his world-wide journeys, extending through so many years and to so many lands. What mighty interests and results were repesented in that simple service in the church at Antioch! This scene repeated again and again in these later days will transform the whole world finally into a Christian land. To this work Paul consecrated without reserve all the rich gifts of mind and heart. To this missionary after he brought genius culture, training, hope of preferment all and counted it but loss for the sake of his Master and the salvation of men. This field and this work to-day are worthy of the best endowments and culture the world affords.

ENTERING THE FIELD.

Paul and Barnabas were plunged into the midst of the the harves. There stand's the grain ripe and waiting for the sickle of the reaper. They sail from Seluecia to Cyprus, where Sergius Paulus is converted and the church is established. From Cyprus they sail to Pergs, and then proceed to Antioch in Pisidia, Iconium, Derby and Lystra. At the last place they are recieved as gods, because of a miracle performed; but afterwards at the instigation of the Jews from Iconium, Paul is stoned, and cast out of the city as dead. While the bretheren stand about him weeping, he rises up and returns into the city. Departing from there, they return by way of the cities visited to Antioch again. After a short rest here, Paul, with Silas as his companion, sets forth to visit and confirm the churches. He proceeds farther westward and northward until he stands on the shore of the Ægean sea at Troas. There in the night vision while uncertain of his future course, he beheld the Macedonians crying for help. Sailing from there, they came to Neapolis and Philippi. Here they are scourged and cast into prison; but God delivered them by an eathquake and converted the jailer Then he way of Thessalonica, Berea and Athens, they came to Corinth, where he "continned a year and six months, teaching the word of God among them." After visiting Jerusalem, Paul proceeded through Asia Minor to Ephesus, where he dwelt two full years. Here, under the very shadow of the Temple of Diana, "so mightily grew the word of God," and increased, that the very foundations of heathenism were shaken. A bonfire of heathen books was made to the value $10,000. Paul pro.ceded again to Greece and Macedonia, and thence to Jerusalem, where he was arrested and kept two years a prisoner at Cæsarea, and then was sent in chains to Rome, where he was finally tried and beheaded.

Thus ends the earthly life of him whose martyr's crown glitters with hundreds of souls saved from death. His whole career was one of sacrifice, toil, and danger. Traveling on foot in the midst of savage tribes, in perils by sea and land in perils among false brethersn, traversing seas and continents to plant the church in the destitute regions of the earth he sought to go where none else had gone or would go. He would not build on "another's foundation." Thus in the life-time and by the efforts of one-flaming glowing zealous missionary of the cross, churches were planted in the great centers of influence throughout the Roman empire.

May the Lord send a thousand Pauls, richly endowed and thoroughly equipped, into the harvest of heathedom that are ripe for the reaping.

PRICES OF AFRICAN PRODUCE

Are lower, decidedly now, than at this time, one year ago, and the stocks on hand are very large, in the European Markets, all of which seem rather against the good time, that we have been hoping for and expecting in the line of Trade; however it may be only apparently so, as it is possible to do a large and even profitable Trade in African Produce, at even lower rates, than it has yet reached, if those in the Trade will only make up their minds to accept the situation. And instead of reducing the prices of merchandize down to the lowest cash basis, put on a reasonable margin to meet the prices demanded by gatherers (not to say the producers) of the produce and it will then be possible to buy produce at such a rate—fast enough as to make the trade pay at the present and even lower prices. It is true as a native merchant said to the writer in the depression of 1886; "it does not matter what the price is in the European Markets, so long as we can buy the produce here in a sufficient quantity and at a profitable rate;" hence after all, the fall in prices of produce need not necessarily embarass the the trade since there has been also a considerable falling off in prices of Merchandise, owing it may be true to the sluggishness of the market, but is likely to continue for a time. But another encouraging fact connected with the trade in these parts is, that the native demand is so much for produce, leaving it altogether in the hand of the merchant as to how much he is to pay for merchandise; so that if merchants will unite on the question of prices for merchandise, and make it high enough to allow themselves a profit on the produce, after paying for it price demanded by the native; then offer him his price for his stuff. The matter of prices will be settled at once, and a flourishing trade will be the result wherever not otherwise hindered.

J. ALBERT

Bonthe, 9th Nov. '88.

THE MISSIONARY WORK.

The World seems alive to this great and noble work as never before, and yet the cause seems to be in greater need now than at any time in the past. From every part of the World, as we look over the reports of the many Missionary Societies there appears the want of men or funds to carry forward the work, if not in general, in some particular department, so that so far as I am informed on the subject of Missions, which expresses my mind more than any other, I see a want of aid of some kind every where, and those wants are really it would seem on the increase with every succeeding year. What does this mean? that while christendom is bending her utmost energies toward the work of saving the World, the want of the cause of Missions are increasing beyond the capacity of the church to meet them, and that after a desperate struggle for the conquest of the World, that Zions Armies will at length have to furl their banners and give up in despair? I believe not, but it does seem to mean, that the united energies of the church of Christ are operating so mightily against the powers of darkness, that the gates of the nations hitherto closed against the gospel are being thrown open so rapidly, that the laborers and means of the present are not sufficient to enter all the openings for successful Missionary work. And hence the strain to-day up on the church is for means to occupy, the wide field of the world already open as never before; and which cannot enlarge to any great extent, while the means of the church are capable of being enlarged to an unlimited extent. In other words the cause of Missions has already in a manner, triumphed.—J. A. E.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

JULY 15, 1888.

OUR MISSIONS

Of course every reader of this Journal will readily understand that by the term Our Missions we refer to the Missions of the Church of the United Brethren In Christ, as this paper is published under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of that Church. The Missions however are Three in Number as is generally known and understood. First the Sherbro or Shaingay Mission with Head Quarters at Shaingay in the District of the same name. Established in 1855 and has a High School, and quite a number of Principal Stations from which as centers it carries on an extensive Itinerating service by means of its preachers and lay Itinerants or travelling Bible readers. It has of late passed through a scourge of no ordinary kind; in consequence of the war which raged in the Quiah Territory about a year ago; since then and up to the present time, it suffers much from destitution; which appeals very loudly to the sympathies of the lovers of good every where for succour and it is encouraging to know that through the efforts of Rev. J. M. Lesher, formerly connected with that Mission, much help in the way of clothing &c. has been rendered, by friends in the United States. Second, we may perhaps, mention the Mendi Mission with Head-quarters established in 1842 at Kaw Mendi; but subsequently were removed to Bonthe Sherbro, where they have since remained. From its establishment in 1842 up to 1883 the Mendi Mission was under the controll and direction of the American Missionary Association of the Congregational Church of America to Feb. 1888 the Mendi Mission was transfered to the U. B. C. Board of Missions with four stations, but two of them had to be discontinued shortly after the transfer; as of little or no promise, however, others in better localities have since been established, so that at present there are five principal stations as centers from which itinerating is carried on through out a large district in the same way as that of the Shaingay Mission, with the hope of enlarging as rapidly as means can be obtained. At present the Mendi Mission is greatly in need of one hundred pounds for itinerating service and another one hundred and fifty pounds is for repairing Mission residences and chapels.

The third that we may mention is the Bompeh Mission of the Woman's Missionary Association of the U. B. C. It was, we believe established, in 1878 by the above Association with Head-quarters at Rotifunk in the Bompeh District, & has four central Stations from which Itinerating is carried on throughout the country. Bompeh Mission has been harrassed at various times by wars, and has perhaps suffered more from that source than any of the U. B. C. Missions, yet to-day it bids fare to equal, if not outstrip the others in many respects.

Other particulars might be stated of these various Missions, their territory, Superintendents, Employees, buildings &c. but we have not space at limit at present, yet should state that each and every one is planned for and actually doing a grand work in spreading the gospel message among the real heathen tribes of this part of the coast.

BENNISEED.

About two and a half or perhaps three years ago, there was a fair promise of a large quantity of this grain coming into the market; and it was then commanding a fair price, and ready sale, at the various factories in Sherbro. As to just the amount of it bought during those years that it was in the Market we are not informed, but from the quantity that came under our observation we should judge that the aggregate was quite large, and indeed were so informed, by several reliable parties, whose names do not just now recur to memory, nor is that a matter of particular importance since the fact is generally known among traders, that there was a considerable trade but a short time ago in Benniseed, but that for some reason, it has ceased to be as it formerly was, and that now we see and hear but little of Benniseed, in Sherbro. But there is a demand tor it in the Markets of Europe and that too at a good price; and this has led us to wonder, why there is not more being done here in Benniseed. Enquiring of a native man of business,—i. e. acquainted with Trade and under employment as a clerk,—who has large connexions with the country, and he informs us that since the prices had gone down, the country people have not cared to give attention to the growing of Benniseed hence we see so little of it. This explanation makes plain one side of the case—that of the grower—But yet a mystery hangs about the other side,—that of the buyer of Produce,—and that is for us to understand the cause of little or no demand here for a kind of Produce, that is in ready demand at a fair price in the European Markets, whither all our produce tends. Will not some of our readers give us an answer on this subject?

Some Changes,—have already taken place in connection with the Branch Mail s. s. Formoso, and others are expected to follow. Capt. T. Arthur Windham, has, we learn, gone to England; and Mr. James Paterson formerly first officer, who had been home on a short leave, has returned to the coast and taken charge of the s. s. Formoso as master; and we feel sure from what we know of Capt. Paterson's affability of manners, that he will do all in his power to make it pleasant for passengers; who may have occasion to travel with him, and as we understand that there is to be a reduction in the fair of passengers,—especially Cabin—we anticipate a larger patronage of the Vessel in the near future, and which we may say, it well deserves.

ADVERTISING—Is we are glad to note, becoming far more common, than it used to be; and yet the demand is not one fourth of what it should be, for the ammount of business carried on in the settlements and river districts: for there is no small proportion of the people both in the colonies and the rivers who can read, and many do read the papers, hence the Man or Firm that wishes to catch the Trade should Advertise their goods and keep the matter before the public.

Bridges Roads And Streets.—In our perambulations about the place, we have much pained for sometime, to see the conditions of the bridges &c, but of late there has been a little attention given to these especially are we pleased to see a lot of timbers at the Medina street bridge or public pier and to hope that it is soon to be put in order. We noticed too some cleaning of streets by the Authorities in places, but many of the streets and some of the bridges are in a bad condition and have been for a good while. we have refrained from noting these for several reasons, but chiefly to give sufficient time for steps tobe taken for improvement which we had hoped would have been ere this. Of course we are aware that the Comdt., is absent but there is always a provision made for the collecting of the revenue, and to attend to other matters of Government here, and we feel that there ought to be also a means provided for looking after the proper repair and keeping of our Streets Bridges, and Roads; we hope that this notice may have the desired effect, and that we may not have occasion to recur to this subject again.

FORGIVENESS

"If ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your heavenly father fogive your trespasses." What a sorry plight if we must there hating this one, and hating that one, and wishing this one a damage and some one else a calamity, and we ourselves needing forgiveness for ten thousand times ten thousand obliquities of heart and life. When our last hour comes, we want it to find us all right. I do not suppose that I am any more of a coward than other people, but I declare to you that I would not dare to sleep to night if there was any being in all the earth with whom I would not gladly shake hands, had during the night hours my spirit dismissed to other realms. I should, because of my unforgiving spirit, be denied Divine forgiveness.

"But," says some woman, "there is that old creature that has so injured me that rather than make up with her I would die first." Well, sister, you may take your choice—for one or the other it will be—your complete pardon of her or God's eternal banishment of you. "But," says some man, that fellow who cheated me out of those goods, or damaged my business credit, or started that lie about me in the newspapers, or by his perfidy broke up my domestic happiness, forgive him I can not, forgive him I will not. Well, brother take your choice. You will never be at peace with God till you are at peace with man. Feeling as you now do you would not get so near the harbour of heaven as to see the lightship. Better leave your enemy with God who said: "Vengeance is mine and I will repay." "You may say, I will make him sweat for that yet; I will make him squirm. I mean to pursue him to his death;" but you are damaging yourself more than you damage him, and you are making heaven for your own soul an impossibility. If you will not be reconciled to you, be reconciled to him. In five or six hours it will soon be sundown. The dailies will bloom against the western sky. Somewhere between this and that take a shovel and bury the old quarrel at least five or six feet deep. "Let not the sun go down upon your wrath."

"But," you say, "I have more than I can bear; too much is put upon me and on I go to Salem if I am somewhat revengeful and unrelenting." Then I think of the little child at the moving of some goods from a store. The father was putting some rolls of goods on the child's arm, package after package, and some one said, "That child is being overloaded, and so much ought not to be put upon her," when the child responded, "Father knows how much I can carry," and God, our Father, will not allow too much imposition on his children. It is the day of clearing it will be found, yet had not one annoyance too many, not one vexation too many, not one outrage too many. Your heavenly father knows how much you can carry.—Sel.

Personal

Mr. James Paterson, formerly the 1st officer of the s.s. Formoso has returned from England, he has been promoted in the service & is now master of the Ship. While here on the last voyage of the Steamer, Captain Paterson, accompanied by our good jovial Friend Mr. James Wright, called in to see us. And we were indeed glad to meet Captain Paterson again and to congratulate him upon his safe return as also his promotion, he subscribed and paid for our Journal for a year to be sent to Mrs. Paterson at home; and assured us that he had interested some friends while in England in the Early Dawn. We wish Capt. Paterson success in some changes which he is effecting we believe in the management of the s.s. Formoso see another note in this issue.

Rev. S. B. Morrison,—of Avery Station has been quite ill, but was much better. We are glad to note, at our last hearing from Manoh Gbangroo.

Mr. James. Wright.—Chief Engineer of the s.s. Formoso leaves in short for England, and we regret to learn that possible may not return, to these parts again, we shall miss his genial face, and jovial air, as he has become a very welcome visitor to our office; always bringing with him a bit of sunshine no matter how cloudy the day, or how gloomy the prospects of business, Mr. Wright has been always Bright.

Drs. Jarrett and Johnson,—gave us a call on the 13th inst. The former our esteemed Colonial Surgeon of this place is about taking his leave for England and kindly brought the latter, Dr. Johnson around and introduced him as the person to preside over health and sickness during his (Dr. Jarrett's) absence. We wish Dr. Jarrett a pleasant leave, and Dr. Johnson a successful practice.

SELLING A DAUGHTER'S BODY.

A highly respected physician in authority for the following story of almost unbelievable depravity. An old man in this city depends for support upon the work of his daughter, his only child. He was not worthy of that support, for he was a slave to the most hideous of harsh masters—the whiskey bottle. He made no efforts to earn an honest living for himself, although able of limb and sound of mind. But the old man is almost constant dweller at whiskey shops and loafing corners.

His daughter went out to sew, and her father compelled her every day to give him a quarter to buy liquor. By her toil she secured a sewing machine and did her sewing at home. She did everything in her power to draw her father out of the folds of the monster that, with a thousand arms, was dragging him down. The neighbors reasoned with him and scolded him, but to no success.

One day, when all the streets of Cleveland were covered with ice, the daughter slipped and fell, near the public square. She was picked up badly injured and carried to one of the hospitals. Her fall was too much for her frail system, weakened and run down by unceasing toil, poor food, cheerless days and nights of sorrow.

For several days she tossed in fever, and, although kindly cared for, she finally died. The father missed her daily attendance for rum and pawned the the sewing machine to buy more liquor. The poor dead girl was buried quietly, no one going to the pauper's graveyard, except the undertaker and the father. The ladies who lived neighbors to the girl made a beautiful wreath to be put upon the coffin, and gave it to the father to be placed there in the grave. The wreath he sold for liquor. At night, when the rum cravings came on strongest, the old man secured a horse and wagon, drove to the grave where his dead daughter was buried, tore the emaciated body from its resting place, conveyed it away to the storage room of the medical college. He sold it there for a miserable pittance—a few dollars—with which he again went to kneel down before the frightful idol to whom he had offered up health, happiness, home, his only child, and his own soul. Humanity so sunk is happily seldom seen. Sel.

Rev. D. K. Flickinger D.D. —According to our latest advices from U. S. A. expected sail for Europe on the 13th of June, this was quite an unexpected information, to us, as we had been informed only shortly before that he would not likely sail before October 11th. But we believe that it is to attend some important business in connection with our German Mission, that has caused the Bishop to take an earlier leave of America.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

F & A. SWANZY

GEO. LEACH

Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs nett, Half Hogshead of about 550 lbs nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand—in similar packages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the Up-River Traders, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed not nailed down, Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F & A. SWANZY.
ALPHA FACTORY.
June 29th '88. Sherbro.

GREAT Reduction IN PRICES.

THE Undersigned beg to inform their FRIENDS and CUSTOMERS that they have received a fresh supply of AMERICAN GOODS, which they are now offering at the following rates;—

NEW FLOUR Happy Home.

£1. 18. 0. per Bbl.

NEW BISCUITS,

0. 18. 0. per Bbl.

KEROSINE Crystaline brand.

0. 13. 0. per Case

TOBACCO, per hgd. as 1 hgd.

0. 0. 11. per lb.

(Delivered in York Island or Freetown at buyers option.)

Other American Goods at greatly reduced rates.

Kisher & Randall (Lmtd).

T. DALTON,—Agent

York Island,
July 2, '88.

THE RAINS.—Continue to fall rather heavy, and as our place is low, we are much troubled by the running of the water in the streets, which, of course is rendered something worse by the poor drainage system of the town of Bonthe, and is very disagreeable to persons obliged to move about the place, and especially at night when it is dark, for one is not only liable to plunge into water over his shoetops, but is in danger of falling into bad places washed out by the heavy rains. Some places, the grass when wet as it is most of the time now makes it very unpleasant to get along on the streets. The result of so much rain and cold is considerable sickness in the community.

From Koneonany,—we have a good report, from Mr. T. M. Cole Teacher in charge of the Mission Station, but his Article is too late for today's Issue (15th inst.) but will appear in our next D.V. however we may say he reports good religious services at different places, and some collections although many of the people have had to remove on account of the hard-times.

BIRTH.—On Sunday the 8th inst. at 8 o'clock p. m., the wife of Mr. Wm. B. Grosvenor of a daughter.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE SHERBRO

July 15, 1888

OUR MISSIONS

It course every reader of this Journal will readily understand that by the term Our Missions we refer to the Missions of the Church of the United Brethren In Christ, as this paper is published under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of that Church. The Missions however are Three in Number as is generally known and understood. First the Sherbro or Shaingay Mission with Head Quarters at Shaingay in the District of the same name. Established in 1855 and has a High School, and quite a number of Principal Stations from which as centers it carries on an extensive Itinerating service by means of its preachers and lay Itinerants or traveling Bible readers. It has of late passed through a scourge of no ordinary kind; in consequence of the war which raged in the Quiah or Territory about 1 year ago since then and up to the present time, it suffers much from destitution; which appeals very loudly to the sympathies of the lovers of good every where for succour and it is encouraging to know that through the efforts of Rev. J. M. Lesher, formerly connected with that Mission, much help in the way of clothing &c. has been rendered, by friends in the United States. Second, we may, perhaps, mention the Mendi Mission with Head quarters established in 1842 at Kaw Mendi; but subsequently were removed to Bonthe Sherbro where they have since remained. From its establishment in 1842 up to 1883 the Mendi Mission was under the controll and direction of the American Missionary Association of the Congregational Church of America. In Feb. 1888 the Mendi Mission was transfered to the U. B. C. Board of Missions with four stations, but two of them had to be discontinued shortly after the transfer; as of little or no promise, however others in better localities have since been established, so that at present there are five principal stations as centers from which itinerating is carried on throughout a large district in the same way as that of the Shaingay Mission with the help of a native man of business, acquainted with Trade and under employment, as a clerk, who has large connections with the country, and he informs us that since the prices had gone down, the country people have not cared to give attention to the growing of Benniseed hence we see so little of it. This explanation makes plain one side of the case—that of the grower. But yet a mystery hangs about the other side,—that of the buyer of Produce,—and that is for us to understand the cause of little or no demand here for a kind of Produce, that is in ready demand at a fair price to the European Markets, while our produce tends, Will not some of our readers give us an answer on this subject?

Some Changes,—have already taken place in connection with the Branch Mail s. s. Formoso, and others are expected to follow. Capt. Arthur Windsor has, we learn, gone to England; and Mr. James Paterson formerly first officer, who had been home on a short leave, has returned to the coast and taken charge of the s. s. Formoso as master; and we feel sure from what we know of Capt. Paterson's affability of manners, that he will do all in his power to make it pleasant for passengers; who may have occasion to travel with him, and as we understand that there is to be a reduction in the fair of passengers,—especially Cabin—we anticipate a larger patronage of the Vessel in the near future, and which we may say, it well deserves.

ADVERTISING.—Is we are glad to note, becoming far more common, than it used to be, and yet the demand is not one fourth of what it should be, for the aramount of business carried on in the settlements and river districts: for there is no small proportion of the people both in the colonies and the rivers, who can read, and many do read the papers, hence the man or firm that wishes to catch the Trade should Advertise their goods and keep the matter before the public

Bridges Roads And Streets.—In our perambulations about the place, we have been much pained for sometime, to see the conditions of the bridges &c, but of late there has been a little attention given to these especially are we pleased to see a lot of timbers at the Medina street bridge or public pier and to hope that it is soon to be put in order. We noticed too some cleaning of streets by the Authorities in places, but many of the streets and some of the bridges are in a bad condition and have been for a good while, we have refrained from noting these for several reasons, but chiefly to give sufficient time for steps to be taken for improvement which we had hoped would have been ere this. Of course we are aware that the Comdt., is absent but there is always a provision made for the collecting of the revenue, and to attend to other matters of Government here, and we feel that there ought to be also a means provided for looking after the proper repair and keeping of our Streets Bridges, and Roads; we hope that this notice may have the desired effect, and that we may not have occasion to recur to this subject again.

FORGIVENESS

"If ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your heavenly father forgive your trespasses." What a sorry plight if we could have lasting this one, and lasting that one, and striking this one a chance and some one else a calamity, and we ourselves needing forgiveness for ten thousand times ten thousand obliquities of heart and life. When our Lord Jesus comes we want it to find us all right. I do not suppose that I am any more of a coward than most people, but I declare to you that I would rather be alive to-night if there was any being in all the earth with whom I would not gladly shake hands, lest during the night hours my spirit departed to rather realize I should, because of my unforgiving spirit, be denied Divine forgiveness.

"But," says some woman, "there is a horrid creature that has so injured me that to meet that image up with her I would die first." Well, sister, you may take your choice—for one or the other it will be—your compete pardon of her or hers eternal banishment of you. "But," says some man, that fellow who cheated me out of three cents in changed my business credit, or circulated that libel about me in the newspapers, or by his perfidy broke up my domestic happiness, forgive him I can not, forgive him I will not." Well, brother take your choice. You will never be at peace with God till you are at peace with man. Feeling as you now do you would not get so near the Father of heaven as to see the lightship Better leave your enemy with God who said "Vengeance is mine and I will repay." "You say, I will make him squirm for that yet; I will make him squirm, I mean to pursue him to his death . . . but you are damaging yourself more than you damage him, and you are making heaven to your own soul an impossibility. If the will not be reconciled to you, be reconciled to Him. In five or six hours it will soon be sundown. The darkness will bloom around the eastern sky. Somewhere between this and that take a shovel and bury the old quarrel at least five or six feet deep. Let not the sun go down upon your wrath."

But, you say, "I have more than I can bear, too much is put upon me and am I only to believe if I am somewhat revengeful and unforgiving?" then I think of the little child at the moving of some goods from a store.

The father was putting some rolls of goods on the child's arm," package after package, and some one said, "That child is being overloaded, and so much ought not to be put upon her," when the child responded, "Father knows how much I can carry," and God, our Father, will not allow too much too much imposition on his children. In the day of eternity it will be found you had not one annoyance too many, not one exasperation too many, not one outrage too many. Your heavenly father knows how much you can carry.—Sel.

Personal

Mr. James Paterson, formerly the 1st officer of the s.s. Formoso has returned from England, he has been promoted in the service & is now master of the Ship. While here on the last voyage of the Steamer, Captain Paterson, accompanied by our good jovial Friend Mr. James Wright called in to see us. And we were indeed glad to meet Captain Paterson again and to congratulate him upon his safe return as also his promotion he subscribed and paid for our Journal for a year to be sent to Mrs Paterson at home; and assured us that he had interested some friends while in England in the Early Dawn. We wish Capt. Paterson success in some changes which he is effecting we believe in the management of the s.s. Formoso see another note in this issue.

Rev. S. B. Morrison,—of Avery Station has been quite ill, but was much better, we are glad to note, at our last hearing from Mamoh Gbangbay.

Mr. James. Wright.—Chief Engineer of the s.s. Formoso leaves on shout for England, and we regret to learn that no sible may not return, to these parts again. we shall miss his genial face, and jovial air, as he has become a very welcome visitor to our office; always bringing with him a bit of sunshine no matter how cloudy the day, or how gloomy the prospects of business, Mr. Wright has been always bright.

Drs. Jarrett and Johnson, gave us a call on the 13th inst. The former our esteemed Colonial Surgeon of this place is about taking his leave for England and kindly brought the latter, Dr. Johnson, around and introduced him as the person to preside over health and sickness during his (Dr. Jarrett's) absence. We wish Dr. Jarrett a pleasant leave, and Dr. Johnson a successful practice.

SELLING A DAUGHTER'S BODY

A highly respected physician is authority for the following story of almost unbelievable depravity: An old man in this city depends for support upon the work of his daughter, his only child. He was not worthy of that support, for he was a slave to the most hideous of harsh masters—the whiskey bottle. He made no efforts to earn an honest living for himself, although able of limb and sound of mind, but was an almost constant dweller at whiskey shops and loafing corners.

His daughter went out to sew, and her father compelled her every day to give him a quarter to buy liquor. By her toil she secured a sewing machine and did her sewing at home. She did everything in her power to draw her father out of the foldy of the monster that, with a thousand arms, was dragging him down. The neighbors reasoned with him and scolded him, but to no success.

One day, when all the streets of Cleveland were covered with ice, the daughter slipped and fell near the public square. She was picked up badly injured and carried to one of the hospitals. Her fall was too much for her frail system, weakened and run down by unceasing toil, poor food, cheerless days and nights of sorrow.

For several days she tossed in fever, and, although kindly cared for, she finally died. The father missed her daily attendance for rum and pawned the the sewing machine to buy more liquor. The poor dead girl was hurried quietly, no one going to the pauper's grave-yard; except the undertaker and the father. The ladies who lived neighbors to the girl made a beautiful wreath to be put upon the coffin, as it gave it to the father to be placed there in the grave. The wreath he sold for liquor. At night, when the rum cravings came on strongest, the old man secured a horse and wagon, drove to the grave where his dead daughter was buried, tore the emaciated body from its resting place, conveyed it away to the storage room of the medical college. He sold it there for a miserable pittance—a few dollars—with which he again went to kneel down before the frightful idol to whom he had offered up health, happiness, home, his only child, and his own soul. Humanity so sunk is happily seldom seen. Sel.

Rev. D. K. Flickinger D.D. —According to our latest advices, from U. S. A. expected sail for Europe on the 13th of June, this was quite an unexpected information to us, as we had, been informed only shortly before that he would not likely sail before October 11th. But we believe that it is to attend some important business in connection with our German Mission, that has caused the Bishop to take an earlier leave of America.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

F & A SWANZY

GEO. LEACH

Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs nett. Half Hogshead of about 550 lbs nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand in similar packages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the Up-River Traders, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed not nailed down, Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected, so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F & A. SWANZY.

ALPHA FACTORY

June 29th '88. Sherbro.

GREAT Reduction IN PRICES

THE Undersigned beg to inform their FRIENDS and CUSTOMERS that they have received a fresh supply of AMERICAN GOODS, which they are now offering at the following rates:

NEW FLOUR Happy Home

£1. 18. 0. per Bbl.

NEW BISCUITS,

0. 18. 0. per Bbl

KEROSINE Crystaline brand

0. 13. 0. per Case

TOBACCO, per hed. or ½ hgd.

0. 0. 11. per lb

(Delivered in York Island or Governors at buyers option.)

Other American Goods at greatly rduced rates

Fisher & Randall (Lmtd)

T. DALTON,—Agent

York Island,

July 2, '88.

THE RAINS.—Continue to fall rather heavy, and as our place is low, we are much troubled by the running of the water in the streets, which, of course is rendered something worse, by the poor drainage system of the town of Bonthe, and is very disagreeable to persons obliged to move about the place, and especially at night when it is dark, for one is not only liable to plunge in to water over his shoetops, but is in danger of falling into bad places washed out by the heavy rains. Some places, the grass when wet as it is most of the time now makes it very unpleasant to get along on the streets. The result of so much rain and cold is considerable sickness in the community.

From Koneonany.—we have a good report, from Mr. T. M. Cole Teacher in charge of the Mission Station, but his Article is too late for today's Issue (15th inst.) but will appear in our next D.V. however we may say he reports good religious services at different places, and some collections although many of the people have had to remove on account of the hard times.

BIRTH.—On Sunday the 8th inst. at 8 o'clock p. m. the wife of Mr. Wm. B Grosvenor of a daughter.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL.—Since our last we have to record a further depression, supplies having been plentiful and a large quantity visible on the way. Stock on the 31st May 8268 tons against 8862, at the end of April. Stock on 31st May, 1887, 9700 tons. Prices 20s. to 25s. more this time last year than now. Last Friday, at the London Auctions, there was a slight advance in the price of tallow. Sales during the week, 900 to 1000 tons. We quote "transit."

	PRESENT PRICE.
Lagos	£18. 5. 0. to 18. 10. 0.
Bonny	17. 5. 0. to 17. 10. 0.
Cameroon	17. 2. 6. to 17. 7. 6.
Benin	16. 10. 0. to 16. 15. 0.
Old Calabar	17. 5. 0. to 17. 10. 0.
Brass, Niger and New Calabar.	16. 5. 0. to 16. 10. 0.
Congo	16. 0. 0. to 16. 5. 0.
Loanda	16. 15. 0. to 17. 0. 0.
Accra, Adah, Quitah, Popo, and Pram Pram	16. 12. 6. to 16. 17. 6.
Sherbro and Sierra Leone	15. 15. 0. to 16. 0. 0.
Saltpond, Appam, Chamah, Anamaboe, and Winnebah.	15. 7. 6. to 15. 12. 6.
Half Jack and Grand Bassam.	16. 15. 0. to 17. 0. 0.
Grand Bassa, Monrovia, Sinoe & Cape Palmas.	15. 5. 0. to 15. 7. 6.

PALM KERNELS.—There is a good demand but prices have fallen during the fortnight nearly 7s. 6d. a ton. We close with a slightly better feeling in the Market Quotations "transit" basis 5 per cent.

	PRESENT PRICE.
Lagos, Old Calabar, Bonny Brass Niger, and Cameroon	£9. 12. 6. to 9. 17. 6.
Benin	9. 8. 9. to 9. 13. 9.
Congo and Landana	9. 7. 6. to 9. 12. 9.
Sierra Leone and Sherbro.	8. 15. 0. to 9. 15. 5.
Monrovia, Sinoe & Grd Bassa	9. 0. 9. to 9. 9. 0.
Adda and Quittah.	7 5. 0. to 9. 0. 0.
Saltpond, Appam, & Winneba	7. 5. 0. to 8. 10. 0.

BENNISEED.—40s. to 50s. per 384 lbs.
COPRA.—£12 to £13 per ton.
GROUND NUTS—A small lot of good Bathurst in the shell sold at £14 10.. 0 to £15. per ton. Decorticated £13 to £14 10. 0.; but no business to report.
COFFEE.—Very firm, but no advance as yet over our last quotations. Bold berry 54s.: Liberian 65s. to 68s. per cwt.
COCOA.—45s. to 60s. per cwt. No business to report.
INDIA RUBBER.—Sales during the weeks about 12 tons however is restricted as holders are firm, but there is little disposition to buy.

Gambia Niggers, fair to prime	1s.	8d. to 1s. 10d.
Sierra Leone do. do.	1s.	5d. to 1s. 7d.
Thimbles	1s.	6d. to 1s. 7½d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s.	2d. to 1s. 5d.
Soft and flaky Ball	0s.	7d. to 0s. 9d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim and Assinie	1s.	1d. to 1s. 3½d.
Liberian	1s.	0d. to 1s. 2½d
Saltpond	0s.	8d. to 0s. 11d.
Accra Pressed and Dried	0s.	9d. to 1s. 3½d.
Do. ordinary	0s.	6½d. to 0s. 7½d.
Flake and Lumps	0s.	6½d. to 0s. 7d.

GINGER.—Nothing doing.
GUM COPAL—There is a distinctly better feeling, and 140 barrels Sierra Leon have sold at full prices. Common 3½d. to 5d.; medium to fare 6d. to 7½d.; 8d. to 9½d. for good and fine. Red Angola at 86s. per cwt.
BEESWAX—Gambia £4. 10 0 to £4. 15. 0. Sierra Leone £4. 0. 0. to £4. 5. 0.
GUINEA GRAINS— } In demand, but no supplies at CHILLIES } first hand.
CAMWOOD—£7. to £9 10. 0. per ton.
BARWOOD—£2. 12. 6. £2. 15. 0. per ton.
EBONY—Gaboon £4. 12. 6. to 6l. Old Calabar 4l. 5. 0. to 5l.
CALABAR BEANS—None here.
KOLA NUTS—No demand.
MONKEY SKINS—The sales take place on the 13th instant, and we will report fully in our next.

Liverpool, 8th June 1888. EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Note.—In the above report we give only present prices, omitting those of same time last year for want of space. Ed.

BEECHAM'S PILLS.

For the Headache, Dizziness or Swimming in the Head, Wind, Pain, and Spasms at the Stomach, Pains in the Back, Gravel, and flying Pains in the Body, Rheumatism, &c., &c.

No matter how violent the patient is afflicted with the above complaints, let him take four, five, or even six of my Pills, and in nine cases out of ten, they will give relief in tweenty minutes they can be taken at any time in the day, and if they are taken at bed time, the patient will be all right the following morning, for the Pills will go direct to and remove the cause, for the cause of it is no more nor less than the wind, and in many cases wind and water together, with other noxious matter, very often arising from the air we breathe being contaminated with poisonous and other oxnious vapours, and sometimes from unwholesome food: in either case, or from any other cause the, blood becomes contaminated in its circulation from the lungs, and thereby carried to every part of the body, and as there is a complete circulation of the blood every six minutes, this noxious humour combined, with wind and water, is carried to and from every part of the body every six minutes. In many cases there are flying pains in the body—sometimes in the back, sometimes in the side and at other times in the arms and legs, and are often called rheumatic pains but which in reality are nothing more than wind and water mingled with the blood, and carried to every part of the body in its circulation. Let anyone troubled with any or all of the symptom here described take my Pills, as above directed, and afterwards take two Pills morning and night for a few days, which will carry off all oxnious humours, expel the wind, and cause a free circulation of the water, and lay the foundation of health and strength.

—Extract from Beecham.

S. M. MISSION STORE.

Having Completely closed out OUR OLD STOCK OF

Woolen & Cotton Goods,

Are now beginning to replenish

Our Shelves

With entirely New

GOODS.

Some of which have arrived by the last Steamer and others are expected in the next few weeks.

N.B.—We still keep on hand a fresh & fine supply of provisions

J. A. EVANS

Bonthe, Apl 21, '88.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, JULY. 31, 1888. No. 14

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0 6 0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0 5 0
Half yearly by Mail,	0 3 0
Ditto, deliv'ed in Bonth,	0 2 6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GOMER, Shengeray, Mr. E. A. LEWIS, Free town, West Africa, Rev. Wm. MCKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner	The Commandant
Deputy Coroner,	Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk	W. Hughes
Interpreter	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff	F. E. B. Buckner.
Sub-Treas. & Col Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett. J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole
Asst. Examg. Officer Sabjah.	Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts.
Gaoler	J. A. Dennis
Overseer of Roads	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.

Wesleyan Methodist. Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett
Asst Do. Rev B. C. Taylor

AFRICA.

The entire length of Africa is 5,000 English miles. It has four great rivers which if stretched in line would equal 82,600 statute miles. The commercial territory forms a belt one hundred and fifty five miles deep around the entire continent. The price of land in the river basis is about thirty cents per acre. The time must come when railroads will be built across this continent, so as to develope its natural resources. For which the church must be ready, so as to carry the gospel to its people. Sel.

God hears the hearts without the words, but he never hears the words without the heart.

LOW PRICES OF MERCHANDISE.

Are of little or no inducement to the real consumers in Africa, or at least this part of the continent, and I very much doubt it in any other part, among the real native populations, for when a native of the up river and especially interior comes down with his produce to the River Factory or those in the Settlements his object is not to speculate but to obtain requisites—just what he needs for the time with little or no reference to the future—and will buy that at any price, if left to himself, and just that and no more, even were you to offer it to him for half the cost he would not take another piece; hence reduced prices on Merchandise really lessens the amount of Trade, or rather of Produce that will be brought to the Market. For if a consumer from the interior can obtain what he wants for 100 Hampers of Produce, he will not bring down 150 no matter what reduction you make to him on your Merchandise. This I know is not the case with the Middle men, who hopes to gain by having as low as he can so as to make as large profit as possible, but it is the case with real consumers even in the settlements among civilized Africans, as I have tested very many times, when I have endeavored to sell a larger quantity of any article, for real consumption, at even fifty per cent less; and I have often been able to effect a larger sale at regular rates without difficulty when the party was really in need of the goods. All the ado about the reduction of prices, any farther than to bring down a few articles to a normal basis, I regard as useless, and killing, to the Trade. J. ALBERT.

To the Editor of the "Early Dawn."

FOR TEACHERS OF U.B.C. SCHOOLS.

Dear Sir,—Before my report is ready for the "Early Dawn," The Sherbro and Mendi Mission Schools will have begun the work of the term. I wish therefore in this issue of your paper to remind our teachers that an important object among many of the inspections and examinations of our Schools is to secure uniformity of work and the best results possible. Teachers not having the Graded Plan, would do well to apply to Revs. J. Gomer or J. A. Evans. The Grades attained by the Pupils in the recent examination may also be seen in the offices of the respective Districts. Let each Teacher study the best interest of his School and classes so that at the next Annual meeting he may have the benefit of well studied plans and suggestions. Yrs very truly.

D. F. WILLESPOUGH

July, 1888.

A STUDENT'S VOICE

From the Rufus Clark & Wife Theo. Training School

Many people seem to lose sight of the fact that there are a great many evils beside slavery which are more debasing, if continued will ever chain down nations and countries at the foot of semi-civilization. I say semi-civilization from the fact that true civilization consists in the polishing the whole man. Many I know claim that slavery is the prime cause of Africa's degradation. But is slavery a cause or an effect, is the question that ought to be considered. Africa is degraded I admit but not the most degraded country as I have often heard some say. Africa is a country that is not behind or on the background in its contribution to the civilization of the world and to day can it be said that she is the most degraded of of all countries? Certainly not. This is a fact that is evident and all careful readers can bear me out in that. In some parts of Africa where the slave trade is carried on to a great extent there are four regulated forms of government. Besides, there are manners and customs observed among illiterate Africans which are peculiarly striking to the stranger, and need only a little improvement to make them what they ought to be. It should be borne in mind that I am not advocating slavery; for I believe it to be an evil in every sense of the word. But there are a great many evils more hideous in form and debasing in every respect, among them the Hydra-headed monster evil the rum traffic. If the seeker of truth wishes to find the truth let him consider these evils together with the attendant on—and see whether he can be justified in saying that slavery is the prime cause of Africa's degradation. Those who have travelled on the coast and interior of Africa can testify that there is not so much degradation noticed in the interior as on the coast and the cause of this can largely be attributed to the rum traffick and the blame heaped on the heads of those who have introduced it into our country. For instance, question a native African as to which brings more misery, the rum traffick or slavery? He will answer you the rum traffick. Degrading as this monster evil is, yet many have their eyes closed against truth and say slavery is the prime cause of Africa's degradation. The Grecians on whose civilization the most enlightened nations of the world have built, were people who owned slaves; and in some of their cities the slaves were more in number than the citizens, and we too see how the Spartans became an aggressive military people.

Facts are too numerous to mention to prove that slavery is not the prime cause of Africa's degradation. I venture also to say that we as Africans are not so cruel to slaves as were the Greeks and Romans. But were those nations on account of their baborous treatment of their slaves, counted the most degraded nations of their age? No. The age of Pericles was one of grand dramatic composition, and of the greatest works of architecture and sculpture and to-day Grecian civilization is adorned.

Says an eloquent speaker "I am not prepared to admit that Africa is the most degraded country," neither am I. There are causes diversified in their nature that tend to degrade any nation or people, and as a fact, those who are exporting intoxicating drinks to our country cannot readily admit, and will not admit until that veil of sin is taken from their faces, that the, monster Rum with attendant evils are retrogrilling the world hour by hour. More again.

W. H. J.

Shaingay Mission

HARD TIMES.

Almost any and everywhere you go you can hear the cry of Hard Times or as the usual, expression is "Time Hard Sir;" and more also, as most people say, the times are becoming harder every day and it is pretty difficult for any one to feel otherwise, as the financial pressure is so hard on business men that they are obliged to cry out, while professional men are in scarcely less straightened circumstances from the low salaries they receive or the small amount of service that the public requires, for lack of means to pay for such services. The poor which really from the masses, and always appear to be ground under the heaviest of the pressure, Cry from real hunger and destitution, they offer their all—their services—upon the public alter, but it is thrust away a thing unacceptable, and then their wail becomes more lamentable in our ears, but who can assuage their grief? God and heaven alone stand ready and able to hear the cry and supply the wants of all. Who then will flee to the everlasting arms?—J. A. E.

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

From what I can understand is not lawfully practiced, by a full member of any of Christian connexions, in the settlement of Sierra Leone, at least I understand that a communicant of any Church may be denied the sacrament of the Lord's Supper if he be a dealer in spirituous liquors, and Wesleyans are prohibited from class privilges for such offense. This being the case it seems strange that this awful Traffi, in rum and gin has gained such a footing. To me it argues inconsistency and reprehensy inconsistency in the practice of some European christians in allowing themselves to practice the use of wines as a beverage and further in allowing christian merchants in England to manufacture and sell the vile stuff to the African trade. Reprobacy in allowing the first native christians to enter into the rum business; for either they or their teachers must have retrograded.

R. J. BEAL.

ADVERTISEMENT SCALE.

Reduced rates.

(FOR EACH INSERTION.)

A whole page	£1 10 0
A whole column	0 8 0
Half-a-column	0 5 0
One-fourth of a column	0 3 0
One-eighth of a column	0 2 6
Marriage	0 2 0
Births and deaths	0 1 0
Domestic servants wanted	0 1 0
Servants wanting situations	0 1 0

Each notice should not exceed 4 lines every additional line or part of a line 4d extra.

"Just being in a hurry all over," is the fit description of a little girl of my acquaintance.

The Early Dawn.
BONTHE, SHERBRO.
JULY 31, 1888.

THE TRADE IN SHERBRO.

It is said by some at least if not the most of the merchants and traders, as well as even the Market Women, was never worse than at the present; and indeed it does seem very much like it; for there is not the produce coming into the market that one would suppose ought to come and certainly not sufficient for buyers to obtain large quantities, in the time they should to make it pay when merchandise is at such a low figure as at the present time, and produce being so high here in comparison with the European Market prices; thus leaving so small a margin, for profits, that it may be eaten up in the least extra expense from whatever source it may arise. Merchants perceiving the decrease in trade, and possibly in the quantity of produce coming into the market commenced sometime ago to reduce the prices of their merchandise and more recently it would seem they have become rather excited over the matter and flung out their Hand-Bills and Placards publishing reductions and greater reductions of prices of merchandise, but to what profit has it been there has been no perceptible improvement in the trade to about the same sluggishness in the market continues and only the same amount of produce has been bought as would have been if the prices of merchandise had been kept up; the only thing then that we can see that has resulted from the reduction of prices has been a loss to the dealers, and further proceedings of the same kind will result only in greater losses and no improvement of the trade. For the very reason that it is not a reduction in the price of merchandise that is now needed to quicken into activity the sluggish trade of Sherbro; but the demand of today is a higher price for produce and that, too, almost without reference to the price of merchandise, so if the public would but open their eyes to it the problem is easy of solution; let the merchants combine, raise the price of their goods 50 per cent above where it now stands, then add 25 per cent to the present merchandise price of produce and allow the cash price to remain where it is; then instead placarding their prices down here and in Freetown send out hundreds of Hand bills to the rivers announcing the advance in the price of produce for merchandise. It would be seen in a very short time that the gatherers of produce would set to work to get big money, and produce would flow down in quantity.

THE CAULKER CASE AGAIN.

We regret very much to note the amount of Criticism that is in one way or or another being heaped upon the Government for the course pursued in the execution of the criminals at Shaingay. For it seems to be readily conceded on every hand that they were guilty of murder and that the verdict of the jury was a correct one. The trouble or source of complaint seems however then to arise out of 1. The manner of execution, hanging as common felons while some contend that they were princes of the house of the Caulkers. 2. The place of their execution Shaingay the chief town of the Caulkers. 3. The paucity of the gathering that witnessed the execution. In answer to the first we may safely say, Ichabod-the glory had departed. Of the second it is the place where the crime was committed. The third was for want of inhabitants in the vicinity at the time of the execution. The questions of jurisdiction or non-jurisdiction, are altogether extraneous to the case and must be a matter of future settlement. If the Governor had commuted the sentence of death to either life Imprisonment or Transportation the country people would at once have attributed it to their Fetish or medicine, so that as before we conclude that the best course was pursued in the case. And that all the criticisms that are made only tend to confuse the minds of statesmen and retard measures for the further effectual settlement of country matters.

Messrs FISHER AND RANDDALL LTD.,

We call attention to the Advertisement of the above Firm on our fourth page in order to correct the PRICES of ARTICLES as given in the same, which by a slight inadverteney were not, corrected in the advertisement, they should read as follows Viz.

NEW FLOUR (Happy Home)
£1. 16. 0. per Bbl
NEW BISCUITS,
0. 16. 0 per Bbl.
KEROSENE Crystaline brand
0. 12. 0. per Case.
TOBACCO per hgd or ½ hgd.
0. 0. 10½ per lb.
per cwt or 100 lbs box. 0. 1. 0.

THE EXECUTION OF THE CAULKERS.

Much is being said by the public about the execution of these men, as to why, and how, and where, it to took place, I have been repeatedly asked my views on the subject, as my name often occurred in connection with the parties, and during the trial, I have simply this to say, they were executed because the Chief Justice and the Governor thought they deserved it, after a fair and impartial trial and the jury having pronounced them guilty of wilful murder 2. they were executed on the Mission grounds at Shaingay on a vacant lot overlooking the sea. Mr. Wilberforce and myself both objected to grant ing the place at first, but after Captain Halkett had made search and could find no other available grounds we yielded our objection. 1. because of the timely assistance that the Government had rendered the Mission during the war to deny them this when no other spot could be found, it appeared to us would be the grossest ingratitude, 2. then, too, we wished to discourage superstition for already the people were saying if they were executed there, their spirits would be walking about in the night to trouble people, we knew that if they were received into the Heavenly Mansions, they would never wish to trouble people here, but if they were so unfortunate as to be carried captives down to the prison below, they would not be allowed to return to trouble people here, and we were correct, for it has now been over six weeks and not one of them has been seen or heard of.

Before ascending the scaffold chaplain Taylor read and prayed with them and committed them to God he had faithfully done for them all that could be done by man, also Rev J B. Frederick of the A. M. E. Church in Freetown had imparted much spiritual food to them, and we have good reason for beleiving that Wm. T. G. Caulker and Lahie were fully trusting in their Saviour, they behaved well on the scaffold, Lahie was anxious for it to be over, he was the first to speak from the scaffold he said "oh father I do bad, I die today do father you must forgive me and take me to heaven for Jesus Christ sake amen."

Thomas Cobar Caulker next spoke, he denied bringing the war, said "Domingo swore false against him, he could never bring those blood hounds to destroy his country, there was no one to protect his sisters, cousins, and nephews &c." he bade us good bye. William offered a short prayer "oh Lord into thy divine hands do I commit my soul through Jesus Christ amen."

Thomas said in Sherbro, "do you stand and witness such a death especially me God is there." The Sheriff gave the signal the trap fell and the three were launched from time into eternity. Only a few hundred persons were present; for this there were several reasons, the principal one was that very many of the people in the country had either directly or indirectly aided in the war, and they believed that the Governor wished to get them to Shaingay so he could catch them and take them to Freetown and they deserted their towns when they knew that soldiers & constables were being brought here, it is now all over, we are safe and to God be all the praise.—J. GOMER.

Shaingay July '88

THE MISSIONARY WORK

Another reason for the present stain upon the resources of the Church of the World to support the cause of Missions is that the gospel is largely yet, especially in the Missionary fields, being preached to the poor, these are they who fill the rolls of the Missionary Church Books, and tho' numerous they possess but little of this world's goods, and so are unable to help the cause of Missions forward as they would desire. This fact is generally over looked, the poverty of the Parishs of India and the slaves of west Africa who possess almost absolutely nothing and most of whom can earn nothing for themselves, these all having souls to save, are regarded as fit subjects of Gospel grace, and the Missionary labors to win them to Christ and receives them into the Church where they need careful attention from the best and firmest Christian workers but they have nothing to give for the support of their spiritual guide and that reverts upon the Christians of other communities; of whom only a small proportion, in many parts of the World are really wealthy, and too often the large gifts, of the rich are Spasmodic and not very frequent hence the Church even where it is strongest has to depend more upon small contributions and the steady giving of the comparatively poor; while in almost every Missionary field it must of necessity gather in a large percentage of persons of little or no means. This then being the case, the question will most naturally be asked, will it ever be any better? to this I feel assured in answering yes, it will; and the improvement will be far more rapid than the most sanguine can now imagine, of which I must write in my next.

J. A. K.

Subscribe for The "Early Dawn."

Personal

Rev. D. F. Wilberforce,—of the Rufus Clark and wife Training School was among us again for a few days from the 16th to 19th, when he proceeded to Danville to look after some financial interests of that Station; he also held the Avery Quarterly Meeting for the Presiding Elder of the district on the 22d & 23d insts.

Mr. G. H. Garrett, officer in charge, called also on the 16th inst., his was to be a farewell call as he expected at any time to be relieved and leave at once; and yet he could not tell how long he might be detained. Mr. Garrett is decidedly a pleasant man of winning manners knowing just what to say and when to say it. We shall miss him.

Revd G. G. M. Nicol, returned from Freetown per s. s. Formoso on the 17th inst. recovered, we understand from his severe illness that had caused him to take a change.

Dr. M. L. Jarrett and Mrs. Jarrett, also Miss. Rancol Collier left this place on the 19th for Freetown, whence they proceed to England, we believe, we wish the entire party a pleasant and successfull journey.

Mr. S. H. Jones—who has quite recently returned from England to the Palma Trading Company's Factory at Lavanah called in on the morning of the 19th, we were much pleased to see Mr. Jones again so soon and shake his friendly hand.

Rev J. C. Thomas returned from Freetown per s. s Formoso on the 24th inst.

Revd J. Gomer and wife of the Shaingay District, (U. B. C. Missions) arrived in this place from Freetown by the s. s. Formoso on the 24th inst. They were well and enjoying life in their arduous work. They proceeded to Shaingay on the 27th inst. in private boat.

Mr. T. J. Alldridge, Agent of Messrs F and A. Swanzy visited Sherbro per s. s. Formoso he arrived on the 24th and left again for Freetown by return of the Vessel on the 25th Mr Alldridge is one of those few men of business who can see the extreme folly of the price cutting system so rife at this time here. He called in to see us.

Mr. S. B. A. Macfoy,—We regret to note has recently had the misfortune to have his son, return from England very ill indeed as we understand. However our latest information is to the effect that the son is better.

Mr. H. Maillat,—Genl. Agt of the French Co'y, also arrived per s. s. Formoso on the 24th inst, Mr. Maillat, is also one of those wide awake and enterprizing business men that knows how to carry on a large trade to advantage.

Report of AVERY STATION Mendi Mission, for the Quarter ending June 30, '88.

Mr. President,—During the Quarter our work here has been steadily advancing. The power of the gospel has effected many changes among us, both by the conversion of a few and the numerical increase of Members and Seekers' Classes; and though we feel grateful to the Father, and hoping to witness greater results from more active efforts, nevertheless our anxieties are greater still to have more souls turned from the path of sin to darkness and to the saving power of our King.

The Itinerating work has had special attention independent of our having a few workers. Owing to the unfavorableness of the weather, we have delayed building purposes. Much good has been realized from our monthly gatherings for prayer as heretofore. All we want is strength and life giving spirit, to pray and wait for refreshing season.

Apart from these comforts and encouragements, we deeply regret to mention that one of the male borders in whom we calculated much, has resigned our tuition; and that our Chapel-roof demands a great deal of attention. I have made appeals to the liberality of some friends at the beginning of the Quarter, and taken up couple pounds; while we look to others for the fulfilment of their promises, we extend our sincere wishes to all for the kind spiritual interest manifested.

Our congregations are good and interesting. At present we have 21 Seekers Classes consisting of 349 members. Com: 23 Total, 372.

Day School—The work in this Department has been carried on with marked interest. Attendance good and regular as heretofore. Number of both sexes 38.

Sabbath School—We cannot report otherwise of this department than that in our last. Teachers and officers 8. Scholars, 41. Total, 44.

Missionary coll.	£2. 14. 9.
Light do.	0. 15. 0.
Preachers salary	0. 9. 0.
	£3. 18. 9.

S. B. MORRISON.

REPORT OF MANDO STATION FOR THE QUARTER ENDING JUNE 30th 1888.

Rev Sir.

At this time of the season, the religious work confined only in the Station, as there are in every direction swamps, and great swellings and waters impede my proceeding to any out Stations. This Station to me, appears, as an Island surrounded by water entirely, and for which cause, one should be careful how he makes frequent travels to and fro, else his life will be in imminent danger of suffering from Rheumatism. There are good times here just now in regard to attendance in church and class meetings but there are times when there used to be few gatherings in church, owing to the present cry of the people "too much hungry" and they are seen in the bush cutting Palm Cabbage for their food.

The Day and Sabbath Schools have a very good standing and success is seen in each. May God enable us to do his work faithfully, so that we may reap the harvest with joy.

—Contribution for Mission cause is 15s

T. N JOAH

Report of Konconany Station from April 1st to June 30.

Dear Editor,—I now send you the report of the second quarter. We have had a goodly number of members attending during the second quarter, both morning and evening services. And more also in the small towns, especially a town called Kibbin. The people are very regular, where about five or six small towns always gather together, and more also we have brother William G. Nicol who can speak the Mendi language very well, who always interprets for us. But in the other towns I have to speak the country language myself. Our Wednesday Prayer Meeting is very encouragingly attended by both small and great old and young where many prayers are offered. And I trust that God will hear our prayers if they are from the ground of our hearts. Our Sunday morning class is still going on, but sorry to say through the removing of our people from place to place in order to obtain a living, we have not been many in number, but we thank God for the present. Respecting our School we still have about the same number of children, suits have been given to the attendents. Rev. D. F. Wilberforce, Supt. of the U. B. C. Schools was here on the 25th of June in school hours, and examined, but not on the regular school drill, as this being the first time of this district examination, we have collected a few shillings during the quarter, and there are yet still some who promise and have not yet fulfilled. These are the names of those who have paid Viz.—

Henry A. Reed,	0. 1. 0.
George Cole,	0. 2. 0.
George Crown	0. 1. 0.
Theo. Thompson	0. 1. 6.
Wm. Metzger,	0. 0. 6.
	£0. 6. 0.

And this we have used to pay the men who covered or thatch our Church, but we hope and trust that others will soon give a hand as we have some more work to do in our church. There is much to do in this part of the vineyard and we hope and trust that Jesus will carry it through, and that you will also remember us in your prayers.

I am, in Christ,
T. M. COLE.

Dear Editor,—With the appearance of this issue of your valuable journal we shall have bidden farewell to July with all its fevers and sicknesses, its crosses and losses, its ups and downs of life and those who will be spared to see August, may hope for better days.

What it is coming to one can hardly tell. If the ratio in which the price of rice had been increased from May to July be continued for the next three months, rice will become an article of food to be found only with the rich. 12s and 6d per Cubonial bushel for clean Rice and 8s Walker Rice may stand indifferently with some, but with those who manage to make two ends meet with their £20. or £36 per annum, it is a matter of no mean importance.

The Authorities seem determined to have their own way of doing things, and they have so far neglected the sanitation of this place as that it seems very hard to believe that they will ever succeed in putting things in such shape as is desirable. Who can think of the gigantic work to be done at Mocksho K. and turn round to see the high and thickly set bush almost opposite Thandaboo factory, and think of the badness of closed up the Roads and Streets without doubting whether we shall ever see these places in the proper state in which they ought to be. Every day of neglect renders the work more difficult. Okushebo Billy for the Christening of sonny, and for your affability and gentility which adds largely to the success attendant on the occasion.

—The B. M. L. Club calculated to keep the community lively, has been quite indisposed of late. Let some of the wise heads rule the matter over, and favor the public with a warm interesting debate. What say you J. D. and D. M. P. POOR BEN.

From Konconany.—We learn from an aged Christian man resiling there that our Teacher Mr. Theo. M. Cole is doing a very good work among the people of that vicinity.

From Mando.—It is reported that a principal man of the Toomah has recently died, greatly weakening the Toomah influence; and it is to be hoped that the Church will hereafter have less opposition from that source. Mrs Joah wife of Mr. T. N. Joah we also learn has lately giving birth to a fine daughter.

From Kabale—We learn that Mr. T. N. Joah recently visited Kabale and held interesting services which were quite well attended by Sierra Leoneans and natives.

☞ To Subscribers Again—Thanks to those who have paid in their Subscriptions, since our last NOTICE. But there are yet more than fifty diliquents some of whom have not paid up since 1885 and as these gentlemen, we are sure, do not wish to have their names published in our list of diliquents we ask them to remit the amount of their dues at once.

Personal

Rev. D. F. Wilberforce,—of the Rufus Clark and wife Training School was among us again for a few days from the 16th to 19th, when he proceeded to Danville to look after some financial interests of that Station; he also held the Avery Quarterly Meeting for t'_ Presiding Elder of the A. strict on the 22d & 23d insts.

Mr. G. H. Garrett, officer in charge, called also on the 16th inst., his was to be a farewell call as he expected at any time to be relieved and leave at once; and yet he could not tell how long he might be detained. Mr. Garrett is decidedly a pleasant man of winning manners knowing just what to say and when to say it. We shall miss him.

Revd G. G. M. Nicol returned from Freetown per s. s. Formoso on the 17th inst. recovered, we understand from his severe illness that had caused him to take a change.

Dr. M. L. Jarrett and Mrs. Jarrett, also Miss. Rau-ol Collier left this place on the 19th fo Freetown, whence they proceed to England, we believe, we wish the entire party a pleasant and successfull journey.

Mr. S. H. Jones—who has quite recently returned from England to the Palma Trading Company's Factory at Lavanah called in on the morning of the 19th, we were much pleased to see Mr. Jones again so soon and shake his friendly hand.

Rev J. C. Thomas returned from Freetown per s. s Formoso on the 24th inst.

Revd J. Gomer and wife of the Shaingay District, (U. B. C. Missions) arrived in this place from Freetown by the s. s. Formoso on the 24th inst. They were well and enjoying life in their arduous work. They proceeded to Shaingay on the 27th inst. in private boat.

Mr. T. J. Alldridge, Agent of Messrs F and A. Swanzy visited Sherbro per s. s. Formoso he arrived on the 24th and left again for Freetown by return of the Vessel on the 25th Mr Alldridge is one of those few men of business who can see the extreme folly of the price cutting system so rife at this time here. He called in to see us.

Mr. S. B. A. Macfoy,—We regret to note has recently had the misfortune to have his son, return from England very ill indeed as we understand. However our latest information is to the effect that the son is better.

Mr. H. Maillat,—Genl. Agt of the French Co'y, also arrived per s. s. Formoso on the 24th inst, Mr. Maillat, is also one of those wide awake and enterprizing business men that knows how to carry on a large trade to advantage.

Report of AVERY STATION Mendi Mission, for the Quarter ending June 30, '88.

Mr. President,—During the Quarter our work here has been steadily advancing. The power of the gospel has effected many changes among us, both by the conversion of a few and the numerical increase of Members and Seekers' Classes; and though we feel grateful to the Father, and hoping to witness greater results from more active efforts, nevertheless our anxieties are greater still to have more souls turned from the path of nature's darkness an to the saving power of our King.

The Itinerating work has had special attention independent of our having a few workers. Owing to the unfavorableness of the weather, we have delayed building purposes. Much good has been realized from our monthly gatherings for prayer as heretofore. All we want is strength and life giving spirit, to pray and wait for refreshing season.

Apart from these comforts and encouragements, we deeply regret to mention that one of the male borders in whom we calculated much, has resigned our tuition; and that our Chapelroad demands a great deal of attention. I have made appeals to the liberality of some friends at the beginning of the Quarter, and taken up couple pounds; while we look to others for the fulfilment of their promises, we extend our sincere wishes to all for the kind spiritual interest manifested.

Our congregations are good and interesting. At present we have 21 Seekers Class consisting of 349 members, Com: 21; Total, 370.

Day School—The work in this Department has been carried on with marked interest. Attendance good and regular as heretofore. Number of both sexes 38.

Sabbath School—We cannot report otherwise of this department than that in our last. Teachers and officers 3, Scholars, 41, Total, 44.

Missionary coll.	£2.	14. 9.
Light do.	0.	15. 0.
Preachers salary	0.	9. 0.
	£3.	18. 9.

S. B. MORRISON.

REPORT OF MANDO STATION FOR the QUARTER ENDING JUNE 30th 1888.

Rev Sir,

At this time of the season, the religious work confined only in the Station, as there are in every direction swamps, and great swellings of waters impede my proceeding to any out Stations. This Station bogge, appears, as an Island surrounded by water entirely, and for which cause, one should be careful how he makes frequent travels to and fro, else his life will be in imminent danger of suffering from Rheumatism. There are good times here just now in regard to attendance in church and class meetings but there are times when there will be but few gatherings in church, owing to the fear each one of the people have how much hungry and they are seen in the bush cutting Palm Cabbage for their food

Our Day and Sabbath Schools have a very good standing and success is seen in each. May God enable us to do his work faithfully, so that we may reap the harvest with joy

—Contribution for Mission cause is 15s

T. N. JOAH

Report of Koneonany Station from April 1st to June 30.

Dear Editor,—I now send you the report of the second quarter. We have had a goodly number of members attending during the second quarter, both morning and evening services. And more also in the small towns, especially a town called Kibbin. The people are very regular, where about five or six small towns always gather together, and more also we have brother William G. Nicol who can speak the Mendi language very well, who always anterprets for us. But in the other towns I have to speak the country language myself. Our Wednesday Prayer Meeting is very encouragingly attended by both small and great old and young where many prayers are offered. And I trust that God will hear our prayers if they are from the ground of our hearts. Our Sunday morning class is still going on, but sorry to say through the removing of our people from place to place in order to obtain a living, we have not been many in number, but we thank God for the present. Respecting our School we still have about the same number of children, suits have been given to the attendents. Rev. D. F. Wilberforce, Supt. of the U. B. C. Schools was here on the 25th of June in school hours, and examined, but not on the regular school drill, as this being the first time of this district examination, we have collected a few shillings during the quarter, and there are yet still some who promise and have not yet fulfilled. These are the names of those who have paid Viz.

Henry A. Reed,	0.	1.	0.
George Cole,	0.	2.	0.
George Crown	0.	1.	0.
Theo. Thompson	0.	1.	6.
Wm. Metzger,	0.	0.	6.
	£0.	6.	0.

And this we have used to pay the men who covered or thatch our Church, but we hope and trust that others will soon give a hand as we have some more work to do in our church. There is much to do in this part of the vineyard and we hope and trust that Jesus will carry it through, and that you will also remember us in your prayers.

I am, in Christ,
T. M. COLE.

Dear Editor,—With the appearance of this issue of your valuable journal we shall have bidden farewell to July with all its fevers and sicknesses its crosses and losses its ups and downs of life and those who will be spared to see August, may hope for better days.

What it is coming to one can hardly tell. If the ratio in which the price of rice had been increased from May to July be continued for the next three months, rice will become an article of food to be found only with the rich. 12s and 6d per Colonial bushel for clean Rice and 8s Walker Rice may sound indifferently with some, but with those who manage to make two ends meet with their £50 or £36 per annum, is is a matter of no mean importance.

The Authorities seem determined to have their own way of doing things, and they have so far neglected the sanitation of this place as that it seems very hard to believe that they will ever succeed in putting things in such shape as is desirable. Who can think of the gigantic work to be done at Mocksolo K. and turn round to see the high and thickly set bush almost opposite Yhandaboo factory, and think of the badness of almost all the Roads and Streets without doubting whether we shall even see these places in the proper state in which they ought to be. Every day of neglect renders the work more difficult. Okanbolo Billy for the Christening of sonny, and for your affability and gentility which adds largely to the success attendant on the occasion.

The B. M. L. Club calculated to keep the community lively, has been quite indisposed of late. Let some of its wise heads talk the matter over, and favor the public with a warm interesting debate. What say you J. D. and D. M. P. POOR BEN

From Koneonany.—We learn from an aged Christian man resiling there that our Teacher Mr. Theo. M. Cole is doing a very good work among the people of that vicinity.

From Mando.—It is reported that a principal man of the Toomah has recently died, greatly weakening the Toomah influence; and it is to be hoped that the Church will hereafter have less opposition from that source. Mrs Joah wife of Mr. T N. Joah we also learn has lately giving birth to a fine daughter.

From Kabale—We learn that Mr. T. N. Joah recently visited Kabale and held interesting services which were quite well attended by Sierra Leoneans and natives.

☞ To Subscribers Again—Thanks to those who have paid in their Subscriptions, since our last NOTICE. But there are yet more than fifty dilinquents some of whom have not paid up since 1885 and as these gentlemen, we are sure, do not wish to have their names published in our list of dilinquents we ask them to remit the amount of their dues at once.

4 THE E

ALPHA Factory.
York Island
SHERBRO
Is Now Open for TRADING
F & A SWANZY
GEO LEACH
Agent in Charge

TOBACCO.
Messrs. SWANZYS
el fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs nett. Half Hogshead of about 500 lbs
nett; also their Kentucky
"Bull Head" brand in same packages.

Tobacco
in Boxes.
To meet the requirements of the Up Rivers Traders
Messrs Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobacco specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs nett weight
These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no break en or mashed Tobacco to be found therein
The Boxes are of wood, with hinges to the lid which is secured by one nail down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.
F & A SWANZY
ALPHA FACTORY
June 23rd '88 Sherbro

GREAT Reduction
IN PRICES.
THE Undersigned beg t inform their FRIENDS an CUSTOMERS that they hav received a fresh supply
AMERICAN GOODS, whic they are now offering at th following rates;—
NEW FLOUR Happy Hom
£1. 18. 0. per Bbl.
NEW BISCUITS,
0. 18. 0. per Bbl
KEROSINE Crystaline brand
0. 13. 0. per Case
TOBACCO, per hgd. or ½ hg
0. 0. 11. per lb
*Delivered in York Island
Freetown at buyers option.*
Other American Goods greatly reduced rates.
Fisher & Randall (Limt
T. DALTON, Agen
York Island,
July 2, '88.

S. M. MISSION
STORE.
Having Completely closed
OUR OLD STOCK O
Woolen &
Cotton Goods
Are now beginning to replen
Our Shelves
With entirely New GOODS.
Some of which ha
Arrived by the la
Steamer and others are e pected in the next few we N.B.—We st
keep on hand fresh & fine su
ply of provisio
J. A. EVA
Bonthe, Apl 21, '88.

Early Daw
PRINTING OFFICE.
Job Work Done at sh
Notice.
Enquire of C. G. BELL, Pr
GOOD HOPE STATION.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

F. & A. SWANZY

GEO. LEACH

Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs nett, Half Hogshead of about 550 lbs nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand — in similar packages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the Up-River Traders, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein.

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A. SWANZY.

ALPHA FACTORY.

June 29th '88. Sherbro.

GREAT Reduction IN PRICES.

THE Undersigned beg to inform their FRIENDS and CUSTOMERS that they have received a fresh supply of AMERICAN GOODS, which they are now offering at the following rates;—

NEW FLOUR Happy Home.

£1. 18. 0. per Bbl.

NEW BISCUITS,

0. 18. 0. per Bbl.

KEROSINE Crystaline brand.

0. 13. 0. per Case

TOBACCO, per hgd. or ½ hgd.

0. 0. 11. per lb.

(Delivered in York Island or Freetown at buyers option.).

Other American Goods at greatly rduced rates.

Fisher & Randall (Lmtd).

T. DALTON, -Agent

York Island,
July 2, '88.

S. M. MISSION STORE.

Having Completely closed out OUR OLD STOCK OF

Woolen & Cotton Goods,

Are now beginning to replenish

Our Shelves

With entirely New

GOODS.

Some of which have arrived by the last Steamer and others are expected in the next few weeks.

N.B.—We still keep on hand a fresh & fine supply of provisions

J. A. EVANS

Bonthe, Apl 21, '88.

'Early Dawn'

PRINTING OFFICE.

Job Work Done at short

Notice.

Enquire of C. G. BELL, Printer.

GOOD HOPE STATION.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—Has been in active demand partly for speculation and a large business has resulted at a general advance of 5s. and 10s. per ton. About 1300 tons changed hands closing steady at following quotations "transit."

Lagos £18. 15s.—Old Calabar and Bonny, £17. 10s.—Cameroons, £17. 7. 6.—Benin, £17.—Accra kinds, £16. 15s. & £17—Brass, Niger, New Calabar. £16. 10s.—Congo, £16. 5s.—Sherbro, £16. & £16. 5s.—Appam Salt Pond & Winnebah, £15. 7s. 6d. & £15. 10s.—Dixcove & Liberian, £15. 5s. and 15£. 7s. 6d.

PALM KERNELS—Medium kinds in fair demand and steady but fine are 2s. 6d. and 5s. lower. We quote "transit" basis 5 per cent shell.

Lagos, Old Calabar, Bonny, Cameroons and Abonnema, l9. 5s. & l9. 7s. 6d.—Brass l9. 2s. 6d.—Benin and Congo, l8. 17s. 6d. & l9.—Quitta kinds Liberian and Sherbro, l8. 15s.—Common Shelly, l8. 10s.

COPRA and BENNISEED—Small sales at late rates.

GROUND NUTS—150 Bags good Bathurst in the shell at l15. & l5. 2s. 6d.—COFFEE, Quiet and rather easier, 100 Bags bold berry at 52s. with sales of Elephant 63s. & 64s.—COCOA, Neglected nothing doing.

INDIA RUBBER—

Gambia Niggers fair to prime	1s. 8d. to 1s. 10d.
Sierra Leone " "	1s. 5d. to 1s. 7d.
Thimbles	1s. 4d. to 1s. 7d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 2d. to 1s. 5d.
Soft and flaky Ball	0s. 7d. to 0s. 9d.
Hard Cape Coast Axim & Assinee	1s. 0d. to 1s. 3d.
Liberian	0s. 11d to 1s. 2d.
Salt Pond	0s. 7d. to 0s. 10d.
Accra, pressed and dried	0s. 8d. to 1s. 0d.
Accra ordinary	0s. 6½d. to 0s. 7½d.
Flake and Lumps	0s. 6½. to 0s. 6¾d.

☞ About 25 TONS African sold at recent lower prices.

BEESWAX—Sales of good Gambia at £4. 10s.—GUM COPAL, About 50 Barrels Sierra Leone at 4½d. to 8½d. some small lots ordinary to fair Accra at 26s. and 30s. and 33 Brls White Angola at 27s. 6d. and 42s. 6d. as in quality.—GINGER Lower, 140 Bags common quality selling at 16s. and small lots fair to good at 17s. 6d. 18s. GUINEA GRAINS—About 20 bags at 25s. 9d. ex quay. CALABAR BEANS—A few packages at 5d. EBONY—No less in the absence of arrivals. CAMWOOD—A few tons £7. for ordinary small. Sherbro at £8. to £8. 10s.

Liverpool,
30th June 1888.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Effect of a Temperance Wave.

It is said of the 300 or 400 employees of the Crump Label Company at Montclair, N. J., which recently refused to print labels for liquor, wine, beer, or cider, there are not more than half a dozen who have not signed the pledge. Some of them were hard drinkers. When the great temperance movement started in Montclair the men began to feel its influence and the company felt that it should do something to show its sympathy with the men—and so declined all alliance with the liquor business.—Sel.

The church must not forget to minister to the spiritual wants of men. The gospel must be preached. The divine messages of love must be proclaimed.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, AUGUST 15, 1888. No. 15

The "Early Dawn,"

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO,

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0 6 0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0 5 0
Half yearly by Mail,	0 3 0
Ditto. dele'vd in Bonth,	0 2 6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GOWER, Shimiyay, Mr. E. A. LEWIS, *Freetown, West Africa, Rev. Wm. McKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner	The Commandant
Deputy Coroner.	Wm. Hughes.
Chief Clerk	W. Hughes
Interpreter	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	P. E. B. Buckner
Sub-Treas. & Col. Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, S. G. Cole
Asst Examg. Officer Saliah.	Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon. R. C. S.	M. L. Jarrett. M
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts.
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road Pastor,	Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A.
Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street Pastor,	Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope Pastor,	Rev. G. N. Jowett
Asst Do.	Rev R. C. Taylor

From the Colonies and India.

THE POSITION IN THE PACIFIC.

The Times has taken up the vexed question of annexation amongst the Pacific Island groups somewhat comprehensively in its issue of June 19, in which an exhaustive review of the whole position is given by a correspondent who evidently possesses considerable knowledge of his subject. His tone however, as regards the attitude which England should assume, in face of the position as it is at present developed, is rather disappointing to those who have followed the course of Pacific Island affairs sufficiently long to become acquainted with the actual facts of the case. France has been engaged in the work of exploitation among the Pacific archipelagoes for the past 50 years, while Germany has only opened her eyes to their importance within the last half dozen years yet France has become possessed of comparatively little territory compared with the magnificent countries which have come under the influence of Prince Bismarck's pioneering proteges. It is suggested that the great impetus which has recently been given to the annexation movement on the part of our foreign neighbours in the Pacific is due entirely to the circumstance that the Panama Canal may be reckoned upon as likely to become un fait accompli in a comparatively short time. This is undoubtedly the fact. Even now, with the possibility of the near accomplishment of this great commerce-revolutionising work staring us in the face, there is an inexplicable apathy displayed, in the Australian Colonies and in England, as to the probable effect of the opening of the canal upon trade at the Antipodes. For the greater part, of course, Frenchmen in the Pacific are ardent admirers of Baron de Lesseps and of his gigantic scheme at the isthmus. From the very inception of the canal idea they have recognised in it a something which was to raise the tricolour—commercially and in other senses—high above the Union Jack and other flags which float scattered over the broad face of the Pacific. That they have been working in the light of this contingency has been obvious for many years to those who are acquainted with the true state of affairs in that part of the world, nor, indeed, has their object been in any way concealed. Although the tricolour has waved over Tahiti for more than forty years, no great effort was made to develope that country till a comparatively recent period, when the French administration at Papeete suddenly discovered its importance, and, octopus like, began to reach out in all directions from poor old Queen Pomare,s headquarters. All Tahiti, the Paumotus, the Tubuai group, and other less important atoll groups in that region have now become absolutely French; and there indeed appears to be a generally-recognised danger that some attempt will be made to bring Raratonga under French sway as well. From the French aggressiveness in one quarter we turn to the Germans, who, the Times correspondent complacently observes, are seriously contemplating the annexation of Tonga and Samoa to their already extensive dominions in the Pacific. According to his idea of the position, England, with the large and resourceful islands of Australia and New Zealand already firmly in her possession, can afford to be generous all round, and allow our foreign neighbours to come still closer to our doors at the Antipodes. As far as Samoa is concerned of course Germany already virtually owns that group as surely as the United States owns the Hawaiian archipelago in the north. But why should we be advised to countenance German aggression in Tonga—a group which, though placed by the Times correspondent to the east of Fiji, will be found to be more to the south-east of that group, and nearly in the ocean track between our Colonies of Fiji and New Zealand? If Tonga should eventually go to the Germans, English policy in that portion of Polynesia would indeed be sadly to blame. Commercially speaking, the Germans—as represented by the great "South Sea Island Kings," Godlefroi & Co., of Hamburg—pioneered the Tongan Archipelago many years ago, but their somewhat eccentric methods of barter rather disgusted the intelligent islanders, and the German power has all but vanished from the group. On our part we have had a very fair chance in Tonga. But the missionaries, who everywhere else in the Pacific have done so much towards civilising the natives and educating them up to the trading standard, have almost ruined us as a respectable nation in King George's dominions. For this, that enterprising and ambitious missionary-politician, the Rev. Shirley Baker, Prime Minister of Tonga, is somewhat to blame, but it may be hoped that Sir John Thurston, in his capicity as High Commissioner for the Western Pacific, will shortly put matters right in that quarter. As in many other places, we are greatly behind in the great international race which is going on in the Pacific. The fact that we have been fortunate in securing Australia, New Zealand, and Fiji, should not be held to act as a preventive to further activity on our part in those seas. On the contrary indeed, it is our bounden duty, constituted as we are at present, to closely guard the interests of our prosperous Colonies at the Antipodes, and this we shall certainly not be doing if we allow every Power which comes along to usurp those commercial strongholds which British traders have spent scores of years in developing, and which stand, so to speak, at the very doors of our trade across the Pacific.

Our Appeal to the Young.

Of the many and devious paths that are open to youthful feet, none are so dangerous as the temptation to alcholic drink; wine, beer or cider, whisky, brandy or gin, and a numerous and long list of names that are applied to the various kinds of stimulating drink, all containing more or less poison—poison for the stomach, poison for the brain, poison for the body, poison for the mind, poison for to-day, poison lasting through to-morrow, and poison that will blast our hopes for all eternity. Poison for ourselves, poison for our homes poison for our country; and every department of life, every stage of progress, and all our interest, both for the present and the future, are blighted and blasted by this hideous consuming curse of rum. And the most responsible parties are those who offer the allurements—the rum-seller, whether this be in a gilded saloon or in one of the lowest dens of our city.

It the liquor-traffic is annihilated by a majority of your votes, if rum selling is outlawed, and to sell intoxicating liquor is made a crime, and the people combine to enforce such provissions of law, this will banish the vile stuff out of the city and all over the country; then shall we raise our voices with a grand hallelujah of praise and thanksgiving; our country will be redeemed from one of the vilest and most debasing scourges that might have brought down on our heads the vials of God's wrath; but we expect to hail the glad day when the rum power shall be overthrown, and this dawn of the millennium will prove a cloud of mercy to shower blessings on our glorious country.

The horror of our lives should be the possibility of being tempted to take the intoxicating cup. If we do not take the first glass, there is but little danger that we will be moderate drinkers, we are perfectly sure that we are safe from the drunkard's doom. Therefore the only safe and sure guaranty of our freedom from this awful curse of a craving appetite for alcoholic liquor is "touch not, taste not, handle not, for at last it bit-th like a serpent and stingeth like an adder." A few more fleeting years, and all our boys, and most likely our girls, too, will be priviledged to cast their ballots for those who will have the making and executing the laws. In this country we are all sovereign, and it depends on you to say whether the rum-power shall rule the land, or whether prohibition of the liquor-traffic shall be our grand ambition."From an Am. Paper.

A PILLOW FOR JESUS.

A very little boy was one day reading to his mother in the new Testament. He came to these words, "The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests, but the Son of man hath nowhere to lay his head." His eyes filled with tears, and at last he sobbed aloud. At length he said, "I am sure, mamma, if I had been there I would have given him my pillow."—Sel.

Cmd 1 2 3 4 5 Ins. BRITISH MUSEUM 2

The Early Dawn.
BONTHE, SHERBRO.
AUGUST 15, 1888.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION

Was perhaps never more needed in any part of the world, than it is at present, in these settlements. Where there is scarcely anything attempted, but Trade by all classes of persons. Not in the employ of Missions, the Government, or the larger Commercial Establishments; & even some of the latter employees, excepting perhaps those under the Government are doing a petty Trade. Much of this is due, doubtless, to the fact, that there has been little or no secular Training, in anything else but trade, for we can scarcely say business, as there has been very little, if any training in business beyond that obtained in the employ of merchants. Hence there is but little known of the Theory business, but still nearly all are trading. We have schools and high schools that are doing noble work in their line. But the land is becoming filled with professionals, while we have very few trained to Industry of any kind, a thing which we need the most. For which reason we feel that Industrial Training Schools, ought to be established at once. And on this line we would suggest "Girls Homes" for Training girls to cook, wash, Iron, sew, &c. "Boys Homes" to train boys in Trades and Farming, of course reading, Writing, Spelling, and ciphering should be taught in these Homes, but precedence in every case should be given to Industry.

THE SCARCITY OF CASH

Can scarcely be questioned now, in the Sherbro, for it begins to be the general complaint, merchants try to ignore, it would seem, the real necessity of cash in the business of Sherbro of course, and you will often hear some one or another say that he wants produce, or that he cannot load vessels with sovereigns, which expressions are all true enough, as far as they go. But it must be admitted that business, large or small, goes easier even in Sherbro when there is a reasonable amount of cash in circulation; for there are certain obligations that must be paid in cash as duties &c. And there are many others, that would be more conveniently paid in cash, as labor &c. However of late there seems a great scarcity of cash from some cause, and we are of the opinion that it is owning largely to the fact that it is, and has been for some months paid into the Government chest for Duties from whence very little of it returns to circulation in Sherbro; as the Government, at Freetown, seems to entirely forget the necessity of Public Improvements here and hence pay out but little here beyond the salaries of the service and the wages of the smallest possible number of laborers.

There may be other possible reasons for the scarcity of cash, as for instance the miserly propensities of some few persons; but we can scarcely believe that there is much hard cash hoarded in the Sherbro, the people are too generally disposed to trade. Nor do we believe that there is any considerable amount of cash sent out of the Sherbro by any other than those in Government employ or service; however if we are not correct we shall be obliged to any one who will give us the real reason of the present scarcity of cash in Sherbro.

DIED—At the Parsonage, in Heddle Street of this place, Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B. A., Pastor of St. Luke's Parish Sherbro, on the night of the 13th instant. Mr. Nicol had attended Class service in the morning, and called on a few of his members, and spoke of himself as well, and it would appear that many people thought the same, he was up and about his work until after 12 o'clock; but soon became very ill, and despite every effort to relieve, by Physician and kind friends he sank into the arms of death in less than ten hours. Thus died the active young and much beloved Pastor of St. Luke's. We sympathise very much with his family and extensive charge, and from promises made to us we hope to be able to publish a better and more extended account of the above in our next issue, and should be glad if it could be something Biographical, and worthy of the pious life of our deceased friend.

EMPLOYMENT.

The subject of the "unemployed" has gone the rounds of the World, we may say, and has at last reached these ends of the Earth—West Africa—and very properly too, may this subject engage our attention at this time when the number of persons to be employed is so great and still on the increase. Young men have fitted themselves at home and abroad for service, and now come to offer themselves to the existing establishments for employment, but too often only to be refused, on several accounts, such as no vacancy, no funds, bad business, &c., &c. This is indeed very embarrassing to worthy young men who have by dint of effort and perseverance succeeded in passing through their course of studies; that after all they are only to meet with disappointment in finding nothing to do. Our esteemed contemporary The Artisan in its issue of July 28, under the Caption "Employment" says and truly too, "Sierra Leone of all places, seems the worst circumstanced for the scarcity of means it affords for employment to its daily increasing inhabitants." And the Artisan pretty correctly lays the blame at the door of the native men of money, who rather hoard their means than employ it for the general improvement of their country and fellowmen. We however, while agreeing, in the main, with our contemporary, have a slight apology to offer, for our native native men of means and that is, in most cases they do not know just in what way best to employ their capital to advantage and so as not to become the losers without either benefitting their race or country. This too, will account in a measure, for the parsimony observed in the native management of business, in hiring cheap clerks and giving close personal oversight to their business as it is only in this way they can see a possibility of profit and success in business. They have so often been deceived by clever chaps, that they very naturally avoid the smart fellows, who offer their services lest they should suffer. Hence we believe it is, that many young men from school cannot obtain employment from their own country men. On the other hand the want of confidence in each other, and a knowledge of corporate business enterprises prevents the investment of much hoarded wealth in the hands of natives. Therefore for the present, we only see hope for the better by the inducement of Foreigners to come among us and open now. Industrial Enterprises of every profitable kind as educators of the people in labor & business. This will give employment to those now seeking for it, true it may be in other lines than they have prepared for, and also for others yet to come forward of all classes of persons must have employment provided for them, 1. the educated from the schools 2. the trained up in families or under masters, 3 Freedmen refugees &c. from the outlying countries about us, in all of these there are male and female to be provided for. The Industrial Institutions will provide for all if only established and properly conducted.

A Friendly Gathering.—Was the name given to us, the other day, for the sociable enjoyed at Mr. Wm. Hughes' on the evening of the 8th inst, by a select party of friends. The occasion was one of the best that we have enjoyed for a long while, and we congratulate Mr. Hughes upon the success of the same.

Roads, Streets, and Bridges.—We are glad to note that the work on Medina Street Bridge continues, however, not in the substantial way that we think it ought to be done, but we presume it is being done as well as circumstances will allow. Mission Road has had some attention too. But there are yet several other streets that awfully need repair However we should, in justice, say that the local Authorities at Sherbro are not to blame for the neglect of our Streets.

SOCIAL GATHERINGS.

Of the better class, are not, we regret to say, as frequent in our town, as we should think would be conducive to the better feeling of our community, as also their Social advancement. Possibly there are reasons why our people are not inclined to be sociable and friendly with each other to any considerable extent. But if not, then for the good of all; this matter should receive attention.

FROM THE KITTAM.

The country is still in a disturbed state, and many of the natives are making quick their escape to some other locality in order to be freed from further disturbances.

Just a few weeks ago a neighbouring town of Laggor, which is supposed to be the seat of a wealthy native farmer was pulled down by some of the Loma warriors, and it is stated that up to the present they are still in possession of the place. A rice farm occupying so many acres of land, property of the above farmer was cut and divided by the warriors among themselves. No further report has reached here respecting chief Mackiah's doings; all that could be gathered from information is, that he is still at Largor making all preparations to pitch another war.

It is a curious fact however to observe that since this chief has been carrying his wars from one town town to another it has always proved a failure; none of the towns have yet been taken by him; on the contrary he generally suffers heavy losses, yet notwithstanding his repeated failures, he still persists in his nefarious intentions. It is the general opinion, that had it not been for the sake of peace and order which the majority of the chiefs have assured the Government of this man Mackiah would have long since been captured, and dealt with accordingly. It is rumoured that the main object of this chief in pitching his war on Bandajumah and like places, is simply to get a passage to the Gallinas; where he intends carrying out his warlike raid; but chief Mormor Kie Kie would not grant him a passage, stating that he could not on any account second his wishes for such an attempt, and this has led to the bitter feeling that the above chief has, towards the latter.

The report respecting Darwah's death has been confirmed; and the majority of his warriors are now fighting desperately, which serves as a mark of revenge for the irreparable loss they have sustained—besides this, other reports have not yet reached me.—Meanwhile I conclude.

Yours very truly,
PEACEFUL BEE.

Aug. 14, '88.

NEWS ITEMS.

The Geringer Affair—is now we understand, all settled, and much trouble in the country saved, all by the timely movements of the Government here under the charge of G. H. Garrett Esqr.

Rumors of War,—are heard again as preparing for an attack on Shaingay, the report this time it is said comes from up the country, but it is somewhat confused as to what locality it hails from, yet it is said that some man, that had been in Mr. Macfoy's employ, is the person who bought the war, hence suspicion is again directed to Francis Caulker, of course we do not vouche for the truth of this rumor.

Makiah in the Kittim is reported to be still on the war-path see the article of Peaceful Bee in this Issue.

The Largest Funeral,—We believe ever witnessed in this place, was that of the Revd G. G. M. Nicol B. A. Pastor of St. Luke's Parish Sherbro, which took place yesterday at 4 p.m. at St. Matthew's Church Victoria Road this place. Delegations were present from Bendoo, York-Island, Victoria, &c.

Board of Missions Report.—The thirty fifth Annual report of The Board of Missions of the United Brethren In Christ; has been duly received at this Office with many thanks to the Miss. Secretary for the same. We note that this work increases and interest with every succeeding year; and this thirty fifth Issue is most especially a large and well filled Pamphlet, containing a table of contents' which enables the reader to readily refer to any particular subject. It should be read by all who are interested in our Missionary work.

MUTUAL CONFIDENCE.

This, in the natural order of things must necessarily exist between parties standing in close relation to each other, if their interest or happiness is sought. Where it exists there can be nothing but love and happiness, goodwill and esteem, and the opposite where it does not exist. Want of mutual confidence is bane and curse of many portions of the world, but especially of the West Coast of Africa." Whence come the splits and divisions, dissatisfactions and misunderstandings, distrust, bickerings and backbitings, is it not largely attributable to the want of that mutual confidence which tends to cement very closely, two or more parties standing in any particular relation to each other?

Let it exist in a firm, and it will flourish. In a church, and the labor of the minister will be blest; in a school, and the labors of the teachers will not be in vain. Let it exist between parents and children, husband and wife, and the family will be conspicuous for domestic happiness. Between merchants or Agents and clerks, employers in any sphere or capacity and employees of any kind, and both parties will be satisfied. But why should it not be so? Where does the blame rest; with employers or employees? A voice from an employer says "With Employees." Another voice from an Employee says, "decidedly with employers." But a third voice from a neutral and disinterested party says "from both" to which an echo answers both. It is a painful and undeniable fact, that confidence betrayed, causes the confiding party great pain and disappointment; and after placing due confidence in one & another & being disappointed, he is disinclined to make another effort but holds thigh in his right hand, for general observation, his motto, "Since man to man is so unjust, I do not know what man to trust." An Employer may place confidence in an employee, only to be disappointed; this is bad. But it is equally bad for an employee to place due confidence in an employer only to be disappointed. What then is to be done, is there no remedy? Are distrust half heartedness hollowness, murmurings and grumblings to exist where confidence, whole heartedness, frankness and satisfaction and peace ought to prevail? I think it argues a sad state of affairs in our midst.

Let each study to be true to his fellow, Merchants or employers treat their employees with due respect and employees fail not to give them their dues or in a word "Do to others as you would be done by" and that mutual confidence which has almost altogether departed from our midst will speedily return, bringing in a train of blessings.

POOR BEE.

Bonthe,
Aug. 8th '88.

REPORT OF MANDO STATION FOR THE MONTH ENDING JULY 8.

Rev Sir.—There has been great improvement during this month by our people in Religious work, which gives me great encouragement. One could hardly imagine how anxious our people are at this time for the bread of life to be imparted to them. Those who were careless and indifferent about the saving of their souls are very anxious now to give heed to the sound of the Gospel. There is hope to be realized, that souls will be again restored to the fold, who have wandered away from God.

The Itinerating work is going on gradually in a few outstations and there is much encouragement which gives joy to the heart. A visit to Kabole on the 8th inst. was very encouraging, when a large number of people assembled for worshipping God.

Day and Sabbath Schools still have good standing, but we regret to say, that we fail to have new comers to swell our numbers in the former; and means for supporting children just now is very nearly impossible to obtain, may God who has the work provide suitable means so as to encourage and enlarge our numbers in both schools.—T. J.

For the "Early Dawn."

A Student's voice from the Rufus Clark and Wife Theological Training School,—(Continued.)

Africans as a rule do not fully carry out the modern meaning of the word slavery, for they do not regard the word as such. They think slaves must be had and so regard them as mere domestics. Humanity I claim does not groan and suffer so much as the bitter cries and groans that were heard in the days when slavery existed among the most civilized nations of the world. It is well that I here give my humble advice to those who are ready to form opinions of the African character, that they do not judge by their observations of those with whom they daily come in contact on the coast. These are not at all the representatives of African character, as the influence of foreigners has a good deal to do with their morals and manners. I speak not from prejudice as some have done, but from facts read and seen. Before one can fully decide on this momentous question, it is well to have in mind the facts of the past and present of this nation and blending them in one so as to prognosticate what the future will be. It is not out of place to bring before thoughtful minds how God overrules the conduct of bad men, and the working of bad institutions, and bad principles and practices to the furtherance of his wise and benevolent purposes. I make mention of this in regard to American slavery, seeing that in my last on this same subject the Grecian and Roman nations were brought perminently to view and these are ancient nations. The two greatest and most civilized nations upon the face of the Globe participated in this nefarious traffic of human beings, and previous to the emancipation of the enslaved, these nations are looked upon and admired as the most civilized nations. If the slave trade makes a nation or people the most degraded, then, there are many other countries that can march side by side with Africa on platform of degradation as claimed by those affirm that "Slavery is the prime cause of Africa's degradation.—More again.—

W. H. J.

Shaingay Mission
August 9 '88

(From THE MILLION.)

THOUGHTS OF HEAVEN.

Ye come to me in midnight dreams
Old holy thoughts of Heaven,
And glorious are the spirit-beams
That to my soul are given
Of that fair clime aroun whose sky
No storm can break or sweep,
Where grief ne'er dims the radiant eye
And none are seen to weep.

Ye come to amid the care
That clouds the weary day,
And far from earth's polluted air
Ye waft my soul away;
And when some grief beyond control
Has bound me unto earth,
Ye whisper to my fainting soul
Of the immortal birth.

Like fragrant zephyrs from the shore
Of some far ocean isle
Ne pass my fainting spirit o'er
And every care beguile.
Oh! when the dews of death hang chill
Upon my dying brow,
Sweep thoughts of Heaven he with me still
And cheer my heart as now.—

LETTIE. J. BOODY

A GOOD CHILD.

"A good child! a good child!" said Mr. Edgar, as he left the room. "What should I do without her!"

Mary Edgar was a gay, careless, fun-loving little girl. She did not like school and her lessons, and when she was required to study at home she groaned over her hard lot not a little.

Mary loved her father very tenderly. He was a kind gentleman, who often suffered from severe pain in the head. One night when he was suffering in this way, Mary saw him trying to straighten out his account book. It was hard work to sum up the long lines of figures with the blood throbbing in his head; and Mary said:

"Please, papa, don't try to do it when you are in such pain."

"But it must be done to-night, little daughter," said Mr. Edgar.

"How I wish I could do it," said the little girl; and just then a good angel put a thought into her pretty head.

From that day Mary began to study. "To help papa" became her great ambition, and as she worked with a purpose she improved very fast.

It was not long before she was able to help him form the long lines of figures; and now that she is no longer a child, and her father has grown more and more feeble as age comes on, she is his trusted helper in all the details of his business.

She is very happy in this work; for love moves her hand and heart, and makes the labor light, and, as you know, her father is happy in having so good a child.

Boys.

Don't tease girls or boys smaller than yourselves. Don't take the easiest chair in the room put it into the pleasantest place and forget to offer it to mother when she comes in to sit down. Don't forget to treat your mother as politely as if she were a stranger lady who did not spend her life in your service; to be as kind as helpful to your sisters as you expect your sisters to be to you; to make friends among good boys. Take pride in being a gentleman at home; to take your mothers into your confidence if you do anything wrong, and, above all never lie about anything you have done; to make up your minds not to learn to smoke, chew, or drink, remembering these things can not be unlearned, and that they are terrible drawbacks to good men necessities to bad ones; to remember that there never was a vagabond without these habits. Observe all these rules, and they are sure to make you a gentleman.—Sel.

The Mission Debt—It is perhaps known to many of our readers that the Missionary Society of the U. B. Church has been laboring for some time past to pay off their debt of about Twelve Thousand Pounds; which had been accumulating throngh a long series of years. But we are pleased to note that during the past 12 months more than eight thousand pounds of that amt has been secured, and that there is every reason to hope that the remainder (four thousand pounds) will be secured the next 12 months. But to do this the free will offerings of the church and its friends every where in Africa as well as America will be required; so we extend the invitation to all who may wish to contribute to this good cause. Contributions will be received by Revd. J. Gomer, Shaingay, Revd. R. N. West, Rotufunk or at this office, and forward to the Treasurer of the Missionary society.

A Huge Alligator, is reported to have been killed in Bendoo, on last Friday morning the 10th inst. This crocodile is said to have been discovered, at rather a remarkable distance, from the waters edge, and we suppose this accounts for his capture; which seems to have been a fortunate affair for the natives, who it appears made beef of him.

Mr. C. S. Brown Sr. called in this morning as we were going to press. he seems quite well again.

be blest; in a school, and f the teachers will not be in exist between parents and usband and wife, and the be conspicuous for domestic Between merchants or A-clerks, employers in any apacity and employees of and both parties will be t why should it not be so?
the blame rest; with emnployees? A voice from an ays "With Employees."
e from an Employee says, with employers." But a rom a neutral and disintersays "from both" to o answers both. It is a undeniable fact, that etrayed, causes the con-great pain and disapand after placing due one & another & being he is disinclined to make t but holds high in his or general observation, his e man to man is so unjust, w what man to trust." An e place confidence in an ly to be disappointed;
but it is equally bad for an place due confidence in an dly to be disappointed.
to be done, is there no distrust half heartedness murmurings and grumblings e confidence, whole heart ness and satisfaction and o prevail? I think it arte of affairs in our midst.
ady to be true to his fel-
s or employers treat their th due respect and emt to give them their dues
"Do to others as you e by" and that mutual ich has almost altogether
our midst will speedily
g in a train of blessings.

POOR BEN.

8.

MANDO STATION FOR

TH ENDING JULY

re has been great improve-month by our people in Re ich gives me great encourould hardly imagine how ane are at this time for the e imparted to them. Those s and indifferent about the uls are very anxious now the sound of the Gospel be realized, that souls will to the fold, who have wan-
God.
g work is going on gradualations, and there has been which gives joy to the heart on the 8th inst. was very rs a large number of people worshipping God.
ath Schools still have good regret to say, that we fail ers to swell our numbers in ayers for supporting chilvery nearly impossible to who has the work provide s as to encourage and ens in both schools.—T. N. J.

"Early Dawn."

oice from the Rufus Wife Theological chool.—(Continued.)

ple do not fully carry out ing of the word slavery, gard the word as such must be had and so regard rsties. Humanity I claim
d suffer as much as the bit.
as that were heard in the existed among the most of the world. It is well
r humble advice to those form opinions of the Afrin they do not judge by of those with whom they daily come in contact on the coast. These are not at all the representatives of African character, as the influence of foreigners has a good deal to do with their morals and manners. I speak not from prejudice as some have done, but from facts read and seen. Before one can fully decide on this momentous question, it is well to have in mind the facts of the past and present of this nation and blending them in one so as to prognosticate what the future will be. It is not out of place to bring before thoughtful minds how God overules the conduct of bad men, and the working of bad institutions, and bad principles and practices to the furtherance of his wise and benevolent purposes. I make mention of this in regard to American slavery, seeing that in my last on this same subject the Grecian and Roman nations were brought permanently to view and these are ancient nations. The too greatest and most civilized nations upon the face of the Globe participated in this nefarious traffic of human beings; and previous to the emancipation of the enslaved, these nations are looked upon and admired as the most civilized nations. If the slave trade makes a nation or people the most degraded, then, there are many other countries that can march side by side with Africa on platform of degradation as claimed by those affirm that "Slavery is the prime cause of Africa's degradation.—More again.—

W. H. J.

Shaingay Mission
August 9 '88

(From THE MILLION)

THOUGHTS OF HEAVEN.

Ye come to me in midnight dreams
Oh! holy thoughts of Heaven,
And glorious are the spirit beams
That to my soul are given
Of that fair clime aross whose sky
No storm clouds ever sweep,
Where grief ne'er dims the radiant eye
And none are seen to weep.

Ye come to amid the care
That clouds the weary day,
And far from earth's polluted air
Ye waft my soul away;
And when some grief beyond control
Has bound me unto earth,
Ye whisper to my fainting soul
Of its immortal birth.

Like fragrant zephyrs from the shore
Of some far ocean isle
Ne pass my fainting spirit o'er
And every care beguile.
Oh! when the dews of death hang chill
Upon my dying brow,
Sweep thoughts of Heaven be with me still
And cheer my heart as now.—

LETTIE J. BOODY

A GOOD CHILD.

"A good child! a good child!" said Mr. Edgar, as he left the room. "What should I do without her!"

Mary Edgar was a gay, careless, fun-loving little girl. She did not like school and her lessons, and when she was required to study at home she groaned over her hard lot not a little.

Mary loved her father very tenderly. He was a kind gentleman, who often suffered from severe pain in the head. One night when he was suffering in this way, Mary saw him trying to straighten out his account book. It was hard work to sum up the long lines of figures with the blood throbbing in his head, and Mary said:

"Please, papa, don't try to do it when you are in such pain."

"But it must be done to-night, little daughter," said Mr. Edgar.

"How I wish I could do it," said the little girl; and just then a good angel put a thought into her pretty head.

From that day Mary began to study. "To help papa" became her great ambition, and as she worked with a purpose she improved very fast.

It was not long before she was able to help him form the longlines of figures; and now that she is no longer a child, and her father has grown more and more feeble as age comes on, she is his trusted helper in all the details of his business.

She is very happy in this work; for love moves her hand and heart, and makes the labor light, and, as you know, her father is happy in having so good a child.

Boys.

Don't tease girls or boys smaller than yourselves. Don't take the easiest chair in the room put it into the pleasantest place and forget to offer it to mother when she comes in to sit down. Don't forget to treat your mother as politely as if she were a stranger lady who did not spend her life in your service; to be as kind as helpful to your sisters as you expect your sisters to be to you; to make friends among good boys. Take pride in being a gentleman at home; to take your mothers into your confidence if you do anything wrong, and, above all never lie about anything you have done; to make up your minds not to learn to smoke, chew, or drink, remembering these things can not be unlearned, and that they are terrible drawbacks to good men necessities to bad ones; to remember that there never was a vagabond without these habits. Observe all these rules, and they are sure to make you a gentleman.—Sel.

The Mission Debt—It is perhaps known to many of our readers that the Missionary Society of the U. B. Church has been laboring for some time past to pay off their debt of about Twelve Thousand Pounds; which had been accumulating throngh a long series of years. But we are pleased to note that during the past 12 months more than eight thousand pounds of that amt. has been secured, and that there is every reason to hope that the remainder (four thousand pounds) will be secured the next 12 months. But to do this the free will offerings of the church and its friends everywhere in Africa as well as America will be required; so we extend the invitation to all who may wish to contribute to this good cause. Contributions will be received by Revd. J. Gomer, Shaingay, Revd. R. N. West, Rotufunk or at this office, and forward to the Treasurer of the Missionary society.

A Huge Alligator, is reported to have been killed in Bendoo, on last Friday morning the 10th inst. This crocodile is said to have been discovered, at rather a remarkable distance, from the waters edge, and we suppose this accounts for his capture; which seems to have been a fortunate affair for the natives, who it appears made beef of him.

Mr. C. S. Brown Sr. called in this morning as we were going to press. he seems quite well again.

Y DAWN. 3.

(From THE MILLION)

THOUGHTS OF HEAVEN.

LETTIE J. BOODY

A GOOD CHILD.

Boys.

t tease girls or boys small-n yourselves. Don't take est chair in the room put it into the pleasantest place and forget to offer it to mother when she comes in to sit down. Don't forget to treat your mother as politely as if she were a stranger lady who did not spend her life in your service; to be as kind as helpful to your sisters as you expect your sisters to be to you; to make friends among good boys. Take pride in being a gentleman at home; to take your mothers into your confidence if you do anything wrong, and, above all never lie about anything you have done; to make up your minds not to learn to smoke, chew, or drink, remembering these things can not be unlearned, and that they are terrible drawbacks to good men necessities to bad ones; to remember that there never was a vagabond without these habits. Observe all these rules, and they are sure to make you a gentleman.—Sel.

The Mission Debt—It is perhaps known to many of our readers that the Missionary Society of the U. B. Church has been laboring for some time past to pay off their debt of about Twelve Thousand Pounds; which had been accumulating throngh a long series of years. But we are pleased to note that during the past 12 months more than eight thousand pounds of that amt. has been secured, and that there is every reason to hope that the remainder (four thousand pounds) will be secured the next 12 months. But to do this the free will offerings of the church and its friends everywhere in Africa as well as America will be required; so we extend the invitation to all who may wish to contribute to this good cause. Contributions will be received by Revd. J. Gomer, Shaingay, Revd. R. N. West, Rotufunk or at this office, and forward to the Treasurer of the Missionary society.

A Huge Alligator, is reported to have been killed in Bendoo, on last Friday morning the 10th inst. This crocodile is said to have been discovered, at rather a remarkable distance, from the waters edge, and we suppose this accounts for his capture; which seems to have been a fortunate affair for the natives, who it appears made beef of him.

Mr. C. S. Brown Sr. called in this morning as we were going to press. he seems quite well again.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

—oao—

PALM OIL—During the fortnight there has been a considerable demand at rising prices, but we close with the market rather quieter.

We quote "transit"

Lagos £18 15 0—Old Calabar, Opobo and Bonny £17 15s 0—Cameroons, £17 12 6—Benin. £17 5 0—Accra, Addah, Quittah, Danoe, Grand Popo, Ahgwey, and Little Popo, £17 0 0—Brass, Niger, New Calabar and Loanda, £16 15 0—Congo, £16 10 0—Sherbro, Sierra Leone, and Rio Pongo, £16 5 0—Appam Chama, Anamaboe, Saltpond, and Winnebah, £15 10 0 to £15 12 6—Dixcove, Secondee, and Liberian, £15 5 0 to £15 7 6

PALM KERNELS has been very flat during the whole fortnight, but they close today with an advance on recent prices, but very little over those of our circular of June 22nd. Quotations "transit," basis 5 per cent.

Lagos, Old Calabar, Bonny, and Cameroons, £9 10 0 to £9 12 6—Brass, £9 5 0 to £9 7 6—Benin and Congo, £9 2 6 to £9 5 0—Quitta, Addah, Liberian, Sierra Leone and Sherbro, £9 0 0 to £9 3 9—Axim, £8 16 3—Cape Coast £8 12 6—Saltpond, Appam, Winnebah, Accra and Elmina, £7 15 0 to 8/ 15 0

COPRA—In fair demand at late rates.
BENNISEED—Recent arrivals not yet offered.
GROUND NUTS—Good Bathurst in the shell sold at 15*l.* 10s—COFFEE, Quiet and little lower. African bold berry 51s. 6d.; Elephant 53s. Liberian 63s. per cwt.—COCOA, Quiet. 46s. to 50s. per cwt according to quality.
INDIA RUBBER—Moderate enquiry and steady sales at following quotations :—

	3s
Fine Para	1s. 8d. to 1s. 10d.
Gambia Niggers fair to prime	1s. 5d. to 1s. 7d.
Sierra Leone do. do.	1s. 3d. to 1s. 6d.
Thimbles	1s. 2d. to 1s. 5d.
Congo and Gaboon Balls	0s. 7d. to 0s. 9d.
Soft and Flaky Ball	0s. 0d. to 1s. 3d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim & Assinie	0s. 11d. to 1s. 2d.
Liberian	0s. 7d. to 0s. 10d.
Saltpond	0s. 8d. to 1s. 0d.
Accra pressed and dried	0s. 6½d. to 0s. 7d.
Do. ordinary	0s. 6½d. to 0s. 6½d.
Flake and Lumps

GINGER—No change, retail sales only.
GUM COPAL—With considerable arrivals, the market continues depressed. Red Angola 75s. to 100s. Loanda, 27s. 3d. to 47s. 6d. Accra 25s. to 35s. per cwt. Sierra Leone 3d. to 9½d.
BEESWAX—Gambia 4*l.* 15s. Sierra Leone 4*l.* 5s.
BARWOOD—Dull 2*l.* 15.
CAMWOOD—Good to fine, 10*l.* to 12*l.* Inferior to fair, 6*l.* to 9*l.*
EBONY—Old Calabar 4*l.* 5s. to 5*l.* 10s. Gaboon 4*l* 10s to 7*l.* Stock continues large.
KOLA NUTS—No demand.
CHILLIES—Rather better demand, 50 bags sold at 23s. per cwt
CALABAR BEANS—Small balls at 5d.
PORDUPINE QUILLS—No demand.
COTTON—Fair enquiry 4½ to 5 5-16.
IVORY—The next sales will be on 31st July.

Liverpool, 6th July 1888. EDWARDS BROTHERS.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island
SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

F & A SWANZY
GEO. LEACH
Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogshead of about 550 lbs. nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand—in similpackages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the UP-RIVER TRADERS, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A. SWANZY.
ALPHA FACTORY.
June 29th '88. Sherbro.

GREAT Reduction IN PRICES.

THE Undersigned beg to inform their FRIENDS and CUSTOMERS that they have received a fresh supply of AMERICAN GOODS, which they are now offering at the following rates ;—

NEW FLOUR Happy Home.
£1. 16. 0. per Bbl.
NEW BISCUITS,
0. 16. 0. per Bbl.
KEROSINE Crystaline brand.
0. 12. 0. per Case.
TOBACCO, per hgd. or ½ hgd.
0. 0. 10½. per lb.
(Delivered in York Island or Freetown at buyers option.).

Other American Goods at greatly rduced rates.

Fisher & Randall (Lmtd).
T. DALTON,—Agent.
York Island,
July 2, '88.

S. M. MISSION STORE.

Having Completely closed out
OUR OLD STOCK OF
Woolen & Cotton Goods,
Are now beginning to replenish
Our Shelves
With entirely New
GOODS.
Some of which have arrived by the last Steamer and others are expected in the next few weeks

N.B.—We still keep on hand a fresh & fine supply of provisions

J. A. EVANS
Bonthe, Apl 21, '88.

'Early Dawn'

PRINTING OFFICE.
Job Work Done at short Notice.
Enquire of G. G. BELL, Printer.
GOOD HOPE STATION.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, AUGUST 31, 1888. No. 16.

The "Early Dawn."
Published Semi-Monthly, At
BONTHE, SHERBRO.
Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the
U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0 6 0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0 5 0
Half yearly by Mail,	0 3 0
Ditto. delv'rd in Bonth,	0 2 6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to REV. J. GOMER, Shaingay, Mr. E. A. LEWIS, Freetown, West Africa. Rev. WM. MCKEE Dayton. Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant
Deputy. Coroner.	Wm. Hughes.
Chief Clerk	W. Hughes.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff	F. E. B. Buckner
Sub Treas. & Col.	G. H. Garrett
Chief Clerk	J. D. Macauley.
Tide Waiters.	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole
Asst. Examg. Officer Saltpah.	Jasper Caulker
Assistant Col. Surgeon. R. C. S.	M. L. Jarrett, M
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts.
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road Pastor,	Vacant.
Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street Pastor,	Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope Pastor,	Rev. G. N. Jowett
Asst Do.	Rev R. C. Taylor

SUPPLY OF COLA NUT.

A paper from the Government in Freetown on the above subject,altho' the covering letter is dated Freetown August 9th did not reach us until the 17th instant when our last issue had been sent out, so that we were compelled to give it to our readers in the present issue. We regret very much the delay but it was in consequence of there being no Mail to this district after the 1st until the 17th inst.

THE PROBLEM OF MISSIONS.

My last on this subject, was published in the issue of this paper for Febry 15th, and closed with the suggestion of the disbanding of Missionary societies, as the sure means of preventing the possibility of Mission Debts in the future, and I consider the Debt factor of our problem therefore solved, for when we shall have no Missionary societies, we shall have no debt contracted by such societies.

The next question that arises is, can the work be carried on as well without the societies as it is with them? That it has been in past carried on successfully without the societies now in existence, is an established fact from history, as I have before shown in preceding articles on this subject. But it seems now necessary to show whether it is possible, again under the changed condition of things to carry on Missionary work as it was done in the Apostolic age? To my mind it is quite possible to do so and yet the demand of the age, or the solution of our problem does not seem to require the return to exactly the same methods of that age, but something of a medium between the crude operations of that time and the more systematic operations of the present age. Organized Churches in homelands and foreign fields, organized conferences of christian ministers and laymen everywhere for counsel and effort in the extension of the Gospel at home and abroad. Visits of foreign missionaries to home churches, and if possible of home ministers to foreign fields,all of which would tend to arouse and perpetuate an interest in the spread of the Gospel, and the increase of the liberality of the christians at home and abroad. By such an arrangement the churches in homelands would become better informed of the real condition of things in the foreign field; and so far it has been true that the better men are informed on the subject of missions, the more readily they give to their support, so let us dispense with the machinery of missionary societies as at present exist, and let there be a more direct communication between home ministers and foreign missionaries, and the number of the former will multiply, and the interest of home churches will increase, and not only ten times the means will be given for the work, but more than a hundred times the amount will be the result from homelands; and this is not all that will be accomplished; for scarcely will the homelands have commenced their liberality of men and money; when you will find that a great change will be brought about in foreign and now pagan lands; but which are now ready to receive christianity, as soon as the church can extend its more consecrated hand to them. Heretofore the missionary has to often been, the adventurer, the representive of a great society, and relied too much on human aid, and consequently has often, possibly unconsciously, pandered to human feelings, and wishes, he has tried to please the officers at the rooms, and in so doing he has sometimes lost sight of the power of cross, that which draws the world to Christ with irresistible potency. But if a change is effected that will make the missionary more independent of man, and more dependent upon God and Christ then we shall behold greater conquests among the heathen nations, the pride of whose great ones must be subdued by the simplicity of the meek followers of the Lamb of God. J. A. E.

For the "Early Dawn."

A Student's voice from the Rufus Clark and Wife Theological Training School,—(Concluded.)

In concluding this subject I wish to bring again before you & your many readers that it is not at my purpose to advocate slavery: as I believe it to be a giant wrong but to not before them that it is not the prime cause of Africa's degradation. It is an evil and a degrading one too. Some have adduced for their arguments the curse that the righteous Noah pronounced upon his grandson Canaan and that tracing it one could see how it made Africa to be the most degraded country in the world. But is this a reliable fact? must we not look to the right source from whence degradations commenced. When our first parents ate of the forbidden fruit they were then degraded morally and physically. So you see that sin is the prime cause of Africa's degradation. And following its tracks you will see and notice the different branches that it has made and none among them is so devasting as the Rum traffick and its numerous attendant evils. Africans do enslave one another I admit, and so do many other nations that are less baberous than what Africa is. It is a wonder to me why some would not scruple to Africa is the most degraded country and slavery the prime curse of it. While we are a degraded people it is well for us to know that Africa's able sons are bending their energies towards elevating their race. There are geniuses in Africa, intellectual giants, and men qualified to meet up the times, and the time is hastening on when there will arise an Alfred the Great to give character and consolidation to this despised nation that has yet to play a part in the Grand Drama of the world's civilization. I say right here that Africa would not have been so degraded as detractors say had it not been that Christ Christ let the first European slave dealer left his country for ours and which finally resulted in the sending of one hundred and ninety-eight slave ships to Africa and thereby encouraged the traffick in human beings. I cannot just now call to mind the number of gallons of spirit that are exported to Africa annually but you can by observation side with me that the number is an enormous one. And no wonder why the "Christian Temperance Army" is established in the Shaingay Mission to wage a warfare against intoxicating drink; and no wonder why the Rev James Johnson of Lagos is giving his time and talent to the prohibition importation and exportation of that monster into the West Coast of Africa. Let me conclude by saying that our efforts can in a great measure suppress this vice and it becomes our duty to do all we can in seeking the welfare and elevation of our people.

W. H. J.

Shaingay Mission
Aug 16th 88

FROM THE KITTAM.

Mr. Editor,—Since my last to you containing a short report of the then critical state of the country, I have been further informed of two subsequent attempts made by chief Mackiah, for the plundering of some other towns, but which (owing to his unskilful plans) proved unsuccessful. The above Chief with his followers, as I am informed and verily believe, are now at Largor their seat of war, contemplating no doubt what other steps to pursue that will tend to seasure their success in all future attempts; judging however from recent intelligence, I am led to the belief that it will be almost if not altogether impotible for them to achieve any success. Rumour says that Darwah (the brave and desperate warrior) has been caught by the Darmah war people, and is now under very close confinement; the news was even circulated about a fortnight ago that he was killed: and judging from what I have heard from other source, I cannot but give credit to the veracity of the former, than the latter. Perhaps you are aware Mr. Editor that the Darmah war people, by force and arms, took possession of a place called Bramah, few weeks ago; but finding the town destitute of such things as to satisfy their greedy passions, they were obliged to quit and return to their own town.

Chief Mormor Kie Kie and others who are mostly on the side of the Government for peace are now at Mamamah meditating what prudent means can be adopted in order to effect peace and, quietness in this vast territory.

Kittam as all are aware, is a great centre for the yielding of produce and has in a great measure helped towards the increase of the Sherbro yearly exportation; but at present the country is unsettled, or in other words,

"It is not as it should be.
And things are looking blue"

I however cherish the hope that it may not be long, when all warlike raids will cease, and peace and quietness be established.

I stop here for this time, you may hear from me again.

Yours very truly.
Kittam, PERCIVAL BAH.
Aug '88.

Wealth of The Country

The United States is said to be the richest nation in the world and to be increasing in wealth faster than in population. The census of 1880 estimated it at $44,642,000,000 The property, equally divided in 1860, would have given every man, woman and child $514. In 1870 it would have given each $624. In 1880 it would have given each $814. The wealth of England in 1870 was estimated at $34,000,000,000 in 1880 at $43,000,000,000.

The world at large is fast growing richer, The relations of Christianity to the increase of wealth has an illustration at the Sandwich Islands. It is claimed that there was never so much wealth in the church as at present.

While, therefore, the possession of wealth is justified by Christian ethics, it puts the possessor under heavy obligations to the multitude less favored. He who has obtained wealth has secured it more or less by the co-operation and labor of others. He can not, therefore properly hold his riches exclusively for his own benefit. Here is where the disciples of the gospel come in to ameliorate and elevate society generally as nothing else ever did or ever can, by applying the principle that it is not what we take up, but what we give up, that makes us rich.—Sel.—

The Early Dawn.
BONTHE, SHERBRO.
AUGUST 31, 1888.

WORTHY OF NOTE.—We refer to the dilligence with which the local Authorities of this place, have applied themselves to the improvement of our Streets, under very trying circumstances, both because of the inclemency of the weather, and the paucity of means at their command, much praise is due for this to the Officer in charge Mr. G. H. Garrett, and also no doubt to Mr. A. O. Walker Overseer of Roads. Of course, no one will understand by these remarks, that our Streets, Bridges, and Roads have been completely repaired, and that we have all as it should be again; but only just what we have said above that the local Authorities here have done well for the means they have had at their disposal. But we do most certainly see that a great deal more ought to be done, and that too, in a short time, or we must suffer greater inconvenience; yet we know just as well, that the means for the doing of it are not at the disposal of the Local Authorities. Cannot the legislative council of the Freetown Government be prevailed upon, to take up the matter of the Improvement of Sherbro ? certainly its members should be interested.

Please Note,—That while we cannot, by any means vouch for the rumors we some times give place to in our columns, yet we may be understood to have at least some grounds for belief, unless we state otherwise, and on account of which we give place to the rumor.

From the Bargroo we have the following information.

Rumour says that Soree Behyo despite of his skill &c., he fell a victim of war in the earlier part of the month.

That Francis Caulker has sent several heads of money to Ticonkoh to inducee the mendi war boys to make another attack on Shaingay in revenge of the death of his brother.

Shaingay District.

This district, I regret to say, is in a very unsettled state since the execution of the Caulkers. There has been continual rumours of Francis Caulker's war coming to cry for William, and Lahoi's people too were coming to cry for him. A couple of very reliable man came from Bargroo, who saw with his own eyes 15 canoes of Gin and four canoes containing cotton goods &c. that were being taken to the Mendi country to "buy war" for Shaingay. Another messenger brought a report that the Mendis were actually gathering at San-koon, and as soon as the moon was dark, to sweep down on Shaingay, and this time they were not coming to plunder but to kill; the Chief's head they must have, and the Mission must be destroyed. It is stated for a fact that when William T. G Caulker was getting up his war, he made all the chief men to swear that in case he was caught and transported, or hung, they would cry for him; and now they are bound to cry or the swear will prove fatal on them. Bembah Koon Church and Canray Feemah were amongst these leaders and they are still at large, and have been seen repeatedly about the Ribbee, Bompeh, and Cockborrah rivers. These are sworn enemies to the Chief; I have this too from good authority that the murray man who "cooked the war" for William claims that William asked only for war on Shaingay but nothing was said about the Mission, and that it was at the Mission that they were defeated, and not at the town of Shaingay Now they have cooked the war for the Mission, and they will surely succeed, for they will come at night and not in the day. All the reports say that this is a very large war and they are armed with guns as well as swords; Francis was known to send four cases of guns, to the Mendies so rumour says, only yesterday I received a letter from our Teacher at Rembee, he says "the war news that reaches us here is fearfull, yesterday a man from the lower Kargbor, told us that Francis Caulker's war is coming down upon us, as the Queen had authorised him to avenge the Caulkers at Shaingay for the death of his late brother. W. T. G. Caulker, whom Sir Samuel Rowe willfully hung at Shaingay, the greater part of the population of this section of country have fled, the man told us also that "the war is at the towns of Kob-Loo and Ghamglarmah" these towns are in the Mendi country. It is evident that people have been greatly encouraged by those incendiary articles which have been appearing in the Weekly News of late for they have circulated the report that Governor Rowe has been ordered to England, and that he is dismissed from the service for hanging those men.

The chief of Mentibye caught a woman that was a former slave of his,(who was liberated by Captain Halkett) tied her and sent her to Bargroo to be sold said the white people had not taken the country yet. It was certainly a mistake in Governor Rowe to leave us here without any protection, the people have no heart to make farm or do anything.

How long this state of things is to continue I know not I fear to go out to visit my Stations or the war might fall here in my absence.

J. GOWER.

Shaingay Mission
Aug 20th '88

The late Rev. G.G.M Nicol B. A.

On Monday night the 13th inst, the community of Bonthe were startled at the sudden death of the Rev. George Gurney Mather Nicol, B. A., pastor of St. Luke's Parish, eldest son of the Rev. G. C. Nicol, M. A., relict chaplain of the Gambia, and grandson of the Rt. Rev. Bishop Crowther of the Niger. He was born in 1856 and was baptized by the name of George Gurney Mather Nicol. The names Gurney and Mather were given him by his father in affectionate remembrance of two English Christian Ladies in England who took a deep interest in the father whilst in England.

The deceased never entered the walls of the Grammar School as a pupil, but was trained and educated by his father. He was sent to England in 1872 when he was 16 years of age—after preliminary training in a Grammar School in England he was sent to Cambridge University where he took the degree of B. A. He returned from England in 1879 and chose the bar or medicine for his profession, but acquiescing to the wishes of his father he chose the ministry.

He was admitted to Holy Orders in March 1883, and was appointed Curate of Holy Trinity Church, Kissy Road. When the church at Sherbro was suffering for want of a pastor he voluntarily responded to the call "Whom shall I send" when he answered "Here am I send me" and he came to Sherbro first as a deacon, and the following year he was inducted to the Church of this place as pastor.

The deceased, since his arrival in our midst has set the Church (that had almost collapsed) in a proper working order. He was a zealous and faithful servant of God. He denounced sin with a loud voice and if the readers of your journal will turn their attention to your issue of Feb. 28th 1887 and read, they will find that he denounced sin, as will be found from the purport of the sermon preached in St. Matthew's Church Feb. 20, from Gen. ix. 3. He did neither fear, nor dread the frowns of men.

In the committee room he was ever brave, impartial and true in his dealings. In the social circle he possessed a most unassuming character and was loved by every one.

It was through his suggestions that the New Church Building was set in motion in '87 and it was only in May last that he issued to the members of his church Rules for the "Better discipline of St. Luke's.

He had laid down many plans for the benefit of the church he so much loved, but alas! "man proposes" but "God disposes." On Sunday the 5th inst. he administered the Holy Communion at St. Matthew's. He launched his newly built boat on Thursday the 9th.—On Sunday the 12th he went with his boat to York Island where he preached, administered the Holy Communion, and baptized. One of his sermons that day was selected from Phil. i. 21. "For me to live is Christ and to die is gain." He was very vehement on this occasion, he impressed into the minds of his hearers the necessity of making preparation for the unseen world as death may come at any moment.

After discharging this faithful duty, at York Island, he returned to Bonthe.

Being a zealous and devout servant of Christ, he attended the Child ren's Class on Monday morning and enrolled the names of all the children on the list, when the little ones gladly said to one another "master done put me name nar book." After the class was over he went out visiting and returned home. About 12 o'clock on this day the deceased was very brave and his aspect was joyful and pleasing, but about 3 in the afternoon the report went throughout the town that pastor Nicol was dying; the report was received with utmost astonishment.

Crowds gathered at the parsonage, women wailing along the streets and in the mission compound. Immediately Dr. Johnson was sent for, and every effort were used by him to prolong life, but alas the summons had been issued and the command "come up higher" must be obeyed. Thus died the young, energetic, and devoted servant of God in the 32nd year of his age, and the 5th of his ministry.

His remains lie buried in the cemetery at Bonthe, there to wait the resurrection of the just. The deceased pastor is the first Missionary of the P. E. Church that has been buried at Sherbro, and the parishioners of St. Luke's has suffered great loss in the death of their pastor. May they be able to console themselves under their affliction—and may God comfort his aged and afflicted parents and relatives.

The aged father arrived here by the s. s. Formoso on Friday the 17th and preached on Sunday the 19th at St. Matthew's Church from Heb. xi. 16. he also administered the Holy Communion. On Sunday 26th the Rev gentleman preached from Rev. vii. 9. to 12 vs. to a crowded congregation.—[Communicated.]

Requiescat in pav.

Bonthe, Aug. 19, 1888.

THE OUT LOOK

The Country at large, does not present the fairest prospects either politically or otherwise, at least just at this time, for although, the out-breaks of late, in fact since the forcible settlement of the Yonnie affairs have not been very considerable, yet it must be readily observed that the whole of the countries lying to the South of the Bompeh and north of the Liberian boundary are in a very unsatisfactory condition politically, and that misrule is prevalent almost everywhere, among native chieftains; the result being much disaffection. The scarcity, too, of food being so general is another source of great concern, among the people, and more it is hardly likely to better in the near future, at least, for the short planting, is likely to make a light harvest and unless great care is exercised the new crop will scarcely be sufficient to relieve immediate necessity. The worst, we anticipate, of the present, unsatisfactory state of things is that the politically disaffected, in the land, may easily gather and lead bands of hungry men to disturb the peace in order to secure plunder. Too much vigilance cannot be exercised by the Government, to put a stop to the least uprising anywhere within its supervision, as however, insignificant, it may at first appear, it will found to increase very rapidly under the present condition of things.

The Commonwealth—A new and sprightie Journal, of just about the right kind for the present crisis, has made its appearance at this Office. It is Edited by our old friend Dr. J. Augustus Cole of Freetown and issued from the African Office. It is down hard on the Rum traffic, we congratulate the Editor and welcome the rising Star to the constellation of West African journalism.

NEWS ITEMS.

Aug. 18—Formoso for Freetown with Messrs J. B. Parkinson, D. L. Collier, C. T. O. Davies, mesdames R. V. Johnson, R. May, Taylor &c.

Aug 19.—Rev. G. C. Nicol preached in Saint Matthew's Church from Heb. xi. 16.

Aug. 23.—"Formoso" from Freetown and left next day with Miss Mary Ann Williams

" 28. Formoso from Freetown with Mr. C.B. Mitford and wife to relieve G. H. Garrett Esqr. Actg Condt. proceeding to England on leave of absence a Mr. Pratt Wesleyan School master is to relieve Mr. G. P. Wilhelm proceeding to Bathurst Gambia.

31.— Formoso for Freetown with G. H. Garrett, Esqr. Act. Commandant. Rev. G. C. Nicol, M. A. Mr. G. P. Wilhelm, Proceeding to Bathurst Gambia.

Personal

Mr. Arthur H. Clare of the Sierra Leone Coaling Compy., while on a short visit to Sherbro, gave us a very pleasant call on the 18th inst.

Messrs T.J. Alldridge and L.W. Phillips of the Firm of Messrs F. & A. Swanzy, arrived here by the s. s. Formoso on the 17th and on the 18th they called on us; we had the pleasure of being introduced to Mr. Phillips who we believe will be in charge of Messrs Swanzy's Establishment in Sierra Leone, during Mr. Alldridge's absence to England. Mr. Phillips has every appearance of a refined gentleman, and one of no ordinary business tact. They returned to Freetown by the same vessel.

Messrs Yates and Porterfield of New York, we understand have appointed Mr. Rob. P Pooley, as their Agt. in Sierra Leone instead Captain J. A. Lewis. Mr. Pooley we learn is a very nice gentleman of business.

Sir Samuel Rowe.—It is reported left Freetown very lately by the s s Nabia.

Revd George Nicol A. M. Father of the late Rev G. G. M Nicol B. A. arrived here from Freetown by the s. s. Formoso on the 17th on the occasion of his son's death. He called on us the next day and while feeling the death of his son as a heavy blow; yet he was bearing it with the most humble submission, we admire his spirit very much indeed.

Mr. W. D. Pasha, Catechist of St. Matthew's Church, called in on the 18th inst., he is much improved we believe, in health, but has much to do since the death of the Rev. G. G. M. Nicol.

Mr. Thomas Bishop junr., Merchant of Freetown, arrived by the s. s. Formoso on the 23rd, he called in the same day. We were pleased to see him again in our town; he returned by the same steamer on the 25th.

Mr. Jasper S. Caulker, Asst. Examining officer of Salijah arrived here about the 23rd inst, returning from Freetown viâ Shaingay. We were pleased to see him

VERY DESIRABLE.

It is, to have clean Streets and lanes, clean yards, clean houses arranged on both sides of clean Streets, and to meet clean folks on your way.

Example is always better than precept, and this the Government has demonstrated, by the course adopted during the intervening days between the past and present issue of the EARLY DAWN, when a defile of prisoners marched daily with hoes, cutlasses, and rakes, to Yhandahoo, to clear the high and rank weeds with which the principal Streets have been overgrown. Every lover of beauty cannot but be struck with the beauty of the appearance of Yhandahoo Streets, (though the work is yet imperfectly done) and will hardly be kept from exclaiming, "surely this is a move in the right direction!" It is very desirable that the good work thus commenced will be carried to perfection. Example in the right direction being thus set, the Government did not fail to send forth the herald of justice with the warning bell, whose warning tones were thus interpreted by him

"Bangalong" "clean your Streets Yards" "Bangalong"

Or three days hence, expect the footfall of justice." But before the herald of justice was sent forth with his warning bell, there were those who need not to be taught the love of cleanliness, for they love to see clean sites. They followed in the track of the Government and cleaned their Streets and Yards without being told.

Good breeding teaches one to mind his own business, and not meddle with what does not concern him. "In all labor there is profit, but the talk of the lips tendeth to penury." Our list of talkers and interrogators never was greater at any previous period than at present. There are men and women who would not scruple to pry into others domestic concerns, and would like to know the why and wherefore of every thing; thus wasting their precious time of laying plans and schemes that would greatly enhance their individual or domestic interests. These form the pest of society. "Meddlesome Matty" was amply repaid, when with her grand ma's spectacles on her nose, she spied her grandma's snuff box which is trying to open, with a sudden jerk the snuff came puffing on her face, and entered thro the channels of the nose into the innermost recesses of her meddlesome calibre, and made her sincerely repent and faithfully promised nevermore to meddle. It is very desirable that these pests of society be cured of this evil propensity, and be made to mind their own interests.

It is also very desirable that in future Sierra Leoneans of Sherbro show demonstrations of joy as an appreciation of the abolition of the odious and terrible house and land tax, and thus add the 22nd of August to the list of our public days. I am certain that most of those who own large houses and lands have own large houses and lands in Freetown. Or if they do not, some of their relatives own. And cannot you recollect those dreadful days when the little, that formed THE ACT, of our poor parents were exposed in the Streets (for not all who are rich today are descended from rich parents, but by dint of perseverance, with blessing of God, they are, what they are) When the few boxes were cruelly taken from mother by those heartless and relentless Bailiff, who thereby rendered themselves detestable like the Publicanes of old, both by the rich and poor, and some of those boxes contained your little trousers and shirts and jackets, and all to be put to the public Auction, unless the required sum be paid? And this not only one year, but every year? Some of those weary old souls who groaned under the cruel rod of the oppressors) are now resting in peace in their lowly beds under the clods of the earth, and they will smile to see the merchants and principal men of Sherbro participating in the joys of their brothers and sister and Sierra Leone. "Rejoice with those who rejoice."

When will we hear of a reduction of the price of rice?

It is very desirable that the merchants of this and adjacent places continue the former prices of their other articles of trade, and, if possible, even lower the prices of your gin and Rum and Whiskey and Old Tom and Brandy &c. &c. and lessen for us, "poor people" the exorbitant figure attached to Rice. Fourteen Shillings for a bag of rice containing only one Colonial bushel and five quarts is distressing to the ear of

Bonthe Sherbro. POOR BOY

SUPPLY OF KOLA.

Colonial Secritariat,
Sierra Leone,
August 9th 1888.

Editor of the "Early Dawn."

Sir,—I have the honour by direction of His Excellency the Administrator-in-Chief to forward the enclosed copy of a letter received from Messrs Thomas Christy & Co., London, on the above subject, for publication in your journal in accordance with the request expressed by them.

I also send herewith a small sample of the nuts mentioned in the last paragraph of their letter, which His Excellency asks you will be good enough to retain, and show to those who may be interested in the matter.

I have the honor to be, Sir,
Your most obdt servant,
C. BARNEY MITFORD,
For Actg. Col. Sec. & Treasurer.

From THOMAS CHRISTY & Co,

TO THE GOVERNOR W. C. A.

25, Lime Street,
London, E. C.,
June 1, 1888.

To the GOVERNOR,
Sierra Leone, W.C.A.

Sir,—We wish you would be good enough to make it known in the local papers that Kolah having proved of so much value, a demand has set in regularly for a chocolate and also for a beverage and we are very sorry to have to inform you that there have been several shipments received lately from the West Coast of Africa of Nuts, said to be Kolas, of which in reality, only 5 per cent were Kola Nuts, such as we know and used to receive from you.

We have at present in our warehouse quite a large shipment of such as we have described above, and for which we can find no use whatever. We have sent out samples of these nuts to the Coast, so that the people can be on their guard.

We send you by this post some of these Nuts that can be shown. We are fortunate in receiving through a Liverpool House today some leaves from a tree yielding one of these Nuts.

Yours truly,
(Sgd) THOMAS CHRISTY & Co.

Timely warning to whom this may concern.

Mr. Editor,—It is reasonable that one should ask the following questions.—

1. Is not Victoria connected with the settlements of Her Majesty?

2. Is not an officer placed there for the purpose of keeping the public peace, and not to act partial in his duties?

3. Is it that Victoria is insignificant among the stations that such base practices are to be allowed as the using of vague and abusive languages in the public highways to disturb the peace of others?

4. Why then are not proper steps taken for the putting down of such practices by a summons issued or otherwise?

It will be enough for a prudent man to have a single hint. Awaiting his reply. Thanking you for space granted me.

Truly yours,
A. VISITOR.

Aug 17th 1888.

TOO MUCH TALK.

Mr. Editor:—It would please Great grandfather Leonard to say a few words to his ministerial brethren. Sure, I have no malice aforethought against, any." No, not one.

We are liable to imitate the customs and habits of those by whom we are surrounded. A few of these I wish to mention: "My friends." "My dear friends" "I want to say to you this morning." "Permit me to say to you this evening." "I want to say here and now." We have them in the stand to say what they wish. When they have their say we will know that they wanted to say it. "Had circumstances been more favorable, I would have been better prepared to preach to you this morning." He wishes, I suppose, to have it understood that the sermon, if a poor one, is not owing to the lack of talent. "There are other points on this part of the subject that could be mentioned, were there time; but, as I told you in the beginning I purposed to be brief, I will pass on to the next division of the subject." While the hearers are wondering what more he could have said, their mind has wandered from the subject, while he has been talking more than forty words. "Many items might be mentioned, but as I purposed to be brief, I will pass to the last thought, and leave the subject with you."

Some of the preachers are fast travelers—do not know how many turns (of the body) across the rostrum in speaking a thirty-minute discourse. Some think they wear out the carpet too fast.
—S. LEONARD—In Telescope.

The members of the "Bonthe Mutual Literary Club" read an address at the Court Hall on the night of the 30th inst in honor of the departure for England of their patron G. H. Garrett Esqr. Act Comdt. followed by a Quadrille party.—

The Early Dawn.
BONTHE, SHERBRO.
AUGUST 31, 1888.

WORTHY OF NOTE.—We refer to the diligence with which the local Authorities of this place, have applied themselves to the improvement of our Streets, under very trying circumstances, both because of the inclemency of the weather, and the paucity of means at their command, much praise is due for this to the Officer in charge Mr. G. H. Garrett, and also no doubt to Mr. A. O. Walker Overseer of Roads. Of course, no one will understand by these remarks, that our Streets, Bridges, and Roads have been completely repaired, and that we have all as it should be again; but only just what we have said above that the local Authorities here have done well for the means they have had at their disposal. But we do most certainly see that a great deal more ought to be done, and that too, in a short time, or we must suffer greater inconvenience; yet we know just as well, that the means for the doing of it are not at the disposal of the Local Authorities. Cannot the legislative council of the Freetown Government be prevailed upon, to take up the matter of the Improvement of Sherbro ? certainly its members should be interested.

Please Note,—That while we cannot, by any means vouch for the rumors we some times give place to in our columns, yet we may be understood to have at least some grounds for belief, unless we state otherwise, and on account of which we give place to the rumor.

From the Bargroo we have the following information.

Rumour says that Soree Behyo despite of his skill &c., he fell a victim of war in the earlier part of the month.

That Francis Caulker, has sent several heads of money to Ticonkoh to induce the mendi war boys to make another attack on Shaingay in revenge of the death of his brother.

Shaingay District.

This district, I regret to say, is in a very unsettled state since the execution of the Caulkers. There has been continual rumours of Francis Caulker's war coming to cry for William, and Labai's people too were coming to cry for him. A couple of [illegible] age, a [illegible]ry Barves 15 [illegible] consisting cotton goods &c. that were being taken to the Mendi country to "buy war" for Shaingay. Another messenger brought a report that the Mendis were actually gathering at Sandokoun, and as soon as the moon was dark to sweep down on Shaingay, and this time they were not coming to plunder but to kill; the Chief's head they must have, and the Mission must be destroyed. It is stated for a fact that when William T. G. Caulker was getting up his war, he made all the chief men to swear that in case he was caught and transported, or hung, they would cry for him; and now they are bound to cry or the swear will prote fatal on them. Bomboh Koon Church and Canray Freemah were amongst these leaders and they are still at large, and have been seen repeatedly about the Rokbee, Bompeh, and Cockleroah rivers. These are sworn enemies to the Chief; I have this too from good authority that the murray man who "cooked the war" for William claims that William asked only for war on Shaingay but nothing was said about the Mission, and that it was at the Mission that they were to be feared, and not at the town of Shaingay Now they have cooked the war for the Mission, and they will surely succeed, for they will come at night and not in the day. All the reports say that this is a very large war and they are armed with guns as well as swords; Francis was known to send four cases of guns, to the Mendies so rumor says, only yesterday I received a letter, from our Teacher at Rembe, he says "the war news that reaches us here is fearfull, yesterday a man from the lower Kargboi, told us that Francis Caulker's war is coming down upon us, as the Queen had authorised him to avenge the Caulkers at Shaingay for the death of his late brother W. T. G. Caulker, whom Sir Samuel Rowe willfully hung at Shaingay, the greater part of the population of this section of country think the man told us also that "the war is at the towns of Koh Loo and Gbamgbamah" these towns are in the Mendi country. It is evident that people have been greatly encouraged by those incendiary articles that have been appearing in the Weekly News of late, for they have circulated the report that Governor Rowe has been ordered to England, and that he is dismissed from the service for hanging those men.

The chief of Mentibye caught a woman that was a former slave of his, who was liberated by Captain Haskett) tied her and sent her to Bargroo to be sold said the white people had not taken the country yet. It was certainly a mistake in Governor Rowe to leave us here without any protection, the people have no heart to make farm or do anything.

How long this state of things is to continue I know not I fear to go out to visit my Stations or the war might fall here in my absence.

J. GOWER.

Shaingay Mission
Aug 20th '88

The late Rev. G. G. M Nicol.

On Monday night the 13th inst. the community of Bonthe were startled at the sudden death of the Rev. George Gurney Mather Nicol, B.A., pastor of St. John's Parish, eldest son of the Rev. G. C. Nicol, M.A., retired chaplain of the Gambia, and grandson of the Rt. Rev. Bishop Crowther of the Niger. He was born in 1856 and was baptized by the name of George Gurney Mather Nicol. The names Gurney and Mather were given him by his father in affectionate remembrance of [illegible] Christian Ladies in England who took a deep interest in the father while in England.

The deceased never entered the walls of the Grammar School as a pupil, but was trained and educated by his father. He was sent to England in 1872 when he was 16 years of age—after preliminary training in a Grammar School in England he was sent to Cambridge University where he took the degree of B.A. He returned from England in 1879 and chose the bar as medicine for his profession, but acquiescing to the wishes of his father he chose the ministry.

He was admitted to Holy Orders in March 1883, and was appointed Curate of Holy Trinity Church, Kissy Road. When the church at Sherbro was suffering for want of a pastor he voluntarily responded to the call. Whom shall I send" when he answered "Here am I send me" and he came to Sherbro first as a Deacon, and the following year he was inducted to the Church of this place as pastor.

The deceased, since his arrival in our midst has set the Church (that had almost collapsed) in a proper working order. He was a zealous and faithful servant of God. He denounced sin with a bold voice and if the readers of your journal will turn their attention to your issue of Feb. 24th 1887 and read, they will find that he denounced sin, as will be found from their perusal of the sermon preached in St. Matthew's Church Feb. 20, from Gen. ix. 3. He did neither fear, nor dread the frowns of men.

In the committee room he was ever brave, impartial and true in his dealings.

In the social circle he possessed a most unassuming character and was loved by every one.

It was through his suggestions that the New Church Building was set in motion in '87 and it was only in May last that he issued to the members of his church Rules for the "Better discipline of St. Luke's.

He had laid down many plans for the benefit of the church he so much loved, but alas! "man proposes" but "God disposes." On Sunday the 5th inst. he administered the Holy Communion at St. Matthew's. He launched his new built boat on Thursday the 9th.—On Sunday the 12th he went with his boat to York Island where he preached, administered the Holy Communion, and baptized. One of his sermons that day was selected from Phil. i. 21. "For me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." He was very vehement on this occasion, he impressed it upon his hearers the necessity of making preparation for the unseen world as death may come at any moment.

After discharging this faithful duty, at York Island, he returned to Bonthe.

Being a zealous and devout servant of Christ, he attended the Child Service on Monday morning and enrolled the names of all the children on the list, when the little ones gladly said to one another "made done put me name nar book." After the class was over he went out visiting and returned home. About 12 o'clock on this day the deceased was very brave and his aspect was joyful and pleasing, but about 3 in the afternoon the report went throughout the town that pastor Nicol was dying; the report was received with utmost astonishment.

Crowds gathered at the mission house, women wailing along the streets and in the mission compound. Immediately Dr. Johnson was sent for, and every effort were used by him to prolong life, but alas the summons had been issued and the command "come the higher" must be obeyed. Thus terminated the young, energetic, and devoted servant of God in the 32nd year of his age, and the 5th of his ministry.

His remains lie buried in the cemetery at Bonthe, there to wait the resurrection of the just. The deceased pastor is the first Missionary of the Church that has been buried at Sherbro, and the parishioners of St. Luke's has suffered great loss in the death of their pastor. May they be able to console themselves under their affliction—and may God in Communion. On Sunday 26th the Rev gentleman preached from Rev xii. 9. to 12 vs to a crowded congregation. [Communicated.]

Requiescat in pace

Bonthe, Aug. 19, 1888.

THE OUT LOOK

The Country at large, does not present the fairest prospects either politically or otherwise, at least just at this time, for although, the out-breaks of late, in fact since the forcible settlement of the Yonnie affairs have not been very considerable, yet it must be readily observed that the whole of the countries lying to the South of the Boumpeh and north of the Liberian boundary are in a very unsatisfactory condition politically, and that misrule is prevalent almost everywhere, among native chieftains; the result being much disaffection. The scarcity, too, of food being so general is another source of great concern, among the people, as I more it is hardly likely to better in the near future, at least, for the short planting, is likely to make a light harvest and unless great care is exercised the new crop will scarcely be sufficient to relieve immediate necessity. The worst, we anticipate, of the present, unsatisfactory state of things is that the politically disaffected, in the land, may easily gather and lead bands of hungry men to disturb the peace in order to secure plunder. Too much vigilance cannot be exercised by the Government, to put a stop to the least uprising anywhere within its supervision, as however, insignificant it may at first appear, it will found to increase very rapidly under the present condition of things.

The Commonwealth—A new and spicy Journal of just about the right kind for the present crisis, has made its appearance at this Office. It is Edited by our old friend Dr. J. Augustus Cole of Freetown and issued from the Argus Office. It is down hard on the Rum traffic, we congratulate the Editor the next day and while feeling constellation of West African journalism

NEWSITEMS.

Aug. 18—Formoso for Freetown with Messrs J. B. Parkinson, D. L. Collier, C. T. O. Davies, mesdames R. V. Johnson, R. May, Taylor &c.

Aug. 19.—Rev. G. C. Nicol preached in Saint Matthew's Church from Heb xi. 16.

Aug. 23.—"Formoso" from Freetown and left next day with Miss Mary Ann Williams

" 28. Formoso from Freetown with Mr. C. B. Mitford and wife to relieve G. H. Garrett Esqr. Actg Condt. proceeding to England on leave of absence & Mr. Pratt Wesleyan School master is to relieve Mr. G. P. Wilhelm proceeding to Bathurst Gambia.

31.— Formoso for Freetown with G. H. Garrett, Esqr. Act. Commandant. Rev. G. C. Nicol, M. A. Mr. G. P. Wilhelm, Proceeding to Bathurst Gambia.

Personal

Mr. Arthur H. Clare of the Sierra Leone Coaling Compy. while on a short visit to Sherbro, gave us a very pleasant call on the 18th inst.

Messrs T. J. Alldridge and L. W. Phillips of the Firm of Messrs F & A. Swanzy, arrived here by the s. s. Formoso on the 17th and on the 18th they called on us; we had the pleasure of being introduced to Mr. Phillips who we believe will be in charge of Messrs Swanzy's Establishment in Sierra Leone, during Mr. Alldridge's absence to England. Mr. Phillips has every appearance of a refined gentleman, and one of no ordinary business tact. They returned to Freetown by the same vessel.

Messrs Yates and Porterfield of New York, we understand have appointed Mr. Rob. P. Pooley, as their Agt. in Sierra Leone instead Captain J. A. Lewis. Mr. Pooley we learn is a very nice gentleman of business.

Sir Samuel Rowe.—It is reported left Freetown very [illegible]ly by the s s Nabia.

Revd George Nicol A. M. Father of the late Rev G. G. M Nicol B. A. arrived here from Freetown by the s. s. Formoso on the 17th on the occasion of his son's death. He called on us the next day and while feeling the death of his son as a heavy blow; yet he was bearing it with the most humble submission, we admire his spirit very much indeed.

Mr. W. D. Pasha Catechist of St. Matthew's Church, called in on the 18th inst., he is much improved we believe, in health, but has much to do since the death of the Rev G. G. M. Nicol.

Mr. Thomas Bishop junr. Merchant of Freetown, arrived by the s. s. Formoso on the 23rd, he called in the same day. We were pleased to see him again in our town; he returned by the same steamer on the 25th.

Mr. Jasper S. Caulker, Asst. Examining officer of Sulijah arrived here about the 23d inst, returning from Freetown viâ Shaingay. We were pleased to see him

VERY DESIRABLE

It is, to have clean Streets and Lanes clean yards, clean houses arranged on both sides of clean Streets, and to meet clean folks on your way.

Example is always better than precept, and this the Government has demonstrated, by the course adopted during the intervening days between the past and present issue of the EARLY DAWN, when a debis of pressers was marched daily with hoes, cutlasses, and rakes, to Yhandaboo, to clear the high and rank weeds with which the principal Streets have been overgrown. Every lover of beauty cannot but be struck with the beauty of the appearance of Yhandaboo Streets, (though the work is yet imperfectly done) and will hardly be kept from exclaiming, "surely this is a move in the right direction" It is very desirable that the good work thus commenced will be carried to perfection. Example in the right direction being thus set, the Government did not fail to send forth the herald of justice with the warning bell, whose warning tones were thus interpreted by him "Bungalong"—clean your Streets" "Bungalong"—clean your Yards" "Bungalong" Of three days hence, expect the footfall of justice." But before the herald of justice was sent forth with his warning bell, there were those who need not to be taught the love of cleanliness, for they love to see clean cities They followed in the footsteps of Government and cleaned their Streets and Yards without being told.

Good breeding teaches one to mind his own business, and not meddle with what does not concern him. "In all labor there is profit, but the talk of the lips tendeth to penury." Our list of talkers and interrogators never was greater at any previous period than at present. There are men and women who would not scruple to pry into others domestic concerns, and would like to know the why and wherefore of every thing. Wasting their precious time of laying plans and schemes that would greatly enhance their individual or domestic interests. These form the pest of society. "Meddlesome Matty" was amply repaid, when with her grand unspectacled mother near, she spied her grandma's snuff box which is trying to open, with a rudder pick the snuff out by puffing on the lid, and entered thro the channels of the nose into the innermost recesses of her nostrils, engulfed and made her sincerely repent and faithfully promised never to meddle. It is very desirable that these pests of society be cured of this evil propensity and be made to mind their own concerns.

It is also very desirable that in future Sierra Leoneans of Sherbro show demonstrations of joy as an appreciation of the abolition of the whips and horrible punishment of the 22nd and thus add the 22nd of August to the list of our public days. I am certain that most of those who own large houses and lands here own large houses and lands in Freetown, or if they do not, some of their relations own. And cannot you recollect those dreadful days when the whips, chains and the Act of 1827 poor parents were exposed in the streets for not all, who are even today are descended from rich parents, but by dint of perseverance, with blessing of God, they are, what they are? When the fear boxes were cruelly taken from mother by those heartless and relentless Bailiff, who thereby rendered them selves noticeable like the Publicans of old, both to the rich and poor and some of those boxes contained your little trousers and shirts and jackets, and all to be put to the public Auction unless the required sum be paid? And this not only one year, but every year? Some of the weary old souls who groaned under the cruel rod of the oppressors are now resting in peace in their lowly beds under the clods of the earth, and they will smile to see the merchants and principal men of Sherbro participating in the joys of their freedom and sharing in Old Tom and Brandy &c. &c. and loosen for us "poor people" the exhibitant figure attached to Rice. Fourteen Shillings for a box of rice containing only one colonial bushel and five quarts is distressing to the ear of

Poor Rice

Bonthe Sherbro.

SUPPLY OF KOLA.

Colonial Secritariat,
Sierra Leone,
August 9th 1888.

Editor of the "Early Eawn."

Sir,—I have the honour by direction of His Excellency the Administrator-in-Chief to forward the enclosed copy of a letter received from Messrs Thomas Christy & Co., London, on the above subject, for publication in your journal in accordance with the request expressed by them.

I also send herewith a small sample of the nuts mentioned in the last paragraph of their letter, which His Excellency asks you will be good enough to retain, and show to those who may be interested in the matter.

I have the honor to be, Sir,
Your most obdt servant,
C. BARNEY MITFORD,
For Actg. Col. Sec. & Treasurer.

From THOMAS, CHRISTY & Co,

TO THE GOVERNOR W. C. A.

25, Lime Street,
London, E. C.
June 1, 1888.

To the GOVERNOR,
Sierra Leone, W.C.A.

Sir,—We wish you would be good enough to make it known in the local papers the Kolah having proved of so much value, a demand has set in regularly for a chocolate and also for a beverage and we are very sorry to have to inform you that there have been several shipments received lately from the West Coast of Africa of Nuts, said to be Kolas, of which in reality, only a per cent were Kola Nuts, such as we have known and the remainder of these shipments consisted of a nut which breaks into several segments, some appearing of a pink colour, some of a gray colour and there is a skin on the inside of the nut. These is also another Nut now coming forward which has a rough crimsoned edge.

Two varieties of these nuts have been tested and we have just received a dispatch telling us that they are found to have a stimulating action. We need hardly impress upon you the great loss that will occur to all concerned in the introduction of these valuable Nuts if a fraud is thrown upon the quality.

We have at present in our warehouse quite a large shipment of such as we have described above, and for which we can find no use whatever. We have sent out samples of these nuts to the Coast, so that the people can be on their guard.

We send you by this post some of these Nuts that can be shown. We are fortunate in receiving through a Liverpool House today some leaves from a tree yielding one of these Nuts.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) THOMAS CHRISTY & Co.

Timely warning to whom this may concern

Mr. Editor,—It is reasonable that one should ask the following questions:

1. Is not Victoria connected with the settlements of Her Majesty?

2. Is not an officer placed there for the purpose of keeping the public peace, and not to act partial in his duties?

3. Is it that Victoria is insignificant among the stations that such base practices are to be allowed as the using of vague and abusive languages in the public highways to disturb the peace of others?

4. Why then are not proper steps taken for the putting down of such practices by a summons issued or otherwise?

It will be enough for a prudent man to have a single hint Awaiting his reply. Thanking you for space granted me.

Truly yours,
A. VISITOR.

Aug 17th 1888.

TOO MUCH TALK

Mr Editor:—It would please Great grandfather Leonard to say a few words to his ministerial brethren. Sure, "I have no malice aforethought against any." No, not one.

We are liable to imitate the customs and habits of those by whom we are surrounded. A few of these I wish to mention: "My friends." "My dear friends" "I want to say to you this morning" "Permit me to say to you this evening." "I want to say here and now." We have them in the stand—let us say what they wish. When they have their say we will know that they wanted to say it. "Had circumstances been more favourable, I would have been better prepared to preach to you this morning." He wishes, I suppose, to have it understood that the sermon, if a poor one, is not owing to the lack of talent. "There are other points on this part of the subject that could be mentioned, were there time; but, as I told you in the beginning I purposed to be brief, I will pass on to the next division of the subject." While the hearers are wondering what more he could have said, their mind has wandered from the subject, while he has been talking more than forty words. "Many items might be mentioned, but as I purposed to be brief, I will pass to the last thought, and leave the subject with you."

Some of the preachers are fast travellers—do not know how many turns (of the body) across the rostrum in speaking a thirty-minute discourse. Some think they wear out the carpet too fast.
—S. LEONARD—In Telescope

The members of the "Bonthe Mutual Liteary Club" read an address at the Court Hall on the night of the 30th inst in honor of the departure for England of their patron G. H. Garrett Esqr. Act Comdt. followed by a Quadrille party.—

A Purpose In Life.

"What is your plan in life, Neddie"? I asked a small boy turning from his big brothers, who were talking about theirs and to whom he had been listening, what is yours, Neddie?

"I am not big enough for a plan yet," said Neddie; but I have a purpose.

'That is good. It is not every one who has a purpose. What is your purpose, Neddie?

"To grow up a good boy, so as to be a good man like my father," said Neddie. And by the way he said it, it was plain that he meant it. His father was a noble Christian man, and Neddie could not do better than to follow his steps. A boy with such a purpose will not fail of his mark.—Sel.

GREAT Reduction IN PRICES.

THE Undersigned beg to inform their FRIENDS and CUSTOMERS that they have received a fresh supply of AMERICAN GOODS, which they are now offering at the following rates:—

NEW FLOUR Happy Home.
£1. 16. 0. per Bbl.
NEW BISCUITS,
0. 16. 0. per Bbl.

KEROSINE Crystaline brand.
0. 12. 0. per Case.
TOBACCO, per hgd. or ½ hgd.
0. 0. 10½. per lb.

(Delivered in York Island or Freetown at buyers option.).

Other American Goods at greatly rduced rates.

Fisher & Randall (Lmtd).
T. DALTON,—Agent
York Island,
July 2, '88.
tf

ADVERTISEMENT SCALE.
Reduced rates.

(FOR EACH INSERTION.)

A whole page	£1	10	0
A whole column	0	8	0
Half-a-column	0	5	0
One-fourth of a column	0	3	0
One-eighth of a comm	0	2	0
Marriage	0	2	6
Births and deaths	0	1	6
Domestic servants wanted	0	1	0
Servants wanting situations	0	1	0

Each notice should not exceed 4 lines every additional line or part of a line 4d extra.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

F. & A. SWANZY

GEO. LEACH

Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogshead of about 550 lbs. nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand — in similpackages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the Up-River Traders, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A. SWANZY.
ALPHA FACTORY.
June 29th '88. Sherbro.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—Rather firmer the beginning of the week and a slight advance realized for some kinds About 750 Tons sold closing quiet at following.

Quotations "transit."

Lagos £18. 15.0.—Old Calabar and Bonny £17. 10. to £17. 12. 6.—Cameroons £17. 7. 6. to £17. 10. 0.—Benin £17. 5. Accra kinds £16. 15. to£17.—Brass, New Calabar, Niger and Congo £16. 10.—Sherbro £16. to £16. 5. 0.—Aappam, Salt Pond and Winnebah 15l. 10.—Dixcove and Liberian £15. 5. 0.

PALM KERNELS—In improved demand and rather dearer. We quote basis 5 per cent shell "transit"

Lagos, Old and New Calabar, Bonny, Camerooms and Abonnema £9. 17. 6.—Brass and St. Thom• £9 12. 6. to 9l. 15. —Benin and Congo £9. 10. to 9l. 12. 6.—COPRA £12 to 13l fair to good.—Quitta kinds Liberia and Sherbro £9. 5. 0. Common and medium shelly. 8l. 17. 6. to 9l.

BENISEED—No sales
GROUND NUTS—120 bags ordinary in the shell £12 10
COFFEE—more enquiry and about 400 Bags bold berry sold at 50s 6d to 50s 3d

COCOA very quoit
INDIA RUBBER—

Gambia Niggers fair to prime	1s 8d. to 1s 10½d.
Sierra Leone Do.	Do. 1s 5d to 1s. 7d.
Thimbles . .	1s 3d. to 1s. 6d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball .	1s 2d. to 1s 5d.
Soft and Flaky Ball	7d. to 9d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim and Assinee	1s. to 1s. 3d.
Liberian	11d. to 1s. 2d.
Salt Pond	7d. to 10d.
Accra pressed and dried	8d. to 1s.
Do. ordinary	6½d. to 7d.
Flake and Lumps	6½d. to 6¾d.

Steady with a fair enquiry. About 20 Tons African sold at quotations.

GUM COPAL—Dull and only small sales. Importers of Sierra Leone are holding rather than accept any further decline.

BEESWAX—Gambia £4. 15.—Sierra Leone £4. to £4. 5. 0. limited demand

GINGER—17s. to 18s. nothing doing.
CHILLIES—20s. to 28s Demand has subsided.
GUINEA GRAINS and CALABAR BEANS—No sales in the absence of fresh arrivals.

EBONY—200 Tons Gaboon sold cheaper £4. to £5. 10.
CAMWOOD—moderate enquiry and little offering holders of the large stocks in store refusing to sell at present low rates.

Liverpool, EDWARDS BROTHERS.
28th July 1888.

A married gentleman, every time he met the father of his wife, complained to him of the temper and disposition of his daughter. At last, upon one occasion, the old gentleman exclaimed, "You are right, she is an impetuous jade; and if I hear of any more complaints of her I will disinherit her." The husband made no more complaints.

'Early Dawn'

PRINTING OFFICE.

Job Work Done at short

Notice.

Enquire of C. G. BELL, Printer.

GOOD HOPE STATION.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, SEPTEMBER 15, 1888. No. 17.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto. delv'rd in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS,—Communications to J. A. Evans, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gowen, Shaingay, Mr. E. A. Lewis, Freetown, West Africa. Rev. Wm. McKee Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Deputy. Coroner,	Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk	W. Hughes.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Buckner.
Sub Treas. & Col.	G. H. Garrett
Chief Clerk	J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters,	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole
Asst. Exang. Officer	Sulymah Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts,
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Pastor, — Victoria Road Vacant.

Wesleyan Methodist, Pastor, — Lime Street Rev. J. G. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor, — Rev. G. N. Jowett.
Asst Do. — Rev R. C. Taylor

On this page, fourth column, we give about the hall of an article, signed Locus Standi our reasons for so doing are, first, that the part given is all that is necessary, and second, it occupies about as much space as the Article to which it refers.

The Problem of Missions.

The great ones of the nations of the earth have in past centuries of Missionary effort, been largely unreached by the Gospel in its essential potency,—i.e to say the spiritual influence of the truth—hence while in some cases they have been convinced of the reasonableness of the demands of the gospel, and have submitted to its baptism of water, themselves and their children, yet it has too often been the case that the heart has remained untouched or at least unrenewed by the Divine Spirit, and their pride has in a measure continued, and has hindered the progress of that humility, which readily consecrates the life to Christ, and puts the all upon the altar of Jehovah. Again hundreds, yea, multiplied thousands of the world's great ones have not yet been convinced, or have so far refused to admit the Truths of the Gospel. They have in fact, not had sufficient of the heat of the holy fervor of the church, brought to bear upon them, to melt into soft ness their hardened hearts of selfish pride. In other words the real church has kept itself at too great a distance from the heathen world, it has hid too much of its light in some way from the outside world, by the substitution of too few of its number, to "go preach the gospel to every creature," A christian denomination of over a hundred thousand communicants, sends out less than fifty persons to "preach the gospel to every creature" does this seem a reasonable proportion of the church to be sent out when the Savior's command is to every disciple of the cross, "go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature?" Certainly it does not seem so, and to my mind there must be a change, a larger number must in some way sacrifice the comforts of home and friends, and go abroad in to all lands, it may not be as employed Missionaries, but as christians seeking a livelihood, by the labor of their own hands, but ceasing not by day and night to warn men of their sins, and of the wrath to come In this way the church will be brought nearer to the heathen; and its warning voice will be heard in louder strains than now, and then too, the proud hearts of the nobles of the heathen world will be subdued, and the kings of the earth will begin to bring their glory into it,—the Church of Christ.—J. A. E.

To the Editor of the "Early Dawn."

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly grant me a little space in the columns of your esteemed paper, for the publication of the enclosed letters addressed to and received from Mr. C. S. Brown junr., by the Members of St. Mark's Church, York Island.—Whilst thanking you in advance, I beg to subscribe myself.

Truly yours,
H. HALTON HAFFNER.

York Island,
Aug. 30th, '88.

Mr. C. S. Brown junr.,—Sir, We the undersigned members in connection with St. Mark's Church, York Island, desire to express our entire satisfaction at the management of affairs in this station since the reins of the government passed from the hands of our late deceased catechist into yours.

Little did we think, at the time of your appointment by our much beloved pastor of blessed memory to take charge of this place, that you would have been able to work up the station to its present position.

We had began to be jubilant at the fact that you would have been permitted to continue your valuable services amongst us as Agent in charge, but it seems that Bonthe can ill afford to spare you and consequently we are to be deprived of your services.

You have our sincere gratitude for the life and activity you have infused into us. We cannot write much on this point, you know that our feelings exceed our sentiments.

The school children who have derived much from your teaching are not behind-hand in their regret at your departure.

You have our sincere sympathy for the death of our pastor, may a double portion of his spirit rest upon you.

Farewell! farewell!! Remember us in your prayers always, and we will do so in ours.

We remain, yours truly,

[Sgd] H. Halton Haffner,
C. M. Campbell,
T. Fitzjames French,
John A. Kenny,
William A. Smith,
Thomas Z. Lewis,
James R. Teckham.
&c, &c, &c.

York Island, Aug. 31, '88.

Gentlemen,—I have to acknowledge the receipt of your flattering though perhaps well meant letter, containing as it does many lofty sentiments appreciative of the poor efforts put forth to enliven the station during my short stay of a little over two months amongst you.

It appears, from your letter, that you had lulled yourselves in a misconceived security when you thought that my services were to continue here ad illimitum, for it was distinctly understood at the commencement that my charge was to be a temporary one.

I do not, however, think that I deserve in toto the eulogy you have unanimously ascribed to me, you yourselves come in for a large share inasmuch as you were not wanting in your duty in rendering me every possible assistance relative to the well-being of the station.

But we must not lose sight of the fact that our successes are mainly due to HIM from whom we derive all spiritual benefit: though a Paul may plant and an Apollos water, yet it is the sole prerogative of the Divine Donor to grant the increase and Spiritual growth.

I cannot, however, on this eve of my departure sever myself from the work here without some feeling of pain, may the encouragement and satisfaction it inspires continue to abound in the hands of my successor, and to this end my prayers shall not cease.

I thank you also for the sympathy expressed; the death of the pastor is, indeed, a heavy [illegible] fallen upon us all alike: may the father and family in general be endued with grace from on high which will enable them to sum up all christian fortitude to sustain the weight.

I shall not omit to make mention of you in my prayers, and I trust the same will meet with reciprocity on my behalf.

I am, Gentlemen,
Faithfully yours,
C. S. BROWN, Jn.

To Messrs.
H. Halton Haffner,
C. M. Campbell,
T. Fitzjames French,
John A. Kenny,
William A. Smith,
Thomas Z. Lewis,
James R. Teckham.
&c, &c, &c.

"Fools rush in, where Angels fear to tread."

Mr. Editor,—In perusing your valuable and interesting journal of the 31st ult., I happened to find an Article signed "A Visitor," who endeavoured in his out-of-the-way questions to ensnare or implicate into trouble the police constable in charge of Victoria.

In fact, I have no personal enemies in the matter, but as it would be culpably wrong to allow a man to trump advantageously on another's misdeeds, I am compelled from a pure and lively conscience to erase from the minds of your readers and the public the prejudicial notion "A Visitor" endeavored to infuse in them.

Every right-minded person in Victoria (except the prejudiced few who intend making the "Early Dawn" reporters' office) knows the police to be sober, dutiful, and impartial as regards his duties.

I am, dear Editor,
Sherbro, Locus Standi.
Sep. 10th '88.

The palaces of emperors and the halls of kings afforded the royal stranger no refuge! Alas! my brethren, seldom is there room for Christ in palaces! How could the kings of the earth receive the Lord? He is the prince of peace and they delight in war! He breaks their bows and cuts their spears in sunder; He burneth their war-chariots in the fire. How could kings accept the humble Saviour? They love grandeur and pomp, and He is all simplicity and meekness. He is a carpenter's son and the fisherman's companion. How can princes and rulers receive the new-born monarch? Of great ones of the earth, I am but little astonished that amid their glories, and pleasures, and toils and councils, ye forget that he existed, and—not one—accept Christ the Lord of all.

Sel.

A Purpose In Life.

"What is your plan in life, Neddie"? I asked a small boy turning from his big brothers, who were talking about theirs and to whom he had been listening, what is yours, Neddie?

"I am not big enough for a plan yet," said Neddie; but I have a purpose.

That is good. It is not every one who has a purpose. What is your purpose, Neddie?

"To grow up a good boy, so as to be a good man like my father," said Neddie. And by the way he said it, it was plain that he meant it. His father was a noble Christian man, and Neddie could not do better than to follow his steps. A boy with such a purpose will not fail of his mark.—Sel.

GREAT Reduction IN PRICES.

THE Undersigned beg to inform their FRIENDS and CUSTOMERS that they have received a fresh supply of AMERICAN GOODS, which they are now offering at the following rates:

NEW FLOUR Happy Home
£1. 16. 0. per Bbl
NEW BISCUITS.
0. 16. 0 per Bbl.

KEROSINE Crystaline brand.
0. 12. 0. per Case
TOBACCO, per hgd. or ½ hgd.
0. 0. 10½ per lb.

(Delivered in York Island or Freetown at buyers option.)

Other American Goods at greatly rduced rates.

Fisher & Randall (Lmtd).
T. DALTON.—Agent
York Island,
July 2, '88.

ADVERTISEMENT SCALE.
Reduced rates.

(FOR EACH INSERTION.)

A whole page	£1	10	0
A whole column	0	5	0
Half-a-column	0	3	0
One-fourth of a column	0	2	0
One-eighth of a comma	0	2	6
Marriage	0	1	6
Births and deaths	0	1	6
Domestic servants wanted	0	1	0
Servants wanting situations	0	1	0

Each notice should not exceed 4 lines very additional line or part of a line 4d extra.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

F. & A. SWANZY

GEO. LEACH

Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs. nett. Half-Hogshead of about 550 lbs nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand in simi packages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the UP-RIVER TRADERS, Messrs Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A. SWANZY.
ALPHA FACTORY.
June 29th '88. Sherbro.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

—oOo—

PALM OIL—Rather firmer the beginning of the week and a slight advance realized for some kinds. About 750 Tons sold closing quiet at following

Quatations "transit."

Lagos £18. 15.0.—Old Calabar and Bonny £17. 10. to £17. 12. 6.—Cameroons £17. 7. 6. to £17. 10. 0.—Benin £17. 5. Accra kinds £16. 15. to £17.—Brass, New Calabar, Niger and Congo £16. 10.—Sherbro £16. to £16. 5. 0.—Aappam, Salt Pond and Winnebah 15*l.* 10.—Dixcove and Liberian £15. 5. 0.

PALM KERNELS—In improved demand and rather dearer. We quote basis 5 per cent shell "transit"

Lagos, Old and New Calabar, Bonny, Cameroons and Aboinemm £9. 17. 6.—Brass and St Thom £9. 12. 6. to 9*l.* 15.—Benin and Congo £9. 10. to 9*l.* 12. 6.—COPRA £12 to 13*l* fair to good.—Quitta kinds Liberia and Sherbro £9. 5. 0. Common and medium shelly. 8*l.* 17. 6. to 9*l.*

BENISEED—No sales
GROUND NUTS—120 bags ordinary in the shell £12 10
COFFEE—more enquiry and about 400 Bags bold berry sold at 50s. 6d to 50s. 3d

COCOA very quiet
INDIA RUBBER

Gambia Niggers fair to prime	1s. 8d. to 1s. 10½d.
Sierra Leone Do.	Do. 1s. 5d. to 1s. 7d.
Thimbles	1s. 3d. to 1s. 6d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 2d. to 1s. 5d.
Soft and Flaky Ball	7d. to 9d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim and Assinee	1s. to 1s. 3d.
Liberian	11d. to 1s. 2d.
Salt Pond	7d. to 10d.
Accra pressed and dried	8d. to 1s.
Do. ordinary	6½d. to 7d.
Flake and Lumps	6½d. to 6¾d.

Steady with a fair enquiry. About 20 Tons African sold at quotations.

GUM COPAL—Dull and only small sales. Importers of Sierra Leone are holding rather than accept any further decline.

BEESWAX—Gambia £4. 15.—Sierra Leone £4. to £4. 5. 0. limited demand

GINGER—17s. to 18s. nothing doing.
CHILLIES—20s. to 28s. Demand has subsided.
GUINEA GRAINS and CALABAR BEANS—No sales in the absence of fresh arrivals.

EBONY—200 Tons Gaboon sold cheaper £4. to £6. 10.
CAMWOOD—moderate enquiry and little offering holders of the large stocks in store refusing to sell at present low rates.

Liverpool, 28th July 1888. EDWARDS BROTHERS.

A married gentleman, every time he met the father of his wife, complained to him of the temper and disposition of his daughter. At last, upon one occasion, the old gentleman exclaimed, "You are right, she is an impetuous jade; and if I hear of any more complaints of her I will disinherit her." The husband made no more complaints.

'Early Dawn' PRINTING OFFICE.

Job Work Done at short

Notice.

Enquire of C. G. BELL, Printer.

GOOD HOPE STATION.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, SEPTEMBER 15, 1888. No. 17.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto. delv'd in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS,—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to REV. J. GOMER, Shiningay, Mr. E. A. LEWIS, Freetown, West Africa. REV. WM. MCKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner	The Commandant.
Deputy. Coroner,	Wm. Hughes.
Chief Clerk	W. Hughes.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Buckner.
Sub Treas. & Col. Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett. J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters,	J. S. Crown, J. B. Turner, S. G. Cole
Asst Examg. Officer	Sulymah Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M R C S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts,
Warder.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Pastor,	Victoria Road Vacant.
Wesleyan Methodist, Pastor,	Lime Street Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mendi Mission, Good Hope Pastor,	(Congregational.) Rev. G. N. Jowett.
Asst Do.	Rev R. C. Taylor

On this page, fourth column, we give about the half of an article, signed Locus Standi our reasons for so doing are, first that the part given is all that is necessary, and second, it occupies about as much space as the Article to which it refers.

The Problem of Missions.

THE great ones of the nations of the earth have in past centuries of Missionary effort, been largely unreached by the Gospel in its essential potency,—Ie to say the spiritual influence of the truth—hence while in some cases they have been convinced of the reasonableness of the demands of the gospel, and have submitted to its baptism of water, themselves and their children, yet it has too often been the case that the heart has remained untouched or at least unrenewed by the Divine Spirit, and their pride has in a measure continued, and has hindered the progress of that humility, which readily consecrates the life to Christ, and puts the all upon the altar of Jehovah. Again hundreds, yea, multiplied thousands of the world's great ones have not yet been convinced, or have so far refused to admit the Truths of the Gospel. They have in fact, not had sufficient of the heat of the holy fervor of the church, brought to bear upon them, to melt into softness their hardened hearts of selfish pride. In other words the real church has kept itself at too great a distance from the heathen world, it has hid too much of its light in some way from the outside world, by the substitution of too few of its number, to "go preach the gospel to every creature." A christian denomination of over a hundred thousand communicants, sends out less than fifty persons to "preach the gospel to every creature" does this seem a reasonable proportion of the church to be sent out when the Savior's command is to every disciple of the cross, "go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature!" Certainly it does not seem so, and to my mind there must be a change, a larger number must in some way sacrifice the comforts of home and friends, and go abroad in to all lands, it may not be as employed Missionaries, but as christians seeking a livelihood, by the labor of their own hands, but ceasing not by day and night to warn men of their sins, and of the wrath to come In this way the church will be brought nearer to the heathen; and its warning voice will be heard in louder strains than now, and then too, the proud hearts of the nobles of the heathen world will be subdued, and the kings of the earth will begin to bring their glory into it,—the Church of Christ.—J. A. E.

To the Editor of the "Early Dawn."

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly grant me a little space in the columns of your esteemed paper, for the publication of the enclosed letters addressed to and received from Mr C. S. Brown junr. by the Members of St. Mark's Church, York Island.—Whilst thanking you in advance, I beg to subscribe my self.

Truly yours.
H. HALTON HAFFNER.

York Island,
Aug. 30th, '88.

Mr. C. S. Brown junr.—Sir, We the undersigned members in connection with St. Mark's Church, York Island, desire to express our entire satisfaction at the management of affairs in this station since the reins of the government passed from the hands of our late deceased catechist into yours.

Little did we think, at the time of your appointment by our much beloved pastor of blessed memory to take charge of this place, that you would have been able to work up the station to its present position.

We had begun to be jubilant at the fact that you would have been permitted to continue your valuable services amongst us as Agent in charge, but it seems that Bonthe can ill afford to spare you and consequently we are to be deprived of your services.

You have our sincere gratitude for the life and activity you have infused into us. We cannot write much on this point, you know that our feelings exceed our sentiments.

The school children who have derived much from your teaching are not behind-hand in their regret at your departure.

You have our sincere sympathy for the death of our pastor, may a double portion of his spirit rest upon you.

Farewell! farewell!! Remember us in your prayers always, and we will do so in ours.

We remain, yours truly,

[Sgd] H. Halton Haffner,
C. M. Campbell,
T. Fitzjames French,
John A. Kenny,
William A. Smith,
Thomas Z. Lewis,
James R. Teckham.
&c, &c, &c.

York Island, Aug. 31, '88.

Gentlemen,—I have to acknowledge the receipt of your flattering though perhaps well meant letter, containing as it does many lofty sentiments appreciative of the poor efforts put forth to enliven the station during my short stay of a little over two months amongst you.

It appears, from your letter, that you had lulled yourselves in a misconceived security when you thought that my services were to continue here ad illimitum, for it was distinctly understood at the commencement that my charge was to be a temporary one.

I do not, however, think that I deserve in toto the eulogy you have unanimously ascribed to me, you yourselves come in for a large share inasmuch as you were not wanting in your duty in rendering me every possible assistance relative to the well-being of the station.

But we must not lose sight of the fact that our successes are mainly due to HIM from whom we derive all spiritual benefit: though a Paul may plant and an Apollos water, yet it is the sole prerogative of the Divine Donor to grant the increase and Spiritual growth.

I cannot, however, on this eve of my departure sever myself from the work here without some feeling of pain, may the encouragement and satisfaction it inspires continue to abound in the hands of my successor, and to this end my prayers shall not cease.

I thank you also for the sympathy expressed; the death of the pastor is, indeed, a heavy blow that has fallen upon us all alike: may the father and family in general be endued with grace from on high which will enable them to sum up all christian fortitude to sustain the weight.

I shall not omit to make mention of you in my prayers, and I trust the same will meet with reciprocity on my behalf.

I am, Gentlemen,
Faithfully yours.
C. S. BROWN, Jn.

To Messrs
H. Halton Haffner,
C. M. Campbell,
T. Fitzjames French,
John A. Kenny,
William A. Smith,
Thomas Z. Lewis,
James R. Teckham.
&c, &c, &c.

"Fools rush in, where Agels fear to tread"

Mr. Editor,—In perusing your valuable and interesting journal of the 31st ult., I happened to find an Article signed "A Visitor," who endeavoured in his out-of the-way questions to ensnare or implicate into trouble the police constable in charge of Victoria.

In fact, I have no personal concern in the matter, but as it would be actually wrong to allow a man to trump advantageously on another's situation, I am compelled from a pure and lively concience to erase from the minds of your readers and the public the prejudicial notion "A Visitor" endeavoured to infuse in them.

Every right-minded person at Victoria (except the prejudicial few who intend making the "Early Dawn" gre-porters' office) knows the police to be sober, dutiful, and impartial as regards his duties.

I am, dear Editor,
Sherbro, Locus Standi,
Sep. 10th '88.

The palaces of emperors and the halls of kings afforded the royal stranger no refuge! Alas! my brethren, seldom is there room for Christ in palaces! How could the kings of the earth receive the Lord! He is the prince of peace and they delight in war! He breaks their bows and cuts their spears in sunder; He burneth their war-chariots in the fire. How could kings accept the humble Saviour? They love grandeur and pomp, and He is all simplicity and meekness. He is a carpenter's son and the fisherman's companion. How can princes find room for the new-born monarch? O great ones of the earth, I am but little astonished that amid your glories, and pleasures, and wars and councils, ye forget the Anointed, and cast out Jesus Christ the Lord of all.

Sel.

The Early Dawn.
BONTHE, SHERBRO.

SEPT. 15, 1888.

SHAINGAY DISTRICT

In our last issue we published a letter from Rev J. Gomer of the above district giving an account of the disquieting rumors in that quarter, after having set up the communication we sent the Original, to the Commandant's Office at the request of the Officer in charge to be forwarded to the Governor for his consideration, and we are pleased to give in this issue, the reply, we have received by the direction of His Excellency through the Commandant's Office and which fully shows not only the interest of the Government in the affairs of the country, but also the promptitude with which such matters are taken up when communicated in any thing like a reliable manner.

Commandant's Office,
Sherbro, Sep. 5th 1888.

Sir—With reference to the letter from Mr. Gomer forwarded by you to this office, on the subject of disquieting rumours from the Shaingay District, I beg to state that it was duly submitted for His Excellency's consideration by whom I am directed to request that you will be good enough to inform Mr. Gomer that steps have been already taken to find out the grounds for these rumours and that he has been assured by the Chief of Mo-Cassie, Dodo and by Francis Caulker himself that so far as they are concerned they are groundless. The Inspector General informs His Excellency that two Constables who have just journeyed overland from Shaingay via Yaposma, Mentibie, and Senneheo also report that no war news reached them.

Mr. Gomer may therefore rest assured that the Government will not fail in their duty and will always be pleased to hear from him as to how matters go on.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your obedient servt.,
C. BERNEY MYRRAN,
Actg. Commandant.

Rev. J. A. Evans,
Mendi Mission,
Bonthe

Stealing from the Dead.—We have often heard it said of a confirmed thief, "that he would steal the coppers off a dead man's eyes" but we could never believe such a thing possible. Yet we have a case so near like it, right in this place that our faith will be much strengthened in such belief. We refer to the case of the youngman who was convicted and sent to prison the other day for purloining the goods of the late Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, while pretending to be taking care of them; such dastardly conduct cannot be denounced with sufficient energy to make it appear in its true light.

Visit of Rev. G. C. Nicol, M. A.

Retired Chaplain of the Gambia to Bendoo,

On Monday Aug. 27th last the Rev. G. C. Nicol retired chaplain of the Gambia, and father of the late lamented Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A., pastor of the Sherbro Mission, kindly paid a visit to Bendoo, at the request of Mr. C. S. Brown, Catechist in charge, for the purpose of administering the Lord Supper and Baptism to his Parishioners of St. Luke's Church. He came in the new boat lately built and launched by his late son.

He was accompanied by four women and a girl—members of St. Matthew's church Bonthe. On their arrival at Mr. Roux the Frenchman's wharf they were greeted by some of the members of the church and school children who escorted them to the Mission House. After resting themselves a while they proceeded to the church at 12. 30 p. m. The Rev. gentleman admitted four infants into the church by the Ordinance of Baptism and addressed the congregation. over 120, composed of Sierra Leoneans and natives from Rev. vii. 9—12. The service was solemn and impressive—deep attention sat upon every face. After this he administered the Holy Communion. At the close of the service, he went with Mr. C. S. Brown, accompanied by the members and church wardens to the respective homes of the sick members to administer the Lord's Supper; The home of Mrs. Louisa F. Cole, wife of Mr. J. T. Cole, Agent for Mr. Roux, now in France was first visited. He expressed his sorrow for having found her so prostrated by sickness. After giving her some words of consolation and recommending certain remedies for her health; he administered the Holy Communion which she received thankfully and with great joy. It is gratifying to notice that Mrs. Cole when young was one of the many young Ladies trained up at the home of the Revd gentleman. Leaving her residence, he proceeded on to Mrs. Maria Macauley's an old Marroon woman, who is really now in the decline of life; her age is calculated about 90, and she spoke of soon going home to join the Holy Army Martyrs. Some words of comfort were offered to her and the communion administered. On being told by her eldest son Nath. Snowbald in whose house she resides that the Rev gentleman is the father of her late lamented Pastor she replied in great emotion "Are go meet am dey" meaning in heaven. The Rev Gentleman was much struck with the simplicity of this old Lady's faith. Turning to her son, he said, you have a Godly mother and I hope her example will be imitated by you. Leaving this the Rev gentleman proceeded to the last house of the sick where he met four sick persons members of the Church namely, three women and one man (a Sherbro) who had assembled themselves together waiting for his arrival. He gave them a few words of encouragement and directed them to Jesus the Great Physician of their souls and bodies. The Holy Communion was administered to them which they received with much joy. He closed by singing the Doxology.

He paid a short visit to Mr J. B. Wright J. P. son of the late Rev J. Wright Wesleyan minister. Much praise is due to Mr. Wright for the active interest he has always taken in the work of the Church in this place, especially the Treat he has always given to children attending the week day and Sabbath Schools year by year.

After a little rest and refreshment the gentleman with his escorts left the mission House for the wharf from whence they sailed to Bonthe at 6 p. m.

The members of St Luke were highly pleased with the visit paid to them by the Rev gentleman; and his services among them were most acceptable. It is to be hoped that the All Wise Creator, who has hitherto afflicted him in the removal of his dear son and Pastor of the Sherbro Mission by death, will support him and his family in their painful bereavements

Yours,
AN EYE WITNESS.

Bendoo Sherbro
12th Sept. '88

G. H. GARRETT ESQ. Actg Comd't AND THE Bonthe Mutual Literary Club.

On Thursday evening, 30th ult, the members of the above Club presented a farewell address to their patron G. H. Garrett Esq Actg Comd't of Sherbro on the eve of his departure on leave of absence to England.

Precisely at 7 p. m., the members of the Club repaired to the Court Hall and notwithstanding the, inclemency of the weather that evening, several ladies and gentlemen responded to invitations sent them by the members of the Club, About half an hour after, the Commandant accompanied by Mr. W. Hughes entered the Hall when the Band of the "Bonthe Excelsior Club" played the National Anthem. After the Comd't had taken his seat Mr. D. M. P. Thorpe the Club's Secretary read the address which was well prepared and is couched with terms of encomiums of the services and help rendered to the Club and to the Community in general by the worthy Actg. Commandant and patron. After the reading of the address Mr. Hughes (Hon member) was called upon to address the meeting. He said that he was glad to be present at the Hall to hear the address read and that it has given him a good deal of satisfaction, but regrets to say that the Club has been backwards in fulfilling the promise made to the public as the designation of the Club identifies. That there has been no Debate or Lecture since the one held in the St. Matthew's School room, but he hopes it will not be long when the members of the Club will be up to their duties.

Mr. Bidwell Coker, the Asst. Secty, next spoke. This gentleman recapitulated the good deeds done by Mr. Garrett as Comd't of Sherbro, and patron of the Club—he pointed out that the actg. Comd't was a noble minded and philanthropic man, that wherever he goes he leaves a lasting impression upon the minds of those whom he has left and he hope that on his next return to Sherbro he will be honored with the dignified position of Civil Commandant of Sherbro. (cheers and applause.)

Mr. Brighton Turner the Cor. Secty of the Club next addressed the meeting —This gentleman in his usual style took the floor amidst loud cheers and applause. Being a Custom House officer and in a position to know the qualities of Mr. Garrett, dwelt largely upon the excellent qualities of this gentleman, both in his public and private character as being the right man in the right place. He wished him a pleasant voyage home.

The Commandant replying to the address said that he had almost forgotten that there was a Club in Bonthe, for he has been here about 3 months and yet never heard of any lecture or Debate or any other amusements save and except the celebration of Her Majesty's Birthday, and he trust that the members may unite in raising the Club to its proper basis, and he would like to hear of its progress from time to time—Referring to the speeches of Messrs Coker and Turner, he replied that the praise awarded to him was noble, but should be given to those who have assisted him to discharge his duties, he also referred to the names of Mr. Songo Davis and Serj. Johnson of Sulymah in the highest terms.

The vote of thanks was moved by Mr. Thorpe, seconded by Mr. H. C. Jenkins, and supported by Mr. Wilhelm—This gentleman (Mr. W.) who is one of those who helped to retard the progress of the Club by his frequent absence, was on the eve of his departure for the Gambia, he gave a speech much against himself and it is to be hoped that he will set a better example at the Gambia, We remark new! will be published in this book.

After this was over, dancing commenced till about 11 30. p. m.

We wish Mr. Garrett "Bon Voyage'

—[Communicated.]

Bonthe,
Sep. 10, '88.

HOUSE BUILDING

This subject ought to receive some attention, as everyone is more or less interested on this line, as they must have a place to live, or at least to live in some of necessity, being in desitute circumstances, are compelled to build out of the simplest materials, that they can find, but there are very many who have some means with which to build but not enough to erect a large brick or stone basement on which to build a house and many have little or no use for such a basement. This class of people often erect humble houses as to go to great expense to embellish such structures, with windows, doors, and fine interior wood work such as I have been led to admire for its taste and beauty. These embellishments cost as much for a mud house as they would for any other building, and the mud walls will continually be a source of expense, and one soon feel the sense of being in a "dirty mouse," as the common expression goes. How much better it would be, for such persons, while spending their money, to erect something more substantial and neat, something in keeping with the fine tastes exhibited in the interior wood work of many mud houses; and this is now possible since we have cheaper lumber than in former years, as also mason and carpenters at reasonable wages all at hand. French Houses would cost but little more than some mud houses and would be far neater and more pleasant to their occupants, last much longer, and be in every way more satisfactory.—I. Attierd

The Work Continues.—We again, refer to the perseverance with which our local Authorities are continuing to apply themselves to the work of improving our Streets. We have been much pleased to see our New Acting Comdt. G. H. Mitford Esqr. busily engaged in personally supervising the work

NEWS ITEMS.

Sept. 4.—S. S. Formoso from Freetown with Miss P. Macauley.

Sept 5.—Formoso for Freetown with Messrs. C. S. Brown jr. and C. T. Wilhelm.

From Victoria.—We learn, that Mrs. Nicol, wife of Mr J. B. Nicol Catechist, had recently given birth on the 6th inst to twins, for which we felt to rejoice with the parents. But we regretted very much to learn that shortly after the happy advent of the gnileness pair in the Mission house, that thieves broke through and stole a portion of Nicol's valuables, and for this we sympathize with him. Victoria and vicinity seems to be the resort of theives for it is only a short time ago since we saw a man from that way, that had been in gaol for ten days for stealing.

At Yokeh on Friday night of the 7th, inst; the Government pay boat was upset. Fortunately it was near the shore, and although no one was lost yet it was reported that such articles as cartridges &c &c were not found and that Sergeant Taylor with the other passengers have almost had the worst of it.

9.—The marriage of Mr. Geo. N. Jarrett to Miss Eliza C. Davis took place at the Wesleyan Chapel on Sunday morning.

It is reported that the Bailiff of Sherbro in his official capacity at Manoh Bargroo, found a large box containing "Fangay" in the premises of one Farmah Cockay which he ordered to be snuk, and in less than ten minutes the large box had its rest in the deep water.

Mr. Bucknor returned from Manoh Bargroo on ill health.

13—Passengers per Formoso from Freetown Ven. Archdeacon Robbin, Rev. O. Moore, Messrs. J.B. Parkinson, S.B. A. Macfoy, L. Grant, C. S. Brown, Junr & others.

For the Early Dawn.

Dear Editor,—The Editorial of the last issue of the Artizan contains what I consider, a misconstruction of the Article of the Rev J. Gomer in the last issue of the Early Dawn.

Much as I could wish to refrain from any comment on that Editorial, I am obliged to make a few remarks. That the readers of the Artizan may not fail to understand the true meaning intended to be conveyed by its columns, the Editor should be more explicit in his statements to character which that Editorial is calculated to devoid of.

What are we to understand by the phrase "British Subjects, some of whom are involved in the criminal intentions disclosed?" Are we to understand the relatives of the late Wm. Canker, in whose hearts the fire of revenge has been kindled and constantly fed by the seditious articles contained in the Weekly News, and the Editorial of the last issue of "The Artizan," or true loyal British Subjects of Sierra Leone residing in Shaingay District?

The Author of "Read, mark, Learn," in The Artizan has found a moral on the Article in question. "We are our own destroyers." And if any serious troubles arise, at, or about Shaingay at any subsequent date, to incur the drainage of the already impoverished colonial exchequer, and the loss of many valuable lives and property, and bitter wailings in our streets, it is not because the hostile faction of the Caulkers, and their mercenaries (the Mendies) are sure of the justness of their cause, but because they are being daily incited and goaded to revenge and rebellion against the British Government by your restless pens.

POOR BEN

Bonthe, Sherbro

THE CHEERFUL GIVER.

Is loved by God and man. I may say, as the Apostle—God—has declared his love for such in his own glorious word, and the love of man—has shown in ways, almost, unutterable that he loves the human being, who cheerfully confers benefits, upon his fellows, or contributes willingly to any worthy cause such as one, man, however, recreant in other respects will involuntarily honor, because of the kindliness of the cheerful giver's disposition, more than in consequence of his gifts The readiness with which the cheerful donor hands out his gift, is that which gives comfort to the receiver of the gift, and, in fact, blessing to the giver. The cheerful hand is the one that can bestow its little or much, with the best grace to the recipient and draw out the spontaneous smiles of benediction from him who receives in such gracious profusion, as to make the donor feel that "It is more blessed to give than to receive" And yet for all, that such are the pleasing results of cheerful giving, still our World has, in it, comparatively few cheerful givers. A pity for many readers will say, as they glance over these lines, and remember some one to whom they have applied for help, but who did not render it cheerfully; however it might be better for the reader to ask himself the question, "Am I a cheerful giver?" One of the precious few whose mission it is to lighten burdens of the distressed, and especially God's children, in this world of sorrow? Have you given to the least of the disciples of Christ a cup of cold water? Have you given to your minister who for years has been dispensing the Word of Life and Salvation? Have you given to the cause of missions for the spread of the Gospel? And if you have given of all, have you done it cheerfully as you would that men should do to you? Remember that "God loveth a cheerful giver"—J. A. E.—

The Old Tinder-Box.

To our younger readers many of the things now in common, every day use seem as though they had always been. It is not easy for the child of today to imagine a time, not far in the past when there were no railway trains, no steamboats, no telegraphs or telephones no reaping or mowing machines, and when a thousand useful things now familiar had not even been thought of Among the small things which we now would not know how to get on without are friction matches. Yet to many of our older readers the memory of the time when matches were unknown is yet fresh. A writer in Wide Awake for June; under the heading above, tells us how people used to get along without matches, and how strong a prejudice there was against their use when they were first introduced:

"Probably there are few children of the present day who have ever seen, or even heard of, the old fashioned tinder box and matches. Yet fifty years ago the friction match, now so universally used, had but just been invented, and did not come into general use for many years.

"Before the year 1836, or thereabouts, house keepers were obliged to use matches of domestic manufacture. These were small pieces of white pine wood, perhaps twice the size of our match, the ends of which had been dipped in melted brimstone. A small iron skillet in which to melt the brimstone was once a common kitchen utensil in many families in New England, if not elsewhere.

"The only way to light one of these brimstone matches was to bring it in contact with a spark of fire. For this purpose there used to be kept in every house a small tin box filled with burnt rags, and this was called a tinder box. In order to obtain a light a common flint was struck with considerable force against a piece of steel made of convenient size, which produced a few sparks. These, lodging upon the burnt rags, made sufficient fire to enable one to readily light the match.

"Those smoldering rags (for the sparks thus obtained did not produce a blaze) were often very extinguished by a round tin cover called a damper. To thus create fire required some experience, especially in damp weather or with cold fingers on winter mornings. We have known people to make "a bad piece of work" with the flint and steel, and to succeed only with great patience in "striking a light." If one happened to be cross or nervous the chances were that he could not succeed at all. Nor was it an infrequent slight to see the good wife of the house running across the street with a shovel to borrow a shovelful of "live coals" from a neighbor, the chimney smoke of whose dwelling proved that she had a fire. The closings to the match of commerce was one of the first of what we now consider modern conveniences, in many families it was one of the "children's chores" to prepare wood for the matches and to dip the ends in melted brimstone. These matches were sometimes to be bought in shops, but New England economy more frequently led each family to prepare its own. Still it was not uncommon for poor children to make a trifle of money by selling bundles of matches to there more fortunate neighbors.

"In sparsely-settled neighborhoods great care was exercised at night by the head of the household to keep the fire "live to prevention that there should be a good bed of live coals" at the hour of retiring. These he covered with many shovelfuls of ashes to prevent them from burning out. The next morning the coals were usually found to be "live" on raking over the ashes, and served to start the day's fire. It was not an imposed to think preserve the family fire through the year without recourse to tinder box and matches.

"Then the new friction-match was welcomed by most housekeepers, although here and there some old people objected to it, considering it a dangerous article, as no doubt it is when carelessly used or left lying about. The first friction-match invented required to be drawn across a piece of fine sand-paper in order to produce a light. This was called a lucifer, and was much safer, although not convenient, as the present match. Then came the present patent friction-matches, which used to be called "loco-focos." There were no fancy match-boxes in old times, and the tinder box was not considered an ornamental article, but was kept out of sight in the cupboard or on the kitchen mantel piece.—Children's Friend.

Some Celebrated Women.

The mother of Robert Burns was a remarkable woman, of enviable disposition, deep religious feeling, and used to give wings to weary hours by chanting songs of praise and national ballads.

Lord Bacon's mother is said to have been a woman of superior mind, great learning, and deep piety.

John Wesley's mother, Susannah Wesley, has been called "the real foundress of Methodism." She was distinguished by her remarkable intellect, her piety, and her domestic management. When not seven years old John had providentially been saved from a terrible death. The rectory was burned down at night, and its inmates except John had escaped, but he was sleeping in a room which the flames rendered inaccessible. The rector of the family knelt on the ground and committed the soul of the child to God, when suddenly he appeared at the window of his chamber. A peasant mounted on the shoulders of another, and rescued him at the instant that the roof fell in.

"I do intend," said his grateful mother, "to be more particularly careful of the soul of this child that Thou hast so mercifully provided for than ever I have been, that I may do my endeavor to instill into his mind the principles of true religion and virtue. Lord, give me grace to do it effectually and prudently, and bless my attempt with good success." Ibid.

Appointment of an Acting Queen's Advocate.

As Official Gazette dated 3rd September, is in course of public circulation and reads thus, "His Excellency the Administrator in Chief has been pleased to appoint James A. M'Carthy, Esqr., Barrister-at-Law, to be Acting Queen's Advocate during the absence on leave of the Hon. J. S. Donastorg. To take effect from this date."—By His Excellency's Command, J. J. Crooks, Acting Colonial Secretary and Treasurer.

The Administrator-in-Chief looked to in the Bonthe is Lieut. Colonel C. Mosby who, by the advice and with the consent of his Executive Council delights to honor the Hon. James A. M'Carthy, Barrister-at-Law.

We are glad that the fair administration of justice is the interest of all concerned, for the avoidance of a series of systematised irregularities, and to save Bonthe from political jungles and confusion, the Government has wisely decided upon this step

Besides the irregularities which would be avoided, this appointment is a means of a great saving in the economical management of the Government which would have had to pay 4 guineas or so for every prosecution by Counsel engaged on behalf of the Government during the coming Sessions of the Courts—a cost that would more than meet the salary of the appointed Queen's Advocate.

—Weekly News

Sun Shine Again.—At the Commandant's Quarters, since the departure of Comd't and Mrs Mosely for England, the very nicest of gentlemen Capt A. North Daniel and G. H. Garrett Esqr. have occupied the House but some how a sombre gloominess would settle down about the place, in spite of all the geniality of these highly esteemed Gentlemen, this was all banished recently by the arrival of the new Acting Comd't C. H. Mitford Esqr, with his lady, one glance at the windows is enough to convince the passerby that there is feminine presence—a bit of sun shine within. We wish them a pleasant sojourn in the Sherbro.

Mr Francis Caulker, is a frequent visitor to our place and while here last week he called on us, and we had a considerable interview with him on the subject of the vast rumors, and showed him what Mr. Gomer had written; but Mr. C. says that he cannot understand how these rumors have got into circulation as he has had no thought of war or revenge. That he has never been up to buy war or any thing of the sort, and cannot do such a thing.

The Early Dawn.
BONTHE, SHERBRO.
SEPT. 15, 1888.

SHAINGAY DISTRICT.

In our last issue we published a letter from Rev J. Gomer of the above district giving an account of the disquieting rumors in that quarter, after having set up the communication we sent the Original, to the Commandant's Office at the request of the Officer in charge to be forwarded to the Governor for his consideration, and we are pleased to give in this issue, the reply, we have received by the direction of His Excellency through the Commandant's Office and which fully shows not only the interest of the Government in the affairs of the country, but also the promptitude with which such matters are taken up when communicated in any thing like a reliable manner.

Commandant's Office,
Sherbro, Sep. 5th 1888.

Sir,—With reference to the letter from Mr. Gomer forwarded by you to this office, on the subject of disquieting rumours from the Shaingay District, I beg to state that it was duly submitted for His Excellency's consideration by whom I am directed to request that you will be good enough to inform Mr. Gomer that steps have been already taken to find out the grounds for these rumours and that he has been assured by the Chief of McCassie, Dodo and by Francis Caulker himself that so far as they are concerned they are groundless. The Inspector General informs His Excellency that two Constables who have just journeyed overland from Shaingay via Yaposma, Mentibie, and Sennehoo also report that no war news reached them.

Mr. Gomer may therefore rest assured that the Government will not fail in their duty and will always be pleased to hear from him as to how matters go on.

I have the honor to be, Sir,
Your obedient servt.,
C. BURNEY MITFORD,
Actg Commandant

Rev J. A. Evans,
Mendi Mission
Bonthe

Stealing from the Dead.—We have often heard it said of a confirmed thief, "that he would steal the coppers off of a dead man's eyes" but we could never believe such a thing possible. Yet we have a case so near like it, right in this place that our faith will be much strengthened in such belief. We refer to the case of the youngman who was convicted and sent to prison the other day for purloining the goods of the late Rev. G. G.M. Nicol while preceeding to be taking care of them: such dastardly conduct cannot be denounced with sufficient energy to make it appear in its true light.

Visit of Rev. G. C. Nicol, M. A.
Retired Chaplain of the Gambia to Bendoo.

On Monday Aug. 27th last the Rev. G. C. Nicol retired chaplain of the Gambia, and father of the late lamented Rev. G. G. M. Nicol, B.A., pastor of the Sherbro Mission, kindly paid a visit to Bendoo, at the request of Mr. C. S. Brown, Catechist in charge, for the purpose of administering the Lord Supper and Baptism to his Parishioners of St. Luke's Church. He came in the new boat lately built and launched by his late son.

He was accompanied by four women and a girl—members of St Matthew's church Bonthe. On their arrival at Mr. Roux the Frenchman's wharf they were greeted by some of the members of the church and school children who escorted them to the Mission House. After the ceremonies a while they proceeded to the church at 11.30p.m. The Rev. gentleman admitted four infants into the church by the Ordinance of Baptism and addressed the congregation. over 120, composed of Sierra Leoneans and natives from Rev. vii. 9—12. The service was solemn and impressive—deep attention sat upon every face. After this he administered the Holy Communion. At the close of the service, he went with Mr. C. S. Brown, accompanied by the members and church wardens to the respective homes of the sick members to administer the Lord's Supper. The home of Mrs. Louisa F. Cole, wife of Mr. J. F. Cole, Agent for Mr. Roux, now in France was first visited. He expressed his sorrow for having found her exceedingly prostrated by sickness. After giving her some words of consolation and recommending certain remedies for her health; he administered the Holy Communion which she received thankfully and with great joy. It is gratifying to notice that Mrs. Cole when young was one of the many young ladies trained up at the house of the lamented gentleman. Leaving her residence, he proceeded on to Mrs. Maria Macauley's an old Maroon woman, who is really now in the decline of life; her age is calculated about 90, and she expects soon going home to join the Holy Army Martyrs. Some words of comfort were offered to her and the communion administered. On being told by her eldest son, Mr. Macauley in whose house she resides—that the gentleman is the father of her late lamented Pastor she replied in good emotion "Are go meet am dey" meaning in heaven. The Rev Gentleman was much struck with the simplicity of this old Lady's faith. Turning to her son, he said, you have a Godly mother and I hope her example will be imitated by you. Leaving this the Rev gentleman proceeded to the last house of the sick where he met four sick persons members of the Church namely, three women and one man (a Sherbro) who had assembled themselves together waiting for his arrival. He gave them a few words of encouragement and directed them to Jesus the great Physician of their souls and bodies. The Holy Communion was administered to them which they received with much joy. He closed by singing the Doxology.

He paid a short visit to Mr. J. B. Wright J. P. son of the late Rev J. Wright Wesleyan minister. Much praise is due to Mr. Wright for his active interest he has always taken in the work of the Church in this place, especially the Treat he has always given the children attending the week day and Sabbath Schools year to year.

After a little rest and refreshment, the gentleman with his escorts left the mission House for the wharf from whence they sailed to Bonthe at 5 p. m.

The members of St Luke were highly pleased with the visit paid to them by the Rev gentleman, and his services among them were most acceptable. It is to be hoped that the All Wise Creator, who has hitherto afflicted him in the removal of his dear son and Pastor of the Sherbro Mission by death, will support him and his family in their painful bereavements

Yours,
AN EYE WITNESS.

Bendoo Sherbro
12th Sept. '88

G. H. GARRETT ESQ. Actg Comd't
AND THE Bonthe Mutual Literary Club.

On Thursday evening, 30th ult, the members of the above Club presented a farewell address to their patron G. H. Garrett Esq Actg Comd't of Sherbro on the eve of his departure on leave of absence to England.

Precisely at 7 p. m., the members of the Club repaired to the Court Hall and notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather that evening, several ladies and gentlemen responded to invitations sent them by the members of the Club. About half an hour after, the Commandant accompanied by Mr. W. Hughes entered the Hall when the Band of the "Bonthe Excelsior Club" played the National Anthem. After the Comd't had taken his seat Mr. D. M. P. Thorpe the Club's Secretary read the address which was well prepared and is couched in terms of commendation of the services and help rendered to the Club and to the Community generated by the Commandant during his said position.

After the reading of the address Mr. Hughes (Hon member) was called upon to address the meeting. He said that he was glad to be present at the Hall to hear the address read and that it has given him a good deal of satisfaction, but regrets to say that the Club has been backwards in fulfilling the promise made by the people as the designation of the Club signifies. And that there has been no Debate or Lecture since the one held in the St. Matthew's School room, but he hopes it will not be long when the members of the Club will be up to their duties.

Mr. Bidwell Coker, the Asst. Secty. next spoke. This gentleman congratulated the good deeds done by Mr Garrett as Comd't of Sherbro and patron of the Club and pointed out that the acting Comd't was a noble minded and philanthropic man, that wherever he goes he leaves a lasting impression upon the minds of those whom he has left and he hope that on his next return to Sherbro he will be honored with the dignified position of Civil Commandant of Sherbro. (cheers and applause)

Mr Brighton followed the Asst. Secty. of much the same address and the meeting.

—This gentleman in his usual style took the floor amidst hard cheers and applause. Being a Custom House official and in a position to know the qualities of Mr. Garrett, dwelt largely upon the excellent qualities of this gentleman, both in his public and private character as being the right man in the right place. He wished him a pleasant voyage home.

The Commandant replying to the address said that he had almost forgotten that there was a Club in Bonthe for he has been here about 3 months and yet never heard of any lecture or Debate or any other amusements save and except the celebration of Her Majesty's Birthday, and he trust that the members may unite in raising the Club to its proper basis, and he would like to hear of its progress from time to time—Referring to the speeches of Messrs Coker and Turner, he replied that the praise awarded to him was none his, but should be given to those who have assisted him to discharge his duties, he also referred to the names of Mr. Sango Davis and Serjt Johnson of Sulyonah to the highest terms.

The vote of thanks was moved by Mr. Thorpe, seconded by Mr. H. C. Jenkins, and supported by Mr. Wilhelm—This gentleman (Mr. W.) who is one of those who helped to retard the progress of the Club by his frequent absence, was on the eve of his departure for the Gambia, he gave a speech much against himself and it is to be hoped that he will set a better example at the Gambia, his remarks need not be published in this issue.

After this was over, dancing commenced till about 11 30 p. m.

We wish Mr. Garrett "Bon Voyage"
—[Communicated.]

Bonthe,
Sep. 10, '88.

HOUSE BUILDING

This subject ought to receive some attention, as everyone is more or less interested in this line, as they must have a place to live, or at least to oblige; some of necessity, being in destitute circumstances, are compelled to build out of the simplest materials, that they can find, but there are very many who have some means with which to build but not enough to erect a large house or the basement on which to build a house and many little or no use for such a basement. Generally people often erect large and lofty houses at great expense to embellish such structures, with windows, doors, and fine iron work such as I have been led to admire for its taste and beauty. These ostentatious show are much for a small house as they would for any other building, and the mind will continually be a source of expense, and one always feel the sense of being in a "starry house," as the common expression goes. How much better it would be, for such persons, while spending their money, to erect something more substantial and neat, something in keeping with the fine tastes exhibited in the interior wood work of many mansions and that is now possible since we have cheaper Lumber than in former years, as also most carpenters at reasonable wages all at hand. French Houses would cost but little more than some mud houses and would be far greater and more pleasant to their occupants, last much longer, and be in every way more satisfactory. —I. Alien

The Work Continues.—We again, refer to the perseverance with which our local Authorities are continuing to apply themselves to the work of improving our Streets. We have been much pleased to see our New Acting Comdt. C. B. Mitford Esqr. busily engaged in personally supervising the work

NEWSITEMS.

Sept. 4.—S. S. Formoso from Freetown with Miss P. Macauley.

Sept 5.—Formoso for Freetown with Messrs C. S. Brown jr. and C. T. Wilhelm.

From Victoria.—We learn, that Miss Nicol, wife of Mr J. B. Nicol Catechist had recently given birth on the 6th inst to twins, for which we felt to rejoice with the parents But we regretted very much to learn that shortly after the happy advent of the guileless pair in the Mission house, the theives broke through and stole a portion of Nicol's valuables, and for this we sympathize with him. Victoria and vicinity seems to be the resort of theives for it is only a short time ago since we saw a man from that way, that had been in gaol for ten days for stealing.

At Yokeh on Friday night of the 7th. inst; the Government pay boat was upset. Fortunately it was near the shore, and although no one was lost yet it was reported that such articles as cartridges &c &c were not found and that Sergeant Taylor with the other passengers have almost had the worst of it.

9.—The marriage of Mr. Geo. N. Jarrett to Miss Eliza C. Davis took place at the Wesleyan Chapel on Sunday morning.

It is reported that the Bailiff of Sherbro in his official capacity at Manoh Bargroo, found a large box containing "Fangay" in the premises of one Farmah Cockay which he ordered to be sunk, and in less than ten minutes the large box had its rest in the deep water.

Mr. Bucknor returned from Manoh Bargroo on ill health.

13—Passengers per Formoso from Freetown Ven. Archdeacon Robbin, Rev. O. Moore, Messrs. J.B. Parkinson, S.B. A. Macfoy, L. Graft, C. S. Brown, Junr & others.

For the Early Dawn.

Dear Editor,—The Editorial of the last issue of the Artizan contains what I consider, a misconstruction of the Article of the Rev J. Gomer in the last issue of the Early Dawn.

Much as I would wish to refrain from any comment on that Editorial, I am obliged to make a few remarks. That the readers of the Artizan may not fail to understand the true meaning intended to be conveyed by its columns, the Editor should be more explicit in his statements (a character which that Editorial is specially) devoid of.

What are we to understand by the phrase "British Subjects, some of whom are involved in the criminal intentions disclosed?" Are we to understand that the family of the late Wm. Caulker, in whose hearts the fire of revenge has been kindled and constantly fed by the seditious articles contained in the Weekly News and the Editorial of the last issue of The Artizan," or the family of British Subjects of Several Towns residing in Shaingay District?

The Author of "Read, mark, Learn," in The Artizan has found a moral on the Article in question. "We are our own destroyers." And if any serious troubles arose, at, or about Shaingay at any subsequent date, to impair the finances of the already impoverished colonial exchequer, and the loss of many valuable lives and property, and bitter wailings to our streets, it is not because the Rev gentleman (who's Christian and their mercenary motives the Author has a share of the just ness of their cause) but because they are being daily incited and goaded to revenge and rebellion against the British Government by your restless pens.

POOR BEN

Bonthe, Sherbro

THE CHEERFUL GIVER.

It is loved by God and man I may say, as the former has promised to bless the giver and in his own unselfish words, "the latter" man also shows in ways almost innumerable that he loves his human being, when he contributes willingly to any worthy cause which on one hand, however personal in effect proposes will immediately benefit, because of the kindliness of the charitable giver's motive action, more than in consequence of his gift. The readiness with which the cheerful donor has lent out his gift, is that which gives comfort to the receiver of the gift, and in fact, blessing to the giver. The cheerful hand is the one that can bestow its gifts or money with the best grace to the needy, and bring out the spontaneous smiles of benediction from him who receives in such gracious fashion, as to make the donor feel that it is more blessed to give than to receive" And yet for all, that such are the pleasing results of cheerful giving, still our, World has, in comparatively few cheerful givers to be met with, most of my readers will say. We they glance over these lines, and remember some one to whom they have applied for help, and who did not lend it cheerfully, and who it might be better for the receiver not to lend at the question. "Am I a cheerful giver?" Ask of the previous few whose mission it is to help the poor, the afflicted, the sick, the destitute Orphan children, in this world of sorrow? Have you given to the best of their ability? Have you given to the cause of Christ a cup of cool water? Have you given to your mother sister, brother, who has been discarding the World for Christ sake? Have you given to the needy and distressed? Have you given to the spread of the Gospel? Have you been given of all have you done cheerfully as you would that men should do unto you? Remember that "God loveth a cheerful giver" —J. A. E.—

The Old Tinder-Box

To our younger readers many of the things now in common, every day use seem as though they had always been. It is not easy for the child of to-day to imagine a time, not far in the past, when there were no railways, no steamers, no steamboats, no telegraphs or telephones, no reaping or mowing machines, and when a thousand useful things now familiar had not even been thought of. Among the small things which are now worn not know how to get on without are friction matches. Yet to many of our older readers the memory of the time when matches were unknown is yet fresh. A writer in Hide and Seek in June, under the heading above tells us how people used to get along without matches, and how strong a prejudice there was against their use when they were first introduced:

"Probably there are few children of the present day who have ever seen, or even heard of, the old fashioned tinder box and matches. Yet fifty years ago the friction match, now so universally used, had not just been invented, and did not come into general use for many years.

"Before the year 1806, or thereabouts, house keepers were obliged to use matches of domestic manufacture. These were small pieces of white pine wood, perhaps twice the size of our match, the ends of which had been dipped in melted brimstone. A small iron skillet in which to melt the brimstone was once a common kitchen utensil in many families in New England, if not elsewhere.

"The only way to light one of these brimstone matches was to bring it in contact with a spark of fire. For this purpose there used to be kept in every house a small tin box filled with burnt rags, and this was called a tinder box. In order to obtain a light a common gun flint was struck with considerable force against a piece of steel made of convenient size, which produced a few sparks. These, lodging upon the burnt rags, made sufficient fire to enable one to readily light the match.

"These smoldering rags (for the sparks thus obtained would not produce a blaze) were often kept extinguished by a round tin cover called a damper. To thus create fire required some experience, especially in deep weather with a fresh breeze blowing. We have known people to make "a bad piece of work" with the flint and steel, and to succeed only with great patience in "striking a light." If one happened to be cross or nervous the chances were that he could not succeed at all. Nor was it an infrequent thing to see the good wife of the house running across the street with a shovel to borrow a shovelful of "live coals" from a neighbor the chimney smoker of whose dwelling proclaimed that she had a fire. This change to the match of commerce was one of the first of what we now consider modern conveniences in many families. It was one of the children's chores to prepare wood for the matches and to dip the ends in melted brimstone. These matches were sometimes to be bought in shops, but New England economy more frequently led each family to prepare its own. Still it was not uncommon for poor children to make a trifle of money by selling bundles of matches to their more fortunate neighbors.

"It sparsely settled neighborhoods great care was exercised at night by the head of the house to keep the fire. The cook presumed that there should be a good bed of fire under the ashes at the hour of retiring. These by many households of select to prevent them from burning out. The next morning the coals were usually found to be there on raking over the ashes and covered with ashes. Even then it was not an unusual thing for the family fire through the year without recourse to tinder box and matches.

"The modern friction-match was welcomed by most household keepers, although here and there some old people objected to it, considering it a device of the evil one. It must be admitted that for a long while the friction match was not a very safe article to use. It often exploded with a loud report, and left a sulphurous smell behind it. The best friction-match invented required to be drawn across a piece of fine sand paper in order to produce a light. This was called a lucifer, and was much safer, although not convenient as the present patent friction-matches, which are known as 'parlor-matches.' There were many match boxes in old times, and the tinder box was not considered an ornamental article, but was kept out of sight in the cupboard or on the kitchen mantel piece.—Children's Friend.

Some Celebrated Women.

The mother of Robert Burns was a remarkable woman, of amiable disposition, deep religious feeling, and loved to give songs to weary hours by narrating stories of peace and national incidents.

Lord Bacon's mother is said to have been a woman of superior mind, great learning, and deep piety.

John Wesley's mother, Susannah Wesley, has been called "the real foundress of Methodism." She was distinguished by her rare intellect, her piety, and her domestic management. When not seven years old John had providentially been saved from a terrible death. The rectory was burned down at night, and its inmates except John had escaped, but he was sleeping in a room which the flames rendered inaccessible. The rector and his family knelt on the ground and committed the soul of the child to God when suddenly he appeared at the window of his chamber. A peasant mounted on the shoulders of another, and rescued him at the instant that the roof fell in.

"I do intend," said his grateful mother, "to be more particularly careful of the soul of this child than I have hitherto been provided for than ever I have been that I may do my endeavor to instill into his mind the principles of true religion and virtue. Lord, give me grace to do it prudently and prudently, and bless my attempt with good success."

Ibid.

Appointment of an Acting Queen's Advocate.

An Official Gazette dated 3rd September, is in course of public circulation and reads thus:—His Excellency the Administrator in Chief has been pleased to appoint James A. M'Cassim, Esqr., Barrister at Law, to be Acting Queen's Advocate during the absence on leave of the Hon J. K. Donaldson. To take effect from this date.—By His Excellency's Command, J. J. Crooks, Acting Colonial Secretary and Treasurer.

The Administrator in Chief referred to in the Notice is Lieut. Colonel J. M. Mulloy who, by the advice and with the consent of his Executive Council delights to honor the Hon. James A. M'Cassim, Barrister at Law.

We are glad that for the fair administration of justice in the interest of all concerned, for the avoidance of a series of systematical irregularities, and to save Bailiff from Judicial jungles and confusion, the Government has wisely decided upon this step.

Besides the irregularities which would be avoided, this appointment is a means of a great saving in the economical management of the Government which would have had to pay 4 guineas or so for every prosecution by Counsel engaged on behalf of the Government during the coming Sessions of the Courts—a cost that would more than meet the salary of the appointed Queen's Advocate.

—Weekly News

Sun Shine Again.—At the Commandant's Quarters, since the departure of Capt and Mrs Moody for England, the very nicest of gentlemen Capt A. North Daniel and G. H. Garrett Esqr. have occupied the House but some how a sombre gloominess would settle down about the place, in spite of all the geniality of these highly esteemed Gentlemen, this was all banished recently by the arrival of the new Acting Comd't C. B. Mitford Esqr, with his lady, one glance at the windows is enough to convince the passerby that there is feminine presence—a bit of sun shine within. We wish them a pleasant sojourn in the Sherbro.

Mr Francis Caulker, is a frequent visitor to our place and while here last week he called on us, and we had a considerable interview with him on the subject of the war rumors, and showed him what Mr. Gomer had written; but Mr. C. says that he cannot understand how these rumors have got into circulation as he has had no thought of war or revenge. That he has never been up to buy war or any thing of the sort, and cannot do such a thing.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

F. & A. SWANZY

GEO. LEACH

Agent–in–Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogshead of about 550 lbs. nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand— in similpackages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the UP-RIVER TRADERS, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A. SWANZY.

ALPHA FACTORY.

June 29th '88. Sherbro.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

ARRIVALS: "Benin," 938 casks oil, 260 tons kernels. Due "Loanda," 1080 casks oil, 430 tons kernels. Passed Grand Canary: "Nubia," 1450 casks oil, 400 tons kernels, 1040 bags coffee and cocoa, 330 packages rubber.

Passed Sierra Leone: "Sherbro," 1450 casks oil, 330 tons kernels; "Malemba," (for Havre and Hamburg), 860 casks oil, 400 tons kernels; "Biafra," 600 casks oil, 860 tons kernels.

Passed Accra: "Ambriz," 1000 casks oil, 460 tons kernels. Passed Lagos: "Mandingo.

PALM OIL—Sales during the fortnight, 900 tons at an advance of 5s. to 10s. upon our last quotations.

Prices are, "transit":

Lagos	£19 10 0	to	£19 15 0
Bonny and Old Calabar	17 15 0	to	17 17 6
Cameroons	17 12 6	to	17 15 0
Benin	17 10 0
Accra, Addah, Quittah, Pram Pram, Popo, & Loanda	17 7 6
Brass, Niger, and New Calabar	£17 0 0	to	£17 2 6
Congo, Sierra Leone, and Sherbro	16 10 0	to	16 15 0
Appam, Saltpond, Winnebah, Chama & Anamaboe	15 15 0
Dixcove, Elmina, and Liberian	15 10 0

PALM KERNELS.—Have been in continued good demand and close very firm. Quotations "transit" basis 5 pr cent shell.

Lagos, Old and New Calabar, Bonny, Cameroens and Abbonnema	£10 2 6	to	£10 5 0
Brass and Sao Thome	9 17 6	to	9 10 0
Benin and Congo	9 15 0	to	9 17 6
Addah Quitta, Popo; Sherbro and Liberian,	£9 10 0
Saltpond, Winnebah, Elmina, Accra, and Appam	£8 5 0	to	£9 5 0

COPRA—Continues in good demand, at £12 to £13 per ton.

BENNISEED—In good demand. No new arrivals.

COFFEE—A little easier in price. Bold Berry 50s. Elephant 60s. Liberian 53s. to 60s. nominal.

COCOA—Nothing doing.

INDIA RUBBER.—There has been a good enquiry, during the fortnight and a considerable business done. Flake unsaleable, prices pretty steady as below.

Gambia Niggers, fair to prime	1s. 8d. to 1s. 10½d.
Sierra Leone do. do.	1s. 5d. to 1s 7d.
Thimbles	1s. 3d to 1s. 6d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 0d. to 1s. 4½d.
Soft and Flaky Ball	0s. 7d. to 0s. 8½d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim and Assinie	1s. 0d. to 1s. 3d
Liberian	0s. 11d. to 1s 2d
Saltpond	0s. 7d. to 0s 10d.
Accra Pressed and Dried	0s. 8d. to 1s. 2d.
Do. ordinary	0s. 6½d. to 0s. 7d.
Flake and Lumps	0s. 6½d. to 0s. 6½d.

GUM COPAL—Rather more enquiry, resulting in moderate sales of Sierra Leone at 4d. to 7d. without any improvement in prices. Small lot of Accra sold at 27s. 6d.

BEESWAX—Slow of Sale. Gambia £4. 15 Sierra Leone £4 to £4 5.

GUINEA GRAINS—Sold at 25s. 9d.

GINGER—Sold at 17s. very dull.

EBONY—No further sales. Gaboon £4 to £7. Old Calabar £4 to £6.

BARWOOD—£2. 15 per ton.

CHILLIES—Nothing doing.

KOLA NUTS, PORCUPINE QUILLS—No demand.

CALABAR BEANS—Last sold at 5½d., wanted.

MONKEY SKINS—There having been no sales during the fortnight we are unable to give any report. We should recommend our friends to be very careful in buying these, seeing that all furriers will be supplied for the coming winter season, and before the next season comes, there may be a change of fashion, in which case skins are likely to fall very much in value.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool

17th August 1888.

GREAT Reduction IN PRICES.

THE Undersigned beg to inform their FRIENDS and CUSTOMERS that they have received a fresh supply of AMERICAN GOODS, which they are now offering at the following rates;—

NEW FLOUR Happy Home.

£1. 16. 0. per Bbl.

NEW BISCUITS,

0. 16. 0. per Bbl.

KEROSINE Crystaline brand.

0 12. 0. per Case.

TOBACCO, per hgd. or ½ hgd.

0. 0. 10½. per lb.

(Delivered in York Island or Freetown at buyers option.).

Other American Goods at greatly reduced rates.

Fisher & Randall (Lmtd).

T. DALTON,—Agent

York Island,

July 2, '88. tf

ADVERTISEMENT SCALE.

Reduced rates.

(FOR EACH INSERTION.)

A whole page	£1	10	0
A whole column	0	8	0
Half-a-column	0	5	0
One-fourth of a column	0	3	0
One-eighth of a column	0	2	0
Marriage	0	2	6
Births and deaths	0	1	6
Domestic servants wanted	0	1	0
Servants wanting situations	0	1	0

Each notice should not exceed 4 lines every additional line or part of a line 4d extra.

'Early Dawn'

PRINTING OFFICE.

Job Work Done at short Notice.

Enquire of C. C. Hill, Printer,

GOOD HOPE STATION.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, SEPTEMBER 30, 1888. No. 18

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto. delv'ed in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS,—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to REV. J. GOSS, Shaingay, MR. E. A. LEWIS, Freetown, West Africa. REV. WM. MCKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Deputy Coroner,	Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk.	W. Hughes.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. D. Buckner.
Sub Treas. & Col.	G. H. Garrett
Chief Clerk	J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. N. Crowa, J. B. Turner, a S. G. Cole
Asst. Examg. Officer	Sulymah Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon	M. L. Jarrett, M R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Bette.
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Pastor,	Victoria Road Vacant.
Wesleyan Methodist, Pastor,	Lime Street Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mendi Mission, Pastor, Asst Do.	(Congregational.) Good Hope Rev. G. N. Jowett. Rev R. C. Taylor

THE DEATH OF GOVERNOR ROWE came upon us here very suddenly by the Mail of the 22nd instant, and especially so as it occurred we under. stand at Madeira, on the 28th of August. Why the intelligence was detained for such a length of time we can only account for by the late unpleasantness between himself and the people of Sierra Leone.

Our Hope and Fear.

Dear Editor,—It is an old saying that "an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure." It is indeed true that there was no little consternation in this district of country, for fears were on every hand as we did not know what steps were being taken in regard to our protection. Rumours of war reached us from every quarter so much so that we were almost at a loss as to what should be done. However every thing was submitted to Providence and we were only waiting the result. Though the execution of the three men made an impression on the minds of the natives, yet not to that extent as we calculated. In the first place, we thought that after the execution, a staff of constables would be placed here or sent to the interior and stationed if even for six months as that would have intimidated the villains and the savages who are bent upon bringing more misery than what the country is experiencing. Their bloody hands are always ready to be employed in perpetrating their inhuman deeds. At all events the aggressors heard that their late masters (Cogbar and William together with Lahai) had been hanged and as such they were looking to see what would be done by way of protecting us; but when they saw that we were left in such a critical condition, they thought they could fall on us at any time and satisfy their insatiable lust for murder and plunder. However the "powers that-be" did not fail to report what rumours were heard, and so far as we have heard, the passes of any war to this way are closed, and that Francis protested against buying war to ravage again this beautiful country.—But I question his protest—Such villains as Baimbah, Kong Church and Canray Feemah ought not to be left at large as they are, but ought to be sought for and secured at a distance of 3,000 miles from this country.

We are happy to know that the Government is ready to hear all reports of war-threats that we may hear, but we would be happier to know just how we are situated at present. By the way satan is not at rest. He is doing his best to retard the progress of the work of God and at the same time sowing discord among the royal heads. Our hope therefore is in Him who is more than those that are against us.

A WATCHMAN.

Shaingay Mission,
Sep. 8, '88.

"Bring not here a wavering maiden,
Bring not here a useless woman."

Dear Editor,—Permit me to say that one of the vilest and most corrupt habits of those who seem to profess the true light of the gospel, is the superstitious principle inherent in many Sierra Leoneans.

A Maid who had been sent for better training and manners to foreign countries, suspected her girl of having stolen a sovereign; and to prove the fact of the case, consulted almost every gree-gree man in the town.

It is very disgraceful, and unbecoming to see a woman, in the communicants class heedlessly degrading herself and religion in superstition and sensualism. It would be well, if she would in future endeavour to cultivate practically the better principles taught her in civilized countries, than living a life very unbecoming to one of such training. Thanking you for the space I have occupied.

Yours truly,

Bonthe, PRO BONO PUBLICO.

Sep. 10, '88.

The Problem of Missions.

The closing remark of my last paper on this subject was that, the kings of the earth will begin to bring their glory into the Church of Christ. Of course by this I meant, not alone crown heads of the nations, but men of means, of of wealth in the world and men of influence in the higher circles of society, that will draw others in numbers towards the cross of our Slain Redeemer, & to the simplicity of his religion rather than the pompous parade that gathers now around the few great ones that have here and there been brought into the church, many times by compromising measures and who have perhaps been kept in by yielding on the part of the church, rather than by their bowing to the requirements of the Christ. The gospel began to be preached to the poor of Judea, but ere its founders had left the pristine soil of the early planting of the christian church it was preached to the rich and the noble. However for the centuries past the poor have in all lands been most influenced by the truth of inspiration and have yielded to its precepts with the greatest readiness. But while this has been true, it has also been true that greater numbers of the wealthy and influential among men have been converted as the ages have multiplied since the Messiah gave the great commission; and is it not also true that there are more great men that are professing christians now, than in any previous age of the world? Certainly this must be evident to every observer of the practical operations of the gospel. I may further observe that in all lands there is an evident decline in all the other systems of religious worship. The idols of of the nations are being cast out to the Moles and the Bats, heathen Temples are going into decay on every hand in fact the whole system of false religion is so evidently toppling down to ruin; before the steadily increasing power of the religion of Jesus that the time cannot be far distant when the wise and the great will flock to the standard of the Cross. The inflow of the great ones of the earth into the church is at hand and in this there is hope for the increase of money for the spread of the gospel. But that which offers the greatest hope for the spread of the religion of Jesus, is the increase of interest among christians of all lands, for the extention of the Redeemer's cause, the great evangelistic forces that are unifying the hearts of God's people throughout the world.

J. A. E.

Mr. Editor,—Permit me to occupy a small space in your columns for the general information of the public.

Is it true that the Merchants of Sherbro are complaining respecting the constant and present evil of the country by frequent raids that had almost defaced the natural state of commerce and to prevent which they have unanimously agreed to discontinue the order for implements of war? Why cannot they protect the trade by ordering for something profitable that would cause greater usefulness amongst the natives themselves, than to order for Matchets or sword-blades. This dangerous article Mr. Editor, when possessed by the natives, there will be a likelihood to plunder and to kill—and such will give a draw back to the influence of commerce, and their very lives and properties are at stake. I can assure you that a good and quick trade could be secured by the sale of many articles less distructive than that weapon. Many of the natives cannot afford to buy gun and powder, but the meanest of them are glad at the introduction of that dangerous implement.

I would be glad Mr. Editor, if all the Merchants at Sherbro could withdraw if possible their order in England for this dangerous weapon.—Many thanks for space allowed me.

Yours truly,

A MAN AT THE BAR MOUTH.

Sep. 28, '88.

ENRICHED BY GIVING AWAY.—An American contemporary records large legacies left by a Mr. Hugh. G. Guthrie and Mrs. M. A. Guthrie to home and foreign and missions. Commenting thereupon, it gives the following significant facts: Mrs. Guthrie's father died in September last, ninty years of age. After having aided, to a greater or less extent, not less than seventy-five young men in the course of education, most of them now in the ministry, he left the balance of his estate, eighteen or twenty thousand dollars, to home and foreign missions. Mr. Wm. Guthrie said that when he was a lad of seventeen years of age, being one of a family of ten children, he had no pocket money except such as he realised from his water-melon patch on his father's farm. One Sunday a sermon from his pastor, on the subject of benevolence, deeply moved his heart. When the collection was taken up after the sermon he gave every cent he had, the whole sum being between four and five dollars. He said from that day he never lacked for money. He nearly always had plenty of his own, or, if he wished to borrow for a short time

Continued on page 4.

The Early Dawn.
BONTHE, SHERBRO.

SEPT. 30, 1888.

THE RUM TRAFFIC.

Some men think we say too much on this subject, but they have failed so far to convince us of the fact; whether their failure has been for lack of substantial reasons, or from a determined stand that we have taken, we shall not pretend to say; but the fact remains that Rum continues to work irreparable ruin in all our West African communities, civil and religious, and thus the foundations of good society are continually being wrecked and because of these evil results of strong drink we are not convinced that we have said too much, but verily feel that we have not said enough on a subject of such vital importance to the cause of God and humanity; hence we feel ever to add a word or a line when and wherever we can. Slavery receives the attention of every one, and the great question with nearly every British subject and those of most other civilized nations is, how to get rid of the curse of human slavery? But we regret to note that while the British Government, is spending so much treasure to put down the Slave-Trade; Yet it does nothing to put a stop to the bateful Rum traffic, which is the twin brother of the loath-some slave trade, the only difference between the two being that the latter is more extensive in its work of ruin and enjoys the sanction of the civilized governments of the world, and is legal while the other is disapproved of by most of the civilized nations and cannot be licensed for money to fill the coffers of Government, however depleted their treasuries may be. And while we are emphatically against the slave traffic and regard it as an evil, we also look upon the liquor trade as an evil, and one that like the slave trade should be suppressed by national and even international legislation. But the Rum seller we know claims that it is his right under the existing laws of the civilized nations to be deal in spirits and that he feels that no man has any business to interfere with these God given rights; and further we are told that it is wrong for nations to legislate against this traffic since by it a great many men have succeeded in business, and some have amassed wealth. These are claims that intelligent men, are daily advancing in behalf of their liquor business, here and in other lands. But do these gentlemen forget that American, and other slave dealers, even in England urged the same reasons for the continuance of the system of slavery. But more of this again.

ABOUT THE CASH.—Since we penned an article on the "scarcity of cash" in Sherbro, no one has appeared in public print to correct our statement of the cause; but we have been privatly informed that up to that time, at least, no cash from the Government chest had been sent to Freetown, but that Merchants in Freetown bought it up for their Sherbro House s and thus it returned to the merchants Houses here for circulation: but these Houses it would seem have not been able to allow this cash to circulate because of the duties which they are obliged to pay; and cannot depend upon the return of cash for that purpose. But a moments thought on the above will reveal the fact that we were so nearly correct in our former Article; that the only difference is the cash does not go to Freetown as we then stated, but the merchants of Freetown buy it up instead of sending their cash from Freetown to be used here which is after all about the same thing.

TOXIC ACTION.—By reference to our issue of Aug. 31st. you will find under the head of the "supply of kola" in the letters of Messrs Thomas Christy & Co that one of the objections to two varieties of kola nuts that had been sent to England was that they were said to have a toxic action, by this rare term we understand, a slightly poisonous or intoxicating effect and for this cause at least, in part, it is thought necessary to warn parties against its export, lest it should damage the market of kola nuts. Now we believe that it has been proven by many scientific tests that bad rum and gin are more or less poison, and very intoxicating, or may we not say have a toxic action and yet how few in England seem to object to its export to these African colonies, when it has done incalculable harm not only to the market of more useful articles, but is now rapidly paving the way to the general Bankruptcy of the coast trade.

Roads Streets and Bridges—One cannot but appreciate the way that our Streets &c. are now being repaired and improved under the personal supervision of Comdt. Mitford who shows remarkable taste as well as industry in the direction of the work; for a proof of which you need only take a little walk along Heddle or Otto Streets; and we cannot but mention the neat little bridge, with hand rail on each side, that has taken the place of the old corduroy uncle sprainer at the junction of Heddle Street and Mission Road. And we are more than pleased to know that the Comd't. purposes to continue the work until it is finished.

History of our African Mission.

During the two months spent in Germany, I have written 148 pages of a forth coming book to be the history of Missions of the United Brethren in Christ from 1853 to 1888. The African Mission, as a matter of course, will occupy more space in this volume, than any other. It being the only Mission we have among the living then, and costing more money than any other one, are reasons for giving a good deal of room to it. Still greater than these exist, why it should be made prominent in the forthcoming history and among them are the marked, yea, wonderful providences which directed much that has taken place in connection with this Mission. A few of these will be sketched in this paper.

(1). Getting the right to commence the Mission near Shaingay. It was after the writer had repeatedly visited Chief Caulker, at Bendoo, only a few miles from Bonthe, and asked this site, that D. W. Burton went with him, taking along a couple of his children, who were in school at Good Hope, where Mr. Burton was then in charge, and said to Mr. Caulker, "I come with my friend Mr. Flickinger to help him persuade you to give him land at Shaingay for Mission." Chief Caulker was then an exile from his home, and we had often told him if the Mission was established there, it would give him security, so he could return and live in peace at Shaingay. This argument, with the fact that Mr. Burton said if he did not give me the promise, then he should return to him the two children he had brought from Good Hope, as he did not care to keep children at the Mission whose parents were unwilling to help Missionaries in carrying forward their work in that country. The old man looked serious, and Mr. Burton and I determined, and finally he said "you take my children back to Mission, and Mr. Flickinger shall have Mission site at Shaingay." Soon after the Chief did return to Shaingay, and after enjoying his home for nearly 15 years, God savingly led him to accept Christ, and at the age of about four score, he died in the faith of the gospel.

(2.) The birth of Daniel Flickinger Wilberforce, and his name, which took place in sight of of the "Early Dawn" Office, but a few days, either before or after, this last visit to Bendoo, to get site, is another link in the chain of Divine Providence. Never shall the writer forget how the father came to Mr. Burton, as we were in front of the chapel, close to the Good Hope Mission House, and said "Pickin done born at his house last night, and he come to him for name. Mr. Burton with his face turned to me said, "call him after my friend Mr. Flickinger," and so it was done.

Will not go into details how that same providence led D. F. W. to America, and to Dayton Ohio where he received a good education, and brought him back to Africa to labor for six years, and again took him to America to pursue his studies further, and has brought him to his native land for the second time, and given him a responsible charge as the Principal of Rufus Clark and Wife Theological Training School. Many of the readers of the "Early Dawn" know his History well

(3) What a marked providence it was that Rev J. K. Billheimer happened to attend a Missionary meeting, while he who was at college and there offered to go to Africa, and did go, and do good service in opening Shaingay Mission Station, and who, with his wife did good service there for years. The same is true of Rev O. Hadley and wife Rev J. A. Evans, Rev. J. Gomer, Rev J. M. Lesher, Rev W. S. Sage and their wives. In this list of names belong Mrs. M. M. Mair, Rev R. N. West and wife, who have done such faithful work for Africa under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Association, of the united Brethren in Christ. Having visited Africa freequently, to remain a few months, since the memorable events, which occurred at Bendoo and Bonthe in 1857 I am pretty well acquainted with most that has taken place since that time. Volumes might be filled giving details of the work done there by those named above, and others in connection with Bumpeh, Sherbro, and Mendi Missions, which would greatly interest, and instruct the readers of the "Early Dawn" but space forbids any further recital of these in this paper.

That God has led us in ways we knew not, yea, in wonderful ways, and sometimes into dark and difficult paths, is true yet victory more than defeat in-cess more than failure, joy more than grief, have been the portion of those carrying forward mission work, inconnection with these missions. With reduced appropriations, for a few years past, and the ravages of war in this part of Africa and general prostration of business, all against our success, God has still been pleased to bless, and prosper the work done in the schools, and by the itinerants. Now with the return of good times, peace, and enlarged appropriations, from the Board of Missions, the former rapid growth of the Mission will again be realized if we trust in God and do our duty. The Clark Training School in the near future, with the blessing of God, will give us a supply of native Laborers, who will more fully meet the wants of the people, than do some whom we now employ. Thank God we have some good native workers, but need more of this kind.

D. K. FLICKINGER.

Coburg,
Germany, Aug 29, '88.

Sept 16.—Two interesting sermons were preached in St. Matthew's Church Bonthe on Sunday 17th inst. that in the morning was preached by Ven. Archdeacon Robbin from Heb. xiii. 7-8. verses in the evening by the Rev. O. Moore from Deut 36, 5. there was a full congregation. Further reports on the above will be published in our next.

Personal

The Ven. Archdeacon Robbin, accompanied by the Rev. O. Moore of the C. M. S Grammar School, Freetown, gave us a pleasant call on the 18th inst; they were looking well and spoke, on the whole, encouragingly of their Work.

Mr. Z E T. Williams, wrote us the following on the 19th. inst.—

"I arrived here on the evening of "the 15th inst., sick, suffering from "cold and fever, and during the "four months I stayed at Sulymah, I "stayed at Sulymah I have suffered "constantly from fever and rheuma-"tic pains, as my health could not "stand that climate which was the "cause of my transfer to Freetown "in 1886."

Capt J. Patterson of the s.s. Formoso gave us a remarkably pleasant call during the few hours of his stay here on the 22nd inst, and kindly explained to us the cause of his ship's delay, and also the reason of being obliged to return so speedily to Freetown.

Mr. E. A. Lewis our Freetown Agent, arrived here by the s. s. Formoso of the 22nd inst and left the same day for Mo-Sullie; our interview with him was of necessity short, but pleasant, he has since returned

Dr. O Johnson who left by the last previous voyage of the s. s. Formoso returned on the 22nd by the same vessel.

Mr. C. Barthelmett Agent of The French West African Company, who has been absent to Europe for some months returned by the s. s. Formoso on the 22nd, looking well.

Books Recovered—About the 20th inst. we received, via Avery Station, Manoh Gbarbroo, a parcel containing six school Books from Mr Theo. M. Cole our teacher at Konconany with a letter stating that they had been taken by Sergt D. S. O. Pratt and one Mr. Gilbert from persons in the country who were going about trying to sell them; of course they had to satisfy the parties for them, but the books belong to Mophus Station, Shaingay Mission, and it is believed that they were plundered from that Station during the late war. Sergt. Pratt and Mr. Gilbert have our best thanks for their trouble, until we hear from Rev. J. Gomer to whom we shall forward the books.

The Royal Colonial, has very kindly favored us with a large bound volume of the reports of their proceedings for 1887-88 containing the very excellent papers read at the various meetings, and much other interesting and valuable matter. We prize the book very much indeed, and return our best thanks to the Institute for the same, and also for the copies of the Colonies and India received from time to time.

Comd't Mitford & Sanitation.

Dear Editor,—No place or country can be considered healthy where there is no proper Sanitation. On the contrary its inhabitants must suffer and die from the effects of the foul atmosphere they breathe. For the past few months several complaints have been made in your journal about the unhealthiness of this place, caused by the total neglect of any Sanitary improvement. But as I write this for the Press, the aspect of affairs has changed for the better, by the presence in our midst of the energetic and pains-taking Comd't Mitford who is the strictest of all Comd'ts that ever tread the shores of Sherbro.

To prove this, let one go to the public yard early at half past six in the morning and you will find this gentleman on his seat either at the Comd't's Office or at the Treasury performing his duties. He also finds time to walk about the Town to inspect its Sanitary condition along with the Overseer of Public Works and his labourers—On the spot you will find the Comd't with hoe in his hands working (or showing the men how to work properly). To convince your readers of this fact, I would ask them to take a walk in Heddle Street along to Yhandahoo and other places, where they will see for themselves what improvements have been made since the arrival of the new Actg. Commandant.

But then I am not done—As the Comd't is still a stranger in this place and knows no where else than Bonthe I would ask Mr. Walker the overseer to take him to the Mocolo Road and let him see how badly the road is, and how pedestrians suffer by accidents when going over. I believe if that is done, he (the Comd't) will lose no time in putting the road in proper order, as many people now suffer from severe cold contracted during their passages to and from Mocolo, especially at Spring Tide.

We are thankful to the Comd't for the energy displayed in attending the Roads &c., at Bonthe, but we shall be more grateful if he will relieve the community from the injuries always sustained while crossing to Mocolo.—Awaiting to see what the result will be.

Yours, Mr. Editor,
Bonthe, A SUFFERER.
Sep. 22, '88.

PERSEVERANCE WILL SUCCEED.

The man who continues steadily at his calling of whatever, legitimate kind it may be, is, sure if he exercises discretion in the use of his means to get on, it may require hard and constant toil yet he may rely on a successful issue at the end; the exceptions to this rule being when his associations are unfortunate, or there is very great and organized opposition, purposely directed against him and evil geniuses plot his overthrow, even these often fail and the man of push & energy overcomes in spite of them. And the rule, the world over, certainly is, that success crowns the efforts of real perseverance.

If a man fails of success in life it will usually be seen that it is for the want of this element in his character, that when he fails in one undertaking, or it may be two, he does not possess the heart to make the third attempt, which has been in the case of some, the successful one; an instance of which I just now remember of a family;—a father mother and three sons—that were in low circumstances, owned a little farm it was true in one of the Western States of the United States, but it was all they could do to live; some how when the sons grew up to man hood they determined to succeed in bettering their condition; but it went slow on the farm yet they managed to make by hard work a little money with a part of this they tried the Oil regions of of Pennsylvania and failed in their first undertaking and lost most of their little money; but again they made a raise of all they had except the little farm, and as before they failed the second time. However they returned home mortgaged the little farm and borrowed money and made the third effort the result of which was success, and in a few years they became opulent and wealthy, and one of them married a rich banker's daughter and became her father's partner in the business.

Among the most successful business men, it will found that they were men of little or no means to begin life with; but by constant application of the time and mind they have persistently pushed their way up to eminence; not hunting for little work and big pay, or groaning about not being promoted, to higher positions, but by perseverance, in doing well the work in hand, and pushing forward with such force as makes the world to feel their power, and makes opposition to give way before their onward march.—J. A. E

Read our Notes.

Mr. Editor,

Many are the things one has to meet with in a Sabbathless this which tend to do harm to the community. We have often noticed that our Divine Services are generally very poorly attended on sundays, and our presiding Christians rather remain at home than go to church; when asked why they do not attend any place of worship on this day they give as an excuse that Sunday is a day of rest and therefore every one should be at home and go no where. the majority of these say that our preachers occupy too long a time in delivering their sermons, which tire the hearers and cause them to fall asleep, the remaining part of the time, they then forget all that was said and they return home worse than when they went so that rather than going to church to sleep by long sermons they would remain at home and sleep the time away. I am inclined to believe and take the second excuse for I am a regular church goer and I am surprised that I have never yet heard a 20 minutes sermon preached, this is worse in the methodist church, it is remarkable that since the beginning of this year sunday the 23rd was the only time that the Episcopal service closed after the Methodist church. We can safely say that this antique style of long preaching is done away with in other civilized parts even in Freetown. We would recommend this style of preaching to our hard and laborious preachers as it would be more edifying to the hearers and benficial to the health of the preachers, than the 30 and 40 minutes sermon with the usual "One word more" and I am done which takes another 10 minutes.

Passing along the streets during the week we noticed all the Government officials with black crape tied round their arm as a mark of respect in honor of the death of Sir Samuel. There are many of these officials who wear this crape against their wish, for they do not see the force of it amongst this lot is to be found an officer who has not got it on his reasons we do not know; possibly he only forgets that when he is in Rome he is to do as Rome does. The Formoso's late arrival on saturday 22nd caused her hasty departure same day. which has never before occured there was no possibility of many friends writing or sending replies to their friends abroad, one would think that her arrival was simply to bring the news of Governor Sowe's death, which news every one recived in their own peculiar way.

Bonthe, Vox.
1888, 25. Sept.

BRIEF HISTORY OF THE ORIGIN OF THE GALLINAS WAR.

Lahai Jaiah the eldest son of late king Jaiah, and rightful heir to the kingship of Ghendimah is an eye sore to all the Gallinas chiefs as some of them including Boccarry Govenor have an eye to the crown of Ghendimah, and if Lahai Jaiah could be killed they would be satisfied and bury their differences, and unite in appointing a king over the country. This petty jealousy had its origin since the death of Prince Mannah who upon his death bed appointed his son Bye Gbassay to rule the country after his death. And gave him a fetish which would serve him in Governing the country with this strict injunction not to see his face till he is buried. Boccarry Governor and others, attendants on the late Prince, knowing what that means secretly invited the boy to his father's bed-side, and as soon as the father recognized his son he asked him why he came to see him contrary to his orders? he replied that he was sent for saying that his father wanted to see him. The old man knowing that his son wont survive him appointed Boccarry Governor to be king after his death. Boccarry Governor is a son of a slave man belonging to late king Tharkah, Prince Mannah's father who on account of his faithfulness and divoteduess to the service of the king gave him his daughter to wife, and he had by her Boccarry Governor. But he being a slave by his father side the people refused to have him as their king as was requested by Prince Mannah and king Jaiah brother of the Prince succeeded to the throne of Ghendimah. This is the source of the jealousy which has brought and is still bringing war and trouble in the Gallinas country.—Communicated.

Mr. Thomas H. Whyte, brother to P. Z. White, tailor, of this place, died at Cape Coast Castle on the 10th of September 88.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

F. & A. SWANZY

GEO. LEACH

Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogshead of about 550 lbs. nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand— in simi-packages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the UP-RIVER TRADERS, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A. SWANZY

ALPHA FACTORY.

June 29th '88. Sherbro.

GREAT Reduction IN PRICES.

THE Undersigned beg to inform their FRIENDS and CUSTOMERS that they have received a fresh supply of AMERICAN GOODS, which they are now offering at the following rates;—

NEW FLOUR Happy Home.

£1. 16. 0. per Bbl.

NEW BISCUITS,

0. 16. 0. per Bbl.

KEROSINE Crystaline brand.

0. 12. 0. per Case.

TOBACCO, per hgd. or ½ hgd.

0. 0. 10½. per lb.

(Delivered in York Island or Freetown at buyers option.).

Other American Goods at greatly rduced rates.

Fisher & Randall (Lmtd).

T. DALTON,—Agent

York Island,

July 2, '88. tf.

WASHINGTON'S RULES OF CONDUCT.

One of George Washington's early copy-books contains a list of one hundred and ten "Rules of Civilty and Decent Behavior Company and Conversation." Here are a few of them:

"Every action in company ought to be with some sign of respect to those present.

"When you meet with one of greater quality than yourself stop and retire, especially if it be at a door or any strait place, to give way for him to pass.

"They that are in dignity or in office have all places precedency; but whilst they are young, they ought to respect those that are their equals in birth or other qualities, though they have no public charge.

"Strive not with your superiors in argument, but always submit your judgement, to others with modesy.

"Be not hasty to believe flying reports to the disparagement of any.

"Take all admonitions thankfully, in what time or place soever given; but afterward, not being culpable, take a time or place convenient to let him know it that gave them.

"Think before you speak; pronounce not imperfectly, nor bring out your words too hastly; but orderly and distinctly.

"Speak not evil of the absent for it is unjust.

"Make no show of taking great delight in your victuals; feed not with greediness; cut your bread with a knife; lean not on the table; neither find fault with what you eat.

"Be not angry at the table, whatever happens, and if you have reason to be so, show it not; put on a cheerful countenance, especially if there be strangers; for good humour makes one dish of meat a feast

"Let your recreations be manful, not sinful.

"Labor to keep alive in your breast that little spark of celestial fire called conscience."

These are not unwise rules. They touch on things great and small. The difficulty with most boys would be to follow one hundred and ten of them. They serve, however, to show what was the standard of good manners and morals among those who had the the training of George Washington. Sel.

Enriched by Giving Away.

(Concluded from Page 1.)

He could always get just as much as he desired. During his long life he gave away many thousands of dollars, and would have given more if he could have turned his real estate into ready money. "Honour the Lord with thy substance, and with the firstfruits of all thy increase: so shall thy barns be filled with plenty, and thy presses shall burst out with new wine" (prov. iii. 9, 10). Sel.

THE LATE MAJOR A. MORTON FESTINO,

Asst. Colonial Secretary and Treasurer, Aborigines Branch H M Commissioner to Samoda

"There is one tribute, at least due to the past exertions and to the final close of the career of public men the value of which is important in the same proportion as it is instantaneous, that is the expression of public sympathy—of public sympathy unasked, unsolicited unsought for, from all quarters and all classes of society." We offer that tribute to-day to one who has succumbed in the service of his country in an arduous and difficult journey to the far interior, to one who apart, from all natual differences of opioion, has always been esteemed by us as one of the most energetic, clever and willing officers of the Colonial Civil Service of this Settlement.

The late Major AUGUSTUS MORTON FESTINO, first arrived in the Settlement on Special Service with Sir SAMUEL ROWE in 1885, and was one of the staff who accompanied Sir SAMUEL ROWE on the Sulymah expedition of that year, shortly after which he was appointed as Assistant Colonial Secretary and Treasurer of the Aborigines Branch of the Secretariat In the same year and during the early part of 1886 he was employed on service in the Masimmerah District; in 1887 he was sent on a mission to Bumban in the Biriwah Limbah Country about 79 miles from Port Lokkoh and on his return he joined Sir SAMUEL ROWE at Bathurst Gambia from which place he returned during the latter part of 1887 and proceeded on his mission to Samodu on the 18th of January 1888. He succeeded. we are informed, in reaching the Bambara Country about 659 miles from Port Lokkoh and there saw Samodu, but on the return journey fell ill at Bisandu and died on the 17th of August at Sininkoroh in the Sangara Country where he was buried.

By his death much that would have been interesting & instructive with reference to his last journey is lost to those who mourn the loss of one who has succumbed, in his attempt to open up communication with the great Alimami.

We mourn his loss with deep and unfeigned regret and we cannot but express our sincere sympathy with all connected with him in their bereavement. In the prime of life, on the eve of reaping the results of his labor he has been suddenly cut off.

"But we'll say not he really is dead,—
For glory can never decay;
From the scene of its triumph the spirit has fled,
But Memory enshrines it for aye.
For he set in the noon of his fame
He fell in the hour of his pride
And sad many lamenting shall hallow his name,
And tell how the Major has died."

—Weekly News.

A saloon-keeper remarked that he never allowed his son to enter the barroom. On hearing this a young man who had been a hard drinker said, "If the rum seller will not permit his son to enter the bar-room I never will enter it again." Boys, keep out of the saloon, the pool-room, and ten-pin alley; for you are safe only on the outside.

It is not possible to live in the world, even though we only tread it under our feet, without being soiled by its dust

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, OCTOBER 16, 1888. No. 19.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto, delv'd in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to REV. J. GOMER, Shainday, Mr. E. A. LEWIS, Freetown, West Africa. REV. WM. MCKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Deputy Coroner,	Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk	W. Hughes.
Interpreter	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Lockner.
Sub-Treas. & Col Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole
Asst. Examg. Officer	Sulymah Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Bette,
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Pastor,	Victoria Road Vacant.
Wesleyan Methodist, Pastor,	Lime Street Rev. J. C. Thomas
Nendi Mission, Pastor, Asst Do.	(Congregational.) Good Hope Rev. G. N. Jowett· Rev R. C. Taylor

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the "Christian Temperance Army" of Sherbro Mission, Shainday, it was arranged that the secretary the Rev. D. F. Wilberforce prepare an address on the subject "Our young people and their future." Accordingly the Society met on the evening of the 29th August last in the Chapel Room of the Rev. Clark and wife Theological Training School and address was delivered.

After delivery, a rising vote of thanks was given to our worthy secretary for the able manner in which the address was delivered, and the many impressive thoughts that it contained. By appointment of the President Rev J. Gomer I was then authorized to get a copy of that address and send same to the "Early Dawn" for Publication.

We trust however that as it goes to the Press, it will prove a lasting benefit and also to the indelible impressions on the minds of the young readers of this valuable journal.

H. J. WILLIAMS

Chaplain of the "Christian Temperance Army" Shainday Mission.

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE AND THEIR FUTURE.

Mr. President and Young Ladies & Gentlemen,—For the accomplishment of any undertaking or the attainment of any appreciable object, you must take into consideration this fact, that it will require time and effort. I cannot think of any worthy object that has been acquired without the expenditure of time and effort. The Great Pyramid at Gizeh in Egypt, was, as it is said, 30 years in building. During that period a force of about 300 men were constantly engaged at work upon it. Each force of three hundred working for a month, when they were relieved by a new force.

It required time, and necessitated a great effort to retrieve human redemption. When you consider how many centuries elapse from the Fall, to the advent of the Messiah, you may wonder at the delay. But a closer investigation teaches us, that even in this work, time was required before the world could be prepared for the advent. And when the "fulness of time came," God sent forth his son. Need I tell you that a mighty effort was required to reach this end, even the "rising early and sending of prophets" Our means are too limited to arrive at a computation of the cost of redemption, a remotely approximate idea, may be gathered from the cost of the Tabernacle, with its daily sacrifices, of the Temple and all that entered into the unfolding of the wonderful plan.

We have beings in the present, and yet we live in dreams of the future Our thoughts are constantly reverting to the future. There is somehow a something in the future to which we tend, heaven born I call it, which like that force that constantly attracts the magnetic needle northward, attracts us to the future. The aged and the young, all have their dreams. The young student as he burns the midnight oil, looks forward down the years, to the time when that work will be done and he reap his reward. Every boy has his ideal manhood in somebody who is the hero of his dreams; whose acts he admires and whose deeds he wishes to imitate. One has his model in George Washington, the great Gladstone, Hannibal, Spurgeon or in some of the modern heroes of his race. Worthy ambition, boys, you may be a Hannibal, a Cæsar, a Gladstone, a Talmage, and it is within the range of possibility that you may excel them all.

But all boys dont dream alike, some will pass by all those whom they would delight to honor, and fancy there is no glory except in being a clown, or a warrior. I remember that while I was in the city of Cleveland, (U. S. A.) there was there the much talked of champion fighter and athlete John Sullivan. For days little boys put on the air and swing of Sullivan, he was the ideal hero of many a boy's dream after that visit. It is also possible to attain to the highest place as an athlete, and be even greater brutes than those warriors who came to see us last year. That boy is not so small that he cannot dream. My little boy wanted to know from me if he would one day when he gets "big" wear pants as long as mine, (for mine went down 'to the ankles while his have only got as far as the knees.) Oh yes, I replied, they may be longer. That boy you see has his dreams. Yet boys to fulfil these pleasant dreams will require time and effort. It will take time and effort to earn the money before you can wear pants like your papa. It takes a long time to fulfil some dreams, while others seem to take a much shorter period.

Have you ever read boys of Joseph and his dreams? He was but a lad 17 years of age perhaps less when he dreamed. His brethren were angry because they believed the dream was of God. But see how long he had to wait—1 year, 5 years, 10 years, still the dream has no fulfilment. In those years he suffered; in the hands of his brethren, and in Egypt where he found himself a slave. But the 13th year came and the fulfilment of the dream was realized. Far above what Joseph ever expected. The experience of many men is the same. They will tell you they had to wait and endure much before God opened the windows to them and poured down his blessing. I know you are in a hurry to get to the end of the dream; it is not an easy thing to do, but boys, you must wait.

The following incident occurred during the early days of Fourah Bay College in Freetown, when some students began to look to the future, and their destiny. It was also the early days of the colony when positions of importance in Church and State were held by white men. Naturally a question arose as to what prospects a black man had under the circumstances. Two of three students among whom the question arose, took the darker view that the subject presented "Black man will never rise" was their favorite expression. "Look around, what do you see black man doing?" The white man is doing every thing."

One alone held to the view, that the black man would rise, and that the race was not doomed, and although he heard the taunting words from young men of his race, he determined that for himself at least, the future would determine the question. College days over the young men entered the arena to contend in the race of life. The two who had maintained the darker view of the subject, entered the ministry hoping in this way to be humble instruments in benefiting their countrymen. A few years past, and one of them was appointed to act as Assistant Colonial Chaplain. The other whom for convenience we call G. D. held another important post in the church of England, in which both became eminent ministers. Soon after the appointment, the newly made Chaplain, whom we call W met in the street his former class-mate M. who was also in a good position in accordance with his former hopeful view of his race prospects After preliminary words of greeting and congratulations M. says to Rev. W. "How is it now, will black man rise"? "Ah" replied W, M. you were right. And what do you think G. D. our former class-mate M. was on his way to his new Station the other day, and hearing of my appointment, called to see me. After coming up two the flights of steps leading to my apartment, he said 'boss' (dear class) I must weep here today! It may will not be told me a few years ago that I would ever place my feet upon this floor, I would have thought it a thing impossible' so you see M, my friend, you were right' I will ado that M, is now holding a very important post in Her Majesty's Government.

I dare say the girls, rather young ladies have their dreams. Night and day they are dreaming, you boys can't come up to them, for one girl's head is full of more dreams than half a dozen ordinary boys. Their dreams are about dresses, and handkerchiefs and jewels and husbands. But I am not of that sex, but you young ladies know all about it dont you? They each have some particular to dream about. Some of these ideals of fashion may be seen on the street You girls want to be like lady A. or D. or like her daughters. They want more freedom They begin to feel the restraints of home life. You wonder what's the matter with your girl, why she is dreaming. Yes I would tell the ladies a wrong (and I would not do you an injustice) to say all their dreams were of dresses and hats and beaux and husbands. There are many of them who are dreaming of a future blessed by noble deeds done to the fellow humanity; scenes to be made, observed and happy. Time, and effort, and it may be also a farmer or a great merchant or a statesman, but you can't simply wave your hand as a road that magicians do, and realize these things to be. You would laugh at the the man who gives up farming or any pursuit, because things dont come up at his simple wish. I have heard of "mushroom men" who grew up in a night. Such persons start up all at once. Mr. A. becomes a rich man very suddenly. So great men, but real life all the same. Here and experience strikes them or many years even stand under the light of favourable circumstances. You know of men who have not had the education that many of you have now, yet they make a sudden start and do well.

Boys, don't you start to do something, and then give up trying, labouring? Will you try at a bound to leap where they and Daniel attempt it, for you will succeed? But the world is not built upon the work of such men. They may be honest enough in their might but how you be their law. "Labor, patience, effort, hope-fulness, little by little," step at a time, The upset line, To climb the Thrones is no excellence without labour.

You have here young friends your Day High School, with the advantages it holds out, and then you are now on the threshold of your own fortune. Neither the ministry, nor your missionaries and teachers, can lead you to the goal in the distance. The noble bestead with gems bid you God speed, for your dreams take a healthy shape. Let them be about noble lives. Their names of a few blessed with noble deeds, of a name worthy to be remembered, is your destiny. If your path may be beset with difficulties, may be met and subdued, and the fear of God.

There are healthful forms of humanity that would cause a sight more, to dream about them. That power of humanity, developed and tainted by many vices and shortcomings is a mere wreck, not a specimen of humanity But tad as the picture is, and loathsome the sight, it is your destiny if on the other hand your life is spent in idleness, and in temperate habits. If the golden rules of absolutely and virtue are disregarded. If the fear of God is not kept before your eyes, it is yourselves that you see in the hideous forms that disturb your dreams and to the loathsomeness that they have lived. A warning to remind one that they must appear created in the image of God. Prove noble and may Christ save you.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island

SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

F & A. SWANZY

GEO LEACH

Agent-in Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1256 lbs. nett, Half-Hogshead of about 550 lbs. nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand in similar packages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the UP-RIVER TRADERS. Messrs Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A SWANZY

ALPHA FACTORY.

June 29th '88. Sherbro.

GREAT Reduction IN PRICES.

THE Undersigned beg to inform their FRIENDS and CUSTOMERS that they have received a fresh supply of AMERICAN GOODS, which they are now offering at the following rates;

NEW FLOUR Happy Home.

£1. 16. 0. per Bbl.

NEW BISCUITS,

0. 16. 0 per Bbl.

KEROSINE Crystaline brand

50. 12. 0. per Case.

TOBACCO, per hgd. or ½ hgd.

0. 0. 10½. per lb.

(Delivered in York Island or Freetown at buyers option.).

Other American Goods at greatly reduced rates.

Fisher & Randall (Lmtd).

T. DALTON,—Agent

York Island,

July 2, '88, tf

WASHINGTON'S RULES OF CONDUCT.

One of George Washington's early copy-books contains a list of one hundred and ten "Rules of Civility and Decent Behavior Company and Conversation." Here are a few of them:

"Every action in company ought to be with some sign of respect to those present.

"When you meet with one of greater quality than yourself stop and retire, especially if it be at a door or any strait place, to give way for him to pass.

"They that are in dignity or in office have all places precedency, but whilst they are young, they ought to respect those that are their equals in birth or other qualities, though they have no public charge.

"Strive not with your superiors in argument, but always submit your judgement, to others with modesy.

"Be not hasty to believe flying reports to the disparagement of any.

"Take all admonitions thankfully, in what time or place soever given; but afterward, not being culpable, take a time or place convenient to let him know it that gave them.

"Think before you speak; pronounce not imperfectly, nor bring out your words too hastily, but orderly and distinctly.

"Speak not evil of the absent for it is unjust.

"Make no show of taking great delight in your victuals; feed not with greediness; cut your bread with a knife; lean not on the table; neither find fault with what you eat.

"Be not angry at the table whatever happens, and if you have reason to be so, show it not; put on a cheerful countenance, especially if there be strangers; for good humour makes one dish of meat a feast

"Let your recreations be manful, not sinful.

"Labor to keep alive in your breast that little spark of celestial fire called conscience."

These are not unwise rules. They touch on things great and small. The difficulty with most boys would be to follow one hundred and ten of them. They serve, however, to show what was the standard of good manners and morals among those who had the the training of George Washington. Sel.

Enriched by Giving Away.

(Concluded from Page 1.)

He could always get just as much as he desired. During his long life he gave away many thousands of dollars, and would have given more if he could have turned his real estate into ready money. "Honour the Lord with thy substance, and with the firstfruits of all thy increase: so shall thy barns be filled with plenty, and thy presses shall burst out with new wine" (prov. iii. 9, 10). Sel.

THE LATE MAJOR A. MORTON FESTINO.

Asst. Colonial Secretary and Treasurer, Aberigbinn Branch H. M. Commission to Sanusha.

"There is one tribute, at least due to the past exertions and to the final close of the career of public men the value of which is important in the same proportion as it is instantaneous, that is the expression of public sympathy, of public sympathy unasked, unsolicited unsought for, from all quarters and all classes of society." We offer that tribute to-day to one who has succumbed in the service of his country in an arduous and difficult journey to the far interior, to one who, apart, from all natual differences of opinion, has always been esteemed by us as one of the most energetic, clever and willing officers of the Colonial Civil Service of this Settlement.

The late Major AUGUSTUS MORTON FESTINO, first arrived in the Settlement on Special Service with Sir SAMUEL ROWE in 1885; and was one of the staff who accompanied Sir SAMUEL ROWE of the Sulymah expedition of that year, shortly after which he was appointed as Assistant Colonial Secretary and Treasurer of the Aborigines Branch of the Secretariat In the same year and during the early part of 1886 he was employed on service in the Massimmerah District; in 1887 he was sent on a mission to Bundan in the Biriwah Limbah Country about 79 miles from Port Lokkoh and on his return he joined Sir SAMUEL ROWE at Bathurst Gambia from which place he returned during the latter part of 1887 and proceeded on this mission to Samodu on the 18th of January 1888. He succeeded, we are informed, in reaching the Bambara Country about 650 miles from Port Lokkoh and there saw Samodu, but on the return journey fell ill at Bissidu and died on the 17th of August at Sininkoroh in the Savagara Country where he was buried.

By his death much that would have been interesting & instructive with reference to his last journey is lost to those who mourn the loss of one who has succumbed, in his attempt to open up communication with the great Alimami.

We mourn his loss with deep and unfeigned regret and we cannot but express our sincere sympathy with all connected with him in their bereavement. In the prime of life, on the eve of reaping the results of his labor he has been suddenly cut off.

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

A saloon-keeper remarked that he never allowed his son to enter the barroom. On hearing this a young man who had been a hard drinker said, "If the rum seller will not permit his son to enter the bar room I never will enter it again." Boys, keep out of the saloon, the pool room, and ten-pin alley; for you are safe only on the outside.

It is not possible to live in the world, even though we do by tread it under our feet, without being soiled by its dust

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, OCTOBER 16, 1888. No. 19.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail, £0 6 0

Delivered in Bonthe, 0 5 0

Half yearly by Mail, 0 3 0

Ditto, deliv'ed in Bonth, 0 2 6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. BLAKE, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GRAVES, Shamorie, Mr. E. A. BLAKE, Freetown, West Africa, Rev. Wm. MCKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Deputy Coroner.	Wm. Hughes.
Court Clerk.	W. Taylor.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Buckner.
Sec. Treas. & Col. Chief Clerk.	G. H. Garrett. J. D. Macauley.
Tele Workers.	J. S. Crown, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole.
Asst. Examg. Officer Sulymah.	Jasper Cuffker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser.	Rowland May.
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Bette.
Gaoler.	J. A. Denuis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road Picton,	Vacant.
Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street Parsonage,	Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mende Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor,	Rev. G. N. Jowett.
Asst Do.	Rev R. C. Taylor

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the "Christian Temperance Army" of Sierra Leone Mission, it was arranged that the secretary the Rev. D. F. Wilberforce prepare an address on the subject "Our young people and the future." Accordingly the Society met on the evening of the 23rd August last in the Cooper Room of the Rev. Clark and an interesting Training School and address was delivered.

After delivery, a rising vote of thanks was given to our worthy secretary for the able manner in which the address was delivered, and the many impressive thoughts that it contained By appointment of the President Rev J. Gomer I was then authorized by the Corps of Army to ask some one to hand the "Early Dawn" for Publication.

We trust however that as it goes to the Press, it will prove a lasting benefit and also make indelible impressions on the minds of the young readers of this valuable journal.

H. J. WILLIAMS

Chaplain of the "Christian Temperance Army" Shangay Mission

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE AND THEIR FUTURE.

Mr. President and Young Ladies & Gentlemen,—For the accomplishment of any undertaking or the attainment of any appreciable object, you must take into consideration this fact, that it will require time and effort. I cannot think of any worthy object that has been acquired without the expenditure of time and effort. The Great Pyramid at Gizeh in Egypt, was, as it is said, 30 years in building During that period a force of about 360 men were constantly engaged at work upon it. Each force of these hundred men would be prepared for the advent. And when the "fulness of time came," God sent forth his son. Need I tell you that a mighty effort was required to reach this end, even the "rising early and sending of prophets" Our means are too limited to arrive at a computation of the cost of redemption, a remotely approximate idea, may be gathered from the cost of the Tabernacle, with its daily sacrifices of the Temple, and all that entered into the unfolding of the wonderful plan.

We have beings in the present, and yet we live in dreams of the future Our thoughts are constantly reverting to the future. There is something in the future to which we tend, heaven born I call it, which like that force that constantly attracts the magnetic needle northward, attracts us to the future. The aged and the young, all have their dreams. The young student as he burns the midnight oil, looks forward down the years, to the time when that work will be done and he reap his reward. Every boy has his ideal manhood to which he aspires. Somebody who is the hero of his dreams; whose acts he admires and whose deeds he wishes to imitate. One has his model in George Washington, the great Gladstone, Hannah Spurgeon or in some of the modern heroes of his race. Worthy ambition, boys, you may be a Hannibal, a Cæsar, a Gladstone, a Tanagre, and it is within the range of possibility that you may excel them all.

But all boys dont dream alike, some will pass by all those whom the world delight to honor, and fancy there is no glory except in being a clown, or a warrior. I remember that while I was in the city of Cleveland, (U.S.A.) there came there the much talked of champion fighter and athlete John Sullivan. For days little boys put on the air and swing of Sullivan, he was the ideal hero of many a boy's dream after that visit. It is also possible to attain to the highest place as an athlete, and be even greater brutes than those warriors who came to see us last year. That boy is not so much that he cannot dream. My little boy wanted to know from me if he would one day when he gets "big" wear pants as long as mine, (for mine went down to the ankles while his have only got as far as the knees.) Oh yes, I replied, they may be longer. That boy you see has his dreams. Yet boys to fulfil these pleasant dreams will require time and effort. It will take time and effort to earn the money before you can wear pants like your papa's. It takes a long time to fulfil some dreams, while others seem to take a much shorter period.

Have you ever read boys of Joseph and his dreams? He was but a lad 17 years of age perhaps less when he dreamed. His brethren were angry because they believed the dream was of God. But see how long he had to wait—1 year, 5 years, 10 years, still the dream has no fulfilment. In those years he suffered; in the hands of his brethren, and in Egypt where he found himself a slave. But the 13th year came and the fulfilment of the dream was realized. Far above what Joseph ever expected. The experience of many men is the same. They will tell you they had to wait and endure much before God opened the windows to them and poured down his blessing. I know you are in a hurry to get to the end of the dream; it is not an easy thing to do, but boys, you must wait.

The following incident occurred during the early days of Fourah Bay College in Freetown when some students began to look to the future, and their destiny. It was also the early days of the colony when positions of importance in Church and State were held by white men. Naturally a question arose as to what prospects a black man had under the circumstances. Two of three students among whom the question arose, took the darker view that the subject presented "Black man will never rise" was their favorite expression. "Look around, what do you see black man doing?" The white man is doing every thing."

One of one held to the view, that the black man would rise, and that the race was not doomed, and although he heard the taunting words from young men of his race, he determined that for himself at least, the future would determine the question. College days over the young man entered the arena to contend in the race of life. The one who had manifested the darker view of the subject, entered the ministry hoping in this way to be humble instruments in benefiting their countrymen. A few years past, and one of them was appointed to act as Assistant Colonial Chaplain. The other whom for convenience we call G. D held another important post in the church of England, in which both became eminent ministers. Soon after the appointment, the newly made Chaplain, whom we call W met in the street his former class mate M. who was also in a good position in accordance with his former hopeful view of his race prospects. After preliminary words of greeting and attention to the latter M. says to Rev. W. "How is it now, will black man rise?" "Ah" replied W. "M. you were right And what do you think G. D. our former class mate M. was on his way to his new Station the other day, and hearing of my appointment, called to see me. After coming up two the flights of steps leading to my apartment, he said 'boe' (dear chum) I must sleep here today. If any one had told me a few years ago that I would ever place my feet upon this floor, I would have thought it a thing impossible" so you see M, my friend, you were right' I will add that M, is now holding a very important post in Her Majesty's Government.

I dare say the girls, rather young ladies have their dreams. Night and day they are dreaming, you boys can't come up to them, for one girl's head is full of more dreams than half a dozen ordinary boys. Their dreams are about dresses, and husbands, and jewels and husbands. But I am not of that sex, but you young ladies know all about it dont you? They each have some before me to dream about. Some of these bl-ack fashion may be seen on the street You girls want to be like lady A or D. or like her daughters. They want more freedom they begin to feel the restraints of home life. You wonder what's the matter with your girl, why, she is dreaming. Yet I would do the ladies a wrong (and I would not do you an injustice) to say all their dreams were of dresses and hats and beaux and husbands. There are many of them who are dreaming of a future blessed by noble deeds done to lift up fallen humanity, home to be made cheerful and happy. Time, and effort, and it may be great suffering, and opposition patiently endured, will bring the dream to a fulfilment. The great men and women of whom you hear and read all passed through the same school of providence Some persons want to get to the end of their dream without pulling off their coats, or in other words without making any effort. It would be a grand thing you say to be a farmer or a great merchant or a statesman but you can't simply, wave your hand as we read that magicians do, and cause these things to be. You would laugh at the man who grows up farming or any pursuit, because things dont come up at his simple wish. I have heard such called "mushroom men" who grow up in a night Such persons start up all at once. Mr. A. becomes a rich man very suddenly, or a great man, but wait till the sunshine of life and experience strikes them or many cases they are blasted under the light of investigation You know of men who have not had the education that many of you have now, yet they make a noble start and do well

Because there are such in the world, would you give up trying, labouring? Will you try at a bound to leap where they did but attempt it, you will certainly fail. The world is not built upon the work of such men. They may be honest and acting all right but for you be this law, "labor, patience, effort, hopefulness, little by little, a step at a time, line upon line. In other words There is no excellence without great labor."

You have here young friends your race His School with the advantages it holds out to you. But you are the architects of your own fortune. Neither the mission, nor your schoolmasters and teachers, can lead you to the summit that you may attain They can but lead you to the road and pointing you to the goal in the distance—the crown bestud with gems but you God speed. Let your dreams take a healthy shape. Let this be about noble lives. That future of a life obsessed with noble deeds, of a name worthy to be remembered, is your destiny. If your pathway is marked by patient industry, honesty and sobriety, and the fear of God

There are healthful forms of humanity that would cause a sight more, to dream about them. That piece of humanity, corrupted and tainted by many vices and debasedness is a mere wreck, not a specimen of humanity But bad as the picture is, and loathesome the sight, it is your destiny if on the other hand your life is spent in idleness, and in forms that disturb your dreams and to the loathesome forms that have lost all a spot a body to remind one that they were once erected in the image of God From which and may Christ save you

The Early Dawn.
BONTHE. SHERBRO.

Oct 16, 1888.

THE RICE CROP

Seems, from all the information that we can gather, from a large extent of the outlying country, to be extremely small, and that although considerable effort is being made by traders and others to buy up a supply, yet it is pretty evident now that no great quantity can possibly be obtained; the fact of the case being that there is very little rice for the market. Hitherto, at least since July; it has been expected that by septemiber, or the first of the present month; rice would begin to come in quantity, however, most parties have acted wisely, in anticipating this hoped for season, and have been buying all they could, at rather stiff prices it may have seemed, all along from the earliest appearance of the crop on the market. And since we are now far on toward the middle of October, with no great increase in the quantity of rice coming in, and are now being assured from the country, that this month will most likely, finish the crop we naturally conclude that it is very short, and it makes the prospect for the future appear rather gloomy on the line of food; since it is now pretty certan that we are to be dependent for another year on imported rice.

ARTICLES LEFT OUT & WHY!

Most every person who takes the time and pains to write for a paper, has an object in view, and certainly must feel disappointed if his article fails to appear in the forthcoming issue of the paper, to which he is so kind as to send it for publication. And such unfortunate writers think Editors are very hard hearted, and care but very little to accommodate others than themselves, and we have been sometimes much astonished at the classes of persons who are thus offended. But why do Editors not accommodate all those who apply? is the question well now we will try briefly to answer. 1. because in some cases the object of the writer is to vent his feeling against some one else, which is wrong.—2. because it is only of importance to the writer and a very small circle of his friends and the public object to such as not being of sufficient interest to occupy space in the columns of the paper.—3. because of the controversial nature of the articles.—4. because of delay in reaching us, so that we cannot get them into type.—5. because the writer whose name is signed to the covering letter is unknown to us.—6. because the articles sent are in some way unsuitable for insertion. There are of course other reasons of which we cannot now speak, but we believe the above are the principal reasons. But we should like to say that no one is more ready to receive and insert suitable reading matter than Editors of News papers and really the writer is always pained when he has to leave out a good article.

"SHERBRO ADMINISTRATION AGAIN."

Under the above caption, we find in our esteemed contemporary the Weekly News of Oct. 6th, an Article signed "Bonu" criticising we should say the administration of the present Acting Commandant C. B. Mitford Esq rather than the general administration of the Sherbro. To us the intimations of that letter are at least unfair, if not really untrue, for it is intimated that other duties are neglected in order that he may give attention to Roads &c. But certainly this cannot be true, for he evidently attends the out door-work before and after office hours; and considering the great amount of work that he has been able to accomplish, and the vast improvements that have been made in our Roads, Streets and Bridges, and especially the great need there was for this work and these improvements, we certainly think that every resident of Bonthe and vicinity should feel under many and great obligations to Mr. Mitford for the perseverance with which he has applied himself to the work. And we are too glad to say that we believe, from all that we can gather, that the public in general are pleased, on the whole, with the present administration of affairs.

Dear Editor,—I have perused your last issue and amongst other important articles I observed the one in particular under the heading "Read our Notes."

I must assure you Sir, that I was very much delighted with the style and tenor of that article, for it is an undeniable fact that our preachers generally preach long sermons that always send their hearers to sleep, and I am glad that this subject has been brought to their notice through the medium of your valuable journal and that it has or is producing good results, for I observed on Sunday 30th ult that the services were closed at the proper time 15 to 20 minutes from 11 to 12. 15 a. m. precisely occupies 20 minutes.

This is indeed praiseworthy, as it enables the hearers to "engraft the words they have heard from the pulpit into their hearts" which may likely bring forth the fruits of good living. And when the "and now to God the Father &c" and "May the Lord add His blessings" were uttered in the 2 churches the congregation with one accord responded Amen. See much for the changes in the churches, and I hope it will continue:—

Again, you will kindly permit me to make a few remarks on the sermons preached at St. Matthew's Church on the evening of the 30th by the Catechist in charge from the words "Not forsaking the assembling of yourselves together as the manner of some is" So far as the sermon is concerned, it was well prepared, but the only objection I raise is, that the preacher in his discourse said that people are apt to remain at home instead of assembling themselves with the people of God in public worship,—this he said was that the majority of people think that they could benefitted by reading the Bible in their houses and also printed sermons, but this is a mistaken idea; for (he said) people who attend service and hear the preaching of the Word from the pulpit are more benefitted than the latter. I do not agree with the worthy preacher in his views, for I believe it is better for a man to quietly sit at home on Sunday and read his Bible or any religious Books than to go to church to hear a lot of bombastic phrases, instead of a plain English sermon. However I do not encourage people to remain idle at home on Sundays, but to point out that high bombastic terms from the pulpit can never save one soul, but where plain language is used the older people will be greatly benefitted, and will leave the church with joy.

Yours, Mr. Editor,
Bonthe, A CHRISTIAN.
Oct. 10, '88.

ALL QUIET NOW

In the Shengay district, thanks to the present administrator, who on being informed of the rumors of war promptly sent constables to inquire into the truth of the reports, if there was war intended as we have good reason to beleive there was the sight of the armed police moving about in the mendi towns and the administrator's warning messages had the desired effect as soon as it became known that police were being sent to warn the country chiefs and learn the facts about the reports, the people became contented and some who had their boxes packed and were ready to leave settled down quietly, some had all ready gone, and there is still a number of boxes stored in the basement of the mission house, and now that Governor Rowe is no more the question of the day is, who will be appointed Governor, this little quiet has given me a chance to visit the out stations and with Mr. Wilberforce's assistance, for he could leave his school saturdays and get back mondays in time for his classes we have visited all of the out stations except Tonkolloh and Matty Con. I am glad to be able to report that all is well except that at Remba and Mocoló the people are still badly frightened and can hardly believe that there is not to be a repetition of last years acts on a larger scale, morry men and country fashion people have been consulted as to what was to be and they have done a lively bai-ness.

The temperance army here is becoming quite a popular institutan; there are 59 names on the roll. Manny are leading ladies of the place, last night of the women discussed, resolved that the sherbro women ought to take the lead in putting down the rum traffick, and in carrying forward mission work this was the first discussion conducted wholy by women and they did well: it was a pretty evenly divided contest and showed thought on both sides, it is pretty clear that our women will at no very distant day take their place in society that was originaly designed for them and that they are competent to fill.

J. Gomer.

Shengay mission,
Sept. 28th 1888

Mr. L. W. Phillips Agt. F. and A Swanzy, Sierra Leone, was in this place on the 13th inst and gave us a call as usual, we were pleased to see him looking so well, he had come down by their chartered Steamer the Bonney, but we believe he returned by the s. s. Formoso.

Mr. S. B.A. Macfoy returned from his tour to the rivers, we believe about the 10th inst, but we regret to note that the sad duty of burying his cousin S. T. Macauley Esqr devolved so soon upon him; and we sympathize with him in this affliction.

Commandant and Mrs Mosely returned from England via Freetown per Countess of Derby this afternoon.

NEWS ITEMS.

Oct. 2.—Mrs. Williams (wife of Mr. Peter Williams of Bendoo drowned on her way from Bendoo to Bonthe. Her remains was found near her what on the 4th inst.

2. Countess of Derby with 30 policemen for the Sulymah district arrived from Freetown she left the next morning for Freetown.

4.—Formoso from Freetown

7.—Formoso for Freetown with Dr. O. Johnson and Monsieur E. Mossu, of the French Company.

11th—Countess of Derby from Freetown with His Excellency Colonel Maltby administrator, on a tour of inspection, the steamer passed to Bendoo en route for Freetown the same day.

Formoso from Freetown with Monsieur E Mossu, and Dr. O. Johnson.

12—S. S. Bonny arrived at York Island.

Mr. Horatio Jenkins assistant master of St. Matthew's day school Bonthe has been transferred to Bendoo.

DIED—In Bonthe on the 11th inst Mr. S. T Macaulay, perhaps more widely known as captain Macaulay, his funeral which took place on the 12th inst. was largely attended, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. We sympathize with the relatives and friends of the deceased.

DIED—Near Manoh Gbargroo on the 12th inst one Mr. Platt a gold smith, and was buried in the Mendi Mission cemetery at Avery Station.

Dear Mr Editor,—The report of Rev J. Gomer, is really a true report; it struck me with amazement Mr Editor when I heard from your issue of 15th Sept that Francis, has gone and explained himself that he has no war. And that police constables were sent from Freetown to see if the war report was true; and that they returned to Freetown with an answer, no war; Now Mr Editor, if you and your many readers will bear with me a little then I will give you an explanation of what I do know.

Do you know what caused two of your limemans to tender their resignations? When a hunter goes out in the bush for game does he make himself known to his aim? Can a man show his evil designs to his enemy? What was said of last year's war? Was it not the same thing? No war, no war, till the whole Territory was consumed! Some may say O the people of shaingay hate Francis. Does the Mendies who he employ hate him too? What says the law? (Out of the mouth of two or witnesses shall every word be established) according to Holy writers. Mr. Editor this report is actually true true I had been informed twice that Francis said and plainly declared that, there shall no human being inhabit that country, that Caulker's territory shall become the habitation of birds. Some of your subscribers even know of this statement. Native war Mr. Editor is not like European war, William denied till he was caught Kaglar denied till he entered into eternity. I am told that Francis has a messenger at Wiembou near Bigbolosh whom he is sending last he should be discovered by the constables that are staying at Bombeloh. The two constables that were sent from Freetown in the month of August reached in a Town called Tombay lower Bargroo and returned, stating that they were not instructed to go over to upper Bargroo. They returned to Shingay and left three native volunteers to risk their lives without weapons as far as to Fularwarhoo, when they were informed that Francis actually went there for the war, but they refuse giving it, and that he passed on to Boupeh I mean Boupeh in the interior. The people of Fularwarhoo said the war was accepted there, and that the invaders are coming as soon as the rain ceases. Now Mr Editor why cant the young men of those districts arm themselves with guns and swords? Alexander the Great was not born with weapons, yet he conquered, till there were no more worlds for him to conquer. Napoleon, Cæzar, Washington, Grant, and several others, were they born warriors? I trow not. Now Mr. Editor, if all men could only have the same mind in those Districts, they will at once set out to buy guns and swords and prepare for such attacks than to rely on the Government only; up and doing, young men, up and doing while it is day; practice, mark well and the Government will lend a hand when you are weary, as they did to your fathers. After that the mendies will know, that amongst the Sherbros, there are marks men. Ask God and He will give you courage, and teach you how to aim.

You may hear from me again. Thanking you Mr Editor for space and time occupied.

I am Dear Editor
ZAPHNATH—PAANEAH
Egypt 1st Oct, '88

"B. M. L. CLUB"

Dear Mr. Editor,—Permit me to ask the following questions

1st.—What has become of the above Club?

2nd.—Are they making preparation for the approaching Christmas season? if not, why not?

Answer from President and Secretaries will be obliged!

ANXIOUS ENQUIRER
Bonthe Oct. 10 '88

The Mocolo Road.

Dear Editor,—Kindly publish this in your next issue for the information of your readers and those particularly interested in the matter.

Since your last issue was out, Acting Commandant Mitford has been busily engaged from day to day in superintending the repairing of the road to the Cut Over to Mocolo, to which I called his attention in your last issue.

There can be no doubt that Mr. Mitford is a hard working man, and takes time to see that public works are properly done, and I am glad that he has read the Early Dawn and has lost no time in setting to work.

I can assure you Sir, that from what I have learnt, the road will soon be in proper order, and pedestrians and others will then be able to pass through without any injury whatever.

But we are sorry to learn that he will be relieved in a few days, and his labours for the good of Sherbro will then (perhaps) be at an end—but we hope this will not be the case, as we have every confidence on his successor who is well acquainted with the place, and we trust he will be able to complete the work that his predecessor has commenced and thereby relieve sufferers from receiving any more hurt when crossing to Mocolo.—I shall write you on the subject again.—Yours again,

Bonthe, A SUFFERER.
Oct 11, 1888.

NOTE.—In our last issue we inserted an articles, headed "Read Our Notes" but addressed to the Editor and signed "Vox" which although it contained little or nothing out of the way that we could detect in our few glances over it. Yet it gave much offence to several parties, especially those who preach, and each one feeling that himself was the person pointed out; but more than this some seemed to think us responsible for the sentiment of article because of its heading which was Vox's & not our caption & we had nothing to do with it, in fact the writer of this note being one who preaches at times quite lengthy discourses, thought himself the party meant in Vox's notes, however, did not feel at all offended at the remarks, as by reference to them any one will readily perceive that there is nothing sufficiently or clearly stated to offend any one, if carefully considered. However, some persons think the notes of Vox were quite uncalled for, but of course that is merely a matter of opinion. As to what Vox notes about persons prefering to remain at home &c. we had been ready to deny, but upon further investigation we find it to be really true, for only on last Sunday evening, we heard a minister say that out of 274 members enrolled on his Church class books, he doubted whether there were present at that service 105 persons and he then asked where are the remainder and justly presumed they were at home.

Death of Moses.

The oldest men must die; the good must die, as well as the wicked. But the good are promised another life—a life of happiness unending.

Moses was one hundred and twenty years old when he died. His first forty years were spent in Egypt; and the most of this time he was in the schools and colleges of that country. Moses was taught everything an Egyptian king needed to know; for they thought, May be he will be king. At any rate he was the king's daughter's son, so nearly all the people believed; and this princess, having fished him out of the river when he was a baby, and educated him, and made him a man, as she thought, was proud to own him as her son, and to hope he would forget all about the poor Hebrews and at least be a great man among the Egyptians.

But Moses had been nursed and taught by his own mother; for the princess sent for one of the Hebrew women to take care of him while he was little; and she taught him to love serve him, and to hate the idols of the Egyptians. So Moses went out to see his fellow countrymen often while they were engaged in their hard tasks; and for defending one of his country men against an Egyptian one day, he was obliged to flee from the country to save his life.

He crossed the Red Sea and settled in the land of Midian—that is, the country lying between Mt. Sinai and Moab. He became a shepherd, and married the daughter of a Midianite priest, Jethro. These Midianites were the descendants of Abraham and Keturah. So, you see, Moses was among his distant relations in his banishment, and married a daughter of Abraham. He remained here forty years, till God called him, at the burning bush at Mt. Horeb, to become the leader of the Israelites to deliver them from their hard bondage in Egypt.

Moses was now eighty years old, a man of great learning, wisdom, piety, and experience—just such a man as the people needed. He went to Pharaoh the king and told him that God wanted his people to be set free, and to go out of Egypt into a country of their own, where they might worship and serve him without any one to molest them. Pharaoh was very angry. He knew, like all tyrants, that he was doing better for the Hebrews than they could do for themselves, and declared they belonged to him just like his bags of sheep, and told Moses that if he talked that way any more he would have him hung or something like that. But Moses told the king that the great God had sent him, and that he would not go out of the country till all his people went along. And so after the Lord severely punished Pharaoh, but Moses, he let the people go.

They passed through the Red Sea, and wandered round till forty years more of Moses' life was gone. Now he was one hundred and twenty years old. But he was strong and active, and his eyes were not dimmed with age. Nevertheless, he must die. He had offended the Lord once, and that was at Kadish, where the Lord brought water out of the rock for the people. The Lord bid him speak to the rock; but he spoke to the people. "Hear now ye, rebels." God bid him speak to the rock; but he smote the rock. He smote the rock twice, when he was only commanded to speak to it. There was a great deal of Moses, or, more properly of old Adam, in this preformance. Yet God had mercy on the people, and brought forth water out of the rock for them.

Alas! for Moses. So meek, so wise, so self composed so full of the patience and forbearance of God himself, now he breaks down and shows the petulance, bigotry, and arrogance of some passionate young prince more intent on his own honor and pleasure than the welfare of the people. And now in sight of the promised land, he must die. Though God had forgiven him, and owned him as one of his precious ones, he would not permit him to lead the people into the promised land. But after permitting him to climb to the highest peak of Mt. Nebo, to a point called Pisgah, and view the long-promised land "that flowed with milk and honey," God took him to heaven. Like John the Baptist, and Abraham Lincoln, and many other good men of whom the world was not worthy, whom God has taken hence just when men thought they were most needed, Moses was called away to dwell by the river of life, and see God, who wipes all tears from the faces of his dear children.—Missionary Visitor.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

F. & A. SWANZY

GEO. LEACH

Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogshead of about 550 lbs. nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand— in similpackages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the UP-RIVER TRADERS, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A. SWANZY.

ALPHA FACTORY.

June 29th '88. Sherbro.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

ARRIVALS: "Mandingo," 1143 casks oil, 700 tons kernels. Due: "Lagos," 1200 casks oil, 700 tons kernels. Passed Sierra Leone: "Roquelle," 1320 casks oil, 290 tons kernels; "Congo," 1340 casks oil, 460 tons kernels. Passed Accra: "Benguela," 680 casks oil, 300 tons kernels.

PALM OIL—The market has taken a very strong turn upwards, and there has been an equally rapid advance of nearly £2 on the fortnight. Quotations "transit."

Present Price

Bonny £19 15 0 to £20 0 0—Cameroons £19 10 0 to £19 15 0—Benin £19 5 0 to £19 10 0—Old Calabar £19 15 0 to £20 0 0—New Calabar 19 5 0 to £19 10 0—Brass and Niger £19 5 0 to £19 10 0—Congo £18 10 0 to 18 15 0 Lagos £21 10 0 to 21 15 0—Loanda £19 5 0 to 19. 10 0 Accra, Addah, Quitta, and Popo £19 5 0 to 19 10 0—Sherbro and Sierra Leone £18 10 0 to 19 0 0—Saltpond, Appam, and Winnebah £17 10 0 to 17 15 0—Half Jack and Grand Bassam £19 0 0 to 19 5 0—Grand Bassa, Monrovia £16 15 0 to 17 0 0—Clarified £19 10 0—

PALM KERNELS.—Participate in the improvement, but only to a small extent as yet. transit.

Present Prices.

Lagos £10 5 0 to 10 10 0—Old Calabar, Bonny, Brass, and Niger £10 5 0 to 10 10 0—Cameroon £10. 2. 6. to 10. 7. 6. —Benin 9. 12. 6 to 9. 17 6—Congo and Landana 9 17 6 to 10. 2. 6.—Grand Bassa, &c. 8 17 6 to 9 12 6—Gold Coast 7. 15. 0. to 9. 10. 0.—Saltpond &c. 7. 15. 0 to 8. 15. 0—Sherbro and Sierra Leone 9. 10 0 to 9. 12. 6

COPRA—Small sales without change.

BENNISEED—40s. per 384 lbs.

COFFEE—Has been in very active demand, partly speculative. Closes steady at quotations—Ambrize Bold Berry 55s.—Liberian 55s. to 60s.

COCOA—No further business to report.

GROUND NUTS—Bathurst in the shell 13. 5. 0. to 13. 10. 0 Decorticated 10. 0. 0. to 10. 15. 0

INDIA RUBBER—There is moderate demand, but we cannot see any improvement in values.

Gambia Niggers, fair to pirme	1s. 8d. to 1s. 10½d.
Sierra Leone do. do.	1s. 5d. to 1s 7½d.
Thimbles	1s. 2d. to 1s. 5½d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 2d. to 1s. 4d.
Soft and Flaky Ball	0s. 7d. to 0s. 9d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim and Assinee	0s. 11d. to 1s. 3d.
Solt Pond	0s 7d. to 10d.
Liberian	0s. 10½d. to 1s. 2d.
Accra, pressed and dried	0s. 9d. to 1s. 4d.
Do. ordinary	0s. 7½d. to 0s. 7½d.
Flake and Lump	0s. 5½d. to 0s. 6d.

GUM COPAL—Sales of Sierra Leone at 3d. to 7d. Accra is worth 30s. to 60s. Red Angola 82s. 6d. to 85s.

White Benguela, 11s. to 67s. according to quality.

BEESWAX—Gambia sold at 4l. 15s.

GINGER— }
CHILLIES— } Nothing doing
GUINEA GRAINS—Wanted.
CALBAR BEANS—5d. to5½d.
EBONY—Old Calabar 4l. 5s. to 5l.
BARWOOD—l2. 15s to 5l.
KOLA NUTS— }
PORCUPINE QUILLS— } No demand.
MONKEY SKINS—No further transactions pending next Auction Sales.

Liverpool, 14th Sept. 1888. EDWARDS BROTHERS.

GREAT Reduction IN PRICES.

THE Undersigned beg to inform their FRIENDS and CUSTOMERS that they have received a fresh supply of AMERICAN GOODS, which they are now offering at the following rates :—

NEW FLOUR Happy Home.

£1. 16. 0. per Bbl.

NEW BISCUITS.

0. 16. 0. per Bbl.

KEROSINE Crystaline brand.

0. 12. 0. per Case.

TOBACCO, per hgd. or ½ hgd. 0. 0. 10½. per lb.

(Delivered in York Island or Freetown at buyers option.).

Other American Goods at greatly reduced rates.

Fisher & Randall (Lmtd).

T. DALTON,—Agent

York Island, July 2, '88. tf

CAPTURE OF A DEVIL HAWK.—The capture of a devil hawk in Arizona is announced as a triumph by a distinguished ornithologist, who has at last succeeded, after many attempts in adding a specimen to his collection. He says: "It is a bird of the handsomest plumage; at the same time it has a most ugly head and vicious talons; besides its beak is almost as sharp as a needle and nearly as strong as the largest hawk. This bird but for its head, when on the wing would pass for a pigeon. When seeking his prey he plays pigeon and flies in among them unnoticed on account of his similarity and specially captures what he wants. He is the picture of grace, beauty, and speed. Happily for the feathered family this kind are phenomenally rare, so rare that it is estimated that there are not more than a dozen of them in the Territory." It would appear that the bird is appropriately named. Satan secures his prey by similar tactics. He takes care that young people who become his victims shall see nothing at the outset of their fatal course to alarm them. (2 Cor. 2: 14).

A photographer in a country town was recently visited by a young woman who with sweet simplicity asked "How long does it take to have your photograph taken after you have left your manure?"

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, OCTOBER 31, 1888. No. 20

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto. delivd in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GOMES, Shenbome, Mr. E. A. LEWIS, Freetown, West Africa, Rev. Wm. McKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Deputy, Coroner,	Wm. Hagues,
Chief Clerk.	W. Hagues.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Buckner.
Sub-Treas. & Col Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole
Asst. Examg. Officer	Sulymah Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. G. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts,
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Vacant.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett.
Asst. Do. Rev R. C. Taylor

The Incorporated Chamber of Commerce of Liverpool,

4 12 EXCHANGE BUILDINGS,

Liverpool, 23rd July, 1888.

LAGOS AND ABEOKUTA, AND WEST COAST AFFAIRS.

Dear Sir,—I am directed to inform you that the following Deputation from this and other Chambers, on the above-named subjects will be received by the Right Honourable Lord Knutsford, G.C.M.G., Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies, on Wednesday next 25th instant, at 3 30 p.m., at the Colonial office.

The Deputation will meet at the Colonial Office at 3 15 p.m.

A Preliminary Meeting will be held at the Hotel Victoria, Northumberland Avenue, at 1 30 p.m., on Wednesday, to settle the order of proceedings.

I am, Dear Sir,
Yours faithfully,
THOMAS H. BARKER,
Secretary.

DEPUTATION TO LORD KNUTSFORD.

To be introduced by Sir George Baden-Powell, K.C.M.G., M.P.

DEPUTATION.

Henry Coke, Esq. President Incorporated Chamber of Commerce of Liverpool.

G. Hutchinson, Esq., Chairman African Trade Section of Liverpool.

Ellis Edwards Esq. Vice-Chairman African Trade Section of Liverpool.

F. Radcliffe Esq., Ex-Chairman African Trade Section of Liverpool.

H. Cotterell Esq. Ex-Vice-Chairman African Trade Section of Liverpool.(Messrs Jean Holt & Co.)

Hahnemann Stuart Esq. Messrs Stuart & Douglas.

F. W. Reed Esq. Chairman African steam Ship Co.

A. L. Jones, Esq. British and African Steamship Co. (Messrs Elder Dempster & Co.)

A. Sinclair Esq., African Steamship Co.

R. Sykes Esq. Messrs Callender, Sykes & Co.

James A. Croft, Esq., Director Lagos Warehousing Co.

William Dodd, Esq., Director Lagos Warehousing Co.

James Irvine Esq.

R. B. N. Walker Esq.

Thomas H. Barker, Secretary Incorporated Chamber of Commerce of Liverpool.

MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT who have promised to attend.

Lord Cland J. Hamilton, M.P.
E. Whitley Esq., M. P.
Samuel Smith, Esq., M.P.
W. F. Lawrence, Esq., M.P.
R. Neville, Esq., M. P.
Sir W. Houldsworth, Bart., M.P.
Isaac Heyle, Esq., M. P.
C. E. Schwann, Esq., M. P. and others.—Representing Manchester Chamber.

THE INCORPORATED CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OF LIVERPOOL.

To the Right Honorable LORD KNUTSFORD, G.C.M.G. Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies.

The Memorial of the Incorporated Chamber of Commerce of Liverpool Humbly Sheweth—

That the Incorporated Chamber of Commerce of Liverpool has on several occasions had the honour of addressing the Colonial Office and the Foreign Office on the subject of West African affairs, especially since the formation of the African Trade Section of the Chamber.

Your Memorialists beg respectfully to refer you to a Memorial addressed to Earl Granville, Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, on the 5th February 1885, having a special bearing upon the occurrence which has led to the request for this interview.

Allusion was therein made to the annexation by France and Germany of certain places adjacent to the Gold and Slave Coast Settlements where British trade had previously been firmly established.

It was therein shewn how desirable it would be to have an unbroken line of Coast under the British Protectorate instead of scattered settlements, chiefly because the principles of trading adopted by other European Powers differed from our own, and frequently led to a conflict of interests resulting in loss of trade to British merchants and of revenue to the Colonial Governments.

Viewing the history of events upon the coast within the last thirty or forty years, this Chamber then suggested that it might be possible to arrange an exchange of places with France and Germany, which would diminish or altogether abolish unequal competition in the same markets, and your Memorialists believe that such negotiations might still be entered upon with advantage.

Your memorialists think it almost superfluous to remind your Lordship that whilst the Government of this country throughout all its possessions, affords to foreigners the same facilities for trade as are enjoyed by British subjects, other European powers, both in their home and foreign possessions, impose conditions adverse to all but their own subjects.

This fact, your memorialists desire to point out, furnishes the principal ground of the alarm created by the alleged action of a French officer at Abeokuta.

Your Lordship has probably been made aware, by the communications received from His Excellency the Governor of Lagos, that a French Agent from Porto Novo, a French possession near the Settlement of Lagos, with the same background for trade which adds so much to the value Lagos, has visited Abeokuta, making there a treaty with the King and Chiefs of the Egbas. It is stated that both money and goods have been promised on condition that the "rights and privileges of government be ceded to the French;" that slavery is to be tolerated; and that, in fact, it is practically agreed that France may proclaim a Protectorate over the country, thereby gaining the commerce which the subjects of this country have created, and undoing the good for which this State, assisted by its missionaries, has laboured.

Your Memorialists complain that after all they have achieved by their intercourse with the natives in the prosecution of trade, viz., after developing the demand for European goods and and made trading safe and profitable—that after having, in fact, pursued these methods which alone make African Settlements worth holding, they should now be deprived of the benefits thus won by the alleged selfish and encroaching policy of a Foreign Government.

Your Lordship is no doubt aware that Abeokuta is 40 or 50 miles behind the Settlement of Lagos; that it is most directly approached from the coast by road and river from that place: that it is on the highway to the Yoruba country and to other districts beyond that it is an up-country emporium; that a valuable proportion of the trade of Lagos inward and outward, passes through it; and that the loss of that trade by means of a French Custom-house being interposed between Lagos and Abeokuta would render the possession of Lagos itself of much less importance.

Your Memorialists would remind your Lordship that the method of British trading with Africa has been undergoing a change; that instead of proceeding from isolated factories, or gronps of factories, trade is now being carried on by the natives themselves; that in many instances they come to England to be educated and return to their own country with sympathy for civilized life and competent to conduct business with English houses; that this system is greatly on the increase, tending to make tropical African settlements permanent and valuable additions to the British Empire.

Your Memorialists would therefore urge your Lordship generally to encourage the kings and chiefs of districts adjoining British possessions to make treaties with Her Majesty's Government, whereby British trade and the influence accompanying it would be fostered and secured in such a manner that injurious competition on the part of other Powers would cease to exist. Especially they would pray, in the circumstances which have arisen in the case of Abeokuta, that a treaty, if not already existing, should be at once made with the King and chiefs of the Egbas, which will effectually prevent that country falling under the protection of France, and will at least secure to Great Britain most favoured national treatment.

And your Memorialists will ever pray, &c.

Given under the Common Seal of The Incorporated Chamber of Commerce of Liverpool, this 26th day of July, 1888

HENRY COKE, President.

Thomas H. Barker, Secretary.

The Copy of a Memorial presented by the Merchants of Lagos to the Governor of Lagos, will appear in our next.

ADVERTISEMENT SCALE.

Reduced rates.

(FOR EACH INSERTION.)

A whole page	£1	10	0
A whole column	0	8	0
Half-a-column	0	5	0
One-fourth of a column	0	3	0
One-eighth of a column	0	2	0
Marriage	0	2	6
Births and deaths	0	1	0
Domestic servants wanted	0	1	0
Servants wanting situations	0	1	0

Each notice should not exceed 6 lines every additional line or part of a line 6d extra.

The Early Dawn.
BONTHE, SHERBRO.
Oct. 31, 1888.

THE BETTER WAY.—Perhaps would he not to criticise any one too harshly. But especially does it seem a pitty, that ministers catechists and teachers should be criticised by those whom they wish only to benefit. We refer most particularly to those who through circumstances over which they have no control, are obliged to perform duties that are beyond their attainments, and to which they have not been perhapsaccustomed. We feel that the functions of ministers and religious teachers are too sacred to be slightly tampered with by secular writers. A Catachist or Teacher may easily make a slight mistake in an announcement or a gesture, but such are of so little importance to the real good of the flock, that we think the shepherd might be excused, especially from public criticism.

THE ARRIVAL OF COMD'T AND MRS. MOSELEY.

Just as we were going to press with our last issue on the 16th instant, made it impossible for us to do more than to give the happy event other than the most casual notice, but we hasten now to record the general good feeling that prevailed throughout the place, at their return, every one, as far as we could see, high and low were really pleased, and we were delighted to welcome the return of our Commandant and his estimable partner in life, to our midst again, and we are really pleased to note that they are looking well-refreshed from their leave.

Roads &c.—We have been pleased to hear from Mr A. O. Walker, that the work continues on the Mocolo Road; but of course from what we knew of Comdt. Moseley, we were sure that this work of improvement would not be discontinued unless from absolute necessity, which we do most sincerely hope will not occur.

S. S. Formoso carrying the local Mails arrived here from Freetown, on the 16th inst. Having on Board among other distinguished passengers Mr. Burman agt. Messrs Pickering and Berthoud Sierra Leone, and Mrs Dr. Jarrett; (the latter had just returned from England.) The vessel came inside and passed down below the Mendi Mission Wharf with a general cargo of many Tons. For the outward voyage she took 320 Tons of palm kernels from Messrs Paterson Zochonis and Co. 9 Tons kernels from E. Edwards 15 casks of oil from S. B. A. Macfoy. 100 cases of matchets 40 cases mineral water, 109 bags clean rice from Messrs F. & A. Swanzy, besides a few other packages making altogether, perhaps, the liniest real outward cargo, which the S. S. Formoso has had from this part, and which we hope may be only the beginning of better days for the traffic. We congratulate Capt. Paterson upon his success not only in securing a fine cargo, but also in being able to get in and out of a difficult part of the harbor.

REPORT of AVERY STATION,
Mendi Mission. For the Quarter ending SEPTEMBER 30th 1888.

Mr. President,—This Quarter has been entirely different to the others. It commenced and ended with sickness, removals, trials, and discouragements of a diminished staff, which rendered the Work most difficult.

The present state of our work here is encouraging. It is pleasing to know that, though evidently the storms were great, yet the genuine work of faith has not been interrupted. Interesting visits were made throughout the circuit during the Quarter, and all of which gave satisfaction and great joy to our people.

At Salem Hill, a Barrie is being set up by old brother Tucker, who also takes special interest in the Work. Our intention about other building as was last reported remains untouched, except the Chapel roof, which has had due attention.

Our Sabbath Services have been better attended; Spiritual influences have awakened some, and led them to know what true conversion is. 2 have been received into full membership.

Baptisms 3. Number of Seekers' Classes 21; Members 342; Com: 23; Total—365.

Day School.—Since the repairs of the Chapel roof, both Teacher and Scholars have been fairly engaged at work; We cannot but feel thankful for the religious instructions regularly given, and progress they have made.

Number of both sexes, 40.

Our Sabbath School has been regularly kept up, and is the same as usual, though with a slight increase. Teachers & Officers 3, scholars, 45; Total—48.

Missionary aid Collections	£2	12	6.
Light Collection	0	7	7.
Preacher's Salary,	0	12	8.
	£3	12	9.

Saml. B Morrison.

Dear Mr. Editor,—More surprise than edification was felt during Sunday morning service at St. Matthew's Church on the 21st instant when the officiating Catechist announced to the congregation that he had received an important letter from Missioner Johnson who visited Sherbro in 1886, addressed to the congregation, but which he deferred reading in consequence of the absence of some members at Bandoo that morning.

Now Mr. Editor, does it not follow that it was a mere act of grace, on the part of the worthy Catechist to have held the service at all, inasmuch as he considered that in the absence of a portion of the ordinary worshippers (possibly magnates) those present should be deprived for the time, of the benefit of the Communication to which he called attention.

Let me inform our ill-advised Catechist that the announcement implied disrespect to the attendants that morning, if not worse; and that however reconciled we may have become to our lot in the absence of a pastor, we are yet wide awake as regards the proprieties of the pulpit and our rights as parishioners.

I trust it will not be long ere a qualified person will be appointed to the vacant pastorate in Sherbro who will put every thing in its proper place. This incident together with the incongruities observable Sabbath after Sabbath in the appointments of the service clearly indicates that the machinery of the Pastorate Church in Bonthe is greatly defective and calls loudly for improvement.

Yours truly,
Bonthe, CHURCHMAN.
Oct 23, 1888.

Dear Mr Editor,—The public of Bonthe have great cause to be thankful to Acting Commandant Mitford for special attention paid by him to the principal Road in this place leading to Victoria. Bitter complaints and strong representations had been made through the medium of your journal about the dangerous state of the road but from reasons which might possibly be adduced no notice taken of them by previous acting Commandants.

It is wonderful to see now the zeal with which Mr. Mitford has taken up the work but for his untiring energy and personal supervision hardly any progress could have been made in the work although started—in plain speaking if the present Acting Commandant had not come to Sherbro, there is great doubt as to whether any attention would have been given to the road in question in the immediate future.

It need to be stated before or Mr. Walker the overseer of Roads &c. that with the present staff of laborers nothing could be done to the road and that additional men must be engaged if the work was attempted. But we see now pretty clearly that it is quite possible to undertake the work without the extra labour and that the long neglected state in which this Road was kept has been due to the short sightedness and limited knowledge of the overseer

Yrs truly—PEDESTRIAN.
Bonthe 15th Oct. '88.

Agriculture—Will It Pay?

In your issue of June 30th last I wrote on this subject, and showed briefly that neither Amateur or Scientific farming can possibly pay the expense of running on the soil we have near the coast line, but I believe that by reference to that Article it will be seen that the soil is capable of yeilding, by a less expensive process, that would admit of a larger acreage in proportion to labor employed, quite a sufficient quantity of marketable produce to more than pay the expense of running and I can now venture further at this writing to say that it is very evident now to my mind from the yeild of such crops as are commonly grown in and out of the settlement, that if men will apply themselves to planting and grazing, as they do to trading, and will work with their own hands while directing whatever other help they may have at command, that agriculture will be found to pay here as in many other countries. Of course it will not yeild its bounty in the first years of the undertaking, and this it has not done in many other countries, and should not be expected to do here. But let six or more men who have, it may be only a little means, start out from our Villages and Towns secure good tracts of land say from 50 to 200 acres each in some good locality and close to each other, forming a sort of agricultural community, then each one cut down as much of the bush as he can with his family cultivate, plant such crops as are useful for his own support, build such a house as he can at the least expense beyond his own labor each one on his own plot of land then add other cheap houses or sheds as he may need them; get either sheep, goats or cows, as soon they can be obtained, in fact all of these animals would be good to have. To keep them either make fence to enclose them in, or have them herded by a man or boy during the day and put up in pens or sheds at night, of course several farmers could join together in the herding of their stock. While planting crops of Rice, Cassada, Benniseed, Corn, Cocoa, &c. every farmer should plant fruit trees also Coffee & Cocoa not all at once but little by little as the years go on It should also be remembered that proper farming requires years of constant hard labor in order to make it pay, but if men will submit to these real requirements and deny themselves for a while, the luxuries of fine clothing, live plaish and work diligently for several years in opening up a good farm with all that belongs to it. There is no question as to its paying. It will pay as no other business, a steady and easy revenue, not so large, it may be, as that of the merchant, but far more certain.

J. ALBERT.

THE MARRIAGE QUESTION.

Dear Mr. Editor—The above subject needs very close thought and attention before it could be properly dealt with, about six weeks ago we find that this question had engaged the minds of very many in England viz.—Is Marriage a failure? There have been very many opinions on this subject there are those who believe that marriage is an entire failure, others believe that it is a contract which could not be gone through without failure there are those of the state that when one is married to an unkind partner dissatisfaction is expressed and failure and result must turn up. The ground on which these base their arguments is, that—it marriage was not to be met with failures, divorcement would not have been allowed I may just add that there are ministers who have not succeeded yet to show that marriage is no failure.

There seems to be some mystery in marriage life, I trust that you will be good enough to grant us space in one or two of your issues to hear the opinion of some of your readers. Thanking you for space over pied.

I am Yrs truly—VJA.
Bonthe Sherbro 24th Oct. '88

Rev W. R. C. Cockill and Wife, having occasion 26th inst to go on board the s. s. Formoso, while lying alongside the Yellowa Wharf, we were through the kindness of Capt. Paterson introduced to the above mentioned Gentleman and Lady, and had a brief but pleasant interview with them on the subject of Mission work.

Personal

Capt. J. Paterson s. s. Formoso accompanied by Mr. Burman agt. of Messrs Pickering and Berthoud, Sierra Leone, gave us a call, directly after their arrival here on the 16th inst. It was our first meeting of Mr. Burman but we were very favorably impressed with him as a gentleman of business.

Mrs. Doctor M. L. Jarrett, has returned from England she arrived here on the 16th inst per s. s. Formoso.

Mr. Peter G. Williams whose wife was drowned a short time ago in attempting to cross over from Bendoo, we understand returned from Freetown on the 16th inst, we sympathize with Mr. Williams, in his loss.

Mr T. J. Alldridge Agent Messrs F. & A. Swanzy Sierra Leone returned form England per s. s. Congo on the 24th inst and came to Sherbro per s. s. Formoso that arrived here on the 25th Mr. A. is looking fresh and fine.

Acting Commandant and Mrs Mitford left for Freetown by the return of the countess of Derby on the 17th inst their brief stay here will be long remembered by many in this especially for the improvement of the streets &c.

Mr G. H. Garrett who is now on leave to England, we learn, will most likely be promoted to Asst Colonial Secty and Treasurer in Freetown.

A voice from the Rufus Clark & Wife Theo. Training School

RUM TRAFFICK.

It is a well known fact that the majority of merchants, traders, and those engaged in petty trade are in favor of this giant wrong Facts are stubborn things but I must present them, though some may not want to peruse these humble lines that I pen down. Rum pool and native merchants on the coast especially (I suppose) that extensive and prosperous business cannot be carried on without Rum, Gin, Whiskey, Brandy, &c. hence the trade is continued to such extent. I call the traffick iniquitous traffick and who can say it is not? How many homes are made miserable? How many husbands and wives are separated? How many young men and women have become spend thrifts? I pause for a reply  many have become what they are to-day by taking "a little for the stomach sake" as they always say.

Look around, and in any the community in which you live and see how many young men and women whose appearances have changed and they have men (what they call good looking) in bad laws, red eyes, red lips &c. pshaw! pshaw!! pooh!! Be it far from us to speak such harsh. The monster is working in the interests and will soon crush those who admit him in.

May today unanimously say that because the trade was introduced by the white man therefore they have a right to religion and gin &c.

Say you such things as reasons at all. True the trade was introduced by the white man, and then there were no Christians over the face of Africa. But today let us ask, that that though our fathers and forefathers were made to know that it is something that strengthens fattens, and good for the stomach, have we not enough evidences of its bad effects, it horrors, and how it is adding day by day to our country's degradation. Our readers! we will be a better, wealthier, and happier people if we just do the right thing and wage a warfare with rum, gin, brandy &c. Now I want to say right here that the traffick makes many people to loose the respect they ought to have. I want your attention to be drawn a little to Cyrus the great when he was a boy, how he inquired of his grand father Astyages in these words "Because not long ago, when you gave a feast to the great Lords of your court, I observed that after having drunk of this red liquor, all the guests grew giddy. One cried another sung all talked at random; they seemed to have forgotten that you were their king, and you that they were your subjects. At last you tried to dance, but your limbs would not support you." Let this be a lesson to those who are in authority once more again

SULLA THE FORTUNATE
Shaingay Mission Oct. '88

Dear Mr Editor,—I cannot but commend your strictness in your last issue of the 16th inst, on the article which appeared in the "Weekly News" of Oct. 6th signed Bona I love fairplay, and it is nothing but right that praise should be given to whom praise is due. We on this side the water, read with feelings mingled with envy, of the often and many improvements of the Roads, Streets, and Bridges of Bonthe and Yelloma, while this Island which comprises Yelloma, and containing three of the five principal Houses in Sherbro and which contribute about three fifths of the revenue of Sherbro, is so shamefully neglected and overlooked.

The sight of a spade or pick in the hands of a Government laborer or convict is a phenomena not seen for many years in this place. What apologies for Streets and Bridges we possess, are done by ourselves, and one of our merchants, at his own expense has constructed a nice road connecting Yelbona with York Island, to the benefit and convenience of many.

Huddled together as we are in so narrow a compass! with a teeming population of the unwashed, it is a wonder we have jogged along so far with no great calamities occurring, in the absence any sanitation and improvements.

The rains this year have been the heaviest experienced for many years, and for weeks the whole Island was one marshy swamp. With the coming hot weather, and the Drying up of the waters, we anticipate many of the ills which flesh is heir to. We do not intend to be left any further in the cold —and consequently shall raise our voices high from time to time, to catch the ears of the Authorities, beseeching them to spend a little Revenue of Sherbro for the improvement of the different places in the District—These remarks of York Island are applicable also to Bendoo and Mocolo—Charity begins at home—so that, it would not be out of place, if only for the sake of suffering humanity you give us aid in this matter.

I remain, Mr. Editor,
York Island, GRANNAH.
Oct. 25th 1888.

Avery Station—At the last Quarterly meeting on the 21st had the largest congregation we have ever witnessed at that place; the large and commodius Chapel was filled. The services conducted by the District Supt. were very interesting indeed.

My View of Mocolo.

Dear Editor,—On the 21st. inst I took a trip to the much talked of Mocolo Road—I had a pleasant walk all the way from Bonthe to Yhandeben; after leaving Mr. Nelson's, I began to observe the Works that had been commenced by Actg Comd't Mitford and which is still progressing under the Commandanthip of Mr. Moseley. At any rate, Comd't Moseley, since his return from England has given his undivided attention to the Mocolo Road, which I trust will soon be completed.

After a little walk I got to the end over. A little more walk brought me to the once renowned spot where are to be seen at present only dilapidated buildings, which reminded me of the oft repeated text "How are the mighty fallen" and how "riches take to themselves wings and fly away."

I got to Mocolo about 7 30. but not finding my host at home, I went in search of him, when I met him just leaving the "Sanctum Sanctorium" we hastened home together and took tea, few minutes after, I took a walk to Victoria (the once flourishing town but which has now becomes depopulated)—the cassada farms have succeeded the fine houses that used to be there. I returned home to prepare for service. In the mean time I heard an unusual sound, and upon enquiry I was told that it was the Church Bell, for it is an old broken thing that was given to the Church since the Mission services in 1886. I attended services and 11. a. m. About 50 persons were present in this solemn service.

At 12. 10 the Catachist selected for his text Dan. 3. 25.

In dealing on the subject the worthy preacher pointed out to his hearers the evil of relying on man's help instead of trusting in God by faith as di I Daniel in the lion's den and the three Hebrew children in the fiery furnace. He referred to this as a proof of Divine providence to the history of the Spanish Armada that when the people of England had given up all hopes then God delivered them, he cited many proofs of God's protect power. I must say that the people in that district are enjoying happy sermons from their Catechist. May they be edified—I must remark that the preaching only occupied 2o minutes.

I regret to observe that there is no Sunday School in this place, I trust therefore that the Catechist will point out to the people the necessity of re establishing a Sabbath School for their benefit.

The atmosphere being very gloomy and fearing lest I may be beaten by the rain bade farewell to my host and started for Bonthe at 3. and reached home at 4. 30. p. m.

Yrs. Mr Editor—TOURIST
Bonthe Oct. 24th '88

Turkish Proverb.

The Missionary Herald contains an article of much interest, by a missionary in Turkey, on the proverbs of the Turkish people. These proverbs show that human nature is almost the same the world over, and that no people is outside of the pale of humanity; while they indicate also the peculiar characteristics of the Turks, growing out of their religion and habits. We give a few of them which we are sure will interest our readers. The following show the Moslem fatalism: "If a man does not seek his fate, his fate seeks him." "What is to happen, will happen, help or no help." "The world is a mill; it grinds fast; some day it will grind us." "Cross the sea and drown in a brook." "God knows man guesses." And the following show that child like faith in God which is a remarkable trait of Turkish character: "The well of mercy is deep." "God delays he does not neglect." "Who calls on God will not remain unsheltered." "In giving, God does not ask whose son one is." "Even to his Beloved God gives sorrow." Other proverbs of a more general character show that Turkish wisdom is about as shrewd as Yankee wisdom and that the experiences of life are about the same to him as to the rest of the world: "The camel carries the load and the dog does the panting." "Better is my crow than the nightingale of foreign lands." "Conscience is half of religion." "A man who is a man does not mistake twice." "Little said, well said." "Weep not for the dead; weep not for the fool." "Throw a diamond into the mud, but it is still a diamond." "Do good, and cast it into the sea; if the fishes dont know it God will." "It takes two days knocking round to get one day's food." "Who holds money precious is himself cheap." "Satan's friendship goes as far as the prison door." "Even the mountains fear a rich man." "There is no morning in a village which has no cock." "The master's eye makes the cow fat." "At the resurrection there will be no second trumpet for the deaf." "Before the rich man's heart is moved, the rich man's life was gone." "A true man can get bread from the stones."

Some of these proverbs indicate a high moral sense that would do credit to any Christian people.—Ed.

THE AVERY SAW MILLS—belonging to the Mendi Mission at Manoh Gbargroo and the only operating Mills in the District, were considerably damaged on the 8th inst. by the breaking of their Mill dam which not only carried away some materiai that was on hand but has hindered operations, to such an extent as to delay the execution of many orders which the Agent very much regrets.

Stop & Read.
Cheap for Cash!

The Undersigned begs to inform the Public in general that he is ready to furnish CUSTOMERS with

BOOTS, SHOES, & SLIPPERS,

at reduced Prices—also Fancy Stitching as may be required on every other Work as may be needed.

BOOTS from 16s. upward.
SHOES do 12s. do
SLIPPERS 2s. 6d. do

May be able to make some reduction on the bargain.

J. C. MACFOY,
Shoemaker.
Bonthe,
Oct. 29th 1888.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—Market continues very firm, and we have to report a further advance of 10s. to 15s. a ton. We quote "transit."

Lagos £22 5 0—New Calabar, Brass, Niger, and Benin 19 10 0—Bonny and Cameroons Old Calabar Grand Popo Addah, £20. 7. 6 to £20 10 0—Accra, and Quittah 19 10 0—Half Jack and Sherbro 19 5 0—Sierra Leone £17 10 0—Congo and Grand Bassam 19 0 0—Gaboon 18 0 0—Saltpond, appam, and Winnebah 17 15 0—Axim 17 10 Elmina and Liberian 17 5 0

PALM KERNELS—Also in request and sell readily at an advance.

Lagos, Bonny, Old Calabar, and Brass £10 5 0 to 10 12 6—Cameroons £10 10.0 to £10 12 6—Benin and Congo 10 5 0 to 10 6 3—Grand Bassa, Monrovia, Sinoe and and Cape Coast £9 0 0 to 10 0 0—Saltpond, Sherbro, Appam and Addah 8. 10 0 to 9. 17 6—Axim 9. 0 0 to 9. 17 6

COPRA—Fine quality £13 inferior in proportion.
BENNISEED—No supplies.
COFFEE—Ambriz Bold Berry 56s. Liberian 55s. to 60 per cwt
GROUND NUTS—Fine Bathurst £14 per ton.
INDIA RUBBER.—In good demand, but soft kinds very difficult of sale.

Gambia Niggers, fair to prime . .1s. 9d to 1s. 11d.
Sierra Leone do. do. . . . 1s. 5d. to 1s. 7½d.
Thimbles . . . . . 1s. 2d. to 1s. 5½d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball . . . . 1s. 2d. to 1s. 4½d.
Tongues . . . . . 1s. 0d. to 1s. 3d.
Cameroon & Old Calabar . . . 1s. 2d. to 1s. 3d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim and Assinee 1s. 0d. to 1s. 4d.
Soft and Flaky Ball . . . . 0s. 7d. to 0s. 9d.
Liberian . . . . . 0s. 10½d. to 1s. 2½d.
Salt Pond . . . . . 0s. 8d. to 0s. 10½d.
Accra pressed and dried . . . . 0s. 9d. to 1s 6d.
Do. ordinary . . . . . 0s. 7½d to 0s. 7½d.
Flake and Lumps . . . . . 0s. 6d. to 0s. 6½d

GUM COPAL—Sierra Leone 3d. to 7d. per lb. Angola kinds 27s. to 35s. for fair, Red Angola 80s. to 90s.; Accra 30s to 60s. White Benguela 6s. to 65s. per cwt.

BEESWAX—Limited demand.
GINGER— }
CHILLIES— } Difficult of sale:
GUINEA GRAINS—From 22s. 6d. to 25s according to quality
CAMWOOD—Grand Bassa £11 7 6 to £16 per ton, as in quality.
BARWOOD— }
EBONY— } No Sales.
CALABAR BEANS—None here
KOLA NUTS— }
PORCUPINE QUILLS— } No demand.
MONKEYS SKINS—Last sales realised from 6d. to 7s. 6d. according to quality. Next sales October 10th.
IVORY.—Next sales about October 15th.

Liverpool, EDWARDS BROTHERS.
28th Sept. 1888.

THE ANGEL'S LADDER.

"If there was a ladder, mother
Between the earth and sky,
As in the days of the Bible,
I would bid you all good-by,
And go through every country,
And search from town to town,
Till I found the ladder
With angels coming down.

"Then I would wait quite softly
Beside the lowest round,
Till the sweetest looking angel
Had stepped upon the ground;
I would pull his dazzling garment,
And speak out very plain,
"Will you take me, please to heaven
When you go back again?

"Ah darling," said the mother,
"You need not wander so
To find the golden ladder
Where the angels come and go:
Wherever gentle kindness,
Pity or love abounds,
There is a wondrous ladder,
With angels on the rounds."

—Mrs M. F. Butts, in St. Nicholas.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island
SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING
F. & A. SWANZY
GEO. LEACH
Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fingrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogshead of about 550 lbs nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand— in similpackages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the UP-RIVER TRADERS, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A. SWANZY.
ALPHA FACTORY.
June 29th '88. Sherbro.

THE SCARCITY OF FOOD.

Seems to be forcing its way to the front, as a subject for the public Press of these settlements, the time having already arrived, that the new rice crop should be on the market in great plenty, and yet the cry for rice continues, and as a result the price in general runs high, with very little choice for the buyer, as refers to quality or quantity, he is almost obliged to take whatever is offered, and readily is almost too glad to get it, even at a bumping big price. About the begining of the present month, we understood that merchants intended to put the price of Husk rice down to two Shillings per bushel, but some how rice has continued up to this writing to bring Three Shillings per bushel, and really it now seems hardly likely to be less without a great change, as we cannot now hope for, in the rice line.

The corn crop seems to have been short, as usual which militates against the supply of Agidee whether this is only a seeming, and not real, remains to be seen yet when it shall be full time for the new crop to be offered on the market.

Founda also appears to be extremely scarce in fact I have not seen any worth mentioning for a long long time Guinea Grains or Knoshkoosh, as it is commonly called does not appear as a commodity of food to any considerable extent whether it has been diverted from this line and thrown into export commerce I am unable at present to say, but have heard that there is not much of it grown in these parts.

Argon seed—Eggusie—has for two years past been a very rare thing and only to be had in very small quantities, and while not strictly an article of food alone, it is very useful in the preparation of the palaver Sauce so much prized by natives and very many foreigners. Besides the above mentioned there are many articles, that enter into the food supply as Yams, Cocoa, Potatoes &c. that seem to be really less in quantity than usual, but possibly this is more owing to the lack of rice, which causes a greater consumption of other things. However, whatever may or may not be, it is a fact that the food supply is short in the country and there is as a result much suffering, and the times are becoming harder as the months roll on; which is a great pitty when we contider that the soil is abundantly able to produce more than a sufficient supply for the whole population.

Oct 19 '88 J. A. E.

"Mamma," said Harry, "what is the difference between goose and geese?" "why, don't you know?" said baby Annie. "One geese is goose, and a whole lot of gooses is geese."

"What a blessing it is," said a hard-working Irishman; "that night nivver comes on till late in the day, whin a man is tired, and can't work at all, at all."

'Early Dawn'

PRINTING OFFICE.
Job Work Done at short
Notice.
Enquire of C. G. BELL, Printer.
GOOD HOPE STATION.

SHERBRO NOV 22 1888 SIERRA LEONE

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, NOVEMBER 15, 1888. No. 21.

The "Early Dawn."
Published Semi-Monthly, At
BONTHE, SHERBRO.
Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the
U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail, £0 6 0
Delivered in Bonthe, 0 5 0
Half yearly by Mail, 0 3 0
Ditto, deliv'ed in Bonth,0 2 6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GUNDE, Shenango, Mr. E. A. LEWIS, Freetown, West Africa, Rev. Wm. McKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant, C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner, The Commandant.
Deputy Coroner, Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk, W. Hodges.
Interpreter. J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff, F. E. B. Buckner.

Sub Treas. & Col Chief Clerk G. H. Garrett J. D. Macaulay.

Tide Waiters. J. N. Crowe, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole.

Asst Examg. Officer Sulymah Jasper Caulker.

Assistant Col. Surgeon. M. L. Jarrett, M R. C. S.

Dispenser Rowland May

Postmaster. H. R. Williams.

Inspector of Police. M. E. Bette,

Sealer. J. A. Dennis.

Overseer of Roads. A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Vacant.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett
Asst Do. Rev R. C. Taylor

The Lagos Trade.

Copy of a Memorial presented by the Merchants of Lagos to the Governor of Lagos, His Excellency C. A. MOLONEY, C.M.G., Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Lagos Colony :—

SIR,

We beg most respectfully to draw your Excellency's attention to the following matters affecting at once the the prosperity of the colony, our individual interests, and the general welfare of the community. It has come to our knowledge that the French nation has by means of an agent, accredited or not we cannot say, concluded an agreement with the king and Chiefs of Abeokuta, and has obtained from them by means of the payment of a substantial sum of money, the cession of their rights and privileges of government, the principal object being the diversion of the trade of that important country to the nearest seaboard possessions of the French, Government. We are informed that promises of a most liberal nature have been made—to wit, the making of a railway by the French Government, by way of and making Addo the principal connection between Porto Novo and Abeokuta We are further informed that promises have been held out that the slave system and native customs in existence at Abeokuta would not be interfered with by the French authorities. We are given to believe that the people generally of Abeokuta do not approve of the action of those of the authorities who have made the agreement, but sufficient has been done to make us naturally alarmed at the possibility of at least ten fifths of the trade of Lagos being suddenly cut away from us; and should this French agreement be carried out, we predict for both the Government revenue and our own interests such a reverse as will place Lagos in a position it can ill afford to occupy with any degree of credit, more especially when we recall her great influence in the past with the interior of Yoruba country. With due respect, we beg to suggest to your Excellency that the Government, be whatever means it may think fit, should secure for Lagos what we believe, in the light of former treaties, is its right with regard to the possessions of Porto, Addo, and Okeodan, whose rulers of their own free will invited and obtained the protection of this Government. We are fully alive to the advantages undoubtedly secured to us in holding Tosho and Hgegi creeks, which intercept the French seaboard, but desire to impress on the Government that if the places inland are in French hands the question requires solution from the starting-point of the difficulties; and with this view we respectfully suggest that immediate steps will be taken to put this Government on a friendly footing not only with Abeokuta, but with the places surrounding Yorubaland. How far this may be practicable we are unable to say, but we believe that if the Government were to delegate the protection of British interests to the principal authorities in each of the centres of population, binding them not to give over their country to any foreign Government and without seeking it ourselves, and at the same time give these authorities an annual stipend from the funds of the colony, the material prosperity of the colony would be advanced and the good will to Great Britain be much increased. We would only further express our fears that should this French occupation be brought about, not only would the waterway which leads directly to Abeokuta from Lagos be rendered comparatively valueless, but also, if we are to be guided by former action on the part of the French in their foreign and colonial possessions, the operations of the missionary societies who have so long held their place in Abeokuta to further the best interests of the people would be seriously imperilled. Trusting that these representations may receive the early consideration of the Government, we have, &c.

[Here follow the signatures of the principal Merchants at Lagos.]

THE MOST IMPORTANT OF ALL

Editor of "Early Dawn."

I heartily sympathize with the sentiments advocated in your paper, respecting the importance of teaching the heathen of western Africa, habits of industry, especially agriculture, and the mechanic arts, and the women how to dress properly, and to make their homes attractive, and cheerful. All these are good, and very necessary, but the most important work to be done by missionaries, is to show them their spiritual needs, and how to supply them. Is it as true respecting them as any others, that they must be impressed with the fundamental truths of God's Holy Book, viz, ruin by the fall of Adam, redumption through the death of Christ, and regeneration by the Holy Spirit. True they must be gotten out of the degraded and idle condition, in which many of them live, be taught to dress decently, and live respectably, but nothing short of their spiritual regeneration, will make them such as the Good Being intended they should be upon earth, or prepare them for a home in Heaven. The teaching and preaching of our missionaries, should tend to lead them to renounce heathenism, with all its demoralizing tendencies, and accept of christianity, or Christ, as all sufficient to prepare them to live right on earth, and to dwell among the sacred in Heaven I visited an old church in Germany, built in 1530, in which there was a wooden image, full size, representing Christ upon the cross. The expression of the face, with great nails in feet and hands, and blood trinkling from them, with mark of spear in the side, and paler blood oozing out of it, altogether made it seem to be the most correct representation of Christ's crucifixion I ever saw. Another thing in Germany is to ring a bell a 6, morning, at noon and at 6 at night, to remind people that they should pray. Better have a spirit within that prompts one to pray, and better have Christ in us, than in an image to look at. D. K. F.

THE INDUSTRIAL.

I have more than once asserted, is really necessary to the good of missions on this Coast, but some persons seem not to think as I do on this subject, and while this is their right, I would ask that unbiased men consider carefully the matter of Missions along this Coast, and see what has hindered their growth, especially in piety, whether it has not been the lack of suitable employment for religious persons, but also, if we are to be guided by former action on the part of the French in their foreign and colonial possessions, the operations of the missionary societies who have so long held their place in Abeokuta to further the best interests of the people would be seriously imperilled. Trusting that these representations may receive the early consideration of the Government, we have, &c.

[Here follow the signatures of the principal Merchants at Lagos.]

THE MOST IMPORTANT OF ALL

Editor of "Early Dawn."

I heartily sympathize with the sentiments advocated in your paper, respecting the importance of teaching the heathen of western Africa, habits of industry, especially agriculture, and the mechanic arts, and the women how to dress properly, and to make their homes attractive, and cheerful. All these are good, and very necessary, but the most important work to be done by missionaries, is to show them their spiritual needs, and how to supply them. Is it as true respecting them as any others, that they must be impressed with the fundamental truths of God's Holy Book, viz, ruin by the fall of Adam, redumption through the death of Christ, and regeneration by the Holy Spirit. True they must be gotten out of the degraded and idle condition, in which many of them live, be taught to dress decently, and live respectably, but nothing short of their spiritual regeneration, will make them such as the Good Being intended they should be upon earth, or prepare them for a home in Heaven. The teaching and preaching of our missionaries, should tend to lead them to renounce heathenism, with all its demoralizing tendencies, and accept of christianity, or Christ, as all sufficient to prepare them to live right on earth, and to dwell among the sacred in Heaven I visited an old church in Germany, built in 1530, in which there was a wooden image, full size, representing Christ upon the cross. The expression of the face, with great nails in feet and hands, and blood trinkling from them, with mark of spear in the side, and paler blood oozing out of it, altogether made it seem to be the most correct representation of Christ's crucifixion I ever saw. Another thing in Germany is to ring a bell a 6, morning, at noon and at 6 at night, to remind people that they should pray. Better have a spirit within that prompts one to pray, and better have Christ in us, than in an image to look at. D. K. F.

THE INDUSTRIAL.

I have more than once asserted, is really necessary to the good of missions on this Coast, but some persons seem not to think as I do on this subject, and while this is their right, I would ask that unbiased men consider carefully the matter of Missions along this Coast, and see what has hindered their growth, especially in piety, whether it has not been the lack of suitable employment for religious persons, but also, if we are to be guided by former action on the part of the French in their foreign and colonial possessions, the operations of the missionary societies who have so long held their place in Abeokuta to further the best interests of the people would be seriously imperilled. Trusting that these representations may by means of the payment of a substantial sum of money, the cession of their rights and privileges of government, the principal object being the diversion of the trade of that important country to the nearest seaboard possessions of the French, Government. We are informed that promises of a most liberal nature have been made—to wit, the making of a railway by the French Government, by way of and making Addo the principal connection between Porto Novo and Abeokuta We are further informed that promises have been held out that the slave system and native customs in existence at Abeokuta would not be interfered with by the French authorities. We are given to believe that the people generally of Abeokuta do not approve of the action of those of the authorities who have made the agreement, but sufficient has been done to make us naturally alarmed at the possibility of at least ten fifths of the trade of Lagos being suddenly cut away from us; and should this French agreement be carried out, we predict for both the Government revenue and our own interests such a reverse as will place Lagos in a position it can ill afford to occupy with any degree of credit, more especially when we recall her great influence in the past with the interior of Yoruba country. With due respect, we beg to suggest to your Excellency that the Government, be whatever means it may think fit, should secure for Lagos what we believe, in the light of former treaties, is its right with regard to the possessions of Porto, Addo, and Okeodan, whose rulers of their own free will invited and obtained the protection of this Government. We are fully alive to the advantages undoubtedly secured to us in holding Tosho and Hgegi creeks, which intercept the French seaboard, but desire to impress on the Government that if the places inland are in French hands the question requires solution from the starting-point of the difficulties; and with this view we respectfully suggest that immediate steps will be taken to put this Government on a friendly footing not only with Abeokuta, but with the places surrounding Yorubaland. How far this may be practicable we are unable to say, but we believe that if the Government were to delegate the protection of British interests to the principal authorities in each of the centres of population, binding them not to give over their country to any foreign Government and without seeking it ourselves, and at the same time give these authorities an annual stipend from the funds of the colony, the material prosperity of the colony would be advanced and the good will to Great Britain be much increased. We would only further express our fears that should this French occupation be brought about, not only would the waterway which leads directly to Abeokuta from Lagos be rendered comparatively valueless, but also, if we are to be guided by former action on the part of the French in their foreign and colonial possessions, the operations of the missionary societies who have so long held their place in Abeokuta to further the best interests of the people would be seriously imperilled. Trusting that these representations may

THE MOST IMPORTANT OF ALL

Editor of "Early Dawn."

I heartily sympathize with the sentiments advocated in your paper, respecting the importance of teaching the heathen of western Africa, habits of industry, especially agriculture, and the mechanic arts, and the women how to dress properly, and to make their homes attractive, and cheerful. All these are good, and very necessary, but the most important work to be done by missionaries, is to show them their spiritual needs, and how to supply them. Is it as true respecting them as any others, that they must be impressed with the fundamental truths of God's Holy Book, viz, ruin by the fall of Adam, redumption through the death of Christ, and regeneration by the Holy Spirit. True they must be gotten out of the degraded and idle condition, in which many of them live, be taught to dress decently, and live respectably, but nothing short of their spiritual regeneration, will make them such as the Good Being intended they should be upon earth, or prepare them for a home in Heaven. The teaching and preaching of our missionaries, should tend to lead them to renounce heathenism, with all its demoralizing tendencies, and accept of christianity, or Christ, as all sufficient to prepare them to live right on earth, and to dwell among the sacred in Heaven I visited an old church in Germany, built in 1530, in which there was a wooden image, full size, representing Christ upon the cross. The expression of the face, with great nails in feet and hands, and blood trinkling from them, with mark of spear in the side, and paler blood oozing out of it, altogether made it seem to be the most correct representation of Christ's crucifixion I ever saw. Another thing in Germany is to ring a bell a 6, morning, at noon and at 6 at night, to remind people that they should pray. Better have a spirit within that prompts one to pray, and better have Christ in us, than in an image to look at. D. K. F.

THE INDUSTRIAL.

I have more than once asserted, is really necessary to the good of missions on this Coast, but some persons seem not to think as I do on this subject, and while this is their right, I would ask that unbiased men consider carefully the matter of Missions along this Coast, and see what has hindered their growth, especially in piety, whether it has not been the lack of suitable employment for religious persons, but also, if we are to be guided by former action on the part of the French in their foreign and colonial possessions, the operations of the missionary societies who have so long held their place in Abeokuta to further the best interests of the people would be seriously imperilled. Trusting that these representations may ted some time is their fires, but alas for their present state, they have become dead to righteousness through the blighting influence, of that kind of employment, rum selling, that in its very nature, shuts out the light of God and Heaven, and exposes the soul to the diabolical influences of the pit.

Where is the man who can be a truly pious man of God—though taught by Angels—that can at the begining of life, enter the employment of one of the very best of our Merchant river Factories amid the usual surroundings of such places and live a godly life? Or who can follow the ways of most young men in the civil service and live a religious life? and yet the civil service I believe is to be prefered to the Mercantile, but I am sure that no one who knows the trials of either can say that it is a proper place for anyone trained up under Missionaries or pious parents, to live a truly religious life; hence it is my full conviction that missions must teach some useful employments, that their young men and women, may be at least started in the way of a good life and through the means of Industrial School's and homes some better training given to the rising generation.

J. ALBERT

IRRIGATION.

Now that the rains are about over Nowy. begins to bestow her blessings of sun shine, Missionaries in the country Districts and even about the large Towns will find it an excellent time for going out among the people and making a more thorough canvass of their fields, holding prayers and meetings with people in the farkies and Villages are the busy days of making farm come on special effort should now be made for revival and ingathering; it is the harvest season for Itinerating from place to place. Every one who is accustomed to the itinerant work will readily feel the force of these remarks and I trust as some have already begun the work of special effort and others promise to do so; that all will soon be generally engaged, and especially do I desire that this may be the case among our own missionaries, so that at the coming Annual meeting in January we may be able to make a grand showing for God and the Church, so brethren let there be a general move, all along the line, throughout each District from the Bompeh on the north to the Gbargroo on the south and we will surely succeed if we trust in the Lord.

J. A. E.

Individual Effort.

Is often overlooked, or otherwise not considered important, by very many persons; but such is surely a great mistake, on the part of any one, but more so on the part of Christians. As any one is able to influence, one or more souls for good or evil to serve God and be saved or to neglect him and be lost. Then let every Christian exert individual effort, for the saving of others.

E.

The Early Dawn.
BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Nov. 15, 1888.

THE GBANGROO DISTRICT.

Having made not less than three excursions, to the above named District within the past five weeks, and recently returned from the last of the three. And having carefully noted all that has come under our observation we are obliged to make some remarks on the present condition of the country in that part. Politically there appears to be much need of reform in both as refers to the native chiefs and also the police exercising authority in the District, for it seems that both could be of more benefit to the public, if they did not have such a high regard to self interest, in some cases too police are said not to be the most sober men on the rivers, several such reports have, at times, come to our hearing. And while we cannot vouch for such a thing yet the reports are bad and it not true ought to be stopped. Evidently there is a shortness of crops, of every kind, throughout the District which begins to be felt already almost everyone, and increasing this cry of hard times is the abundance of cheap gin that is now being sold through the country by trading voyagers and subfactors at five shillings per case, for which the peoples' rice is being taken in exchange and thus the provision supply is being exhausted; if this state of things continues it is indeed difficult to say what the end will be. But there is another thing which we regard with suspision, and that is the great number of persons from the interior, that are to be seen at times passing about the country, doing little or no work, but who claim to be in search of employment, which may indeed be true, but it should be remembered that these persons, very many of them, would engage in plundering expeditions, as readily as in any other kind of work; and after they have become familiar with the country, would form a very dangerous kind of robbers; of course theiving has already commenced and must increase while ever there is so many idle persons in the country.

Rumors of war must continue while ever large or even small bands of strangers continue to come down. However few seem to apprehend any danger, to the District from the talked of wars, all seem to be intended for other parts Shaingay is mentioned yet in some towns of Imperch, we learn, that there are feelings of unrest and fences are either being rebuilt or are to be rebuilt.

The Girls' Home of the Bompeh Mission, Rotofunk, we learn, from Rev. R. N. West Supt., will be formally opened on the 18th Dec. proximo. We hope to be present on the occasion, which we anticipate will be a grand one. Revd J. Gomer, Supt of Shaingay Mission, Profr. D. F. Wilberforce, Principal of Rufus Clark and Wife Training School and others, it is expected, will be present and take part in the exercises.

Dear Mr Editor,—The christian religion enjoins us to be charitable to wards each other; but when the conduct of professing christians becomes scandalous in spite of constant preaching and daily warnings, it should be publicly denounced.

The actions of many so called christians in this place have do en the cause of their religion being brought to contempt. The heathens by whom we are immediately surrounded entertain very little respect for our religion, owing to the fact that many christians resort to them often at the dead of night for help in ways that are dark and criminal.

It is related by a trustworthy person that the wife of a heathen man was asked to go to church, when the husband remarked, why should my wife go to church? You church going people come always to me for help out of your difficulties and to get money. If the God that you are serving is able to do all these things for you why do you come to me? I am able to help my wife as I am helping many of you—Is this not sinking religion in the mud? The late Revd. Ouriley Nicol used to tell his congregation that those of them who had not finished with the world had better stay away; for he would rather be satisfied with even half a dozen earnest and sincere members than having a great number of wolves in sheep's clothing.

Christians are known to mix up with the heathens here not for the purpose of bringing the latter to light but with the object of going into the dark with them.

During the mission of the Revd. J. Johnson at Sherbro in 1886 it was generally supposed that the moral atmosphere of Bonthe was largely purified of its immoral and superstitious stench but I lament to find that the atmosphere is at present more tainted with both these baneful and loathsome vices than it hitherto had been.

It is to be, however, hoped that faithful ministers of religion will not relax their energy to denounce such pernicious practices & will also endeavour to enlighten the heathens as to the true character of these nominal christians who mix up with them as friends professing christians would come from sending for Gregree and Fangay men to come and do our midse and do more mischief in addition to the heavy catalogue of iniquities already existing and prevailing on us.

They should endeavour to free themselves entirely from their immoral ways, which they take so much delight in, otherwise the already slow progress of religion in Sherbro will come to a dead stand still, by the corrupt leaves of heathenism, and the heathens will have occasion to lament the christian religion as a mockery, and regard the christian himself as a mere object of ridicule

Let us then be careful to avert or prevent the heavy calamity, which might sooner or later overtake us in this place as the consequence of impunitence and vice long persisted in by a heedless people.

Yrs. truly—MOURNER

Bonthe 13th Nov. '88

Dear Editor,—The followigg may serve to illustrate the value that is attached to the christian religion in this place by some of those embracing it—It is credibly reported that about two months ago a certain ex preacher at Bonthe having received a communication about some shipment from England for him in the possession of an Agent in Freetown, endeavoured to raise money to pay off the balance on the goods in order that they might reach him in time, but in this he failed.

Thinking of no other feasible plan that he might fall upon to help him he resorted to a "Marry man" to assist him with the charms to get out his goods, as might have been expected the Marry man consented, and they bargained for £3, The ex preacher giving his clock valued at 30s. as payment in advance for the miraculous work to be undertaken by the worthy disciple of Mohamet. Certain charms were given to the ex-preacher to be buried in his fire place and near the outer side and a magic ink was prepared with letter asking the agent in Freetown to forward the goods was written—but alas, weeks passed on, and no shipment came for this new mohammedan convert, the ex preacher, whose eyes were now opened to the deception.

Behold the disappointed man in his sandy garb! barefooted and unshod! vowing vengeance against this worthy mohammedan priest or prophet, and going from place to place lamenting his folly and fate.

Yours truly,
DETECTIVE.

Bonthe, Nov. 8th 1888.

For the "Early Dawn."

"Where there is no foundation, the whole fabric must fall"

Mr Editor,—Allow me to write you the following for the serious consideration of the authorities of the Sierra Leone, Native Pastorate Church in Sierra Leone, the serious inconveniences to which the congregation of St. Matthew's Church in this place was placed on Sunday morning the 11th inst. and which we trust they will take into deep consideration and relieve us soon from such inconveniences.

Mr. Pasha the Catechist in charge of above Church having left for the rivers on the 3rd inst. Mr. Nicol the Catechist of Victoria was deputed to conduct the morning service at Bonthe and Mr. Brown the school teacher at Bonthe to officiate at Victoria. Accordingly on the 4th inst services were conducted by Mr. Nicol at Bonthe, but how soon have our hopes been blighted, for as the bell was rung on Sunday 11th inst after Mr. B. had conducted the little class and proceeded to Victoria—the congregation having been seated and waited till 11 15 when the Wesleyan Church had commenced their service and Mr. Nicol did not put in appearance Mr. Crown (a Committee member) entered from the vestry and opened the service, which he was obliged to conduct by reading the prayers and delivering the benediction.

Mr. Editor, My reason for writing this article is to show the feelings of the congregation at the treatment received, it calls to mind that we are indeed without a Pastor or a guide while the Wesleyan Church boasted on that day of having 2 officiating priests.

I beg you to arouse the heart of the authorities at Freetown that they may come to our help and send us a shepherd to lead and guide us.

Yours,
A CHURCH MEMBER.

Bonth, Nov 12, '88.

P.S.—May I ask, why do not the Committee allow Mr. Brown to conduct the services in the absence of the Catechist in charge. Is he not qualified or was he not in charge of York Isld. and has he not proved his efficiency while in charge of that place?—C.M.

Dear Editor,—In reply to the "Marriage Question" of the 31st ultmo, I shall be thankful, if you will kindly place at my disposal a little space in your valuable journal the "Dawn."

As every contract is subjected to failure, when the contractors are indifferent to the responsibility they undertake, so too marriage is a failure to those who slightly regard the hymeneal obligation. Sure enough "the cleanest garden must have a few weeds." Marriage is not a failure; because it was instituted by One who knows no alteration, and fails not. When a contract is drawn between two parties, each party is required to discharge faithfully his part in it consistent to the conditions stated in the contract; and although dissatisfaction may be experienced, yet the contract is still legal and good, except in case of dissolution, then it is null and void. It is a warrantable fact that there are hundreds who have found just in the outset of their marriage career, dissatisfactions, unpleasantness, and the life becomes burdensome and dolorous, the anticipated bright sunshine turns on a cloudy aspect, when they expect health, wealth, and everything passes on serenely, to the contrary;

"There're pleasures in married life,
And there're crosses too," and there are thousands who have as cause to regret ever since they have enlisted themselves in the matrimonial army, and the model of their life's living testimony that Marriage "is not a failure; for marriage in itself cannot fail. Divorcements, & separations must be when the marriage is not sanctioned by God.—"for ye ye well assured, that so many as are coupled together otherwise than God's Word doth allow are not joined together by God; neither is their matrimony lawful." Are we to understand that because many Mercantile Firms have failed most fearfully in business, therefore commerce is a failure? Or because the soil of many countries is bad and unproductive, therefore agriculture is a failure? Is it because the Laws are wilfully trampled upon and violated by contamnicous men daily, therefore the Laws are not valid, and must fail? As there are institutions in business, so there are ups and downs in marriage life; and he who manages the affairs of this honorable life properly, although there times, altercations, dissatisfactions &c. must be experienced, yet he will always meet with success in every sphere of life, and marriage instead of failure will ultimately be a blessing.

Yours &c.,
F. VERNER.

Nov 12, '88.

NEWS ITEMS.

Catechist Easha left for the rivers on the 3rd inst.

Nov. 6.—Fah Woondoo arrested at Sulymah and sent down, by Capt. Crawford.

8—The lifeless body of Mr Alfred H. Harding, (commonly known as Gbabtchearkah) who was reported to have been missing from his factory at Mocalli in the Big Boom river was found at Whymah and sent down. He was buried at 11 a. m., this day.

Mr. Chambers (an old resident at Mocolo) died on his way to Bonthe from the river and was buried at 4 p. m. the 8th inst.

It is reported that several persons were shot about the arrest of Fah Woondoo in the Sulymah District, about the first of the month, three or four of whom, we believe, were killed or died from the effect of their wounds.

War rumors are current in the Gbangroo and various fasses of reports come from different quarters, but we believe the universal feeling in that quarter is that Francis Caulker of Bembehoh, has applied for war from the interior, and that it has only been prevented from coming down by the vigilance of the Authorities.

Personal

Rev. D. F. Wilberforce principal of Rufus Clark and Wife Theological Training school Shaingay we learn spent sabbath the 11th inst at Popnkey, Imperch.

Messrs. Henry Barnett and Peter Radcliffe of Freetown, were in this place about 10th inst and called, but in the absence of the writer, we are obliged to them for their cards.

Mrs. F. A. Morrison, of Avery Station who had spent a few days in this place returned to Avery on the 10th inst.

IS MARRIAGE A FAILURE!

Dear Mr Editor,—I observed in your issue of the 31st ultimo that your correspondent "Mz." has invited public discussion on the above subject.

While believing that this subject might be taken up only by those who have special qualification, yet I may be permitted just to say a word or two about it.

In my humble opinion if all the solemn vows made by both parties contracting marriage had been sincerely kept there would have been nothing but happiness resulting from marriage life. The fact of a solution be made of any of the vows by one or both of the parties, especially in the important item of "forsaking all other" it is not to be wondered that unhappiness and discontent speedily follow—Without speedy amendment of life in that circle, men would rightly say that marriage is a failure.

It must be borne in mind that marriage is an institution ordained by God himself and it cannot be denied that what He has established must be perfect; and as such whatever disappointment or misery may attend the natural union of the sexes must be traced to human infirmities and imprudence or sinfulness.—But there is an exception to every rule.

In speaking of marriage I do not mean the sort contracted between giddy and inexperienced young men and the gay and light young women the former of whom may be compared to a drunken man that would commit any act while under the influence of alcohol, and no sooner he is free from its effects, then he becomes a repentant as regards the latter it is all blank with her the ignorance she exhibits as regards a wife's duties is pitiable to be called a wife or Mrs. so and so has been her sole aim and after that is attained, she thinks that that there is nothing further to be done but to be flattering about in gaudy attire uttering idles tales—Well I say in such case marriage is a complete failure;

Parties contracting it will always be found at each others' throat and life will be a serious burden to them.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for giving the above space.

Yrs truly—AFRICANUS

Bonthe 7th Nov. '88.

Dear Mr. Editor,—You will kindly allow me to make this enquiry!

Why is it that since the departure of Mr. Mitford from this place, the Government officers have never been found open at the usual hours for the transaction of business!

My reasons for asking this question is because I have had occasion to go to the Commandant's office, Post office, and Customs House to transact business during Office hours, but never found them open for business, which has often placed me into a great deal of inconveniences.

I believe the official business hours are from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. and why should not the officers be found at their posts during these hours.

I hope this evil will be remedied by the Commandant compelling his officers to be at their posts during business hours and thus prevent the many inconveniences and loss of time to which merchants and others are often exposed to.

By inserting this, you will greatly oblige me.

Yrs—NEGOCIANT

Nov. 10 '88

News from Shaingay District.

Dear Bro. Evans,—If you have space please tell the public through the "Early Dawn" that Shaingay District still has its head above water, and is strugling against a strong current, within the last quarter we have lost four of our best workers, which is a fearfull loss for us just at this time, Rev. J. C. Sawyerr and wife of Mambo he having been paralysed so that we loose the two, they have been with us 11 years and have done good service during that time, Mr. Sawyerr has built up both Kooloonge and Mambo Station, Mr J. A. Richards came to us in June 86 and married one of our best girls she was doing a grand work amongst the women of their circuit (Kooloonge) she had also a very interesting class of young girls that she was training in the various branches of house keeping, we could ill afford to loose her. He too was an able teacher and has done good service, he had a call from his father to go to the Gambia, so we loose them, these changes are not good for the work, but the Lord knows best, we have been fortunate in securing very good people I believe for both of these Stations, these are two of our largest and best Stations, each has a circuit of twenty odd villages.

Our people still insist on being frightened about the war. I believe the chief has about four prisoners in Shaingay now that are charged with having a hand in the war, some villages are almost entirely deserted, tho His Excellency the Governor has written the Chief that there is no cause to be alarmed one of the prisoners declares on oath that Francis Caulker said that tho he swore on all the Bibles and medicine in the country that he had no hand in the war, yet his war must come. The Chief I believe is doing all in his power to ferret out the conspirators, whether these parties really have a hand in the plot or not remain to be proved. I am just in from a 4 days trip up the Cockburrow, there is still much suffering on account of hunger, and I do not wonder at it, for in one village of about 15 huts there was four rum-sellers rum, gin, and tobacco was their stock with this they buy up the people's rice. A big palaver was being talked in one village, Mr. A. owed Mr. B. and Mr. B seized Mr. A's child he pledged this child to Mr. C. for rice and C pawned the child to Mr D, for cloth and the child died in Mr. D's hands and now D. demands his money of C and C comes on and so on down, people are there from many villages. I called them together and shewed my magic-lantern pictures the verdict was eh! m pothe-noh. J. GOMER.

Shaingay Nov. 12th '88

Shaingay Mission House,
October 27, 1888.

My dear christian friends,—I know every one of you who have been interested in me will be surprised to hear about my departure to another country. It was just about the time for going to my daily duty, when I heard a rap at my door and on opening the door I saw a young man with letters from my dear husband, telling me to get up at once and come. At once I commenced packing up my traps, and dispatched a young man to my dear old father, (who seems to be so sorry to part with me) for a boat.

After this I hastened down to Cline's Town, and then to Bowmah, to inform my people of the same, and I asked the whole of them to come and have a parting prayer meeting with me.

And as for our Missionaries, those who have sacrificed their lives for Evangelizing our dark continent of Africa, such as our dear fathers the Revs. Joseph Gomer and Evans, I will be ever giving them credit for their work in our midst. Our own brother, Rev. Wilberforce, I am not able to say any thing about him, because I know every people will say he ought to do more than that, because he is our own blood, but there are others who have chances like him, and what are they doing for their country? I have been under him and his dear wife for some years, and I know what they taught me, hence I say again that I owe the Mission and God a great debt of gratitude.

I will return unto you again my dear christian friends, God being my helper, because I know that there is nothing hard with God.

Just as soon as they heard the bell at 7 o'clock, p. m., the church was crowed with people Oh! my Christian friends, you could not imagine my feeling's there at that moment, when I hear my Bowmah people praying for me my husband and themselves.

But that is not all till the morning of my starting for Shaingay, when Mr. Humphrey and the school children conveyed us down to the beach. There we had our parting voice and prayers, and then sailed for Shaingay, where we met our dear old mother, Mrs. Gomer, who was so glad to welcome us. Although I am very sorry to leave this part of the vineyard, but I am very proud for the learning that I have got through our dear Shaingay Mission, and I am heart for our Mission any where the Lord will direct me to go.—I am, one of your daughters in Christ,

KATE B. RICHARDS.

A certain young gentleman in this town named A. B. made overtures to fall in love with Miss Z. W. the latter refused the offer, alleging as an excuse that he has not a collar on

This is an hint for the article headed "Is marriage a failure"! which was published in your last issue. Further particulars will be reported in your next.

Yrs—A Lookas on

Bonthe Nov 13, '88

Obituary.

Mr. Samuel Benj. Sawyer formerly of Victoria Sherbro and uncle to Mr. Bidwell Coker of this place, died at Fernando-po some time about the month of August 1888. Leaving numerous friends and relatives to bewail their loss. Distant friends will please accept this intimation:—

DROWNED.—Mr. Alfred H. Harding, Trader of Mocabai, in the Big Boom River, Sherbro, and brother to John T. Harding of of Freetown, was drowned on the 4th Nov. inst, 1888.

His remains were found at Whymah on the 7th inst. and brought down and interred at the Cemetry at Bonthe.

Distant friends will please accept this intimation.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

F. & A. SWANZY

GEO. LEACH

Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogshead of about 550 lbs. nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand— in similpackages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the UP-RIVER TRADERS, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A. SWANZY.
ALPHA FACTORY.
June 28th '88. Sherbro

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

Arrived "Niger" with 1,005 casks oil and 560 Kernels. Passed Grand Canary "Opobo" with 1,260 casks oil and 380 tons Kernels (about 800 casks oil are for Havre. Passed Sierra Leone "Calabar" 1,260 casks oil, 590 tons kernels. Passed Acera "Kinsembo" from South Coast with 1,200 casks oil and 600 tons Kernels.

PALM OIL.—During the fortnigth a large business has been done, and we close nearly £1 higher, but rather quieter we shall probably have a quieter time for a week or two. Quotations:—

Lagos £22 15 0—Bonny Cameroons and Old Calabar £21. 0 0—Benin, Accra, Addah, Quittah, Pram Pram, Popo, Loanda £20 10 0—Brass, Niger, and Few Calabar £20 5. 0—Congo £19 10 6 to 19 12 6—Sherbro £18 17 6 to 19 0 0—Appam, Chama, Anamaboe, Saltpond and winnebah 18 10 0—Dixcove and Liberian 18 5 0

PALM KERNELS.—Generally steady, the medium kinds being in brisk demand at full prices. Quotations:—

Lagos, Old and New Calabar, Bonny, & Cameroons £10 10 0—Brass and Sao Thome £10 7 6—Benin and Congo 10 2 6 to 10. 5. 0—Liberian and Sherbro £9 17 6 to £9 18 9—Quittah and Addah 9 17 6—Saltpond, Appam, and Winnebah £8 5 0 to 9. 5. 0.

COPRA.—£12 to £12 10 per ton. No business.

BENNISEED—40s. to 50s. per 384 lbs.

COFFEE.—There has been a very brisk demand and prices have gone up considerably Bold Berry 60s Medium and Small 58s. Liberian 55s. to 56

GROUND NUTS—Small sales at £12 10 per ton.

INDIA RUBBER.—Very good demand. Sales during the fortnight 100 tons at full prices. Quotations:—

Gambia Niggers, fair to prime	1s. 9d. to 1s. 11d.
Sierra Leone do. do.	1s. 5d. to 1s. 7½d.
Thimbles	1s. 2d. to 1s. 6d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 2d. to 1s 4½d.
Cameroon and Old Calabar	1s. 2d. to 1s. 3½d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim and Assinee	1s. 0d. to 1s. 4d.
Soft and Flaky Ball 0s.	7d. to 0. 9d.
Liberian	0s. 10½d. to 1s. 2½d.
Salt Pond	0s. 8d. to 0s. 11d.
Accra, pressed and dried	0s. 9d. to 1s. 6d.
Do. ordinary	0s. 7½d. 0s. 8d.
Flake and Lumps	0s. 6d. to 0s. 6½d.

GUM COPAL—Decidedly better demand. Sierra Leone 2½d. to 7d. per lb, and some Accra at 27s. 6d. to 36s. per cwt. Some Red Congo sold at 55s.

BEESWAX—Gambia sold at £4 15 per cwt.

GINGER— } No sales.
CHILLIES— }
GUINEA GRAINS— }

CALABAR BEANS—5½d. per lb.

BARWOOD—No Sales. £2. 12. 6. to £2 15 per ton.

EBONY—No Arrivals. Old Calabar £4 5 to £4 10 Gaboon £4 10s. to £7 per ton.

KOLA NUTS— }
PORCUPINE QUILLS— } Valueless.
IVORY—Sales take place shortly.

MONKEY SKINS—The Sales took place on the 10th inst. when 20,034 Skins were offered and 19,136 sold at a very considerable advance. Lots containing a fair proportion of large sizes and well haired skins were especially in request, fetching 1st to 1s. 6d. advance, while very nice lots reached even higher prices. It is expected that these rates will be maintained at the next Sales which will be held on the 2nd. November. Red and "common" skins were entirely neglected, and the Grey are but in small request.

QUOTATIONS—Selected 6d. 6d to 8s. per skin.
Firsts and Seconds 4s. to 7s 6d. per skin.
Mixed Good Lots 3s. 6d. to 7s per skin.
Mixed Fair Lots 3s. to 4s 7d per skin.
Seconds and Thirds 1s. 6d. to 1s. 8d. per skin.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool
Oct. 12th, 1888.

A BARREL OF WHISKEY.

A drayman rolled forth from his cart to the street.
A tar headed barrel, well bound and complete;
And on it read letters, like forked tongues of flame,
Emblazoned the grade, number quality, fame.
Of this world renowned whiskey from somebody's still.
Who arrested the grain on the way to the mill.

So there stood the barrel delivered, but I
Could see that a shadow was hovering nigh,
A sulphurous shadow that grew, as I gazed,
To the form of Mephisto. Though surely amazed
I ventured to question this imp of the realm,
Where Vice is the pilot, with crime at the helm,
And asked him politely his mission to name.
And if he was licensed to retail the same Identical barrel of whiskey which he Was fondly surveying with demonian glee!

"Oh, I never handle the stuff," he replied,
"My partners mortal are trusty and tried,
Mayhap presently some you might wish to look
At the invoice complete—I will read from this book
You will find that this barrel contains something more
Than forty two gallons of whiskey galore.
And ere I could slip but another word in
He counted it off guilty, this cargo of sin:

"A barrel of headaches, of heartaches, of woes,
A barrel of curses, a barrel of blows;
A barrel of tears from a world weary wife
A barrel of sorrow, a barrel of strife;
A barrel of all unavailing regret;
A barrel of cares and a barrel of debt;
A barrel of crime and a barrel of pain,
A barrel of hopes ever blasted and vain;
A barrel of falsehood, a barrel of cries
That hail from the maniac's lips as he dies;
A barrel of agony, heavy and dull;
A barrel of poison—of this nearly full,
A barrel of poverty, ruin and blight;
A barrel of terrors that grow with the night,
A barrel of hunger, and a barrel of groans
A barrel of orphans' most pitiful moans;
A barrel of serpents that hiss as they pass
From the head on the liquor that glows in the glass.
My barrel! my treasure! I did thee forwell
Sow ye the foul seed, I will reap it in hell.

—Sel.

To attempt to serve God without love is like rowing against the tide. But love is the wheels and makes duty sweet. The angels are swift-winged in God's service, because they love him. Jacob thought seven years but little for the love he had for Rachel. Love is never weary.—Sel

God calls men when they are busy—Satan when he finds them idle. If Satan catches any one idle he is sure to find him work.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, NOVEMBER 30, 1888. No. 22

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0 6 0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0 5 0
Half yearly by Mail,	0 3 0
Ditto, deliv'd in Bonthe,	0 2 6

Annual Communications to J. A. Ecob, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gumm, Shenanga, Mr. E. A. Lewis, Freetown, West Africa, Rev. Wm. McKee Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner	The Commandant.
Deputy Coroner,	Wm. Hughes,
Chief Clerk,	W. Hughes.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers
Bailiff.	F. E. R. Buckner.
Sub Treas. & Col Chief Clerk	H. H. Garrett J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole
Asst Examg. Officer Sulymah Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts,
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Vacant.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.)
Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett.
Asst Do. Rev R. C. Taylor

It is almost hideous to contemplate, the sin't of superstition and vice, if not crime that is now fostered among the professing Christians, of the Sherbro and River Districts, lying just about us, men and women of Christian parentage and all the numerous bible advantages that have thus been thrown about them, are to-day to be found seeking out heathen means of success. And also of indulgence in vice and crime Shame on such a wretched people! We have many reports of the lamentable practice of christian men and women in this place even going to Mohamedans and pagans for help out of their troubles; what kind of a Christian profession is that which seeks in heathen and other Charms help in time of trouble?

LETTERS TO YOUNG MINISTERS.

Your Studies.

If you would be a strong minister, one who shall be of real value and force in the community, in the pulpit, in the conference, and in the Church, you must be a student, not simply before you take work, but after you are placed on a field. No matter what your advantages have been beforehand, no matter if you have graduated at the head of your class in the best college in the land, and again at the head of your class in the best theological seminary in the land, and have added a couple of postgraduate courses to boot, if you cease to be a student you are doomed, your days are numbered. If on the other hand, you have not had the advantage of a college and seminary training, the reasons why you should be a faithful, constant, vigorous student are, if possible, still more imperative. One reason why so many men are so soon "laid on the shelf" is because they have failed to keep their minds fresh and vigorous by study. This is not a plea for less godliness, less piety, less zeal, less warmth, less earnestness, not by any means,—but it is a plea to have this piety, consecration, zeal, and earnestness supported and made forceful and effective by good intellectual backing. After all, real and permanent results are not secured by mere noise and bluster. Even the best evangelists, those who have won the greatest number of souls to Christ as mere revivalists, have been men well furnished intellectually, and have been constant students. Take the example of Wesley or Otterbein. Both of these men had been thoroughly educated, and were all their life long diligent students. The greatest revivalists of our country, Jonathan Edwards, Timothy Dwight, and Charles G. Finney, were men of thorough previous training, and were everlasting students of the word of God, of theology, philosophy, science, and literature. Mr. Moody, who has been so extraordinarily successful in our own day, is marvelously well versed in the Scriptures; for he not only has profoundly studied them in the past, but is probably not surpassed by all our country in the constancy of his study of them. Major Whittle, who is acknowledged to be a better sermonizer than Mr. Moody, though not so powerful in some other respects, is an inveterate student.

Now, take the case of the historic names in the church, such as have thought for the church; have preached with power, have won multitudes of souls have made our theologies; have built up the church, have been pillars. You will think of Ignatius, Justin Martyr, Theophilus, Athenagoras, Irenæus, Clement of Alexandria, Tertullian, Origen, Cyprian, Gregory Lactantius, Athanasius, Jerome, Ambrose, Augustine, Anselm, Thomas Aquinas, William of Occam, Luther, Melancthon, Calvin, Erasmus, & many others, whose names will occur to any reader of church history. What of Thomas Chalmers, Thomas Guthrie, Lyman Beecher, Horatius Bonar, Henry Ward Beecher, John Hall, Phillips Brooks but for their constant application to their studies? Charles Spurgeon is a constant and laborious student, and so is Talmage. The story of the application to study of Dr. J. H. Vincent, now an honored bishop, is full of instruction, and ought to be of inspiration to any young preacher.

But I heard a young minister say not long since, "I never expect to be very much or do very much." I do not know just what was behind his words, whether it was laziness or an utter failure to understand the nature and demands of the office of the gospel ministry. In either case it may be seriously questioned whether he is not responding to the call of some other man. A man who is lazy or indifferent to the responsibilities and requirements of this high and sacred calling has no business to be in it.

Says Dr. Murphy, "The Spirit of God will not inspire a man without his own efforts. Nothing will take the place of laborious and persevering study for the faithful discharge of the duties of this office." "Study is to be the incessant occupation of his life. This work of replenishing and strengthening the mind is fundamental in the ministerial office. The pastor must study, study, STUDY, or he will not grow or even live as a true workman for Christ."

Professor Hoppin says, "Scholarly culture adds power to the mind, connects it, toughens it, renders it a more polished instrument." "In the course of years, other things being equal, a minister who studies and one who does not will begin to exhibit a marked difference in their influence upon the community and in the estimation in which they are held. Studious ministers will wear out popular ministers."

President Wayland's rule was "that in order to increase the force of our mental faculties we should use them to the utmost."

John Wesley wrote to a minister who had neglected study, "Hence your talent in preaching does not increase. It is just the same as it was seven years ago. It is lively, but not deep. There is little variety. There is no compass of thought. Study only can supply this. You can never be a deep preacher without it any more than a thorough Christian."

For his own growth, then, for development in his own being, for power, for worth, for length of usefulness, and even for his own higher and richer experience, the minister should be a diligent student. Oh, how I wish I could infuse this thought deep in every young minister's heart—the absolute necessity of being a student, now, henceforth, and always, a diligent student, a hard student. Stick to your books, and do not lay them down until you lay them down at the edge of the grave.—AMICUS—In Tales upo.

Industrial Missions

Would not cost more than other Missions in their establishment, and might be just as religious, in so far as the lives of the members of the Mission are concerned, at least. I can see no reason why they might not be; for if religious instructors are employed in such missions, and directed to hold regular meetings for the spiritual benefit of those under their training, as often as they are usually held in other missions. I am quite sure that they would secure a larger and more interested attendance where there were larger numbers brought together; and these greater numbers could be more possible where every individual does something for his own support; let the means at the command of the mission be large or small. For an instance, suppose the mission has a support from abroad of five hundred pounds, and the mission earns, by Industrial work two hundred an fifty pounds, it may easily be seen that its operations may be increased fifty per cent or the supporting society relieved of half its burden through the Industry of its mission. Besides the financial advantage gained, those trained as well as those employed in such a mission, would be the better in Physical—and I venture to say spiritual—health, the truth being that Satan always has some mischief for idle hands to do, and from experience I can say he makes no exception of missionaries. And further I can say also from observation, that every thing else being equal, the manager of an Industrial Mission, if a real religious man will keep up as much life, if not more among his people, as the man who gives his whole time to religious teaching, and the reason seems to be simply this, that he often teaches too much, pours in more instruction than his people can hold and the greater part is lost. Another thing that may also be observed, of the teaching and preaching of men engaged in industrial pursuits is, that, they have less time to theorize, and are, perforce of circumstances, more simple and practical, in their instructions and doubtless in many cases more brief and plain in their treatment of subjects. J.A.E.

Dear Mr. Editor,—I venture once more to crave the kind indulgence of our worthy Compatriot through the medium of your journal, and trust he will be graciously pleased at such a crisis to allow himself as heretofore the man in the right place, by delivering passers from the forthcoming insurmountable difficulty, over which we shall have no control. I am cognizant of the fact that our dear Commandant as he had in many respects supplied our need voluntarily, so too, we have the full assurance that he will at this time attend to our humble request. The Bridge between Victoria and Liverpool Factory is in a dilapidated condition; and unless immediate repairs be made, there will be no way for passers to pass to and from the above named places. I trust, (as it is not a big work) those in authority will call the attention of the overseer of roads to this spot.

Dear Mr. Editor,
Yours &c. F.

Victoria.
13. Nov. 1888.

The Dry Season has doubtless made its advent, as the signs in the elements evidently show, and although we may have showers with tornadoes at night, yet we can feel sure of more sunshine than cloud, more heat than cold, more flies than mosquitoes, for the weeks to come, ere we bid, if spared, farewell to this eventful Leap-year.

The Early Dawn.
BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Nov. 30, 1888.

SHERBRO TRADE

Is really a perplexing problem, almost impossible to solve, aspects are even, in a manner deceptive, if the reports of the best houses are correct—i e if what the agents and managers say of their operations is, as we believe it is, true, for all speak of business as either poor, dull, or losing; but during the season for trade and even since, some houses are busy, and all have a little to do and still the general cry is no trade, only waiting for some thing. At the same time there seems to be a large amount of shipping of produce from this part; besides the local or branch Steamer Formoso, several large liners have been in port and we believe all have received more or less cargo We also believe that in short we are to have several small Steamers, in addition to the Formoso, in the local trade between this and Freetown, and the northern rivers The new lines of Steamers to the coast, are likely also to drop in to see us occasionally as last week, to assist in the transportation of the produce from Sherbro. Yet with all this we are told that trade is dull, and not worth while, and that business here, is only a losing game; hence we say the trade problem here is a difficult one, and aspects or appearances deceptive, in regard to it. But perhaps the real truth is ,that very largely of what we see going on about us is experimental and has not yet been tested sufficiently to know whether it will pay or not, and in general, so far it has not paid. As for the old and tested lines of business, they evidently are not paying, as a rule, and yet every one hopes for a better day. We, however, predict that no better day will come until merchandise advances in price. For it is very evident that the present prices are by far too low for a precarious trade such as we have in the river districts; where any enterprize is subject to many losses, and drawbacks not encountered in many other parts of the world; which although hard to be understood by Merchants in England is nevertheless true.

A Grand Regatta is in contemplation for the Holiday Season here, —More in our next issue.

We learn that at the last sitting of the Legislative Council in Freetown, His Excellency Governor Hay laid on the table the scheme he proposes for the maintenance of peace by the establishment of outposts at the navigable heads of the rivers of the Settlement connected by a road on which there is to be a regular parrol. The scheme, we are pleased to observe met with the unanimous support of Honorable Members and will, we believe be set on foot so soon as it has received the approval of the Secretary of State. This is good news for Sherbro and its practical development will without doubt do much to put a stop to the organized system of robbery, miscalled war, which has done so much to ruin trade. His Excellency we also understand proposes so soon as his plans are settled to visit Sherbro, with the object of proceeding to settle the disturbances in the Sulymah District, whither he had recommended an armed expedition should be sent during his last administration.

ITINERATING

Is not always a pleasant duty, for it often requires no small amount of self denial, on the part especially of the school master whose duties through the week are constant, and in some cases rather trying. one under such circumstances is very apt to think first that his work is enough without going out to the neighboring Villages to talk or preach to the people, but he should remember that unless he absolutely cannot do more, then he ought to go out, and really it would be decidedly better to neglect school duties than to fail to itinerate in the surrounding Villages and Farkies for the command of the master is "go ye." The second thought that is likely to arise in the minds of some whose salary is meagre, is that they are not sufficiently paid to attend to such dog like duty at teaching and Itinerating, such should remember that no Missionary society would employ men, ordinarily, for the sole work, of teaching the rudiments of a literary education, if it were not for the hope that these teachers would be practically preachers of the gospel and that too, to as many people and towns as it is possible for them to reach. So really no teacher, in whatever capacity that he is employed by a Missionary Society should excuse himself from the duty of Itinerating and that to the utmost extent of his ability. And let me say in conclusion, now in these fair days of the dry season is the time to do the work, so let every one be up and doing.

J. A. E.

Bonthe 28th Nov. '88

A wrong Notion

Has too largely obtained a place in the minds of many, it would seem in our community, and that notion is that civility of manners in the main, good clothing, fair speech, ability to pray or speak in religious meetings, with or without a few other externals of religion constitute a man or woman a christian, that should be recognised as a member of the church of Christ. Most especially does it seem that men and women feel that when they have enrolled their names upon the church books, and have a stated place of worship, that they have done all that is necessary to constitute them heirs of the Kingdom of God. But certainly such is a very wrong notion of the way of life and of true piety; and the sooner our people can be led to disabuse their minds, of such ideas the better, and the sooner we may expect to see more of the real fruits of right living in our midst.

E.

Dear Editor,—It is an astonishing fact that the Christian religion in Bonthe is a mere farce especially among those who profess and call themselves christians and holding important offices in the Church, and are communicants.

It would appear that immorality is not considered a sin among such people, for it is a shame to observe that a few weeks ago (18th) a certain young woman (a heathen) went to the police station and complained of a case of gross immorality followed by an assault committed upon her by a certain member of a Church in this place and he a communicant, however, parties having an interest in this gentleman, together with his wife interceded on his behalf and a piece of cloth &c. were given to the woman to compromise the matter.

Instead of the Committee of the Church to which he belongs having him dismissed from his office and excommunicated from the Holy Eucarist, we find this sinner performing his usual duties in the Church the very next Sunday after his sins were found out.

May I ask Mr. Editor, Is this christian principle or is it the Rule of the Church to which this gentleman belongs to allow members who have been found guilty of gross immorality—to remain officers of the Church, if not I hope that member will be immediately dealt with accordingly.

It would always be proper for the other churches in this place to adopt the "Rules and Discipline" of the U. B. C. by "excommunicating from the Church, members who may be found guilty of gross immorality."

I hope professing christians will cease from committing this disgraceful sin which is boasted of at Sherbro.

I must conclude this Article with the words in the Litany, "From fornication and all other deadly sin, may the Lord deliver us," the christians in Sherbro.

Yours,—X.

Bonthe,
Nov. 26, 1888.

Dear Mr. Editor,—The malicious and cowardly attack made on the hard working public officers at Sherbro in the letter of "Negociant," which appeared in your last issue, although deserving only to be treated with silent contempt, yet it may be well to show clearly to the public, the gross misrepresentations which that letter contains.

"Negociant" has so confusedly worded his letter that it could hardly be understood, except perhaps by the writer alone. According to its construction it was made to appear that since the departure of Mr. Mitford from Sherbro, three offices, viz, Commandant's Office, Post Office, and the Customs Office were literally closed. "Negociant" writes that "the Offices have never been found open at the usual hours for the transaction of business. I am fully aware that the usual hours for the transaction of business with the public, have always been from 10 a. m. to 3 p.m. at the Customs; and 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. at the other offices, except on mail days, when the offices have no regular hours, especially the Post Office and if the offices have never been found open" between those hours as "Negociant" asserts, it follows that they were altogether closed since Mr. Mitford left this place. But that is far from the truth; I have been to those offices several times since the return of Commandant Moseley and done business in each of them during office hours; and I could give the names of several others among the respectable portion of the community who have had some experience.

"Negociant" believes, as he states, that the official business hours are from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. Here, the writer shows himself at once to be no other than a Foreigner, evidently, newly imported, and probably from Cuba or Havana; for no reasonable individual having the privilege of being under a highly Civilized Government, even for a short time only, would betray such an unpardonable ignorance as that betrayed by "Negociant" about the opening and closing hours of the offices of a Government that is unquestionably one of the foremost in civilization —

Thanking you Mr. Editor for space occupied.

Yours truly,
Bonthe FAIR PLAY
Nov. 22nd '88.

PROPHET BROWN AT SHERBRO.

On Saturday the 24th inst the s. s. Formoso arrived from Freetown, and among her passengers was the self-constituted Prophet. On Sunday afternoon this gentleman conducted open air service at Medina Street.

There were a lot of persons who attended for the sake of curiosity to hear what the prophet would prophesy.

The worthy prophet then read from a small book his prophetic career, how he had spoken with God &c. He recounted his several prophecies which have been fulfilled viz:—The Jiggers in 1882; the Fever in 1881, and the fire at Kissy Road. He further said that God had sent him to Sherbro to convert the heathen as well as the christian and that the end of time will be completed 13 months hence. He also prophesied that there will be plagues of Leprosy and Fire in this place, he said that our religion is an etiquette religion, and that we simply go to Church to enjoy the fine pews and paintings in the church and not for the purpose of serving God, and that there is no faith in our religion, for when the chaplain died the Bishop ran away, and when minister died the Catechist ran away, and all such jocular remarks which caused a good deal of laughter. After the introduction, he selected for his discourse the words "Blow ye the trumpet in Zion &c" —the gentleman said that he was God's trumpet, for his voice is heard far and wide, and if we disregard his remarks we shall find, later on, that we are mistaken &c.—You will hear from me again.

[Communicated.]

Bonthe,
Novr. 26, '88.

NEWSITEMS.

Annual Meeting.—Of the U. B Church is announced to take place in this Town on or about 24th of January 1889, further particulars of which we hope to give later on.

Mrs Amanda Smith, a lady Evangelist, is, we understand, to visit Shiangay District about the middle of December next.

Bishop Flickinger D. D. at last advices expect to sail from England for this Coast on the 24th inst. hence we presume he is now far on the way to these shores.

Nov. 17—"Countess of Derby" from Freetown with Mr. Mark Kerr to assist, the Commandant in the Treasury and Customs and Mr. Stuart collector of Custom, Freetown.

Mr. John T. Harding brother of the late Alfred Harding arrived from Freetown.

Boat Cassandra, Capt. Williams for Freetown.

18—Countess of Derby for Freetown with Collector Stuart, Dr. Johnson Mr A. O. Walker &c. as passengers.

21—s. s. "Mandingue" from Marseilles with mail via Freetown and general cargo consigned to French Compy.

24—Formoso from Freetown with J. A. Dennis, Prophet Brown &c. she left the same day.

s. s. "Anna Woerman" from Freetown consigned to P. Z. & Co.

27—Mandingue for Marseilles via Freetown with mail and the following passengers Messrs Brighton Turner J. T. Harding Rev Davies &c.

28—s. s. "Anna Woerman" sailed from this point.

Personal

Rev. S. T. Davies a young Wesleyan minister called on us on the 15th after we had gone to press with our last issue. The Reverend Gentleman we believe spent a pleasant time here, while in the Sherbro he was the guest of Mr. S. B. A. Macfoy at Yelbana.

Mr. T. Dalton Agt. Messrs F. and Randall Ltd. Y. I. Factory called on us on the 26th inst. he was accompanied by Mr. Delbanco. Mr. D was looking well.

A few Hints.

To the Editor of the "Early Dawn."

We are now on the eve of the twelfth and last month in the year, and every man knows the great changes, troubles, difficulties &c, he has experienced during the past months, but out of all, the Lord has providentially brought us by his care, and we, shall soon in a few weeks sing the tune commencing with the words, "Christmas awake! salute the happy morn" with the usual greeting, "I wish you a merry Christmas."

Political Charlie, whenever you are in our midst, your virtue has always been felt; therefore make perfect the work (Victoria Road) the pioneer your namesake had begun and retain your reputation.

Ecclesiastical Charlie,—Your sermons are plain, instructive, and edifying, we wish you success in your devotional calling; persevere, and be ever showing yourself as a youngman from school.

Deputed Catechist—You did not come up to the expected mark; I fear "Tourist's" statement last will contradict itself.

Our little Pedagogue is doing his very best, but he is killing the musical life of the church by many discordant sounds; but dont be discouraged.

Our Brighton Correspondent—Although you are galled, yet your hands are not tied, state your "Views," and pay your Bill.

"Dong"—The hour is come, when Jacob's opposition and Isaac's partiality will soon be terminated; then England's Laws will not any more suffer alteration.

Prophet Brown is here to hold open Air Services, with his endless "I say" We welcome him in our midst.

Maroon Boy,—Have you remitted the amount for the wedding ring? I hope so.

Chief,—You are barefacedly violating the 7th Commandment; make your wrongs right before the year comes to a close.

ECLECTIC GAZETTE.

Bonthe,
Advent Term, '88.

THE MARRIAGE QUESTION.

Sir,—It is with pleasure I read the articles in your last issue relative to the Marriage Question. In the article of "F. vs Failure" it is a pity that he thinks that marriage is no failure when the hymeneal obligation is strictly observed; in this point I disagree with him, for there are many cases in which very strict observance of the very many promises made at the alter is kept, but in some of these cases the failure is experienced, let me point out an instance, a man who is married to an inexperienced, unintelligible, wayward, uncivilized and half educated native girl (Mendi) in whom he calculates improvements, for which reason he bears and forbears knowing her weakness, but no sign of improvement, he is dissatisfied with her, and at the same time he strictly observes the obligation; is this not a failure? The legality of marriage is one thing and the failure is another, in spite of the usual quarrelling, constant putting out doors of wife does not the least show that the marriage is illegal, but on the contrary that the contract fails. Now that ginger trade fails in the hands of the majority is it not considered a failure? so it is too that marriage is a failure, when the majority of old heads and old hands in that army tell you that they would rather get out of it if only they can manage. How often have not many young people advised to wait first and think over before they attempt to marry; if it is not supposed to be a failure why then is this advise?

In Africans' letter he agrees with me almost, for he states that marriage is a failiur when there is unhappiness despite the lawfulness of the union, but he believes that the failure is experienced by those who are married when young. I shall be glad if he could state at what age people ought to marry for none marry under 21 years taking it generally. Why should he not think it a failiur when wives must wish and attempt to rule the house and husband; when these wives are found keeping company with women far advanced in age and in high position though slanderers and gossipers I trust that my friends will now see that marriage must be a failure in whatever light they may be pleased to take it. The failure is so plain that the thought of a petition to be allowed to marry more than one wife has been engaging the thoughts of those in the civilized world; by which means they expect to make an improvement.

Thanking you sir for the space I have occupied.

I am yrs. truly—VIA

Bonthe 26th Nov '88

Dear Editor,—Will you please favor me a little space in your valuable paper for inserting this letter?

Is it true that after twenty long years' service of Mr. Wm. Hughes, Chief Clerk of the Government in this place is to be removed to Freetown? We all know that Government Officers are bound to remove from place to place, but this gentleman is of very great importance to this place. The late Capt. Walshe remarked on one occasion in 1870, that Mr. Hughes is an expert man—should he leave Sherbro for Freetown, may he go on conquering and to conquer, and by God's blessing may he serve his Creator as faithfully as he serves his sovereign.—Many thanks for space granted me.

Yours truly,

Bonthe, A RETURNED VISITOR.
Nov. 21, '88.

LETTERS TO YOUNG MINISTERS.

In the Pulpit.

In the first place, you should regard your pulpit as your throne Writers on homiletics and pastoral theology are virtually unanimous in the sentiment that the minister's principal sphere of power is his pulpit. His first work his chief work, is preaching. I do not mean by this to disparage pastoral work, or to excuse or apologize for its neglect. Let all the proper pastoral work, the extra pulpit duties be faithfully attended to; but the faithful discharge of these will not compensate for weakness or failure in the pulpit. The people want good pastors, it is true, but they demand above all, that one be master of the situation when he stands up in the pulpit to preach. If he is weak here, his ministry is weak, if he fails here, his ministry is a comparative failure. I pray you do not fall into the egregious mistake of regarding mere talk in the pulpit as preaching. Some men have great facility in pouring forth words. They will flood you for an hour or more with a perfect torrent of words, and go away felicitating themselves upon having preached a sermon, when they have done no such thing at all. There has been no real exposition of scripture, no depth or clearness of thought, no proof or argument, no homogeneity, no structure, but a mere heap of incoherent thoughts and a great pile of words, perhaps with a voice akin to the sound of a calliope or a steamboat whistle.

Neither is mere exhortation to be called preaching. The exhorter may have his place, at least our church recognizes such an officer, but then he is no preacher: neither are we to call his exhortations, however good, warm, stirring, or loud, preaching. A man may be able to exhort very well who can not preach a bit.

A sermon is a structure. It has a beginning, a middle, and especially an end Some preachers seem almost to ignore the last of these points. But it is not my purpose to undertake to show what a sermon is and how it should be constructed. Any good work on homiletics, like Dr. Storr's "The preacher and his Sermon," or Broadus' "Preparation and Delivery of Sermons," will give you abundant and excellent instruction on these points; and you should by all means study one of these works until you have thoroughly mastered the theory of sermonizing. Do not be afraid of your text-book on homiletics.

In the first place, do make thorough preparation on your sermons. Cultivate, to be sure, a ready tongue, but dont depend on a glib flexible tongue alone. Be not satisfied with skimming along the surface of the truth. Dig down to the root and substance of it. Be not content to scrape the outside shell a little. The kernel is inside, you know it will be far better for preacher and people if the preacher will seek in every sermon, to gain the plummet of his thought as deep as possible into that truth. He need have no fear of very often leading his people over their heads into the water. At any rate, he should in his study in his sermons strive to get as near the bottom of the truth as he can. It will give strength, body, freshness, potat variety form to his sermon. Oh, how many of us are vainly trying to feed the people on the mere husks of truth! Why? In too many cases simply because there is no adequate preparation given to the sermon and too desultory, fragmentary, and unscriptical study to the word of God in general.

The sort of sermon which every preacher ought to wish to present to his people will require extended study and preparation. Hence, he must begin this preparation early in the week. Do not allow yourself to form the habit of waiting until the end of the week before beginning. The earlier in the week the better. Study your text. Study the context. May be, if it is in one of the less extensive epistles, you ought to read very carefully and attentively the whole epistle. Look up with your reference Bible and concordance a variety of reference to passages where similar phraseology is used, or the same or like thought is expressed in different language. Make your own division and outline of the intended sermon. Then consult commentaries. If you are able to read Hebrew or Greek, by all means read carefully your text and the immediate context in the original. Do not be afraid to write out your thoughts on paper, connectedly if you can, disconnectedly if you must; but, at any rate, write them down. You may not wish to use it in the pulpit, but it will be an excellent plan to write the whole sermon, introduction, body, and application. I am positively certain that if you will frequently do this, it will make of you a stronger, clearer, and more systematic minister. Without it you will very likely become a desultory preacher. Pray much. Pray when you study the Scriptures. pray when you prepare your sermon. Go from prayer and with prayer into the pulpit. Do your own thinking. Make your own sermons. Do not be so untrue to yourself, your sacred calling, and your people as to preach the sermons of other men. You ought to study the sermons of good, strong preachers, but not in order to preach them. If you must preach another man's sermon, be manly and honest enough to say so. Be original, then borrow, but don't steal.

In the pulpit, stand up like a man. Do not grasp the pulpit with both hands, and then wriggle and twist as if you were made entirely of swivels from your head to your heels. You ought to gesture some I suppose, but don't saw and beat the air, and keep your fists as if in a prize-fight. Imitate no man's tones. Avoid what is called the "preacher's tones." Why in the world will men not speak naturally in the pulpit? Why must they assume pat on false tones, assume the drawl, drop into the sing-song, pitch their voices in the sky, and roar like a lion? Speak, don't roar, speak, don't declaim; speak, don't sing. Preach with earnestness, with vigor and force

You may even become loud if the sentiment demands it, but do not tear a sermon all to tatters and shreds. There should always be the impression of reserve force. One should rarely get to the utmost tension of his power. Lastly when you are done, stop.—

ASBURY.—In Telescope.

The Roads &c.—we learn, from the overseer, Mr. A. O. Walker, will soon have attention again on this side as the work at Bendoo &c. we believe, has been finished for the present.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—Imports, 1st January to 30th Sept (Liverpool—1888, 37965—1887, 33290—1886, 35080 Tons
Deliveries during Sept (Liverpool)—1888, 5680—1887, 2881—1886, 3480 Tons
Stock, 30th Sept. (Liverpool)—1888, 7932—1887, 10431—1886, 8747 Tons
ARRIVALS— "Opobo" (s) with 861 casks, and "Calabar" (s) with 1328 casks. The "Loanda" passed Sierra Leone on the 22nd inst. with 1140 casks.
Sales during the last fortnight have been 1650 tons, at steadily improving prices. The market closes firm. "Transit"

Lagos £23 0 0 to £23 5 0—Bonny Cameroons and Old Calabar £21. 5. 0, to 21. 10 0—Benin, Accra, Addah, Quittah and Popo, £20 15 0—Brass, Niger & New Calabar £20 10 0 to 20 15 0—Congo £19 15 0 to 20 0 0—Grand Bassam and Half Jack £20 5 0 to 20 0 0—Sherbro £19 0 0 to 19 5 0 Appam, Saltpond and Winnebah 18. 15. 0.—Dixcove and Liberian 18 10 0

PALM KERNELS—Import about 1000 tons. Advised from Sierra Leone the "Loanda" with 330 tons, and from Grand Canary the "Kinsembo" with 600 tons, both for Liverpool The "Akassa" has passed Lagos with 1550 tons, for Hamburg.
The demand from the Continent having fallen off, the market is a little weaker. Transit: basis 5 per cent shell.

Lagos, Old and New Calabar, Bonny and Cameroons £10. 5 0 to 10 7 9—Brass and Sao Thome £10 2 6 to 10 5 0—Benin and Congo 10 0 0 Liberian and Sherbro £9 15 0 to 9 17 6—Quitta and Addah £9 15 0—Saltpond, Appam, and Winnebah £8 0 0 to 9 5 0

COPRA—£12 to 12 10 per ton.
BENNISEED—Sales of 250 bags at 42s 6d to 47s. 6d per 384 lbs. for ordinary to fine.
GROUND NUTS—324 bags sold at £10, and 69 bags better quality at £13 5 per ton.
COFFEE—Has gone back a little. Ambriz 61s to 62s closing rather firmer, Liberian 55s. to 65s. per cwt.
COC A—Quiet and unchanged, little doing.
IVORY—We shall report the result of the sales in our next.
INDIA RUBBER—Sales during the fortnight amtd. to 85 tons

Gambia Niggers, fair to prime	1s. 9d. to 1s. 11d.
Sierra Leone do. do.	1s. 6 to 1. 8½d.
Thimble	1s. 3d. to 1s. 6½d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 2d. to 1s. 5d
Soft and Flaky Ball	0s. 7d. to 0s. 9d.
Cameroon and Old Calabar	1s. 2d. to 1s. 4d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim and Assinee	1s. 0d. to 1s. 4d.
Liberian	0s. 11d. to 1s. 3d.
Salt poud	0s. 8d. to 0s. 11d.
Accra pressed and dried	0s. 9d. to 1s. 6d.
Do. ordinary	0s. 7½d. to 0s. 8d.
Flake and Lumps	0s. 6½d to 0s. 6¾d.

GUM COPAL—Rather more enquiry. Red Angola 82s. 6d. to 85s. White Penguela 11s. to 67s. Accra 27s. 6d. to 35s. per cwt. Sierra Leone 3d. to 7d. per lb.
BEESWAX—Gambia sold at £4 12 6 per cwt
GINGER—500 bags of Monrovia sold at 15s. per cwt.
CHILLIES—Nothing doing, but would sell well if there were any on the market.
GUINEA GRAINS—In good demand at 31s. per cwt.
CALABAR BEANS—Wanted.
BARWOOD—120 tons sold at £2. 16 3.
EBONY—Gaboon sold at, Billets £6 7 6, flat £4 to £4 12 6
KOLA NUTS } No demand whatever.
PORCUPINE QUILLS— }
MONKEY SKINS—No sales since last report.

Liverpool, 26th Oct. 1888. EDWARDS BROTHERS.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island
SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING
F. & A. SWANZY
GEO. LEACH
Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZYS renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half Hogshead of about 550 lbs nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand— in similpackages.

J. ALBERT.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the UP-RIVER TRADERS, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

Nothing further for this time,you will hear from me again respecting the war news.

I am, dear Editor,
Yours very truly,
PEACEFUL BEE.

Nov. 19, '88.

The Rum Traffic.

Most of the Merchants seem to feel that there is little or no harm in the legitimate trade in ardent spirits, in Africa or anyother country, and that Temperance people are worrying themselves over an imaginary evil. Of course with them prohibition is absurd and an intrusion upon the rights of citizens and ought never to be thought of by sensible men. But on the other hand every Temperance advocate sees the matter in a very different light. For instance we go to Freetown and we meet a man with tattered garments and faded, his face bloated, eyes red, forsaken by friends; enquire of such an one and often you will find that rum did it. On my last visit to that place, I met the blighted living remains, of what had been the highly educated son of a great man: but he was then clad in a shabby suit of badly worn cast off clothing his face, head, and even body were puffed up and I was told he had taken to hard drinking, which was the cause of his ruin; as I have since learned that he died somewhere in the rivers. Such pictures of ruin are too common to require mention more than to remind the light hearted young man who handles the wine glass publicly or privately, that he is likely to follow the same path and in the end fill a drunkard's grave. But to return to my subject the Traffic in rum &c, it is ruinous to the success of trade itself, carrying a blighting curse with it. For the more general the consumption of ardent spirits becomes in any locality, the more worthless the people, and hence the less either care to develop the resources of their country for trade, further than to secure a present supply of spirits, in fact when they have filled themselves with that supply they are disabled for the time. The repetition of which enervates and brutalizes such communities until after a generation or so trade declines to such a level, that do what you may you can not revive it, except you remove the cause of its declension. A lazy, drunken population, such as now mars the whole coast line of Western Africa, more again.

J. ALBERT.

From the Kittam.

Dear Mr. Editor,—Since my last to you respecting the unsettled state of the country, my time has been so much occupied through divers transactions, which prevented me from furnishing you with another report ere this time.

There seems to be nothing of importance to be dealt upon this time, save that it was reported a few days ago that a party of War Boys belonging to Chief Mackish, took possession of a town called Jeodmah which is supposed to be the seat of Chief Momo Keh-Keh; this Chief was absent to Pejehun where he has been residing for the past few months, and it was while he was in this situation that the disaster took place. His brother Chief oormor Jah who was at Bandajumah defending that town against Mackish, has since proceeded to the scene and has the town of Jeodmah surrounded on all sides so as to prevent the enemy effecting their escape into Largoh with their booty.

You will however be pleased to learn Mr. Editor, that although this town is taken, yet many of the inhabitants made sure their escape, and are now at the feet of their king at Pujehun.

The above report of the war has since been communicated to Captain Crawford, stationed at Sulymah, and we are now looking forward with an eager eye for the approaching time of his arrival here, when all disturbances will be quelled.

It is rumoured that the Governor and soldiers are expected to be here in about how far true this statement is I do not know; but I really hope it is true, as this would tend in a great measure to strengthen the hands of the Police force, under command of Captain Crawford.

Nothing further for this time,you will hear from me again respecting the war news.

I am, dear Editor,
Yours very truly,
PEACEFUL BEE.

Nov. 19, '88.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island
SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING
F. & A. SWANZY
GEO. LEACH
Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZYS renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half Hogshead of about 550 lbs nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand— in similpackages.

J. ALBERT.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the UP-RIVER TRADERS, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F & A. SWANZY.
ALPHA FACTORY.
June 29th '88. Sherbro.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, DECEMBER 15, 1888. No. 23

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At
BONTHE, SHERBRO.
Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the
U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto, deliv'ed in Bonth,	0	2	6

Address,—Communications to J. A. Evans, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gunn, Shallunga, Mr. E. A. Lewis, Pentoma, West Africa, Rev. Wm. McKee Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner	The Commandant.
Deputy Coroner,	Wm. Hughes.
Chief Clerk	W. Hughes.
Interpreter	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff	F. E. S. Buckner.
Sub-Treas. & Cal Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett. J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters	J. M. Crown, J. B. Turner, S. G. Cole.
Asst. Examg. Officer Sulymah	Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon, R. C. S.	M. L. Jarrett, M
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. H. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts.
Warder.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Vacant.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mcnli Mission, (Congregational.)
Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett.
Asst Do. Rev R. C. Taylor.

The twelfth month, has at last usher ed in its appearance, and many are the differences of feeling that it brings to various individuals; some are filled with the joy of the approaching Holiday season, have past the crisis in the year's business or toil, and look back over the same with pleasure while at the same time they look complacently forward to the Christmas time, to such we only say, may they be filled with Good and not forget the God who gives it. Besides these there are multitudes of young only bent on pleasure. May Heaven save them from the Cup and Pit. Others there are with whom life has been a struggle, and still continues to be. May they look unto Jesus as their Saviour during this advent season.

Christmas-Day.—1888.

There are some facts which stand closely connected with the event which christmas day commemorates, and with the question, "What think ye of Christ I that should be more fully realized by us, than they generally are, even by christians.

While it is proper for enlightened nations to have national Holy days in honor of great events, and celebrated personages, such as American Independence day, Thanksgiving day, and Washington's birth day, in the United States, and such as Queen Victoria's birth day, or the Lord Mayor's day in London, and similar days which are observed in England, Germany, and in other enlightened countries, it is still more important, that all enlightened countries observe in some suitable way the anniversary of Christ's advent into this world.

Whatever our opinions may be respecting the character, life, and death of the Lord Jesus; for upon these things we might differ much; upon one question we cannot differ, namely, that no other person has lived upon earth, who has had such a following, or who has had such a hold upon the affections, of multitudes of people, thro' a period of more than eighteen hundred years as He.

Then it is true also that tha triumphs of christianity, during the last century, have far exceeded any of those preceding it. Never before so many Bibles printed, and so many people supplied with God's word in their own tongue; never so many charitable institutions established, which have for their object the amelioration of man's condition, physically, intellectually, and spiritually. The Asylums, Hospitals, Homes for orphans, sailors, soldiers, and the schools established in which to educate head, and heart of all conditions of humanity, needing help; in short the provision made for the unfortunate poor, the blind, deaf, and insane, by the philanthropic and benevolent institutions, civil, social, and religious, found in christian lands, but found no where else, do prove conclusively that the greatest and best movement the world ever saw, was inaugurated by the Lord Jesus Christ.

The words of his forerunner, John the Baptist, "I must decrease, but he must increase" in their application to the Saviour, have had a most wonderful fulfilment. About half the population of the earth are under christian governments, and the largest number under one religious faith, are the followers of Christ. It is not claiming more than the truth warrants to say the literature, the commerce, and the great enterprise, of the world, are outgrowths of christianity, and mainly are still under its control.

It is true that much of the christianity of this age, is formal, and that christian governments fall far below the moral legislation enjoined by Christ, but the fact remains that the beneficent Institutions of which I have spoken did not exist before the advent of christianity, and are never found to exist independent of it. The history of the greatest periods, epochs, and population of mankind is christian history. Never was christianity so strong as now, it controls the greatest Empire of the world and is really the only progressive and aggressive system of religion extant. Never before did it expend such wealth, talent, prayer, and faith, as now, and with such marvelous, and glorious results.

The rapid progress it has made, the large harvest reaped, and the facilities for successful work which it has developed, within the past fifty years, show that its vitality is from Heaven and that it is destined to fill the whole world, at no far distant day.

I close this brief survey of the Sacrifice of christianity with the Apostle's exclamation, "Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift" in sending to earth His well beloved son. May his benediction, rest upon us all, and may his grace help us to do his will upon earth, and prepare us for Heaven, Amen.

D. K. FLICKINGER.

LETTERS TO YOUNG MINISTERS.

Personal Habits.

A great deal of a minister's real success, as also of his own comfort, depends on his personal habits.

First be systematic in your work. A pastor, if he does his duty, finds a great deal of work to do. He must for instance, prepare two sermons every week. This itself is no small undertaking. I believe it was Robert Hall, the eminent and talented preacher, who said, on being asked how many sermons a preacher could prepare in a week, "If he has only ordinary talent, one a day; if a little more than ordinary talent, two a week; if extraordinary talent he may be able to prepare one." If a minister will prepare his sermons conscientiously, with a sincere desire to make them at once instructive, inspiring, and up lifting to his people, he will find the preparation of two sermons, week after week, a work of some magnitude. But many of our ministers are under the necessity of preparing three. This begins to be laborious. But in addition, the pastor must diligently visit his people, attend one, two, or three prayer meetings per week, attend one or two Sunday schools, look after the sick, bury the dead, comfort the sorrowing, encourage the tried and tempted, attend official meetings, look after the young of his flock, see to the filling of church-lists, collect money for missions, for infirm preachers, for educational institutions, for church-extension, for the support of the bishops, for general Sunday-school purposes, see that the Sunday schools are well manned and conducted, and that they take our literature, attend to the circulation of the Religious Telescope. This and much more falls to his duty. How will a man attend to all this and yet find time for personal improvement, general study, and reading? He must read and study. This is absolutely imperative just as much his duty as is pastoral visiting, or preaching the gospel. I wish this could be inscribed on the of palms your hands and bound as frontlets as your foreheads, and written on your door posts and above all engraved on your hearts. The only way to meet well all these responsibilities and duties is to work systematically. Lay out your general work for the year, for the months, for the week, and for the day, and then live up to your plan. Rise early daily at the same hour. You can easily do this when at home, and if you are ready to retire and have gone over your evening, do it when away, from home, certainly during the months of the year when no fire is needed. Have a certain portion of each day saved for study, and another for preparation of sermons, another for pastoral visiting, and so on. I know they tell us that a man on a large circuit can not do this. No, he can not if he is a man easygod by every little circumstance, like him a soft kite's willow twig. On the contrary, a man so situated is the very man for his unspeakable gift" is adding more than any one else, who has a definite plan and system, and the pluck and energy to carry it through. If he will, he can, always say so.

This of course implies industry. It means work, work, work. If a man don't work, then let him retire, and give place to one who will. The ministry is no place, I say again, for an indolent man. The plainer English word is lazy. Such a man is a nuisance in the church in every way, neither is he happy. The busy man, other things being equal, is the happy man.

Have regard also for neatness. Cultivate cleanliness, which is said to be next to godliness. Study to make the best of yourself in appearance. Be tidy. Your clothes will appear in the pulpit such as you unbrushed, clothes not dusted, hair uncombed, minus a necktie, and even with unwashed hands. As for their teeth, don't never have made the acquaintance of a tooth brush. Your coat is not to be that of a dude, as people now say, but neither are you to be a pig or two legs. The one is about as ungodly as the other. A minister has to go among people who perseverance as also in cleanliness. This does not mean that he is to take special pains to wear a large ring on his finger, long flashing chain on his gold chain, flashing shirt studs and other unnecessities, and wear long hair like women do. Indeed, it is far better not to wear jewelry of any kind. Let the preacher's adornment be in the inward and spiritual man. Let your manners be marked with sobriety. This does not mean that you are to be austere and severe in your manner, or that you are to go about with long face; but there is a certain sobriety of manner that you can never be without and enjoy godliness, and that is becoming and commanding. Be not a jester, or a buffoon, or a jester, or a joke. You are to be sociable, friendly, approachable, but there is no necessity for such familiarity as to make the minister that he is the "good man of every circle. I have known ministers who from the time they entered a house until they left it, were engaged in telling, and laughing at stories of questionable character. Such ministers become the presidents of the Useless Society, or the pests of their churches, or they become a by-word among the people. Gentlemen and ministers are always known by their manners.

Do not listen to or repeat slang, and absolutely avoid it. Let your conversation be such as to edify those who hear you. Be a diligent student of the Bible, and endeavor to be a diligent student of the Bible, and endeavor to be a diligent student of the Bible, and endeavor to

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—Imports, 1st January to 30th Sept (Liverpool—1888, 37965—1887, 34290—1886, 35080 Tons
Deliveries during Sept (Liverpool)—1888, 5689—1887, 2881—1886, 3480 Tons
Stock, 30th Sept. (Liverpool)—1888, 7932—1887, 10431—1886, 8747 Tons
ARRIVALS—"Opobo" (s) with 861 casks, and "Calabar" (s) with 1328 casks. The "Loanda" passed Sierra Leone on the 22nd inst. with 1140 casks.
Sales during the last fortnight have been 1650 tons, at steadily improving prices. The market closes firm. "Transit"

Lagos £23 0 0 to £23 5 0—Bonny Cameroons and Old Calabar £24. 5. 0, to 21. 10 0—Benin, Accra, Addah, Quittah and Popo, £20 15 0—Brass, Niger & New Calabar £20 10 0 to 20 15 0—Congo £19 15 0 to 20 0 0—Grand Bassam and Half Jack £20 5 0 to 20 0 0—Sherbro £19 0 0 to 19 5 0 Appam, Saltpond and Winnebah 18. 15. 0.—Dixcove and Liberian 18 10 0

PALM KERNELS—Import about 1000 tons. Advised from Sierra Leone the "Loanda" with 330 tons, and from Grand Canary the "Kinsembo" with 600 tons, both for Liverpool The "Akassa" has passed Lagos with 1550 tons, for Hamburg.
The demand from the Continent having fallen off, the market is a little weaker. Transit: basis 5 per cent shell.

Lagos, Old and New Calabar, Bonny and Cameroons £10. 5 0 to 10 7 9—Brass and Sao Thome £10 2 6 to 10 5 0—Benin and Congo 10 0 0 Liberian and Sherbro £9 15 0 to 9 17 6—Quitta and Addah £9 15 0—Saltpond, Appam, and Winnebah £8 0 0 to 9 5 0

COPRA—£12 to 12 10 per ton.
BENNISEED—Sales of 250 bags at 12s 6d to 47s. 6d per 384 lbs. for ordinary to fine.
GROUND NUTS—324 bags sold at £10, and 69 bags better quality at £13 5 per ton.
COFFEE—Has gone back a little. Ambriz 61s to 62s closing rather firmer, Liberian 55s. to 65s. per cwt.
COCOA—Quiet and unchanged, little doing.
IVORY—We shall report the result of the sales in our next.
INDIA RUBBER—Sales during the fortnight amtd. to 85 tons

Gambia Niggers, fair to prime	1s. 9d. to 1s. 11d.
Sierra Leone do. do.	1s. 6 to 1. 8d.
Thimble	1s. 3d. to 1s. 6d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 2d. to 1s. 5d
Soft and Flaky Ball	0s. 7d. to 0s. 9d.
Cameroon and Old Calabar	1s. 2d. to 1s. 4d
Hard Cape Coast, Axim and Assinee	1s. 0d. to 1s. 4d.
Liberian	0s. 11d. to 1s. 3d.
Salt pond	0s. 8d. to 0s. 11d.
Accra pressed and dried	0s. 9d. to 1s. 6d.
Do. ordinary	0s. 7½d to 0s. 8d.
Flake and Lumps	0s. 6½d to 0s. 6¾d.

GUM COPAL—Rather more enquiry. Red Angola 82s. 6d. to 85s. White Penguela 11s. to 67s. Accra 27s. 6d. to 35s. per cwt. Sierra Leone 3d. to 7d. per lb.
BEESWAX—Gambia sold at £4 12 6 per cwt
GINGER—300 bags of Monrovia sold at 15s. per cwt.
CHILLIES—Nothing doing, but would sell well if there were any on the market.
GUINEA GRAINS—In good demand at 31s. per cwt.
CALABAR BEANS—Wanted.
BARWOOD—120 tons sold at £2. 16 3.
EBONY—Gaboon sold at, Billets £6 7 6, flat £4 to £4 12 6
KOLA NUTS } No demand whatever.
PORCUPINE QUILLS— }
MONKEY SKINS—No sales since last report.

Liverpool, 26th Oct. 1888. EDWARDS BROTHERS.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING
F. & A. SWANZY
GEO. LEACH
Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs nett, Half Hogshead of about 550 lbs nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand— in similar packages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the Up-River Traders, Messrs Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F & A. SWANZY.
ALPHA FACTORY.
June 29th '88. Sherbro.

The Rum Traffic.

Most of the Merchants seem to feel that there is little or no harm in the legitimate trade in and of spirits in Africa or any other country, and that Temperance people are worrying themselves over an imaginary evil. Of course with them prohibition is absurd and an infringement upon the rights of citizens and an injury to the trade if by sensible men. But on the other hand every Temperance advocate sees the matter in a very different light. For instance we go to Freetown and we meet a man with tattered garments and face a little fore bloated, eyes red, forsaken by friends; enquire of such an one and often you will find that rum did it. On the last visit that place, I met the blighted living remains. What had been the highly educated man of a great name but he was then clad in a shabby suit of badly worn coat, off at the knee, head and even body were full of sand and I was told he had taken to hard drinking which was the cause of his ruin; in short every one learned that he died somewhere in the rivers. Such pictures of ruin are too common to require mention more than to remind the light hearted young men who imbibe the wine glass publicly or privately, that he is likely to follow the same path and in the end fill a drunkard's grave. That there are many subjects the Trade in rum are, is notorious to the successful trade and it carries a withering curse with it. for the inner general the consumption of ardent spirits has in any locality, the more will these two people and hence the less it pays to collect the resources of their country to the fullest extent than to secure a good supply of spirits; in fact when new lines will come into a with that supply they are founded for the time. The repetition of this in one locality after another in succession will, in a generation or so trade destroy to such an extent, that do what you may you can not restore it, except you remove the cause. A classic story of drink, drunken population such as now mars the whole coast line of Western Africa, more again.

J. ALBERT.

From the Kittam.

Dear Mr. Editor,—Since my last to you respecting the unsettled state of the country, my time has been so much occupied through divers transactions, which prevented me from furnishing you with another report ere this time. There seems to be nothing of importance to be dead upon this time, save that it was reported a few days ago that a party of War Boys belonging to Chief Markish, took possession of a town called Jodimah which is supposed to be the seat of Chief Mormer Kelli Kelli; this Chief was absent to Pejehun where he has been reading for the past few months, and it was whilst he was in the vicinity that the affair took place. He has only but lost a former Lah who was at Bandajumah defending that town against Markish, has since proceeded to the scene and has the town of Jodimah surrounded on all sides, so as to prevent the warriors effecting their escape into Liegah with their booty.

You will however be pleased to learn Mr. Editor, that although this Town is taken, not many of the inimicants made their escape, and are now at the feet of their king at Pujehun.

The above report of the war has since been communicated to Captain Crawford, stationed at Sulymah, and we are now looking forward with an eager eye for the speedy time of his arrival here, when all disturbances will be quelled.

It is rumoured that the Governor and Judge are expected to be here in short how far time this statement is I do not know; but I really hope it is true, as this would tend in a great measure to strengthen the hands of the Police Force, under command of Captain Crawford.

Nothing further for this time, you will hear from me again respecting the war news.

I am, dear Editor,
Yours very truly,
PEACEFUL BEN.

Novr. 19, '88.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, DECEMBER 15, 1888. No. 23

The "Early Dawn."
Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE, SHERBRO.
Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0 6 0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0 5 0
Half yearly by Mail,	0 3 0
Ditto, delv'd in Bonthe,	0 2 6

Annuscs.—Communications to J. A. Evans, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gause, Shirkaway, Mr. E. A. Lewis, Freetown, West Africa, Rev. Wm. McKee Boston, Ohio, U.S.A., or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Courier.	The Commandant.
Deputy Coroner,	Wm. Hughes.
Court Clerk.	W. Hughes.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers
Bailiff.	F. K. D. Buckner.
Sub Treas. & Col. Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett. J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. S. Crown, J. B. Turner, & S. G. Cole
Asst Excise Officer Sulymah	Jasper Cunker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts.
Bailiff.	J. A. Deonie
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road Pastor, Vacant.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mcnli Mission, (Congregational) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett.
Asst Do. Rev. R. C. Taylor

The twelfth month, has at last usher ed in its appearance, and in my are the diff rences of feeling that it brings to to various individuals; some are filled with the joy of the approaching Holiday season, have past the crisis in the years business or toil, and look back over the same with pleasure while at the same time they look complacently forward to the Christmas time, to such we only say, may they be filled with Good and not forget the God who gives it. Besides these there are multitudes of young only bent on pleasure, May Heaven save them from the Cup and Pit. Others there are with whom life has been a struggle, and still continues to be. May they look unto Jesus as their Saviour during this event season.

Christmas-Day.—1888.

There are some facts which stand closely connected with the event which christmas day commemorates, and with the question. "What think ye of Christ? that should be more fully realized by us, than they generally are, even by christians.

While it is proper for enlightened nations to have national Holy days in honor of great events, and celebrated personages, such as American Independence day, Thanksgiving day, and Washington's birth day, in the United States, and such as Queen Victoria's birth day, or the Lord Mayor's day in London, and similar days which are observed in England, Germany, and in other enlightened countries, it is still more important, that all enlightened countries observe in some suitable way the anniversary of Christ's advent into this world.

Whatever our opinions may be respecting the character, life, and death of the Lord Jesus; for upon these things we might differ much; upon one question we cannot differ, namely, that no other person has lived upon earth, who has had such a following, or who has had such a hold upon the affections, of multitudes of people, thro' a period of more than eighteen hundred years as He.

Then it is true also that the triumphs of christianity, during the last century, have far exceeded any of those preceding it. Never before so many Bibles printed, and so many people supplied with God's word in their own tongue; never so many charitable institutions established, which have for their object the amelioration of man's condition, physically, intellectually, and spiritually. The Asylums, Hospitals, Homes for orphans, sailors, soldiers, and the schools established in which to educate head, and heart of all conditions of humanity, needing help; in short the provision made for the unfortunate poor, the blind, deaf, and insane, by the philanthropic and benevolent institutions, civil, social, and religious, found in christian lands, but found no where else, do prove conclusively that the greatest and best movement the world ever saw, was inaugurated by the Lord Jesus Christ.

The words of his forerunner, John the Baptist, "I must decrease, but he must increase" in their application to the Saviour, have had a most wonderful fulfilment. About half the population of the earth are under christian governments, and the largest number under one religious faith, are the followers of Christ. It is not claiming more than the truth warrants to say the literature, the commerce, and the great enterprise, of the world, are outgrowths of christianity, and mainly are still under its control.

It is true that much of the christianity of this age, is formal, and that christian governments fall far below the moral legislation enjoined by Christ, but the fact remains that the beneficent Institutions of which I have spoken did not exist before the advent of christianity, and are never found to exist independent of it. The history of the greatest periods, epochs, and population of mankind is christian history. Never was christianity so strong as now. It controls the greatest Empire of the world and is really the only progressive and aggressive system of religion extant. Never before did it so permeate every wealth, talent, prayer, and faith, as now, and with such marvelous, and glorious results.

The rapid progress it has made, the large harvest reaped, and the facilities for successful work which it has developed, within the past fifty years, show that its vitality is from Heaven and that it is destined to fill the whole world, at no far distant day.

I close this brief survey of the benefits of christianity with the Apostle's exclamation, "Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift" in sending to earth His well beloved son. May his benediction, rest upon us all, and may his grace help us to do his will upon earth, and prepare us for Heaven, Amen.

D. K. FLICKINGER.

LETTERS TO YOUNG MINISTERS.

Personal Habits.

A great deal of a minister's real success, as also of his own comfort, depends on his personal habits.

First be systematic in your work. A pastor, if he does his duty, finds a great deal of work to do. He must for instance, prepare two sermons every week. This itself is no small undertaking. I believe it was Robert Hall, the eminent and talented preacher, who said, on being asked how many sermons a preacher could prepare in a week, "If he has only ordinary talent, one a day; if a little more than ordinary talent, two a week; if extraordinary talent he may be able to prepare one." If a minister will prepare his sermons conscientiously, with a sincere desire to edify them at once in attractive, inspiring, and up lifting to his people, he will find the preparation of two sermons, week after week, a work of some magnitude. But many of our ministers are under the necessity of preparing three. This begins to be laborious. But in addition, the pastor must diligently visit his people, attend one, two, or three prayer meetings per week, attend one or two Sunday schools, look after the sick, bury the dead, comfort the sorrowing, encourage the tried and tempted, attend official meetings, look after the young of his flock, see to the lifting of church-debts, collect money for missions, for infirm preachers, for educational institutions, for church extension, for the support of the bishops, for general Sunday-school purposes, see that the Sunday schools are well manned and conducted, and that they take our literature, attend to the circulation of the Religious Telescope. This and much more falls to his duty. How will a man attend to all this and yet find time for personal improvement, general study, and reading? He must read and study. This is absolutely imperative just as much his duty as is pastoral visiting or preaching the gospel. I wish this could be inscribed on the of palms your hands and bound as frontlets on your foreheads, and written on your door posts, and above all engraved on your hearts. The only way to meet well all these responsibilities and duties is to work systematically. Lay out your general work for the year, for the month, for the week, and for the day, and then live up to your plan. Rise early daily—at the same hour. You can easily do this when at home, and if you are really in earnest and have grit, you can generally do it when away from home, certainly during the months of the year when no fire is needed. Have a certain portion of each day sacred for study, and another for preparation of sermons, another for pastoral visiting, and so on. I know they tell us that a man on a large circuit can not do this. No, he can not if he is a mere conveyed by every little circumstance, if he has a will like a willow twig. On the contrary, a man so situated is the very one, more than any one else, who needs a definite plan and system, and the pluck and energy to carry it through. If he will, he can, almost always.

This of course implies industry. In means work, work, work. If a man won't work, then let him retire, and give place to one who will. The ministry is no place, I say again, for an indolent man. The plainer English word is lazy. Such a man never accomplishes anything anyway, neither is he happy. The busy man, other things being equal, is the happy man.

Have regard also for neatness. Cultivate cleanliness, which is said to be next to godliness. Some ministers seem to pride themselves on their slovenliness. They will appear in the pulpit with boots unblacked, clothes not dusted, hair uncombed, minus a necktie, and even with unwashed hands. As for their teeth, they never have made the acquaintance of a tooth brush. You are not to be a fop, or a dude, as people now say, but neither are you to be a pig or, to use the Celt's word, as ungodly as the other. A minister is to be a gentleman in appearance as also in manners. This does not mean that he is to take special pains to wear a large ring on his finger, a long flashing chain on his, gold watch flashing, showy collars, shirt bosoms etc. A man may be very much of a gentleman and not wear anything gaudy. Indeed, it is in far better taste to dispense with every such article if it attracts special attention.

Let your conduct be marked with sobriety. This does not mean that you are to be austere and severe in your manners, or that you are to get rid of your flow of humor, or to put on a long solemnity, for then you are never to laugh and enjoy a good story or a joke. You are to be cheerful, friendly, approachable, affable, but by no means trifling, gay, indulging in foolish jesting. It is no credit at all to the minister that he is the funny man of every circle. I have known ministers who from the time they entered a house until they left it, were every moment joking, and laughing, and inspiring to frivolous and cheap talk. What would such ministers themselves think of a president of the United States, or the governor of their state, or the judge of their county court who should be everlastingly so trifling? But the minister be a higher and more sacred function than any one of these.

Do not listen to a vulgar story, and above all, grant to one. A minister who will indulge in telling an obscene anecdote is a disgrace to the pulpit and to the Church. Commend yourself to

The Early Dawn
BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Dec 15, 1888.

The better Prices

For Produce, especially the staples (Palm Nuts and Palm Oil) of this locality, have not had much effect upon the trade apparently here; in fact, the advance does not seem to be a subject of conversation, so far as we learn, even in commercial circles. Possibly the reason for such apathy, is that very few persons have much or any faith in the continuance of advanced prices, and hence are daily expecting a reaction in the market, and evidently some of the advances have been merely speculative, hence hardly reliable. On the other hand however, the time of the advance, as well as amount of stock on the market, are favorable omens of a healthy rise in prices, unless it be that our information is not correct.

The New Administration

Gives, we believe, every assurance of that confidence which the public have even held in the competence abilities, energy and foresight of Governor Hay. His Excellency is not a novice in the affairs of these settlements, being conversant with almost, if not, every face of difficulty attending the controle of the various districts, and having been exceedingly fortunate in maintaining the high respect of all classes; as well in the choice of measures for the carrying forward of his plans as to the wise we have no doubt but that if he can obtain the sanction of the Home Government that he will have the hearty co-operation of all good people in the settlements as well as of the chiefs on the borders. And we predict that his Administration, will not only be a success, in the general sense of that term, but of great benefit to every interest of the Colony, a success in the highest sense.

Inconsistency.—Whether or not to be classed among vices, is certainly not a virtue to be applauded and really we can scarcely believe that there is an individual so far lost to a sense of propriety as not to, that he can observe inconsistency in his fellows, when brought to exhibit some signs of the failing, for he has enough to do with his own failings, without finding fault with others. But for all, that man or woman cannot lead the footsteps of intelligence, truth, is very prevalent, at times, and long ago, a song old and old was born of his town, smiled and sang to a tune, and was to dance being severely punished, but friends and friends (for her sake) interfered, and pleaded for his release, and succeeded in compromising the matter. But in less than a month afterward, the same man falsely accused his wife, who had pleaded for him, put her out of his house, at midnight to sleep where she could.

Another man not long since was very destitute, a fellow companion, better circumstanced, heard his complaint, and sought to relieve him found work for him, and did all he could to help the destitute young man, but alas! now, instead of his feeling grateful he now says hard things about that man. Such is the ingratitude that may be too often observed among men of today, and that, as it were, really checks the small rills of charity that would otherwise flow through this wilderness home of ours.

Mocolo Road.—We are pleased to note still has the attention of authorities, and confirms that faith which we all have in Comdt. Moseley, as the right man in the right place; Mr. A. O. Walker, overseer of roads has been putting forth his best efforts under the Commandant's direction, to have the roads and streets kept in good order and that Mocolo road be completed and we have no doubt, that although the means at Command are small, yet the work will in due time be finished.

Holiday Musings.

Anticipatory, of course, that is of what we expect they will be, not what they are, or what they have been, as those to which I now refer, have not yet come, but to the mind's eye they are just coming into full view; and already one begins to prepare for their enjoyment, no one would be so rude as to intimate anything otherwise, notwithstanding many sad experiences in the past. In fact is when we come to Xmas times, we fain would have them the gayest and best of the year, we would not only think of smiling lads and lasses but of smiling Grandfathers and of old bachelors and wrinkled old maids trying to make themselves young again, by smiling once a year. But of all the happy hearts we pray to see this time, boys and girls will be the happiest from the lumpin to the fellow almost a man down to the chubby little girl that can barely hang up her stocking and ask old Santa Clause to bring her a doll; all will be happy when Xtmas comes again with its festive song.

However, we have other musings of the coming Holidays; some of the Merchants are musing of a Grand Regatta, the grandest that Sherbro ever witnessed; they say it must be the finest thing of the season.

From what I can learn from the murmurings of the breeze, the Bonthe lads and those of Yhandaboo will try their best to give us a good supply of noise with their different Bands. But there seems to be very little brand of late of the "H. M. L. Club," but perhaps it is musing too, over the many and Grand Entertainments to be given during the forthcoming season.

I fancy the Churches and Schools will have their part in the festivities and that most likely some have already selected their sermons for the occasion, and are, if readings for the event. School masters are no doubt training their pupils for Entertainments of some kind which will likely please and entertain. School children too are very likely musing of their Treats and of what enjoyment they will have in consuming the fatted calf as well as the many games and sports of the season.

Xenos Kelb.

Dear Mr Editor—I am greatly indebted to you for the good accruing from the issue of your valuable Journal of June last, wherein the names of some of the American patent Medicines in your store are advertised, sometime on the 15th of Sept. I called in (though very sick, and made a trial of one of the remedies, which in her Providence has greatly improved my health, after having spent pounds with Quacks without any good result. Much praise is due to you for having such articles in store. Wishing sufferers making a trial, shall find some thing to relieve them. Meantime you have my greatest thanks.

Yrs—C. W. TUCKER.

13. 12. '88

Agriculture Will It Pay?

No, if the farmer expects to be finely dressed gentleman, flourishing a walking stick, carrying an umbrella, and acting the hot in general, such life, and especially such sirs are not compatible with rural life, to say nothing of the success of agriculture. It is only when a district has been reduced by patient & hard toil, to the proper state of easy cultivation, if indeed such a time ever is attained, that the fewest possible, number of genteel farmers, —i e the dandy chaps who like most to exhibit their fine clothes and trinkets —but to open up a country or district to paying agriculture we need some strong men to take hold of the axe in felling the forest, removing the timber and other encumberance from the soil; after that to dig or plough the land, then to plant a corp and keep it clean from weeds & grass all of which is very easy for me to write about, and for others to read & think about, but it requires some grit, to be bold of the work and do it; yet every successful farmer in a new country has done it, even the writer has done it and fain would do it again for there is no department of industry that yields so readily its golden returns to the diligent toiler, with so few cares and anxieties, as that of agriculture. To be satisfied as to the success and profit of a griculture, one has only to refer to the history of it in all those countries where it has been well established, in both the old and new world,—on both hemispheres agriculture has been in various countries a success, and has rendered people in numerous localities thrifty & independent yea upon thousands it has caused dame fortune to smile. So my readers should not understand that while agriculture does not invite the kidglored gents to ranks of beginners, it is by any means, an enterprise of poverty or means living for it is not as a whole, it has its hard beginnings, but if persevered will crown the efforts of its undertaker with greatest success in not wealth but independence which is far better.

J. Albert.

Late This Time.—We regret very much the lateness of this issue. Occasioned mainly by the absence of the Editor we trust however that a like occurrence may not occur again and that our readers will bear with us for the present.

A few Hints.

Dear Editor,—Not even a year, ere the predictions relative to the failure of the "Bonthe Mutual Literary Club" is fulfilled. Thus Mr Cobby, (Vice President) will give us an account of its premature failure.

Not only the vulgar are seen wilfully violating the Subbath, but the influential few make it a pleasure to do unlawful business on the Lord's day. This habit is unbecoming and sinful.

The Special Officer (Copland Crawford) ought to be specially rewarded for his undaunted courage.—We wish him every success.

Parents must understand, that the future happiness of their children depend wholly and solely on the good moral training they have; and if parents will not abandon the habit of using obscene language, drinking, lying and slandering, in the presence of their children, they will surely lead a wayward life when they come to man or womanhood by their examples.

Although our learned Barbol's friend spared no pains to watch the case, yet his friends had the worst of it.—What a shame!

REX absconded to the rivers to assist his German Niece Mrs — —in Trading.

The malignity existing between Cassius and Charlie is so great that nothing but death will terminate their grievances.

"Negociant" is in a sad plight. His pen involves him in trouble. If it is advisable, apologize.

"E. W. P."—Is the "Amateur Club" living or dying?

ECLECTIC GAZETTE.

Advent Term.
Bonthe, 1888.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

Mr. Editor,—The following may be of some interest to the community at large.

Can any of your readers define the post at present occupied by Mr. Mark Kerr, the special service officer sent out here to assist Commandant Moseley at the Treasury and Customs? Is he to be styled Acting Assistant Sub Collector and Treasurer or Acting Chief Clerk?

Of late it has become usual for the Commissioner to run aground, inside the Sherbro river. On the 3rd inst the wasted about four hours were lost by the same incident. Am I to understand that the service of a river Pilot could not be secured by those who manage that vessel on account of a certain term called, economy?

Is it true that the public are getting joyful on account of Dr. Jarrett's expected early return to Sherbro?

Can satisfactory reasons be given why large numbers of professing Christians indulge too freely in ardent spirits, especially on Sundays?

Is it true that some people of high social standing in this place are in the habit of consulting greegree and fangy men?

Is there any existing friction between the merchantile and a portion of the official communities in this our little District?

A report has gained circulation to the effect that within a short time the Government will remove to Bendoo—Is that correct?

Is it true that discipline has become a thing of the past in the management of Bonthe Pastorate Church?

Can any reason or reasons be given why the rumseller is regarded as the greatest evil doer in a community?

Precise answers to the above will satisfy.

yrs truly—TRUTH SEEKER.

NEWS ITEMS.

The death of Chief Bah Boone has been sadly announced publicly, and it is said that his cry was a grand affair, and very largely attended.

Steamers between this port and Freetown have been plying quite frequently of late. The "John Brown" we note among others, belonging now to Messrs F & A Swanzy's and is hereafter to be called the "Ronald."

Dec. 1—Caroshid Pasha returned from his tour to the rivers.

3.—Formoso for Freetown with the following passengers Messrs. W. Hughs (transfered to the police clerkship in Freetown) J. A. Dennis Mrs. Bishop and Porter.

"Countess of Derby" from Freetown with Serjt Taylor Corp'l Nicol &c.

The Gerrigah case being completed at the last Session 4 of the prisners were sentenced to 10 and 15 years each.

A police Constable was brought down from Sulymah wounded by the natives in that District during a fight between them.

He is now in the Colonial Hospital under medical treatment.

The self-constituted prophet Brown continues his endless "I saw" open air service at Bonthe. His banner bearing various inscription was hoisted on Sunday afternoon the 9th instant. He pronounces "Anathema" on all those who interrupt him during his ministrations.

Examination & Vacation.—We understand from prof. Wilberforce whose letter will be found in another column, that the U. B. C. schools on the Mendi District, will be inspected and Examined between 17th and 21st inst and vacations begin immediately after the examination of each school.

The Editor left here for Rotunk on the 10th inst to attend the Dedication of the "Girls Home" on the 13th instant, the latter item was not published in our issue of Nov. 15th which was incorrect.

Personal

Revd. H. J. Williams, Headmaster of the Shingay Mission School passed here, A bout the 30th ult., and spent few days visiting his father-in-law Mr. Wm Wilberforce & ther of Rev. Dr. Wilberforce, Mr. Williams is but a young man, and yet he is becoming quite a veteran in the service of the U. B. C. Mission.

Revd. W. S. Macauley of Danville Station, by request of the District Supt, spent a few days in this place last week.

Shingay,
Nov. 29, 1888.

Rev. J. A. Evans,

Dear Sir,—Please announce through your paper that the U. B. C. Schools will be closed for Annual vacation on Friday December 21st.—The Schools on the Mendi Mission District will be visited for inspection and examination, between the 17th and 21st of December.

Yours faithfully,
D. F. WILBERFORCE.

BURGLARS IN BONTHE.

Dear Mr Editor,—Complaints are so prevalent in Bonthe of Burglars, that it is high time to pay some attention to the matter—of late there is not a single morning that these nocturnal intruders are not reported to have visited some premises the night previous to carry out their heartless calling. Nothing daunts them at present to pursue their ruinous work.

It is believed that there is a regular band of these pests, which goes out in detachment when rumor points are at rest, to carry out their object.

Peaceful and loyal residents will feel thankful to the authorities if it could be made clear to the community, that suspicious persons found in the streets after certain hours at nights say 10 o'clock be arrested and punished for unlawfully being out at unusual hours of the night.

It cannot be denied that the natives would plan out burglary, whenever they make a dance, to be carried out immediately after the dance is broken up; & for this purpose their play used to be kept up till very late at night week day being should always be dispersed in time in order to afford them no chance of being out late.—

Yrs truly—Wisdman.

Bonthe 13th, Dec. '88.

A Medical Officer FOR SULYMAH.

Dear Editor,—I trust you will not fail to give publicity to this important article for the serious consideration of His Excellency the Administrator in Chief.

I have read with attention the "Notes by the Way" in your contemporary the "Weekly News" relative to the necessity of a Medical Officer being sent to be stationed at Sulymah This want has been felt for a very long time, even at the time when a native officer had charge of the place when the deaths of two principal native officers occurred there, which would not have happened if they had the assistance of a Medical officer.

The Sulymah District as you are aware is becoming more and more important in point of interest, more so than Kessy, and York, which can boast of their having Dressers, and the requisites for the District are many, especially the present appeal I am making. There have been cases of gunshots, wounds on constables boy's down so often lately that Dr. Burgess had resided there these poor sufferers would be timely attended to.

Although the general cry is, "Time is hard" yet it will not be out of place for the Government to provide from the Revenue of that District salary adequate to pay a Medical Officer to preserve the lives of Her Majesty's Subjects who are labouring in that region.

I would advise that an offer be made at £100 a year though I am positive that there are men who would not accept less than £300 or £350 per annum, yet as it is said that the honour of being in the Service is better than any amount that may be offered, I hope soon to find one of our promising practitioners passing this way to the Sulymah District.—I stop for the present, till I see what steps will be taken by His Excellency the Administrator in Chief.

Yours,—A Correspondent.

Bonthe,
Dec. 10, '88.

The Fire-bell at Sea.

In the Bay of Biscay, on board a large steamer, the warning bell rung out. The bay was calm, and bore no trace of the fury which has given it an ill name. The course of the vessel was one in which there is little danger of collision. No icebergs are to be apprehended. Seldom is a sail to be seen. Yet; it was the fire-bell.

With an extraordinary quickness the pumps were set to work. Men were busy at the engine who but a moment or two before were resting in their berths. Soon the life boats were manned. Every one of the crew was in his place. The boats were in readiness to be lowered. The captain was on the bridge. The purser was ready to preserve the mail and specie. The carpenter, with hatchet in hand, was in his place. Each man and boy of the crew of over a hundred was at his post.

All this was just practice on shipboard to prepare for the hour of danger. Proof was found that every man was ready to do his duty. Training was given to the young or inexperienced that he might be prepared to do his part; and all were tested as to their fitness to meet an emergency.

The alarm-bell at sea had its solemn lesson. No one knew the moment the bell might be rung. No warning was given to a single being on board. Yet whoever failed to appear at the moment was liable to lose two days' pay. The regulation is a right one, inspiring confidence in her majesty's mail-service.

But there is a service higher —that of the King of kings. Do we stand prepared for the summons? Are we at our post and ready? Do we know our place and duty? Is the warning-bell of death, or heard, would we be ready?

On board the "Gruntully Castle," I heard the summons, and knew not of one of the ship's company failing to meet it on the instant. In higher things is there like readiness? Are there none who read these words who know not the Savior —have not made sure of their soul's peace?—Set.

"Fishers of men."

A temptation of irresistible power do these charming May-days present to the wide awake boy to go down to the stream to fish. He can not explain just how it is, but the impulse seizes him with the bursting forth of the new spring life. The buds on the trees must swell and open, the flowers must develop into fragrant bloom, the bulbs of the grasses in the earth must feel the pulses of a new life and a disposition to send up messengers to the sunlight, the birds must sing because they can not help it. All this happens according to the innate laws of being. Nor bird, nor flowers, nor grass, nor bird can explain how it is. But here are the pulsings of their new-felt life the quick throbbings of inner currents of being, a commandment—sold in dead as creation—but newly proclaimed; and not one of them can resist for a moment the mandate. So the small boy finds in his nature an irresistible inclination to do certain things, and among these is the inclination to get his pole and line and stroll down toward the brook or river side.

But he, if very wicked to catch the fish, to kill the poor creatures in such wanton way? Perhaps, and perhaps not. It may be wicked and very cruel or it may not be so, according to the spirit and manner in which fishing is practiced. There is indeed a justification of fishing in both the words and example of Jesus. He not only looked on with approbation while the disciples fished, but he also told where and how to cast their nets that they might take fish in abundance. But the disciples caught fish not for cruel careless sport but for food. And if the boys will take care to catch only such fish as are large enough and suitable for food, they will hardly go amiss.—Ibid.

The Early Dawn
BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Dec 15, 1888.

The better Prices

For Produce, especially the staples (Palm Nuts and Palm Oil) of this locality, have not had much effect, upon the trade apparently here; in fact, the advance does not seem to be a subject of conversation, so far as we learn, even in commercial circles. Possibly the reason for such apathy, is that very few persons have much or any faith in the continuance of advanced prices, and hence are daily expecting a reaction in the market, and evidently some of the advances have been merely speculative, hence hardly reliable. On the other hand however, the time of the advance, as well as amount of stock on the market, are favorable omens of a healthy rise in prices, unless it be that our information is not correct.

The New Administration

Gives, we believe, every assurance of that confidence which the public have ever held in the competence ability, energy and foresight of Governor Hay, His Excellency is not a novice in the affairs of these settlements, being conversant with almost, if not, every face of difficulty attending the controle of the various districts, and having been exceedingly fortunate in maintaining the high respect of all classes; as well in the choice of measures for the carrying forward of his plans as otherwise we have no doubt but, that if he can obtain the sanction of the Home Government that he will have the hearty co-opperation of all good people in the settlements as well peaceful chiefs on the borders. And we predict that his Administration, will not only be a success, in the general sense of that term, but of great benefit to every interest of the Colony, a success in the highest sense.

Instruction.—Whether or not to be classed among vices, is certainly not a virtue, to be applauded, and really, we can scarcely believe that there is an individual so far lost to a sense of good and evil, but, that he can observe ingratitude in his fellows, when they fail to exhibit some signs of that feeling for favors received from others. But for all, that men so readily complain, yet it is very prevalent a many, more, than a long since, a man violated the laws of his town, insulted and assulted a man, and was in danger of being severely punished, but pleasantly, and friends (for her sake) interfered, and pleaded for his release, and succeeded in compromising the matter. But in less than a month afterward, the same man falsely accused his wife, why had pleaded for him, put her out of his house, at midnight to sleep where she could.

Another man not long since was very destitute, a fellow companion, better circumstanced, heard his complaint, and sought to relieve him, found work for him, and did all he could to help the destitute young man, but, alas! now, instead of his feeling grateful he now says hard things about that man. Such is the ingratitude that may be too often observed among men of today, and that, as it were, really checks the small rills of charity that would otherwise flow through this wilderness home of ours.

Mocolo Road.—We are pleased to note, still has the attention of authorities, and confirms that faith which we all have in Comdt. Moseley, as the right man in the right place; Mr. A. O. Walker, overseer of roads has been putting forth his best efforts under the Commandant's direction, to have the roads and streets kept in good order and that Mocolo road be completed and we have no doubt, that although the means at Command are small, yet the work will in due time be finished.

Holiday Musings.

Anticipatory, of course, that is of what we expect they will be, not what they are, or what they have been, as those to which I now refer, have not yet come, but to the mind's eye they are just coming into full view; and already one begins to prepare for their enjoyment, no one would be so rude as to intimate anything otherwise, notwithstanding many sad experiences in the past. The fact is when we muse of Xmas times, we fain would have them the gayest and best of the year, we would not only think the lads and lasses but of smiling Grandfathers and of old bachelors and wrinkled old maids trying to make themselves young again, by smiling once a year. But of all the happy hearts we may think, the children, boys and girls will be the happiest from the dumpin big fellow almost a man down to the chubby little girl that can barely hang up her stocking and ask old Santa Clause to bring her a dolly; all will be happy when Xtmas comes again with its festive song.

However, we have other musings of the coming Holidays; some of the Merchants are musing of a Grand Regatta, the grandest that Sherbro ever witnessed; they say it must be the finest thing of the season.

From what I can learn from the murmurings of the breeze, the Bonthe boys and those of Yhandahun will try their best to give us a good supply of music with their different Bands. But there seems to be very little dread of fate of the "H. M. L. Club," but perhaps it is musing too, over the many and Grand Entertainments to be given during the forthcoming season.

I fancy, the Churches and Schools will have their part in the festivities and that most likely some have already selected their sermons for the occasion, and are, if read now for the event. School masters are no doubt training their pupils for Entertainments of some kind which will likely please and entertain. School children too are very likely musing of their Treats and of what enjoyment they will have in consuming the fatted calf as well as the many games and sports of the season.

Xerxes Kuss.

Dear Mr Editor—I am greatly indebted to you for the good morning from the issue of your valuable Journal of June last, wherein the names of some of the American patent Medicines in your store are advertised, sometime on the 15th of Sept. I called in (though very sick, and made a trial of one of the remedies, which under Providence has greatly improved my health, after having spent pounds with Quacks without any good result. Much praise is due to you for having such articles in store. Wishing sufferers making a trial, shall find some thing to relieve them. Meantime you have my greatest thanks.

Yrs—C. W. TUCKER.

13. 12. '88

Agriculture Will It Pay?

No, it the farmer expects to be finely dressed gentleman, flourishing a walking stick, carrying an umbrella, and acting the lot in general, such life, and especially such airs are not compatible with rural life, to say nothing of the success of agriculture. It is only when a district has been reduced by patient & hard toil, to the proper state of excultivation, if indeed such a time ever is attained, that the fewest possible, number of genteel farmers, —i.e the dandy chaps who like most to exhibit their fine clothes and trinkets —But to open up a country or district to paying agriculture we need some strong men to take hold of the axe in felling the forest, removing the timber and other encumberance from the soil, after that to dig or plough the land, then to plant a corn and keep it clean from weeds & grass all of which is very easy for me to write about, and for others to read & think about, but it requires some grit to lay hold of the work and do it; yet every successful farmer in a new country has done it, even the writer has done it and I am would do it again for there is no department of industry that yields so readily its golden returns to the diligent toiler, with so few cares and anxieties, as that of agriculture. To be satisfied as to the success and profit of a agriculture, one has only to refer to the history of it, in all those countries where it has been well established, in both the old and new world, where in both branches agriculture has been in various countries a success, and has rendered people in numerous localities thrifty & independent yea upon thousands it has caused dame fortune to smile. So my readers should not understand that while agriculture does not invite the knighered gents to ranks of beginners, it is by any means, as enterprise of poverty or means living for it is only as a whole, it has its hard beginnings, but if persevered with,—even the efforts of the undertaker with greatest success in not wealth but independence which is far better.

J. Albert.

Late This Time.—We regret very much the lateness of this issue. Occasioned mainly by the absence of the Editor we trust however that a like occurrence may not occur again and that our readers will bear with us for the present.

A few Hints.

Dear Editor,—Not even a year, are the predictions relative to the failure of the "Bonthe Mutual Literary Club" is fulfilled. I trust Mr. Coker, (Vice President) will give us an account of its premature failure.

Not only the vulgar are seen wilfully violating the Sabbath, but the influential few make it a pleasure to do unlawful business on the Lord's day. This habit is unbecoming and sinful.

The Special Officer (Copland-Crawford) ought to be specially rewarded for his undaunted courage.—We wish him every success.

Parents must understand, that the future happiness of their children depend who's and solely on the good moral training they have; and if parents will not abandon the habit of using obscene language, drinking, lying and slandering, in the presence of their children, they will surely lead a wayward life when they come to man or womanhood by their examples.

Although our learned Bi-hol's friend agreed to pains to watch the case, yet his friends had the worst of it.—What a shame!

REX absconded to the rivers to assist his German Niece Mrs ——in Trading.

The malignity existing between Cassius and Charlie is so great that nothing but death will terminate their grievances.

"Negociant" is in a sad plight. His pen proves him in trouble. If it is advisable, apologize.

"E. W. P."—Is the "Amateur Clan" living or dying?

ECLECTIC GAZETTE.

Avant Term.
Bonthe, 1888.

Notes and Queries.

Mr. Editor,—The following may be of some interest to the community at large.

Can any of your readers define the post at present occupied by Mr. Mark Kerr, the special service officer sent out by the Secretary of State for the Colonies to assist Commandant Moseley at the Treasury and Customs? He is to be styled Acting Assistant Sub Collector and Treasurer or Acting Chief Clerk!

Of late it has become usual for the Commandant to run aground inside the Sherbro river. On the 3rd inst the wasted about four hours near Kelliah by the same incident. Am I to understand that the service of a river Pilot could not be secured by those who manage that vessel on account of a certain term called economy?

Is it true that the public are getting awful on account of Dr. Jarrett's expected early return to Sherbro?

Can satisfactory reasons be given why large numbers of professing Christians indulge too freely in ardent spirits, especially on Sundays?

Is it true that some people of high social standing in this place are in the habit of consulting greegree and fangay men?

Is there any existing friction between the merchantile and a portion of the official communities in this our little District?

A report has gained circulation to the effect that within a short time the Government will remove to Bendoo—Is that correct?

Is it true that discipline has become a thing of the past in the management of Bonthe Pastorate Church?

Can any reason or reasons be given why the rumseller is regarded as the greatest evil doer in a community?

Precise answers to the above will satisfy.

yrs truly—TRUTH SEEKER

NEWS ITEMS.

The death of Chief Bah Boone has been finally announced publicly, and it is said that his cry was a grand affair, and very largely attended.

Steamers between this port and Freetown have been plying quite frequently of late; the "John Brown" we note among others, belonging now to Messrs F & A. Swanzy's and is thereafter to be called the "Ronald."

Dec. 1—Catechist Pasha returned from his tour to the rivers.

3.—Formoso for Freetown with the following passengers Messrs. W. Hughs (transfered to the police clerkship in Freetown) J. A. Dennis Mrs. Bishop and Porter.

"Countess of Derby" from Freetown with Serjt Taylor Corp'l Nicol &c.

The Gerrigah case being completed at the last Session 4 of the prisoners were sentenced to 10 and 15 years each.

A police Constable was brought down from Sulymah wounded by the natives in that District during a fight between them.

He is now in the Colonial Hospital under medical treatment.

The self-constituted prophet Brown continues his endless "I say" open air service at Bonthe. His banner bearing various inscription was hoisted on Sunday afternoon the 9th instant. His "announcements" "Anathema" and all those who interrupt him during his ministrations.

Examination & Vacation.—We understand from prof. Wilberforce whose letter will be found in another column, that the U. B. C. schools on the Mendi District, will be inspected and Examined between 17th and 21st inst and vacations begin immediately after the examination of each school.

The Editor left here for Rotshunk on the 10th inst. to attend the Dedication of the "Girls Home" on the 13th inst. instead of the 15th inst as erroneously published in our issue of Nov. 15th which was incorrect.

Personal

Revd. H. J. Williams Headmaster of the Shaiggay Mission Schools arrived here, about the 30th ult., and spent few days visiting his father-in-law Mr. Wm. Wilberforce father of Rev. Dr. F. Wilberforce. Mr. Williams is but a young man, and yet he is becoming quite a veteran in the service of the U. B. C. Mission.

Revd. W. S. Macaulay of Daniella Station, by request of the District Supt., spent a few days in this place last week.

Shaiggay,
Nov. 29, 1888.

Rev. J. A. Evans,

Dear Sir,—Please announce through your paper that the U. B. C. Schools will be closed for Annual vacation on Friday December 21st.—The Schools on the Mendi Mission District will be visited for inspection and examination, between the 17th and 21st of December.

Yours faithfully,
D. F. WILBERFORCE.

BURGLARS IN BONTHE.

Dear Mr Editor,—Complaints are so prevalent in Bonthe of Burglars, that it is high time to pay some attention to the matter—of late there is not a single morning that these nocturnal intruders are not reported to have visited some premises the night previous to carry out their heartless calling. Nothing daunts them at present to pursue their ruinous work.

It is believed that there is a regular band of these pests, which goes out to their haunts when most folks are at rest, to carry out their object.

Peaceful and loyal residents will feel thankful to the authorities if it could be made clear to the community, that suspicious persons found in the streets after certain hours at nights say 10 o'clock be arrested and punished for unreasonably being out at unusual hours of the night.

It cannot be denied that the natives would plan out burglary, whenever they make a dance, to be carried out immediately after the dance is broken up; & for this purpose their plan used to be kept up till very late at night so as the evening should always be dispersed in time in order to afford them no chance of being out late.

Yrs truly—Watchman.

Bonthe 13th, Dec. '88.

A Medical Officer
FOR SULYMAH.

Dear Editor,—I trust you will not fail to give publicity to this important article for the serious consideration of His Excellency the Administrator in Chief.

I have read with attention the "Notes by the Way" in your contemporary the "Weekly News" relative to the necessity of a medical Officer being sent to be stationed at Sulymah. This want has been felt for a very long time, even at the time when a native officer had charge of the place when the deaths of two principal native officers occurred there, which would not have been, had they had the assistance of a Medical officer.

The Sulymah District as you are aware is becoming more and more important in point of interest, more so, than Kpaay, and York, which can boast of their having Dressers, and the requirements of the Sulymah District are many, especially the present appeal I am making. There have been cases of gunshots, wounds on constables bro't down so often lately that if a Surgeon had resided there these poor sufferers would be timely attended to.

Although the general cry is "Time is hard" yet it will not be out of place for the Government to provide from the Revenue of that District salary adequate to pay a Medical Officer to preserve the lives of Her Majesty's Subjects who are labouring in that region.

I would advise that an offer be made at £100 a year though I am positive that there are men who would not accept less than £300 or £350 per annum, yet as it is said that the honour of being in the Service is better than any amount that may be offered, I hope soon to find one of our promising practitioners passing this way to the Sulymah District.—I stop for the present, till I see what steps will be taken by His Excellency the Administrator in Chief.

Yours,—A Correspondent.

Bonthe,
Dec. 10, '88.

The Fire-bell at Sea.

In the Bay of Biscay, on board a large steamer, the warning bell rung out. The bay was calm, and here no trace of the fury which has given it an ill name. The course of the vessel was one in which there is little danger of collision. No icebergs are to be apprehended. Seldom is a sail to be seen. Yet; it was the fire-bell.

With extraordinary quickness the pumps were set to work. Men were busy at the engine who but a moment or two before were resting in their berths. Soon the life boats were manned. Every one of the crew was in his place. The boats were in readiness, to be lowered. The captain was on the bridge. The purser was ready to preserve the mail and specie. The carpenter, with hatchet in hand, was in his place. Each man and boy of the crew of over a hundred was at his post.

All this was just practice on shipboard to prepare for the hour of danger. Proof was afforded that every man was ready to do his duty. Training was given to the young or inexperienced that he might be prepared to do his part; and all were tested as to their fitness to meet an emergency.

The alarm-bell at sea had its solemn lesson. No one knew the moment the bell might be rung. No warning was given to a single being on board. Yet whoever failed to appear at the moment was liable to lose two days' pay. The regulation is a right one, inspiring confidence in her majesty's mail-service.

But there is a service higher —that of the King of kings. Do we stand prepared for the summons? Are we at our post and ready! Do we know our place and duty? If the warning-bell of death were heard, would we be ready?

On board the "Grantully Castle" I heard the summons, and knew not of one of the ship's company failing to meet it on the instant. In higher things is there like readiness? Are there none who read these words who know not the Savior —have not made sure of their soul's peace!—Sel.

"Fishers of men."

A temptation of irresistible power do those charming May-days present to the wide awake boy to go down to the stream to fish. He can not explain just how it is, but the impulse vitalizes him with the bursting forth of the new spring life. The buds on the trees must swell and open, the flowers must develop into fragrant bloom, the bulbs of the grasses in the earth must feel the pulses of a new life and a disposition to send up messengers to the sun-light, the birds must sing because they can not help it. All this happens according to the innate laws of being. Nor bird, nor flowers, nor grass, nor bird can explain how it is. But here are the pulsings of their new-felt life the quick throbbings of inner currents of being, a commandment—old indeed as creation—but newly proclaimed; and not one of them can resist for a moment its mandate. So the small boy finds in his nature an irresistible inclination to do certain things, and among these is the inclination to get his pole and line and stroll down toward the brook or river side.

But isn't it very wicked to catch the fish, to kill the poor creatures in such wanton way? Perhaps, and perhaps not. It may be wicked and very cruel or it may not be so, according to the spirit and manner in which fishing is practiced. There is indeed a justification of fishing in both the words and example of Jesus. He not only looked on with approbation while the disciples fished, but he also told where and how to cast their net that they might take fish in abundance. But the disciples caught fish not for cruel careless sport but for food. And if the boys will take care to catch only such fish as are large enough and suitable for food, they will hardly go astray.—Ibid.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—Imports, 1st January to 31st October (Liverpool) 1888, 41,766 Deliveries during October (Liverpool) 1888, 5,298 Stock, 31st October (Liverpool) 1888, 6,435

The "Sherbro" (s) passed Sierra Leone on the 3rd inst. and the "Biafra" (s) on the 5th inst. with 1,340 and 840 casks respectively, and the "Cameroon" (s) passed Accra to-day with 800 casks.

Sales during the past fortnight have been 6,500 to 7,000 tons. The demand has been to a great extent of a speculative nature. The advance on the fortnight may be quoted 40s. to 60s.

Lagos £26. 5. 0. to 26. 10. 0—Bonny Cameroons and Old Calabar £24. 0. 0.—Benin £23 0. 0.—Brass, Niger & New Calabar £22. 15. 0. to 23. 0. 0.—Accra, Addah, Quitth, and Popo £22. 15. 0. to £23. 0. 0.—Grand Bassam and Half Jack £22. 10. to £22 15. 0—Congo and Sherbro £21. 10. 0. to £22. 0. 0.—Appam, Saltpond and Winnebah £21. 0. 0. to 21. 5. 0—Dixcove and Liberian £20. 15. 0. to 21. 0. 0.

PALM KERNELS—In improved demand with an advance of 5s.

Lagos, Old and New Calabar, Bonny, and Cameroos £10 76. to. 10.10 0—Brass and Sao Thome 10. 5. 0. to 10. 7. 6.—Bar in & Congo 10. 2. 6. to 10. 5. 0.—Liberian and Shebro £9. 17. 6. to 9.18.9.—Quitta and Addah 9. 17. 6. to 9. 18. 9—Saltpond, Appam, and Winnebah 8. 0. 0. to 9. 15. 0.

COPRA—100 bags sold at £12. 7. 6. per ton.
BENNISEED—42s. 6d to 47s. 6d per 384 lbs.
GROUND NUTS—100 bags Bathurst in the shell at £13, small sales decorticated at £15.
COFFEE—Firmer again 1,700 bags sold spot and to arrive at 61s to 62s.
COCOA—There have been small sales at 60s.
IVORY—See our report on last auctions.
INDIA RUBBER—Sales during fortnight 150 tons. Good enquiry

Gambia Niggers, fair to prime	1s. 9½d. to 1s. 11½d.
Niger do. do.	1s. 7d. to 1s. 9½d.
Sierra Leone do. do.	1s. 6d. to 1s. 8½d.
Thimbles	1s. 4d. to 1s. 7½d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 3d. to 1s. 6d.
Soft and Flaky Ball	0s. 7½d. to 0s. 9d.
Tongues	1s. 2d. to 1s. 3½d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim and Assinee	1s. 0d. to 1s. 4½
Cameroon & Old Calabar	1s. 2½d. to 1s. 4½d.
Liberian	1s. 0d. to 1s 3½d.
Saltpond	0s. 8½d. to 0s. 11d.
Acera, pressed and dried	0s. 10d. to 1s. 6d.
Do. ordinary	0s. 8½d. to 0s. 8½d.
Flake and Lumps	0s. 6½d. to 0s. 6¾d.

GUM COPAL—No further sales. Market unchanged.
BEESWAX—Gambia £4. 10. to £4. 15. Sierra Leone £4. to £4. 5. per cwt.
GINGER—16s. to 19s. 6d. per cwt.
CHILLIES—A few bags at 15s to 25s as in quality.
GUINEA GRAINS—Small sales on the spot at 32s 6d to 33s
CALABAR BEANS—5½d. per lb last prize.
CAMWOOD, BARWOOD, EBONY } Nothing to report in the absence of business.
MONKEY SKINS—Sales end of this month.

Liverpool, 9th Nov. 1888. EDWARDS BROTHERS.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING
F. & A. SWANZY
GEO. LEACH
Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogshead of about 550 lbs nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand— in similpackages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the UP-RIVER TRADERS, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F & A. SWANZY.
ALPHA FACTORY.
June 29th '88. Sherbro.

Concluded from page 1.

If you have been at college or at a theological seminary, and have learned a little Greek and Latin, and, it may be, Hebrew, do not, in the pulpit or among the people, try to air your little knowledge of these learned languages to impress the people with your immense learning. A really educated man never has occasion to try to show himself off. A man simply betrays his shallowness or want of good sense who puts or airs of this kind. Diligently use your education or learning, if you have any, in your study, and when you can modestly help others, but do not try to make a display of your acquirements. They shine best through a modest concealment.

Cultivate a keen sense of right—alively conscience. Cultivate patience and perseverance. Learn to look on the bright side of things. Be hopeful, cheerful, and prayerful.—Amicus—In Telescope.

Church Collections

Is a subject that may well be brought forward at this season, for the anniversary of our dear Redeemer's birth, is now drawing nigh, and many are the hearts that beat in anxious expectancy of some gifts, in commemoration of his advent, and much substance will be worse than wasted in gifts to unworthy persons, and for at least unhallowed purposes. By these remarks I would not be understood for a moment, to say that no one should give presents to friends and relatives, they ought to do so, and in such a way as to make their gifts blessings to the recipients of Pleasure But what I wish to say is that while we remember our relatives and friends we ought also to remember Jesus in the person of his cause, even his church and give liberally during this advent season toward its support. Let every minister laying the matter of a "X'mas gift for Jesus" before his people, and urge them to prepare something for this purpose against the coming 25th Dec., to present as a Thank-Offering to the usual services of that day and see if the Lord will not open you the Windows of Heaven, and pour you out such a blessing as there shall not be room to receive it.

J. A. E.

A Sabbath-school teacher once asked her class the following question: "How did the queen of Sheba travel when she went to see Solomon?" A little girl answered, She went on the cars, for it says that she came with a very great train. Do you think that means a train of cars?

Kind words cost no more than unkind ones. Kind words produce kind actions, not only on the part of those to whom they are addressed, but on the part of those by whom they are employed.

He who makes a great fuss about doing good will do very little. He who wishes to be seen and noticed when he is doing good will not do it long.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. V. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, DECEMBER 31, 1888. No. 24.

The "Early Dawn."
Published Semi-Monthly, At
BONTHE, SHERBRO.
Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the
C. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto, deliv'ed in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS,—Communications to J. A. Evans, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe Sherbro, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gwas Shenge, Mr. E. A. Lewis, Freetown, West Africa, Rev. Wm. McKee Dayton, Ohio, U S A, or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Deputy Coroner,	Wm. Hughes.
Chief Clerk.	W. Hughes.
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Buckner.
Sub-Treas. & Col Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. S. Crown, J. B. Turner, S. G. Cole
Asst. Examg. Officer	Sulymah Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland Maj
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Bette.
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Vacant.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett
Asst Do. Rev R. C. Taylor

LETTERS TO YOUNG MINISTERS.

GETTING MARRIED.

If you are already married, you have my leave beforehand to omit this letter of the series, even though you may do me the honor of reading all the rest.

I am certain that I have taken up a subject which is of considerable interest to almost every young man and to some young men it appears to be of more interest than any other subject on earth, even more than the salvation of their own souls. Supposing that not many of you have definitely determined to take the apostle Paul in this respect as your example, let us proceed to look this serious question squarely in the face. It is an exceedingly serious matter to any one, male or female, to link his or her destiny to that of another, but it is a still more serious thing for a minister. Marriage ought not to be thoroughly entered into by any, but least of all by a minister on account of the character of his office, work, and position. Says the Rev. Charles Bridges "A minister is indeed a city set upon a hill, that cannot be hid" He must expect not only his personal character, but his household arrangements, the conduct of his wife, the dress and habits of his children and servants, his furniture, and his table—to be the subjects of a most scrutinizing observation.

George Herbert observes that the parson's judgment rather than his affection found out a fit wife for him, whose humble and liberal disposition he preferred before beauty, riches, or honor. He says the pastor's wife should be the beginning of good discourses.

Exclaims Charles Bridges If we statements, therefore, is the responsibility of the minister's marriage choice! * *

The tone of his ministry will be formed or molded by this critical change of circumstances. He will not be the man he was. He will be under the constraint of new inclinations and principles of action."

Fletcher truthfully says, "A minister's wife may be a mainspring of encouragement or discouragement to her husband.

* * On her example and demeanor very much may often depend."

"It is scarcely to be calculated," remarks Cecil, what an influence the spirit of a minister's wife will have on his own, and on all his ministerial affairs. If she comes not up to the standard, she will so far impede him, dragging him. Such are the incalculable consequences of his wife's character to him that if she assist him not in urging forward his work, she hangs as a dead weight upon him".

Another author says, A Christian wants a helpmeet for himself, a minister wants besides a yoke-fellow in his work He wants this for his people as well as for himself.

I dare not tell you what observation I have had on this subject, but I know several ministers who have been completely overthrown as ministers by making a mistake here. Others I know who are crippled. Instead of adding to their strength they are now like a bird shorn of one wing. Others I know whose wives are about as much help to them as a good-sized millstone on a man's neck would be if he were trying to swim the sea.

I repeat, if other men ought to exercise care and sense in choosing a life companion, the ministers much more. Mere sentiment should by no means govern in a matter of such gravity. If you are something more than an animal controlled by blind instinct and impulse—that is if you are a man, with the sense and judgment of a man, then exercise your sense and judgment in a matter where otherwise you will soon enough wish in your innermost soul you had done. The danger lies in "falling in love" as the phrase is. If you are in love, you are a gone case. All the reasoning and expostulation and entreaty and threatening in the world will not save you. If you are in love with an unworthy person whom you ought not to marry, it would be better for all concerned that you should tumble over the Niagara falls. You will go through small-pox, pestilence, yellow-fever, fire and brimstone. A hundred thousand horse power will not restrain you. The grip of fate unmerciful, irrevocable, irrefutable, is upon you—on to your doom. "Love is blind" says Shakespeare. You will therefore see nothing but beauty in the object of your affection, though she be homely enough to frighten a lion. You will think her an angel of amiability when she may be a regular Xantippe, you will regard her as pious, when she is nothing but a hypocritical worldling. Then judge first, before Cupid has made you stone blind.

1. You ought to have regard for health and strength. Has the lady a good constitution, and can she endure the demands made upon the strength of a minister's wife, or is it likely that before long she may be an invalid? You will be crippled and hampered if you have a weakly, sickly, wife.

2. Of course she ought to be a pattern of piety, humility patience, Great goodness for dress jewelry, style should be not only a kind warning to you, but cause you to beat a hasty retreat. Says a judicious writer, "Often has a worldly dump utterly paralyzed the power of a faithful administration." There should be no studied attention to ornament, and every mark of the curse of this world's pleasure or vanity—not only or chiefly upon the ground of necessary inconvenience, but from their injurious impressions upon the people.

3. She should be intellectually either your peer or somewhere near that If she is not, she cannot enter heartily in to your work or your studies. She can not help you. But she ought to be an inspiration to you in your general studies, and study with you an inspiration in your preparation of sermons, and a judicious and helpful critic in your sermonizing and in your preaching. She ought to be a leader in the society of your church as well as yourself. She ought to be a strong worker in the Sunday school and in the church, as at prayer meetings and organizing and conducting missionary work among the ladies, temperance work among the young, and to be able to assist young ladies and gentlemen, too in selecting books and other reading matter, and in awakening in the young especially an ambition for culture, both intellectual and moral. This is no airy ideal, impossible and poetic picture I am happy to say I know just such ministers' wives. They are still to be found. Do not then marry one far below you in intellectual capacity or attainments It will be an irretrievable blunder if you do. Do not marry a girl simply because she is pretty or plays well upon the piano, or because she has soft hands, a dainty foot, and is able by the help of the dress maker to array herself in tasteful attire. Taste as well as beauty of face and grace of form are not to be despised, to be sure; but what does a minister want with a doll or a baby? The ability to bake bread and skill to make shirts are also accomplishments with which a minister will be glad by, with his wife had some acquaintance.—Amicus—In Telescope.

From the Kittam.

Dear Mr. Editor —In consequence of the town of Journah being taken by Mackiah's war people, Captain Crawford of Sulymah with Mr. Songo Davis and Police Force (having received a letter previous to that effect), arrived here on Thursday the 22nd ultimo and left for the west; after passing two nights at Mosonah and Pujehoun, the former a seat of Chief Joe Zongowa and the latter that of Chief Mormor Jahalias General. Early on Sunday morning the 25th ult, the Capt. with his Guards of Policemen, together with Chief Mormor Jah and Gbannah Gomboo with their warriors left Pujehoun for Journah. Chief Mormor Jah leading the right wing whilst Chief Gbannah Gombo occupied the left with the Captain and Force in the centre. On their arrival near the town, a messenger was sent in by order of the Captain, to call out the chieftains or sup out heads in order to ascertain from them as to what gave rise to their occupying that Town, knowing same to be the seat of Chief Mormor Kebkeh; they at once responded to the call, and five questions were proposed by the Captain through an Interpreter; but the haughty and disrespectful behaviour of these ill bred savages, so excited the high spirit of the Captain, that he at once gave order to open fire which was done in the twinkling of an eye; and it was awful to see the vast number of Mackiah's men that fell be the constables' volleys. Meanwhile Chief Mormor Jah had caused most of his war boys to lay in ambush for the capturing of those coward ones, who probably would attempt to make their escape over the war palisades; whilst Gbannah Gombo's men were busily engaged in combat with the brave.

After the skirmishing was over (which lasted about an hour and a half) the number of those that fell were carefully examined and calculated to be no less than three hundred men.

I need scarcely add that the body of one Bairgah, who is supposed to be the bravest of Mackiah's warriors, was found amongst heaps of the slain.

Much praise and honor is due to the talented and beside Captain; not excepting the Police Force for the very efficient manner in which they acquitted themselves.

The Captain and Force left for Sulymah two weeks ago, and it is reported that it will not be long before they will return again to proceed further up to Largah, the stronghold of this tyrant Chief Mackiah.

Meanwhile I beg to subscribe myself

Kittam, PEACEFUL BEN.
Dec. 14, '88.

Great thoughts belong only and truly to him whose mind can hold them. No matter who first put them in words, if they come to a soul and fill it they belong to it, whether they floated on the voice of others or on the wings of silence.

The Early Dawn

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

DEC 31, 1888.

THE CLOSING EXERCISES—of the Rufus Clark and Wife Training School were very appropriate, in every respect, consisting of songs, recitations, Essays etc. adapted to the occasion. The Chapel room of the school building was appropriately and neatly decorated, with Flowers Evergreens, Mottos etc. The young ladies and Gents, most of whom are very young yet, acquitted themselves well in reading, speaking, and singing; indeed they gave every evidence of having been under real training during the year.

After the Exercises by the students and reading of the grades by Principal Wilberforce, opportunity was given for remarks by persons present, when the writer and Editor of this journal, spoke of the marked advancement made by the students during the year, and congratulated P. C. Wilberforce upon his success in training those under his charge etc. Mrs. Amanda Smith also spoke very encouragingly of the work and wished it every success. Quite a large number of persons were present to witness the exercises which closed about 9 p. m.

The Opening Exercises of the Mary Sowers Girls Home at Rotafunk Station Bompeh Mission, on the 13th inst were indeed very interesting, and witnessed by a large crowd of the most orderly kind, although largely natives. The services commenced at 11½ a. m. in the Chapel conducted by the Revd. R. N. West Supt. of the Mission and consisted first of devotion, then addresses by Rev J. Gomer and professor D. F. Wilberforce, each of which spoke in a very entertaining manner. Rev R. N. West then read the rules with remarks on some, all of which was interpreted to the natives by Mr. Parker.

From the Chapel we proceeded to the Girls Home, which had been handsomely decorated with flowers, evergreens &c, here the writer conducted a brief dedicatory service consecrating the Building; which brought the services to a close between 1 and 2 p. m.

In the evening at 7 p. m. Rev J. Gomer gave a Magic Lantern entertainment in the Chapel to a crowded House. A rising vote of thanks proposed by Rev. W. S. Sage showed the appreciation of the audience for Mr. Gomer's effort. We may remark that Mrs Amanda Smith was present, but being unwell did not participate in the exercises of the occasion.

ETHNOS.

You will be astonished to know, is a real place although the letters in my caption are slightly out of the usual order in which they are commonly used hence the peculiar sound they give to the reader of my story. But it is a real African semi civilized town containing several churches the bells of which ring regularly, for week evening and sabbath services. Civilized natives and foreigners, with pagans perambulate its streets; missionaries and native helpers labour in the place for the spiritual good of the people, and yet it is a very strange place, and its people a queer sort of souls, many of them at least, with whom I have spent some years trying to learn them and have seen strange things. First of all this I have noticed is, that nearly every body belongs to church or to class, of course this refers to civilized persons and a large number of the half civilized, but very many have a poor idea of religion. For should any of these christians get into difficulty, they seldom resort to God in prayer, but generally seek out a Mohammedan or Pagan Medicine man to help them out of their trouble, and seem to think such course quite harmless as long as it can be kept secret from man, seeming to forget that as christians they are the servants of God and not of men, that God and not man shall bring all their work into judgment, whether it be good or evil, and that however they disguise themselves to men, they appear the same to God who seeth in secret, and will reward every man openly. Another strange thing I have noticed is that almost every man that cannot get on with his own wife, has a lady friend with whom he is on good terms. Many wives too have their own friends of the male sex in whom they confide more than in their husbands; indeed from the conversation of some women it would seem that to have a male friend is the only way to make life tolerable with her husband. Just why this strange state of things I cannot now attempt to tell, however I am sure it makes very much against the piety of the people, and the progress of religion. But as I hope to write more of life in Ethnoh I close for the present.—BERT.

THE BOMPEH DISTRICT

Politically seems, at least, to be in a better condition since the Yonnie Expedition, which had the effect of quieting matters by putting a stop to the descent of their War bands from time to time toward the waterside. The removal of Richard C. B. Caulker, to say the least of him, a weak and inefficient ruler from the district, would seem to be, at least a good step toward the better, although prudent men in the locality seem to reserve their opinion of Chief Bannah Will's administration, for the present; yet we believe that all feel that there is nothing lost by the change and hope for something better. Some dissatisfaction, we understand is felt among the sub Chiefs of the District with reference to Sonnie Cassakoh of Rotafunk and that his removal from the country is urged by some as a peace measure; and we must say that the plea does not seem to be without some grounds of reason, however we should be glad if the end could be reached in some other way than by his removal, since we understand he is quite unwilling to go.

The religious aspect of the district is a promising one the Bompeh Mission having fifteen quarters a. Rotafunk, is becoming well established at that place, as a centre with Palli and Bompeh town as out-stations. Much itinerating, we understand is done, especially from Rotafunk. The policy, we believe, of Bompeh Mission is to centralize around and radiate from a strong centre, and to this end they are sending their efforts to Rotafunk has already attained to quite large proportions; the Girls' Home recently opened is rather a beautiful structure and most pleasingly located. In fact the arrangement of the whole Villa is in good taste and is very beautifully kept. More again, it we have time, of the District.

A REVIEW OF THE YEAR 1888.

Dear Mr. Editor,—I believe that by the time this reaches the hands of your readers, the year 1888 shall have rolled away, then it behoves us to take a retrospect of the past and compare it with with previous years, and I am sure your readers will join me in saying that there have been changes in every department, to some, it proves a blessing, but to others it proves sorrow but in all this, it is God alone that ordereth all things for his wise purpose.

Allow me to make a short review on the various Establishments here as follows.

GOVERNMENT.

There have been many changes in the Government, of this place, there was no less than 3 Commandants who had charge of this place during the year viz—Capt. Daniel who succeeded Mr. Moseley, 2. Mr. Garrett succeeded Capt. Daniel 3. Mr. Winford succeed Mr. Garrett and lastly Mr. Moseley to his post.

Mr. Adams who was asst clerk to the Commandant was removed to Freetown early this year and his post was filled temporarily by Mr. Norman who was relieved by Mr Macauley (late clerk to Barrister Williams).

Mr. Hughes the Chief Clerk in the Commandant's office was transferred to Freetown as Police clerk. His post is still left vacant.

Administration of Justice.

In some cases the law has been fairly administered, but I regret to say that in other cases advantages have been taken of the weak ones as evidenced in a case C. vs. W. decided by the Court of Requests in this place some time ago.

I hope those who administer the law will henceforth do so with judgment and justice, and that districts may have a fair and impartial trial in all cases.

Ecclesiastical.

In this Department the community of Sherbro and especially the Parishioners of St. Matthew's Church have suffered materially in the removal by death of their devoted and much beloved pastor the Rev. G. G. M Nicol which loss is still felt, but it is hoped that relief will soon be sent to succeed the late pastor.

RELIGION

is not encouraging among professed christians in this place as will be observed in several issues of the "Early Dawn" respecting the heathenish customs and all other vices practiced by some members of the Church and which you have always denounced in your Editorials However I hope christians will turn a new leaf during the coming New Year.

MERCANTILE.

In this Department there have been remarkable changes in three of the four principle Establishments, in the place, to some it has proved a blessing, and to others the contrary, but as it is the Lord who bringeth down one and raiseth up another, it is best that each one act well his part for there all the honor lies.

THE INTERIOR

has been in a state of confusion and disorder during the year, and which have resulted in several persons from Bonthe being arrested and sent to Freetown, and four of whom were convicted and sentenced to 10 & 15 years each.

The only mah District under Capt. Crawford has been a little quiet of late (although a few policemen were wounded by the natives) Mr. Crawford is using stringent measures to promote order in that district—and His Excellency Govr. Hay having gone up we hope that perfect peace may be restored and that the Revenue be increased.

I wish your readers one and all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, and that success may attend your journalistic career

Yours,—A REVIEWER.

Bonthe,
Dec. 24, '88.

Bp. Flickinger D. D.—arrived in Freetown from England on the 15th inst. and we suppose, he has since reached Shangay. He is expected to hold the Annual District meeting of the U. B. C. Missions the last week in January at Shangay, we believe, instead of Bonthe as being more central.

Late again with this issue owing to pressure of job work.

NEWS ITEMS.

Dec. 3. Governor Pasha returned from his tour to the rivers.

6.—The Annual Missionary Meeting in connection with the Native Pastorate was held at St. Matthew's Church.

An address was delivered by Governor Pasha who gave a favourable report of his visit to the rivers.

7.—Miss Bedwell Coker left today for Freetown via York.

23.—His Excellency Govr. Hay arrived from Sierra Leone town and proceeded to the Sulyman district the next day.

Two interesting sermons on behalf of the Sierra Leone Church Missions were preached in St. Matthew's Church by the episcopist in charge.

A police constable who was found drunk on Sunday last died at Bonthe a few days after his arrival.

This circumstance still calls loudly for a Medical officer for that district, vide Early Dawn Dec. 15.

Great preparation is being made for the approaching Regatta to take place Jan. 3, '89.

MAKING IT A SUCCESS.

This seems to be a very appropriate, a common word we want to make any piece of business be it a tough labor one, be it secular or otherwise, but it is such spirit that where there is a disposition the will is often wanting and this often arises from our own faults and often from the faults of others.

Within a few days we will have a Regatta which will be unique or to put it the other way, the promoters are determined to "make it a success." One of the promoters said to me "We mean to make it a success."

Thought I, why not, what others have done you may do. But then there is this to be taken into consideration that success or failure must come from the promoters and the intelligent public. But where English, French and Sierra Leonean heads meet to plan we expect something nice and grand, and sub-mid, and entertaining, and worth looking. Would that the intelligent public and unaffiliated more sympathy with the enterprise. But success is always the result when all the odds and ends are dropped. Let the promoters carry to perfection the sentiment expressed by one of their number. Keep your eyes wide awake and your ears open, and I have no doubt but they can still surely "make it a success."

I watch with patience in the corner to see the issue.

C.

A few Hints.

Dear Editor,—"Eclectic Gazette" wish you all a Merry Christmas, and a Happy New Year. He begs to state that those whose minds had been biased through the genuineness of his pen, will let the year roll away with grievances, and endeavour to do right.

"S. S. Sierra Leone" has come (as I am made to understand from the W. N.) out with the idea of editing, and rise up again these prominent pillars in the N. P. Church which has been broken down through his inexperience to manage as a father, but to rule as a king with his despotic "New Power" How true, his dealings will explain it self.

Copland Crawford is praiseworthy for his loyalty; he is not like some lazy folks who are inveterately eating the revenue with a Cat's eye, and lied to the garter of their wives.

Mr. Coker (Vice President B. M. L. Club) begs to state that he would have to the request of "E. G." had he not been very much engaged, preparing to be initiated to the holy order of matrimony in Freetown. We wish him God's blessing.

"Victoria Road Tragedy"—It is time now for you to celebrate the first anniversary; for it is an event so memorable, that it put asunder those whom God hath joined.

"Sol. & Tom"—Although sangui meously linked, yet are competing for Trade in the rivers. This is wrong, for you are injuring greatly the petty traders by your competition.

The Grandest Regatta will be given by the Mercantile Bosses, despite the malignity of the authoritative few.

ECLECTIC GAZETTE.

Bonthe, 28 12, '88.

FOR THE "EARLY DAWN."

Dear Mr. Editor—Is it true, that some of our principal men, both here and at York Island, have engaged themselves to girls lately released from the Bumbs? If Mr. Editor the report is no idle gossip I am pained to remark that such conduct besides gross licentious and unprincipled has a most retarding influence on our new born position and helps seriously to sink them all the deeper in depravity.

Can these voluptuaries entertain any other than a mind latent in betraying their victims when they may discover other objects to occupy their lust?

These men so call themselves educated christians to consider them otherwise is to incur their displeasure.

"Alas! alas! how sad it is to be wise, when it is not advantageous to him who is so."

It is monstrous to learn too, that our Barbarities belong to the married portion.

Men who should have less of the rake in them, by their very lives are strolling the streets of debauchery sensuality and lust in our very midst without regard to the baneful and demoralizing influence it creates.

It will not be out of place, I think also, to observe that this disgraceful contamination has a pronounced effect on the health of the community.

May I hope Mr. Editor these sensualists will make the effort to curb the nasty ass in them and live up to the right standard of a moral man society, and their personal welfare, and all that is moral and manly claim that of them.

Excuse the liberty I have taken Mr. Ed. of both your time and space.

I am, Yours truly—FORDWELL.

Bonthe, 19th Dec. '88.

Dear Mr. Editor,—Kindly grant me a little space in this issue to insert for the information of your readers that the hint (from the author of "Eclectic Gazette") or signed by that title) in your last issue Dec. 15, respecting "Cassius and Charlie" is either a misconception or a misconstruction and hence a misrepresentation.

His imagination,
Bidying tooth the nature of things
To him unknown: must of force
Turns is to stupe and fancies it "Malignity."

I do not think the parties deemed it of any material consequence, as their interests are not involved even if they were at variance; and besides, I believe they know better than living to vent their spleens to avoid that most trying moment of human existence. And should "E. G" be a christian having such full knowledge of the names and nature of matters between the parties, why not come between them and make matters as he think it ought to be!

This would have been a step in a right direction.

I fear that he is fairly on the track of realizing the consequences of the servant, who knoweth his Master's will and doeth it not.

But if, on the contrary he be an intelligent heathen, he is fairly at liberty to imagine ad infinitum

Thanking you for space granted.

I remain,
Yours, as heretofore,
LUTHER.

Bonthe,
Dec 19, '88.

CHIPS.

1. The promoters of the Grand Regatta are at work again to have another like sport to open the New Year.

It would be good also if an Athletic sport was undertaken.

2.—Three cheers for the promoters of the Concert & Soiree on Xmas day. Everything was par excellence but they must remember that retrenchment is the order of the day.

3.—Are not Police and Boatmen glad in receiving Xmas presents from their Boss?

4.—May & June should not be allowed Private practice.

5.—Tuck should act honestly & as a gentleman and admit certain things supplied him.

6.—"The gayest colored man in the land."—You seem to be in love with and to be loved by all the goddesses "here."

7.—Clarionetist,—I believe you go out serenading. We enjoyed the strain imminently—continue please, especially under the moonlight.

8.—Mind the Paint—It seems as the Paint is still on your back and has attached you to Mademoiselle

9.—Economic Buck: Well done on Xmas night, you were very careful to supply Refreshments to every one according to the price for ticket.

10.—Park,—It is no use telling us on the stage, because "you are always at business."

11—Sir Charles—Have you received your summons for not protecting the Hall by allowing a heavy crash to be made on the floor?

12.—Rock—I envied your first waltz

13.—Command—Your presence gave weight to the occasion especially when you took the floor waltzing.

14.—M. C.—Your movement thro' the Quadrille was very graceful. Give a turn-up-soon.

G.

EDUCATION THE BASIS OF EVERY OCCUPATION.

Education as defined by Dr. Webster, is the cultivation of the mental moral and physical powers. "Education, he adds, is properly to draw forth, and implies not so much the communication of knowledge, as the discipline of the intellect, the establishment of principles and the regulations of the heart" Education tends to elevate the mind develop the talents and prepare one for the active duties of life.

It has pleased God to make infancy weak and ignorant; and as a man works he may forever remain only in the attainments of infancy, unless he is educated. Education cannot achieve excellence on first and particular attention.

That there was a time when education was unnecessary, when men enjoyed happiness without it is improbable. That we are living at an enlightened age every one would readily admit, and that the demand for for Education is increasing none can safely deny. The command to every individual is "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with all thy might." Conforming to this facts one cannot be charged of God's command. But here arises an important question. Can a man work with his might, who works all his working moments? The voluminous records of the life of mankind do not furnish a single instance for sure the affirmative of the question. Knowledge therefore must first be sought no excellence can be attained without it. In our country we have been deprived to educate a selected few, leaving the bulk of the people to sleep in ignorance. But is it sufficient to enlighten a few choice minds for the profession and feed like animals the common masses for manual labour? To this I emphatically answer No. "Education" says a writer, "was intended for all, when God revealed the Adorned forest, the sky painted blue, and earth itself a garden flowered and fruited, and all the visible creation." Education to a selected few is dangerous to the ancient days of Egypt, the art of reading and writing, we learn, was the exclusive right of the priest or sacerdotal class of society. These were distributed all over the country to rule the lower classes of the people, prescribing the legislations of the kingdom and performing the duties of priest and physicians. This exclusive right had a tendency to debar the the lower classes from taking active part in the affairs of the kingdom. Consequently there was a lack of interest and patriotic zeal, and finally the country became subject to a foreign yoke.

Centuries later, the aspiring sons of Hellas, to their ever lasting intelligence, fostered Education as never a nation had done. And in the days of Pericles so much attention was given by Athens for education, and the spirit of mental training so generally diffused, that almost all her inhabitants were qualified to fill offices of honour, or discharge business of talented men. So well was instruction imparted that a regulation was made, that "the greater part of public offices should be filled by lot, which rarely resulted in the choice of any but able and qualified men". And this period of Athenian history, readers of history are aware, is an illustrious era in the age of the world.

Who can say that celebrated Demosthenes would have been such an admirable prince of orators if his first efforts were not to seek after instruction? What would have become of like men Alexander the Great, Diogenes, Pythagoras, Aristotle, and all the great geniuses of the world, if they had despised learning?

England does not suffer from her many institutions of learning; she loses nothing by subjecting the minds of her noble sons. Nor has Sierra Leone city left a stone unturned, has become less prominent by her effort to enlighten her children. On the other hand these as motive power animating them; have led to the discovery of arts and sciences and the numerous inventions.

To what do the inventors of America, France and Germany owe their skill? What has enabled men of various complexions and professions in the civilized world to ascend the summit of perfection? Education.

Principally is it on education that has given the sons of Europe and America the grand preeminence in Architecture Sculpture and the decorative paintings of Artistic genius.

If knowledge to all will strengthen for man's work then no less will suffice. And to ignore or neglect it is both culpable and wicked. If a youth is given over a scholar, and a dull head, he still needs education and God needs him to work as others. God demands at your hands the proper culture of your children.

F. JOHNSON.

The above is from an Essay by one of the students in the Rufus Clark Training School at Shangay.—ED.

The Early Dawn.
BONTHE, SHERBRO.
Dec 31, 1888.

THE CLOSING EXERCISES of the Rutus Clark and Wife Training School were very appropriate, in every respect, consisting of songs recitations, Essays etc, adapted to the occassion. The Chapel room of the school building was appropriately and neatly decorated, with Flowers Evergreens, Mottos etc. The young ladies and Gents, most of whom are very young yet acquitted themselves well in reading, speaking, and singing; indeed they gave every evidence of having been under real training during the year.

After the Exercises by the students and reading of th grades by Principal Wilberforce, opportunity was given for remarks by persons present, when the writer and Editor of this journal, spoke of the marked advancement made by the students during the year, and congratulated Pro. Wilberforce upon his success in training those under his charge etc. Mrs. Amanda Smith also spoke very encouragingly o the work and wished it every success. Quite a large number of persons were present to witness the exercises which closed about 9 p. m.

The Opening Exercises of the Mary Sowers Girls Home at Rotafunk Station Bompeh Mission, on the 13th inst were indeed very interesting, and witnessed by a large crowd of the most orderly kind, although largely natives. The services commenced at 11½ a. m. in the Chapel conducted by the Revd. S. N. West Supt. of the Mission and assisted first of devotion, then addresses by Rev J. Gomer and professor D. F. Wilberforce, each of which spoke in a very entertaining manner. Rev R. N. West then read the rules with remarks on same, all of which was interpreted to the natives by Mr. Parkes.

From the Chapel we proceeded to the Girls Home, which had been handsomely decorated with flowers, evergreens &c., here the writer conducted a brief dedicatory service consecrating the Building; which brought the serv ces to a close between 1 and 2 p. m.

In the evening at 7 p. m. Rev J. Gomer gave a Magic Lantern entertainment in the Chapel to a crowded House. A rising vote of thanks proposed by Rev W. S. Sage showed the appreciation of the audience for Mr. Gomer's effort. We may remark that Mrs. Amanda Smith was present, but being unwell did not participate in the exercises of the occasion.

ETHNOS.

You will be astonished to know, is a real place although the letters in my caution are slightly out of the usual order in which they are commonly used hence the peculiar sound they give to the reader of my story. But it is a real African semi civilized town containing several churches the bells of which ring regularly, for week evening and sabbath services. Civilized natives and foreigners, with pagans permoulate its streets; mosquitaries and native helpers labour in the place for the spiritual good of the people, and yet it is a very strange place, and its people a queer sort of souls, many of them at least, with whom I have spent some years trying to learn them and have seen strange things. First of all that I have noticed is, that nearly every body belongs to church or to class, of course this refers to civilized persons and a large number of the half civilized, but very many have a poor idea of religion. For sound any of these christians get into difficulty, they seldom resort to God in prayer, but generally seek out a Mohamedan or Pagan Medicine man to help them out of their trouble, and seem to think such course quite harmless as long as it can be kept secret from man, seeming to forget that as christians they are the servants of God and not of men, that God and not man shall bring all their work into judgment, whether it be good or evil, and that however they disguise themselves to men, they appear the same to God who seeth in secret, and will reward every man openly. Another strange thing I have noticed is that almost every man that cannot get on with his own wife, has a lady friend with whom he is on good terms. Many wives too have their own friends of the male sex in whom they confide more than in their husbands; indeed from the conversation of some women it would seem that to have a male friend is the only way to make life tolerable with her husband. Just why this strange state of things I cannot now attempt to tell, however I am sure it makes very much against the piety of the people, and the progress of religion. But as I hope to write more of life in Ethnoh I else for the present.—BERR.

THE BOMPEH DISTRICT

Politically seems, at least, to be in a better condition since the Yonnie Expedition, which had the effect of quieting matters by putting a stop to the descent of their War bands from time to time toward the waterside. The removal of Richard C. B Cogiker, to say the least of him, a weak and inefficient ruler from the district, would seem to be, at least a good step toward the better future; although prudent men in the locality seem to reserve their opinion of Chief Bannah Will's administration, for the present; yet we believe that all feel that there is nothing lost in the change and hope for something better. Some dissatisfaction, we understand is felt among the sub Chiefs of the District with reference to Soiree Cassaboh of Rotafunk and that his removal from the country is urged by some as a peace measure; and we must say that the place does not seem to be without some grounds of reason, however we should be glad if the cool could be reached in some other way than by his removal, since we understand he is quite unwilling to go.

The religious aspect of the district is a promising one the Bompeh Mission with it's head quarters a. Rotafunk, is becoming well established at this place, as a centre with Path and Bumph Town as out stations. Much illtreating, as is ireland is doing, especially from Rotafunk. The policy, we believe, of Bompeh Mission is to centralize around and maintain from a strong centre, and let stations and they are bending their efforts Rotafunk has already attained, to quite large proportions, the Girls' Home recently opened is a rather a neat and substantial and most pleasingly located. In fact the arrangement of the whole Village is in good taste and is very beautiful. Most again, there have time, of the District.

A REVIEW OF THE YEAR 1888.

Dear Mr. Editor,—I believe that by the time this reaches the hands of your readers, the year 1888 shall have rolled away, this it believes us to take a retrospect of the year and compare it with previous years, and I am sure your readers will join me in saying that there have been great changes in every department, to some, it proves a blessing, but to others it proves sorrow but to all this, it is God alone that ordereth all things for his wise purpose.

Allow me to make a short review on the various Establishments here as follows.

GOVERNMENT.

There have been many changes in the Government of this place, there was no less than 3 Commandants who had charge of this place during the year viz.—Capt. Daniel who succeeded Mr. Moseley, 2. Mr. Garrett succeeded Capt Daniel 3. Mr. Mitford succeed Mr. Garrett and lastly Mr. Moseley to no post.

Mr. Adams who was asst clerk to the Commandant was removed to Freetown early this year and his post was filled temporarily by one Norman who was followed by Mr Macauley (late clerk to Barrister Williams)

Mr. Hughes the Chief Clerk in the Commandant's office was transferred to Freetown as Police clerk. His post is still left vacant.

Administration of Justice.

In some cases the law has been fairly administered, but I regret to say that in other cases advantages have been taken of the weak ones as evidenced in a case C. vs. W. decided in the Court of Requests in this place some time ago.

I hope those who administer the law will henceforth do so with judgment and justice, and that suitors may have a fair and impartial trial in all cases.

Ecclesiastical.

In this Department the community of Sherbro and especially the Parishioners of St. Matthew's Church have suffered materially in the removal by death of their devoted and much beloved pastor the Rev. G. G. M Nicol which loss is still felt, but it is hoped that relief will soon be sent to succeed the late pastor.

RELIGION

is not encouraging among professed christians in this place as will be observed in several notices of the "Early Dawn" respecting the heathenish customs and all other vices practiced by some members of the Church and which you have always denounced in your Editorials However I hope christians will turn a new leaf during the coming New Year.

MERCANTILE

In this Department there have been remarkable changes in three of the four principle Establishments in this place, to some it has proved a blessing, and to others the contrary, but as it is the Lord who bringeth down one and raiseth up another, it is best that each one act well his part for there all the honor lies.

THE INTERIOR

has been in a state of confusion and disorder during the year, and which were resulted in several persons from Bonthe being arrested and sent to Freetown, and four of whom were convicted and sentenced to 10 & 15 years each.

The Sulymah District under Capt. Crawford has been a little quiet of late (although a few policemen were murdered by the natives) Mr. Crawford is using stringent measures to promote order in that district—and His Excellency Governor May having gone up lately we hope that perfect peace may be restored and that the Revenue be increased.

I wish your readers one and all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, and that success may attend your journalistic career

Yours,—A REVIEWER.

Bonthe,
Dec. 21. '88.

Bp. Fleckinger D. D.—arrived in Freetown from England on the 15th inst. and we suppose, he has since reached Shangay. He is expected to hold the Annual District meeting of the U. B. C. Missions the last week in January at Shangay, we believe, instead of Bonthe as being more central.

Late again with this issue owing to the pressure of job work.

NEWS ITEMS.

Dec. 3. Governor Pasha returned from his tour to the rivers.

6.—The Annual Missionary Meeting in connection with the Native Pastorate was held at St. Matthew's Church.

An address was delivered by Governor Pasha who gave a favourable report of his visit to the rivers.

7.—Mrs. Bidwell Coker left today for Freetown via York.

23.—His Excellency Governor Pope arrived from Freetown and proceeded to the Sulymah district the next day.

Two interesting sermons on behalf of the Sierra Leone Church Missions were preached in St. Matthew's Church by the established minister.

A public executable who was sent down from Sulymah succeeded at Bonthe a few days after his arrival.

This circumstance still calls loudly for a Medical officer for that district, vide Early Dawn Dec. 15.

Great preparation is being made for the approaching Regatta to take place Jan. 3, '89.

MAKING IT A SUCCESS

This seem to be a very appropriate a common motion of all ways to make any piece of business be a success, whether it be a trade or otherwise, but it is such a success in doing this or that, that we are often wanting and this is often from our own faults and also from faults of others.

In these days we still have a Regatta which will be unique or to put it the other way the promoters are determined to make it a success. One of the promoters said to me "We want to make it a success" Thought I, why not, what others have done you may do. But then there is this to be taken into consideration that success of any kind must come from the promoters and the intelligent public. But where English, French and Sierra Leonean heads meet to plan we expect something nice and grand and well-aided and entertaining, and worth looking. Would that the intelligent public and well-to-do merchants were in the enterprise, that success always the more splendid when the heads and hands are united. Let the promoters every be perfect in the arrangement expected by the public so that there will be no error of their management, and the public awake and your eyes open, and there no doubt but that you will surely make it a success.

I wish with patience in the correct to see the issue

C.

A few Hints.

Dear Editor,—"Eclectic Gazette" wish you all a Merry Christmas, and a Happy New Year. He begs to state that those whose minds had been busied through the gen mistakes of his pen, let the year roll away with grief and be wonderfully forgot.

"It is Xmas Lough has come (as I am made to understand from the W. N. East with the idea of editing, and true up again these prominent pulses in the S. P. Church which has been broken down through his inexperience in manners as a father, but to rule as a king with his despotic "New Power" How true, his dealings will explain it self.

Copland Crawford is praiseworthy for his loyality; he is not like some lazy folks who are avariciously watching the revenue with a Cat's eye and feed to the gutter of their wives.

Mr Coker (Vice President B. M. L. Club) begs to state that he would have to the request of "E. G" that he not been very much engaged, preparing to be initiated to the holy order of matrimony in Freetown. We wish him God's blessing.

"Victoria Road Tragedy"—It is time now for you to celebrate the first anniversary; for it is an event so memorable, that it put asunder those whom God hath joined.

"Sal & Tom"—Although sergeant unduly locked, yet are competing for Tresse in the lovers. This is wrong, for you are injuring greatly the petty traders by your competition.

The Grandest Regatta will be given by the Mercantile Bosses, despite the malignity of the authoritative few.

ECLECTIC GAZETTE.

Bonthe, 28/12/'88.

FOR THE "EARLY DAWN."

Dear Mr. Editor—Is it true, that some of our principal men, both here and at York Island, have engaged themselves to each be by a lawful form the Bundo? If Mr. Editor the report is no idle gossip I am pained to remark that such conduct besides gross licentious and unprincipled has a most pernicious influence on our rising generation and helps seriously to sink them all the deeper in depravity.

Can these companies not retain away from their sacred haven in betraying their victims when they may discover other objects to occupy their lust?

Those men so call themselves educated christians to consider them otherwise is to insult their displeasure

What also! how sad it is to be wise when it is not advantageous to him who is wise.

It is monstrous to learn too, that our leaders belong to the married portion. Men should have fear of the risk in them by their very lives are erecting the snares of debauchery sensuality and lust in our very midst without regard to the rising generation and their influence from our own faults and also from faults of others.

It will not be out of place, I think also to observe that this disgraceful contamination has a pronounced effect on the health of the community.

May I hope Mr. Editor these consultats will make the effort to curb the mass was in them and live up to the rich standard of a moral mass society, their own personal welfare and all that is moral and manly claim that of them.

Excuse the liberty I have taken Mr. Ed of both your time and space.

I am, Yours truly—FORDWELL

Bonthe, 19th Dec '88.

Dear Mr. Editor,—Kindly grant me a little space in this issue to insert for the information of your readers that the hint [illegible] of "Eclectic Gazette" or signed to that title) in your last issue Dec. 15, respecting "Cassina and Charlie" is either a misconception or a misconstruction and hence a misrepresentation.

His imagination.
Belying forth the nature of things
Their unknown most of force
Forces it to say, and I notice it "Mighty"

I do not think the parties deemed of any small consequence, as their [illegible] interests are not involved even if they were at variance and troubles, I believe [illegible] better than living to see their spleens to await that most trying moment of human existence. And should "E G" be a custom was necessary, when men enjoyed having such full knowledge of the happiness without it is impossible. But we are living at an enlightened age every one would readily admit, and that the demand for Education is increasing none can safely deny. The command to every individual is "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with all thy might." Inattention to this fact is certainly a disregard of God's command, but here arises an important question. Can a man work with his might, who works all his life in ignorance? The voluminous records of the life of mankind do not furnish a single instance favourable the affirmative of the question. Knowledge therefore must first be sought ere excellence can be attained without it. In our country we have been disposed to educate a selected few, leaving the bulk of the people to sleep in ignorance. But is it sufficient to enlighten a few choice minds for the pr fession and feed like animals the common masses for manual labour? To this I emphatically answer No. "Education" says a writer, "was intended for all, which God revealed the adorned forest, the sky painted blue, and earth itself a garden flowered and fruited, and all the visible creation." Education to a selected few is dangerous, in the ancient days of Egypt, the art of reading and writing, so learn, was the exclusive right of the priest or sacerdotal class of society. These were distributed all over the country to rule the lower classes of the people, prescribing the legislations of the kingdom and performing the duties of priest and physician. This exclusive right had a tendency to debar the the lower classes from taking active part in the affairs of the kingdom. Consequently there was a lack of interest and patriotic zeal, and finally the country became subject to a foreign yoke.

Centuries later, the aspiring sons of Hellas, to destroy satisfied intelligence, fostered dissection as never a nation had done. And in the days of Pericles so much attention was given by Athenians to literature, and the work of mental training so generally diffused, that almost all her inhabitants were qualified to fill offices of honour, or discharge business of talented men. So well was instruction imparted that a regulation was made, that "the greater part of public offices should be filled by lot, which rarely resulted in the choice of any but able and qualified men". And this pride of Athenian history, readers of history are aware, for its an illustrious era in the ages of the world.

Who can say that celebrated Demosthenes would have been such an admirable prince of orators if his first efforts were not to seek after instruction? What would have become of like men Alexander the Great, Aristotle, Pythagoras, Aristotle, and all the great geniuses of the world, if they had despised learning?

England does not suffer from her many institutions of learning, she loses nothing by enlightening the minds of her noble sons. Nor was Nova Scotia's ability in many that has become less prominent by her effort to enlighten her children. On the other hand these institutions prove amazing blessings to the discovery of arts and sciences and the numerous inventions.

To what do the inventors of America, France and Germany owe their skill? What has enabled men of various occupations and professions in the civilized world to ascend the summit of perfection? Education. Principally it is not Education that has given the sons of Europe and America the great preeminence in Agriculture Sculpture and the decorative paintings of Artistic genius.

If knowledge to all will strengthen for much work then no less will suffice. And to ignore or neglect it is both impolitic and wicked. If a work be even a mean mind, and a sick head he still needs education and God needs him to work as a spiritual demands it, your hands the proper culture of your children.

F JOHNSON.

The above is from an Essay by one of the students in the Rutus Clark Training School at Shangay.—ED.

o rule as a e Power" explain it

raiseworthy like some ule watch
's ever did wives.
t R.M. L. would have ial he not preparing to der of ma wish him

—It is time ie first an to mem-
those whom igh sanguin inporting for is wrong.

the petty
s. ill be given down to the ive few.

AZETTE.

AWN."

ie, that some here" and at themselves to e Bonds? If ille group I such conduct
I unprincipled e our new ously to sink
xative.
rtain any o
straying their ever other ob

dren educated otherwise is to t to be wise,

t to him who se, that our h rried portion d the risk in erecting the ative and last regard to the ence is even

I think also ful contention on the health

ner sensations to the noxious ie right was y their own it is moral and taken Mr. Ed

e ORDWELL

ly grant me to insert for readers that of "Eeteo ured by that ber. 15, rea
rable" is ei
r a miscon
misrepresenta things here a at Mr. [illegible] ty"

ties deemed ience, as their exercised if they ty's subjects, I be ssible, he cannot achieve excellence ing living to Self cultivation therefore should claim at their first and particular attention.

as existence.

That there was a time when education e a custom was unnecessary, when men enjoyed edge of the happiness without it is impossible. That ters believes we are living at an enlightened age every ane between one would readily admit, and that the de-them and make matters as he think it ought to be!

This would have been a step in a right direction.

I fear that he is fairly on the track of realizing the consequences of the servant, who knoweth his Master's will and doeth it not.

But if, on the contrary he be an intelligent heathen, he is fairly at liberty to organise ad libitum.

Thanking you for space granted.

I remain,
Yours, as heretofore,
LUTHER.

Boothe,
Dec 19, '88.

CHIPS

1. The promoters of the Grand Regatta are at work again to have another like sport to open the New Year.

It would be good also if an Athletic sport was instituted.

2.—Three cheers for the promoters of the Concert & Soiree on X'mas day. Everything was par excellence but they must remember that retrenchment is the code of the day.

3.—Are not Police and Boatmen glad in receiving Xmas presents from their Boss?

4.—May & June should not be allowed Private practice.

5.—York should act honestly & as a gentleman and adhibit certain things supplied him.

6.—"The gayest colored man in the land."—You seem to be in love with and to be loved by all—the goddesses "here."

7.—Clarionettist.—I believe you go out serenading. We enjoyed the strains immensely—continue please, especially under the moonlight.

8.—Mind the Paint—It seems as the Paint is still on your back and has attached you to Mademoiselle ——

9.—Economic Rock: Well done on Xmas night, you were very careful to supply Refreshments to every one according to the price for ticket.

10.—Park—It is no use telling us on the stage, because "you are always at business."

11.—Sir Charles—Have you received your summons for not protecting the Hall by allowing a heavy crash to be made on the floor?

12.—Rock—I envied your first waltz

13.—Command—Your presence gave weight to the occasion especially when you took the floor waltzing.

14.—M.C.—Your movements thro' the Quadrille was very graceful. Give a turn upstairs.

G.

EDUCATION THE BASIS OF EVERY OCCUPATION.

Education as defined by Dr. Webster, is the cultivation of the mental moral and physical powers. "Education, he adds, is properly to draw forth, and implies not so much the communication of knowledge, as the discipline of the intellect, the establishment of principles and the regulations of the heart." Education tends to elevate the mind develop the talents and prepare one for the active duties of life.

It has pleased God to make infancy weak and ignorant; and as a man works he may forever remain only in the state of his attainments of infancy, unless he is educated, he cannot achieve excellence. Hence to self cultivation therefore should claim our first and particular attention.

That there was a time when education was unnecessary, when men enjoyed the happiness without it is impossible. That we are living at an enlightened age every one would readily admit, and that the demand for for Education is increasing none can safely deny. The command to every individual is "Whatsoever thy hand find th to do, do it with all thy might." Inattention to this fact is certainly a disregard of God's commands; but here arises an important question. Can a man work with his might, who works all his life in ignorance? The voluminous records of the life of mankind do not furnish a single instance favourable affirmative of the question. Knowledge therefore must first be sought no excellence can be attained without it. In our country we have been disposed to educate a selected few, leaving the bulk of the people to sleep in ignorance. But is it sufficient to enlighten a few choice minds for the professions and feed like animals the common masses for manual labour? To this I emphatically answer No. "Education" says a writer, "was intended for all, when God revealed the closed forest, the sky painted blue, and earth itself a garden flowered and fruited, and all the visible creation." Education to a selected few is dangerous; in the ancient days of Egypt, the art of reading and writing, we learn, was the exclusive right of the priest or sacerdotal class of society. These were distributed all over the country to rule the lower classes of the the people, prescribing the legislations of the kingdom and performing the duties of priest and physicians. This exclusive right but a tendency to debar the the lower classes from taking active part in the affairs of the kingdom. Consequently there was a lack of interest and patriotic zeal, and finally the country became subject to a foreign yoke.

Centuries later, the aspiring sons of Hellas, to de-throne ignified intelligence, fostered education as never a nation had done. And in the days of Pericles so much attention was given by Athens in education, and the work of mental training so generally diffused, that almost all her inhabitants were qualified to fill offices of honour, or discharge business of talented men. So well was instruction imparted that a regulation was made, that "the greater part of public offices should be filled by lot, which rarely resulted in the choice of any but able and qualified men". And this period of Athenian history, readers of history are aware, forms an illustrious era in the ages of the world.

Who can say that celebrated Demosthenes would have been such an admirable prince of orators if his first efforts were not to seek after instruction? What would have become of like men Alexander the Great, Diogenes, Pythagoras, Aristotle, and all the great geniuses of the world, if they had despised learning?

England does not suffer from her many institutions of learning, she loses nothing by subjecting the minds of her noble sons. Nor has Sierra Leone a city in your midst has become less prominent by her effort to enlighten her children. On the other hand those as native power animating them, have led to the discovery of arts and sciences and the numerous inventions.

To what do the inventors of America, France and Germany owe their skill? What can exhibit men of various occupations and professions in the civilized world to accord the amount of preference? Education Principally is it not Education that has given the sons of Europe and America the great preeminence in Architecture Sculpture and the decorative paintings of Artistic genius.

If knowledge to all will strengthen for more work then no less will suffice. And to ignore or neglect it is both impolitic and wicked. For youth are ever a receptive mind, and a sick head he still needs education and God needs him to work as skilful demands at your hands the proper culture of your children.

F JOHNSON.

The above is from an Essay by one of the students in the Rufus Clark Training School at Hanagay.—Ed

ALPHA Factory.

York Island SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING
F. & A. SWANZY
GEO. LEACH
Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned Fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogshead of about 550 lbs nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand— in similpackages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the Up-River Traders, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A. SWANZY.
ALPHA FACTORY.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—Imports during the fortnight are 511 casks per "Volta," 1316 per "Sherbro," and 800 per "Biafra."

Lagos Oil after reaching £27. 5. has fallen owing to the pressure of speculators to realize. All other is steady as below. The sales during the fortnight are about 1000 tons. In "transit,"

Lagos, nominally £25. 10 0—Bonny Cameroons and Old Calabar £23. 15. 0 to £24. 0. 0—Accra, Addah Quittah and Popo £23. 5. 0—Benin £23. 0. 0 to £23. 5. 0—Bares, Niger and New Calabar £23.—Grand Bassam and Half Jack £22 15. 0—Congo and Sherbro £21. 15. 0 to £22 0. 0—Appam, Saltpond and Winnebah 21. 10. 0—Dixcove and Liberian £21. 5. 0

PALM KERNELS—Show a very considerable advance, and close steady with a very good enquiry. We quote basis 5 per cent shell "transit"

Lagos, Old and New Calabar, Bonny, and Cameroons and Sa Thome £10. 15. 0 to £10. 16. 3—Bares 10 1/- 6—Benin and Congo £10. 10. 0—Liberian and Sherbro, £10. 2. 6 to 10. 3. 9—Addah and Quitta 10. 2 6—Saltpond, Appam, and Winnebah £8 5. 0 to £9.

GROUNDNUTS—No sales to report. We quote decorticated £10. 10. to £15

COPRA—No charge to report £12 to £12. 10. per ton.

BENNISEED—A few bags at 40s. per 384 lbs.

COFFEE—Has been in active demand and closes firm. Sales up to 65s for bold berry, Liberian 60s. to 70s per cwt.

COCOA—Quiet but steady. Sales at 60s. per cwt.

INDIA RUBBER.—Sales during fortnight amount to 15 tons. An advance has been obtained on almost all descriptions.

Gambia Niggers, fair to prime			1s 10d. to 2s 0d.
Niger,	do.	do.	1s. 8d. to 1s. 10d.
Sierra Leone	do.	do.	1s 7d. to 1s. 8½d.
Thimbles			1s. 5d. to 1s. 8d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball			1s. 4d. to 1s. 6d.
Soft and Flaky Ball			0s. 8d. to 0s 10d.
Tongues			1s. 3d. to 1s. 4d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim and assinee			1s. 1d. to 1s. 5d.
Cameroon and Old Calabar			1s. 3d. to 1s. 4½d.
Liberian			1s. 0d. to 1s. 4d.
Salt Pond			0s. 10d. to 1s. 2½d.
Accra, pressed and dried			1s. 0d. to 1s. 6½d.
Do.	ordinary		0s. 8½d. to 0s 8½d.
Flake and Lumps			0s. 6½d to 0s 7½d.

GUM COPAL—Sierra Leone, good, 7½ to 7½ fall 5½ to 6½, common and small 3d. per lb. Red Congo, 55s. Benguela 72s 6d per cwt.

BEESWAX—Gambia £4. 10 to £4. 15 Sierra Leone £4. to £4. 5.

GINGER—In demand, nominally 16s. 6d to 17s. per cwt.

GUINEA GRAINS—Good enquiry. Sales at 33s. per cwt.

CALABAR BEANS—In demand at 5½d.

CAMWOOD—Market firm £6 to £16 per ton, as to quality

BARWOOD—Only retail business done, £7. 16. 3 to £7. 17. 6

EBONY—10 tons sold at 5£. 10. to 6£ per ton.

MONKEY SKINS—No further sales to report.

COTTON—Market closed rather sick. African sold at 5d.

IVORY—Sale out of auction of one tusk 22½ lbs. at £27 10s. and another, very good, 46½ lbs. at £48 10s

Liverpool,
9th Nov. 1888.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

The Wants of Others.

"The Lord relieve the wants of others."

Guy Dalton only got so far as this in "saying grace," and then stopped.

"Mother, are we helping the Lord?" he asked.

"What do you mean, child?" replied his mother angrily. You are most irreverent, breaking off in this way in the middle of saying grace."

"I could not say it" returned the boy, looking over the table, which was almost groaning under its weight of rich meats, "because I thought it was only like making fun, saying this every day when God knows we are not helping him to provide for the wants of others at all."

"I want to know what you mean by asking if we are helping God," said Mrs. Dalton. "It seems to me a very wrong expression."

"Well, mother," began the boy, "our Sunday school teacher was explaining to us the story of the servants going to work in their Lord's vine-yard, and he said that when we relieved the wants of others, or tried to do anything good or useful, for Christ's sake, we were 'workers together with God.' He showed us a verse about it. He said, too, that God does not rain down food from the sky now as he did to the hungry Jews, but puts it into the hearts of the rich to provide for the poor."

Mrs. Dalton was silent for some time again; then she said, "I think you are right, Guy; it is a mockery to say day after day, 'Lord relieve the wants of others,' while we are entirely indifferent to them. Let us beg it care for others now."

And so a subscription was made then and there, and the mother placed a good donation upon the table, while two or three secret stores in children's money-boxes were opened. For what do you think it was given? Why a free dinner for hungry and ragged children; and Guy had the pleasure of handing the money in for this purpose to the treasurer. And I can tell you, as Mrs. Dalton's family gathered round the table next day, they felt much sweet satisfaction at the thought that they had indeed provided for the wants of others, and experienced the truth of the Savior's words, "It is more blessed to give than to receive."—Sel.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. VI. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, JANUARY 15, 1889. No. 1

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto. deliv'rd in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GOLDEN, Shenjuay, Mr. E. A. LEWIS, Freetown, West Africa, Rev. WM. MCKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Chief Clerk.	M. J. W. Rocke
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Dockner.
Sub Treas. & Col. Chief Clerk	G. H. Garrett J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, J. J. Werburton.
Asst. Flying Officer	Sulymah Jasper Cuttker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jabreen, M. R. C. S.
Shipwright.	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts.
Gaoler.	J. R. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Vacant.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev. G. N. Jowett
Asst Do. Rev R. C. Taylor

LETTERS TO YOUNG MINISTERS.

Pastoral Work.

II.

You should have a plan of work for your charge as well as a plan of study. A general of an army will lay his plans for a campaign, determining the march of each day for corps one, two, three, etc, frequently fixing upon the place of encampment. He will see that proper provisions are made for arms, ammunition, wagons animals, clothing, food for the men, provender for the animals, hospital stores, and all other things that may be necessary for the thorough and efficient equipment of his army. There is a certain work which he expects to accomplish with this army during the coming campaign, and he does not move from his camp until his plans and preparations are all completed. Now the orders to march are given, unless unforeseen obstacles meet him, he pushes vigorously forward until his contemplated end is reached. If he had proceeded without such careful plan and preparation, he should inevitably have been defeated and probably his army been annihilated.

I am convinced that too many pastors proceed without any plans. They mean to be industious and do good. They wish to win souls to build up the people in the doctrine and faith of Christ. They long to promote the kingdom of our Lord but their procedure is haphazard. They try to do well it may be, what comes to their hands to do; but they are too largely the creatures or rather the sports of circumstances—that is the events of the charge come and go in a sort of fortuitous way, and the pastors are compelled to adapt themselves and their work to the circumstances as best they can. But a really wise and energetic man will have a good deal to do with determining the circumstances themselves. To be sure, the pastor is only a man with only the powers of a man, so far as he himself is concerned, and he cannot work or make all the conditions.

Of this, however, I am certain, that the pastor who lays down wise and comprehensive plans, eg. for the year's work, though unfavorable events which he can not control should arise at every turn, will accomplish much more than if he had proceeded without such plans. Try it. You may find it difficult at first to form any plan of campaign. You do not know what is demanded of you except to prepare and preach so many sermons a week, visit the people, etc.

First, then, it will be necessary to become acquainted as speedily as possible with the wants and conditions of your charge. Knowing these, it ought not to be a very difficult task to place before yourself some standard to which you wish to bring this charge as to spiritual condition, members, effectiveness, etc. and then lay down your plans for reaching this object—what organization you must have what what committees what line of sermonizing you will pursue, etc. If your first effort at laying out your work fails, try it again. No man but will work better and accomplish more with a plan than without one.

I very much fear, too, that we need in our church a reformation on the subject of pastoral visiting. Pastoral visiting means a good deal more than to call on an agreeable family who will seat you in the softest chair in the parlor, and forthwith proceed to have good, jolly time with you, in banter and gossip. A good deal that is called pastoral visiting is nothing more than social calling, and much of it is protracted social visiting. A vast amount of time is wasted in mere visiting, which often has no relation to the pastoral work at all. It may be that the pastor ought to do some social visiting, and he certainly has that right, but let him not call it pastoral visiting and let him be cautious that he does not squander his precious time which ought to be given to study and other work, in mere luxurious indulgence under the delusion that he is doing his duty. I would not make a slave of a pastor, but yet we ought every hour to remember what debtors we are to our great calling, and that we are indeed the servants of the Lord Jesus.

Now, pastoral visitation consciously and purposely directed to the spiritual interests of the parish whether it be the upbuilding of believers or looking after the unsaved. It inquires after the spiritual welfare of the members, old and young encourages the despondent and discouraged, by judicious counsel warns and instructs, directs and suggests in Christian work, and we can by means prayer with individuals and with families, as also the reading of short scripture selections. These visits, ordinarily ought to be short, thus allowing time to make a number of them in half a day. You certainly ought not to think yourself obliged to spend a half day at a place, and wind up with a great howl. Lay off your charge or circuit into so many visiting districts. Take one district at a time, allowing yourself so much time—a reasonable amount of time—and then visit the members of that district within the allotted time. Keep an account of the visits, carefully writing down the dates, and even sometimes, if not always, marking whom you saw during the the visits. Here you see, is plan again. Some such determination of our work gives system to what we do, and regularity, and will contribute to thoroughness and ease. Much more could be said on this topic, but just a few hints on the main features must suffice.—

AMICUS—In Telescope.

AMERICA'S WEALTH

From a Correspondent.

I send you herewith some figures and facts which no doubt will be quite new and very interesting to many of our readers who know very little of the vast resources, the amazing progress and enormous wealth of the young republic viz:—The United States of North America. The progress made by this country during the past 30 years is without any parallel in history.

In 1850 the total wealth of the United States was but £1,686 000, while that of the United Kingdom exceeded £4,500,000,000, or nearly three times that sum. Thirty short years suffice to reverse the positions of the respective countries.

In 1882 the United Kingdom was possessed of no less than £8,720,000,000, but stupendous as this seems, it is exceeded by the wealth of the Republic which in 1880, two years before amounted to £9,790,000,000. America's wealth today greatly exceeds £10,000,000,000. Nor is this due altogether to her enormous agricultural resources as may at first glance, be supposed, for all the world knows she is first among nations for agriculture. It is largely attributable to her manufacturing industries. For as all the world does not know, she & not Great Britain is also the greatest manufacturing country. In 1880 British manufactures amounted in value to £808,000,000 sterling, those of America £1,112,000,000 sterling, nearly half as much as those of the whole of Europe which amounted to £2,600,000,000. Britain's manufactures in 1880 were 8 the value of those of the one century old Republic which is not generally considered a manufacturing country at all. France with her fertile plains and sunny skies, requires a hundred and sixty years to double her population. Great Britain whose rate of increase is greater than any other European nation, takes seventy years to double her population. The republic has repeatedly doubled here in twenty five years. In 1831 Great Britain and Ireland contained twenty four millions of people, and fifty years later (1881) thirty-four millions.

France increased during the same period from thirty two and a half to thirty seven and a half millions. The Republic bounded from thirteen to fifty millions. England gained ten, France five, the United States thirty seven millions. Thus the Republic in one half century added to her numbers as many as the present total population of France and more than the present population of the United Kingdom. The thirty millions of Americans, of 1832 have now increased to fifty-six millions—more English speaking people, than exist in all the world besides more than in the United Kingdom and all her colonies, even were the later doubled in population. Of Railroads, the United States has more miles than all Europe.—Weekly News, Sierra Leone.

SULYMAH DISTRICT.

The police have not last much time in pursuing the victory which they had gain over Mackinh's warboys at JEHOMAH, for they have opened the new year with a brilliant victory at FANIMAH, where we are informed, they succeeded after a fight lasting one hour and twenty minutes in taking the town and rescuing six hundreds and sixty-eight captives mostly those taken in the raids on Sulymah and Krim country. We regret to learn that three of their number were wounded but we trust their wounds are but slight ones. This practical mode of dealing with Mackinh's band of robbers who call themselves warboys is we presume, the development of the plans of his Excellency Governor Hay who is now in the Sulymah District. Large it is reported was attacted on the 3rd inst. We need hardly say that we hope that every success will attend these efforts and that peace so long wished for by Merchants Traders and all will be restored to this District.—Communicated.

Cms 1 2 3 4 5 6
Ins. BRITISH MUSEUM 2

The Early Dawn
BONTHE, SHERBRO'

Jan. 15, 1888.

SULYMAH AFFAIRS

Our information of the above, is scanty at meagre, considering the importance of the matters at stake yet we have sufficient of a reliable nature to assure us that the Brave Capt Crawford has been able to grapple these matters in such a masterly manner, as could, as we confidently fly His Excellency Governor Hay as to overcome the difficulties that have long delayed or hindered the settlement of the disturbances of the Sulymah district, and now after the shedding of much less blood than the hands of savages have shed in the past of their various raids, & not perhaps as much as they would have shed, in a short time again, if Captain Crawford had not arrived just at the opportune moment he did; hence it is useless for any one for a moment to entertain the notion that a Civil Officer of any kind, under the old palliating policy would have been able to prevent a raid by Mansiah, to say nothing of rescuing the large number of captives which have now been rescued from the cruel hands of slavery by the course pursued by Capt. Crawford. To us it seems that nothing short of actual fighting with the hordes of robbers that constantly disturb that district would an over, strange as it may seem even the ends of mercy, to say nothing of the demands justice. And much as we regret the shedding of human blood we are decidedly of the opinion that the course lately pursued in the Sulymah Affairs is decidedly the best, and we can now hope for the good results of an enduring peace if the measures of this Excellency Governor Hay are carried out

Once More.—We are compelled, and may be again, to speak out on the subject, of private pique and personal things, thro' the public press; by cowards who are afraid to meet and tell men to their face what they think of them, or sign their names to their papers. We regret very much that several papers of the kind above refered to have appeared in the last two or three issues of our paper, in consequence of our being so engaged with other matters as not to be able to attend to this matter and worst of all this issue contains some of the same objectionable matter of a worse type than hitherto, because unintelligible out side of this place.

THE MERCHANTS' REGATTA and Entertainment.

On Thursday the 3d. January the community of Bonthe enjoyed one of the most memorable festival that has ever been witnessed.

About 12 o'clock noon the booming of cannons announced to the general public that the expected hour for the Regatta had arrived. Immediately after, there was a flotilla of boats in the harbour and the s.s "Formosa" being then at anchor, had her flags hoisted from top to bottom.

It is a surprising fact that the Colonial steamer the "Countess of Derby" being at the same time in the harbour, did not hoist her flags. The reason for this is very well known.

The Grand Stand erected at the usual spot was gaily decorated with Merchants' Flags.

The Union Jack being absent on this occasion. The Steam Launch of the French West African Company steamed about the harbour with Flags hoisted fore and aft, the British Ensign and the Flag of the Republique Francaise.

About 1 p.m. the Regatta commenced.

Drinkables, Biscuits, &c., were distributed among the natives who also participated on the occasion.

ENTERTAINMENT.

About 7 10 p.m. the spacious Hall erected at the French Company's yard at Ghandamah, under the supervision of C. Barthelmie Esq. Agent of the Firm, and neatly decorated with flags &c., was densely crowded with ladies and gentlemen from all quarters including the representatives of the Mercantile Houses and their clerks.

After the Hall was fully crowded, a few ladies and gents occupied the floor in Dancing, while others enjoy themselves in the best manner possible, and the rest resorted to the Champagne Room, where Champagne Charley was profusely supplied to every one without any distinction whatever,—the noble Ilam of the P. A. O. being present to see that ample justice was done to all parties irrespective of position or colour (not as that of 1888 where the Sons of that occasion was very prejudiced).

The amusement that evening was the grandest ever witnessed in Sherbro, for every one who was present enjoyed himself as best he could.

Supper commenced at 3 a. m. after which the whole company dispersed.

Mr. Editor I can assure you that the whole scheme has met with complete success despite the absence of a select few, and I hope that the promoters of the merchants Regatta, &c. will always continue to enliven the general public every year, in the same way they have done this year, and I am sure they will have the hearty co-operation and good wishes of the general public.

Hip! Hip!! Hip!!! Hurrah, to the promoters of the Merchants' Regatta especially to Messrs. C. Barthelmie and T. E. McFoy etc., who sacrificed their time to make the whole scheme a complete success. I must not omit to award praise to Messrs. Eli C. Davis and Sol. B. A. Campbell for the market attention and attendance given to the guests on the occasion.

Bonthe, (Communicated.)
Jan. 1889.

Merchants Regatta AND ENTERTAINMENT.

JANUARY 3RD, 1889.

SUBSCRIBERS.

French Compy	£5. 5. 0
C. Barthelmie	2. 2. 0
P. Z. & Co. Ld.	5. 5. 0
T. E. Macfoy	2. 2. 0
R. & F. Ld.	5. 5. 0
T. Dalton	2. 2. 0
Geo Leach	2. 2. 0
T.P. Williams,	2. 2. 0
Allen Duval	2. 2. 0
J. A. Coackley	2. 2. 0
J. B. Parkinson	2. 2. 0
C. B. Collier	2. 2. 0
J. A. Williams	2. 2. 0
J. Downer	2. 0. 0
C. J. Cole	1. 10. 6
M. Z. M'Cauley	1. 1. 0
G. A. Metzger	1. 1. 0
2 European Officials	2. 4. 0
S. E. O. Mason	1. 1. 0
J. W. Pratt	1. 1. 0
Robert B. Wilson	1. 1. 0
T. V. Letevre	1. 1. 0
A. S. Yorke	1. 1. 0
V. Roux	1. 1. 0
Geo. A. Taylor	1. 1. 0
C. W. Bate	1. 1. 0
W. H. Davison	1. 1. 0
F. W. Pynches	1. 1. 0
J. Patterson	1. 1. 0
J. W. Johnson	1. 1. 0
G. Thompson	1. 1. 0
Rev J. A. Evans	1. 1. 0
W. E. Dixon	0. 10. 6
S. B. A. Campbell	0. 10. 6
W. D. M'Cauley	0. 10. 6
W. Smith	0. 10. 6
I. M. Peters	0. 10. 6
W. B. Coker	0. 10. 6
J. A. Salter	0. 10. 6
J. Morgan	0. 10. 6
S. D. E. Campbell	0. 5. 0
Rev J. C. Thomas	0. 10. 6
W. S. D. Pratt	0. 10. 6
W. D. Pashu	0. 5. 0
J. Davis	0. 5. 0
Daniel Gollier	0. 10. 6
W. Bidwell Coker,	0. 10. 6
S. B. Macauley,	0. 10. 6
Entrance fees for Boat-Race	£9. 7. 0.
Tickets for Entertainment	£2. 4. 0.
Error of cash.	0. 0. 10.
	£80. 8. 10.

EXPENSES.

Pd. B. P. Printer,	0. 15. 6.
Do. B. P. Cigars	1. 4. 0
Exp. carrying Piano	0. 3. 6
	For'd—£3. 3. 0.

Boat for'd—	£3. 3. 0.
Exp. Fire works	1. 15. 0.
B.P. Musicians.	3. 3. 0.
To Music Band,	1. 0. 0.
B.P., F. & R. Ld prov.	2. 6. 9.
B.P. P. Z. & Co. Ld provisions to Country people & exp for making grand stand	4. 3. 8.
B.P. French Compy provisions &c. Exp. for making the Entertainment Shed	25. 2. 2.
Sundry provisions, meat, Coffee sugar &c.	2. 11. 5.
Pd for Taffety & Exp.,—starring.	0. 8. 6.
Prizes to Winners	25. 5. 0.
Given to the Churches	4. 4. 0.
Pd. to the people making grand stand & Entertainment shed & to waiters attding.	4. 0. 6 £80. 8. 10.

We Certify the above account to be correct.

T. P. Williams—President
Geo. Leach—Vice President
C. Barthelmie—Treasurer
T. E. Macfoy—Sec. Regatta.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

T. Dalton
J. A. Evans
J. B. Parkinson
C. J. Cole

A student's voice from K.C. and Wife Thro' T. School.

Mr. Editor—This is the time for the Christians at Shainguy to be wide awake. Never before was there a time when the devil showed himself in our midst as now. Two factories have started with this wonder—strong drink. When we consider the years of missionary labors, the lives mostly shed the money spent, the prayers offered, and that there is at impending danger of apostacy, our hearts should be lifted up to God in prayer.

It is very mortifying to think that those who have been converted to the faith should turn back to the beggarly elements of the world. Nevertheless, we are assured that God is our refuge. Mrs Alexander Smith, the Evangelist held Him up to us this Evening as the sure Refuge, a very present help in trouble. This is indeed a troublesome time, as well as a busy time for the Church here. We also ask the church at large and the christian public to pray for us. Christians here should be wide awake and work with one heart and mind to put down intemperance. The "Christian Temperance Army" should be up and doing, for now it is high time to work.—SULLA THE FARMER said.

Shainguy Jan. 10, '89.

The Annual Meeting.—Of the U. B. C. Missions, will D. V. be held at Shainguy Station. Shainguy District Bp. Flickinger D. D will preside. All the members and also Teachers, in the employ of the various Missions of the connexion are requested to be present on the occasion. A large gathering is anticipated.

NEWS ITEMS.

Jan. 1—"Countess of Derby" from Freetown with rev. G.C. Nicol and Mr. Rocke newly appointed police clerks.

2.—s.s. "Formosa" from Freetown with Rev. Father Blanche.

4—"Formosa" for Freetown with Rev. Father Blanche and C. W. Tucker.

3—A Grand Regatta and Entertainment were given by the Merchants of Sherbro.

8.—s.s. "Forfar" for Freetown with Mr. Brighton Turner of the Customs.

9—s.s. "Formosa" for Freetown and left immediately for the Northern Rivers.

10—s.s. "Fontaine" for Freetown with Mr. Wilson C. Barthelmie Agent of the French Company.

10—s.s. Ronald from Freetown with Mr. W. B. Coker and his better half lady.

11—s.s. Countess of Derby from Freetown with Dr. Wykham, Mrs A. O. Walker, Chief Fah Woomlon &c

12.—Countess of Derby for Freetown.

s.s. Ronald with mails for Freetown.

Entertainment.—The grand Regatta of the 3rd inst was followed by the evening by a most delightful entertainment which we believe every one present enjoyed; much praise is due to the promoters for the success achieved.

Rumor has it that we are to have a European Missionary of the C. M. S. Stationed here in the near future

Messrs Pickering and Berthoud have we believe opened business in Mr C. B. Collier's buildings in Hedge Street this place.

The school Entertainment—At Bendoo was presided over by J. B. Wright Esq. J. P. and was, we believe, a successful occasion. A treat was also given on Tuesday the 8th inst. to the same school, we trust these may have the desired effect of encouraging the pupils.

From Kamcomaya.—We learn that the work progresses well in school and church under Mr. Thos. M. Cole the teacher in charge. The Chapel and Mission House are however very much in need of repairs. Sergt. D. S. O. Pratt, we understand, to the height that patronage will be, gave the children a nice treat for which the Mission returns many thanks to him.

Personal

Dr. A. E. Wykham arrived here per Countess of Derby on the 11th inst. to relieve Dr. O. Johnson, they called on us together the same evening we wish them each success.

The Rev. G. C. Nicol M. A. is again among us, his presence, is both pleasant and profitable, we believe, to our community as he officiates in the different churches of St. Lukes Parish when he is here, on the 13th inst. he administered the holy communion we believe at York Island.

By D. K. Flickinger D. D. and Prof. D. F. Wilberforce, were in this place about the 3rd inst, but left shortly after.

THE ZIG-ZAG COLUMN
For the "Dawn."

"Luther"—"Eclectic Gazette" read with utter regret your unreasonable letter of the 31st ultimo; and would have without any reluctance willingly offered himself as a peacemaker to adjust matters between you as desired, had you not wandered away intemperately before your were conscious of your gross error, and frankly acknowledged that you are at "variance" with your once esteemed confidant. "Eli" is polite enough not to retort adequately the remarks your at random letter deserves but will overlook your gross ignorance as it appears you were unconscious of your sophistry, being overburdened with almost insurmountable cares; not to beg you, I deem it prudent to leave you to the burden of your mind.

Regatta—Three cheers for the promoters. "Il fait soit qui rend service." It was a pleasure to be at Hedeiba on the 3rd inst., to witness the sight. Everybody was pleased, excepting "T—" who in consequence of his incompetency to compete with some of the other competitors, considered the Judges partial.

Grand Stand—Every one was in his best, but I will advise the three friends in future not to use silk handkerchiefs; for instead of beautifying them as they thought, it helped to point the moral "A good advice holds fast."

Entertainment (Regatta)—The first of its kind ever witnessed in Sherbro. Oh! how pleasant was it to see,

"A band of sweet maidens gaily frolicking
A band of gay youngsters wildly rollicking;
Waltzing and evening with fingers pressing."

but "T—" again elated with the wings of Bacchus crudely and impolitely accosted some for drinking too much of champagne.

Cook"—Why didn't you honor us with your presence in the Entertainment? The truth is, you love your castle as a cook loves his kitchen.

"S—" A symptom of your presence was not seen in the Grand-Turnup. How so? It's time now for party feelings to be done away and we are to be unanimous as a race.

"Patron" The Merchants have come of no avail, therefore you were slighted.

"Chipe"—If May and June are having private practice, that's not your business; that's right down officiousness, in plain words.

"Bright—" What a pity! Your anticipation buries in disappointment. "Remember it is not always May."

Vice Pres "C." The Hero—Despite the many oppositions, the match is unbroken still. We wish you a happy union.

CICERONE.

Bonthe, Sherbro

EXTERMINATING THE NEGRO.

The Editor of the Truth writes:—Among the transactions at the recent Congress which have not received as much attention as it deserved was a paper by the Rev. J. Grant Mills on the liquor traffic among African natives. Among other interesting facts in this paper it appeared that the total exports of spirits to Africa by the leading exponents of civilisation during 1887 amounted to 6,628,056 gallons. The quantity was divided among the different nations in these proportions:—Germany,—5,481,400 gallons; United States, 747,080 gallons United Kingdom, 398,980 gallons; and Portugal 646 gallons. Germany, therefore, stands facile princeps in the pious work of exterminating the Negro, and primus in quality, as well as quantity, I should say, for all the German liquor is exported from Hamburg and Bremen, and we all know what that implies.

The character of some of this poison must be truly awful. Among the retail prices per pint, quoted from different African settlements are the following:—Spirits at Sierra Leone, 4½d.; superior gin, Lagos, 2s 1; Hamburg gin, 4s.; rum, Sierra Leone, 1s; double rectified rye Genova 4½d. Tafia, or French rum, is sold at 9d per gallon. The gin and rum are said to be occasionally used by painters for turpentine. It is recorded that, "a gorilla, which had been procured at the Gaboon river, died on its way home, and in order to preserve its body properly, it was placed in a cask of trade rum; but when the cask was opened in Liverpool it was found that the hair and skin of the gorilla had been burned as if by vitriol, and that the body was in a terrible state of putrefaction." Supposing the inside of a negro to be no tougher than the outside of a gorilla, this anecdote speaks as eloquently on the subject of "demoralisation of native races" as anything I have yet heard.—Weekly News.

DIED—On Sunday the 6th inst. at York, Sierra Leone Mr John Sawyer, consignee to Mr. W. Bidwell Coker of this place.

Distant friends will please accept this intimation.

Bonthe,
Jan. 10, '89.

FOR SALE.

The Estate of the late
S.T. Macaulay
OF YORK ISLAND.
AT THE STORES OF MESSRS.
Pickering
AND Berthoud,
Hedge St.—Bonthe, Sherbro,
A LARGE VARIETY OF Merchandise
AND USEFUL ARTICLES
SUCH AS PAINTS,
PRINTS,
MADRAS HDKFS,
W. H. BASINS,
POMATUM, &c. &c. &c.

These GOODS consist of all the STAPLES of TRADE requisite in the River Business.

ALL to be Sold at the lowest Prices—For CASH, or PRODUCE.

Bonthe,
Jan 14, '89.

E. MORGAN LEWIS
TAILOR &c.

Mastrees Maker, Refitter of Bedsprings, Joiner of Crockery-wares,—Parliar Maker &c.

Solicits the patronage of all.

☞ ORDERS neatly and promptly executed.

Bonthe, Jan. '89.

Behind again, yes and worse than ever before, however this time the delay was from another source,—the lack of Stationary, which owing to the irregularity of the Steamers for the past two weeks were unable to get in time for this issue.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

F. & A. SWANZY

GEO. LEACH

Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogshead of about 550 lbs. nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand— in similar packages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the Up-River Traders, Messrs Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected, so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A. SWANZY.
ALPHA FACTORY.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

The "Roquelle" is the only Steamer that has arrived up to date. The Congo is in the river with 540 casks oil, and 630 tons kernel. The "Teneriffe" is due with 780 casks oil, and 400 tons kernels. The "Nubia" will call at Havre with 1,000 casks oil, and 490 tons kernels, 2,700 bags coffee and cocoa, and 320 packages rubber. The "Malemba," for Havre with 800 casks oil, and 760 tons kernels.

Passed Sierra Leone—The "Mandingo" with 300 casks oil and 600 tons kernels. The "Niger" with 640 casks oil, and 360 tons kernels; and the "Lualaba," for Havre, with 680 casks oil and 500 tons kernels.

PALM OIL—During the fortnight the sales have been about 1500 tons, the prices showing a very small advance on our last quotations the market being a little lower on account of holidays and consequent absence of demand. We quote "transit."

Lagos £27. 0. 0. to 27. 5. 0.—Bonny Cameroons and Old Calabar 25. 0. 0. to 25 5. 0.—Benin 24*l* 5. 0 to 24*l* 10. 0. —Accra, Addah, Quittah Pram Pram, Popo, Leanda, Brass Niger and New Calabar.—24*l*. 5. 0.—Grand Bassam, Half Jack, 24*l*. 0. 0.—Congo and Sherbro 22*l* 15. 0.—Appum, Saltpond, Winnebah Channah and Anamabbe 21*l* 15. 0 to 22*l*. 0. 0.—Dixcove and Liberia 21*l*. 10s. to 21*l*. 15.

PALM KERNELS—Quite steady at a slight advance on our last quotations. Transit trasis 5 per cent sheell.

Lagos, Old and New Calabar, Bonny, Cameroons and Sao Thome 10*l*. 17 6 to 11*l*—Brass 10*l*. 15. 0. to 10*l* 17. 6. —Benin 10*l*. 15. 0.—Congo 10*l*. 10. 0. to 10*l* 12. 6—Liberian and Sherbro 10*l* 7. 6.—Adda and Quittaq 10*l* 5 0. to 10*l* 7. 6.—Saltpond, Appum, and Winnebah 10*l*. 0 0 to 10*l*. 5. 0.

GROUND NUTS—50 Bags fine Gambia sold at 15*l*,

COPRA—11*l* to 12*l* 10s. per ton.

BENNISEED—40s. to 46s. per 384 lbs.

COFFEE—The market during the fortnight has been quiet, and prices have receded a little. Bold Berry 72s. Small 71s. to 72s. and Liberian 60s. to 70s. per cwt. Probably we shall have a little improvement with the New Year.

COCOA—There has been a little more enquiry and some parcels have been sold at 45s. to 61s. per cwt.

INDIA RUBBER—The market is hardly so firm, but there is still a fair enquiry for all kinds of African. The sales during the fortnight amount to 70 tons. We hope to see an improvement with the New Year.

Gambia Niggers fair to prime	1s. 10d. to 2s. 1d.
Sierra Leone do do	1s. 8d. to 1s. 9½d.
Niger	1s. 7½d. to 1s 10d.
Thimbles	1s. 5d. to 1s. 8d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 4d. to 1s. 6½d
Hard Cape Coast Axim and Assinee	1s. 3d. to 1s. 6d.
Cameroon and Old Calabar	1s. 3d. to 1s. 5d.
Liberian	1s. 1d to 1s. 5d.
Saltpond	0s. 11d. to 1s. 2½d.
Accra, pressed and dried	1s. 2d. to 1s. 9d.
Do. ordinary soft	0s. 8½d
Addah Niggers	1s. 6d. to 1s. 9½d.

GUM COPAL—Better demand, and sales include 420 barrels, Sierra Leone at 3d. to 4d per lb. for common and 5½d to 7½d for fair to good. 36 Barrels white Angola at 30s. per cwt for blocky, and 37s. 6d. for good, and some small lots of Accra, Saltpond and Lagos at 20s to 30s.

BEESWAX—Quiet with small demand. Gambia £4. 10 0. to £4. 15. 0. and Sierra Leone £4. 0 to £4. 5. per cwt.

GINGER—Sales at 17s to 19s. 6d. per cwt.

CHILLIES—17s. to 30s. per cwt as in quality.

GUINEA GRAINS—50 bags sold at 3s8. 6d.

CALABAR BEANS—No further sales reported.

CAMWOOD—Fair Grand Bassa, sold at 16*l*. per ton.

BARWOOD, EBONY, Unchanged.

MAHOGANY—Assinee 49 logs sold at 4½d to 9½d per ft. It is no use sending this article unless they are very nice large logs, or they will not pay freight. They must also be free from flaws and cracks, the yellow wood should be cut off and the logs squared.

Monkey Skins—Next sales will take place about 23rd January. In the meantime we have nothing to report.

Ivory—Sales about the middle of January.

EDWARD BROTHERS.

Liverpool,
Dec. 21, 1888.

A Handsome Donation to the Clark Training School.

Bishop D. K. Flickinger, who recently arrived from England, brought for the Training School library some very valuable books, The "Ante Nice Library" 24 volumes, and 9 volumes of Dr. Joseph Parkers "Peoples Bible," Donated by R. A. Macfie Esqr. and J. M. Richards Esqr and sent by Rev J. Gwynne Jones D. D. who writes, "I have been begging some books for your Training Institute (as we call it here) and hope you will find them useful" Dr. Jones has greatly interested himself in the Training School. One year ago a box containing a number of books for the library, and various magazines and periodicals were sent to us. He assisted in the selection and shipping of the bell which lately arrived here; and through his and the efforts of Bishop Flickinger, the school has been brought to the notice of many friends in England. It is a matter of the deepest gratitude that in spite of many adverse circumstances God has raised up friends in many places. It is the desire of the writer, that the prayers that accompany efforts and gifts of our friends may be heard and that they may be realized. Yours very truly

D. Flickinger Wilkinson
29th Dec. 1888.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. VI. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, JANUARY 31, 1889. No. 2.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0 6 0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0 5 0
Half yearly by Mail,	0 3 0
Do. do. delv'd in Bonthe,	0 2 6

Address.—Communications to be sent to J. A. Evans, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gowans, Shaingay, Mr. T. A. Lewis, Fort Lewis, West Africa, Rev. W. McKee Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley.
Comptr.	The Commandant.
Chief Clerk.	M. J. W. Banks
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Buckner.
Sub Treas. & Col Chief Clerk	J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. S. Crown, J. B. Turner, & J. J. Warburton.
Asst. Examr. Officer Sulymah Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser.	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts.
Bailer.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road Pastor, Vacant.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope Pastor, Rev B. C. Taylor

LETTERS TO YOUNG MINISTERS.

Matrimony Again.

There, I told you so. Did I not predict that you would all read my letter on "Getting Married?" As a matter of fact, that is the only letter of the series thus far that I have heard from. Some of my young ministerial readers have had the good sense to agree with me in the sentiments there expressed, while others have had the poor taste (?) to set up a contrary judgment of a very positive character. Some have expressed the fear that if they were to follow my advice and seek a wife of the kind I indicated, they never would get married; the standard was set too high up, entirely beyond their reach. I beg pardon; but it seems to me that objection is not a credit to the young ministers who make it. Why, the young ladies themselves think better of it than that. One accomplished young lady writes to a friend of mine, who communicated it to me, "Tell Amicus, whoever he is, that we have the girl here with us. Tell him to send along the model young minister." Now, my young friends, that standard was not set one inch too high. Where would you expect one to set a standard? Down low as I could put it among the array of young ladies of the uneducated, unrefined, unread, giddy class, with but little sense and no qualifications for a minister's wife; Well, you could get a dozen wives of this sort but for the obstacle of the civil laws. What kind of a wife do you think a minister ought to have? Now, stop a moment. You will probably admit that next to being born into the world and dying the most serious event in any man's life is getting married The editor of the Telescope in an editorial note some time ago indignantly resented the idea, which we nowadays hear from too many, that marrying is a lottery. I entirely agree with him in his spirited protest. But it is a lamentable truth, which even a blind man can see, that too many, entirely too many young people rush or rather plunge head over ears into this most sacred and most serious relation with the spirit of reckless-ness and indiscretion that is perfectly amazing. They act as if marriage were something even below the importance and seriousness of the lottery. Now, my observation is that not a few young ministers act with just as little sense in regard to matrimony.

Now, I hold that it is entirely undesirable that the minister ought to be especially careful in selecting a wife for the very reason that his position and calling are exceptionally important and grave. He is to be a leader in the community in which he labors. What ought his wife to be? A booby? A minister ought to be one of the most pious and spiritual men in the community, perhaps the most pious and spiritual. What ought his wife to be? A worldling, who cares for nothing so much as for fashion dress, style, eh? A minister ought to be a humble man; how will it comport with his place to have a proud, vain, haughty wife? He ought to be careful and discreet, keeping a constant guard over his tongue; how will it do for his wife to be foolish and gossipy, given to tattling and talebearing? The pastor ought to live peaceably with all men; now give him a quarrelsome wife, who stirs up a fuss with all her neighbours and you will give him a fine keeper on the charge! He will be in fine spirits to preach to the woman whom he knows has in her possession his wife's chignon, the booty of the last week's fracas. The pastor ought to be, everybody admits, one of the most intelligent and best educated men in the parish; now in all conscience and sobriety what kind of a wife would you have him have? Would you have her be without brains? Would you advise him to seek one with but little brains? Would you have him marry a girl with a good education, or one who barely knows her A B C's? Now, honor bright, would it not be the right thing for her to be well educated, one who could be of help to you in your work, who has enough intellect and enough culture to take a sympathetic interest in your studies, your magazines and books, who, when you took her into society, would not be continually bringing the blush to your cheek by her ignorance?

Now, my dear unmarried reader, do not indignantly throw the Telescope to the floor and declare that the standard is too high. I have not drawn the picture of an angel. If I were to undertake that you would probably very sensibly observe some marks of difference. There is nothing aerial or limary in this sketch. I beg you to believe that I would not have you look in the moon or even in the clouds, for a life helper, but only here on this sublunary sphere among the veritable daughters of Eve; but then I beg to assure you that not every one of her daughters is fit to be a preacher's wife. This is not quoted from the gospel, but it is as true as gospel. The editor of the Telescope who is a wise man, in an editorial note some time ago uttered some Solomonic words on this very subject. After his pious reference to me is one of his notes in this week's Telescope, I am certain he will not object to my quoting him here as authority.

One word more. You need not be in haste about marrying; the girls will not all be taken if you should use a little time so look about. And while you are looking about, I pray you keep your eyes open. When you go into a new community do not allow your heart and your judgment, your sense and your very breath to be all taken from you at once by every girl with a pretty face. It is not an infallible sign that she is in love with you because she smiled upon you the other day when you met her; and if she fell in love with you at the very first sight, my word for it, she has not that level headedness that you want in a life-companion. Finally, give reason and judgment, at least an advisory seat, I should say, give them the casting vote, when you enter into counsel on the subject of matrimony. As the preachers sometimes say, I now leave the subject with you.—Amicus —In Telescope.

The Sherbro Annual District Meeting of the Church of the United Brethreo in Christ.

I had the pleasure of meeting with this body, which held its session in the Flickinger Chapel, at Shaingay, on the 25th, 26th, 27th, & 28th of January 1889.

The sessions of the Conference were presided over by Bishop Flickinger. The Bishop has lost none of his interest in the people of Africa, and his zeal for their salvation has increased rather than abated.

The Conference was fairly well attended, most of the members, and quite a number of strangers were present, and the meetings were through out, characterized by a spirit of unity of purpose and feeling, and a desire for the advancement of the work. that was of a decided improvement on former years, and was indeed refreshing.

An earnest religious spirit pervaded all the work of the Conference, and all seemed to feel the need of a complete personal consecration to God. The meetings for worship were especially seasons of grace. The evening meetings were conducted by the well known Evangelist Mrs Amanda Smith, in her own peculiar way, and were greatly blessed to many.

Sabbath was a high day. In the morning was the "Love Feast," and it was truly a feast to all who love the dear Savior. At 11 O. o. m. the Bishop preached a plain, practical sermon on Christ's words, "Because I live, ye shall live also."

After the sermon, 10 persons were received into Church-fellowship, and the Rev. E. C. Taylor of Bonthe, was solemnly ordained to the office of an Elder in the Church.

In the evening, Mrs Amanda Smith preached on the necessity of entire separation from the world, and union with God.

The day was fittingly closed by all gatherings around the altar, and partaking of the emblems is commemoration of the suffering and death of our Lord.

The usual Committees were appointed, and reports read, discussed and adopted.

A valuable paper was read by Bp. Flickinger on the Rufus Clark & Wife Training School, which will be printed in a pamphlet form together with the Conference Minutes.

The reports from the the different fields of labor, show good work done during the year.

There had been a good many changes in the membership of the Conference, and the demand is for better men, more thoroughly furnished for the work.

Steps were taken, looking toward the special training of teachers in the matter and method of School Work.

Several changes were made in the assignment of the different fields of labor.

The familiar face of Rev. J. C. Sawyer was especially missing, and a resolution of christian sympathy with him in his affliction was passed.

The kind hospitality of the Missionaries and people of Shaingay were especially appreciated by all. And after ten days spent in reviewing the work of the past, and laying plans for the future, it was with regret that we said good bye, and turned to our different homes with the prayer that our labors during the coming year might be abundantly blessed of God, to the upbuilding of his Kingdom.

R. N. WEST

There is an old legend of the middle ages to the effect that once upon a time, a church member died at a full. Satan came along and took his soul and ended up off with it, when St. Peter finding it out put after him and demanded restoration. "He was a christian," said St. Peter and you must give him up." "Christian!" exclaimed satan, "why, I found him on my premises." If that is the case," said St. Peter, "I give it up."

The Early Dawn.
BOSTHE, SHANGAY.
Jan. 31, 1889.

VISIT TO SHAINGAY.

It was our pleasure, since the last issue, to have a little outing, in the direction of Shaingay, and while the pleasure of two full nights, and a day was not the most pleasant, nor in a position what any one could have enjoyed the heat; yet it was a change, and give relaxation to the overtaxed brain, which the writer really felt the need of, and cannot but say he enjoyed it. But to come down to the subject, we reached Shaingay at 4 p.m. on the 25th instant just 34 hours before the sitting of the Annual District Meeting of the U. B. C. Mission, and hence in a short time found that the place was well supplied with visitors from all parts of the Sherbro country. Many of whom were strangers to us and to many others whom they met. Entering the Conference-Room, the lofty Auditorum of Flickinger chapel we were soon greeted by very many cheerful faces, and none more so than that of the aged Bishop Flickinger, who bears up well under the burden of three score and five years. The venerable Gomer was also looking his best, in his great suit of nearly white beard, with hair to match; but this caused a reflection in our minds, for we had known each of these aged fathers when they were younger and their hair and heads were not gray, and we called to mind too, that they have both grown old in the Master's Service, and chiefly for Africa, and much of their time in Africa; and yet it was evident to all present during the four successive days of that Conference that these fathers have lost none of their love for Africa.

Mrs Amanda Smith, who is indeed a very able, and beyond a doubt, a very remarkable woman, was among the visitors at Shaingay, had been there rather longer than others and was in the midst of a grand revival, which was evidently doing great good. Of this lady we have heard long and much but really it would seem that the half was never told especially of her power to move the multitude.

Shaingay, especially that part occupied by the Mission, including the beautiful Villa of Eastbourne Grove, is a very delightful spot, and now while the Mission farm is much neglected for want of time and hands. Yet it is evident that it has left its impress for good on the community and that some impetus has been given to agriculture by its past. The business that was commenced by the Mission has opened the way, and now the prospect is pretty fair for the building up of a business place of many of which are already on the ground. Rumour has it that a Custom House is to be built there, but for this we cannot vouch at present, yet it is not at all improbable for the future.

GRATIFYING RESULTS.

It will be remembered, that in our issue of April 15th '87, under the caption "Steam Communication" that we suggested a Branch Steamer between Sherbro and Freetown, of a greater tonnage, than had hitherto been used for carrying the local mails. We also felt sure that such an enterprize would succeed, if continued long enough. It will also be remembered that early in August of the same year the s. s. Forrno arrived in this part of the world with Bishop Flickinger, who bears up well under the burden of three score and five years. The venerable Gomer was also looking his best, in his great suit of nearly white beard, with hair to match; but this caused a reflection in our minds, for we had known each of these aged fathers when they were younger and their hair and heads were not gray, and we called to mind too, that they have both grown old in the Master's Service, and chiefly for Africa, and much of their time in Africa; and yet it was evident to all present during the four successive days of that Conference that these fathers have lost none of their love for Africa.

Miss

The Early Dawn.
MONTHLY MESSENGER.

Jan. 31, 1889.

VISIT TO SHAINGAY.

It was our pleasure, since the last issue, to have a little outing in the direction of Shaingay, and while the pastime of two full nights, and a day was not the most pleasant, for just perhaps what any one could have enjoyed the hike; yet it was a change, and gave relaxation to the overtaxed brain, while the writer really felt the need of, and cannot but say he enjoyed it. But to come down to the subject, we reached Shaingay at 4 a.m. on the 25th instant just 34 hours before the sitting of the Annual district Meeting of the U. B. C. Missions, and hence in a short time found that the place was well supplied with visitors from all parts of the Sherbro country. Many of whom were strangers to us and to many others whom they met. Entering the Conference-Room, the lofty Auditorium of Flickinger chapel we were soon greeted by very many cheerful faces, and none more so than that of the aged Bishop Flickinger, who has a up well under the burden of three score and five years. The venerable Gomer was also looking his best, in his great suit of nearly white beard, with hair to match; but this caused a reflection in our minds, for we had known each of these aged fathers when they were younger and their hair and heads were not gray, and we called to mind too, that they have both grown old in the Master's Service, and chiefly for Africa, and much of their time in Africa; and yet it was evident to all present during the four successive days of this Conference that these fathers have lost none of their love for Africa.

Mrs Amanda Smith, who is indeed a very able, and beyond a doubt a very remarkable woman, was among the visitors at Shaingay, had been there rather longer than others and was in the midst of a grand revival, which was evidently doing great good. Of this today we have heard long and much but really it would seem that the half was never told especially of her power to move the multitude.

Shaingay, especially that part occupied by the Mission, including the beautiful Villa of Eastbourne Grove, is a very delightful spot, and now while the Mission farm is much neglected for want of time and means. Yet it is evident that it has left its impress for good on the community and that some impetus has been given to agriculture by its past. The business that was commenced by the Mission has opened the way, and now the prospect is pretty fair for the building up of a business place of many establishments, two of which are already on the ground. Rumor has it that a Custom House is to be built there, but for this we cannot vouch at present, yet it is not at all improbable for the future.

GRATEFUL EXTRACTS.

It will be remembered, that in our issue of April 15th '87, under the caption "Steam Communication" that we suggested a Branch Steamer between Sherbro and Freetown of a greater tonnage, than had hitherto been used for carrying the local mails. We also felt sure that such an enterprise would succeed, if continued long enough. It will also be remembered that early in August the same year the s. s. Forcados arrived in this port on her first voyage as Branch steamer, and how many were the evil prophesies about her succeeding. But we have been pleased indeed of late to hear of the gratifying results that have attended the enterprize, and that the prospects of greater results are at least very favorable despite the many obstacles, that hitherto hindered the success of the enterprize.

AGRICULTURE.

The idea is beginning to force itself upon the minds, of some at least, that petty trade is a failure, and that their hope must for the future be in some thing else, just what that something else is to be may not be clear to any, and, yet, in our opinion it will eventually be found to be the tilling of the long neglected soil; this we do not anticipate will be brought about so much by advocacy as per force of circumstances and yet it will, it must come, to that sooner or later.

We regret to learn that our friend Mr. Bidwell Coker has been laid up in bed from the 14th instant to the present, suffering from a severe attack of jaundice fever which prevents him from attending duties. We wish him a speedy recovery.

ETHNOS.

The practice of friendships with the opposite sex among the people of Ethnos has had a very pernicious effect upon the happiness of married life, indeed to such an extent, that this God ordained custom of society has been even a question of Public Debate or Discussion; as to whether Marriage had not become a failure. Of the profundities of such a question I need scarcely intimate anything, except that it shows that the sentiments of Ethnos must be wise in their own conceit, and of such, the scriptures of the wise writ give us but little hope, as saying that there is more hope of a fool than of such.

In Ethnos there is scarcely such a thing as society; for it is very hard for the people of the place to trust each other to the extent, of Association, almost every one feels apprehensive of his fellow, and will scarcely believe it possible to have more than one true friend. In a community of such people, there must of necessity be, much discord, jealousy, and contention; and such is the case among the Ethnobians. It was, if I have been told, a practice, during them, to rise early in the morning for the hurt of their neighbors, especially when jealousies had sprung up between parties; these affairs were private, and such in most cases, as could not be punished by the code of laws in operation in Ethnos. To be more plain, it is said that even christians (persons who had been baptized) would consult the pagan and mohammedan medicine men to obtain their help against those whom they desired to harm; whether this be true the writer could not say but he knows that for some reason, there were always plenty of medicine-men about the town, and that in some way they obtained their support. And it was pretty well known that these fancy and other country fashion men were brought to Ethnos by the chief of the place; it was also further known that those so called christians always feared expense, more than the commission of sin, and in fact the same is true of the people of Ethnos, until today, very little if any change had taken place for the better up to my last leaving that town, which is quite recently. But I must describe, hereafter the christianity of Ethnos, so I close for the present.

BERT.

Lincoln's Proverbs

An autograph letter that I would like to own was shown me a few days ago. "A. Lincoln" was boldly signed at the end of it, and this wisdom was there, paragraphed in this wise:

"Do not worry.
"Eat three square meals a day.
"Say your prayers.
"Think of your wife.
"Be courteous to your creditors.
"Keep your digestion good.
"Steer clear of the billiousness.
"Exercise.
"Go slow and easy.

"May be there are other things that your special case requires to make you happy, but, my friend, these, I reckon, will give you a good life."

THE ZIG-ZAG COLUMN.

For the Dawn.

The Public—It is the undersigned entire intention to keep up the "Zig-Zag" Column so long as he is disposed and shall endeavour to state with an unbiassed mind concisely the general nature of things good or ill without annoyance.

Private:—The public recently was startled to learn that your mother in law was seriously wounded at late Mormor Jambeh's farm, and is now in the Colonial Hospital for treatment.

"H—a—" Mah, the sun's rays tell very much on your every day suit, much so that it would be difficult to discern the color of your suit, and the sun; but pardon me! I am unable to understand that you are in mourning for one with whom you had been lawfully linked by connection. But man, dont you think that a white suit would have answered the purpose better than a scarlet black? True enough it would have; for X'mas wear black, and heathen, white for mourning.

Mrs. "M. L." Your matte is particularly unfavorable with an impertinent mind on your lawful right; and you chose to have it so. You are too benight.

Victoria Chronicle—I was informed a few days ago from a visitor who attended Divine Service in the above named Church that the gathering though thin yet neat to be observed amongst some of the young women want of devotional selfishness in time of prayer.

"C." the applicant—I hope your application will meet the approval of the Conference; but you ought not to have waited till you are necessitated. Remember that the disciples of Xt. were called when they were hard at work.

> "Let not him that putteth his hand to the plough look back easily;
> The ploughshare cut through the sources of life to its fountains.
> The ploughman digs the graves of the dead and the hearths of the living!
> If in his toil and his mercy forever enlisteth."

"Child's desperate Ma."—You are very daring! You know full well that your daughter is late through maltreatment was compelled to be separated from your son, who doubtless was transported a few nights ago to the "Dress Maker's" where he suddenly found himself; and having been there, could not do otherwise but ordered out some dresses for his wife; meanwhile this night rest was disturbed by attractions which made her awake to hear the sad news of the transportation; as she was in this sympathetic attitude, one was told that her son was at the "Dress maker's" where she surprisingly found her son neatly cuddled by the Dress maker, your son's landlady. But "Ma" who was indignantly moved with the passion of jealousy, treated her son's landlady with indignity for her hospitality in her own very cattle. Notwithstanding the disgrace, the Lady was overkind not to move an action for trespass, assault and battery against "Ma."

P. & R. (M.)—Rumor says that the fabric is dissolving and the "Cook" is clever enough to exchange place for the "Mason," to have every joint cemented in time before the roof grows worse.

"Dude Ped."—You must understand that the public lear regard Schoolmasters without certificate unless you show yourself a scholar. But I expect very little from a vehicle-driver

CICERONE

Bonthe,
Jan. 25th 1889.

NEWS ITEMS.

Jan. 20—The Governor returned from his extended tour to Sulima District and the Rivers Pon it being Sabbath he seems to have allowed no debarkation, but proceeded quietly to Freetown. Exc llency Sir C. J. Cumming by the Colonial steamer on the 23rd.

22nd—Meeting of Native Chiefs at Government yard.

23rd—Steamer "Casamance" Capt. Williams left for Freetown with Nimrod Sawyer & Wm. Brown as passengers to join the Power Boat in Freetown. Mr. Cole commonly called "Fridius," applied to consul to be released from the Police force.

26th—Returned from Freetown.

29th—Left notice for Freetown with Rev. G. C. Nicol M. A. Pastor Nicol Mrs. St. John and Mr Geary A. Coker and several other passengers.

30th—The marriage of Mr. W. B. Coker of the firm of F. Z. & Co. to this place to Miss Mabel A. Cook it took place Wesleyan Church by the Rev. J. C. Thomas.

Personal

Rev G. C. Nicol M. A. called and spent five days with us on the 15th inst; he has since on the 29th left for Freetown.

Dr. Whykham called on the 18th inst. and spent a pleasant hour

Dr. O. Johnson left finally for Freetown per s. s. Countess of Derby on the morning of 17th inst. not having had time to call to see us but vised.

Revd J. F. Coker of Waterloo called on the 17th he was accompanied by Mr. Rocke commander of the s.s. Gallinas.

A CONJUGATION'S STORY.

It was in the summer of 1873 I was running extra on the — Railroad. A circumstance occurring at the point I came into the town of —. An order was issued for an extra train on Sunday morning. I received notice early on Saturday morning. The order carried by the time of the arrival in our city at 9: 30 A. M. I looked again to see if it was not 9: 00 P. M. I was a teacher in the Sabbath school. I had a bright class of boys about sixteen years of age—just the right age to be interested in circuses, and to be wide awake when one arrived in town. My heart sank. I a professing Christian, and withal a Sabbath school teacher, detailed to run a circus train on the Sabbath, and to arrive in my own city where every body knew me, just as christians were ready for church.

What should I do? I had worked nearly nine years as a brakeman, and had been promoted to a conductor. Could I afford to lose all by a refusal to do as ordered. Then I thought of my family dependent on me, and said "I can not throw away all these years of hard toil to satisfy conscience;" for I expected to be discharged if I refused to do as ordered. Then I thought of the boys in the Sabbath school. What if some of them should happen to be at the depot to see the train, or if they were just on their way to church as we arrived, and should see me, as they doubtless would! I thought of the church and prayer-meeting. What should I do? I thought of my own influence for good or lost; and there was a desperate struggle between the evil and the good.

I had four days in which to decide. How strange it was! Notice did not usually meet us until the day previous. What long, dreary days they seemed! And the boys filled of the order and were guessing what I would do. They knew what I said in prayer-meeting about desecrating the Sabbath; for some of them were there. "Would he go, or would he quit?" "No, he would not quit; and he would not dare to refuse to go," they said.

Saturday morning came. I must notify the office that day what I would do. Sleepless nights and weary days passed, and I had thought and prayed; but I was decided. Duty clear, very clear; and it was that a Christian man could not run excursion-trains on the Sabbath!

My father was a deacon in an orthodox church, and just before going to my work I went to him and told him the story, reserving my decision to myself, and asking his advice what to do. I knew well what he would say. What a look went over his face as he spoke! "Bar," I said, "father, will you help me target some thing to do? I shall lose my place. I have devoted nearly all my life to this business, and now I must turn to something else for livlihood for myself and family."

"Trust in God, my boy," he answered promptly; "and I will help you too."

I returned to the office and walked up to the manager as he sat, and said in a respectful tone, "I have been detailed to run the circus-train Sunday morning and I can not do it on the Sabbath."

Imagine my astonishment as he looked me in the face and said, "You been detailed to run Sunday-trains? I am surprised! You go right home, and don't you worry about Sunday-trains."

I have never been detailed for Sunday-work since. But the men who offered to do for extra pay upon the Sabbath have long since been discharged.—Sel.

THE DARK CONTINENT.

History is continually repeating itself. In the days of the Roman Empire it was a popular saying that if a man wished to hear anything that was new and strange it was to Africa that he must turn. That dark, mysterious land! as it seemed to the Roman and the Greek, is the one portion of the ancient world that has remained practically unchanged. To day, as in the past, it is to Africa that civilized Europe is looking and the African future, politically speaking, is as inscrutable as the countenance of the Sphinx which looks upon the stranger from its desert home.

In the North, Egypt in possession and quantifying its credit among nations exhausted and its government through infantile and oppressive slowly sinking into decay. In the south there is perpetual warfare between the Zulus, the Boers and the English; warfare varied in results, uncertain as to its future and with small honors for the victors. Around the fortifications of Suakim the English forces are gathering, and upon the fate of the little Arab town may depend the continuance or fall of the English Ministry.

And somewhere on the bosom of the African forests is the intrepid Stanley, and for the whole civilized world awaits with anxiety the news of his death or of his safe return.

Nor is it only in the political world that Africa is an object of interest and anxiety. The religious world under the leadership of Cardinal Lavigerie, Archbishop of Carthage and Algiers, has organized a crusade against the African slave trade which is likely to stir up the nations more than the system of governmental plottings and and the acquisition of new territory.

In an address delivered in London in July last the Cardinal missionary related some of the evils of the slave trade as he himself had seen them. He spoke of whole regions depopulated, of thousands carried away into slavery, and being a prey during the route for the coast by the lines of bleaching bones which lined the high ways. In some place he described, near the village of Ujiji, so many of these wretched slaves had died that the bones would no longer rest together, they were a sink of human flesh.

As the natural result of this appeal addressed to the European powers, active preparations to combat their forces against the African slave trade are in operation, and there is no doubting with what the difficulty is in case where evil must be put down by force—A nineteenth century crusade in which the sword must be used to prescribe the right. Germany, Italy, France and England have pledged themselves to the work, and while it may be its result, the movement is one of the important political events of the time. The past of Africa is enveloped in mystery and darkness; its future seems scarcely less obscure.

Philadelphia Times (U. S. A.)
Dec. 14th '88.

Missionary Pennies

Hear the pennies dropping,
Listen as they fall—
Every one for Jesus'
He will get them all.

Dropping, dropping ever,
From each little hand;
The our gift to Jesus
From his little band.

Now, while we are little,
Pennies are our store,
But when we are older,
Lord we'll give thee more.

Though we have not money,
We can give him love,
He will own our offering,
Smiling from above.

The New Pastor;—At the late Annual Conference of the U. B. C. Missions held at Shaingay, the Rev. R. Cookson Taylor, newly ordained, was appointed pastor of the U. B. Church in this place commonly known as the Mende Mission. Mr. Taylor is a young man but has had some experience as a pastor; and as he has alway succeeded in the past, we have every reason to believe that he will succeed in his new appointment.

The Minutes of U. B. C. Conference held at Shaingay, were ordered to be published in Pamphlet Form this year hence they do not appear in the Early Dawn as heretofore. But parties wishing copies of Pamphlet will be supplied with same at a reasonable rate as soon as the / are out of press

R. MORGAN LEWIS
TAILOR &c.
Mattress Maker, Refixer of Bedsprings, Joiner of Crockery-wares,—Parliar Maker &c.
Solicits the patronage of all
ESP (ORDERS neatly and promptly executed)
Bonthe, Jan. '89

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce,

—oOo—

PALM OIL—Owing to the holidays, prices are a little lower than they were, but the market closes pretty firm

	1888	1887	1886	1885
Stock 31st Dec,	4730	10000	9625	7161
Import in Dec.	3673	5308	3664	3230
Total Import to date	47899	46646	48308	40354
Deliveries in Dec.	2798	4440	3654	2941
Total „ to date	53170	46843	45850	35113
Exports 1st Jan. to 30th Nov.	39003	24389	21659	17888

Lagos 26/. 15. 0. to 27/. 0. 0.—Bonny and Old Calabar 24/. 10. 0. to 24/. 15. 0—Benin 24/. 0. 0 to 24/. 5. 0—Accra Addah, Pram Pram, Popo, and Lounda 24/. 0. 0—Brass, Niger and New Calabar 23/. 15 0 to 24 0 0—Congo 22/. 10. 0 to 22/. 15. 0—Appam, Saltpond, Chamah and Anamaboe 22/. —Dixcove and Liberian 21/. 12. 6 to 2 /. 15. 0

PALM KERNELS—There have been sales at firm prices. We quote "transit."

Lagos, Old and New Calabar, Bonny Camercons and Sao Thome 10/. 17. 6 to 11/.—Benin 10/. 15. 0—Congo 10/ 12 6 Sherbro and Quitta 10/. 7. 6 to 10/. 10. 0—Lahon and Monrovia 10/. 7. 6—Assinee 9/ 12. 6—Grand Bassam 9/. 11. 3 Accra and Addah 8/. 13. 9 to 9/.—Dixcove 8/. 16. 3 to 9/. 8. 9—Saltpond and Winnebah 8/. 5. 0 to 8/. 10. 0—Appam 7/. 17. 6

GROUND NUTS—Gambia, good hand picked in the shell 10/. decorticated nominally, 10/ to 15/. 5. 0

COPRA—12/ to 12/. 10. for good. There are considerable supplies in the market of Indian and South Sea.

BENNISEED—38s. to 45s. per 336 lbs Very little doing owing to small supplies

COFFEE has fallen from 73s the highest point in December, to 69s to 70s closing with more enquiry; buyers at 71s Liberian 70s to 80s on supplies.

COCOA has small demand, value 43s to 65s

IVORY—About 105 tons have been sold here during the past year. Large teeth rather dearer, bangles and small scrivelloes have advanced 5/. to 7/. per cwt.

INDIA RUBBER—To days stock of African is 455 tons, much of which is held above present prices. The value of fine Para is 2s. 11½d to 2s 11¾d. against 2s 3d this time last year. There has been a steady demand even during the holidays, and we think that there are good prospects for the New Year.

Loanda and Benguela Nigger fair to prime	2s. 2d. to 2s. 6d.
Gambia do. do.	1s. 10d. to 2s. 1d.
Sierra Leone do. do.	1s. 8d. to 1s. 9½d.
Niger do. do.	1s. 8d to 1s. 10½d.
Thimbles as in quality	1s. 5d. to 1s. 8d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 4d. to 1s. 7d.
Tongues	1s. 3d. to 1s. 5d.
Small Ball	1s. 2½d. to 1s. 3½d.
Cameroon and Old Calabar	1s. 3d. to 1s. 5d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim and Assinee	1s. 3d. to 1s. 6d.
Liberian	1s. 2d. to 1s. 5d.
Salt Pond	0s. 11d. to 1s. 2½d.
Accra and Addah, Niggers	1s. 1d. to 1s. 9d.
Biscuits and Cakes	0s. 7½d. to 0s. 8½d.
Do. ordinary soft	0s. 7d. to 0s. 8d.
Flake and Lumps

GUM COPAL—There have been large supplies of all descriptions of White Gum some of which come from entirely new markets, in consequence of which, prices are depressed and large stocks held.

Sierra Leone, good and fine	0s 6½d to 7½d. per lb
Do. common to fair	0s. 3d. to 5½d. „ „

White Angola 20s. to 30s. per cwt. Accra fair to good 25s to 32s. 6d. per cwt.—Lagos & Akassa 20s. to 25s. pr. cwt.

The supplies of South Coast Gum have been very small, limited quantities would sell readily. Red Angola, 85s. to 87s. 6d.; Red Congo, 50s. to 60s., Yellow Benguela 70s. to 80s.

BEESWAX—Very slow of sale. Gambia 4/. 12. 6. to 4/. 15s. and Sierra Leone, 3/. 15s. to 4/. 5s per cwt.

CHILLIES—20s. to 30s. per cwt., as in quality.

GINGER—Large stocks of old, but they are chiefly held by speculators. We quote 19s. to 19s 6d per cwt. for good.

GINGER GRAINS Unchanged.

CALABAR BEANS—Scarce and wanted at 6½d. per lb.

EBONY—The demand has been exceeded by the supplies, and prices remain low. Gaboon 4/. 12. 6 to 6/ Old Calabar 4/. 5. to 5/. per ton.

CAMWOOD—Grand Bassa 17/ to 18/ for good to fine, 15/ to 16/ for ordinary to fair. Sherbro 11/ to 15/ per ton.

BARWOOD—None here. 9/ 17s. 6 to 3/ per ton.

KOLA NUTS—No demand.

MONKEY SKINS—Nothing new, pending approaching sales.

EDWARDS BROTHERS
Liverpool Jan. 4th 1889.

FOR SALE.

The Estate of the late

S. T. Macaulay

OF YORK ISLAND.

AT THE STORES OF

MESSRS.

Pickering AND Berthoud,

Heddle St.—Bonthe, Sherbro,

A LARGE VARIETY OF

Merchandise

AND USEFUL ARTICLES

BAFTS,
PRINTS,
MADRAS HD'KFS,
W. H. BASINS,
POMATUM, &c. &c. &c.

These GOODS consist of all the STAPLES of TRADE requisite in the River Business.

ALL to be Sold at the lowest Prices—For CASH, or PRODUCE.

Bonthe,
Jan 14, '89.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island
SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

F & A. SWANZY

GEO. LEACH

Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogshead of about 550 lbs. nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand — in similar packages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the Up-River Traders, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F & A. SWANZY.
ALPHA FACTORY.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. VI. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, FEBRUARY 14, 1889. No. 3

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0 6 0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0 5 0
Half yearly by Mail,	0 3 0
Ditto, deliv'ed in Bonth,	0 2 6

ADDRESS,—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GONER, Shonyan, Mr. E. A. LEWIS, Free town, West Africa, Rev. WM. MCKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Court Clerk.	M. J. W. Rocks
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Buckner.
Sub Treas. & Col Chief Clerk	J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & J. J. Werburton.
Asst. Examg. Officer	Sulymah Jasper Caulker
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Bate.
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road Pastor,	Vacant.
Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street Pastor,	Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope Pastor,	Rev R. C. Taylor

LETTERS TO YOUNG MINISTERS.

Your Manners.

A minister ought to be a gentleman, every inch a gentleman. He may not be responsible for not being a great man. It may be no fault of his that he is not handsome. He is not to be blamed if he has not the profundity of Plato the acuteness and penetration of Aristotle, the fiery eloquence of Chrysostom or the mastery of expression of Jeremy Taylor. Learning may have been beyond his reach. The fell conspiracy of circumstances may have put it beyond his power to acquire a good education, both in school and out of school; but this is no excuse, there can not even be a respectable apology, for his not being a gentleman. Good manners are certainly within the reach of every one. Pastors are to labor to reach all classes of men, and to this end they must command the respect and confidence of all classes But if they are rude and uncouth in their manners, or if they violate many of the conventional proprieties of society, they will lose the esteem of the people, not to say become laughingstocks of certain circles.

One good writer says, "While it is not desirable for ministers to be versed in the etiquette and hollow ceremonies of merely fashionable society, it is important that they should study the subject of manners from an intelligent and Christian point of view. It he that winneth souls is wise it can not be unwise in any one so far to study the best modes of access to those whom he would influence for good by private as well as by public address.

A part of education is the study of good manners. Good manners are the expression of one's inner character. They have, in fact a moral significance. Here, however, it is necessary to make the distinction insisted upon by Dr J. G Holland—that between good manners and fine manners. Fine manners may be, and often are, nothing more than the whitewash on the exterior, while within there is nothing but filth and corruption. Fine manners may be put on like paint and powder on cheeks, while good manners are like the fresh and healthful glow on the cheek of beauty, the token of pure blood propelled by a sound heart with in.

I do not mean, therefore that one is to be solicitous to seek after the exquisite in manners, but rather diligently to cultivate genuine politeness. "Politeness" says one is the result of the combined action of all the moral and social feeling, guided by judgment and refined by taste. It is to the heart what music is to the ear, and inspiring and sculpture to the eye A sincere regard for the rights of our fellowmen, in small as well as great matters, genuine kindness of heart, good taste and self possession are the foundation of politeness. Or, as Dr. Holland puts it, A catholic love of humanity and a genuine respect for its rights is the only sound basis for good manners"

Now, it seems impossible that I should go into details in a single short letter. The following words from C. P. Bronson will be found to be very suggestive: "In politeness, as everything else connected with the formation of character, we are apt to begin on the outside instead of the inside. Instead of beginning with the heart and trusting to that to form the manners many begin with the manners and leave the heart to chance and influence. The golden rule contains the very life and soul of politeness—"Do unto others as you would they should do unto you." True politeness is perfect freedom and ease, treating others just as you love to be treated. Nature is always graceful. Affectation, with all her art, can never produce anything half so pleasing." From this it appears that the way to good manners is from within outward—first, the genuine culture of the heart. This means not gush, nor even merely tenderness of feeling, but an uprooting of self-ishness and all sham; sincere respect for others, and a desire to treat them well or to make them happy; a lively sense of propriety; a genuine love of all that is generous and noble in character. Such a one, though he may be awkward in his movements and ignorant of some of the conventionalities, will yet have good manners.

Next let him cultivate self possession general refinement of taste, and at least naturalness, if not gracefulness of bodily movement, and you have a gentleman. "Good manners need simply to be refined," says Dr. Holland.

"Now, if you have no concern to appear well among the people, no thought respecting your manners, no desire to please for the good there is in it, no regard for politeness, you are no gentleman, and lack one of the very first qualifications of a minister of the gospel. But a true minister will not think that a Prince Albert coat, and a tall silk hat, and the title of "reverend" will be an adequate substitute for politeness. He will be careful not unnecessarily to offend the good taste of those whom he ought to wish to influence for good. He will wish to have that goodness and generosity of the heart, that gracefulness of bearing and that of refinement of taste that will make him acceptable in society, and mark him as a true gentleman wherever he is.—ADVOCATE—In Telescope.

Agriculture

Here and there and yonder, if I may so speak, may be seen efforts being made toward the tilling of the soil, in a different way from the ordinary mode, of the uncivilized natives In Sierra Leone proper or that part of the colony generally known by that appellation, a number of undertakings have been commenced in the last few years, in the direction of agriculture, on an improved plan; but I very much fear that such enterprizes have been traught with too great expense to become profitable to the present generation, but especially to be undertaken by persons of very limited means. Hence it seems necessary to present to the public from time to time, plans cheaper and more simple by which agriculture may be undertaken, in order that the less favored classes may be led to undertake the tillage of the soil, which is now so much neglected. This can be easily done where land is so readily obtained for agricultural purposes almost anywhere in the river districts. The principal requirement on the part of the person wishing to go into agriculture is to deny himself afew of the luxuries, (of which he is likely in short to be compelled to relinqnish, for want of means to get them,) and go out a little from the towns and lease a few acres of land for an indefinite period of many years; then take off his coat and boots and go to work, fell the forest, erect a lodging place, clear a spot, dig up the soil, plant Cassada, Rice, Corn, Yams, &c., anything and everything that he can stick into the ground.

When he has planted what he can, let him go to the nearest place of employment, get work for a while leaving his wife and children to weed, clean and drive birds, until he earns a few shillings for their support; then let him return and look after his farm, and be sure to plant Kolah and other trees as fast as he can, a few every year. He should plant Coffee and Sugar Cane with Arrowroot all of which will bring a few pennies at first, but afwards shillings, and then pounds in money, and he will besides always have abundance to eat after the first year or two. Connected with the opening of a new farm in a good forest a person may derive much help from game, as the birds and other creatures of the forest about the borders of the little farm. In some places too the farmer may prepare wood to sell in the towns.

Or he may be able to fish from the stream near by for for his own use. Who will be first to give the above suggestions a trial! More again.

Bonthe, J. ALBERT.
8th Feb'y. '89.

There are times when God asks nothing of his children except silence, patience, and tears. He lets them go aside, away from interruption, in order to weep till nature is relieved of the heaviest burden. then he gives "a season of clear shining that cometh after rain."

It is wonderful how much we owe to people who will not let us do as we please.

The Early Dawn.
BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Feb. 14, 1889.

WHY is it?—that the few persons of late that have contributed to our columns, have found so little to write about of general interest and indeed of interest to any one, except a few persons, who have some private spleen to vent and are we must say, too cowardly to meet their objects of hatred, seek to avenge themselves through the public Press, and for some time past we have been powerless to help ourselves, as we could not always see these miserable productions in time to prevent their insertion. But we do hope to be more fortunate in the future as we are painfully mortified over the matter of many articles of the past two issues as the unfortunately bad impression or printing of that of the 15th January however the letter was accidental the weather and other circumstances being much against us.

Some Dissatisfaction has been felt by one or two members of the Regatta Committee on account of the manner it was reported to our journal, they feel the communicated article contained too many flings of a personal nature. This having been bro't to our notice by a member of the Committee, who feared the committee would be charged with the approval of this article; we feel it our duty to say that, few if any of the committee, had seen the article before it appeared in public print, and are not therefore responsible for the odious portions of the same.

We regret very much, to note, that very unseemly behavior is reported of some of the married women of our place, and while we hope that such persons are few among the softer sex yet we fear that if such behavior is persisted in as we hear of one party, abusing her husband shockingly in the streets, we shall be obliged to allow our reporters to expose their misdoings.

BONTHE, YORK ISLAND &c.

For more than ten months past, Mr. S. B. A. Macfoy has been improving a site to the north of the Government yard a beautiful House, with out buildings, fence, substantial sea wall &c., now adorns the spot and still the work goes on The French West African Co'y, whose neat premises in Bonthe always attract attention have further improved the same by a new corrugated roof on the dwelling house. They are also now rebuilding their extensive Pier at Bomplake. Mr. J. B. Parkinson has also another building in course of erection on Victoria road opposite his new residence. Returning to the waterside we note the Government improvement, of the foot of Orange Street since the return of Com'l't Moseley. On the part of the Government however there is much more that ought to be done along the waterside. Messrs Paterson Zochonis & Co (T. E. Macfoy Esq Agt.), are also in line and have commenced a new Pier of more than 150 ft. in length. Messrs F. & A. Swanzy, York Island (Mr. Geo. Leach Agt.) have been Fencing their premises, and are erecting a substantial Pier of 75 ft. in length in front of their Establishment. The York Island House of Messrs Fisher & Randall have han for many years good Piers, but which have been touched up (at least one of them) with repairs recently. There are other premises about the harbour also that have improved as that of Mr. C. B. Collier and others of which we cannot now speak, but all contribute to the general improvement of Sherbro, of which Bonthe is the chief centre, and city in embryo.

OUR SIXTH VOLUME.

It is we confess rather late to refer to the fact that we have been permitted by a kind providence and very indulgent patronising public to enter upon our Sixth year of existence; yet we believe it is not too late to acknowledge our gratefulness to God, and thanks to men, for what we have enjoyed at the hand of each, knowing however that upon God alone we must depend for all blessings, and yet he makes men his ministers, in the distribution of the same, and we trust in the future that we may receive in a larger measure. And that our patronage may be greater, and that the future numbers of this volume may grow better with each Issue, that contributers may hereafter seek to promote the public good, and what is otherwise intended may find its way to the 'Waste Basket.'

CHRISTIAN MISSIONS

Are year by year overcoming the opposition to them both in Christian lands and among Pagan tribes, which certainly ought to be a source of encouragement to the promoters of this great work. In Christendom to day there are thousands giving and laboring for the cause of missions, where fifty years ago, there were not hundreds, hence there has been a more than tenfold increase, in favor of the Cause, among its supporters in Home lands. While in foreign lands the opposition of every phase has been yeilding to the onward March of Christianity; and not only the Pagans, but infidels in foreign lands have been compelled to countenance the Missionary and acknowledge the good of their influence. The result of this yielding of opposition, has been that now the missionary is welcomed almost everywhere, among the peoples of the dark lands of the earth. So that now from every quarter the doors are open to Missionary effort. The country right about us presents an awful destitution of efficient, and true laborers to go out and turn men from a life of superstition, vice and sin, unto the true way of righteousness. Such too, will find everywhere an opening for operations. In the outlying river districts there is a longing desire among many to have the gospel, some of these persons are of christian families and once were acquainted with the Saviour, but have wandered from their Father's House, and Oh how they would rejoice to return again, they indeed want the messenger of truth to come to them. But in the very places with these, are hundreds and thousands of the heathen, who need and even ask for the light of the Gospel. Never in the annals of the world's history was there such broad and inviting fiel is open to the missionaries of the Cross as at this time on this continent. At our late Annual meeting, at Shingay the unvarying report of Itinerants, Theachers, and preachers, was that wherever they went they were well received by the heathen, and the only complaint heard, was that they did not come often enough.

FREIGHTING—We understand that the s. s. "Formoso" that left this port on the 6th inst had on Board over five hundred Tons of cargo.

MINING INDUSTRY

Does not seem to be, even thought of in this part of Africa, at least, there is so little of interest in that direction, that we never see even a prospecting party, there has been now and then a worthless stone, and in some cases a miserable collection, of more worthless pebbles brought forward by persons who have not the least knowledge of Minerals or Gems; but so far I have not, in many years seen a well informed prospector, in search of Metals or stones, whether this has been due to the fact that a great many persons labor under erroneous impression, that this part of Africa is a continuous swamp without elevations sufficient to break the monotony of the dreary scene, I am unable to say. But I can say that just a little inland from the Sherbro Island, or the arm of the sea which separates it from the mainland, may be found not only uplands of a gravel soil, but hills and rocky Mountains of considerable elevation. And to these I would call the attention of those interested in the Mining Industry, feeling sure that it is possible for them to find something to repay the search for the present adieu.

Y'rs, A RESIDENT.
Sherbro, 12th Feb. '89.

ITINERATING

Again! yes, with your permission, I would say the bright sunny days, that led me to speak to you, in the month of November, are still spared to us, and will be for a considerable time yet. And although the schools are re-opened even in the country and river Districts, and teachers have daily duties to perform, yet it will be remembered, that it is optional with many teachers, as to teaching more than our days in the week especially in the country. So that three days may be given for religious duties, and I consider some of your duties more important than that of Itinerating going from place to place, preaching and teaching the Gospel. Will you try then to push out a little during these bright sunny days? for soon the clouds and rain will come again.

J. A. E.

Mocolo Road—We are pleased to learn, from the overseer of Roads, Mr A. O. Walker, that the work has been resumed on the above thoroughfare, and that it is the intention of the Authorities, to push the work on to completion, if possible before the rains.

Dear Mr. Ed.—May I be allowed to ask why is it that so many infectious dogs are allowed to rove around the streets.

Are the public not allowed to kill all such dogs? for they are public nuisances.—ENQUIRER.

Bonthe Feb. '89.

NEWSITEMS.

Feb 1—s s Formoso from Freetown with Messrs C. W. Tucker C. T. O. Davis.

Thieves at Gbarmanny—entered Mr. Cole's house and robbed him on the night of the 1st inst.

Birth,—At Bendoo, a Mrs. Cole delivered of a daughter on the 2nd inst.

Died,—Fanny Barnett, a poor cripple, on the 3rd inst.

Mr. Christopher A Jenkins an old resident in the Black river (father of Mr. Horatio C. Jenkins) came to Bonthe on sunday the 3rd inst sick and died on Monday the 4th inst at 5 a. m. and was buried at 4 p. m.

Rev. S. B. Morrison from Avery 7th inst.

Avery Thieves,—Broke thro' and stole a goodly number of sawmill tools.

Mendi Mission School—Opened on the 4th inst., with a fair attendance; Mr. C. A. E. Campbell is in charge, assisted by two female teachers.

6th—Formoso for Freetown with the following passengers Mr. & Mrs. J. W. Johnson Revds. J.C. Thomas and J. P. Coker, Mesdames Sackey, Jones and several others.

8th—The case of Reg: vs Morgan for seriously wounding a man is remanded for the next session in Freetown.

Mr J. C. French arrived about the 7th inst from Karboroh (Mo Cobo) was well, but reported much sickness in Mocobo, several deaths since the beginning of the year.

Husk Rice is reported in the upper Karborroh in fair quantity and for sale by the Binkey.

s. s. "Ronald," from Freetown on the 8th.

s. s. Formoso from Freetown on the 9th inst with Messrs W. C Botts, S. B. A. Macfoy, E. A. Lewis, a Catholic priest, and others.

Mr. T. M. Cole arrived here from Koncomany with Serjt. D. S. O. Pratt on the 10th Inst Mr C. is not so well and came down for Medical aid.

s. s. Formoso left on the 11th for Freetown.

A Quadrille party was given by a select number of gentlemen in honor of the return of Mr. C. T. O. Davis to Sherbro. It was a nice gathering.

Dear Mr. Editor,—Now that a Roman Catholic Priest has arrived in Sherbro with an avowed intention of establishing among us, it remains to be seen what efforts will be put forth by the Agents of other denominations to maintain their position.

It has often been announced from the pulpit of late, especially at Bonthe Pastorate Church that the Roman Catholic religion is full of errors, but without the least attempt to show in what manner. I think this is an opportune time to repeat such announcement with ample proofs in support of it, otherwise the announcement may simply be regarded as idle talk. A great number of professing christians in this place do not understand the nature of the religion they profess, from the fact that the teachers themselves hardly understand it better than those taught. I am not aware that a single native convert has been made by our missionary brethren. All that you would hear is, "Collections," and "Subscriptions" must be raised for this and for that; and as soon as some goodly sum is raised, no more is heard of it, no one knows how it is accounted for. This state of things is not satisfactory at all. the congregation of any connection raising voluntary subscriptions have a right to know in the clearest manner how the amount has been disposed of. Some of these native preachers even think it beneath them to visit their poor members, they are often found mixed up with the rich where the wines flow freely and such other cordials as will elevate them, and yet what is worse, they press these poor members for subscription.—Let us wait and see.

Yours truly,
A PROTESTANT.

Bonthe,
13. Feb. '89.

Dear Sir—I regret very much to inform you that it is rumoured every where in this place and elsewhere that I am the author or writer of "Chips" "Eccletic Gazette" and "Zig Zag Column" which has often appeared in your Journal.

As you are aware that I am not the writer of any of those articles nor am I in any ways connected with them, I beg that you therefore give publicity to this letter, in order to eradicate from the minds of the general public the erroneous opinion they have against me

I shall however continue to furnish you with such news as may be of public, and not individual interest.

I am, your sincerely,
W. BIDWELL COKER.

Bidwell's Lodge,
Bonthe, Feb. 12. '89.

MR. C. T. O. DAVIES.

The return of Mr T. O. Davis from Freetown by the "Formoso" on the 1st inst has enlivened a small portion of the community. On Monday night the 11th inst at 7 30 a select number of gentlemen entertained a number of ladies and gentlemen to a Quadrille party at the residence of C. T. O. Davis Esqr.

The house was full and there was a large crowd that could not find an entrance The gentlemen present were Messrs. C. T O. Davis, C. S. Brown Jn'r E. W. Parkinson, I. M. Peters, T. Elliott, D L. Collier, S. D. Campbell, J. M. Brown, the Organist &c.

Madamoiselle. Miller, Williams, Cartcart, Beecher, Jowett, John, Cole, &c.

The house was tastefully decorated with flags of various colours and the light was very bright. As soon as the hour fixed for dancing had arrived the gentlemen with their ladies occupied the floor in dancing. The Programme contained 18 Dances which were well performed.

The music consisting of an organ which was played by the organist and the Band of the Excelsior Club under the management of Mr. Easmon.

It would take up too much time and space to write you all I saw on the occasion, but all I could say of the whole is that it was a grand affair, for it wiped away the dull monotony of the place. I wish the promoters and young gentlemen every success. Dancing continued till the small hours of the morning when this interesting gathering dispersed, feeling satisfied for the time spent.—Communicated.

Bonthe,
Feb., 12th, '89.

African Produce Prices—It is rumored have very recently declined materially; this information is said to be by cable and hence later than our latest printed reports, however we are not inclined to believe that such a decline (if it has occurred) will be permanent at all.

For the Dawn.

U. B. C. M.—Every Xtian was glad to learn that the Rev. G. N J. the old Pastor of this Mission is laid aside through the infirmities of age, and his reverend office which would have been vacant, is duly filled by his assistant R. C. T., the much beloved "New Pastor" who was received into the Holy Order of Elders by the consent of the Conference recently held at Shaingay. But all was pained very much to know that the reverend old gentleman who for many years had faithfully and vigorously served the Mission, is now put or cast aside without and remuneration however small, to enable him to procure livelihood for himself and numerous family in his fine declining days. "Do to others as you would they should do unto you." I am ignorant of the constitution of this Mission; but in the Wesleyan Connection, there is provision for worn out ministers &c. since the year 1763; and I believe there must of necessity be such provision in every denomination. If a man who faithfully serves Her Majesty, must be allowed certain stipend or pension for his faithfulness how much more one who had from his early days been serving the Lord? I leave the rest for the consideration of the Mission at home and abroad.

St. Matthew's Parish.—This week will complete half year since the Parishioners are in mourning for the late Revd. J. G. M. Nicol B.A., Incumbent of this Parish. No doubt the mourning cloth will be taken off from the Churches &c., but we believe the exemplary life of our dear pastor will have left a lasting impression on the minds of those who truly love the Lord.

JANSEN.

Feb 11, '89.

TEMPERANCE.

In effect is advocated unconsciously by very many persons who will not come out fairly on the side of the Temperance cause. Of late we have had some conversation with parties of this kind; a justice of the peace among others speaking of a certain theft, said the party would not have committed the act if he had not been drunk at the time. Speaking with an old lady about a friend's complaint of Freetown as being very hard now to live in she remarked that, "that man drinks too much rum" and yet she thought rum was good for some people, but not for herself as she said a little tea but especially coffee was better for her. We have met many others who speak in like manner. And yet they will not come out boldly on the side of temperance still their advocacy is in its favor, and we hope ere long there may be a complete revolution in the general sentiment on the subject of strong drink.

THE REAL "WOMAN PROBLEM"

Recognising heredity as the distinctive attribute of the female sex, it becomes clear that it must be from steady advance of woman rather than from the uncertain fluctuations of men that the sure and solid progress of the future is to come. The attempt to move the whole race forward by elevating the sex that represents the principle of instability has long enough been tried, the many cases of superior mothers, coupled with the many more cases of degenerate sons of superior sires, have taught us over and over again that the way to civilize the race is to civilize the woman. And now, thanks to modern biologic science we see why this is so. Woman is the unchanging trunk of the great genealogic tree, while man, with all his vaunted superiority, is but the branch, a grafted scion as it were, whose acquired qualities die with the individual, while those of woman are handed on to futrity. Woman is the race, and the race can be raised up only as she is raised up. There is no fixed rule by which Nature has intended that one sex should excel the other, any more than there is any fixed point beyond which either can not further develop. True science teaches that the education of women is the only sure road to the evolution of man.—Sel.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

F. & A. SWANZY

GEO. LEACH

Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogshead of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogshead of about 550 lbs. nett; also their Kentucky "Ball Head" brand— in similpackages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the UP-RIVER TRADERS, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A. SWANZY.
ALPHA FACTORY.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

PALM OIL—ARRIVALS:—
"Mandingo," 311 casks oil, 600 tons kernels; "Ambriz," 600 cask oil 2,026 bags Coffee, 418 packages rubber. Passed Grand Canary.—"Calabar," 660 cask oil. 800 tons kernels.
Passed Sierra Leone.—"Etimna," 1,400 casks oil, 430 tons kernels.
Passed Accra.—"Bengula," 460 csaks oil, 450 tons kernels
There has been a steady demand, and sales have been considerable, but the market is a shade easier.
We quote "transit."
Lagos, £26 5 0 to 26*l.* 10 0; Bonny and Old Calabar—£24 12 6 to 24*l.* 15 0; Accra, Adda, Quittah, Pram-Pram, Popo, and Loanda £23. 17 6 to 24*l.* 0 0; Benin, *l*23 15 0 to 23 17 6; Brass, Niger and New Calabar £23 15 0; Congo, Sierra Leone and Sherbro £22 10 0 to 22*l.* 15 0 Appam, Saltpond, Chamah and Anamaboe £21 15 0 Dixcove and Liberian 21*l* 10 0.
PALM KERNELS.—With good supplies, the market is a little easier, quotations are, however, much the same.
We quote basis 5 per cent shell, "transit."
Lagos, Old and New Calabar, Bonny Cameroons and Sao Thome 11*l* 0 0; Brass 10*l.* 17 6; Benin 10*l.* 15 0 Congo and Taban 10*l.* 10 0 to 10*l.* 12 6 Sherbro and Sierra Leone 10*l.* 7 6 to 10*l.* 10 0; Liberian 10*l.* 10 0 Chamh 9*l.* 13 9; Ahgwey 9*l.* 18. 9; Appam 8*l.* 5 0 to 9*l.* 11 3; Addah 8*l.* 8 9 to 10*l.* 0 0 Little Popo 8*l* 15 0 Saltpond, Winnebah and Narquah 8*l.* 5 0 to 8*l.* 11 3.
GROUND NUTS—440 Bathurst in the shell, sold at 13*l* 0 0 to 14*l.* 5 0. Decorticated, value 10*l.* 0 0 to 15*l.* 5 0 per ton.
BENNISEED.—About 240 bags were offered this week but not sold. No change in prices.
COPRA.—Sold at 12*l.* 10 0 per ton.
COFFEE.—Rather quiet. Sales at 71s., Liberian 70s. to 80s per Cwt. Some Elephant berry that has come forward is country damaged and consequently rather difficult of Sale.
COCOA—Very little demand. We quote 45s. to 61s. per cwt.
IVORY.—The Auctions take place on the 29th inst
INDIA RUBBER.—There being large supplies, prices are easier, although there is a very good demand for consumption. Sales during the year, about 100 tons of African.

Gambia Niggers, fair to prime	1s. 10d.	to	2s. 03d.
Sierra Leone do. do.	1s. 8d.	to	1s. 9d.
Thimbles,	1s. 5d.	to	1s. 8d.
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 3d.	to	1s. 6¼d.
Cameroon and Old Calabar	1s. 3d.	to	1s 4½d.
Hard Cape Coast Axim and Assinee	1s. 3d.	to	1s. 6d.
Liberian	1s. 2d.	to	1s. 5d.
Saltpond	0s. 10d.	to	1s 2d.
Accra and Addah, Niggers Biscuits and Cakes	1s. 1d.	to	1s. 9d.
Do. ordinary soft	0s. 7½d.	to	0s. 8½d.
Flake and Lumps	0s. 7d	to	0s. 8d.

GUM.—Only very little business done, with no change of price
BEESWAX—Gambia, 4*l.* 15 to 4*l.* 17 6; and Sierra-Leone, 4*l.* 0 0 to 4*l.* 7 6 per cwt., according to quality.
GINGER—Sales by retail at 19s. per cwt.
CALABAR BEANS.—No arrivals and wanted.
EBONY.—Largest supplies. A few tons Old Calabar sold at 7*l.* 10 0 to 7*l.* 17 6. Gaboon 4*l.* 12. 6 to 6*l.*
CAMWOOD.—Cheper. Sales at 14*l* to 16*l.* 10s. per ton as in quality.
BARWOOD.—None here.
MONKEY SKINS.—Report of sales will come in our next.

Liverpool, Jan. 16th 1889. EDWARDS BROTHERS.

SOUTH AFRICA.

It is rumored from Natal that a gold reef has been discovered on a farm at Bishopstowe, some five miles from Maritzburg. It is said that the farm has been purchased by an influential syndicate, with the view of at once developing the place. The Times of Natal, speaking of the matter says that several gentlemen of experience have given it as their opinion that a payable reef exists, and we hope, for the sake of Maritzburg, that this may prove to be true.

A report from Umtata states that the Konjwayo Chief, Gwadiso, had not answered the Pondo Chief Nquiliso's summons to the Great Place, but had sent two men instead, and the Western Pondos were about to go out and punish him. The Pondo Chief M'Bali, of the Mount Frere district, with 24 followers, had been arrested by Umhlangaso at Enceba. An impi crossed the Umzinkulu on December 21, and burnt M'Bali's kraals. The Banca Chiefs, Tsibixana and M'Bisana, were watching the border, and there seemed every prospect of mischief arising before very long. —The Colonies and India Jan. 16th '89.

FOR SALE.

The Estate of the late

S. T. Macaulay

OF YORK ISLAND.

AT THE STORES OF

MESSRS.

Pickering AND Berthoud,

Heddle St—Bonthe, Sherbro,

A LARGE VARIETY OF

Merchandise

AND USEFUL ARTICLES

BAFTS,
PRINTS
MADRAS HD'KFS,
W. H. BASINS,
POMATUM, &c. &c. &c.

These GOODS consist of all the STAPLES of TRADE requisite in the River Business.

ALL to be Sold at the lowest Prices—FOR CASH, or PRODUCE.

Bonthe, Jan 14, '89.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. VI. BONTHE SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, FEBRUARY 28, 1889. No. 4

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto. deliv'ed in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS.—Communications to I. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. GRAY, Shebanna, Mr. T. A. LEWIS, Freetown, West Africa, Rev. WM. MCKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant,	C. H. Harley Moseley
Colonel	The Commandant.
Court Clerk.	M. J. W. Rocks
Interpreter,	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Buckner.
Sub Treas. & Col. Chief Clerk	J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters,	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & J. J. Werburton.
Asst. Exam. Officer Sulymah Jasper Caulker
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts,
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Pastor,	Victoria Road Vacant.
Wesleyan Methodist, Pastor,	Lime Street Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mendi Mission, Good Hope Pastor,	(Congregational.) Rev R. C. Taylor

LETTERS TO YOUNG MINISTERS.

Public Worship.

The minister is, of course, the leader in the public worship. Upon the leader in any undertaking always rests the chief responsibility for its success. This is so in an army. To insure victory there must be wise and forceful planning before hand, there must be close, wise, unceasing watchfulness during action, there must be courage and enthusiasm, for all of which the leader of the army is responsible. Tout esprit de corps comes very largely from him. It is so in any organization or body, and it is eminently so in religious meetings. True, sometimes there is a good and profitable meeting in spite of a good-for-nothing leader. But how often is a meeting spiritless, dull, fruitless, simply because of the stupidity or coldness or want of tact on the part of the leader. Have you never gone to church on Sunday morning hungry for the bread of life, and the heartless declaimer standing up there in the pulpit in a faithlessly lifting Prince Albert coat, bottomed to the throat, turned back just far enough to reveal the white cravat, dealt out to you not the bread of life at all, nor the "sincere milk of the word," not even the bones of the gospel but only dry husks which he had gathered from somewhere! Have you never sat listening to one called a preacher who so far, as real spirit, feeling, or earnestness was concerned, so disappointed you, so wearied you that you declared to yourself that with a solid block of wood and a good pocket knife you could whittle out a better preacher than that? I have. Mark it, the character of the Sabbath services depends very largely on the spirit with which the preacher comes to it. If he has no thought, of course there can be no edification; if he is unspiritual, there will be no quickening of spiritual life in the pews; if he is cold, he will soon set the hearers to shivering; if he is ill-tempered he sends the people away with clenched fists and set teeth and knit brows. On the other hand if he presents sound, logical, well-arranged thought, he will set his hearers to thinking, he will impart information, he will edify. If his own heart is warm, is in sympathy with the truth and with Christ and the cause of Christ, if he is full of the love of the dear Master, he will generally warm the icicst man in the congregation. The thought and the feeling are in the preacher, and the preacher is pouring this thought and feeling upon the hearer like hot shot, and it can scarcely fail to do execution. When the congregation were gathering into the house they were indifferent. It may be their minds were filled with thoughts of the world, their troubles were heavy upon their hearts. Some came in discouraged, some full of doubt and misgiving, some with hateful malice in their hearts, some with the whole brood of viper in their souls, such as envy, malignity, hatred, lust, anger; but the word of God was on the tongue of the preacher, and the Spirit of God was to his heart, and after he was fairly in his sermon, if your eyes had been a little keener you could have seen the devils rushing down the aisles toward the church door carrying back to hell the report of their defeat on this Sunday morning, driven out of the hearts of the people and out of the church door by the sharp and powerful bombardment from the battery in the pulpit. Ah, see that preacher in the pulpit! He is yet comparatively young. He denounces himself as if he were conscious that he is to day to speak to the people in the place of his crucified Lord. He lashes the eyes of Jesus Christ are upon him to see how faithfully he will represent his King to-day. Jesus left heaven for this people. He led a humble life and died a fearful death for them. Now he has sent this man this day to represent him, to represent his undying, his unspeakable love for them, to tell of Christ's infinite fitness for them, of his great superiors with respect to them of his claims upon them. Now, will he to day speak as if he had just come out from an audience with the Savior? Yes, he will. He had that audience with Jesus before going to the Church. He was in his closet he was on his knees, and communed with him. Jesus put the message into his hands, and into his heart, and upon his tongue. The preacher feels almost oppressed and yet strangely and gladly anxious to deliver the message. As he speaks his eyes flash, his countenance is lighted up, a thrill of enthusiasm flashes through his whole being and tingles to his very finger tips, and his words come freighted with meaning but winged with love. Whence comes all his thought, this wealth of fact, argument illustration? Where this peculiar force, this sweeping earnestness, this overpowering momentum? Ah, it has been all the past week accumulating in the earnest prayerful study of the sermon, and this morning received from the Holy Spirit the setting, as the arrow upon the bow, and now it goes darting to its mark.

Such experience is too you, my brother, if you seek it earnestly and in the right way. Your pulpit work will include your prayer and the reading of the Scriptures and the hymns. I have known more than one service to be spoiled by the poor reading of the Scriptures, and once I knew a sermon, which had been carefully prepared, to be utterly ruined by the manner in which the preacher read his text. You smile, but it is really true. The reading of the scripture lesson should be an interpretation by the very reading. Reading means no more than the audible articulation of the words. The emphasis should go in the right place, the inflections and intonations should be rightly managed, the words should be properly accented and distinctly enunciated. Yet all this may be correctly so far as the form is concerned, and it be very poor scripture-reading. One must have studied the passage until he has a clear comprehension of the whole of it, and until his soul has come in vital contact with the truth in it, then, oh then, my brethren, and only then can it be read aright. Not that the externals of the reading are to be slighted; but without the proper attuning of the inward spirit, the finest instruments in the world can not read scripture to edification. Of the two, the elements furnished by the heart are the more important. But, you do not make it an excuse to yourself to use good care in your reading that you have a good warm heart and pious intentions. You must articulate well, you must emphasize and accent aright you must give the proper inflections etc.

You should also study your hymns. They are the most difficult to read of all species of composition. The inversions made about are applicable here. Hymns are usually more poorly read than the Scriptures. Train yourself to read well for the reading of the hymns and Scriptures is just as important as any part of the services, and possibly of more account a good deal than your sermon. —AMERICA—In Telescope.

ADDRESS TO GOVERNOR HAY

BY SHERBRO MERCHANTS.

Sherbro Jan 22nd 1889.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY

Capt J. S. HAY C. M. G. Governor and Commander in Chief of the Colony of Sierra Leone and its dependencies.

May it please your Excellency.

We the undersigned Merchants, Traders and others representing the inhabitants of this district beg leave very respectfully to congratulate your Excellency upon your appointment to the Government of the Colony of our extreme joy we are proud to state accords with the feelings and wishes of this community and more so because we believe it is based upon the recognition by Her Majesty's Government of your Excellency's previous administrative qualities. Owing to your Excellency having decided to proceed the next morning after your arrival here to the Sulymah districts we were prevented from presenting this address of welcome.

We are pleased to state that this visit has afforded us strange satisfaction in that it has given us, now that you have returned a further opportunity of congratulating you upon your safe return from (we may safely say) an almost unprecedently successful expedition, conducted through a hostile country with a handful of policemen and consequently with so very little expense to the Colony. We therefore would rely upon your Excellency's administrative experience and with unbounded confidence with which your Excellency's actions at the Bonthe and Sulymah deputies have inspired us, trust ere long to see through the blessings of God and your Excellency's sound consideration for our needs, this country—brought to that standard of civilization to which others enjoying the blessings of peace owe their exceptional importance and prosperity.

Wishing your Excellency every blessing and with a high sentiment of loyalty and respect.

We have the honor to be your Excellency's most obedient humble servants.

(52cl.) Fisher and Rendall Ltd. T Dalton Agt. West African Company C Bartholew agt. Paterson Zochonis and Co. Ltd per E. F. Macfoy. Edwards, P. & A. Swanzy per E. F. Macfoy. Wm. Brown. J. B. Parkinson. Pickering & Berthoud per H. H. Pearson. C. B. Collier. Moses Z Macauley J. A. Williams.

REPLY.—

Local No. 61. Bonthe Jan. 22 1889.

Gentlemen,—I have to thank you for the address with which you have presented me congratulating me on my arrival amongst you as Governor of Sierra Leone.

2. I trust that the action taken against Mackiah may have a lasting effect amongst the tribes in our vicinity and that an era of commercial activity and general prosperity may be the result.

3. I have impressed on all the Chiefs with whom I have lately come in contact that I should expect them to afford better trade and protect all traders who might settle in the rivers for the purpose of conducting their business.

4. Fully appreciating your kindly wishes for my welfare. I have the honor to be

Gentlemen,

Your most obedient servant,

(Sgd) J. S. HAY, Govr.

Messrs C Bartholew for French Company Paterson Zochonis & Co. per T. E. Macfoy. &c., &c., &c.

ITINERATING.

Since I last wrote, good news comes in from the field; in various places, preachers, itinerants, and teachers, have been going forth sowing the precious seed of the Word, and so far as heard from, have been favored in meeting open doors, of access to the people everywhere. Some of the services have been very largely attended, Revd W. S. M'Canley reports that 190 persons were present at a service help at Largor, Imperch, about the 17th inst, this is indeed encouraging for that locality, and shows the importance of bestirring ourselves during this fine weather, may every one be alive to their duty and no time be lost. J. A. L.

Bonthe Feb. 28 '89.

The Early Dawn.
BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Feb. 28, 1889.

Evangelist c Services

Were commenced in this place on the 24th inst, by the noted Evangelist Mrs. Amanda Smith at the Mendi Mission School Room, the place now used for worship by the U. B. Church of this place; and possessing the largest seating capacity of perhaps any building in the town. Yet the attendance has been overflowing every evening of the meeting, the number on two occasions, exceeded eight hundred persons, of course the larger part of these were obliged to stand without as there was not even standing room inside for such a crowd, but we were pleased to note the good behavior of even those who could not gain admittance, and further pleased to learn that they could hear the preacher, and some could see her as well; this no doubt accounts in a large measure for the good order and intense interest that has prevailed, since these services began and is still on the increase: several persons have been awakened, one has professed conversion, while several others have come forward for prayers and there seems to be many that have been deeply touched by the spirit of God under the influence of the Word as is being so wonderfully preached by the female preacher. At this writing it is impossible to say what the result of these services will be in our midst, but every one seems hopeful that great good will be accomplished through the blessing of God to all the people of this place.

Dear Sir,—It is very surprising to find how people would heedlessly rush into print to attack others on a subject, of which they are totally ignorant.

Such is the writer of the letter of "A Protestant" which appeared in your issue of Feb. 14.

The writer attacked the Catechist of St. Matthew's Church for telling his members that the Roman Catholic religion is full of errors, but that he never in the least attempted to show them the difference there is in the two religion.

I must say that I am of opinion that the writer of that letter was never in church when those words were uttered by the catechist or he would have been in a position to hear for himself the explanation given by the catechist as regards the false doctrines taught in the Romish Church.

It must appear as if "A Protestant" as the writer styles himself does not understand tenets of the religion he professes However, in order to remove every doubts from the minds of the numerous readers of your valuable journal, allow me to say that I attended the Bible Class of the Native Pastorate on Sunday morning the 17th inst when the catechist selected for his discussion the words "Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering."

The Catechist admonished and cautioned the members present not to waver from their profession, but to hold fast the doctrine of the protestant religion they were taught from their youth as there are many grave errors in the Roman Catholic religion.

Who's the Catechist was addressing one of the members said that he would like to know from him, the material difference that exists between the Roman Catholic and the Protestant religion.

Upon this request being made the catechist explained few of the errors of the Roman Church as follows:—

I.—Confessing to a Priest.

The catechist said that confessing to a priest is repugnant to the teaching of the Holy Bible, he quoted Matt. iii. 16, that some confessed their sins at baptism, but pointed that theirs was a public confession and that it was never repeated. He said further that the Apostle Paul says "Confess your faults one to another &c. and "the effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man (say righteous man) availeth much"

He explained that these words contain no intimation that a priest must receive this confession and receive it in private with circumstantial minutiæ and that confession should be made only to those whom we have injured, but sins known to God alone should be confessed to Him who has power to forgive sins.

II.—The Eucharist or Sacrament of the Lord's Supper as received by Roman Catholics.

He condemned the idea of the Romish Church, that the Bread and Wine used at the Holy Communion is the real body and blood of Christ and gave the following explanation.

That if Christ really meant to declare that the Bread had become his body, how could he be holding up his flesh & blood in the presence of his disciples, and when he commanded them to partake of it, why should they not as soon have thought of eating the body with which he was speak ing, and that when our Saviour said that he never intended to teach that his body was then changed into bread &c.

"He was the Bread of Life"

I hope therefore Mr. "A Protestant" will feel convinced that the Roman Catholic religion is full of errors.

In answer to his other remarks respecting Collections and Subscriptions you will hear from me again.

Yours,
Bonthe, A CHURCHMAN.
Feb. 23, '89.

S. S. Formoso.

In the columns of our contemporary the "Weekly News" of Jan. 11th '89 appeared an article lavishing deserving commendations on the Captain of the s. s. Formoso.

I say deserving because when comparing the general deportment and behaviour of the previous Captain whom he now succeeds, to the native passengers both cabin as well deck, to the affable, kind attentive manner that all alike receive from captain Paterson, every one is who have travelled before in this vessel when and after his predecessor was in charge, must confess that the s. s. Formoso is now transformed from a slaveship to a real passenger vessel.

Capt Paterson does not think it beneath him to have a chat when time permits with even his sable brethren, and re-lessing the wrongs of the deck passengers when occasion requires. Whilst others of his kind regard it degradation to his position and colour as if by talking to a negro they would be black, forgetting that "skins may differ, yet affection dwells in white and black the same."

May Capt Paterson enjoy a long and prosperous charge on board this ship, which will be to the benefit of the "Company" to which he belongs as well as to the confidence of passengers travelling to and from Sherbro to Freetown.

FOREIGNER.

Bonthe,
Feb. 8, '89.

Sherbro Island

On which we live, and is situated

Bonthe with another village, that has a place of worship of the true God, and where we as professing christians sometimes boast of our religious advantages; presents as a whole a very sad picture, for there are hundreds of people belonging to even Bonthe itself that do not go to a place of worship, numbers of whom live hard by christian neighbour, many week during most of the Sabbath day just as if there were no churches in our place; just this state of things continues may be a little question with some christians, but with the writer the reason seems plainly to be, that we are not as the servants of God doing our whole duty. Then again, except Victoria, Dumbarkoh, and Jamaica none of the hundreds of villages and farkies on the Island although they contain thousands of people when taken together, have any established place of worship, and in most cases are very rarely visited by teachers or Bible readers. So that really the work of Missions on this Island is not accomplishing by any means what it ought to do. Of course I am aware that each of the connections established here feel that their means are limited and their agents few for the work in hand, but I am of the opinion that there are christians enough in Bonthe to evangelize the whole Island in a short time if they had only the love for the salvation of souls, that we ought to possess as followers of Christ. Surely something ought to be done. Are there not young men who will offer their services gratis to the pastors of the different churches to go out itinerating over this island and not stop until the gospel has been preached in every farkie? Or will not the ministers make extended tours themselves, occasionally over the island and preach as they go? For certainly it is a burning shame for so many professing christians to live on a small island like this and allow it to lie in heathen darkness as is now the case with the larger portion of this island.

Yours,—E. J. BETAL.

The Government of the Tongue.

Many people think it quite enough to take care of their actions, while they neglect what is nearly as important, & quite as difficult—"The government of the tongue." Now the apostle Paul tells us that "the tongue is an unruly member." Behold, he says "how great a fire a little spark kindleth (as would have been the case in this community a few weeks ago 16th inst from a false report that was circulated.) And so it is.

A few words spoken in haste or may lead to consequences for which the speaker will repent all his life long for we should remember, that words once uttered cannot be recalled. We may repent of them, and acknowledge that they should not have been spoken; but as soon they have been pronounced, they are no more in our power. In speaking of the conduct of our neighbours, we should remember that harsh words do not become those who are themselves liable to err.

Another way in which the tongue becomes a dangerous member, is the habit of repeating incorrectly what we hear, or of adding to it some trifling circumstance which is not true for a story repeated from mouth to mouth with but a small addition from each single tongue, becomes in the end quite a different one from that which was first related. And in this way it is that many misunderstandings and quarrels take place, and spread dissension through a whole community. When we say more than is true or less than is true, in the things we relate, we must not excuse ourselves by saying, "Oh, these were merely idle words" for it is certain that for every idle word we utter, we shall give an account.

I hope this new year will change us into "new men" and that the report which was circulated a few weeks ago Saturday 16th inst may not be repeated for we are not to speak evil one of another, but to learn always to speak the truth.

Yours,
BIDWELL.

Bonthe,
Feb. 23rd '89.

The Unemployed.

Are quite numerous, in this place and in other places about the harbor, as York-Island Bendoo &c. They are of several classes, at least it would so appear from the applications made to the various establishments for employment, but the largest class is that of laborers and strange enough many of this class quite indifferent as to their condition. Teachers, Carpenters, Tailors, and Trades people of different vocations are seeking employment at any reasonable rate, that they may not remain idle. But this is not the case as a rule with ordinary laborers, for they often demand a certain figure for their services and will not take anything less. And of late these rates of labor have been too high for employers, hence many that might have been engaged are without employment; which, of course, we might not complain of, but for the fact that many of these unemployed laborers are engaged in either gambling or stealing for a livelihood, and thus they become an annoyance to the community. Some one has suggested the Vagrancy Ordinance as a remedy for this evil and that it be put into operation here.

NEWSITEMS.

Messrs W. C. Betts and E. A. Lewis were in this place, and called on business about the 14th inst.

15th—Boat Victory arrived from the Gbangroo with Mr. Corp'l Roberts and others as passengers.

16,—s. s. Rorald from Freetown with the Mails.

17.—Interesting services at the Mendi Mission, large attendance, especially at 11 a.m.

18.—The editor of this journal, Mrs. C. A. E. Campbell & others left this place to Shaingay in private Boat.

22—The editor returned accompanied by the renowned evangelist Mrs Amanda Smith.

23—s. s. Formoso from Freetown with the mails, Freight, and passengers.

From the Imperch—We hear of Itinerating and large attendance of the people with very interesting services.

From Shaingay, It is reported that Rev J. Gomer general Agt and Supt. of Shaingay Mission, expects to leave that place, about the 8th of March for Freetown from whence about the 15th of the same month he expects to sail via England for America.

Bp. Flickinger D. D. is expecting to leave the coast in short for Europe after which he will proceed to America.

Photography—Another Photographer Mr Geo. Latterodt of Acera arrived here this morning (28th) for business

---

Sir, Editor,—I am glad to observe the general movement throughout the Bargroo Districts at present, in the opening and clearing up of roads from 10 to 12 feet wide in some places and upwards to 32 and 35 in others. A single motion of strictness witnessed in the arbitrary management and quelling the mischievious conduct of some by Capt Crawford, officer commanding during the last expedition in the Sumwah District has spread such a consternation throughout the country, and every native has cutlas and hoe.

N'dewai Argbo, is the appellation given to this officer by the Natives, from the severity he exercised in that locality since the death report of Sir Samuel Rowe, K.C.M.G., and the unexpected return to England of Sir F. De Winton the natives had thought that they are accountable for their conduct as some folks misinterpreted to them, and that nothing further would be done to stop their actions in any way or shape and hence they grew careless and intractable, but, they found to their sustenance and regret I believe that an unruly member in Bonbosh Sboroo (died Tommers or Jim Ray) has been sent to check, in a measure their destructive plans.

The wisest motion is more advantageous to all; in connection with the peace of the country, trade will be brisk and encouraging, and those will find it a thorough help if the roads continue as above stated, who traffic to and from the interior fearless of any plunderer—Ton will hear again.

Yours truly,
AN OBSERVER.

The "Porroh Society" of Native Laborers in Bonthe.

It has now come to the time when the Vagrancy Ordinance must be put in to operation by the Authorities in Sherbro.

Numberless men are to be seen parading the streets at Bonthe from day to day with out any seeming employment; and to offer them a job by which they would obtain an honest livelihood, is a means only to prove their utter indifference for manual labor by the exorbitant rate they charge for a small job or a day's work.

I am informed that during the last expedition to Sulymah it was with very grave difficulty. His Excellency the Governor obtained the services or none at all of the men at Bonthe and its vicinity.

A society has been lately formed in which I understand its members have all been sworn to do no job work neither for the Government nor for the Merchants at anything less than one shilling (cash) per diem, and have agreed on certain exorbitant rates to charge per trip to different places as the Jong, Kittam, Boom, Bargroo, and other places.

How then can these men with their multiplicity of wives subsist without any employment of whatever kind can easily be discerned by the midnight visits some of them pay to the houses and stores of the merchants and traders undetected in most cases, for the purpose of depriving them of their goods and chattels.

Stringent measures therefore should be brought to bear upon this class of society to compel them, either to vacate the place, or to seek employment as idleness is the fosterer of all the mischief perpetrated in this little community by this gang of indolent and lazy wretches.

Feb. 25, '89. TEXAS.

PLUNDERING IN BENDOOMAH ROAD.

Sir,

During the making of roads in the Upper Bergroo District as was announced by Official letter from the Authorities, it is rather shameful to mention that plundering was encouraged by some Sierra Leoneans I am informed who also were amongst the Natives in laying out the roads.

Some travellers happened one day to be passing on the Bendoomah road whilst these men were busy working; and being put up by these sons of enlightenment, they pounce on these passers by like wild Bears, and seized several cases of Gin, which a Sierra Leonean (disgraceful to say) was the Boss to distribute the bounties as plundered from the unfortunate travellers. A Mr Johnson I understand interfered, but his other companions who were so thirsty for grog insisted upon the plunder and shared it amongst the natives with themselves.

The Authorities should make an enquiry and so put a check to any further such awful acts especially when men who are supposed to set better examples to their benighted brethren, would encourage and support them in perpetrating deeds so unlawful and unbecoming.

TRUTH.

The Cottage,
Benkeh, 22th Feb. '89

APPOINTMENTS.

Shaingay District.

Shaingay,	April 6th & 7th
Manoh,	„ 8th
Yongkolah	„ 10th
Harmany,	„ 11th
Koolonoge,	„ 13th & 14th
Matsong,	„ 16th
Morobo,	„ 17th
Mo-Fuss,	„ 13th
Mambo,	„ 20th & 21st
Rembee,	„ 22nd.

W. S. Sage, P.E.

REVA

On the Mission as it was called, by the people about it was one of those spots of earth on which nature has been very generous in bestowing her kindly gifts. Located as it is some distance inland from the Western shores of the dark Continent, on a river which we shall call the Hosam that flows into another larger that we will call the Sorrel river. Curiously enough it would seem that the Hosam river should have been built in just the right shape to form a sort of promontory on which the founders of Reva established a Station but such is the case and more too for there is a small tributary that falls into the hosam just at that particular point and really helps to form a beautiful little Peninsula out of the promontory of which I have spoken and on which the Mansion of Reva stands. The extremity of this peninsula is now studded over with coffee-trees and cocoa-nut trees which for beauty and fragrance when in Bloom cannot be rivaled by many a league around. The quaint old solid stone Mission House with basement stores under and prodigious Wings extending out from it. Its solitary flag breaking the monotony of the roof which hovered like the spreading of a hen over extensive piazzas running nearly around the mainbuilding and painted yellow relieved with green around the doors and windows looked queer enough to the spectator in 1883 at the time our story commences. Just back of the Mission House stood a low dormitory, or boarding and lodging house for young men and boys, a rice store and fowl house, behind which again were small gardens enclosed with fences of palings, between the rice store fowl house and enclosed Gardens, and further East was there was an open Garden on an inclined plane, lowest toward the house, this Garden had a little of many things in it, such as plan apples coffee, guavas, bananas, herbs of different kinds &c. Reva had also just outside the open court and to the North ward a neat little street of gravel hard indeed but often always foot mud, which no rain could form upon it, but there was a struggle in some seasons, of the year, to keep it from weeds, however this was managed, by the school boys, and others, always in for a job about the premises, and that these boys liked work any more than other boys, but Africa boys (and these were of that kind) like pocket or money just as much as other boys and like other boys they could care to overwork themselves to get it. And this was the case with the Reva boys in or out of the Boarding School, for they had a job they all, generally bargained for the most money possible, and the least work that would at all answer in the case. North of the street was a large stately looking edifice, built against the Hillside, it was the Reva Chapel, and consisted of a large audience room above, that fronted on the little gravel street, by means of steeple that formed a neat little ante room, the ascent to which from the street was only a few steps. Below along the descent of the Hill and under the front of the audience room was enclosed spaces afterward made into a store, beyond this under the rear of the audience room there was a large bedroom or private room further on and on the same level was a day school room or the primary Department of the Reva school to the east and a native village immediately on the great & Chief bounded on the north by a small rivulet or brook to the springs and the Mittard village immediately on the east by a street that divided, further on to the south the front yard of the Reva Mission from the Coffee orchard, on the South it had the little gravel street that passed in front of the Chapel, on the West it had the Chapel and a fence of wood This open court or yard in front of the School Room was a play ground for the School children of Reva. Beyond this to the North at a little distance from the springs and across the mill race was a village belonging to Reva and from the number of wood buildings, it was evident at a glance that it was not a native hamlet, a little further notice revealed the American touch, which this peculiar village had received in its buildings, and turning a little to the West ward up the ravine and the eye would catch sight of a veritable Saw Mill of American construction Returning from the Hill to the Southwest you passed through a cluster of houses and ascended a little hill of considerable height on the same stood a Teacher's house whose name I shall call Rismore to the right of this summit as you look southwest ward was a neat little cemetery in which were a few neat Tombs with one or so Missionaries remains resting there and a number of other graves. Beyond this a few feet out the fields on the plantation belonging to Reva and then wilderness proper, would travel again back to the little gravel walk in front of the Chapel. Opposite the Chapel it or was the gate to the Mission compound so at the gate Home which I have already described, except the beautiful frontyard that was well set with orange, Cocoa nut Clusters, and other Trees, many handsome. Flowers and shrubs beautiful grass, Nicely laid out walks of gravel with stone borders such as one rarely meets in even the suburbs of great civilized towns. But which was certainly an unexpected sight to me in the midst of such surroundings, as environed Reva.

TENNIE.

QUATERLY MEETING.—Special communion services will be held on Sabbath next (March 3rd) in connection with the Evangelistic services now being held at the Mendi Mission school room in Victoria Road this place. A cordial invitation is hereby extended to the Christian public.

Sorry to be late, again so soon, but we are struggling to overcome impediments.

Collin's Lodge,
Kent, Sa. Leone,
Feb. 27, '89.

Rev J. A. Evans,

Dear Bro,—It becomes my painful task to acquaint you of the death of my dear father which took place at his home in this place on the morning of the 24th inst., and buried at 8 o'clock a. m. next day. I was unexpectedly called away by this mishap, and am now at home.

The old man died at about 80 years of age. Please inform my friends of the same through the columns of the "Early Dawn."

Yours in affliction,
H. J. WILLIAMS.

NOTICE.

From this date until further notice, the Rev. J. A. Evans will act as General Agent for the Shaingay Mission District. Persons knowing themselves to be indebted to the Mission, or having any other Business with settle, or confer with him or his representatives.

J. Gomer.

Shaingay,
Feb. 28, '89.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island
SHERBRO

IS NOW Open for TRADING

F. & A. SWANZY

GEO. LEACH

Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned Emigrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogsheads of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogsheads of about 550 lbs nett, also their Kentucky "Split Head" brand—in similar packages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the Up-River Traders, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A. SWANZY.
ALPHA FACTORY.

MARKET REPORT OF African Produce.

	1888	1887	1886
PALM OIL.—Imports, 1st Jan to 31st Dec. Liverpool	47993	46395	48308 Tons.
Deliveries during Dec Liverpool	3793	4410	3954 "
Stock, 31 Dec. Liverpool	4730	10001	9625 "

The market has been going down steadily during the last fortnight, but closes with a better demand. We quote "transit"

Lagos £24. to £24. 5. 0—Bonny, Old Calabar and Cameroons £23. to £23. 5. 0—Benin, Accra, Addah and Quittah £22 15. 0 to £23. 0. 0—Brass, Niger and New Calabar 22/ 5 to 22/ 10 0—Grand Bassam and Half Jack 22/ 10 0—Congo and Sherbro 21/ 10 0 to 22/.—Appam, Saltpond and Winnebah 20/ 10 to 20/ 15. 0—Dixcove and Liberian 20/ 5. to 20/ 10. 0

PALM KERNELS.—Improved since our last, but have now returned to about the same figures as then quoted. The Hamburg market is very depressed. Quotations "transit" basis 5 per cent shell.

Lagos, Old and New Calabar, Bonny, Cameroons and San Thome 10/ 17 6 to 11/ 0 0—Brass 10/ 15 0—Congo and Benin 10/ 12 6—Sherbro and Liberian 10/ 5. 0 to 10/ 7. 6—Quittah and Addah 10/ 0 0 to 10/ 2 6

GROUND NUTS.—200 bags fair to good in the shell, sold at 13/. 15. to 14/ 15. Decorticated good quality 13/. to 14 per ton.

BENISEED.—Lagos sold at 40s. per 384 lbs.

COPRA.—Steady at 12/. 10. per ton.

COFFEE.—Has been a little weak, but the demand is now improved. Bold Berry, 71s. Liberian 79s. to 80s. per cwt. Elephant is not much in demand.

COCOA.—Good demand for consumption, but manufacturers are almost in a position to name their own prices.

IVORY.—See our special report.

INDIA-RUBBER.—Very dull, 220 tons African offered yesterday, but met with no competition. There has however been a good business done since at a further decline.

Gambia Niggers fair to prime	1s. 8d. to 2s. 0d.
Sierra Leone do. do.	1s. 6d. to 1s 8d.
Thimbles	1s. 1d. to 1s. 7d
Congo and Gaboon Ball	1s. 3d. to 1s. 5d.
Cameroon & Old Calabar	1s. 2d. to 1s. 4d.
Hard Cape Coast, Axim and Assinee	1s. 1d to 1s. 5d
Liberian	1s. 0d. to 1s. 1d
Salt pond	0s. 9½d. to 1s. 0d
Accra and addah Niggers Biscuits and Cakes	1s. to 1s. 8d.
Do. ordinary soft	0s. 7½d. to 9d.
Hake and Lumps	0s. 7d. to 8d.

GUM COPAL.—A large parcel of Sierra Leone sold at about late rates. Accra at 25s. to 27s. 6d.

BEESWAX.—Gambia at 4/. 12. 6. Sierra Leone at 4/. per cwt

GINGER.—Sales at 19s. per cwt.

CALABAR BEANS.—Wanted.

EBONY.—Gaboon at 5/. 15. to 6/. 5. for billets and heavy; and 4/ 5. to 4/. 10. for flat

CAMWOOD.—Small sales of good Grand Bassa at 16/. 10. per ton

BARWOOD.—No quotations.

MONKEY SKINS.—The sales took place from the 23rd to the 25th ult., 129,780 were offered and 42,161 sold. There was a large attendance of buyers at the sales. The demand for these skins appears to be principally from the American Market, consequently it is very possible that we may not see a reaction, but that prices may be maintained at the next auctions. During the late auctions the demand was very strong for everything except red and common, which are almost unsaleable. The slight decline of the previous sale was fully made up, especially upon the best skins, which large and well haired. We quote:—

Selected 8d. 6d. to 9s. 9d
1st and 2nds 6s. 6d. to 8s. 3d.
Good mixed lots 5s. to 7s. 6d.
Fair mixed lots 3s. 2d. to 6s. 3d.
Inferior 1s 0d. to 2s. 1d.

EDWARDS BROTHERS.

Liverpool Feb. 1st '89.

TEMPERANCE.

A pet theory of those who are unwilling to accept total abstinence as truest temperance in the line of liquor drinking is that pure wines and cider are comparatively harmless in contrast with adulterated liquor. Yet there is no form of drunkenness which has more of brutality in it than that which is the result of cider-drinking; and from the days of Noah to the present day, a man who has been made drunken by home-made wine is likely to be as disgracefully drunken as if it were strychnine whisky which had brought him down. Only a few days ago a silk weaver in Hebron, Conn, murdered his wife and two children, and then set fire to the house. He was a Swiss immigrant, and believed in home-made liquors. The telegraph report reads: "He had half a dozen barrels of home-made wine and cider in the cellar, and drinking from these made him crazy and promoted the murder." If the bloodstained ashes of his household show the sort of home made by home-made wine and cider, total abstinence from these liquors would seem to be the truest temperance.—Sel.

ADVERTISEMENT SCALE.

Reduced rates.

(FOR EACH INSERTION.)

A whole page	£1	10	0
A whole column	0	8	0
Half a column	0	5	0
One-fourth of a column	0	3	0
One-eighth of a column	0	2	6
Marriage	0	2	0
Births and deaths	0	1	6
Domestic servants wanted	0	1	6
Servants wanting situations	0	1	0

Each notice should not exceed 4 lines every additional line or part of a line 4d extra.

'Early Dawn'

PRINTING OFFICE.

Job Work Done at short

Notice.

Enquire of C. G. BELL, Printer
GOOD HOPE STATION.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. VI. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, MARCH 16, 1889. No. 5.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto. delv'd in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gowans, Shenango, Mr. E. A. LEWIS, Freetown, West Africa. Rev. Wm. McKee Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Chief Clerk.	M. J. W. Rocks
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Backner.
Sub Treas. & Col. Chief Clerk	J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & J. J. Werburton.
Asst. Examg. Officer	Sulymah Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts,
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Vacant.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev R. C. Taylor

LETTERS TO YOUNG MINISTERS.

CHURCHLINESS.

No man should be a bigot, and least of all a minister of the free, broad, universal gospel of Christ. One should not be always, if ever running on the narrow gage. He must not think more highly of himself than he ought to think. He must not think that he is the wisest, the sharpest, "cutest" handsomest man in the country, no matter how wise, sharp, handsome, or "cute" he may be.

No neither ought a man think more highly of his church—that is, denomination than he ought. He is not to think for instance, that a man can not rest to heaven without belonging to the United Brethren in Christ, although we shall doubtless all be united brethren in Christ in heaven. One should not fall into the grevious error of thinking that all theology outside of his own church radically wrong, or that all piety elsewhere is sadly defective—in short, that take us round from "a" to "izzard" we are better than all others. Such a spirit as this is very narrow, very mean. But while you are not to be thus narrow, bigoted, or sectarian, you have a right to be denominational, churchly. You are not to be mean on the other side. I know men who are always disparaging and belittling our church, making unfavorable comparisons between our church and other churches. Other churches are so much more numerous more learned, more wealthy, more stylish, more up in the world. They have finer churches, larger organs, softer pews, sweeter hymns, a more heavenly gospel. Other churches have church-socials, church-fairs and other "fandangoes." Their young people may dance, go to theatres, play cards, and still be first class members, while with us slow-coaches, old fogies, such things are considered to be out of order, and some of them grossly wrong, and may even subject one to forfeiture of membership.

Now, one of the most unwise things a minister can do is to be everlastingly disparaging his own church, even if he does it only in his own mind. It saps his energy, robs him of enthusiasm, makes him discontented and weak. Ordinarily he will serve the cause of the Master best by serving right loyally his own denomination. While we as a denomination may have been narrow enough in some respects, we have certainly not been guilty as a whole of sectarianism In numberless cases we have given away outright all the fruits of our labors. We have been afraid to keep the fish we have caught, or else have been indifferent as to who carried them home. Many of our men have allowed a mere whisper of some other denomination to drive them entirely off the field with the very tiniest pop-gun.

Young gentlemen, learn to defend yourselves, to stand your ground. Arm yourselves with something better than a pop gun, even if it should be an old-fashioned blunderbuss. I do not mean that you are to be quarrelsome. Indeed the best way to settle a quarrel is often simply to stand up for your rights in a manly christian way. I noticed the other day with interest the brave and dignified manner in which a large dog trotted down the street, sublimely indifferent to the whole troop of whelps barking at his his heels.

Another thing: don't let the devil or any one else persuade you that you are too big for the United Brethren Church that you need a broader field in which to exercise your genius. One of the most terrible afflictions that can befall a young minister is to contract the "big head." It is really worse than the small pox. If it is not speedily fatal, it is at least almost as incurable as the leprosy. Here are some of the young symptoms: The poor victim feels a strange, uncomfortable itching, he hardly knows where, for popularity; an unnatural appetite for flattery; a longing for what is called a big, or fine church; eagerness for a big salary; the mere thought of the itinerancy causes rigour—often the chills will successively run up and down the spine; removal from one charge to another produces high fever—the fever of anger; failure to receive the appointment he coveted gives him the dumps, frequently this ends in the resignation of a charge, or an application for a transfer, or, in the worst cases, a demand for a dismissal and a withdrawal to some other church. The extreme cases of this sort are beyond human help, but in other cases a good strong application of churchliness, well persevered in, with frequent doses of humility, may effect a cure.

Now, honest Indian, if your measure were accurately taken, it might turn out that you are not quite so tall or so large in girth as you supposed, and in any case your head will not break through our United Brethren roof, nor your weight smash us all to pieces. Stay with us awhile and see whether you will not have air enough to breathe, and heaven enough to soar in. Or, if this language is offensively metaphorical, see whether we United Brethren will not prove to have brain and heart enough to appreciate you and give you the recognition you deserve. But if you are like a young acquaintance of mine of the Methodist church who left it and united with the Presbyterians, because if he remained in the Methodist church he never would rest until he was a bishop, and he did not believe it was right for any man to be a bishop—if you have any such conscientious scruples, of course no one can object to your withdrawing yourself from temptation. Otherwise, dont be in a hurry to leap the fence, or, to change the figure, out of the frying pan, lest you land in the fire.

Application; be a right good United Brethren, and you will find work enough to keep you as busy as a bee; a field for the exercise of your highest powers; a sphere where you can be exceptionally useful, and from which the road to heaven is as short as from any other church.—AMICUS—In Telescope.

REVA.

It was in the year 1883 on the 9th day of February that three gentlemen whom I shall call Dr Kulmer Revd J H Miah and J Van Albert landed at the Reva Wharf from a small row boat about Mid-day; they immediately sent for Mr Rismore who was in charge of Reva at the time under Mr Miah's direction, when Mr Rismore made his appearance he was informed at once by Mr Miah that the whole of their Missions had been transfered to Dr Kulmer and that he was present to take possession, he then introduced Dr K. to Mr R. as also Mr Van Albert who appeared to be the man that was trying to take in the situation and appeared to be much absorbed in thought on other matters quite foreign to the business in hand while on the other hand Dr K appeared to be in an ecstasy over the acquisition. Revd Mr Miah seemed to be only trying to make the best out of the situation. Mr Rismore was gentlemanly and very polite in his manners, but evidently did not easily acquiess in the matter. The stirring manner of Dr Kulmer did not allow much time for consideration to any one; so a hastily prepared breakfast mostly from the Cantine, or Messchest of the party, being over. Dr Kulmer proposed to Mr Van Albert that he commence stock-taking at once and get through as much as possible that afternoon; The Doctor had scarcely finished speaking when Mr Van Albert took from his portfolio several sheets of paper prepared for Invoicing, and the work was immediately begun and continued until the next afternoon; when a full list of property had been taken and it only remained to value articles, as almost everything was old, even store goods had been very badly kept and were largely damaged. A day more however finished up the work of taking stock. Meanwhile two other Gentlemen had arrived these we should call B S Coxwill and Revd R Sepher each of them veteran Missionaries. Mr Coxwill the founder of Reva had some years before retired from this same Mission; so it had been thought proper that he should be present on this occasion to introduce the newcomers to the people of the surrounding country; as it is in Africa of far more importance to start right with the natives of any locality than it is to be on the best terms with Home Committees But as Mr. Coxwill and Mr. Sepher did not reach Reva until late on Saturday, Monday was appointed as the day for general meeting of the principal people of the neighbourhood and for the introduction of the new mission Authorities; Chief among whom was Dr Kulmer a small sickley man of German extraction, next to the Doctor was the Revd Mr Sepher, who was a large corpulent man of medium height. Mr Coxwill the third important personage was an aged gentleman of large size, and altho very unpretentious, yet he evidently possessed a large fund of good hard common sense. Revd Mr Van Albert the fourth and last, but not least, of the party was a tall dark complected man of peculiar, if not somewhat strange temperament and it was certainly evident that he possessed different feelings about liveing than others of the party, and was little elated over the prospects of the future. However, we have a picture of the Missionary party that had gathered at Reva on that Saturday evening, to hold a meeting with the principal people of that locality, which had then been arranged to take place on the coming Monday of which I must speak in my next.

TENNIR.

All men and women, however lowly and humble, who are doing or trying to do God's work in this world, are entitled to our sympathy and fellowship, even if they do not follow us in every particular, and even if in some particulars we can not approve their courses. We may sympathize with their purpose of righteousness even when we find ourselves at variance with some of the methods by which it sought to reach their ends.

The Early Dawn.
BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Mar. 16, 1889.

The Out Look.

Politically and otherwise for Sierra leone seems to us favorable indeed, the separation of the Settlements on the Gambia river, from this Colony under the new charter would, at least, seem to be a prudent if not to say a wise measure, and certainly the settling of the northern boundary of the Colony was a desirable and to be obtained, and this we understand has been done, it only now remains to have a more definite limit or boundary toward the Interior. The idea of a travelling Commissioner as well as the appointee, G. H. Garrett Esqr are equally fortunate and can scarcely fail of the best results as especially since we are to have the roads, now being cut kept open for the time to come; and by the way this matter of opening Roads through the country can not be too highly commended, by an intelligent public; for it must subserve at once two highly important interests, viz.—the peace of the country districts, and the facility of trade—each of which are, or ought to be of Material importance to the Colonial Exchequer. Since the one might lessen the expenditure and the other increase the receipts of the Treasury.

A revival of trade, can scarcely fail to follow in the wake of a well organized and energetic Government, such as His Excellency Governor Hay, is losing no time in establishing in this Colony by extraordinary personal industry. Hence every one has confidence, to a considerable extent, in the revival of trade in the near future: we can not say at once, or with the coming season; for there are several reasons for some delay chief of which may be considered, is the absence of the people from war-stricken localities and until such places can be re-peopled, we can not hope for trade to revive. However the prospect for the near future is really good.

We learn that a messenger was sent by N'Yah Goo-ah to His Excellency the Governor that the notorious Mackiah is safe in his hands and that His Excellency should go for him. How far this report is true we do not know, but we trust ere long this pest of the country will be in the hands of the Government.

Dear Mr Editor,

The letter of "A Churchman" which appeared in your last issue, accuses me of rushing heedlessly into print with a subject of which I am totally ignorant.

With due respect to "A Churchman" I must say that I never made the smallest attempt to deal with the subject to which I alluded in my letter of the 14th ultimo, I merely endeavoured to point out the imprudence of declaring a thing to be wrong while you refrain from showing in what manner it is so wrong &c. I am however sorry to find, that "A Churchman" has omitted to give the explanation he alleges to have been given by St Mathew's Church Catechist on the occasion of the denouncing by the latter of the Roman Catholic religion to be full of errors. A Churchman could not have been aware that the omission of such an important explanation, if there were any, would have the tendency of confirming my previous assertion that no spark of proof was adduced by the then denouncer of the Romish religion to show that it was full of errors.—

"A Churchman" was good enough to let the public know that on the 17th ultimo the worthy Catechist in question "admonished" and "cautioned" his class members not to waver from their profession but to stick to the Protestant religion which they were taught from their youth &c.—Strange teaching. A heathen might just as well be advised to stick to his heathenish practices after arriving at mature age, because he was brought up in them from his Youth. In my humble opinion when a person is capable of discerning between right and wrong he should be left free in matters of choice, one might infer that the Catechist was simply addressing a class of people to which the reading of bible was denied.

"A Churchman" farther tells us that in spite of the of the luminous explanation which the Catechist was labouring to impress his hearers, with a member interrupted, wishing positively to know what material difference existed between the Roman Catholic and Protestant religion. I am forced to the conclusion that the Catechist could not have been doing otherwise but beating about the air till he was pressed to come out in a clear manner; and when pinned to that position, he simply made a a strowful figure by quoting St Matthew iii. 10., about confessing sins to a priest as an error, but this quotation has no bearing whatever on the subject; what he wished to quote no doubt, was St. Matt. iii. 6. which obviously contradicts himself, According to this authority the Catechist admits public confession to be right,. His objection now remains against private confession—I want the Catechist or his advocate "A Churchman to point out any Authority in Scripture forbidding private confession of sins to a preist—That a priest has the power to remit sins I refer "A Churchman" for the information of his Catechist to St. John xx. 22 & 23, St. Matt. xviii 18, the Authority mentioned in those passages was given to the Apostles and their successors—Did not thousands of people confess their sins privately to the Revd. J. Johnson during his las mission both in Sierra Leone and in Sherbro? I wish to know from the Catechist through "A Churchman" whether that was in any wise wrong.

The Catechist is reported as having condemned the idea of the Romish Church believing the bread and wine used at Holy Communion to be the real Body and Blood of Christ, he gave the following proof or explanation in support of his position "That if Christ had really meant to declare that the Bread had become his body how could he be holding up his flesh and blood in the presence of his deciples &c. To this I say that it is a question better becoming an infidel than a Christian. The deciples had great and unshaken faith. They were confident that nothing was impossible with their master, St. Mark x, 27. They believed in the incomprehensible power of God They faithfully believed that Christ was able to convert the Bread and wine into his Body and Blood, although he was himself present with them in person St. John vi. 52—56. His language in respect to the Bread and Wine being his real Body and Blood is plain and unambiguous. I ask "A Churchman" and his Catechist to read the following with attention. St. Matt. xxviii. 26—28. St. Mark xiv. 22—24.

I trust "A Churchman" will now be able to see clearly that his worthy Catechist has not been able to prove to me that the Roman Catholic religion is full of errors according to his allegation.

Thanking you Mr Editor for granting space to this letter.

Yours truly,
A PROTESTANT.

Bonthe,
11th March 1889.

AGRICULTURE AGAIN.

I have not heard since I wrote on the 8th of February whether anyone has decided to try any of my suggestions, or not but I have heard the article favorably spoken of, which, at least, is evidence that it has been read by some and this is in fact an encouragement in a country like this where so few will even read what is suggestive of good or may be useful. The suggestions of my last article it will be remembered, were that planting and farming be undertaken on a small and inexpensive scale; so as to open the way to greater numbers, and thus the enterprise would become more general, a thing most desirable at present in this part of Africa, where the tendency of every one is to go into petty Trading which has now apparently at least had its day, I may however say, that with the establishment of agricultura, petty trade will revive and commerce ingeneral will increase turn-overs will be more rapid and with more satisfactory results. The great demand of to-day is more producers and fewer consumers and nothing else seems more promising on this line than agriculture; for there is nothing else in which the masses may so readily engage, as in planting crops and fruit trees and growing cows, pigs, sheep and goats. And in such any number of men may engage with a good prospect of success if they will only stick to their business for a few years in some of the out-of-the-way places or anywhere that sufficient land may be obtained for cultivation.

Yours, J ALBERT.

"A Churchman's" letter Reviewed.

Sir,—The errors in the Roman Catholic religion pointed out by "A Churchman's Catechist in his letter of your last issue, I have carefully perused. But Sir, allow me small space in your journal to extirpate from the minds of those better disposed inquirers of what he contradictingly labors to explain Catholic Doctrine.

The Eucharist.—It is necessary to remark that according to the Catholic belief, Jesus Christ in the blessed sacrament is not partly contained under one species and partly under another that is to say Christ is with his body—deprived of his blood under the species of bread and with his blood without his body under the species of wine separately, but he is in the blessed sacrament whole and entire with his divinity, soul, body and blood under either of the species and that it is so by the necessity or exigency of the case, that is by the virtue of the existing mutual inseparability called concomitance which means that the body and blood of human soul and divine nature of Christ must always go together. The reason is because not the dead body of Christ made present by consecration but his living body with his body, soul, and dvinity which after his resurrection are never to be separated again from each other. This might be called inseparableness that is the impossibility of the body and blood, soul and divinity of Christ ever being separated.

It is part of the doctrine of the incarnation that the inseparability (arising from what is known as "hypostatic union") of the two natures, divine and human, in Christ is such that His Divinity can never be separted from his humanity, nor from any part of it, even when those parts were separated from each other as occurred at Christ's resurrection, that inseparability became still more close nor even admitting the possibility of any part of his manhood being ever for an instance separated from each other. St. Paul assures us of it when he says "Christ rising again from the dead dieth no more (Rom. vi. 9.)" His soul can no longer be separated from his body or blood, nor His blood from His body, as it was at His death on Calvary. His glorified human nature does not admit of mutilation or separation of its parts, so that the Body and Blood, and soul, and Divinity of Christ must always remain united. I assure "A Churchman's" Catechist that he knows very little or nothing of what he labors to explain, namely Catholic doctrine. But as yet there is a remnant with him of the ancient faith, which I hope he shall one day see his folly of speaking lightly against, so grand a thing as it is a serious matter. However let him reject Christ, the holy spirit in the Eucharist, and holy communion which is a mystery revealed to the former apostles handed down to us by their successors, and the consequence are more, bread and wine without the spirit divine, and "where Christ is not, is but a barren tree which bringeth no fruit." Touching the doctrine of confession, I am surprised about "A Churchman's" catechist's objection If he can reflect a little upon the past year 1888, when the Rev. Jas. Johnson came to Sherbro among his so called best evangelical devotions, was it not the the reading of papers of general confessions of the people to him directly! which "A Churchman's" catechist did not and dare not oppose, and to his best knowledge can't call this statement erroneous. The question then is A Churchman's catechist against a continual or limited confession to a minister or servant of God! Now a few words to A Churchmans name. Why hide your name, your catechist said &c What is your opinion!

Yours,
Bonthe, WILLIAM.
Mar. 8, '89.

Mr. Hy. Burnett Agt, the African Steam Ship Company, paid a visit to this place on the 12th inst and in company with Capt. Paterson of the s. s. Formoso gave us a call. We were very pleased to see them in health; they seem to be much interested in the success of the Company's business.

NEWS ITEMS.

Koneonany.—A police constable arrived here at 5. p. m. on the 2nd inst from Senehoo with intelligence that the Governor would in a few days lench this place.

Sulymah.—It is reported that a man who was beaten by Capt. Crawford, died the next day from the effects of the same.

s. s. Rownald arrived from Freetown via Shaingay on the 3rd with Mails &c. left again on her return on the 5th inst.

Geo. M. Domingo of Bompehtooke was in this place about 5th inst.

Feb. 28th—Unusually interesting services, at the M. M. School Room, quite a large number of persons were forward for prayers, seven of whom professed peace.

Mar. 1st—Revd S. B. Morrison of Avery Station preached at the M. M. School Room to an overflowing gathering, the interest was very great some sixteen persons professed to have found peace.

2nd.—Mrs Amanda Smith held special Childrens' services at 3 p. m. much interest was manifested.

Special Quarterly services of the U. B. C. at M. M. School Room on the 3rd inst.

Mar. 3. —s. s. "Ronald" from Freetown with mails—Mr. J. W. Johnson, was a passenger by her.

5th—Ronald left for Freetown with mails Freight &c.

s. s. Formoso arrived from Freetown with Mails &c.

6th—Mrs A Smith the Evangelist held special services for native laborers &c. at the M. M. School Room.

6th—Formoso left for Freetown Mr. & Mrs. T. E. Macfoy were passengers by the same for Sierra Leone.

7.—"Countess of Derby" arrived with His Excellency Govr. Hay.

8.—Coroner Moseley, Dr. A. Wykham, Mr Rocks, and jurymen left per Colonial Steam Launch for Lavanah to hold an inquest on the remains of one Walker deceased, who died by excessive flogging and ill treatment.

9.—"Countess of Derby" for Freetown with Mails.

10.—Coroner Moseley Dr. Wykham and jurors returned from Lavanah.

Died recently, in Freetown infant son of Mr. T. E. Macfoy we sympathize with the parents and friends.

11.—Mr. G. H. Garrett, Travelling Commissioner arrived per "Countess of Derby"

12.—Rev. J. C. Thomas returned from Freetown per s. s. "Formoso."

13.—s. s. Formoso for Freetown with mails and passengers.

Mr. T. E. Macfoy of the firm of Paterson Zochonis & Com pany Lmt'd left for Freetown last week per the Formoso, also Mr. C. S. Brown junr.

It is rumoured that the pastorate of Sherbro has been offered to and accepted by the Rev. G. J. Macaulay of Kissy.

13.—His Excellency left for the Sulymah District in the Colonial Steam Launch.

7.—Rev W. S. Macauley and wife arrived here from the Imperch. Mrs Macauley, we regret to note, suffering quite severely from tooth-ache & cold.

Evangelistic Services closed in this place on Friday the 8th with an interesting all-day meeting; much good, we believe, has been done during the season of the services.

FOR THE "EARLY DAWN."

In some seasons of the year it can be clearly seen that there are sometimes dark and cloudy days, as if the sun was removed from its place or forgot its power to shine;—the very sun of February and March, yet, nevertheless, the sun shines with its brilliant lustre as hitherto in its fixed position throughout the year.

The life of a true Christian is sometimes made dark and cloudy by affliction, bereavement, persecution, poverty, war, famine, injustice, malignity man's inhumanity to man, and the like. But a true child of God stands at all times and under all circumstances, knowing in whom he trust, and with full hope aspiring after a better life beyond, to be enjoyed forever.

The Saviour walks on earth endured a life of suffering;...the night in Gethsemane—his sweat as it were great drops of blood falling down to the ground.—Oh! what tragedy.—His nailing on the tree, and ignominious death on the cross. "Now from the sixth hour there was darkness over all the land unto the ninth hour." But as William Hamilton observed before his death the darkness had cleared away. As the sun of nature sheds once more his illuminating beams upon the cross, even so the light of an answering heart joyfully comes to cheer in death the spirit of our Redeemer. It is not in darkness, but in full, clear, undisturbed light that Jesus dies." His body now laid in the tomb. How dark and cloudy those days were? Who can estimate the joy of Easter morning? It fills earth and heaven, time and eternity, as the Saviour burst the barriers of the tomb and rose triumphantly from the dead to die no more, thereby bestowing the Son of God with power and the first fruits of them that slept. The gates of heaven were thrown wide open for the reception of the King of Glory. He now lives in heaven exalted high. Hallelujah! what a Saviour! If we suffer we shall also reign with him." in making Christ our pattern, we must live in him alone. Self interest must be buried deep in the earth. Let the worldlings do as they please; but let us live brotherly (as having one common Father, God) and in the fear of the Lord; with one eye having one aim (i. e.) to conquer the world for Jesus.—Knowing, that if they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament and they that turn many to righteousness, as the stars for ever and ever." Let us do all the good we can; glorious results will crown our efforts, nd we shall in no wise lose our reward.

J. B. W. JOHNSON

Palli
Feb 14. 1889.

DEPARTURE OF Bp. D. K. FLICKINGER, D.D. and the Rev. J. GOMER & wife.

The above named parties left Freetown by the s. s. 'Niger' on the 11th inst homeward bound; they will spend a little time in England, and the Bishop will go over to the continent to hold the German conference; in the meantime Revd. J. Gomer will we believe, fill a few engagements in London in the interest of Missions. After which the whole party will D.V. proceed to the United States where they will attend the U. B. Board of Missions and the General Conference also, before proceeding to Dayton Ohio, the headquarters of the Missionary Society. We wish them a pleasant Voyage, or Voyages as well as every pleasure and success in their glorious work for the Master's cause. We shall need their help and counsels in our work here but rely upon their prayers for us.

We regret very much the circumstances attending the death of a Krooman at Lavanah, one Walker that was beaten by Capt Crawford or his order, and afterward salted. We are not however in a position, to give an account of the affair, in this issue; but can scarcely believe that any sane man could have done such an inhuman act as this is reported to have been.

Save me next.

A beautiful incident is told of a little child upon a lately wrecked steamer. The boats were taking the passengers away as fast as they could, every one crowding forward intent on his own salvation. One after another was passed down while the neglected child stood waiting her turn. The vessel rocked to and fro on the eve of going to the bottom Seeing no chance of escape, the little one stretched out her hands and cried "Save me next."

It is a cry that ought to go up from millions of hearts. The bark of life will go down some day, and if we are not saved in Christ we will be eternally lost. It is a cry that those of us who are saved might hear on every hand. It comes from that miserable, trembling, half palsied debauchee, who must have —will have—rum. He curse his fate and drinks again, even while he cries out in agony against the chain that binds him as with fetters of brass, "Save me next!" Strong arms must be held out to such. None but God may save the rum-crazed wretch. We may do much to bring him to the Father, who turns no one away. The cry comes again from that gaudily-dressed woman whose words are possibly louder than her dress. She may not ask to be saved; she may not want to be saved but she needs to be. None but herself and God know how much. The call is to some christian woman to lead her to Him who will say, "Thy sins are forgiven thee."

Left to Himself.

Judge S. gave his son a thousand dollars, telling him to go to college and graduate. The son returned at the end of the freshmn's year without a dollar, and with several bad habits.

At the close of the vacation the judge said, "Well, William are you going to college this year?"

"I have no money, father."

"But I gave you a thousand dollars to graduate on."

"It is all gone, father."

"Very well, my son. It was all I could give you. You can't stay here. You must pay your own way in the world.

A light broke upon the xision of the astonished young man. He accommodated himself to the situation, left home, commenced to work in at earnest, made his way to college, graduated at the head of his class, studied law, become governor of the State of New York, entered the cabinet of the President of the United States, and made a record for himself that will not soon die, he being none other than Wm. H. Seward.

The Right Spirit.

The son of a poor man in western Pennsylvania, sooh after his conversion, said, "Father, I want to subscribe toward our pastor's salary."

"Very well. How much can you give?"

"If you will give me a small patch of ground to work, I can pay five dollars."

The ground was given, and the boy with his own hands worked it. When his crop of corn, potatoes, and cabbage was marketed, it brought him fifteen dollars!

"The blessinp of the Lord, it maketh rich, and he added no sorrow with it" (Prov. x, 22.)

ALPHA Factory.

York Island
SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

F. & A. SWANZY

GEO. LEACH

Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogsheads of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogsheads of about 550 lbs. nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand— in similar packages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the Up-River Traders, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A. SWANZY.

ALPHA FACTORY.

FADING LEAVES.

By Rev. Newman Hall.

Nature is a book of parables. If its laws are not identical with those of the spiritual world, its analogies illustrate that world. The morning mist quickly disappearing, the rapid flood, the evening shadows, the grain soon cut down and the flower withering, are obvious emblems of the brevity of life. So also is the foliage of autumn "We all do fade as a leaf." All leaves fade of the mighty oak as of the bramble of the fragrant rose as of the nettle. Kings and rulers perish with the humblest of their subjects; those who tower high above their fellows equally with those whose lot is the most obscure and who win no praise. The leaf is beautiful in structure form and color yet it fades; so does the human body, still more wonderfully made. What varied changes does the leaf undergo! A tiny bud unfolding its silken softness; glittering in the spring sunshine breathing the fragrance of the blossoms; listening to the music of blackbird or thrush nestling in its convert; then watching the blossoms fall; scorch by the summer sun; smitten by the thunder-storm, drenched by the ain then bruised by the blasts of autumn and nipped by the frosts of approaching winter, till it fades and falls! Even so the life of man unfolds from infancy, is arrayed in the flowers of childhood and the hopeful blossoms of youth, is worn and wrinkled by the cares and labors of after-years, by seasons when the heats are scorching and there is little dew, and showers are rare; when storms of disappointment burst on it and the leaf trembles and sighs to be released. Life often ends prematurely. The caterpillar devours the bud, the frosts of spring kill the tender leaf, the lightning flash burns it up, the hail bruises it, or, long before autumn-time, it yields to the long drought and the hot, hot sun!

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers to wither at the at the [north wind's breath;
The stars to set—but all—
Thou hast all reasons for thine own,
O Death!"

The sight of falling leaves is saddening, yet if we really fade as they, there is cause for grateful rejoicing. The leaf fades when its work is done. It has an important function as the lungs of the tree. The sap circulating through its surface receives the oxygen breathed in from the atmosphere. This combines with the carbon and by the influence of light is so changed as to be capable of depositing new material as the vitalizing current descends behind the bark, forming each year an additional ring round the stem. Thus every leaf, however weak and small helps to build up the solid tree. The strongest portion of the oak is formed by the weakest. So the soul of man, breathing the air of heaven, and basking in the sun of righteousness, by a divine chemistry transforms the natural into the spiritual, and and not only becomes strong but insensibly builds up the great tree of humanity, the nation and the Church. Each single leaf, the young, the small, the obscure, renders help, and adds to the beauty of the forest tho' in itself unobserved. And each one of us by righteousness and love to help may beautify the moral world, and make the wilderness rejoice. Let us not care to be noticed individually. If only we are doing our little part let us be content. The weary traveler sheltering in the heat of noon beneath some overshadowing tree is refreshed by every leaf. And we do not live in vain if we have helped to make life less burdensome and have comforted any of God's children, the least of Christ's brethren, in the dusty highway. We need not regret if we do fade as a leaf fulfilling its purpose ere it falls.

Life may be brightest at its close. Many a grub ends in the radiant butterfly; many a cloudy day in the gorgeous sunset. And how lovely are the leaves of autumn in decay! What painter can adequately paint us this transformation scene! How varied the tints! How the rich browns, the vivid yellows the blazing crimsons mingle with the tender tones of lingering green how the dying fire of life blazes out in beauty at the last!

This results from the action of frost and rain and wind Without the trials there would not be the tints. This is the purpose of God in affliction. Sorrows do much to produce the "Peaceable fruits of righteousness" and the beauties of holiness." Can there be in our present state the highest forms of spiritual beauty without affection? It our autumn exhibit not the deformity of decay but the beauty of ripeness, if our character glow with faith and hope and love, if when the leaf is about to fall we are more humble, pure, unselfish, pitiful, Christlike, we need not regret that we thus fade as the leaf.

The leaf fades in hope. when it separates from the tree it leaves a new germ for the coming spring and in its own decay forms fresh soil for future foliage. We also may live in posterity. But more than this. The leaf perishes in its individuality, but we live on. Every separate leaf will grow again. "Sown a natural body, it is raised a spiritual body," in that world where there will be no more biting frosts, and raging storms, and fading leaves, but where "Everlasting spring abides and never withering flower."—The Independent.

APPOINTMENTS.

SHAINGAY DISTRICT.

Shaingay,	April 6th & 7th.
Manoh,	„ 8th
Tongkoloh	„ 10th
Charmany,	„ 11th
Kooloonge,	„ 13th & 14th
Matacong,	„ 16th
Mocobo,	„ 17th
Mo-Fuss,	„ 18th
Mambo,	„ 20th & 21st
Rembee,	„ 22nd.

W. S. SAGE, P.E.

NOTICE.

From this date until further notice, the Rev. J. A. Evans will act as General Agent for the Shaingay Mission District. Persons knowing themselves to be indebted to the Mission, or having any other Business will settle, or confer with him or his representatives.

J. GOMER.

Shaingay,
Feb. 28, '89.

ADVERTISEMENT SCALE.

Reduced rates.

(FOR EACH INSERTION.)

	£	s	d
A whole page	1	10	0
A whole column	0	8	0
Half a column	0	5	0
One-fourth of a column	0	3	0
One-eighth of a column	0	2	6
Marriage	0	2	6
Births and deaths	0	1	0
Domestic servants wanted	0	1	0
Servants wanting situations	0	1	0

Each notice should not exceed 4 lines every additional line or part of a line extra.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. VI. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, MARCH 31, 1889. No. 6.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At

BONTHE, SHERBRO,

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto. deliv'd in Bonthe,	0	2	6

Address:—Communications to J. A. Evans, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe Sherbro, West Africa.—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gomer, Shaingay, Mr. E. A. Lewis, Freetown, West Africa. Rev. Wm. McKee Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner	The Commandant.
Colon Clerk.	H. J. W. Rocke
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Buckner.
Sub-Treas. & Cod. Chief Clerk	J. D. Macaulay.
Tele Walkers.	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & J. J. Warburton.
Asst. Enumr. Officer Solyman Jasper Caulker
Assistant Col. Surgeon. R. C. S.	M. L. Jarrett, M
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police	M. E. Betts.
Usher	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Vacant.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.)
Good Hope
Pastor, Rev R. C. Taylor

LETTERS TO YOUNG MINISTERS.

CHURCHLINESS AGAIN.

A proper "churchliness" implies not simply a proper estimation of one's own denomination in comparison with that of others, but also the importance and reciprocal relations of the different departments of church-work. It will be a great mistake if you fall into the belief that you have discharge your whole pastoral duty if you have preached well and visited faithfully parishioners. There is a species of exceeding narrowness possible here. I have known ministers who made thorough preparation for the pulpit, who delivered their sermons effectively, who visited systematically, but who apparently had no sympathy whatever for the general church-work. They gave no sign of interest in the cause of missions, scarcely even exerting themselves to raise their missionary assessment. They did not attend missionary meetings when it was possible to avoid them. The same preachers did not specially care for the Sunday-school work; were as often absent as present in the school; rarely attended Sunday-school conventions.—had no enthusiasm for this branch of the church-work. They gave the church-erection work the cold shoulder. As for the educational work, that received from them a sneer; they set themselves against it whenever in their cowardly selfishness they thought it not dangerous to do so. Instead of preaching in these interests they always remained as silent as a ghostless grave on them. Instead of privately commending them to their people when visiting among them, they would pander to their prejudices. Like Moses, when about to slay the Egyptian, first looking this way and that way, to see that there was no man near, they proceeded to stab under the fifth rib, or somewhere there, the missionary society. The larger portion of the money collected off the struggling people, whose eyes stand out with fatness, is squandered, they whisper, in taking for the general interest of the society. As for the schools of the church, they do the best they can by whisperings, by inuendo, by direct thrusts, to cut the jugular vein of the wooly movement.

Now, this is no fancy sketch. There are just such men yet occupying United Brethren pulpits. But a man with no more breadth of view than this, no more sympathy with the general interest of the Church in her effort to extend the kingdom of Christ, or to build up his cause is out of place in the ministry.

You should, therefore, early in your ministry, indeed, from the first, adopt views of your relations broad enough to cover all the aims and work of the church. Go heartily and earnestly into the Sunday-School work. Take such part in it as you can every Sabbath. Take an interest in the work as your superintendents and teachers. Attend Sunday-school conventions to give instruction if you can, and to receive some, if you are of that large number who still need it. At least you may give or receive some additional enthusiasm. There is a screw loose somewhere in the pastoral machinery if the pastor is not wide awake to the Sunday-school work. In regards to missions, you should fill your self full of missionary information, and missionary zeal. Preach on missions, talk about missions, pray for missions year in and year out, on all appropriate occasions, and if such occasions do not often spontaneously occur, then make them. Do not shut your eyes to the matter of church-erection. Study it till the importance of it gets into your very bones and marrow, and then judiciously work away at it without ceasing. If you are a college or seminary graduate you will scarcely need to be exhorted to keep abreast of the educational movement in the church. But if you are not a graduate of some school, it may be you will not fully appreciate your relation th this work. This need not necessarily be the case, as is, indeed, indicated by the earnest and enthusiastic efforts on the part of many students whose educational facilities have not been what they could have wished them to be. Hunt up the young people on your charge who ought to go to college. Try to inspire them with high aims; try to induce them to educate themselves; show them that the best earthly blessing, next to the love of God in the heart, is a liberal education. Talk to the parents, and show them the value and benefits, for time and eternity, of a good education. Talk up the interests of our theological seminary, and of beneficiary education. Are these requirements too heavy for you? Is all this an impossibility? Many pastors in the church show by their success that it is not only possible, but entirely practicable. You see you are not to go trudging over your charge with your eyes closed in sleep and slumber, nor even with one eye thus closed, but you should be wide awake.

"Let us then be up and doing."

—Amicus—In Telescope.

REVA.

Sunday was, on the whole, rather an ordinary day, with few if any events worthy of notice, save that there were important strangers, camping as it were at the mission, for there was no person at the time occupying the Mission House to entertain the company that had gathered there on that occasion. To however return to my story, the presence of strangers in the place attracted a goodly number of people from the neighboring villages and towns but evidently most of them only came out of idle curiosity, to see the strangers a few however, came to see Mr. Coxwill as he had some years before conducted the affairs of Reva and was widely known for his exploits especially in erecting the Mill of which I must speak later on. Services were held of course on Sunday, by the missionary strangers, Dr. Kulmer preached in the morning to about four dozen persons perhaps; in the afternoon Mr. Sepher preached to a less number. Mr. Cox will talked a little after each of the preachers, and announced and announced the meeting to be held the next day, and in this all seemed more interested than in the preaching. The cold indifference of the people during the religious services of the Sabbath, together with the worthlessness pervading the people, and even the missionary party, except Rev. Mr. Sepher, saddened the heart of Mr. Van Albert more and more as the days passed on, hence he had little to say at any time, although Dr. Kumler tried to have him appear differently.

Monday finally came and about ten or eleven o'clock, a far larger number of people, had gathered than were present on the previous day, indeed quite a congregation were assembled in Reva Chapel and all had eyes, ears, and some their mouths open to hear all that was to be said. There was no formal organization of the meeting, but Dr Kulmer rather presided, while the aged Mr. Coxwill, the founder of Reva, played the important part of Chief Speaker. He stated very clearly the object of the meeting to be the introduction of the New Missionary Authorities to the people of the community; he made it plain, that a change had taken place in far off America, by which these strangers had now become the owners of Reva, but he assured them that Dr. Kulmer their principal was a good man and would send good people to live at Reva both to do business, and to preach to them, he then informed them that as Dr. Kulmer, did not reside in the country, Mr Sepher would be the big man for the Missionaries in the country and that he had long been in the country and was a great and good man for the people and he would come and see them now and then and would see how they and their missionary got on together, and if there were any complaint he would hear and settle them. Mr. Coxwill introduced Mr. Van Albert as the Missionary who would come to reside at Reva and do as he had done before, and Mr. Van Albert would buy and sell to them honestly as he would pay them good money (merchandise). A few words were spoken by the other missionaries. Then the cutsance or present consisting of several pieces of cloth and a hat or two with other suitable notions, among which was a goodly number of colored cotton handkerchiefs, black wool caps &c., but of course no tobacco or any kind of drink was offered to them, and Mr. Coxwill made them to understand that the missionaries would never offer them any kind of thing as it was a very bad thing and that God would not be pleased with them if they should handle such; so now there was the present to show the strangers to them. He then asked them whether they would accept it, or not? and what they had to say? They agreed at once to accept the present and the strangers stand with a few words each from a few of the leading men, promised to hold the strangers good, and were glad that Mr. Coxwill had brought them good strangers and wished God to bless him for doing so; they then received the present and the meeting dispersed. The Missionary party feeling that they had made a proper beginning but fearing that Mr. Van Albert would not be able to succeed with the people as he did not seem to make a favorable personal impression

TENNIE.

.....Editor (writing to eminent literary man): "If you will send us a story—say 1,500 to 2,000 words—we will pay you $300. You understand that this is $295 for the use of your name and $5 for the story—our usual rates." Literary man I regret to say that I have no time or inclination to write the story, but I inclose my name, which you may use, and in return send check for $295.

Religion is the best armor that a man can have, but it is the worst cloak.

The Early Dawn.

MONTHLY. SHERBRO.

Mar. 31. 1889.

THE CRAWFORD CASE.

We have in our last issue, expressed our regrets, of the unfortunate circumstances of the case of Capt. Crawford, late of the Sulymah District. Who it is reported ordered his servant, a kroo boy of about 17 years of age, to be severely punished for theft of the most aggravating nature, that the boy after being punished beyond mercy, reason, or common sense, died. And according to the verdict of the coroner's inquest died from the effects or result of the severe punishment ordered it is said by Capt. Crawford. Unfortunately, however, Capt. Crawford was not present at the coroner's inquest to give his own statement of the case or to hear those who gave evidence belo e the inquest. Considering these and several other facts in the case before us we have been slow to advance an opinion as to the extent of guilt of any one connected with the punishment of the poor unfortunate boy, but it appears certain that others beside Capt. Crawford were party to the affair, and it would seem but right that all concerned should at least answer for the part they had taken in this matter.

We have given this matter much thought & have enquired into it carefully as far as we could and we confess that it seems to us that it will require great skill to obtain anything like the truth in the ca e, but it would seem very hard indeed to see Captain Crawford after all the good he has accomplished in the Sulymah District, in putting down the insurgents, to become the victim, of a single mistake, or what would be worse of personal revenge. Of course we are aware that he will be entitled to a trial in the courts of the Settlement and to have as we are informed a jury composed in part of his own countrymen; but with all this it seems extremely doubtful to us as to whether a fair trial can be obtained in these settlements for lack of sufficient sympathy in the various communities, and while it may be argued that Capt. Crawford's course at the Sulymah has brought about this state of things, yet it must be admitted that the worst of men are entitled to a fair trial.

Again although it is lawful to try Capt Crawford here, and if guilty punish him, but is such a thing expedient, under the present circumstances or condition of the River Districts? Would not such a course be misinterpreted by the natives and lead to an early rupture of the peace, lately secured thro' the efforts in a great part of Capt. Crawford?

Report of AVERY STATION Mendi Mission, Bargroo, for the Quarter ending March 1889.

Mr President,

In taking a review of our labors during this quarter, I am happy to state that the work in this Station has prospered despite many discouragements.

The principal members have steadily kept up their numbers; and though we mourn over the drawbacks of many still we find cause for thankfulness and encouragement. There has been a general cheerfulness to hear the word throughout our little circuits and some have felt the necessity to contribute willingly towards the cause. I regret to mention that in some of these places we shall close a few classes for want of sufficient labourers. We have not been able to visit Sinkim and and other places, since the year commenced, nevertheless it is pleasing to state that our attendance is good.

We sincerely desire more of the Holy Spirit's influence to convert sinners and dead believers in the right way. Number of Seekers' classes 21: Members 330: Com: 23. Total 353.

DAY SCHOOL.—Since the Supply of books reached us, there seems to be new life in this department, and but for a few that left us abruptly we cannot report about numerical increase. Number of both sexes 40.

Our Sabbath School continue good. No. of Teachers & officers 3; Scholars 42 Total 45.

Mis. Aid Collection	£2.11. 0
Light collection	0. 6. 8½
Class Pence	0.10. 0½
Sabbath School Col.	0. 0. 6½
Preachers Salary	0. 9. 6½
	£3. 17 10

S. B. MORRISON

Our readers will kindly excuse the small number of News Items in this issue as our jottings are very few.

Churchman's Reviewers Reviewed.

Dear Mr. Editor,—I am really too glad that the subject on "Confessing to a Priest" and the "Eucharist" have been handled by a "Protestant" and another correspondent who signed "William."

As I have 2 individuals to combat with and I am single handed, I must begin with A "Protestant."

In the first place I would like "A Protestant" to tell me "against what religion does he protest." Does he protest against the Roman Catholic religion? If so why does he advocate the erroneous doctrine taught in their Church.

From this you will find that he is labouring to gain the favour of those whom he is trying to defend. However you will allow me only a small space to reply to his so called defence of the very religion he protests against.

I.—Confessing to a Priest.

I am ashamed of "A Protestant" when he writes that a priest has the power to forgive sins, and he quoted John xx. 22–23. The verses reads thus:—"And when he (Christ) had said this, he breathed on them and saith unto them Receive ye the Holy Ghost. Whosoever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them, and whosoever sins ye retain they are retained." This is the passage of scripture "A Protestant" quoted to support his ground. But let me explain this passage to him in order that his eyes may be enlightened. It only means this, that such promises belongs to the Apostles alone inasmuch as their inspiration of God placed them on a different footing from their successors in the ministry. The general declaration of forgiveness to all who repent and believe is still entrusted to the minister of Christ, but he has no authority to pronounce the application of this message to individual cases of men whose thoughts he cannot discern and whose motives he cannot scrutinise. Any attempt thus to usurp the Divine prerogative is presumption on the part of such as make it.

Again, it is man's duty to make confession to God and in case of wrongs done unto men, also in case of troubles or doubts we may confess to a minister in order that he may comfort him under his trials—for God has declared that if the wicked forsake his (evil) ways and turn unto Him, he shall have mercy. Isa. i. 16–18. & lv. 7.

St. Paul also in God's name, promiseth "Believe on the Lord Jesus and thou shalt be saved." Acts xvi. 31. and in Romans x. 13, it is written "Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved."

And how dare "A Protestant" (in the face of all these proofs) to believe that he that doth all these things shall not be saved unless he confesses to a priest?

The terms upon which Christ offered and promised salvation are "Repent and Believe."

The reference "A Protestant" and "William" made to the visit of the Rev. Jas. Johnson in 1886, bears no Rule to the subject in question, for he never declared that those who confessed to him were pardoned, for he had not such power. Lastly, it would appear from "A Protestant's" argument that they made God to depend on the priest, by the "priests being judges and God the approver."

It seems also then that if the priest should grow surly or envious and deny me pardon, Christ cannot help me for he hath given the power out of his hands.

Again, nothing is more familiar in scripture than for God's ministers to be said to do that which they do authoritatively declare that God will do. Thus God saith to Jeremiah "I have this day set thee over kingdoms to root out and to destroy." Jer. i. 10. that is, by declaring that God would do it.

In like manner God's ministers are said to bind and loose John xx. 22, 23. because they have from God full authority to declare a sinner to be loosed by his sins or loosed from them, which if they declare truly and according to God's word, God in heaven doth and will make it good.

So far have I proved from scriptures that ministers have no power to forgive sins.

Let me come again to the "Eucharist" or Holy Communion:—

I do not see anything in "A Protestant's" or "William's" argument that would convince me that the Bread and Wine used at the Communion are changed into the real body and blood of Christ, but let me ask those two correspondents.—How is it possible for the bread and wine to be converted into Christ's body which was made before the bread.

That Christ could have turned water into wine was possible, but that he should turn that water into such wine as was in being before that change, is impossible. The passage of scriptures upon which "Protestant" and his colleague based their arguments is from St. Luke xxii. 19. where Christ said to his disciples "This is my body." Now I say, if it were true that Christ did turn the bread into his body by saying these words, why does it not follow that the priest by reciting these words worketh the same effect every time they used the words "Let there be light" Gen. i. 3. doth not make light, or that every time he reads the words "Lazarus come forth" he does not raise up a dead man to life, and also when Christ saith "I am the true vine."—"I am the good shepherd"—"I am the light of the world"—"I am the bright and morning star." Did he mean that he was a real Door, a real Vine &c?

No, I understand him to speak of a door, a vine &c as fitting illustration of his character and work. Just so when Jesus said of the bread, "This is my body" he affirmed it to be an emblem of his human nature, a suitable emblem in two respects, 1st. It was bread and thus represented the spiritual nourishment Christ furnishes. 2nd It was bread broken and thus set forth his human frame.—More again.

Yours,
Bonthe, A CHURCHMAN.
Mar. 28, '89.

Correction.—An Error it appears in our last impression, of a correspondence signed A Protestant, near the end of the last Paragraph, but one our Types make a Protestant to quote St Matt. xxviii 26—28 which is wrong, it should have read St. Matt. xxvi 26–28. But we must say here that we cannot always make such corrections and that our correspondents must not expect it.

The Editor was absent on a visit to Freetown from the 21st to 27th inst. but has since returned.

NEWS ITEMS.

Frontier Police Force.—Recently we had a glance at a lately Issued police Regulation, or Instructions as we believe it is called: It was headed Frontier Police Force as near as our memory serves us. The heading struck us forcibly as indicating a better day for this Colony, by supplying a long felt need; a regularly organized Police force on the frontier whose business it should be to patrol certain distances and so arranged that a connection would be formed guarding the entire frontier from the Manoh river on the south-east, to Sarcies on the north-west; Such indeed the frontier police force appears to be and have well defined Instructions to guide them in their duties.

Apology.—We regret that a Communication, from Bompeitook, by Mr. A. F. Campbell giving an account of a visit to Otterbein Station by Bishop Flickinger D.D. & Bev. J Gomer before their departure was mislaid and hence did not appear in our last issue.

Manoh Gbargroo.—It is very dry and hot in that section now. The Saw mills are on that account doing but little business as the water in the streams is indeed very low. Several fine roads have been opened in that section and others no doubt will be in the near future. There were interesting Communion services at Avery Mission Station on the 17th inst.

From the "Independent."

SISTERHOODS.

BY A ROMAN CATHOLIC LAYMAN.

The lives of the founders of religious orders show that they had very stormy times, and that they were for the most part persecuted, during their lives, by their ecclesiastical superiors. After their suffering existence was ended, they were honored and canonized by their infallible denouncers. Nor was it given to these much enduring women to have the consolation given to Saint Theresa, who beheld so many bishops, not merely in Purgatory, but in hell. Clearly her revelations were not calculated to gain additional grace for her from the objects of her denunciations. Hence she was threatened, more than once, with the Inquisition.

The religious orders, whether of men or women in the Roman Catholic Church, are divided into two classes—the active orders, or those who work, and the contemplative orders, or those who pray. Each order has its well-defined rules and objects, and each should have its harmonious place in the great plan of the Roman Church. There is one thing, however, which even Infallibility cannot accompilsh; it cannot change human nature, despite all its graces and religious sacraments. Human nature, being fallible, fails sometimes when sublime tests are demanded from it.

The work of the active orders is best known in our country. Who that need the ministration of woman's hands and the love of woman's heart, when North and South met as men but not as brothers, but has his record of the Sisters of Charity. How the work of those devoted women helped to keep up the prestige of the Catholic Church in America has scarcely been considered.

Of late years the mission of contemplative orders has decreased. Either it is supposed that the world of heresy is past praying for, or that it can be best reached by good works. New convents of contemplative orders are rarely founded. Some of the oldest and most astute are taking to nineteenth century utilitarian work, and as a necessary consequence seeking for dispensations from their vigils and their fasts. In Ireland this has been notably the case, the Carmelites, the Poor Clares and others, once contemplative orders, are now doing as much active work, in one sense, at least, as the Sisters of Charity; their fasts and prayers having all been dispensed with by the Holy See. In Italy and Belgium a few contemplative orders linger on and retain their ancient rule. These religious women look down with a great deal of quiet contempt on their sisters who abandoned the ancient rule, even tho the changes had the approbation of the Holy See.

And here it should be observed that there are a not inconsiable number of Roman Catholics, who, while they loudly proclaim their loyalty to the Pope and his decisions when those decisions suit their own views, are no means willing to submit to decisions of which they do not approve. In fact, they have the highest possible respect for the decisions of the Pope, and are lost in admiration of his wisdom when it coincides with their own, but when a decision is given contrary to their wishes as they do not dare to oppose it openly, they bend all their energies to injure the person or the doctrine. Witness the case of Rosmini, persecuted during his life with ceaseless acrimony, and even at his death persecuted with untiring animosity.—

From the "Weekly News."

Church Missionary Society,
Fourah Bay College,
March 2, 1889.

Dear Sir,—I beg to inform you that according to the resolutions of the C.M.S. Society, dated November 12, 1885, the Patronage Board which met here on Friday the 1st instant has appointed you to the Pastorate station of Bonthe, Sherbro, with its out-stations.

From a regard to your private and personal circumstances, with which the Board is not intimately acquainted, the Board will be willing to consider anything which you think would be likely to influence it not to ask the Bishop for his consent to your appointment without which consent the appointment would not be carried into effect.

It is not necessary for me to point out to you what a special opportunity the Sherbro district will afford for your devotion and energy; as you are probably much better acquainted with that district than I am. But you are aware how entirely of one mind the members of the Board were that in your hands the work of that district might be expected to prosper.—Believe me, yours faithfully,

FRANK NEVILL,
Chairman, B. P.

The Rev. G. J. M'Cauley,
Kissy.

The Parsonage, Kissy,
March 3, 1889.

Dear Sir,—In reply to your letter of March 2, informing me that according to the Resolutions of the C.M.S. dated November 12, 1885, the Patronage Board which met at yours on Friday the 1st instant has appointed me to the Pastorate Station of Bonthe, Sherbro, with its out-stations; and that the Board will be willing to consider anything I think would be likely to influence it not to ask the Bishop for his consent to my appointment, &c.

I have the honour to state for your information of the Board, that as a Memorial having reference to the said "resolutions," has been addressed by the Major portion of us to the Bishop of Sierra Leone under date January 16, 1889, enclosed copy of which he was asked to do us the favour of forwarding respectively to His Grace the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury, and the Committee of the C. M. S. the receipt of which he has acknowledged Beg to defer my acceptance or non acceptance of the said "appointment" till a reply shall have been officially received from the Committee, as we could not regard those "resolutions" as their ultimatum on the subject of compulsory Ministerial removals based as they were on the recommendations of the Joint Conference of 1885 at Bishop's Court, which had no legal jurisdiction. Without a distinct understanding from them that they have set aside the Articles of Arrangement drawn up by them for the regulation of the Native Church in the Colony of Sierra Leone, and formally sanctioned by the highest Ecclesiastical authorities, as the legal contract between them and us and the Bishop of Sierra Leone; and all the more as you yourself have expressed at the Board when asked by me, that you are not aware of the setting aside those Articles and that the Committee are responsible for its action—I have the honor to remain, your humble servant,

G. J. M'CAULEY,
Pastor of St. Patrick's.

Rev. F. NEVILLE,
Secretary of the C.M.S. Patronage Board.

P. S.—The above letter was read to the Board on the 12th inst. which declared the Articles of arrangement to be set aside so far as "Patronage Churches belonging to the Society" is concerned, in consequence of which, for the Church's sake, I withdrew my letter to prevent any scandal that might arise from my standpoint to differ in one of my Patronage and Church, as the inevitable result of my non-acceptance, and accepted under protest the appointment to Bonthe according to contract the Board as representing the C. M. S., should have offered me.

A Book Which Makes Things Safe.

Every one knows that where the Bible has influence it makes things safe. Why is this? If it were a bad book, we should expect to find it in the hands of the worst men. In New York there was once a kind of rogue's museum—a place where they had all kinds of skeleton-keys, and jimmies, & brass knuckles, and dirks and pistols, and implements of mischief, which they had taken from roughs and criminals. Do you suppose there was a single New Testament in the whole kit? Why not? If it were a bad book you would expect a man to have a revolver in one pocket, and a New Testament tucked away in another. There was a row the other night, and a man broke his wife's head with a—Bible! No! it was a bottle! Where the Bible bears away the rows and quarrels do not come.

Years ago, a young infidel was traveling in the west with his uncle, a banker, and they were not a little anxious for their safety when they were forced to stay for a night in a rough wayside cabin. There were two rooms in the house; and when they retired for the night they agreed that the youngman should sit with his pistols and watch until morning. Presently they peeped through the crack, and saw their host—a rough-looking old man, in his bear skin suit reach up and take down a book—a Bible; and after reading it a while, he knelt and began to pray; and then the young infidel began to pull off his coat and get ready for bed. The uncle said, "I thought you were going to sit up and watch." But the young man knew there was no need of sitting up, pistol in hand, to watch all night long in a cabin that was hallowed by the Word of God, and consecrated by the voice of prayer. Would a pack of cards, and a rum-bottle, or a copy of the Age of Reason, have thus quieted this young infidel's fears!—Sel.

Mrs. Amanda Smith, has visited Bendoo, with good results, several conversions we believe. She has since gone to Avery Station Manoh Gbargroo and is having a grand time & have profited.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

A. & A. SWANZY

GEO. LEACH

Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogsheads of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogsheads of about 550 lbs. nett, also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand—in similar packages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the Up-River Traders, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A. SWANZY.

ALPHA FACTORY.

Rev. C.H. Spurgeon's Home.

His residence is delightfully situated on one of the hills at Upper Norwood, to the south-east of London. It may be described as a spur or continuation of the hill on which the Crystal Palace stands, from which building it is situated about a mile. From the house and grounds can be obtained superb and extensive views over the weald and hill of beautiful Surrey—from Wimbledon, with a peep at Windsor on the right, round to Kent on the left. The strong sou-wester has free course here, and weeps straight from the sea over the pleasant country. When it is strong it brings the salt spray with it; and Mr. Spurgeon assures us that the salt is driven on to his study windows and he has tasted it from them himself.

It is the fresh air that Mr. Spurgeon needs, and he rejoices in it here to his heart's content. "Fresh air is more than medicine to me said he. And he can sit in his study, with his glass door open to the grounds, or make his way to a summer-house near, or, if the weather be bad he can retire to a conservatory.

The house stands in its own grounds, which are both beautiful and extensive. It is approached from the main road leading to Streatham Common by a carriage-driver, which is so flanked and shaded between trees and shrubs as to form almost a continuous avenue right up to the house.

Between the fencing and trees on the right we catch glimpses of the beautiful garden and grounds, and presently of the commencement of a sheet of water, which winds blow away below the slope of the hill on which the house is built.

The portico, beautiful with greenery, is at the foot of a tower which rises above the house-roof. The front door will probably be found open, if the weather be favorable, and light but strong wire-trellis "door" closed instead. This is no doubt to permit free ingress and plenty fresh air, while affording an effectual barrier to any "stranger" who may have found his way in past the lodge at the entrance-gates. The same trellis-door is to be found in the study, opening on to the lawn.

The hill slopes downward on two sides of the house, and is clothed with beautiful trees. Down below are the kitchen-garden and lawns on one of which the students of the college sometimes disport themselves at bowls. In the kitchen-garden is the well of medicinal water known as the Beulah Spa, from which Mr. Spurgeon permits his neighbors at the hydropathic establishment to draw. It is curious to think of the great preacher of the Metropolitan Tabernacle as the proprietor of a spa; but such is the fact. We are inclined to think, however, that he holds a far higher opinion of the exquisite fresh air on the top of the hill than of the unpleasant tasting spa water.—Telescope.

MISCELLANY.

The Watchful Servant.

Constant watchfulness for the indications of his will is needed, if we are to realise his direction and to know the joy of swift obedience. "I will guide thee with mine eye." We must be near him, and looking ever toward him, if we are to catch its meaning. The watchful servant does not need spoken orders. The choice for every man lies between that gracious guidance by the eye, and the rough way of telling "the horse or as the mule which have no understanding" which read their master would have them go, by a tug at the rein, and the pressure of the bit in their mouths. Many ahint of God's will escapes us for want of watchfulness. Before we complain of the perplexities which beset our choice, let us make sure that we have caught all the indications which have been given. Wills held in suspense and equipoise until his will is plain are needed if we would really be led by God. When Lord Nelson was second in command, at Copenhagen, the admiral hoisted the signal of recall. Nelson put his telescope to his blind eye, and said: "I don't see any recall flying." There is no more frequent cause of blindness to plain signs of duty than obstinate wishes opposed to it. The secret of all peace and of all practical wisdom is in submission. Whose lets God's manifest will determine his, is king of all kings and of himself, and will seldom be at a stand as to his road. Joshua's exhortation to the people in crossing Jordan after ter the guiding ark was, "Come not near unto it, that ye may know the way by which ye must go." Impatient press, ing on the heels of God's purposes, before they have fully developed their direction, is sure to end badly. The true attitude is to watch and to wait with wills held ready to bend either way, as he will. If it is not plain to be patient, prayerful, acquiescent inquiry what he would have us to do, it is plain that for the moment he would have us do nothing; and they who run before they are sent are sure to be out of the road.—Sel.

APPOINTMENTS.

SHAINGAY DISTRICT.

Shaingay,	April 6th & 7th
Manoh,	„ 8th
Tongkoloh	„ 10th
Charmany,	„ 11th
Kooloonge,	„ 13th & 14th
Matacong,	„ 16th
Mocobo,	„ 17th
Mo-Fuss,	„ 18th
Mambo,	„ 20th & 21st
Rembee,	„ 22nd.

W. S. SAGE, P.E.

NOTICE.

From this date until further notice, the Rev. J. A. Evans will act as General Agent for the Shaingay Mission District. Persons knowing themselves to be indebted to the Mission, or having any other Business will settle, or confer with him or his representatives.

J. GOMER.

Shaingay,
Feb. 28, '89.

Frenchman: "Yes Miss Bostonia, in the Mediterranean I sailed through schools of sardines" Miss Bostonia: "Nonesense! How could they swim in those heavy tin boxes?

ADVERTISEMENT SCALE.

Reduced rates.

(FOR EACH INSERTION.)

A whole page	£1	10	0
A whole column	0	8	0
Half-a-column	0	5	0
One-fourth of a column	0	3	0
One-eighth of a column	0	2	6
Marriage	0	2	6
Births and deaths	0	1	0
Domestic servants wanted	0	1	6
Servants wanting situations	0	1	3

Each notice should not exceed 4 lines every additional line or part of a line 3d extra.

Rulers in the old world receive salaries as follows. The king of Belgium, six hundred and sixty thousand dollars; the president of Switzerland, three thousand dollars a year, Oscar II., of Sweden and Norway five hundred and seventy five thousand five hundred and twenty five dollars; the ruler of Bavaria, one million three hundred and seven thousand and forty dollars the emperor of Germany is paid by Prussia alone one million two hundred and thirty five thousand dollars; Milan king of Servia, costs the little limited monarchy two hundred and forty thousand dols. Emp. Francis Joseph of Austria is allowed three million eight hundred and seventy-five thousand dols. a year; the king of Italy annually draws three million & seventy thousand dols. from his impoverished subjects; the czar of Russia receives twelve million two hun. & fifty thousand dols. and upward; but upward is an unlimited term. Telescope.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. VI. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, APRIL 15, 1889. No. 7.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the

U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto. deliv'd in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS,—Communications to J. A. Evans, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gomer, Shaingay, Mr. E. A. Lewis, Freetown, West Africa, Rev. Wm. McKee Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Colonor.	The Commandant.
Chief Clerk.	M. J. W. Rocke
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	P. E. B. Buckner.
Sub Treas. & Col. Chief Clerk	J. D. Mckelly.
Tide Waiters.	J. M. Crown, J. B. Turner, & J. J. Warburton.
Asst. Evang. Officer	Sulymah Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M. R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Bette.
Harbor Master.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Pastor,	Victoria Road Vacant.
Wesleyan Methodist, Pastor,	Lime Street Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mendi Mission, Pastor,	(Congregational.) Good Hope Rev B. C. Taylor

Dear Mr. Editor,—Permit me to call attention to the gross violation of the sabbath committed by a great many of Sierra Leone women calling themselves christians in this place. It has been an open secret of late to find these so-called christians wending their way down to the market wharf to purchase cassada on the sabbath day. Formerly they were in the habit of doing this sinful traffic on Sunday nights; but at present they have thrown off the mask and you may find them in broad open Sabbath day buying cassada and engaging natives to carry the same.

Is there no civil law to punish or prevent these sabbath breakers? If there be any I trust the authorities will direct that such law be set in motion against these shameless agressors. It is obvious that this unseemly conduct of Sierra Leoneans, professing christianity is a huge obstacle to the progress of religion among the heathens around us. It is to be hoped that the ministers of religion will not be backward in denouncing such practice when there is an opportunity to do so. It would seem that some of the christian people here do not understand their own religion, in spite of the constant teachings of our native missionaries, as proofs are not wanting of their doings and conduct being quite the opposite of the religion they profess.

Yours truly,—JULIA.

Bonthe,
Mar. 26, '89.

Dear Editor,—No doubt, it is necessary for christians to have correct views of the doctrines and principles of the christian religion, and be well up to their creeds, faith &c. But is it all that is required of us as christians, or is that the principal point to look after. True religion is not made up of general notions and abstract opinions, of certain views and doctrines and feelings and sentiments. Useful as these are, they are not everything. It matters little what a man thinks and feels, and wishes in religion if he never gets further than thinking and feeling and wishing. The great question is "What fruit does the man bring forth? What does he do? How does he live? Is he striving to be Christlike? The motive that prompted the writing of the very learned article by Mr. "A Protestant" in your last issue may be good; but unless better expressed, many persons are liable to misinterpret him, and doubt whether he is really a Protestant.

But the question comes right here "What will it all amount to?"

The good old Catechist of the C.M.S. and good old Father Blanchet who intends extending their Church to this little corner of the world (which has already three active Missionary Bodies operating in it) are quite unconcerned; then why should you trouble yourself. Yet you may have good reasons. Out with your reasons and then fire away.

Yours,—NEB.

Bonthe, Sherbro.

Missionaries in Central Africa.—Information was received on February 11, by the London Missionary Society, from their Agents at Zanzibar, together with a number of communications from missionaries in the interior. The agents report that the roads had been interrupted to the coast district only. They had not heard of one Arab of any position openly taking part with the insurgents. A large caravan of ivory, belonging to the chief of Urambo, had been plundered near Bagamoyo, and since then the Wanyamwezi had been fighting on the side of the Germans and a number of them had been killed. When instructed to send an escort to bring Mr. Brooks and others to the coast, the Governor of Saadani said it was impossible for him to do so, for he could not venture island himself. Just before leaving Mamboia, the late Mr Brooks said he was afraid of a block. He understood that, owing to the Germans of Sierra Leoneans, professing christianity is a huge obstacle to the progress of religion among the heathens around us. It is to be hoped that the ministers of religion will not be backward in denouncing such practice when there is an opportunity to do so. It would seem that some of the christian people here do not understand their own religion, in spite of the constant teachings of our native missionaries, as proofs are not wanting of their doings and conduct being quite the opposite of the religion they profess.

Yours truly,—JULIA.

Bonthe,
Mar. 26, '89.

Dear Editor,—No doubt, it is necessary for christians to have correct views of the doctrines and principles of the christian religion, and be well up to their creeds, faith &c. But is it all that is required of us as christians, or is that the principal point to look after. True religion is not made up of general notions and abstract opinions, of certain views and doctrines and feelings and sentiments. Useful as these are, they are not everything. It matters little what a man thinks and feels, and wishes in religion if he never gets further than thinking and feeling and wishing. The great question is "What fruit does the man bring forth? What does he do? How does he live? Is he striving to be Christlike? The motive that prompted the writing of the very learned article by Mr. "A Protestant" in your last issue may be good; but unless better expressed, many persons are liable to misinterpret him, and doubt whether he is really a Protestant.

But the question comes right here "What will it all amount to?"

The good old Catechist of the C.M.S. and good old Father Blanchet who intends extending their Church to this little corner of the world (which has already three active Missionary Bodies operating in it) are quite unconcerned; then why should you trouble yourself. Yet you may have good reasons. Out with your reasons and then fire away.

Yours,—NEB.

Bonthe, Sherbro.

THE RUBY MINES OF BURMA.

An interesting paper was read at the Society of Arts on February 15, by Mr. G. Skelton Streeter on the Ruby Mines of Burma. Sir Charles E Bernard, who presided, said that the mines of Upper Burma were now, and had been for years, the only source of good rubies in the world. remarking further that rubies of good colour and comparatively flawless were, weight for weight more valuable than diamonds of the same size. Mr Streeter was the first European expert in precious stones who ever visited the ruby country and he and his friends had obtained a concession of the ruby mines so far as ruby and sapphires were concerned, for the next seven years. Mr Streeter, at the outset of his paper, explained that the ruby mine tract of Burma was situated on the hill sides, and in the plain lands of a valley running east and west at an elevation of 4,500 feet in a range of mountain spurs that ran nearly at right angles to the Burmese Yoma. This valley was some 80 miles due north of Mandalay, but, owing to the physical difficulties of the intervening country, it could only be reached after a circuitous journey of some 200 miles. The lecturer proceeded to state in some detail the various primitive modes of procuring rubies that had been employed up to the present time. He was unable to describe the country as it would be when worked by scientific appliances, for though machinery was already on its way there it would probably not commence running before next November. In conclusion, he pointed out that, in addition to rubies, some of the mines produced red, pink, and blue spinels, sapphires of very fine quality, sirsons moonstone, and tourmalines. The paper, which illustrated by a series of photographic transparencies, was followed by a discussion, in which sir G. Birdwood, Mr Martin Wood, and professor Rudler took part. The Chairman, in proposing a vote of thanks to lecturer, who remarked that whereas the Kings of Burma had never received more than 20,000£ a year from the mines under Mr. Streeter's lease 40,000£ a year would accrue to the Burma Treasury. The full rights of the residents of the district would also be preserved. The motion was unanimously agreed to, and a vote of thanks to the chairman closed the proceedings.—Colonies and India.

"Hello, Mose! What are you doing now?" "I'm a repo'tah." "Reporter! Reporter on a daily paper?" "No, sah. Yo' know I was po'tah fo' a while at de Cumnushal; waal, I's been re 'p'inted."—

An Irishman apologised for running away from a fight in these words: "Bedad, I'd rather be a coward for fifteen minutes than a corpse for the rest of my life."

"We never furnish a knife with pie," said a prim waiter at a Keokuk, Iowa, boarding-house. "Then bring me the ax," cried the new boarder in despair.

The Early Dawn.
MONTHLY, SHERBRO.
APL 15, 1889.

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

The new roads that have been recently opened by orders of the Government, throughout the various river districts, have greatly improved the condition of the country, both as refers to the facility of travel and the general appearance. As to travel, they have in many cases shortened distances by straightening zig zag and circuitous routes, they have rendered advancement easier, by making the way broader as well as relieving travelers of the necessity of following in the deep ruts worn by the long use of the narrow footpath. Hammock too may now be used with more comfort both to occupant and the carriers. Another thing that impresses one most favorably is the distance one can see along these new highways. The mission itinerants are highly delighted with these roads, as they greatly facilitate their work. We congratulate the Authorities on their success in getting these roads opened and so speedily.

HERE AAD THERE.

The inteligent and especially the teacher in charge of Mando Station rejoices greatly over the new roads lately opened by the Government and really they do charge the appearance of things very much in that vicinity Pattie Faukie the residence of Mrs Nyali Gaulker) is really a handsomely situated place, and vies row well with Shaingay, the chief town as to size, and is far cleaner, and renders true the words of one who has always said that head women, among the Sherbros, always keep the neatest and cleanest towns. Dema also is a short distance from Shaingay, eastward, is also her fine little place belonging to Mrs Lucia Caulker and her son Mr D.llett at home and Mrs C quite recovered from her late illness. One of the beauties of Delia is the number of breadfruit trees in the place.

Rev. H. J. Weeks, formerly of the Bumpeh Mission, is we believe for the present engaged at Taiama station to assist Rev. S. B. Morrison we trust he may find it suitable to remain in connection with that charge as there is before him a large field of usefulness in that Vicinity.

Churchman's Reviewers Reviewed.

Concluded from our last.

Another passage referred to by a Protestant occurs in John vi. 53. "Except ye eat the flesh of the son of man and drink his blood ye have no life in you &c." "Protestant" must remember that Jesus was not here speaking of the Lord's supper at all. He would not have asserted that all who partake of that ordinance must in consequence inherit eternal life, else his teaching would have been at variance with that of his apostle who warns us, lest by an unworthy receiving thereof we eat and drink to our selves condemnation.

But further, here is our Saviour's own key to the explanation of his discourse for he goes on to say in verse 63, "It is the spirit that quickeneth the flesh profiteth nothing." clearly intimating that in what he had just uttered there was a spiritual meaning which alone was of importance to his hearers. That figurative expression the Jews perceive not and they impugn it with astonishment as well as horror, verse 52. "How can this man give us his flesh to eat."

Paul in referring to the Eucharist service speaks no less than three times of "eating this bread," it would not he eating until after the Savior's words had been repeated and yet at the time of being eaten, the apostle calls it bread—1. Cor. xi. 26—28. vs.

The epitaph "breaking of bread" which was appropriated to this ordinance, Acts ii. 46 & xx. 7. would have been an irreverent expression if that which seemed to be bread had been positively changed into the real body and Blood of Christ.

"I go to my Father and ye see me no more" said Jesus to his disciples John xvi 10, but how could this be true if it is a very literal reality at the Sacrament they were to behold Him and to bow in lowly adoration before his bodily presence.

Mr. Editor, I believe I have sufficiently proved from the Holy Scriptures that a priest has not the power to forgive sins and that the bread and wine used at the Holy Communion are not the real body and blood of Christ, therefore I must close my holding forward to your correspondents.

A "Protestant" and "Williams" as I shall write no more on this subject, but will leave them to consider the errors into which they have been mistakingly led.

Thanking you for kind indulgence granted me.

Yours for the last time,
A CHURCHMAN.

HE GIVES SATISFACTION.

Dear Editor,—It is an unfortunate affair when a man is obliged to follow a wrong calling. It makes him cross. He feels dissatisfied with every body, and every body is dissatisfied with him. It is a more unfortunate affair for those in whose interest he is to labor. The interested parties feel they have to deal with a wrong man in the wrong place and neither the one nor the other is benefitted. But it is very different since from the people at least retire for rest you have to deal with the right man in the right place, both sides feel satisfied. There is a good word on the lips of every one for him "He that understandeth, and doeth his duty, the people shall praise him." I have kept my ears open, and since I last read very much from guiltiness and a train of other distressing disorders, which rendered life very unpleasant to me three weeks ago; and have listened very attentively to the whispers that come from all quarters, where I reported the radical cure I have experienced by using the medicines Dr. Wykham kindly gave me at the Colonial Hospital; and if we can give one word to convey the sentiments expressed by all, that word would be Satisfaction. Young and old, natives and Sierra Leoneans, even the little children have a good word for Dr. Wykham and Dispenser May. Their kind, patient, tender and respectful treatment of, and bearings toward, their patients; we cannot speak too highly of. They are essentials in a Doctor; and because of these qualities, they have gained the confidence and the golden opinion of their patients and the community at large. But what surprises more is that the medicines received at the hospital now a days, act like a charm. I am obliged to ask myself the question. "Has the Government sent a special stock of medicines for the relief of the sick of Sherbro, or is it the same kind of medicines usually sent quarterly, half yearly or yearly as the case may be, and why have very few in times past given testimony to their virtue" I. The secret is that the Doctor not only understands his duty but he is a faithful servant who would be true to himself,—true to the people to whose benefits he is laboring—and true to the Government. We wish him every success, together with Dispenser May, and trust the words of the "Wise Man" will be verified to them.

"Seest thou a man diligent in his business, he shall stand before kings, he shall not stand before mean men."

Yours,—NED

April 3, '89.

A FAREWELL MEETING.

In accordance to an announcement made the previous sabbath a public meeting was held in which Rv. Pinkenger, Revd J Gomer and wife bid farewell to the communauty by address.

At 7 p. m. precisely the hour appointed, on Monday the 4th inst, the opening Exercises began with singing and prayer led by the Revd D. F. Williamson, Principal of the Rufus Clark and Wife Training School, followed by an interesting sermon bearing very warkingly on the occasion preached also by the Revd D. F. Williamson. At the end of sermon the Bishop was called upon to address the meeting who very ably occupied the floor for about 10 to 15 minutes.

Mr Gomer was next called upon who no less succeeded in his first attempt to produce singular impressions in the minds of every attentive hearer which strikingly called forth to mind the scene where Moses blessed the children of Israel recounting God's mercies towards his dealings with them, but particular he brought to our recollection the separation that took place between Moses and the people of having held the leadership among the people for a period of forty years from the Exode to the entrance into Canaan. Mr Gomer like Moses has labored together with his partner, for the space of above 18 years during which time he soon the affection of the people, but now he must separate from the people at least retire for rest to his country.

The thought that they together with the Bishop were about a day or two after was the cause of grief or sorrow to the people, which nothing could wipe away from their minds during the hours that they were to enjoy the presence of these philanthropic workers. And indeed there was none with a exception of a small percentage of the community that had not received in some way the kin ministration of Rev. Gomer and wife.

My Bickersteth preacher in charge of this place with the cooperation of the Revd D. F. Williamson conducted a series of meetings which began the Tuesday following and ended Saturday the 11th inst; in behalf of the Bishop, Rev Gomer and wife and it is the desire of the church here that God may take these faithful workers to their homes safe and all crowned bring them again in prosecution of their duties to God and to his will. On Wednesday the 6th March an accompanying train went hand in hand with the Missionaries to the wharf at about 6. a.m. and about an hour after they left with the S.S. Rosad which was in the harbour.

It is the prayer of the writer that the the Bishop together with Rev. Gomer and wife may for ever abide under the protection and care of the Great master for whom they had bee laboring.

Shalunay, Yrs. Mr Editor,
25th Mar. '89 A WELL WISHER.

For the "DAWN."

Mr. Editor,—The 'Formoso' has had a rather trying time in getting out of the sand-banks abreast the Ghandumah House where she had unfortunately got stuck fast, so that she was delayed from Saturday the 6th inst, despite all the efforts put forth by her, and subsequently by her and the "Countess of Derby" conjointly, she could not get out till Wednesday the 10th when she was lightened a little of her burdens. I say unfortunate—because she had no business that way. It there is cargo on board a vessel for any House, the Capt. of that vessel is not compelled to convenience that House and inconvenience the public when the one as well as the other is equally interested.

Would I that the proprietors take the hint given in a previous issue by one of your correspondents who showed the propriety of securing the service of a good pilot and thus save all parties concerned another experience of the occurrence of this week when many had to suffer much inconvenience on this side and on the other side, while they kept waiting for the "Formoso" to get out of her unpleasant bed. If the proprietors retain it see the propriety of securing the service of a good pilot who to him instruct the Capt to always drop anchor at a safe distance.

Yours &c.
Bonthe, PAUL DORE.

NEWSITEMS.

Mar. 30th—After we had gone to press Editor left for a trip to Shaingay from which he returned on the 3rd inst.

31st—Interesting services in Du-Pree Chapel Mando conducted by District Supt. of Mendi Mission at 11 a.m & 4 p. m.

Mr. R. P. Luke of Mofussation Shaingay District was the place on the 6th inst, he reports rough rice for sale by the Bukey in Karboroh; but prices rather high.

March 31st—2 special sermons on behalf of the S. N. P were preached at St. Matthew's Church by W. E. Pasha Catechist in charge both morning and evening.

Apl 1st—Juvenile anniversary meeting in connexion with the above was held at 11 a. m.

April. 1st—DIED—Johnny Jowett, son of the Rev G. N. Jowett, on the 1st inst. at his father's in this place. We sympathize with the parents.

2. Anniversary meeting held at St. Matthew's Church, the chair was occupied by C. B. Caulker Esqr Amt. Collected £470. 0. 2 for various objects Revs J. C. Thomas (Wesleyan) R. Cookson Taylor (U. B. C.) Catechist Nicol of Victoria and Mr. May addressed the meeting.

2nd—The s. s. Countess of Derby returned from Freetown with mails she brought as passenger Mr. Warburton of the Customs who had gone to Freeton to be married.

3rd. Police constable Edward Jones, Scott and 5 others were brought by warrant from Sulymah as being concerned in the case of Capt Crawford.

3rd Mission Boat from Shaingay with Mrs. C. A. E. Campbell, Miss Rose Maurice and the Editor of this journal.

5th—Boat Victory from Manoh Gbargroo, with Rev S. B. Morrison and family also Mrs Amanda Smith. She has had a pleasant time during her short stay in that Station, holding revival meetings each night. We thank God for the eleven reported to have received peace in their hearts, may the Lord keep and lead them continually in the right way.

6. Countess of Derby for Freetown with mails. Dr. Wykham Mr L. J. Rogues are passengers for Freetown to give evidence in the case of Capt Crawford.

9. Countess of Derby from Freetown with mails.

10 Formoso off the bank and sailed for Freetown with the following passengers Rev. J. A. Evans Messrs C. J. Cole, A. H. Haffner, F. F. French, Lutthegodt, J. H. Pratt and several others.

11. His Excellency Govr. Hay and suite returned from the Sulymah district.

s. s Formoso prevented by low water from leaving on saturday 6th inst as was intended many passengers disappointed.

Mr. T. M. Cole. Teacher in charge of Koncunay station arrived here on saturday 9th inst very ill.

7th—Rev. S. B. Morrison (U B. C.) preached in the morning for U. B. church, and in the evening for the Wesleyan church of this place.

Mr J. B. Nicol Catechist at Victoria, called on us on the 5th inst. was looking well and reports his work as encouraging although not large.

FROM THE GBARGROO.

An old woman was accidentally shot dead at Ba-te-a-mah on Tuesday morning the 2nd inst. about 7 o'clock by one Canray Buy who took her for a Baboon.

This quadruped can be found mostly in that part of the Bargroo, especially since the Kasiddan nee mountains have been cleared out for farming.

Whilst we regret the circumstance that brought about this sad mistake yet we trust that hunters would in future be very cautious and not allow themselves to be thus deceived

Canray Buy is an old experienced hunter, but his sight so deceived him this time. May this serve as a warning to him and others who are engaged in this business.

Died at the village of G'oncester on the month of February Mrs Mary Maruqe mother of D. N. Marque trader in the Bargroo River leaving number of grand children, sons, daughters and relatives to moura her loss.

Dear Editor—I think you should be informed of the improvement effect that took place last week, not far from Bumbureh, between a husband and wife. Do I say what Yes, wife—for want of an appropriate term. But if that is the ideal of a wife, we would very readily adopt the language of one, "If the case of a man be so with his wife, it is not good to marry" and those who were so unfortunate as to be with in hearing of the low, mean, vulgar, swearing and treacherous language used by that young wife in description of her own husband would say Amen to the above. After the poor husband was obliged for his personal safety and domestic quietude, to put her out of his protection, she was to be found here, there, and yonder, herself-coolly telling her own shameful story with such an air as would even surprise infernal fiends she not only entertain the opinion, but said, and that very boldly, that her husband is too poor and cannot support her in that high, stylish, and lady like manner as she would wish and that is a license (not a half yearly, but a yearly license for prostitution. But as our old people say, "A poor husband is better than no husband." Who would give her, her own rich husband in exchange for her poor husband? Echo says (aloud) The public cry out None.

Why was she not content to remain out of her husband's house but begged so many persons on the fourth day to interpose on her behalf. This act alone shows the public that the husband is not altogether what she described him to be.

Now that she has been received in again, we hope she would behave better.

It is meet and right that when she goes through the streets, that every wife and husband in the community, every young man and young woman engaged to be married, and every one interested in the marriage question should point their fingers at her, crying shame.

We will always find the words of Scripture true. "It is better to dwell in a corner of the housetop than with a brawling woman in a wide house" "It is better to dwell in the wilderness than with a contentious and an angry woman. We however hope she would ponder the last clause of the last verse of 25th v. "And the wife see that she reverence her husband.

Yours—JACK.

For the "Early Dawn."

The Eucharist.

"Henceforth, be no more children tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, and cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in wait to deceive—Paul to the Ephesians.

"Be not carried about with divers and strange doctrines"—Paul to the Heb. for

"The devil can cite scripture for his purpose—
An evil soul producing holy witness,
Is like a villain with a smiling cheek,
O what a goodly outside falsehood hath—
Shakespeare.

Dear Editor,—The above subjection set forth by "William" in your issue of the 16th ult, has had my consideration.

At such a season of religious enthusiasm, it behoves all the followers of our Lord Jesus to be ready to give a reason of the hope that is in him with meekness and fear;" especially in dealing with such a Sacred Sacrament of the Christian religion. Third believe Mr Williams was trying to carry out only that his professions lack the essential adornments i.e. "Meekness and fear." With an endeavouring to employ human Sophistry to analyze this most beautiful, sublime and glorious emblem of man's redemption from sin, and his reconciliation, and adoption into the heavenly family, through this mysterious sacrifice, he would have had proper light, if he had meekly read those passages in as vain gloriously quoted and ask God's Holy Spirit's teachings, instead of playing the drama of the "mountains in labor."

Our Lord in connection with the Passover of the Old Testament, (in the celebration of which, he was then present) instituted this supper called the Lord's Supper in 1. Cor. xi. 23 which institution is the only one in holy writ.

On that occasion, after getting through the formalities, then Christ commanded the institution as recorded in Luke 22: 17-18, and then in v. 19. "He took bread, and gave thanks (hence Eucharist) and broke it and gave unto them, saying, "This is my body." &c. The expression, "This is my body" is illustrated by "This is the Passover" in the old Testament, for Could the Jews, after Commemorating the Passover in Ukraine, have thought that the lamb to be slain on that occasion, must be identified with the Lamb in reality of the first Paschal ceremony in Egypt? Christ did not say "This is my body, simply, but (a) "This is my body which is given for you, and (b) my blood is the testimony of one" (a) Luke xxii, 19 (b) Matt. xxvi 27, 28 is the Blood sacrificed; and my blood shed &c. not the blood of his living body, but the blood separated from his body the blood of a dead body. In short, in Cor x 15, 16 The cup or wine, is not said to be the blood, but the "Communion of the blood of Christ," the bread the "Communion of the body of Christ" —Again, to drink blood would have been an abomination Lev. xvii 13.—Breaking the bread, cannot be literally breaking his body, for Holy Writ saith "N.A a bone of Him shall be broken Ps. xxxiv 20. Num. ix. 12. Ere I close let me urge on "William" not to appear under the garb of Catholics in the abstract: a word beginning with an R. unto the word Catholics would make him really what he professes to be i. e. a Romanists who eat and drink Christ's flesh and blood in the real embodiment of wafers and wine in remembrance of Romish, as set forth in their doctrine of transubstantiation whose theory is so replete with error, blasphemy and idolatry.—Thanking you for space granted me.

I am, Dear Editor,
Bonthe, RAINSHAW. C.
April 12.

Dear Editor,

Church Croakers, are a dangerous set of Christians. They have no joy in the service of the Lord, and therefore do all in their power to damp the joy of those who are devoted workers in the Master's vineyard. Their power is in their tongue—and if they know nothing else, for certain they know just how, and when to use that little power in their members. Do wherever Xi's name is mentioned in this wide world you will surely find them there. Whether in Europe or America with their big Churches and Cathedrals that can boast of members by the thousands, or in South, East, or West Africa with their Churches and Chapels and here and there a solitary Cathedral that can only boast of members by the hundreds, it makes little or no difference, they are there any how, and the description which will be given of them in a subsequent issue you will find to be true with a dreadful literality.

Our purpose in this issue is to introduce to our readers, but generous but important question of X ians to the [illegible] that they may receive the communion of the [illegible]

The Early Dawn.
BOOTHE, SHERBRO.

APL 15, 1889.

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

The new roads that have been recently opened by the Government, throughout the various river districts, have greatly improved the condition of the country, both as regards facility of travel and commercial appearance. As to travel, they have in many cases shortened distances by straightening zig-zag and circuitous routes, they have rendered advancement easier, by making the way broader as well as relieving travelers of the necessity of following in the deep ruts worn by the long use of the narrow foot-path. Hammock too may now be used with more comfort both to occupant and the carriers. Another thing that impresses one most favorably is the distance one can see along these new highways. The mission itinerants are highly delighted with these roads, as they greatly facilitate their work. We congratulate the Authorities on their success in getting these roads opened and so speedily.

HERE AAD THERE.

The inteligent and especially the teacher in charge of Mando Station rejoices greatly over the new roads lately opened by the Government and really they do charge the appearance of things very much in that vicinity Pattie Farkie the residence of Mrs Neal (Gaul Str) is really a handsomely situated place, and vies row well with Shaingay, the chief town as to size, and is far cleaner, and renders true the words of one who has always said that head-women, among the Sherbros, always keep the neatest and cleanest towns. Do-ma also is a short distance from Shaingay, eastward, is another fine little place belonging to Mrs Lucia Caulker and here in Mr D Bet at home and Mrs C spirit recovered from her late illness. One of the beauties of Debia is the number of breadfruit trees in the place.

Rev. H. J. Weeks, formerly of the Bompeh Mission, is we believe for the present engaged at Avery station to assist Rev. S. B. Morrison we trust he may find it suitable to remain in connection with that charge as there is before him a large field of usefulness in that Vicinity.

Churchman's Reviewers Reviewed.

Concluded from our last.

Another passage referred to by a Protestant ocean in John vi. 53, "Except ye eat the flesh of the son of man and drink his blood ye have no life in you &c." "Protestant" must remember that Jesus was "not here" speaking of the Lord's supper at all. He would not have asserted that all who partake of that ordinance must in consequence inherit eternal life, else his teaching would have been at variance with that of his apostle who warns us, lest by an unworthy receiving thereof we eat and drink to our selves condemnation.

But further, here is our Saviour's own key to the explanation of his discourse for he goes on to say in verse 63, "It is the spirit that quickeneth the flesh profiteth nothing" clearly intimating that in what he had just uttered there was a spiritual meaning which alone was of importance to his hearers. That figurative expression the Jews perceive not and they might well ask with astonishment as well as hatred, verse 52, "How can this man give us his flesh to eat."

Paul in referring to the Eucharist service speaks no less than three times of "eating this bread," it would not be eating until after the Saviour's words had been repeated and yet at the time of being eaten, the apostle calls it bread—1. Cor. xi. 26—28, vs.

The epitaph "breaking of bread", which was appropriated to this ordinance, Acts ii. 46 & xx. 7, would have been an irreverent expression of that which seemed to be stood had been positively changed into the real body and blood of Christ.

"I go to my Father and ye see me no more" and Jesus to his disciples John xvi. 16, but how could this be true if in reality he remained at the Sacrament they were to behold him and to hear in lively adoration before his bodily presence.

Mr. Editor, I believe I have sufficiently proved from the Holy Scriptures that a priest has not the power to forgive sins and that the bread and wine used at the Holy Communion are not the real body and blood of Christ, therefore I need not say anything farther in your correspondents.

A "Protestant" and "Wilson" as I shall write no more on this subject, but will leave them to enjoy the errors into which they have been mistakingly led.

Thanking you for kind indulgence granted me,

Yours for the best time,
A CHURCHMAN.

HE GIVES SATISFACTION.

Dear Editor,—It is an unfortunate affair when a man is obliged to follow after a wrong calling. It makes him sour and neither the one nor the other is benefitted. But it is very different when you have to deal with the right man in the right place; both sides feel satisfied. There is a good word on the lips of every one for him. "He that undertakes to do a thing and does it thoroughly, the performance praises him." I have kept this correspondent short and will very much from guidance and a train of other distressing disorders, which rendered life very unpleasant to me three weeks ago; and have indeed very attentive to the whispers that come from all quarters, where I expected the richest gifts I have experienced by using the medicines Dr. Wykham kindly gave me at the Colonial Hospital; and if we can give one word to convey the sentiments expressed by all, that word would be Satisfaction. Young and old, natives and Sierra Leoneans, even the little children have a good word for Dr. Wykham and Dispenser May. Their kind, patient, tender and respectful treatment of, and bearings towards their patients; we cannot speak too highly of. They are essentials in a Doctor; and because of these qualities, they have gained the confidence and the golden opinion of their patients and the community at large. But what surprises more is that the medicines received at the hospital now a days, act like a charm. I am obliged to ask myself the question. "Has the Government sent a special stock of medicines for the relief of the sick of Sherbro, or is it the same kind as formerly supplied, but quarterly, half yearly or yearly as the case may be, and why have very few in times past given testimony to their virtue"? The secret is that the Doctor not only understands his duty but he is a faithful servant who couldn't be true to himself,—true to the people he whose benefits he is laboring—and true to the Government. We wish him every success, together with Dispenser May, and trust the words of the "Wise Man" will be verified to them.

"Seest thou a man diligent in his business, he shall stand before kings, he shall not stand before mean men."

Yours,—NEB

April 8, '89.

A FAREWELL MEETING.

In accordance to an appointment made the previous sabbath a public meeting was held in which Rev. Pinkenger, Revd Timnes and wife bid farewell to the community by address.

At 7 p. m. punctual to the hour appointed, on Monday evening the 25th inst, the opening Exercises began with singing of praises led by the Revd D. F. Wilhelm, Principal of the Bo Girls School and Wife. Training School, followed by a short but impressive bearing very suitingly on the occasion preached also by the Revd D. F. Wilhelm. At the end of sermon the Bishop was called upon to address the meeting, the young ladies occupied the floor for about 10 to 15 minutes.

Mr Gomez was very called upon who he has succeeded in a few sentences to put forth singular suggestions to the minds of every attentive hearer which seemingly called forth to mind the speech where Moses blessed the children of Israel recounting to Dathanites how his kind dealings was in the past remember by brought to our recollection the scripture of Moses his blessed. together with his partner, for the space of about 18 years during which time has seen the affection of the people, but now he comes a peace to his people.

The thought that they together with the Bishop were about a day or two after was the cause of grief or sorrow to the people, which nothing could wipe away from their minds during the few hours that they were to enjoy the presence of of these philanthropic workers. And indeed there was one with an expression of a small percentage of the community that had not received instruction was the kind ministration of Rev. Gomez and wife.

Mr Bickersteth preacher in charge of this place with the co-operation of the Revd D. F. Wilhelm also conducted a series of meetings which began the Tuesday following and ended Saturday the 11th inst; in behalf of the Bishop, Rev Gomez and wife and it is the desire of the church here that God may take these faithful workers to their home's side and afterwards bring them again in prosecution of their duties to feed in his fold. On Wednesday the 6th March an accompanying train went hand in hand with the Missionaries to the wharf at about 6. a.m. and about an hour after they left with the S.S. Rosa which was in the harbour.

It is the prayer of the writer that the three together with Bro. Gomez and wife may for ever abide under the protection and care of the Great master for whom they had been labouring.

Shaingay, Yrs, Mr Editor,
25th Mar. '89 A WELL WISHER.

For the "Dawn"

Mr. Editor,—The 'Formoso' has had a rather trying time in getting out of the sand-banks abreast the Ghundamahr House where she had unfortunately got stuck fast, so that she was delayed from Saturday the 6th inst, despite all the efforts put forth by her, and subsequently by her and the "Countess of Derby" conjointly, she could not get out till Wednesday the 10th when she was lightened a little of her burdens. I say unfortunate—because she had no business that way. If there is cargo on board a vessel for any House, the Capt. of that vessel is not compelled to convenience that House and inconvenience the public when the one as well as the other is equally interested.

Would I that the proprietors take the hint given in a previous issue by one of your correspondents who showed the impropriety of securing the service of a good pilot and thus save all parties concerned another experience of the occurrence of this week when many had to suffer much inconvenience on this side and on the other side, while they kept waiting for the "Formoso" to get out of her unpleasant bed. If the proprietors can't see the propriety of securing the service of a good pilot then let him instruct the Capt to always drop anchor at a safe distance.

Boothe, Yours,
PAUL DOVE.

NEWS ITEMS.

Mar. 30th—After we had gone to press Editor left for a trip to Shaingay from which he returned on the 3rd inst.

31st—Interesting services in Da-Pree Chapel Mando conducted by District Supt. of Mendi Mission at 11 a.m & 4½ p.m.

Mr. R. P. Luke of Motuss station Shairgay District was the place on the 6th inst, he reports rough rice for sale by the Rinkey in Karboroh; but prices rather high.

March 31st—2 special sermons on behalf of the S. N. P were preached at St. Matthew's Church by W. E. Pasha Catechist in charge both morning and evening.

Ap'l 1st—Juvenile anniversary meeting in connexion with the above was held at 11 a. m.

April. 1st—DIED—Johnny Jowett, son of the Rev G. N. Jowett, on the 1st inst. at his father's in this place. We sympathize with the parents.

2. Anniversary meeting held at St. Matthew's Church, the chair was occupied by C. B. Collier Esqr Amt. Collected £170. 0. 2 for various objects Revs. J. C. Thomas (Wesleyan) R. Cookson Taylor (U. B. C.) Catechist Nicol of Victoria and Mr. May addressed the meeting.

2nd—The s. s. Countess of Derby returned from Freetown with mails she brought as passenger Mr. Warburton of the Customs who had gone to Freetown to be married.

3rd. Police constable Edward Jones, Scott and 5 others were brought by warrant from Sulymah as being concerned in the case of Capt Crawford.

3rd Mission Boat from Shaingay with Mrs. C. A. E. Campbell, Miss Rose Maurice and the Editor of this journal.

5th—Boat Victory from Manoh Gbargroo, with Rev S. B. Morrison and family also Mrs Amanda Smith. She has had a pleasant time during her short stay in that Station, holding revival meetings each night. We thank God for the eleven reported to have received peace in their hearts, may the Lord keep and lead them continually in the right way.

6. Countess of Derby for Freetown with mails. Dr. Wykham Mr E. J. Roques are passengers for Freetown to give evidence in the case of Capt Crawford.

9. Countess of Derby from Freetown with mails.

10 Formoso off the bank and sailed for Freetown with the following passengers Rev. J. A. Evans Messrs C. J. Cole, A. H. Haffner, F. F. French, Lutthefodt, J. H. Pratt and several others.

11. His Excellency Govr. Hay and suite returned from the Sulymah district.

8. s Formoso prevented by low water from leaving on saturday 6th inst as was intended many passengers disappointed.

Mr. T. M. Cole. Teacher in charge of Koneonany station arrived here on saturday 9th inst very ill

7th—Rev. S. B. Morrison (U. B. C.) preached in the morning for U. B. church, and in the evening for the Wesleyan church of this place.

Mr J. B. Nicol Catechist at Victoria, called on us on the 5th inst. was looking well and reports his work as encouraging although not large.

FROM THE GBARGROO.

An old woman was accidentally shot dead at Bate-a-mah on Tuesday morning the 2nd inst. about 7 o'clock by one Canray Bay who took her for a Baboon.

This quadruped can be found mostly in that part of the Bargroo, especially since the Kasiblan nee mountains have been cleared out for farming.

Whilst we regret the circumstance that brought about this sad mistake yet we trust that hunters would in future be very cautious and not allow themselves to be thus deceived.

Canray Boy is an old experienced hunter, but his sight so deceived him this time. May this serve as a warning to him and others who are engaged in this business.

Died at the village of Gloucester on the mount of February Mrs Mary Maruge mother of D. N. Marque trader in the Bargroo River leaving number of grand children, sons, daughters and relatives to mourn her loss.

Dear Editor—I think you should be informed of the unprecedented case that took place last week, out of town troubles, between a [illegible] Yes, wife—for want of an appropriate term. But is that is the fault of a wife we would very readily accept the [illegible] of one. If the case of a man to deal with his wife it is not good to marry—and those who were so unfortunate as to be with her would say Amen to the above. After the poor husband was obliged for his personal safety and domestic quietude, to put her out of his protection, she was to be found here, there, and nowhere, barefoodedly telling her own woeful story with such an air as would even surprise infernal fiends she not only enter into the opinion but said and that very boldly, that her husband is too poor and cannot support her in that high style, and lady like manner as she would exist, and that is a house (not a half yearly but a yearly house) for population. Not as one old people say, "A poor husband is better than no husband." Who would give her, her own rich husband in exchange for her poor husband? Echo says (what?) The judge every one N one.

Why was she not content to remain out of her husband's house but begged so many per sons on the fourth day to interpose on her behalf. This act alone shows the public that the husband is not altogether what she described him to be.

Now that she has been received in again, we hope she would behave better.

It is meet and right that when she goes through the streets that every wife and husband in the community, every young man and young woman engaged to be married and every one interested in the marriage question should point their fingers at her, crying shame.

We will always find the words of Scriptures true: "It is better to dwell in a corner of the housetop than with a brawling woman in a wide house" "It is better to dwell in the wilderness than with a contentious and an angry woman. We however hope she would ponder the last clause of the last verse of Eph v. "And the wife see that she reverence her husband.

Yours—JACK.

For the "Early Dawn."

The Eucharist.

"Henceforth, be no more, children tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men and cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in wait to deceive.—Paul to the Ephs. xxi.

"Be not carried about with divers and strange doctrines"—Paul to the Heb. for

"The devil can cite scripture for his purpose."

As evil and producing holy witness.

O what a goodly outside falsehood hath.

Shakespeare.

Dear Editor,—The above subject as set forth by "Wilson" in your issue of the 15th ult, has had my contributions.

At such a season of religious excitement, it behooves all the followers of our Lord Jesus to be ready to give a reason of the hope that is in him with meekness and fear," especially in dealing with such a Sacred Sacrament of our Christian religion. Had he only "Wilson" was trying to carry out only those holy principles he lays down for his fellowmen i.e. "Meekness and fear." With all his endeavouring to employ himself properly to analyze the most beautiful, sublime and glorious emblem of man's redemption from sin, and love to God, and adoption into the royal family, the right Rev. modernized Sacrifice, he would have had proper sight, for he had only to read those passages in two to his own glorious gospel and ask God's Holy Spirit's teachings, instead of playing the drama of the "mountains in labor."

Our Lord in connection with the Passover of the Old Testament, for the celebration of which, he was to be present instituted this supper called the Lord's Supper in I. Cor. xi. 23—26 and congregations is the only one in the world.

On that occasion, after passing through the formalities, they [illegible] washed that institution in remembrance of [illegible] Luke 22: 17-18, and then in v. 19. "He took bread, and gave thanks (hence Eucharist) and brake it and gave unto them, saying, "This is my body" &c. The expression, "This is my body" is explained by "This is the Passover" in the old Testament.

Could the Israelites Commemorating the Passover in Canaan ever thought that the lamb to be slain on that occasion, must be identified with the Lord's in reality of the first Paschal ceremony in Egypt? Christ did not say "This is my body, simply, but (a) "This is my body which is given for you, and (b) my blood for the remission of sins" (a) Luke xxii. 19 (b) Matt. xxvi 27. 28 c.f. Ye blood sacrificed; and my blood shed &c. not the blood of his living body, but the blood separated from his body the blood of a dead body. In short, in Cor x 15, 16 The cup or wine, is not said to be the blood, but the "Communion of the blood of Christ," the bread the "Communion of the body of Christ" Again, to drink blood would have been an abomination Lev. xvii 14.—Breaking the bread, cannot be literally breaking his body, for Holy Writ saith "Not a bone of Him shall be broken Ps. xxxiv 20. Num. ix. 12. Ere I close let me urge on "William" not to appear under the garb of Catholics to the abstract; a word beginning with R. R.—to the world Catholics would make him really what he professes to be i. e. Romanists who eat and drink Christ's flesh and blood in the real embodiment of wafers and wine in remembrance of Himself, as set forth in their doctrine of transubstantiation whose theory is so replete with error, blasphemy and idolatry.—Thanking you for space granted me.

I remain,
Yours as heretofore,
Boothe, EARNSHAW. C.
April 19.

Dear Editor,

Croakers, are a dangerous set of Christians. They have no joy in the service of the Lord, and therefore do all in their power to damp the joy of those who are faithful workers in the Master's vineyard. Their power is in their tongue—and if they know nothing else, for certain they know just how, and when to use that little power in their members. Do wherever Xt's name is named in this wide world I yet will surely find them there. Whether in Europe or America with their long Churches and Cathedrals that can boast of members by the thousands, or in South, East, or West Africa with their Churches and Chapels and here and there a solitary Cathedral that can only boast of members by the hundreds, it makes little or no difference, they are there any how, and the description which will be given of them in a subsequent letter you will find to be true with a dreadful literality.

Our purpose in this letter is to inform [illegible] they [illegible] they never [illegible] of [illegible] season.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island
SHERBRO
Is Now Open for TRADING

F. & A. SWANZY
GEO. LEACH
Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogsheads of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogsheads of about 550 lbs. nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand—in similar packages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the UP-RIVER TRADERS, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes—containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A. SWANZY.
ALPHA FACTORY.

No. 9 B.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

—:o:—

With reference to Public Notice dated 20th June 1888, on the subject of cleaning "parchment" coffee in London, His Excellency the Governor is pleased to direct that the following further Circular Despatch dated 10th January 1889, from the Right Honourable the Secretary of State for the Colonies together with its enclosures be published for general information.

By His Excellency's Command,
J. J. CROOKS,
Actg. Colonial Secretary & Treasurer.

Colonial Secretariat,
Freetown, Sierra Leone,
13th February 1889.

CIRCULAR. Downing Street, 10th Jan. 1889.

21st Dec. '88.

Sir,—In continuation of my Circular despatch of the 9th of May last I have the honor to transmit to you for publication a copy of a letter from the Royal Gardens Kew, enclosing a copy of a further letter from Messrs. Lewis and Peat, on the subject of cleaning parchment coffee in London.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient humble servant,
KNUTSFORD.

The Officer Administering the Government of Sierra Leone.

Copy

KEW GARDENS TO COLONIAL OFFICE.

Royal Gardens, Kew,
21st December, 1888.

Sir,

In continuation of my letters of 11th April and 23rd April of this year, I am desired by Mr Thiselton Dyer, to forward a copy of a further letter received from Messrs Lewis and Peat, on the subject of cleaning parchment coffee in London.

2. I appears that, acting on the suggestions contained in the letters above quoted which Lord Kuntsford was good enough to communicate to the Governors of the West Indian and other Colonies interested in the production of coffee shipments of coffee in parchment have been made, and, as regards Jamaica coffee have produced very encouraging results A small shipment made from Dominica has not proved so satisfactory, as the parchment coffee in the first instance was not sufficiently dried before it was shipped. The brokers draw particular attention to the fact that imperfectly dried shipments are useless.

I am, &c.
(Sd.) D. Morris.

Edward Wingfield Esq.

MESSRS. LEWIS & PEAT TO ROYAL GARDENS, KEW.

6, Mincing Lane, E.C.,
20th December 1888.

Dear Sir,

We beg to draw your attention to the sale of some Jamaica coffee sent home in the parchment and cleaned here, and recommend it to the notice of shippers generally.

The parcel Dibr per "Nile" sold as follows;—

4	Bags Bold Colory	at 90s.	per cwt.
5	" Medium-size Colory	at 87s.	" "
1	" Small	at 76s.	" "
1	" Pea berry	at 84s.	" "

which is very encouraging result.

We also sold two bags Dominica, but the coffee was not sufficiently dried on the other side, bringing only 76s per cwt. Imperfectly dried shipments are useless.

We are, &c.,
(Sd.) LEWIS & PEAT.

D. Morris, Esq.,
Royal Gardens,
Kew.

Stopped for Red Lights.

"Do you see that poor bloat walking up the track there?" remarked a switchman to some loungers in his little shanty. "See how groggy he walks! He's a wreck—no good on earth any more, to himself or anybody else. Two years ago that man was the crack engineer of this road. He had all the posts of honor. If there was a flying special to be run with the president or directors or some big-bugs on the private car he was selected. His regular job was pulling the 'limited.' A better man never thumbed a throttle. But red lights ruined him. Yes, sir, red lights got away with him, and now he couldn't get a freight engine, and hasn't run a mile in six months all owing to those infernal red lights."

What do you mean? Did he fail to stop sometimes for a red light, and thus an accident?"

Oh, no, it wasn't that sir. He never had a wreck of any kind, save himself. He always stopped for red lights, and that was just the trouble. He got so he couldn't walk up the street but he would stop at every place where there was a red light out. Now look at him."

APPOINTMENTS.

SHAINGAY DISTRICT.

Shaingay,	April 6th & 7th
Manoh,	" 8th
Tongkoloh	" 10th
Charmany,	" 11th
Kooloonge,	" 13th & 14h
Matacong,	" 16th
Mocobo,	" 17th
Mo-Fuss,	" 18th
Mambo,	" 20th & 21st
Rembee,	" 22nd.

W. S. SAGE, P.E.

NOTICE.

From this date until further notice, the Rev. J. A. Evans will act as General Agent for the Shaingay Mission District. Persons knowing themselves to be indebted to the Mission, or having any other Business will settle, or confer with him or his representatives.

J. GOMER.

Shaingay,
Feb. 28, '89.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. VI. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, APRIL 30, 1889. No. 8.

The "Early Dawn."
Published Semi-Monthly, At
BONTHE, SHERBRO.
Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto, deliv'ed in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS,—Communications to J. A. Evans, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gomer, Shaingay, Mr. E. A. Lewis, Freetown, West Africa, Rev. Wm. McKee Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Chief Clerk.	M. J. W. Rocke
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Buchner.
Sub Treas. & Col. Chief Clerk	J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & J. J. Werburton.
Asst. Examg. Officer Sulymah.	Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M R C S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts.
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Vacant.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev R. C. Taylor

[From the Religious Telescope.]

A PICTURE OF JESUS.

BY REV. W. F. BERGER.

His Intellectual Life.

In order to come to a clear idea of our Savior's mental capacity, we must begin at the threshold of his eventful career. Biography always starts with infancy, passes to youth, then to manhood up to the end of life. The mind must be studied in the same way that we study the history of a life. The history of the mind's development is only interesting when we look into the peculiar tendencies which belongs to every individual and which regulate the mind's progress. For instance, precocity may be a predominating feature in one mind, while an undue amount of dullness may belong to another. These tendencies in the progress of the human mind. We see nothing in the Savior in his very early childhood that might lead us to infer that he was precocious or dull. He showed the same symptoms of mind that we notice in other children. It is hardly fair to draw such broad inferences as Gen. Lew Wallace did with regard to the early childhood of Jesus. We know, however, that the child grew and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon him. (Luke 2: 40) There must have been a divinity in him which his destiny for he was filled with wisdom. He was not full-orbed nor could he be. Jesus was human as well as divine; and he grew under the divine influence of his Father. He gradually triumphed by the undiminished power of a heavenly nature; for see the difference between him and other men. The conditions that ordinary men must overcome in life did not affect the Savior's intellectual progress. He was God and man, and as such human conditions could not limit him like other men. Then, too he was conceived by the Holy Spirit. In that conception he obtained the eternal principles of his heavenly Father. These were to him the tendencies that led him on to what he was to be. Here lies the of his mental power. His nature—I mean now both his human and divine—was fed from the spring of God. I believe that his development was carried by internal forces alone. They had their roots in the bosom of his Father. Many say that the environments of Jesus had much to do with his education. He surely was sensitive to them. But they did not determine any intellectual ends for him, as they do with you and me. Oftentimes our progress depends upon certain conditions in life. For instance in the social world many of us may be considered as unworthy the notice of society pedagogues. In this case we might as well try to fly to the sun with wings of wax as to endeavor to push ourselves into the circles of higher social life.

Great Mystery

The Savior was surrounded, it is true, by many powerful and destructive external causations. All these might have hindered him greatly, but they did not retard his progress. He lived in a land where the scenery was of the most exalted character. The history connected with the people from whom he came the power of Roman rule, the change of national sentiment, the general dejection of the Jews—by all these things one might suppose Jesus was influenced; and yet we have not one solitary word that they aided in building him up intellectually. The Gospels confirm this view. From his infancy until we find him in the temple, then twelve years of age, we have not a single word of information as to his intellectual impulses or pursuits. All at once we discover him in the temple, teaching and speaking to the representative men of the Jewish nation. They were the doctors of the ology. They did not understand this marvelous prodigy of their day. It is no wonder that they exclaimed afterward. "Whence hath this man this wisdom?" (Matt 13. 54.)

To account for this man's mind-power we must declare that the almighty Father had planted in him the self evolving energies of thought and knowledge. Christ's mind was indeed a Miracle of Growth.

Mysteriously he came into the world, and in the same manner he lived in it. When men say we must account for his education as we do for the education of other men, I reply that we do not have any evidences whatever in the Bible that prove such to be the case. True, "he was a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief." (Isa. 53: 3.) He was "not a high-p ient, which can not be touched with the feeling of our infirmities: but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin." Heb. 4: 15 This is all true, I am glad that this Jesus can be touched "with the feeling of our infirmities." But his experiences of mind were unlike those of other men. He confessed that what he did among men was wrought through the power delegated to him by his Father. "All that the Father giveth me shall come to me; * * * for I came down from heaven, not to do mine own will, but the will of him who sent me. (John 6. 37-39.) This does no violence to Christ's own inherent power. Some one might say, "If Jesus had only such power as was delegated to him, then he was only a machine in God's hands." Not at all. Jesus and God are one "I and my Father are one." (John 10: 30.) They worked together. Yet as the Son, he was submissive. When he endured the pangs of the cross he cried, "Not my will, but thine, be done." Those who hold to experimental philosophy will naturally say that Christ's experiences were like those of other men. According to their teaching all knowledge begins in experience. But this is not true in the case of Jesus He had his mind-energy intuitively. I do not expect to see in him—a man whose problem of life can never be solved—a manifestation of mental capacity such as is exhibited among ordinary men. I do not agree with the class of men who teach that Christ's spiritual nature, when clothed with a human body, was subject in all respects to the same trials and temptations as those of other men. He was a man but God too. Besides, he had no need of gaining knowledge by experience. Experience implies mistakes. If he made mistakes then he was not divine; then his claim of union with his Father was invalid. God cannot blunder, though Ingersollian philosophy would so declare it. What knowledge he possessed he had from all beginning. Its manifestation came gradually; and in this is shown the great triumph of his mental capacities over friend and foe.

AGRICULTURE

Is most evidently gaining favor among nearly if not, all classes of persons in these settlements, some of these comes from a judicious consideration of the circumstances gathering about us that makes it evident that had many traders spent the same time in the improvement of the soil that they have in petty trade they would today have been far better off in the world. Some again are turning their attention, to the consideration of farming because of the fact, that petty trade, as rule, does not pay, and in involving those who persist in it more and more as they continue in the sinking business.

Since I wrote my last article on this subject (published in your issue of Mar. 16, '89) I have been traveling about considerably in these settlements and quite a number of persons who have read my articles have told me that they had been and are still trying to practice some of the suggestion I have made from time to time and they are meeting with more or less success. And I can scarcely refrain from mentioning that one friend had sold about twenty dozen yams, in a year as the result of very little effort, in fact he said they scarcely cost him any thing at all. In the yard of another friend I saw pigs and fowls and he told me that in another place he was planting and had quite a number of Kolah and other trees growing nicely. Another of my friends planted, I believe, thirteen hundred Coffee trees last year, on a farm he is opening and he will add a larger number this year; he has Kolah trees and I believe, Cocoa also growing Now as the plans and suggestions are being practiced with success by the few who have been induced to try them, will not others fall in line also? There is no reason why they may not when there are thousands of acres of land obtainable, at little or no cost, throughout the river districts.

J. ALBERT.

Mr. Editor,—It struck me forcibly today as I stood in the Govt yard looking on the many passengers that lined the deck of the Formoso, looking anxiously shoreward without the possibility of leaving the ship for more than an hour. Thought I, cannot someone undertake to bring passengers ashore everytime the steamer is in, charging each a sixpence or nine pence as the case may be? It is so done at the Govt. wharf in Freetown, where every time a steamer comes in, not one, nor two, but many boats are to be seen plying their oars to and from the ship, approaching passengers with respectful compliments in order to have a sure hold of their pockets; and they have been invariably successful in getting two, three or half a dozen passengers at a shilling each and sometimes more within the short space of an hour they sometimes make from eight to ten shillings. The owner of the boat has his due—may not be large,—but the maxim holds good, "every little is a help."

Some think that Bonthe compares favorably with Freetown. This I deny till when the steamer is in, we see the boats plying busily on the waters.

If owners of boats would only make a trial they will not regret it. Two hands and a Capt. would do. Only if you think it necessary send them on to Freetown for a week or two to learn just how to go at it, and especially to be respectful to passengers, the surest way to make a good business.

R.

If there is any great good in store for you, it will not come at the first or second call, nor in the shape of fashion, ease, and city drawing rooms.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

APL 30, 1889.

THE ROYAL COLONIAL INSTITUTE Held its 21st Anniversary, on the 18th ult., as we learn from the Colonies and India of May 18th, at the White Hall Rooms Hotel Metropole, presided over by H R.H. the Prince of Wales President of the Institute. There was a large as well as a very grand gathering, it appears, on the occasion and from the many toasts and speeches, it would seem that the sentiment of loyalty to the Crown and Unity of Empire was uppermost in the hearts of the members While indeed, they are not wanting in the desire for the progress of the material advancement of Her Majesty's Colonies. The Institute has really been a success from the beginning, it would appear at a glance at the report of the Council, dated May 19th 1889, which has been received, and is now on our table. The receipts of the Institute have increased from year to year with few exceptions. But the chief glory, in our humble opinion of the Institute, is its wonderful influence in shaping and uniting of the British Empire, the highest earthly end, doubtless to be acnieved, all British subjects.

THE SA. LEONE COALING COMPY. seems to be making a success of the coaling business. Nine months ago the deliveries per day, we learn, was 60 tons; it has since increased to about 100 tons per day. They have now, we believe, the Naval contract to supply Her Majesty's ships, of war; and it is said they have given such satisfaction in this particular, that now the Company's men are even allowed to go on board the ships. The working staff of the company is about 250 men so that this enterprize benefits the ordinary laboring class of Sierra Leone ton very large extent by giving employment to such a number of workmen. Coals are supplied either day or night and the Company employ two steam tugs and lighters ship to 60 tons in the supplying and have facility now for the delivery of two hundred tons. The Company now have some seven steamers of at least 3000 tons each, for the consequence for which there are constant demands. The Sirocco a new steamer of 3000 tons commanded by the well-known Capt Simmonds, we believe, is expected out soon. It should be noted that the Coaling Company uses the signals. The great increase in the coaling business of late has doubtless been owing to the enterprizing spirit of Mr. Hy. Burnett the very energetic agent of the Company at Sierra Leone, and while we believe he has an efficient staff of assistants who do their best to further the business, yet as we have said, the success is largely due to the head of the concern; and it is to be hoped, that as Sierra Leone is daily becoming more important, that this enterprising Company's Business may continue.

SUDDEN CHANGE OF CAPTAINS.

On the arrival of the s. s. Formoso in the harbor at Freetown, immediately after the vessel had made fast, alongside the line Steamer Mandingo, from which she was to receive cargo for Sherbro, Captain Paterson while speaking, with some one appearantly on board the Mandingo, was seized with a convulsion suddenly, but in falling backward toward the deck was caught by a Mr Dowden who had first arrived out to relieve the first Officer of the s. s. Formoso. Captian Paterson's illness proving to be very severe it was decided that he go home to England; so the first Officer Mr. Puncheon was promoted to the command at once with Mr. Dowden as first Officer and while we deeply regret the sad misfortune of our old friend Capt. Paterson and trust he may soon recover yet rejoice that one so patient and kind as Capt. Puncheon succeeds him.

G. H. GARRETT ESQ.

One of the Traveling Commissioners in the Sulymah district, seems to be rather fortunate ever since he entered the Civil Service, for it will be remembered that he was the man who during the threatened disturbances in the Upper Gbargroo about two or more years visited Kouconany in person, and set matters to right. And almost immediately after he returned from the upper Gbargroo, his attention having been called to the exposed condition of the Themdale district, that was then being threatened by the war that was at the time raging in Shaingay district, he went at once, ascended the Tucker river and stationed police men along the border, and by a timely, (movement to which we then called attention in these columns) save much property and many lives. And at length after all the ado and hard work of others; it seems to have fallen to Mr. Garrett's fortune to capture and bring down the notorious war-chief Mackiah. Certainly Mr. Garrett must be, to say the least of it, a fortune favored man. But are believers in the adage "that fortune favors the brave."

CANIBALS are reported to be at their fiendish work, along the Karboroh river in the Shaingay district; several times parties of these wretches have been seen by different persons on one occasion it is said with the deadbody of a woman, which they were about to divide among themselves to be eaten; such work ought to be investigated and if true the guilty parties ought to be punished.

Dear Bro. Evans,—No doubt you and the rest of our co-workers are a little anxious to know how it goes with us. I am happy to be able to say that it is well with us all, except that I am sorely troubled with sore feet, these stone pavement are hard on my feet, so that it is with great difficulty that I walk. We had a good passage on the steamer, though it was a long one, (22 days to Liverpool). The Bishop came on to London, my wife, Jonathan and myself went to Manchester to look after pictures for Magic Lantern, and to see Mr. Brocklesbank and Mr. Ashcroft; we were received and treated through out by them both with the greatest kindness, we were made very welcome to their homes and treated to the best they had. Jonathan sang Sherbro for them, and they were delighted and dressed him in very fine clothes on the 6th. We came on here, the Bishop had engaged rooms for us here, these are three American gentlemen boarding in this same house one of them is a Sootnerner and for three days he has sat at the same table with us, eats his share and survives still. Dr. Case of Minisota took us to hear the great Charles Spurgeon preach on sabbath morning, in the evening the bisho took me to hear Dr. J. Gwyne Jones. Spurgeon preached most an excellent sermon from Luke xxiii 42. Dr. Jones preached from John xii 47 last clause, and it was a grand sermon, it was a feast of good things. Today there has been a meeting of the Executive Committee, I had the honor of being present and of making some remarks after the Bishop. I had the pleasure also of exhibiting for their benefit the magic lantern pictures and they with one voice expressed themselves well pleased. Jonathan sang a couple of Sankey's hymns, and they were surprized—The Lord is good to us and so are all the people, the Bishop leaves tomorrow for Germany and on the 24th we hope to sail all of us for the U.S.A. J. ODUBEN

No. 76 Queen's Square, Bloomsbury London.
April 9th 1889.

Dear Editor,—Do you know that the Formoso is in again? I have no doubt but that there is none who is sorry to see her so punctual this time. She left here on the afternoon of the 21st for Freetown, & returned on the afternoon of the 24th, that's rhyme. And what is more, she was seen to move slowly and cautiously, and to drop anchor at a safe distance. The proprietors do not see the propriety of engaging the services of a good pilot, and therefore have instructed the Capt. to drop anchor at a safe distance. We hope to see her always drop anchor on or about the same spot where she dropped anchor today. But I really doubt if the C.D. is in if she wont move off so fast in due respect of her, as to run her the risk of landing her high up on the bank as of late.

We congratulate the Captain for bringing the steamer deeply laden, we trust with more of other things than the pestiferous fire water.

T.

FAREWELL SERVICES

Were held by the U. B. Church in this place, on Good Friday evening, in honor of the departure of Mrs Amanda Smith, the great Evangelist who had spent some weeks in these parts: and had been instrumental in introducing many souls to the Savior "Wonderful Savior," as she delighted to sing it and talk it, until scores of men women and even children have been induced to accept the pardoning love of Jesus. There were over three hundred persons present at the farewell meeting. Mrs Smith preached, but she called it talking; however, it was good wholesome doctrine. She of course recounted briefly her labors and experience in this quarter of the globe, especially to these settlements, beginning from Freetown to Rotafunk, then on Shaingay district and afterward in his district, in all of which the Lord had been very good to her and to the people, and had demonstrated the fact that He can and does convert persons in all parts of the world by the same means, i. e. the operation of his Holy Spirit.— After the sermon and some remarks opportunity was given for any one to speak that had a word to say. Rev. R. C. Taylor the Pastor of the U.B.C. followed first in very fine and appropriate remarks for the occasion he spoke briefly of the great and he hoped lasting good which sister Smith had done in this community and the help she had been to his charge and to himself. The Presiding Elder Rev. J. A. Evans of the District then spoke in much the same strain as the Pastor and expressed himself satisfied every one with himself and the Pastor, that sister Smith had done great good in our community during her brief stay among us. Others followed, but more in the line of bearing testimony and with this the meeting close about nine o'clock.

YR. A. DILLSAVER.

OLD TANGLE-FOOT

was a name, many years ago, among certain classes, for whiskey, or in fact anything in the shape of drink, that was strong or poison enough to produce intoxication. I became acquainted with the term among the Canadians of Upper Canada, among whom it was in daily use, and I thought it a very apt expression and well applied. But as years have come and gone, and my boyhood has fled, I have learned that intoxicants not only tangle men's feet, but they tangle their brains to such extent as to totally unfit them for either lawful business or pleasure. While it abundantly fits them for crime and debauchery.

J. OBEE.

NEWS ITEMS.

The Capture of Makiah—the notorious war chief is confidently, reported to be a certain fact, which we trust it may be; as that, it is expected, will put a period to the Kittam and and Sulymah troubles.

Editor returned from Freetown on the 17th per s. s. Formoso.

Mrs. Amanda Smith closed her meeting at York Island & returned to Bonthe on the 16th inst.

18— The York-Island and Yelbana people sent over a nice little gratitude in 26 Envelopes in a parcel which was handed the writer by Mr. Hollis (Yelbana) to present to Mrs. Amanda Smith as a token of their gratitude for her visit and services among them. The offering amounted to one pound twelve shillings and nine pence

19.—Good Friday was generally observed by the different Churches in this vicinity.

Died—At the French Company's Establishment in this place Mr. Joseph Barthelme a European clerk on the 28th inst. His remains were interred in the Mendi Mission Cemetry on the 29th inst Mr. Barthelme's death was rather sudden and quite unexpected. We sympathize with his friends in their sudden breavement.

Thieves in Bendoo—We learn, broke into the store of Mr. G.R.L.Thompson on the 18th inst., and stole about 400 pieces cotton. A reward of £7 is, we believe, offered for the capture of the thiever.

Captives rescued at Wendeh are said to have been more than 3,000 persons.

Personal

Mr J. A. Grant, of the Sierra Leone Coaling Company, was a passenger by the Formoso that arrived here on the 17th inst.

Mr. S. B. A. M'coy of Yelbana and Jamaica was also a passenger per Formoso of 17th inst.

Mr. Mason in the employ of the Firm of Fisher and Randal Ltd. was a fellow passenger with the writer and others on the 17th inst, but expected to return by the same vessel to Freetown, and proceed to England on health leave.

Rev. S. B. Marrows we regret to learn had been quite unwell at his Station at Manoh Gbargroo, but we believe that he is much improved since.

Rev. J. C. Thomas has recently visited Avery Station.

Mr. John T. Cambell, Agent for S. B. A. Macfoy Esq, Titti-bull Factory, arrived here on Saturday the 27th inst., on leave. Mr C. is looking very healthy.

Comdt C. H. Harley Moseley arrived on his return from Freetown today (30th inst) also Commissioner G. H. Garrett of Sulymah district.

Coffee Planting & Culture.

Requires some care and consideration for it cannot be expected that any plant will yield as much of itself as by cultivation. So that while Coffee is indigenous to our soil, yet at the same time it should be cared for, if we intend to make it profitable. The coffee plant will grow from the seed planted in the place where it is to grow to maturity and bear; but experience has taught us that it is far better to plant the seed in boxes or in nurseries first, and afterward transplant the scyon or young plant to the plantation or coffee orchard. And it is just here that I wish to offer a suggestion, and utter a word of warning to the unexperienced. The suggestion is that if you have plants to be transplanted, as I understand quite a number have the ground for receiving these plants, should be thoroughly cleaned, except that a few trees for shade, might perhaps in some place be left but in my opinion and from some experience too, palm trees ought in no case to be allowed to stand or grow among coffee, as these trees draw too heavily upon the soil, and thus impoverish the Coffee. Orange, guava and lime trees do not seem to hurt the growth of the coffee, provided there are not too many of them; for of course, it cannot be expected that one can grow to full crops on the same plot of ground, and yet it is possible to grow a partial crop of cassada or something else among the coffee plants during the earlier years until they became large enough to require most of the strength of the soil for their own bearing. The warning that I wish to utter is against the crumpling of the main or top root in crumped or by any means hindered the plant is sure to die sooner or later. Hoping to write again. I close for the present. J. ALBERT.

TIMELY PREPARATION.

Dear Editor—The long expected shower we had for two nights in last week, with raging tornadoes, doing more or less damage to the roofs or other portions of many of the houses of upper and lower Bonthe, to some, was cool, pleasant, refreshing and salutary; to others a source of deep anxiety wearisome days and sleepless nights. Africa or rather Tropical Africa, unlike countries lying in the Temperate Zones has two seasons, the dry season and the rainy season, or the hot season and the cold season. It is hottest during the months of February, March, and April, and coldest during June July and August. How warm it was during the past and present month, especially a week or two before we had the shower, those in temperate climes cannot realize. Coat of any kind, whether light or heavy, was a burden; and the Bookkeepers, shopmasters and clerks were to be seen to and from the respective firms with which they are connected, with coats (some light some heavy) hanging over their shoulders, thus giving us the pleasure of having a look on their white and glistening bosom, which is the more so, when they are returning from breakfast when the sun is at the Zenith. (Praise to our laundress) They, the mercantile men with others who were obliged to carry their coats otherwise, must have had an earnest expectation for the shower of last week and a great longing for the season.

I begin to think that the Dress question which was agitated during the past year, was quite opportune. A change will not only be salutary but convenient. But the change I think should be light clothing during dry season and woolen during rainy season. those who condemn the European mode altogether should fall in with the mohamedan which will make us appear like Africans and not the kind advocated by "reformers in dress" for they are trying to get out of the European and still find themselves strongly compelled to hold to the European mode, for they cannot do without the stockings and shoes or boots which after all savours of the European. Those who had their houses lately thatched, as well as those whose roofs though not quite new, yet are not quite old, had nothing to be afraid, either of the occurence of the past week, or of the coming rainy season, for they have made tidely preparation. Those who did not make timely preparation should look upon the occurence of the past week as a timely warning for them, to do all in their power against the rainy season. Some take the hint, and heave the wearisome days and sleepless nights, trying to find the "How shall they manage to procure bamboo thatch to cover their houses." It is uphill business with most Christians. They hardly can make two ends meet even without their having to look after the repairing of an ugly roof. The faithful ones among them who have learnt to trust their heavenly father in the light as well as in the dark, may be seen during midnight hours on their knees, when no one but God is near, unloosening their all to their Father and telling his delicate secrets to Him, which they dare not tell to none but Him; and He condescends from His heavenly throne to bend so low not only to earth, but just as near the lips of His troubled ones to give them the chance of telling their secret secretly. Christians of Topical Africa have to undergo the double purpose of trying their faith and fitting them to live for the unseen and the future whither we are all hastening. As we have one, and only one, namely the dry season to prepare for the rainy season, so we have one, and only one of time, to prepare for eternity

Yours R.

The Cold Churches.

A remark worthy of note was that made at a recent convention, that much of the discredit frequently thrown upon revival efforts and evangelistic labors resulted from the cold state of the churches of into which the new convert is ushered. "Every thing is warm and glowing in the revival meeting; after the revival every thing is too often coldly formal in the regular meetings of the church. The utmost that can be said of some churches is that they are decorous and eminently respectable. Into this atmosphere comes the young convert, and no wonder that his spiritual life-blood is congealed, and that people say in future years: "I don't believe in revivals. Here we had a great awakening, but where are the converts now? What are they doing doing for Christ and the church? The trouble is quite as much, perhaps, with the church in which they cam', as this superficial nature of the revival. The orator above quoted put the matter in a nut-shell when he pointedly remarked: "The man never of poultry does not take the chickens out of the incubator and put them in the refrigerator.—Sel.

Proverbs.

Man's darling sin, unforsaken in time, will prove to be his great tormentor in eternity.

Those who suffer in the right now, shall triumph over wrong by and by.

He whose highest aim is to please God and win heaven, and whose way chosen is Jesus, shall awake in his likeness and be satisfied.

An open grave, dug by an enemy, for thee is cruel.

Jealousy is as cruel as the grave.

He is blessed who hears and knows and doeth his Master's will.

SENTENCED TO BE SHOT.

Forces Owen's son was found asleep when on duty, tried, found guilty and sentenced to be shot. A telegram had been received by his father, saying that the sentence would be carried out in twenty-four hours. Mr Allen, the minister, called to comfort the unfortunate family. During his visit a letter arrived. Hiss on the farmer's little daughter, opened the letter and received it. "It is from him!" she said, after reading it to the minister, who opened it and read as follows:

"Dear father—When this reaches you I shall be in eternity. I am going to write you all about it. You know I promised Jimmie Cain's mother that I would look after her boy, and when he fell out I did all I could for him. He was not strong when ordered back into the ranks, and the day before that night I carried all his luggage, beside my own, on my march. If I had not lent him my gun once and then he would have dropped by the way. I was tired out whenever went into camp, and then it was Jimmy's turn to be weary, and I would take his place, but I was not tired, father. I could not have kept awake though a gun had been pointed at my head; but I did not know it until—well—until it was too late.

"I see by the paper today that I have a short respite—time to write to you," our good mother says. Forgive him father he only does his duty, he would die to save me. If he could. And do not lay my death up against Jimmie. Poor boy he is broken hearted, and does not sleep but lies and entreat them to let him go to my stead.

"I think I hear the thump of mother and Rosa. To night, I shall see the cows all come in one from pasture, and the pigs all fed. Jimmie is standing at the door with the pail and I shall milk no more. Good bye, good bye, all.

YOUR LOVING SON."

The Early Dawn.

EONTHE. SHEBBO.

APL 30, 1889.

THE ROYAL COLONIAL INSTITUTE Held its 21st Anniversary, on the 13th ult., as we learn from the Colonies and India of Mar. 15th, at the White Hall Rooms Hotel Metropole, presided over by H R H. the Prince of Wales President of the Institute. There was a large as well as a very grand gathering, it appears, on the occasion and from the many toasts and speeches, it would seem that the sentiment of loyalty to the Crown and Unity of Empire was uppermost in the hearts of the members While indeed, they are not wanting in the desire for the progress of the material advancement of Her Majesty's Colonies. The Institute has really been a success from the beginning, it would appear at a glance at the report of the Council, dated Mar. 19th 1889, which has been received, and is now on our table. The receipts of the Institute have inceased from year to year with few exceptions. But the chief glory, in our humble opinion of the Institute, is its wonderful influence in shaping and uniting of the British Empire, the highest earthly end, doubtless to be acnieved, all British subjects.

THE SA. LEONE COALING COMPY. seems to be making a success of the coaling business. Nine months ago the deliveries per day, we learn, was 60 tons; it has since increased to about 100 tons per day. They have now, we believe, the Naval contract to supply Her Majesty's ships, of war; and it is said they have given such satisfaction in this particular, that now the Company's men are even allowed to go on board the ships. The working staff of the company is about 250 men s: that this enterprize benefits the ordinary laboring class of Sierra Leone too very large extent by giving employment to such a number of workmen. Coals are supplied either day or night and the Company employ two steam tugs and lighters up to 60 tons in the supplying and have facility now for the delivery of two hundred tons. The Company now have some seven steamers of at least 3000 tons each, for the consequence for which there are constant demands The Sierra a new steamer of 3000 tons, commanded by the well known Capt Summonds, we believe, is expected out soon. It should be noted that the Coaling Company use the signals. The great increase in the coaling business of late has doubtless been owing to the enterprizing spirit of Mr. Hy. Burnett the very energetic agent of the Company at Sierra Leone, and while we believe he has an efficient staff of assistants who do their best to further the business, yet as we have said, the success is largely due to the head of the concern; and it is to be hoped, that as Sierra Leone is daily becoming more important, that this enterprising Company's Business may continue.

SUDDEN CHANGE OF CAPTAINS.

On the arrival of the s. s. Formoso in the harbor at Freetown, immediately after the vessel had made fast, alongside the line Steamer Mandingo, from which she was to receive cargo for Sherbro, Captain Patterson while speaking, with some one appearantly on board the Mandingo, was seized with a convulsion suddenly, but in falling backward toward the deck was caught by a Mr Dowden who had first arrived out to relieve the first Officer of the s. s. Formoso. Captian Paterson's illness proving to be very severe it was decided that he go home to England; so the first Officer Mr. Puncheon was promoted to the command at once with Mr. Dowden as first Officer and while we deeply regret the sad misfortune of our old friend Capt. Paterson and trust he may soon recover yet rejoice that one so patient and kind as Capt. Puncheon succeeds him.

G. H. GARRETT ESQ.

One of the Traveling Commissioners in the Sulymah district, seems to be rather fortunate ever since he entered the Civil Service, for it will be remembered that he was the man who during the threatened disturbances in the Upper Ghargroo about two or more years visited Komosany in person, and set matters to right. And almost immediately after he returned from the upper Ghargroo, his attention having been called to the exposed condition of the Thomlah district, that was then being threatened by the war that was at the time raging in Shaingay district, he went at once, accended the Tucker river and stationed police men along the border, and by a timely (movement to which we then called attention in these columns) save much property and many lives. And at length after all the ado and hard work of others; it seems to have fallen to Mr. Garrett's fortune to capture and bring down the notorious war-chief Mackiah. Certainly Mr. Garrett must be, to say the least of it, a fortune favored man But are believers in the adage "that fortune favors the brave."

CANIBALS are reported to be at their fiendish work, a long the Karboroh river in the Shaingay district; several times parties of these wretches have been seen by different persons on one occasion it is said with the deadbody of a woman, which they were about to divide among themselves to be eaten; such work ought to be investigated and if true the guilty parties ought to be punished.

Dear Bro. Evans,—No doubt you and the rest of our co workers are a little anxious to know how it goes with us. I am happy to be able to say that it is well with us all, except that I am sorely troubled with sore feet, these stone pavement are hard on my feet, so that it is with great difficulty that I walk. We had a good passage on the steamer, though it was a long one, (22 days to Liverpool). The Bishop came to Liverpool, my wife, Jonathan and myself went to Manchester to look after pictures for Magic Lantern, and to see Mr. Brocklebank and Mr. Ashcroft; we were receive and treated through out by them both with their greatest kindness, we were made very welcome to their homes and treated to the best they had. Jonathan sang Sherbro for them, and they were delighted and dressed him in very fine clothes on the 4th. We came on here, the Bishop had engaged rooms for us here, there are three American gentlemen boarding in this same house one of them is a Shatmerer and for three days he has sat at the same table with us, eats his share and survives still. Dr. Case of Minnesota took us to hear the great Charles Spurgeon preach on sabbath morning, in the evening full house to hear me to hear Dr. J. Coyne Jones. Spurgeon preached most an excellent sermon from Luke xxii 32. Dr. Jones preached from John xii 47 last chapter, and it was a grand sermon, it was a feast of good things. Today there has been a meeting of the Executive Committee, I had the honor of being present and of making some remarks after the Bishop, I had the pleasure also of extolling for their benefit the magic lantern pointres and they with one voice expressed themselves well pleased. Jonathan sang a couple of Sankey's hymns, and they were surprized—The Lord is good to us and so also as the people, the Bishop leaves tomorrow for Germany and on the 24th we hope to sail once more for the U.S.A. Yours sincerely

April 3rd 1889. J. OBEA

Dear Editor,—Do you know that the Formoso is in again? I have no doubt but that there is some who is sorry to see her so punctual this time. She left here on the afternoon of the 21st for Freetown & returned on the afternoon of the 24th, that's rhyme And what is more, she was seen to move slowly and cautiously, and to drop anchor at a safe distance. The proprietors do not see the propriety of engaging the services of a good pilot, and therefore have instructed the Capt to drop anchor at a safe distance. We hope to see her always drop anchor on or about the same spot where she dropped anchor today. But I really doubt if the C.D. is in if she wont move off so fast in shue respect of her, as to run her the risk of landing her high up on the bank as of late.

We congratulate the Captain for bringing the steamer deeply laden, we trust with more of other things than the pestiferous fire water.

T.

FAREWELL SERVICES

Were held by the U. B. Church in this place, on Good Friday evening, in honor of the departure of Mrs. Amanda Smith, the great Evangelist who had spent some weeks in these parts; and had been instrumental in introducing many souls to the Savior "Wonderful Savior," as she delighted to sing it and talk it, until scores of men women and even children have been induced to accept the pardoning love of Jesus. There were over three hundred persons present at the farewell meeting. Mrs Smith preached, but she called it talking; however, it was good wholesome doctrine. She of course recounted briefly her labors and experience in this quarter of the globe, especially in those settlements, beginning from Freetown to Rotafunk, then on Shaingay district and afterward in the district, in all of which the Lord had been very good to her and to the people, and had demonstrated the fact that He can and does convert persons in all parts of the world by the same means, viz:—the operation of his Holy Spirit.—After the sermon and some remarks opportunity was given for any one to speak that had a word to say. Rev. R. C. Taylor the Pastor of the U.B. followed first in very fine and appropriate remarks for the occasion he spoke kindly of the great and he hoped lasting good which sister Smith had done in this community and the help she had been to his charge and to himself. Next Presiding Elder Iges, A. 4th. W. came on here, the Bishop had engaged rooms for us here, there are three American gentlemen boarding in this same house one of them is a Shatmerer and for three days he has sat at the same table with us, eats his share and survives still. Dr. Case of Minnesota took us to hear the great Charles Spurgeon preach on sabbath morning, in the evening full house to hear me to hear Dr. J. Coyne Jones. Spurgeon preached most an excellent sermon from Luke xxii 32. Dr. Jones preached from John xii 47 last chapter, and it was a grand sermon, it was a feast of good things. Today there has been a meeting of the Executive Committee, I had the honor of being present and of making some remarks after the Bishop, I had the pleasure also of extolling for their benefit the magic lantern pointres and they with one voice expressed themselves well pleased. Jonathan sang a couple of Sankey's hymns, and they were surprized—The Lord is good to us and so also as the people, the Bishop leaves tomorrow for Germany and on the 24th we hope to sail once more for the U.S.A. Yours sincerely

April 3rd 1889. J. OBEA

Dear Bro. Evans,—No doubt you and the rest of our co workers are a little anxious to know how it goes with us. I am happy to be able to say that it is well with us all, except that I am sorely troubled with sore feet, these stone pavement are hard on my feet, so that it is with great difficulty that I walk. We had a good passage on the steamer, though it was a long one, (22 days to Liverpool). The Bishop came to Liverpool, my wife, Jonathan and myself went to Manchester to look after pictures for Magic Lantern, and to see Mr. Brocklebank and Mr. Ashcroft; we were receive and treated through out by them both with their greatest kindness, we were made very welcome to their homes and treated to the best they had. Jonathan sang Sherbro for them, and they were delighted and dressed him in very fine clothes on the 4th. We came on here, the Bishop had engaged rooms for us here, there are three American gentlemen boarding in this same house one of them is a Shatmerer and for three days he has sat at the same table with us, eats his share and survives still. Dr. Case of Minnesota took us to hear the great Charles Spurgeon preach on sabbath morning, in the evening full house to hear me to hear Dr. J. Coyne Jones. Spurgeon preached most an excellent sermon from Luke xxii 32. Dr. Jones preached from John xii 47 last chapter, and it was a grand sermon, it was a feast of good things. Today there has been a meeting of the Executive Committee, I had the honor of being present and of making some remarks after the Bishop, I had the pleasure also of extolling for their benefit the magic lantern pointres and they with one voice expressed themselves well pleased. Jonathan sang a couple of Sankey's hymns, and they were surprized—The Lord is good to us and so also as the people, the Bishop leaves tomorrow for Germany and on the 24th we hope to sail once more for the U.S.A. Yours sincerely

April 3rd 1889. J. OBEA

OLD TANGLE-FOOT

was a name, many years ago, among certain classes, for whiskey, or in fact anything in the shape of drink, that was strong or poison enough to produce intoxication. I became acquainted with the term among the Canadians of Upper Canada, among whom it was in daily use, and I thought it a very apt expression and well applied. But as years have come and gone, and my boyhood has fled, I have learned that in towards not only tangle men's feet, but they tangle their brains to such extent as to [illegible] for other [illegible] of [illegible] progress. While [illegible] [illegible] crime and [illegible]

[illegible]

NEWS ITEMS.

The Capture of Makiah—the notorious war chief is confidently, reported to be a certain fact, which we trust it may be; as that, it is expected, will put a period to the Kittam and and Sulymah troubles.

Editor returned from Freetown on the 17th per s. s. Formoso.

Mrs. Amanda Smith closed her meeting at York Island & returned to Bonthe on the 16th inst.

18— The York-Island and Yelbana people sent over a nice little gratitude in 26 Envelopes in a parcel which was handed the writer by Mr. Holis (Yelbana) to present to Mrs. Amanda Smith as a token of their gratitude for her visit and services among them. The offering amounted to one pound twelve shillings and nine pence.

19.—Good Friday was generally observed by the different Churches in this vicinity.

Died.—At the French Company's Establishment in this place Mr. Joseph Barthelme a European clerk on the 28th inst. His remains were interred in the Mendi Mission Cemetry on the 29th inst Mr. Barthelme's death was rather sudden and quite unexpected. We sympathize with his friends in their sudden bereavement.

Thieves in Bendoo—We learn, broke into the store of Mr. G R L Thompson on the 18th inst., and stole about 400 pieces cotton. A reward of £7 is, we believe offered for the capture of the thiever.

Captives rescued at Wendeh are said to have been more than 3,000 persons.

Personal

Mr J. A. Grant, of the Sierra Leone Coaling Company, was a passenger by the Formoso that arrived here on the 17th inst.

Mr. S. B. A. Mcfoy of Yelbana and Jamaica was also a passenger per Formoso of 17th inst.

Mr Mason in the employ of the Firm of Fisher and Randal Ltd. was a fellow passenger with the writer and others on the 17th inst; but expected to return by the same vessel to Freetown, and proceed to England on health leave.

Rev. S. B. Morrison we regret to learn had been quite unwell at his Station at Manoh Ghargroo, but we believe that he is much improved since.

Rev. J. C. Thomas has recently visited Avery Station.

Mr. John T. Cambell, Agent for S. B. A. Macfoy Esq. Tittibull Factory, arrived here on Saturday the 27th inst., on leave. Mr C. is looking very healthy.

Comdt C. H. Harley Moseley arrived on his return from Freetown today (30th inst) also Commissioner G. H. Garrett of Sulymah district.

Coffee Planting & Culture.

Requires some care and consideration for it cannot be expected that any plant will yield as much of itself as by cultivation. So that while Coffee is indigenes to our soil, yet at the same time it should be cared for, if we intend to make it profitable. The coffee plant will grow from the seed planted in the place where it is to grow to maturity and bear; but experience has taught us that it is far better to plant the seed in boxes or in nurseries first, and afterward transplant the scyon or young plant to the plantation or coffee orchard. And it is just here that I wish to offer a suggestion, and utter a word of warning to the unexperienced. The suggestion is that if you have plants to be transplanted, as I understand quite a number have the ground for receiving these plants, should be thoroughly cleaned, except that a few trees for shade, might perhaps in some place be left but in my opinion and from some experience too, palm trees ought in no case to be allowed to stand or grow among coffee, as these trees draw too heavily upon the soil, and thus impoverish the Coffee. Orange, guava and lime trees do not seem to hurt the growth of the coffee, provided there are not too many of them; for of course, it cannot be expected that one can grow to full crops on the same plot of ground, and yet it is possible to grow a partial crop of cassada or something else among the coffee plants during the earlier years until they became large enough to require most of the strength of the soil for their own bearing. The warning that I wish to utter is against the crumpling of the main or top root in cramped or by any means hindered the plant is sure to die sooner or later. Hoping to write again. I close for the present. J. ALBERT.

TIMELY PREPARATION.

Dear Editor—The long expected shower we had for two nights in last week, with raging tornadoes, doing more or less damage to the roofs or other portions of many of the houses of upper and lower Bonthe, to some, was good, pleasant, refreshing and salutary; to others a source of deep anxiety were some days and sleepless nights. Africa or rather Tropical Africa, is the country in the Temperate Zone has two seasons, the Dry season and the rainy season, or the hot season and the cold season. It is hottest during the months of February, March, and April and coldest during June July and August. How warm it was during the past and present month, especially a week or two before we had the shower, those in temperate climes cannot realize. Coat of any kind, whether light or heavy, was a burden; and the Bookkeepers, shopmasters and clerks were to be seen to and from the respective firms with which they are connected, with coats (some light some heavy) hanging over their shoulders, thus giving us the pleasure of having a look on their white and glistening bosom, which is the more so, when they are returning from breakfast when the sun is at the Zenith. (Praise to our laundress.) They, the mercantile men with others who were obliged to carry their coats otherwise, must have had an earnest expectation for the shower of last week and a great longing for the season.

I begin to think that the Dress question which was agitated during the past year, was quite oppostune. A change will not only be salutary but convenient. But the change I think should be light clothing during dry season and woolen during rainy season, those who condemn the European mode altogether should fall in with the mohamedan which will make us appear like Africans and not the kind advocated by "reformers in dress" for they are trying to get out of the European and still find themselves strangely compelled to hold to the European mode, for they cannot do without the stockings and shoes or boots which after all savours of the European. Those who had their houses lately thatched, as well as those whose roofs though not quite new, yet are not quite old, had nothing to be afraid, either of the occurrence of the past week, or of the coming rainy season, for they have made timely preparation. Those who did not make timely preparation should look upon the occurence of the past week as a timely warning for them to dig all in their power against the rainy season. Some take the hint; and hence the wearisome days and sleepless nights, trying to find the "How shall they manage to procure lumber therein to cover their houses." It is uphill business with most Christians. They hardly can make two ends meet even without their having to look after the repairing of an ugly roof. The latter ones among them who have learnt to trust their heavenly father in the light as well as in the dark, may be seen during midnight hours on their knees, whom none but God is near, unloosening their all to their Father and telling Him delicate secrets to Him, which they dare not tell to none but Him; and He condescends from His heavenly throne to bend so low not only to earth, but just as near the lips of His trembling ones to give them the assurance of telling their secret secretly. Christians of Tropical Africa have which serves the double purpose of trying their faith and fitting them to be the bearers and the future whither we are all hastening. As we have one, and only one, name the dry season to prepare for the rainy season, so we have one, and only one, time, to prepare for eternity.

Yours &c.

The Cold Churches.

A remark worthy of note was that made at a recent convention, that much of the discredit frequently thrown upon revival efforts and evangelistic labors resulted from the cold state of the churches of into which the new convert is ushered. "Every thing is warm and glowing in the revival meeting after the revival, every thing is too often coldly formal in the regular meetings of the church. The utmost that can be said of some churches is that they are decorous and eminently respectable. Into this atmosphere comes the young convert, and no wonder that his spiritual life-blood is congealed, and that people say in future years: "I don't believe in revivals. Here we had a great awakening, but where are the converts now? What are they doing doing for Christ and the church? The trouble is quite as much, perhaps, with the church in which they came, as the superficial nature of the revival. The orator above quoted put the matter in a nut-shell when he pointedly remarked: "The wise raiser of poultry does not take the chickens out of the incubator and put them in the refrigerator.—Sel.

Proverbs

Man's darling sin, unforsaken in time, will prove to be his great tormentor in eternity.

Those who suffer in the right now, shall triumph over wrong by and by.

He whose highest aim is to please God and win heaven, and whose way chosen is Jesus, shall awake in his likeness and be satisfied.

A open grave, dug by an enemy, for thee is cruel.

Jealousy is as cruel as the grave.

He is blessed who hears and knows and doubt his Master's will.

SERVED TO BE SHOT

[illegible]

ALPHA Factory.

York Island SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

F. & A. SWANZY

GEO. LEACH

Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned Fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogsheads of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogsheads of about 550 lbs nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand— in similar packages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the UP-RIVER TRADERS, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F. & A. SWANZY.
ALPHA FACTORY.

NOTICE.

From this date until further notice, the Rev. J. A. Evans will act as General Agent for the Shaingay Mission District. Persons knowing themselves to be indebted to the Mission, or having any other Business will settle, or confer with him or his representatives

J. GOMER.

Shaingay,
Feb. 28, '89.

APPOINTMENTS.

SHAINGAY DISTRICT.

Shaingay,	April 6th & 7th
Manoh,	" 8th
Tongkoloh	" 10th
Charmany,	" 11th
Kooloonge,	" 13th & 14th
Matacong,	" 16th
Mocobo,	" 17th
Mo Fuss,	" 18th
Mambo,	" 20th & 21st
Rembee,	" 22nd.

W. S. SAGE, P.E.

The Trials we Dread.

The fear of trouble and calamity is the constant burden of many. As they entered this year they were plagued with anticipations of evil, and all through its course they have had forebodings of calamity. Some of these fears, if we could analyze them, we should find difficult to describe. They are often undefined and impalpable. There is frequently no real reason for our anxiety. Some of the trials we dreaded we have altogether escaped. Our fears generally were from a lack of faith. Our Lord's counsel is: "Let not your hearts be troubled" If through our infirmities, we find it difficult to do this, we certainly ought to be able to say: "What time I am afraid I will trust in thee"—Sel

Thoroughly Furnished.

Many small matters which will not be considered at all in the employment of a teacher, physician, or lawyer, have much to do with the efficiency of a minister. Many find fault because ministers are subjected to tests outside of needful qualifications, which are not applied to men of any other pursuit. But it can not be otherwise. A physician may do his work well, no matter what his domestic relations. Not so a minister. Many a preacher of fine abilities has been handicapped during all his ministerial career by an indiscreet wife. Ministers are not like other men. Their relations to society and the homes of the people and the progress of education and moral reforms are different from those of all other men. Let ministers glory in the fact that a multitude of virtues are required and expected of them in order to success, which demanded of men in any other calling, would blast their prospects forever. Only let common sense be exercised in making up the judgment, and true ministers, worthy of the pulpit will not complain that they are expected to measure up to the highest standard.—Sel.

May 23 is the day fixed for the annual meeting of the Imperial Federation League, which will be held at the Westminster Palace at 3 p. m. It may be of interest to mention what Dr. Dale says of Imperial Federation in his "Impressions of Australia" in this month's Contemporary: "I heard the question discussed in the course of very many conversations with men of very different descriptions. Some expressed a strong belief that in the course of time the vision of those who plead for the complete and effective political organization of the English nation, scattered over many remote lands, will be fulfilled. Many expressed the hope that it might be fulfilled. There was universal agreement in condemnation of the theory, still held by some English politicians, that separation sooner or later should be regarded as inevitable. There was also universal agreement in the opinion that, if we are to hold together, there must be some readjustment of the political relations between the Colonies and the Mother Country. But no one had a scheme; and it was generally admitted that any serious attempt to construct a scheme would, at present, be mischievous. Like the British Constitution, it must 'grow.'"—Colonies and India.

CROAKERS AGAIN.

Dear Editor,—In my last I promised to write you more on this line. In fact this is an important class of so called christians they are necessary consultants of the work. It only those who are true Christian will keep a sharp lookout for them. For as I said in my last they are not to be found without the pales of Xt's Church. The devil has granted them permission to join the noble ranks of Xtians for a definite purpose; and that is to magnify every thing that discourages every dark cloud that hovers round a church. And like Nelson they would place their eye-glass on the shattered eye that they may not see the bright side of the work whilst they are careful to place a telescope on the other cruel eye with which they look on the dark side and cry oh! what darkness! What gloom!

They are as a rule officious, but sometimes regular attendants at the means of grace that they may have their say about the preacher or his sermon, a brother or a sister, a rule or other of the church or a duty binding upon the members. Oh this minister is too pointed in his discourses. I'll tell you into a secret. Do you know that he was referring to you? Did you hear him announce about more collections to be taken! Also about classes, about this and the other and a host of other things!

What is your intention Sister? For my part I am not going to comply to any. I dont mean to be bothered with all these collections. He ought to know that I have family liabilities to attend to. And thus he speaks—following you incessantly with his intentions, and artfully insinuating, till you begin to feel discouraged in the service of the Master who looks down so sadly to see you neglecting, and then shirking your duty.

Let as many as are true Xtians rally against this hand of croakers. And rather than let their words discourage us let then stimulate us to deligence in the performance of all our duties until the Master comes. If you find a brother or a sister who encourages you to the performance of duty, look out, that is a christian keep to him. But if any try to discourage you in any wise, look out that is a croaker, flee from him as you would from the devil, and is he not one of his emissaries in the garb of a saint, who has at heart the total demolition of the Messiah, s kingdom?

They have covenanted with the devil never to go to heaven and they intend that to allow you to enter in. What say you Christians? Yes, by the grace of God we will enter in. Let us show our faith by words. "For as the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also."—

G.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. VI. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, MAY 15, 1889. No. 9.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At
BONTHE, SHERBRO.

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the
U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto. deliv'ed in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS,—Communications to J. A. EVANS, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to REV. J. GOMER, Shaingay, Mr. E. A. LEWIS, Freetown, West Africa. Rev. WM. MCKEE Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Chief Clerk.	M. J. W. Rocke
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Buckner.
8th Texas, & Col. Chief Clerk	J. D. Macaulay.
Tide Waiters.	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & J. J. Warburton.
Asst. Examg. Officer	Sulyaku Jasper Caulker.
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster.	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts.
Gaoler.	J. A. Denais.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Victoria Road
Pastor, Vacant.

Wesleyan Methodist, Lime Street
Pastor, Rev. J. C. Thomas

Mendi Mission, (Congregational.) Good Hope
Pastor, Rev R. C. Taylor

For the "Early Dawn."

About two and a half miles from the town of Shaingay in an easterly direction is the noted "Fish Lake" known and called in the Sherbro language "Mallah." This notable lake of which I am going to write is not a large lake like Superior of North America nor even as the great fish lake in the same country; but the great amount of fishes it contains enables it to rank with either of these two. During the rainy season the water swells in a considerable degree; but in the dry s the water is only from one and half to two feet deep especially when it is coming to the months of March and April. It is at this period that the fishes and alligators that had gained entrance during the time when the water was high, keep themselves secluded in the mud and holes as they cannot get passage to go back into the river. Fishing in this lake Mr. Editor is a great excitement. It is not fished often sometimes at the close of Two, Three, and Four years. When the time comes to fish in the lake it is made known about a month ahead in the whole vicinity by a general herald. From this time and on you are to find men and women busily engaged, the men making short nets and the women making what are generally known as Bammbay. I must not forget to say that to prevent any intruders from fishing in this lake ere the time comes the country purroh is set up, and violating or infringing it is sure punishment. As it had been heralded through the country on or about the last of March that the general fishing will take place in April, all were ready against the time and on the 6th inst. the proclamation was again rehearsed that all must be present on the day following. The Students of the Rufus Clark and Wife Theo. Training school having had a desire to visit the lake requested their Principal at this junction to allow them to go it was early on the morning of the 7th inst when in company with their worthy Principal they started and went on their visit. Half an hour later, the writer started and followed them Ere I arrived even while I was at the distance of about quarter of a mile I saw a vast multitude gathered in groups arround this small lake awaiting the putting down of the Purroh. As I was walking slowly and looking around carefully that I may see where the students had taken their position, my telephonic helps were interrupted by a sound or sounds that seemed to fill the place with solemn awe. As this attracted my attention I stood still and silent for a while when I came to find out that it was the students busily engaged in singing duets, choruses, solos, and anthems. To me indeed it was a happy time as the songs of this happy band fell upon the ears of the multitude and even pierced the thick forest which overshadows this beautiful lake. I very soon joined them; and while thus engaged the purroh which was standing on the other corner was put down. This being done the vast number of full grown persons of both sexes besides children under 10 years plunged in the lake with their nets, bammbays and cutlasses. They were there busily engaged for a period of no less than 4 hours when all feeling somewhat satisfied came up from the water. In spite of this vast crowd of people I believe that the number of fish caught that single day in that small lake numbered no less than 6000 besides the alligators and turtles, and yet they did not get all. Indeed this is a small lake but many fishes. The writer had to leave the lake before it was quite time because of an accident that befell him and time ends the story. Thanking you Mr. Editor for space occupied.

Always the same,
A Philander. D

INTEMPERANCE.

Is a rather unpopular subject, in this land, where men's fortunes seem so interwoven, with the traffic in Spirituous liquors; I say men's fortunes, and repeat it again, for if you but look around to see in what the wealth of the rich (if there are any) consists, you will see at a glance that it is chiefly spirits; it is the principal staple, of our West African commerce, and forms the largest source of revenue of this, and perhaps all other of the West African Colonies, and thereby fills first the coffers, of the Governments: and through these teams into the well filled pockets of the Officials. Each of whom however complains that his share is too small, but poor fellows they seldom resign because of the pittence they get. The hundreds, and even thousands, of Trading Factories, to be found throughout the length and breadth of the land have been established chiefly for the sale of strong drink, and there is scarcely a firm or even individual Merchant carrying on business without the dealing in gin, rum, &c, and generally of the worst kind; so that as trade is the principal source of living on this coast: and that trade consists chiefly in liquor dealing therefore I say that men's fortunes are bound up in it; for outside of this horrid traffic as commerce now stands where would the Multitude of Employees of the present time find Employment? this is the question with every class of men, hence some honestly stand aloof from the cause of temperance and strive against their own common sense to oppose it, closing their eyes daily to the evils of Intemperance that has already torn down the manhood of hundreds, yea thousands in this very land in which we dwell and yet because there is money in selling this liquid destroyer men continue the hateful traffic.

Intemperance is a demon that insinuates itself, by way of facinating Decanters, Goblets &c, into the parlor of the rich man confuses his sensibilities, binds him hand and foot by the chain of appetite, then casts him out of his own parlor deprives him of his fortune, his wife, and his children, and sends him a penniless beggar on, perchance, the same streets that he once walked as a prince among Merchants and those who once respected him now deride and scoff at him. Intemperance, however, is not like some ministers, always to be found seeking for fine parlors with soft cushions and great easy chairs, where wine sparkles in rich Decanters, or costly goblets, no indeed! it seeks out as well as the careful and pains-taking artisan, in his plain, but comfortable home and sings to him in a troubled hour of the comforts to obtained by the use of strong drink and when once it has laid hands on him, in earnest, it soon un nerves the strong and steady arm, makes the eye dim, and hand inaccurate, and reduces the once good workman, to a mere cobler at his own handicraft.

Yours,—J. ALBERT.

Bonthe,
May '89.

SENTENCED TO BE SHOT.

(Continued from our last.)

Late that night a little figure glided down the footpath toward the railway station. The guard, as he reached down to lift her into the carriage, would see at her tear stained face that was upturned toward the dim lantern he held in his hand.

A few questions and ready answers told him all and no father could have cared more tenderly for his own child than he for little Blossom. She was on her way to Washington to ask President Lincoln for her brother's life, and had brought Bennie's letter with her. Next morning they reached New York, and the guard hurried her on to Washington. Every minute now might be the means of saving her brother's life.

The President had but just seated to his evening's task, when the door softly opened, and Blossom, with down cast eyes and folded hands, stood before him.

"Well my child," he said in his pleasant, cheerful tone "what do you want?"

"Bennie's life, please, sir," faltered Blossom.

"Bennie! What is Bennie?"

"My brother, sir. They are going to shoot him for sleeping at his post."

"Oh yes; I remember. It was a fatal sleep. You see, child, it was a time of special danger. Thousands of lives might have been lost by his negligence."

"So my father said," replied Blossom gravely. "But poor Bennie was so tired, sir, and Jimmie so weak. He did the work of two, sir, and it was Jimmie's night, not his, but Bennie was too tired and Bennie never thought about himself, dear! too."

What is this you say child? Come here; I do not understand."

Blossom went to him. He put his hand on her shoulder and turned up the pale, anxious face toward his. How tall he seemed! And he was President of the United States, too! A dim thought past for a moment through Blossom's mind; but she told her simple straightforward story, and handed Bennie's letter to Mr Lincoln to read.

He read it carefully, then taking up his pen, wrote a few hasty lines and rang his bell. Send this despatch at once: The President then turned to the little girl and said: "Go home my child, and tell your father, who can approve his country's sentence, even when it takes the life of a child like that, that Abraham Lincoln thinks that life far too precious to be lost. Go back, or—wait until tomorrow; Bennie will need a change after he has so bravely faced death; he shall go with you."

"God bless you sir!" said Blossom. Two days after this interview the young soldier came to the White House with his little sister. He was called into the President's private room, and a strap was fastened on his shoulder. Mr Lincoln then said: "The soldier that could carry a sick comrade's baggage and do for the act so uncomplainingly deserves well of his country."

Then Bennie and Blossom took their way to their green mountain-home. A crowd gathered at the railway station to welcome them back; and, as Father Owen's hand grasped that of his boy, tears flowed down his face as he was heard to say fervently, "The Lord be praised."—Sel.

FLOWERS.

MR EDITOR—Permit me a little space in your valuable columns, to say a word about flowers. And if possible to get more persons enlisted in their culture, not that there is nothing done in this line for I am glad to say there is; and yet a good deal more may done than at present; for now except among foreigners, and a few Sierra Leoneans only the most ordinary varieties are cultivate and in a very primitive manner: little or no pains are taken in planting, and the improvement of species is not perhaps thought of at all. Possibly there would be little need of introducing foreign plants if due attention were given to native flowers. Certain it is that there is a large variety of African Flowers, that well arranged in a yard garden, or grounds, would look very handsome indeed. And would afford a good opportunity for the study of the herbal resources of the country.

Yours truly,

E. J. BETAL.

The Early Dawn.
BONTHE, SHERBRO.

May 15, 1889.

The Rains.

After a long, and remarkably dry season the clouds have come again, and we are being gently initiated into the rainy season, we may well be thankful for the gentleness of the infliation; for this has saved very many from the sad experience of broken roofs, and other like disasters which usually come with the opening of the season, however not all have escaped damage yet on the whole it has not been of the usual extent. The gentleness of the rains, too, allow of the better preparation of the ground for planting and afterward afford a better opportunity for crops to get a start. But we should bear in mind that these rains will become far heavier and more continuous, as the season advances, and for this reason we ought to make the best use of the present, in preparing for the future.

Shaingay District.

From all the information available, of which there is quite an abundance from various, and very reliable sources, appears to be in very good working order, with a very few exceptions too workers are endeavouring to do their best to make progress in their work. Of course they meet with some obstacles to hinder, but each I believe has been more or less encouraged, by the early visit of the Presiding Elder, Rev. W. S. Sage, who, we understand, was very patient and kind in hearing of any and all little troubles, and in giving relief or advice, when and whenever he could. The food problem, puzzles nearly every one, but especially our Teachers and Itinerants, as they have not the time to make long journeys for supplies, after receiving even their pay for a month's labor, and then again their pay is too meagre to allow of any extra expense in traveling, although it be to find something to eat and yet they are obliged to do something, in many cases to obtain food from a distance as it cannot be had near by; but we are glad to learn that in most places the teachers are trying to make farms, plant gardens etc, from which it is to be hoped, if nothing occurs to prevent, they may be able to largely support themselves and their school children in the years to come.

Rev. W. S. Sage in his report, remarks upon the fact of the existence of canibals in the bounds of the District which he feels ought to be investigated by the Government as the evidence is quite strong against the guilty parties. Another party has also written us of the existence of canibals which he says can be pointed ont if the Authorities would take inhand to punish the guilty parties. And we trust that some steps may soon be taken for the suppression of this evil especially along the Karboroh river from whence we have the above reports.

A Good Movement.

It is said has been set on foot in Shaingay, as I understand, Prof. D. F. Wilberforce of the Rufus Clark Training school of that place has become so much interested in horticulture that he has offered I believe two small premiums for the best gardens that may be made and as there are so many in the business in that vicinity I have no doubt that there will be a sharp and live competition among the gardener and as a result, since all or nearly so, have had more or less experience in this industry and more over will have the advantage of copying after the Professor. The parties who, I expect, to be foremost in this particular, are the Rufus Clark students as I believe each of them has his plot of ground upon which to try his hand.—Yours, Gulliver.

STRAY STRAWS.

Social Dissipation—Taking a stand point, and viewing with a steady scrutiny far back from the Ancient and Mediæval ages down to the present time, one could not fail seeing that all the results accruing from good or ill occur through the channel of sociality.

This has been the garb in which society in general has been and is attired and from which all useful as well as baleful influences have been and are realized; and will no, doubt continue to be so till the consummation of all things: but if ont of two evils we must choose the least, it follows therefore that of a single one, it should be totally avoided. To the happy results, and the blessed and peaceful influence, which a good social gathering ensure, I am to wish God speed in their glorious marchings to bring down error and vice, and may Excelsior be emblazoned on the forefront of their banners, and on the bells of their horses. On the other hand whilst I ruminate on the evils, and feril consequences, from the establishments and practices of wakes, or last burials, drinking clubs, and others of a kindred nature, and all using the while the cognomen of social gatherings, or something akin to it. It seems rather repugnant to reason and good manners, that in a circle where men practiced debauchery drunkeness, and who are subjects of outlandish expressions in every shape and form, despite the rules of a reasonable decency should thus express themselves.

However odious this may appear to a sensitive mind from a worldly point of view, it becomes doubly so when it is found that many of these so-called gatherings are composed of professing christians. It is well therefore that those who find themselves in these gatherings, however social, they may endeavour to make it, would think on the results that will follow such courses, which are not unfrequently within the range of all the Ds of strong drink as was figured out once on one of the Blackboards of the U. B. Sabbath School in this place, viz: Destruction, Drunkeness, Death and Damnation. E.

Bonthe, May 14, '89.

Acknowledgement.—To the Virginia Conference, through the kindness of Professor Geo. P Hott. We have received a copy of the Conference minutes in Pamphlet form; from which we glean that their last was a goodly session presided over by Bishops Dixon and Castle. The brethren kindly remember us and our Work as also our Early Dawn for which we feel indeed grateful.

THE RIOTING IN DEMERARA.

The old saying that "often great events from little causes spring" has received further illustration in the exciting incidents which are just reported from the capital of Demerara. A negro boy was in the act of purchasing a cent loaf from a simple minded Portuguese baker in the market place at Georgetown, the other day, when the brilliant idea appears to have entered his little woolly head that all the surrounding circumstances led up to a favourable opportunity for him to become possessed of a penny loaf instead. The idea was so overwhelmingly attractive—a bigger loaf than he had hoped for, and a clear saving of one cent—that he promptly acted upon it. The Portuguese baker appears to have soon realised the fact that his counter had been "burgled," and the result was that later on he sought an interview with his juvenile customer, and, having encountered him, proceeded to give forcible expression to his feelings by hitting him vigorously over the head with a large piece of wood. This was the simple incident which led to the rebellion and the riots of which we hear so much by the present mail from the great sugar colony. No political question was involved, no dispute as to the treatment of colored laborers by their white masters, or anything of that sort: merely a petty quarrel in which an excited Portuguese took the law into his own hands in dealing with a thief who had walked off with one of his penny loaves of bread. Fortunately, the trouble is ended, and there is not likely to be any repetition of it, for some time to come, at all events. Naturally enough, the Portugese inhabitants of Georgetown suffered severely while the place was in possession of the unruly mob of negroes who rose up to avenge the wrongs of the aggrieved bread stealer. Lord Gormanston indeed, appears to have exercised an amount of patience and forbearance which few in his place would have displayed under similar conditions, and we cannot help thinking that some determined attempt to quell the disturbances should have been made earlier. In the first instance, in fact, it seems that it was left to the townspeople to take the initiative in the matter, for when the rising became general and the destruction of property increased to an alarming extent, an appeal was made to Lord Gormanston. His Excellency at once decided to swear in the number of special constables, work over which, it appears, a considerable amount of valuable time was wasted. When the specials did make the attempt to quiet the mob, they were treated with disdain, and with some amount of violence, and the great majority of them received wounds of one kind or other. A troublous night was then passed, during which most of the liquor shops and provision stores in Georgetown were looted, and the following day would certainly have proved disastrous if the Governor had not gone further, to stop and called out the Volunteers under arms. A determined move of this kind was all that was needed, and it certainly seems strange that the authorities did not adopt this course a day earlier. If this had been done, the wholesale destruction of property that supervened would in all human probability, have been avoided. The sight of the armed Volunteers, and the issue of the proclamation announcing that anyone caught in the act of looting would be at once fired upon, had the desired effect immediately, and the disturbances came to an abrupt end. Some hundreds of the riotous negroes were arrested and lodged in prison, and probably some difficulty has ere this been experienced by the prison authorities in finding adequate gaol accommodation for them.

The interruption to business, and the insecure feeling engendered by this unfortunate affair have to be added to the tangible and considerable loss of valuable property which has been occasioned. From every point of view the occurrence is regrettable, and it is to be hoped that the Georgetown authorities will profit by the lesson which the incident teaches. The firm and resolute hand is the kindest one in all such cases, both to rioters and to those whose lives and property run the risk of destruction, and prompt and determined action is always in such emergencies one of the first necessities of the position.—Colonies and India.—Apl. 17, '89.

FARM MAKING & PLANTING.

Perhaps, has scarcely ever been more general throughout the land, among all classes and conditions of men pagan christian and mohamedan. Not to say that all the lazy people have become all of a sudden industrious, but reallythere seems more effort being put forth at this time than ever before to prepare something for food from the soil, go where you will, you will find men, women and children intent on planting something. We are really glad and trust that a proper agriculture may yet be aroused on the hills and plains of this dark continent such as shall surprize the world for its results.

NEWSITEMS.

From Mando—We hear that the Teacher in charge Mr. J. W. Domingo who was not so well, in fact had been quite ill, when we called on him at the Mission House, on the 2nd inst. has improved very much since and is now we believe able for duty.

From Senehoo—It was reported about the 1st of the month that there had been another Yonnie Raid, but of the truth of this we are not yet prepared to speak.

Shaingay—Farmers & Gardeners began planting, we believe, with the fall of the first shower in the month, and are bestirring themselves to see who shall do most in his particular line. One thing is certain, that owing to these proclivities of its people Shaingay and vicinity is rapidly undergoing the change that transforms the wilderness into a garden of beauty.

From Matacon—Upper Karboroh, we hear of the existence of a Society of people, whose object it is to catch and eat people, now as for their eating is concerned we have nothing to say, but leave every one to exercise his own judgment in reference to meats and drinks. But we do most seriously object to their murdering men in cold blood just to satiate what we would call an unnatural apetite.

Mocobo—one of the Stations of Shaingay District, being vacated by Mr J. C. French was by the appointment of the Presiding Elder offered to and accepted by Mr J. T. Metzger formerly of Mamboe, who, we believe has since taken charge of the work.

Rembee—Is/we understand to have a new Mission house as the old one has become useless, in spite of all attempts at repairs. Mr. Martyn is also to assist Mr Dixon in the Itinerating work on Rembee charge, consisting of 16 towns.

Personal

Bishop Flickinger, D. D.,—Writing from Liverpool England, on the 19th ult., expected to sail with Rev. J. Gomer and wife for the United States on the 20th April instead of the 24th, as we had been previously advised, by which arangement the Bishop hoped to get a few days in Pennsylvania, and Mr. Gomer and wife in New York before the Board of Missions met on the 7th inst.

Rev. R. N. West had been very ill, but was a little better at our last advice from the Bompeh, some fears are entertained for his general health.

Rev. W. S. Sage P.E.—of Shaingay district, completed his first round of Quarterlies about the 21st ult, and returned home to Rotufunk, immediately afterward.

Death of J. Miah

On Tuesday morning the 7th inst. I visited the deceased Miah and asked him how is his mind with his Saviour? He said the Holy Ghost has taken away his sins he is only waiting for his Saviour who will soon come to receive him home and that he did not doubt it. After he had spoken thus I then called the brother and a sister that went with me to pray for him after the conclusion of the prayer the deceased Miah joined us in the Lord's prayer I then went away. At three o'clock in the afternoon of the very day I went on a visit and met three persons with the deceased who were trying to see or get him seated upright as he told them. I then entered the house and at once he gave up the Ghost. So he was buried on the 8th inst. at 8 o'clock a. m.

H. J. Weeks

The sudden death of Dr. Isaac G. Bliss of Constantinople, which occured in Egypt, February 16th, takes from the field of foreign missions one of God's noblemen. He was born in West Springfield, Mass., July 5, 1822, and was graduated in Amherst in 1844, and afterward studied at Andover and Yale. In 1847 he was married, and in September of that year went to Turkey to enter upon his life of missionary labors. He began labors in Erroon, Turkey, where he returned to America and labored here till 1857 when he went to Constantinople as the agent of the American Bible Society. He made a number of visits to America in these years for the purpose of securing funds and sometimes for the recuperation of health. The great Bible work of all the Levant, and indeed of the foreign lands, is the result of the life, suggestions, and consecrated toil of Dr. Bliss. The splendid Bible House in Constantinople, one of the most imposing and prominent buildings in that great city, with all its marvelous help to Christian mission-work in the countries of that quarter of the globe, is an imperishable monument to his life and labor. The writer will never forget his visits to the Bible House of Constantinople, nor cease to remember the cordial welcome he received to the hospitable home of Dr. Bliss, near Robert College, a number of years ago. He leaves a widow, four sons, and one daughter, also one brother, Dr. E. E. Bliss, a missionary in Constantinople. He helped nobly in planting a light house on the banks of the Bosphorus the light of which shall never go out.—Religious Telescope.

Harvest Time.

The harvest time is the time of fulfilled hopes and realized expectations, when the ruddy gleam of the ripened fruit succeeds the lavish wealth of blossoms, and he who went forth weeping bearing precious seed, returns with rejoicing, bringing sheaves with him. The miracle of the loaves was a sudden putting forth of God's bountiful hand from behind the vail of his ordinary providence; the miracle of the harvest is the working of the same bountiful hand, only unseen, giving power to the tiny grains to drink the dew and imbibe the sunshine, and apropriate the nourishment of the soil during the long bright days of summer.

The harvest fields are the golden links that connect the ages and the sones, and associate together the most distant times and the remote nations in one common bond of sympathy and dependence. They make of the earth one great home, of the human race one great family, and of God the universal parent, to whom, day after day, we are encouraged to go with filial faith and love, not in selfishness and isolation, but in a fraternal spirit which embraces the whole world, asking not for ourselves only, but for all our brothers of mankind as well, "Our Father, which art in heaven, give us this day our daily bread." Conservator.

Skin Eruption.—The prevalence of diseases of the skin in some form or other is very great. By diseases of the skin is meant any deviation from its normal tone and state. A few pimples, however slight, constitute a skin disease and it has been asserted that half the people of Great Britain have some form of skin disease. Probably this estimate is far too low. The unsightliness of all forms of skin eruptions, if nothing else makes it specially desirable that every possible effort and resource should be brought into requisition to cure them. No matter what the charms of an individual may be, pimples, blackheads, florid sores, detract from them in greatest measure, and sometimes even make their owner at first repulsive to the very squeamish. A very common skin disease on the face is acne, whose presence is easily determined by blackheads, becoming roseate pimples, and then little white spots containing matter. Acne sometimes leaves very ugly scars, and it is not uncommon to see a face scared with it almost as badly as with small pox. It is very common in young people, and more so among those with dark complexions—the people with dusky, muddy complexions. There is but one way to cure acne, and that is along physiological lines. The skin must be relieved of extra work by giving the bowels and kidneys a finishing now and then. If there be constipation, take a Cascara tabloid every night at bedtime; if not, take half a tabloid twice a week. Take one night a teaspoonful of cream of tartar in a glass of water on retiring, and the next night one quarter of a saltzlitz powder in the same way. Apply externally, with a soft cloth, morning and evening, the following lotion:—Hydrarg. biehloride, four grains; aquæ rosæ, eight ounces. Sign, "Poison—for outward use only." An excess of meat should be discarded, and all alcoholic beverages absolutely interdicted. For keeping the skin soft and supple Lanoline Cold Cream is excellent, and is a good protective, healing protective, healing application. Lanoline Soap should also be used. The most usual of all the skin diseases seen by the dermatologist is eczema. It appears upon the babe a few days old, and away at the other extremest portions of life. It occurs in all climes, and is restricted to no single part of the body. The chief characteristic of it is its itching, which is sometimes almost beyond endurance. Only those know what itching is who have had severe eczema. About seventy per cent. of this disease is easily curable with the following prescription:—Benzoated oxide of zinc ointment, one ounce; Lanoline Cold Cream one ounce; carbolic acid ten drops. This will relieve itching and cure most cases. Where it does not cure ten drops of oil of cade may be added. In babies eczema is best cured by keeping the part, as behind or under the ear, clean, and giving a little cod liver oil, the only form of which for children is Kepler's Solution, and, indeed, for grown people too. Here, also, Lanoline Soap should be used. People generally do not know how really deleterious to the skin are the soaps in the market. Those with tender skin will find nearly all the soaps made to be bad, and hence dermatologists interdict them in eczema, &c.

The fact that a high-license fee alone fails to restrict liquor selling is again significantly illustrated by the experience of Plainfield, N. J., for the current year. Last year the uniform fee for hotel and saloon licenses was $500, and thirteen licenses were granted. This year the city council raised the the fee to $700, and there are now fourteen applications pending for licenses at the higher fee—one more than was granted a year ago at $500. If the fourteen licenses are granted at $700, the city will derive a revenue therefrom of $9,800. An additional tax upon the assessed property of Plainfield of 18 cents on $100 valuation would yield $10,000. The city officials, at the beginning of last year appropriated $4,000 for the needs of the poor, which amount was overdrawn by nearly $1,500 before the end of the year. More than half of the fifty families helped were in want directly through drink.

To be continued.

ALPHA Factory.

York Island SHERBRO

Is Now Open for TRADING

F. & A. SWANZY

GEO. LEACH

Agent-in-Charge.

TOBACCO.

Messrs. SWANZY'S renowned fragrant Crown Tobacco can be obtained at their Sherbro Factory in Hogsheads of about 1250 lbs. nett, Half-Hogsheads of about 550 lbs nett; also their Kentucky "Bull Head" brand— in similar packages.

Tobacco in Boxes.

To meet the requirements of the Up-River Traders, Messrs. Swanzy have had both brands of their Tobaccos specially packed into Boxes containing 100 lbs. nett weight. These Boxes contain the choicest leaves and the Tobacco being most carefully pressed there is absolutely no broken or mashed Tobacco to be found therein—

The Boxes are of 1 inch wood, with hinges to the lid, which is screwed, not nailed down. Should the box be opened while in canoe and any of the Tobacco be taken out, it can be instantly detected; so that RIVER TRADERS in buying these Special Boxes, can rely upon receiving the exact weight they send for.

F & A. SWANZY.

ALPHA FACTORY.

HELPS IN PASTORAL WORK

HOW TO GET AT THE PEOPLE.
BY REV C. H. SPURGEON
LONDON.

I think the first thing is really to be very near our people in our hearts, to love them intensely. We should never speak to them really beyond ourselves I was saying to the students the other day that the style must be the man; that in the formation of a style the principal thing is the formation of the man. A man must love and then his mode of address will become loving in consequence. There is more in the man than we have ever thought as to the ministry, and in the preparation of the orator the true speaker should begin with the preparation of the man. What you want your address to be, that you must be yourself. Have you never heard persons say:

I do not care much about that congregation of mine. It is a parcel of servant girls"!

Then don't you preach to them. God will never bless you to servant girls, because you do not know the unutterable value of their souls, and the sooner you address yourselves to peeresses and others the better for them. In God's providence there must be a few out out to preach to peeresses and duchesses. Dear brother devote yourself to that task.

"I never could get on with that congregation," said one to me. "They are a parcel of agriculturists. The biggest farmer there seems to know nothing except the difference between turmuts and wurzles.

The moment we despise them we have lost them. I do not think it is a great thing to go up; it is a great thing to go down. At Mentone my room is two flights of stairs above the street one way, but out at the back I go up two flights of stairs to get at the people. When I went out at the back I went up two flights of stairs to see them; when I went out at the front, I went down two flights to see them. That is the kind of ministry I wish cultivated. Here are these servant girls and farmers down stairs; here are some very intellectual, learned brethren, like these around me. Now I am going up stairs. It ought to be as easy to go up two flights as to go down two flights, and as pleasant. But if there was a friend living at the back of the house who was most objectionable, I used to find my legs grow very stiff; and, if there was anybody down below that I did not particularly want to see, I used always to have an inclination to excuse myself for not going down; but if there had been anybody that I wished to see, I could have run pretty smartly.

Next to that, there is a way of drawing very near to people before you see their faces in much prayer for them. It is not a very blessed thing, that habit of some brethren of getting names of friends in the congregation and praying for them in detail, and sometimes going through their case before God, describing all they know that has caused them trouble and anxiety, marking the difficulty they have in dealing with those cases, and them before the Lord? Though they are far away, and do not know that you are praying for them you are still very near, and you will come fresh from the closet where you have had communion for them, to have communion with them as you never had before. If our heart is thinking of them if our soul all day long feels them like a burden on us, if we feel we must break their hearts, or else our own will break, if they are borne on our hearts as the children of Israel were borne on the heart of Moses—we must get at them. We have done nearly all the work and it is only a matter of detail as to what next shall be done.

Then I think it is a capital thing for us preachers, whenever we get into the pulpit, to be perfectly at home. I know some brethren that seem never at home except in their own houses. When they get into the pulpit they shut the door and they shut themselves out. They were not there at all; it was somebody else quite distinct and different. Have not I heard a brother speak one way to me down stairs quite another way in the pulpit—a different style altogether! Where is that excellent John Smith that said to me just now:

"You are heartily welcome Have another cup of tea!"

Do you not think that the more we talk to people just as we stood up in the drawing room with half a dozen around us and talked more simply what we have in our heart, that would be the best style!

When we come into the pulpit, among God's own people, and talk of God's own Son to effect God's own purpose we ought to be every bit of us at home so as to make the people feel; "Here is a real friend come to talk to us. He does not try to shine nor to make us think what a good speaker he is. All he wants to do is to get us to believe certain things and feel their power." I am sure that is the way to get at them.

But then we must get at the people with real instruction. I take it that every sermon ought to teach something; not merely to arouse enthusiasm about something, but to distinctly teach some great truth, and then all the arousing brings out that truth. The truth must always be taught in a way that people can receive it. I have heard the term "Simple gospel" so often that sometimes I have thought: I wonder whether the brother thought I was simple too, because it was so awful simple. I do not mean simple in the sense of plainness, for the plainer the better; but there are some who put a little drop of Gospel and seem to think it would be too thick a cream for my digestion, and they water it down to just such a little bit of thought. It seems to me the simplicity of the Gospel should rest more in the fulness of it than in the thinness of it; and the power and essence of the Gospel should be given undiluted in its glorious simplicity. There must be something in it, and that something must be put so the person can take it. We will not get near the people if we seem to squirt instruction over them; but we should get hold of them and try to pour it in. Pardon me for saying I do not think most of us have a correct idea of the dense ignorance of the people. I do not mean of the outsiders; but of those who come to hear us. It is really wonderful when you get to talk to them to see what wrong meanings they attach to phrases which are commonplace with us. I had a lesson one day which I shall not forget.

A man said to me "You don't believe in written prayers!"

I said; "No, I do not."

He said: "I wish you would make a prayer sometime for us. I used to hear you pray; but it was not until one evening, when you said, 'You that feel it can say (amen, and I will pray for you, and, if you like, you can say word after word'"

He said: "That was the first vocal prayer I ever uttered, for I really had not known how to put words together to express my desire before."

There are some persons that want prayers made for them, and God has made for them: "Take with you words and say, Receive us graciously and love us freely." Sel.

The Early Dawn.

"The Morning Light Is Breaking, The Darkness Disappears."

VOL. VI. BONTHE, SHERBRO, WEST AFRICA, MAY 31, 1889. No. 10.

The "Early Dawn."

Published Semi-Monthly, At BONTHE, SHERBRO,

Under the Auspices of the Board of Missions of the U. B. IN CHRIST.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

One Year by Mail,	£0	6	0
Delivered in Bonthe,	0	5	0
Half yearly by Mail,	0	3	0
Ditto. deliv'rd in Bonth,	0	2	6

ADDRESS.—Communications to J. A. Evans, Editor & Publisher, Bonthe, Sherbro, West Africa,—

Subscriptions to be sent to Rev. J. Gobee, Shaingay, Mr. E. A. Lewis, Freetown, West Africa. Rev. Wm. McKee Dayton, Ohio, U.S.A. or to the Editor.—

DIRECTORY.

Commandant.	C. H. Harley Moseley
Coroner.	The Commandant.
Chief Clerk.	M. J. W. Rooks
Interpreter.	J. D. Rogers.
Bailiff.	F. E. B. Buckner.
Sub Treas. & Col. Chief Clerk	J. D. Macauley.
Tide Waiters.	J. N. Crown, J. B. Turner, & J. J. Werburton.
Asst. Examg. Officer Sulymah.	Jasper Caulker
Assistant Col. Surgeon.	M. L. Jarrett, M R. C. S.
Dispenser	Rowland May
Postmaster	H. R. Williams.
Inspector of Police.	M. E. Betts.
Gaoler.	J. A. Dennis.
Overseer of Roads.	A. O. Walker.

Religious Directory.

St. Matthew's Church, Pastor,	Victoria Road Vacant.
Wesleyan Methodist, Pastor,	Lime Street Rev. J. C. Thomas
Mendi Mission, Pastor,	(Congregational.) Good Hope Rev R. C. Taylor

[From the "Million."]

A REMARKABLE STORY.

"If you want a story," said a friend to a San Francisco Alta reporter, "come with me, and I will introduce you to a man who will relate to you a very strange one."

The reporter accompanied his friend to the latter's office on California street, where he met the person alluded to. In appearance this man, the hero of one of the most incredible adventures ever heard of, was a corpse. He was of medium hight, slightly built for one of remarkable strength, but had hollow cheeks, sunken eyes, and skin, not the slightest color in his face to let one know that the warm life-blood was coursing in his veins. What added yet more to his candaverous appearance were hair and mountache as white as the driven snow; altogether a extraordinary man, who would be looked at and pointed at wherever he went. But this peculiar appearance was not natural to this man, else could he never have lived to an age of probably 45. It was a premature ageing, caused by intensity of agony, of suffering of the most awful torture.

The reporter was introduced and the man shook hands warmly—yet harshly that, either, for his hands were cold and clammy. After a little preliminary talk he said: "You are anxious to hear my story. I was about to tell my friend the narrative of those sufferings which made me what you perceive I am. He asked my permission to bring you here, and as you are a lover of strange things, I will gladly include you in my little audience. I have not always been such a wretched person as you see me now. This age, which weighs me down, almost to the ground, was the result of a concentration of infinite suffering into the short period of a week. If I shudder when I tell you of my sufferings, bear with me. It is not often that men are snatched from the jaws of death to tell how near they have been to it.

"I am an Englishman and come of an old and wealthy family of Essex. I had a liberal education in my youth, but never could see why I should lend my years and brains to teaching a congregation of country idiots the truth of the gospel, and so turning my back on the surplice. I insisted on going to sea. I went. When with my influence and my skill as a navigator and seaman—for which, indeed, I had a natural aptitude—I soon rose to a position of trust. I became second mate of a fine ship. From that to mate was a short step, and a few years saw me chief officer of one of the finest vessels sailing out of London. It was in my 26th year that my ship, the Osprey, owned by Fowler Brothers, was chartered to come to this port for wheat We arrived here safely, loaded wheat, and soon were outside the Golden Gate heading for home. Everything went smoothly and nothing occured to forewarn me of the terrible adventure the future had in store for me.

"We were to the southward of Valparaiso when I felt ill. It was a kind of faintness that would suddenly and and without warning come upon me, so that I often fell on the deck and lay there until some one could come to my assistance. This continued without my getting much worse, until we got down off the Magellan Straits, in the latitude of Cape Pillar, or there abouts. One day a gloomy, forbidding day, such as a mariner often meets with down there, I had the afternoon watch, and was superintending one of my men who was fixing a rat-line in the weather mizzen-topmast rigging. The fellow was very clumsy, to say the least of it. I got annoyed watching his awkwardness; more annoyed in fact, than was warranted. I think, now that I look back. But I was growing more and more irritable every day, which was probably owing to my fainting spells. Suddenly I became so excited that I jumped into the mizzen rigging, and was into the top in the trice. I was about to pull the fellow away from his job when a fit came on. A sudden mist clouded my eyes. My senses left me; and I reeled and fell from the top to the deck. In my descent I struck once or twice, which caused me to turn over, with the result that I fell on my head When I recovered consciousness I was lying in the bunk in hospital. Still a thick mist was before my eyes. I could indeed see everything so as to recognize where I was but somehow my eyes refused to move about, and I could only stare straight up at the deck. I tried to turn in my bunk, but I could not; to raise my arm, but I could not to sit up, but my muscles failed me. At last the truth struggled into my darkened mind. I perceived at last that I was in a perfectly catalaptic trance. The strange part of it was that my mind was almost as active as ever. I knew all that was going on about me, and I felt an overwhelming terror at my possible fate.—To be Continued.

A LOW STANDARD OF PIETY

Is the general complaint of the West African Churches of all denominations. That men and women are not as a rule, as professing christians possessed as they should be with the true spirit of Christ, to begin with many have not been renewed by the spirit of God, and being only born of the flesh they still remain carnal in their minds and and affections; so that conform as they may to outward forms, there yet remains within, one all important thing, before such a person can be truly pious and his piety reach that standard of desired perfection, for which all good men and women whether in Africa or elsewhere seek. The one thing needful is to "be born again," and after that consecration, to the service of God, a separation from sinfulness and a close attachment to goodness. Some persons who have been coverted have fallen away again, and in most cases because they were never fully given up to the service of God: they allow themselves to touch and handle too many unlawful things, and hence whatever their profession, their piety is not of the christian standard. Of course it is the same with the clergy as with the laity: if a minister has been born of the spirit into the kingdom, consecrated to the service of his heavenly master, and remains steadfastly in such a state, he is then up to the standard, so far as piety is concerned, it matters not what his other gifts may be. But if on the other hand the minister is not possessed of the above essentials, he falls short of the standard and his piety if he has any is below par, no matter how well he may preach, or how nice he may dress, or what kind of manners he may possess, he is not what he should be, to lead others to the higher plains of real piety. And doubtless it is the absence of sufficiently consecrated ministers, in many cases in West Africa, that the standard of piety is now so low in all the churches, as it would appear to be from the things that are constantly tolerated in many if not all of them. And while I do not take the same gloomy view of the matter as perhaps some do, yet I deplore the fact that there is so little of the real seeking after a godly life by all classes of professed christians. Almost any one will exhort another publicly to be and do good, but Oh dear! how few, in private, will be or do good themselves. However I should remark that while I admit the standard of piety to be too low in West Africa: yet it will compare favorable with some more enlightened parts of the world. And the work now of the christian world is to see to it that the standard of piety is raised through out the world or at least christendom, and that not only pious men and women are sent to Africa and elsewhere to be missionaries, but that christian nations send out Godly men as officials to reside in Africa and keep their scoffers at home. Then it would greatly help the work of missionaries, if the sailors from civilized lands were not so heathenish. And last of all let christian nations cease to send spiritous liquors to this country a single decade and see how soon then the standard of piety will advance.

J. A. E.

The Secret of Good Work.

Some years ago I was brought in contact with a colored man. He was nothing but a cobbler. He said himself he was not a decent shoemaker, and I can testify to that from some experience of his work. But if not elegantly done, it was thoroughly done; and that was the point. He told me that when he became too old and crippled to work in the field and house he took to cobbling. I said to him:

"My friend, after this cobbling on earth is done, how about the other world? Have you any hope for a better world?"

"Ah master," said he, "I am nothing, as I told you, but a poor cobbler; but I feel, when I sit here and work at my stool, that the good master is looking at me, and when I take a stitch it is a stitch and when I put on on a heel tap it is not paper, but good leather."

It is not the work we do upon earth that makes the whole of life, but it is the way in which we do that work—it is the motive. 'Thou God seest me"—Sel.

Love Mightier than Logic.

You may hammer ice on the anvil, or bray it in the mortar. What then? It is pounded ice still, except for the little portion melted by heat of percussion, and it will soon congeal again. Melt it in the sun, and it flows down in sweet water, which mirrors the light which loosed its bonds of cold. So, hammer away at unbelief with your sledge-hammers, and you will change its shape perhaps; but it is none the less unbelief because you have ground it to powder.

The Early Dawn.

BONTHE, SHERBRO.

MAY 15, 1889.

TRYING TO BE GOOD

